Protests end with naming of deaf renaming of

By Anthony O. Miller

CHICAGO — Kansas University's Board of Trustees Friday named the 124-year-old school its new namesake, Kansas State College for the Deaf. The board took the action after a long争议 over the name of the school.

The board also voted to change the name of the university's Board of Regents to the Board of Trustees.

The naming of Kansas State College for the Deaf will help to resolve a long-standing dispute between the university and the state of Kansas over the name of the school.

The university, which was founded in 1865, was named Kansas State College for the Deaf and Blind in 1867. The name was changed to Kansas State College for the Deaf in 1897.

The board's decision was praised by many who had been involved in the dispute.

"This is a great day for Kansas State College for the Deaf," said one of the university's regents. "We have been working on this issue for many years and we are happy to see it come to a successful conclusion."

UI joins Tokyo school

UI President Richard Badington will take part in a visit to Japan by the University of Iowa in April. The agreement was initiated during Badington's recent visit to Japan last November.

Takao Harnazumi, director of Miyagi's College of Literature, will be the guest of Iowa City. He will arrive at the University of Iowa on April 15 and will depart on April 21. During his stay, Badington will be the guest of the university in Tokyo for meetings with university officials and the faculty. He will also have the opportunity to observe the university's late-night study habits in action, as he says that the university is a trendsetter in Japan.

The agreement will bring the total number of US institutions participating in the Global Studies Program to 41, including 28 US universities and 13 non-US universities.

African official to visit UI

David Ndikumana, the director of the Department of Health and Social Welfare in Burundi, will be the guest of the UI in February. Ndikumana will visit the UI for two weeks, from February 19 to 21, to study the university's health program and to learn about student life and activities. He will also have the opportunity to meet with students and faculty to discuss the role of education in promoting health and social welfare in Burundi.

UI teachers eligible for award

By Karen Hay

The Daily Iowan

UI faculty members whose teaching performances are deemed outstanding will receive the university's highest honor in teaching this year. The award, which is in its third year, offers the only UI-based award that recognizes individual UI teaching staff.

The award was inspired by the late Athens Agricultural Research Station's Assistant Director, Pat Spence, who was a staunch advocate of teaching activities at the UI, with the annual $4,000 each, according to UI Provost Roland Reinke.

Bananoe closes Greek Week

By Jay Creutz

The Daily Iowan

Outstanding UI Greek chapters and members were honored Friday night at the annual UI Interfraternity and Panhellenic Council's Greek Man of the Year Awards.

"It's been a really long week and we've just reached the end of Greek Week because it is in the chapters and in the chapters working together," said Pansky, who served as president of Sigma Tau Gamma Fraternity.

Some students had an especially tough time, including the two award recipients receivingui-funded awards. "It's a very confounding, difficult time. But for the diabetic, a typical day means diabetes treatment, including one or two insulin shots, along with a discussion about the importance of careful meal planning. Diabetes is a condition in which the body is unable to use carbohydrates properly. It can result in high blood sugar levels and other complications. Diabetes is a chronic disease, and its management requires a multidisciplinary approach involving healthcare professionals, including doctors, nurses, dietitians, and other healthcare providers.

DIABETES CAN ALSO cause other complications, such as kidney failure, nerve damage, and problems with the eyes, heart, and blood vessels. It is important to manage diabetes to prevent these complications.

The winners of the 1988 Greek Week were Lambda Chi Alpha for Panhellenic activities and Alpha Delta Delta for Panhellenic activities. The winners will be announced later this month.

In her closing remarks, Peterson focused on the importance of Greek Week.

"The winners of the 1988 Greek Week were Lambda Chi Alpha for Panhellenic activities and Alpha Delta Delta for Panhellenic activities. The winners will be announced later this month."

In addition, the Council on Touchmark Excellence has been administering the Burlington Northern, said that in the cut, enough teachers have been recruited for the award.

"We've had fewer nominations than we had hoped," said Ayer. "The reason is, we've got a large number of nominations, the letter," said Ayer. "I think it gives a better idea of the award."

"I recommend that we limit the number so that we have a group of no more than 100 for the award."
Clorox urge tougher anti-apartheid fight
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Defying the government's imposing of a tough anti-apartheid campaign, South African religious leaders held Sunday an intragovernmental meeting to end the clergy protest campaign against the government's refusal to meet with representatives of the African National Congress.

The meeting was called by former Prime Minister John Vorster, who is now a member of the cabinet. The meeting was held in response to the South African government's decision to block the meeting of representatives of the African National Congress and the United Nations.

This is the first time that the South African government has blocked a meeting of representatives of the African National Congress and the United Nations. The government has been accused of using the meeting to stifle the African National Congress and its supporters.

Deaf

"WE ARE ELATED with the news," the council will announce," the UI¿s National Deaf Advisory Council said today. "This is a major victory for the deaf community and a step forward in the fight against discrimination.

"Jerry Covell, another protest leader, addressed the students¿ concerns, saying, "We are not satisfied with the decision by Strauss, but we are pleased."

"I must say, it was an emotional day for us," said Mr. Covell. "But we will be together for the future."

Pat Enright, coordinator of Gal·lera National Adult and Continuing Education program, said the ruling will be a big win for the deaf community.

QUALIFIED ENDORSEMENT

Today and tomorrow, the two parties contending for the UI Student Senate — Allied Student Advocacy Party (ASAP) and Students for a New Senate (SAS) — will face each other in the voting booths, and the winner will shape UT student government for the next year.

In the course of their campaigning, both parties have deployed one fact persistently: That more than is ready to play at being adult when it comes to petty squabbling, megalomania, grandiose and double talk. They’re press one other thing in the process.

Is there any reason to believe that the winner will shape our student government in a trend which demands reversing, and such a reversal can’t happen through student elections?

But neither ASAP nor SAS has done much which deserves endorsement of any kind. Each party advocates a platform agreement with vague halfway points to such vital student-related issues as tuition increases, student representation among UT faculty and lawmakers, student group fundraising, financial aid, and the neoplastic matrix of spurious interest in student-oriented political action.

Both parties have been playing at petty politicking and name-calling to realize their antics appear laughable and tendentious to those few students who are still paying attention.

And so, the losers of two, ASAP for all its faults, has at least a minimal record of success in its programs — such as the student discounts card or the fellowships service, neither one of which they began — and a legacy of lobbying efforts which, though erratic, have been more organized and effective than similar efforts on the part of the potential candidate, Mike Wild, shown during Wednesday night’s debate that he doesn’t know very well when the Iowa Legislative session holds session.

Thus, if the benefit of endorsement ASAP is this contentment, therefore be seen as more an endorsement of student government in general than a recommendation of one party over another in specific. Both parties — and all others, too — need to devote more creative programming, take more initiative in reinventing student interest and not do cut completely all this bold, if not always positive, new campaigning.

This last year without the increasingly spoiled and irresponsible behavior of incumbent and challenger parties which has partially eaten at the Iowa electoral income, Three years ago, 6,000 students voted out to vote in March. This year, 3,404 students were registered to vote. Last year had a record low of 3,204.

In the course of their campaigning, both ASAP and SAS have displayed one fact prominently: They’re more than ready to play at being adult when it comes to petty squabbling, megalomania, grandiose and double talk. They’re press one other thing in the process.

1. Why has the UI experienced a decrease in voter turnout in student senate elections for the past few years? How will your party reverse the declining voter participation?

ASAP — The UI has experienced a decrease in voter turnout in student senate elections for a variety of reasons — among them, the apathy and disinterest in benefits/honors in the students which go hand in hand with apathy and disinterest in extracurricular activities.

We propose to re-introduce a system through continued cooperation with the student senate and through the three state universities in student representation which will help to rectify this. To continue with their current system is to continue with a system which will continue to force the student project currently being overruled and which will continue to force the student with his/her ability to vote into the non-voting status; this election year will be different.

SAS — Student are not informed of Student Senate activities and are not given a reason to vote. Particularly, representation, in-personions and ideas that will be presented to local and state representation.

2. How will you improve communication between student senators and their constituents?

ASAP — ASAP will improve com- munication from student senator to their constituents by means of the results of the student response survey which will be completed during the next year.

3. What changes will be made to the student government to better represent the student body and their needs?

ASAP — The student government proposals which will be made to the student body and the student government. Making a more responsive student is the driving force behind many of these proposals. The student government will be required to report on the student government’s plans and to report on the student government’s plans for the next year.

4. How will your party improve communication between student administration and students?

ASAP — ASAP will develop plans to improve communication between student administration and student representatives. These plans will be implemented in the next year.

5. How will you work to increase student participation in student government?

ASAP — ASAP will develop plans to increase student participation in student government. These plans will be implemented in the next year.

6. How will your agenda for the senate differ from the current one?

ASAP — ASAP will work to increase student participation in student government. These plans will be implemented in the next year.

7. What is your party’s position on student services and their funding?

ASAP — ASAP will work to ensure that student services are funded in a manner that is fair and equitable. This will be achieved through increased funding for student services.

8. How will your party work to get students involved in the student government?

ASAP — ASAP will work to ensure that student services are funded in a manner that is fair and equitable. This will be achieved through increased funding for student services.

9. How will your party work to get students involved in the student government?

ASAP — ASAP will work to ensure that student services are funded in a manner that is fair and equitable. This will be achieved through increased funding for student services.

20 killed in Austrian avalanches

United States-Austria's two deadly avalanches sent tons of snow sweeping down on western Austria's top tourist area, killing at least 20, and leaving many injured. The avalanches reached speeds of up to 120 miles an hour. The avalanche at St. Anton, which came to grief at an exit on the southern exit of Dashratham Stadium. Witnesses also said only one ambulance was at the stadium when police closed it. St. Thapa also denied any government responsibility for the tragedy. The force of the avalanche smashed down a chalet and several of the people in the hotel area were accounted for. The search, however, will continue today around private residences and for anyone injured, several of them buried in their night clothes. They were sleeping at the time. They were reported missing, along with hotels, were severely damaged, police said. The stampede occurred Saturday evening at a soccer match between Nepal and Sweden, and hotels in neighboring Switzerland. The force of the avalanche killed before they knew what hit them. No one was injured, according to police. Death toll increased to 20, including seven British and the Netherlands. The search for survivors in the area is expected, increasing the already acute risk of further avalanches on the island resorts in the affected areas.

Edwards named to national squad

The Daily Iowan

Iowa's Dawn Edwards has been named All-American by the Associated Press and earned First Team All-Big Ten honors.

Edwards, a 5-guard from Iowan, was named to the AP All-American team on Tuesday. She was also named to the Big Ten's All-Conference team.

"She's been a great addition to our team," Iowa Coach Lisa Bluder said. "She's a leader on and off the court."

Spikers win tourney at Nebraska-Omaha

By Anne Upton

The Daily Iowan

The Iowa volleyball team traveled to Nebraska-Omaha for a two-game weekend and played their best volleyball of the season thus far without giving up two sets in either game.

In mid-February, the Hawkeyes, ranked second in the nation, had a weekend tourney at Northern Illinois University. In the first game, the Hawkeyes defeated the Huskies, 3-0, while the second game was a tough match. The Hawkeyes lost the third set, 25-22, but won the first two sets, 25-11 and 25-19.

After the previous weekend's loss, the Hawkeyes were without a loss in five games for the season.

On Saturday, Iowa received a gift from Southwest Missouri State. The Hawkeyes lost the first set, 25-10, as Lee said, "Iowa was a little focused and didn't work around the net." The Hawkeyes played well, winning the next two sets, 25-17 and 15-13, to win the match. Lee said he felt the Hawkeyes played well and had a good performance overall.

The Hawkeyes went to the free throw line in the spring. They came together as a team, "We're going to get our work done," Lee said.

On Sunday, the Hawkeyes went to the University of Idaho. The Hawkeyes won the first set, 27-25, and the second set, 25-23, to win the match. Lee said, "We played well as a team and worked hard to get the win." The Hawkeyes played well and kept the pressure on the Idaho team.

Iowa's baseball team invaded cold, being shutout in the second game of the series. The Hawkeyes won four of five games and winning runs to wind up their weekend.

The Iowa volleyball team traveled to the Midwest Volleyball Association tournament. The Hawkeyes played well and kept the pressure on their opponents.

The Hawkeyes went to the free throw line in the spring. They came together as a team, "We're going to get our work done," Lee said.

Baseball

By Jeff Johnson

The Iowa men's gymnastics team finished 13th in the team standings with 149.950 points this past weekend, beating the Northwestern Wildcats, ranked 27th, 149.675. The team's best event was the all-around, where they had a total score of 49.350, compared to the Northwestern Wildcats' score of 46.750.

John Lounsbury, Iowa's head coach, was pleased with the team's performance.

"We had a great week, and we're happy with the outcome," Lounsbury said. "Our guys were consistent and focused all weekend, which is what we need in order to compete at a high level."
Lincoln Society plays Hancher

The Daily Iowan

The Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center will present a concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Hancher Auditorium.

SELECTED works by Mozart, Beethoven, Schumann, and Brahms will be performed by the Society's principal violist, Robert Sevenoaks, and the Society's string quartet, the quartet of principal players. The program will also feature works by Janáček, Schubert, and Schumann.

The concert is free and open to the public. Doors will open at 7:30 p.m. for general admission seating. A lawn area will be available for those who wish to attend outside. Those interested in attending are encouraged to arrive early as seating will be on a first-come, first-served basis.
