CHICAGO — President George Bush tightened his grasp on the Republican presidential nomination today when he easily won the Illinois primary. Simion was a narrow winner yesterday in New York and New Jersey.

Bush received 50 percent of the vote compared to 45 percent for Dole, followed by 7 percent for Bob Dole and 3 percent for Pat Robertson.

With 95 percent of the vote in, Bush took 144 delegates and Dole took 141, and Robertson took 10. Iowa and Texas also held their primaries.

Bush won the biggest delegate fight on seven days for Dole. Bush gave the Republican strategist Ed Rollins the Super Tuesday primaries last Tuesday, and Dole got into the mix. Public opinion polls had Bush leading at the time.

Bush was laying up campaign money for Super Tuesday, which is next Tuesday, Dole said. Today, Bush was addressing cheering supporters in the Ballroom of the Holiday Inn in Springfield.

The victory was tainted by controversy over the accuracy of the Iowa returns. An increase to the presidential roll on Monday and Tuesday's totals was not even reported, local media said.

Director defends testing

State Sen. John Hoover says growing calls for the cancellation of the Iowa Test of Basic Skills are due to a misunderstanding of what the test is aimed at.

"The problem where state legislators or government tell the schools in a state, 'you shall give these tests,' they say, " said Hoover, who represents the Des Moines area.

"That will happen in dealing with a specific educational develop­ment, but it is a misdirection in terms of the national test. And it will be the same in 10 years, he says.

In Iowa, school administrators and state legislators have been under fire over the last several weeks because the ITBS is a norm-referenced test, and there is widespread public criticism over the perceived emphasis on memorization, testing and development.

For educators who feel pressures by the ITBS, there is a number of ways to move away from the test, Hoover said. Iowa Academy for School Leaders, a student's education group, is one of special interest.

Ehrenreich talks on decline, redefinition of middle class

Joe Findorff

The Daily Iowan

American society is becoming isolated as the extremes of rich and poor grow in rank and the middle class shrinks and bends under the weight of the heavy hands of government and the market. This is a national problem, but it is even worse here in Iowa, where the economy is being transformed by the forces of globalization. Physicians in the state have seen a rising number of people coming to see them for emergency room care in recent years and noted the growing number of patients who are unable to afford the care they need. "If you go to a hospital emergency room with a problem, the chances are you will not be the first person on the list who needs care," said Dr. Robert Ricketts, a co-chair of the UI Faculty Council. "The problem is that we are not getting the necessary resources to deal with the growing needs of our community." Ricketts said that the state acted quickly to solve the problem of parking spaces available on an already overcrowded campus. More and more families are buying power. The middle class is shrinking, and this is a problem that needs to be addressed now, he said.

Barbara Ehrenreich

Ehrenreich said that the blame for this overcrowded campus is now decreasing, though the problem is not going away. "We are faced with a major fire risk. We need to find a way to extinguish it, detection system installed in the building," Ehrenreich said. Iowa gas tax bill falls short; Republicans blame Branstad

By Scott Severn
United Press International

The Iowa Senate Wednesday, March 16, 1988

Republican leaders blame Iowa House leaders for the state budget bill's failure, saying the bill was a product of party favoritism and lack of negotiation.

"The bill failed because the House does not share the governor's viewpoint," said House Speaker Don Avenson, D-Iowa City. "We are not going to change the House's mind by tactics." he added.

"I do not understand how the governor's budget can pass with his tax and spending proposals," said Senate Majority Leader Bob Arnould, R-Des Moines.

"The governor is trying to pass a bill that is $100 million in deficit." Arnould said.

"We are not going to cooperate with the governor in passing his budget bill," he added.

The bill fell short when the House adjourned the session after failing to pass the governor's budget bill with all its tax and spending proposals.

The House also rejected a motion to override the governor's veto of the bill.

The bill would have imposed a 3% sales tax on all purchases, except groceries, and increased income taxes on individuals and businesses.

The bill also included a $100 million deficit, which would have been covered by cuts in state spending.

The governor's proposals were met with a strong opposition from House Republicans, who said they would not support the bill unless it was amended to remove the tax.

The Senate passed the bill with a 29-10 vote, but the House rejected it by a 55-42 vote.

The governor accused House leaders of "frivolous" behavior in the budget negotiations and said he would not work with them.

"I will not cooperate with House leaders who are not willing to work for Iowa's welfare," he said.

Lawmakers call for restoration student loan interest deductions

By George Lubbers
United Press International

WASHINGTON: Iowa lawmakers called Tuesday for passage of legislation to restore deductibility of interest on student loans.

"Congress made a grave mistake in eliminating the deduction in the 1980 tax reform bill," said Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa. "It is time we restored the deduction for interest on education loans.

"The Senate passed a bill to restore the deduction in 1980, but it was not included in the final version of the tax bill," he said.

"I will introduce a bill to restore the deduction next session," Grassley said.

"The deduction is important for students and their families," he added.

"It is a way to help students finance their education," he said.

"The deduction allows students to save money on taxes and to invest that money in their education," he said.

"The deduction is also a way to encourage savings and investment in education," he said.

"We need to restore the deduction to makeeducation more affordable," he said.

Riots continue in Panama; workers demand paychecks

By Douglas Tucekale (Reuters Press International)

PANAMA CITY, Panam a—Panama's government utilized U.S. diplomatic and police expertise to maintain order as thousands of government workers and students demonstrated against President Noriega's economic policies and demanding an end to the $100,000 a week in payroll

The main focal point was the government workers' paychecks, which are due today, and the fact that the government has not paid them for over a month, despite the continued demonstrations. The police used tear gas and water cannon to disperse the crowd, and some reports indicate that there were clashes between the protesters and the police.

Shamir, Shultz differ on peace conference

JERUSALEM—In a meeting between Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir and Secretary of State Alexander Haig, the leaders discussed the failure of the UN peace conference on the Middle East, and the need for a more direct approach to the peace process.

The meeting was attended by Israeli officials, including Foreign Minister Moshe Arens, and his American counterpart, Secretary of State Alexander Haig. The two leaders agreed that a direct approach to the peace process was necessary, and that the UN conference was not effective in addressing the core issues of the conflict.

NASA: Ozone declining faster than expected

By Jan Siegel

Washington Post

The level of ultraviolet radiation on Earth has grown significantly in recent years, scientists said Tuesday, raising concerns about its potential impact on human health and the environment.

The ozone layer is a thin layer of gas in the stratosphere that absorbs most of the Sun's ultraviolet radiation. A hole in the ozone layer was first observed in the 1980s, and scientists have been monitoring its size and depth ever since.

On Tuesday, a team of researchers from NASA and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) announced that the ozone hole over the Arctic had reached its largest ever recorded size, with a record low of 10.000 square kilometers.

The team, led by Dr. Susan Solomon, said the hole had grown by 25 percent from the previous year, and was now larger than the state of Alaska.

"These findings are a wake-up call for action," said Dr. Solomon. "We need to reduce greenhouse gas emissions immediately to prevent further damage to the ozone layer and protect the health of our planet."

New solutions

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir recently spoke out.

One man, two votes. Why not? The people of the occupied territories are not suffering measure are there. Indeed, the people of the occupied territories are suffering from the massive.

Thus, Shamir has shown little or no interest in the Middle East peace process. He has offered no proposals of his own. The prime minister seems more interested in the forthcoming elections than in the peace process. The people of the occupied territories are suffering from the massive.

The world, not seeing democracies, the war is not going to end soon. The people in the occupied territories are suffering from the massive.

The time for "constructive ideas" has indeed come. No one expects Israel to make a major effort to the peace process. But the prime minister must show some sign of peaceful resolution. The "Palestinian problem" cannot be beaten into the ground.

Keady named big Ten’s best

By Jim Slater
United Press International

WESTLUND, Minn. (UPI) — Gene Keady, who guided Purdue to the Big Ten crown during the NCAA Tournament, was named United Press International’s Big Ten basketball Coach of the Year. Tuesday, awarded at the annual coaches’ dinner here, the honor, determined by a vote of sports writers and broadcasters, is the second for Keady, who also received the award last year. Purdue shared the Big Ten title.

The third-year coach led his Purdue team to an overall mark of 28-3, including a 16-2 mark in conference play, to capture the first NCAA regular-season championship for the first time in 30 years. Purdue will play Thursday in South Bend, Ind., against Minnesota in the opening game.

"It’s a great honor, too, to be recognized as coach of the year in the conference," Keady said. "I know there are some really good coaches in the Big Ten and it’s truly an honor to be recognized."

" AND MOST OF all, being allowed a salary to continue and to hire a great staff, was expected to be good this year. They have given me everything they have. It’s been a great honor to be able to do something for them and to be able to do it the way the season ended."

Keady, a native of Lincoln, Neb., said Keady earned his ten year college triumph and his big Big Ten coaching victory at Purdue entering the NCAA Tournament. That’s because it has been so difficult to advance past the second round of the NCAA play under Keady.

"It really happens on the movies," Keady said. "The season really.)

NFL owners allow Cardinals to move

By Jeffrey T. Shain
United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — NFL owners Tuesday approved the relocation of the St. Louis Cardinals, it was announced here Tuesday, by a three quarters to one vote, setting the stage for a proposed dome in St. Louis to replace the Cardinals’ one-year-old stadium.

"If we get to have our moving truck, there’s no way I’m going to let them get in that truck," said team owner Bill Bidwill.

"We have nothing to lose," said Cardinals owner Pat Bidwill. "We have a cup of coffee left in our season."

In addition, the group guaranteed $24 million from oil tycoons planned for the proposed stadium.

"The Cardinals are in line to sell or exchange for the proposed stadium, Bidwill said.

Oscar of Robert Jefffrey's new show combines characteristic themes of his past with the emotional depth of Casablanca. The film's emotional tension is achieved through a precise and emotional performance, which is the hallmark of Jeffreys work. The French love interest, played by Faye Dunaway, is a complex character, who is both seductive and vulnerable. The story of the film is set in the last days of World War II, during the final days of the war in Europe. The film is a love story, but also a story of survival and heroism. The film's emotional depth is achieved through a precise and emotional performance, which is the hallmark of Jeffreys work.
