House OKs humanitarian Contra aid

By Michael Myers
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The House overwhelmingly approved Wednesday a leadership proposal providing $48 million in humanitarian aid to the Nicaraguan Contras and supports their peace talks with the Soviet-supported Nicaraguan government.

The $48 million bill, passed 345-70, was forged in a bipartisan agreement between Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, an opponent of President Ronald Reagan's policy toward Nicaragua, and a loyalist supporter, House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois. The agreement ended a bitter deadlock on restoring humanitarian aid — but not arms — to the insurgents.

The bill goes to the Senate, where the leadership planned to seek its approval today so Reagan may sign it by Friday.

"We're pleased and look forward to a vote on Thursday in the Senate," said White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

Fitzwater said the administration preferred "not to take a position" on the provisions concerning a vote on military aid.

"We need (humanitarian) aid in the worst way," he said.

THE BILL DOES not provide the military aid to the Contras that Michel wanted — that request was defeated in February — but sends food, clothing, and medicine to the Contras and supports a cease-fire commission.

"I'm not laboring under any grand illusion that passage of this resolution will get what I want for the Nicaraguan people," Michel said.

"It is not the magic key to facilitate a cease-fire in place of fruitful negotiations and all the rest. But for the moment it's the only thing I have to give."

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., an opponent of military aid to the Contras, said the Contras deserve humanitarian assistance while they seek political reconciliation with the Sandinistas.

Wright pledged in a letter to Michel not to bottle up a possible request by Reagan to seek new military aid for the guerrillas in case the 60-day cease-fire that is to begin Friday collapses.

"I wasn't going to bottle it up anyway. That's not my style,"

Wright said. "But this (agreement) doesn't allow the president or the executive branch to dictate the package, or the day of a vote."

THE CONTRAS have been fighting since 1981 to topple the Marxist-led Nicaraguan government. Wright has long accused Reagan of seeking a military solution to the problems posed by the leftist government and not trying diplomacy.

The House last month rejected Reagan's request for new military aid for the guerrillas and on March 31, 1988. See Contra, Page 7A

Meese vows not to resign

Declares Justice Department is 'operating as usual'

By Lori Santos
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Edwin Meese, reeling from the desertion of two top aides, fended off stepped-up calls for his resignation Wednesday and declared his solicitor general would stay on at the Justice Department.

As bipartisan calls mounted for Meese to step aside, the attorney general said he had "no doubt" that Solicitor General Charles Fried, the No. 4 official in the department, would remain in office.

Tuesday night, Fried said he would think about staying at the department.

In his first extensive comments since his deputy attorney general and criminal division chief resigned because of his legal and ethical entanglements, Meese vowed he would not resign — "There is no reason to."

"The Department of Justice has been operating as usual," Meese said, and he hoped to announce replacements for Burns and Weld "in the very near future."

Meese acknowledged that he met Wednesday with Fried but did so on a regular basis. He added firmly: "I have no doubt that Mr. Fried will remain a strong member of the management team."

"THE MANAGEMENT team is very strong and everything is going along well. So business is operating as usual at the Justice Department." See Meese, Page 7A

Swaggart will defy yearlong suspension

By Steven Watsky
United Press International

BATON ROUGE, La. — Disgraced television evangelist Jimmy Swaggart will defy a yearlong suspension by the national Assemblies of God and return to his pulpit May 22, an attorney for the preacher said Wednesday.

Bill Treeby, general counsel of the Jimmy Swaggart World Ministries, was asked at a news conference if Swaggart would consider leaving the church, and responded, "Of course, that's a possibility."

Swaggart, one of the world's most-watched preachers who confessed to a "moral failure" involving a prostitute, did not appear at the news conference. His worldwide evangelical broadcast operation generates about $150 million a year.

If Swaggart defies the discipline ordered by the General Presbytery of the national church because of a sex scandal, he would be ousted from his position as a pastor of that order, Assemblies of God Superintendent G. Raymond Carlson said Tuesday when the one-year ban was announced.

"THE ACTION IS, as I understand, that he would be dismissed from the Assemblies of God by the executive presbytery," Treeby said. "If they do that, he would have a right to appeal that as well."

Edwin Meese's legal troubles

Attorney General Edwin Meese III is under criminal investigation by special prosecutors in the following cases:

- WEDTECH CORP. Complex case of alleged influence peddling. Meese removed himself from investigation in April 1987.
- MIDEAST PIPELINE Meese allegedly knew his friend E. Bob Wallach was involved in attempt to bribe Israeli officials.
- 'LIMITED BLIND PARTNERSHIP' Meese took part in partnership with a San Francisco investment manager involved with Wedtech.
- TELEPHONE STOCKS Meese supported lifting court-ordered restrictions on regional phone companies, in which he holds stock.

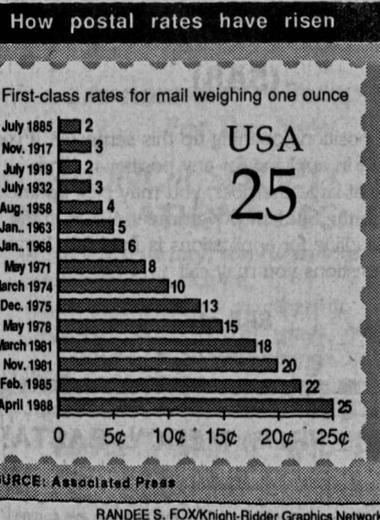

Meese's conduct has been questioned in another criminal case:

- IRAN-CONTRA While Meese conducted early investigation of diversion of Iranian money to contras, evidence was destroyed.

Another criminal investigation involving Meese has been resolved:

- GOVERNMENT EMPLOYMENT Meese allegedly used his influence to secure jobs for people who had helped him financially. In 1984, special counsel found "no basis" for prosecution.

Postal hike troubles UI officials

Departments must economize due to increase in mailing costs

By Jean Thilmann
The Daily Iowan

A scheduled increase in U.S. postal rates on Monday is causing many UI departments concern over where they will cut their budgets to cover the new postal costs.

The new increases will affect both first-class mail, which will increase from 22 cents to 25 cents per mailing, and bulk mail, which will increase from 8.3 to 8.5 cents per mailing.

Don Hartvisen, assistant director of UI data processing, said the new rates will result in increased postage costs for UI departments.

"We mail about 50,000 items a month and expect the rate hikes to increase the cost of mailing by $1,500 monthly,"

Hartvisen said.

It is up to each UI department to determine how it will cover the increased postal costs, UI Assistant Vice President for Finance Ann Rhodes said.

"EACH OF THE 300 university departments has a budget from which it must pay its expenses (for postage)," Rhodes said. "While the price of just about everything has increased over time, university allocations have not."

Rhodes said that the budgeted money is usually used to pay for envelopes, paper, postage and other sundries, and that it is delegated to each department from a UI general fund.

Though the general fund is made up in part of student tuition, next year's tuition increase will not mean an addition in departmental budgets.

"The increased tuition revenue for next year will be used for faculty salary increases," Rhodes said. "Departmental budgets won't be increased in the future."

She said that each department will have to cut back in other areas to deal with the increased postal costs.

ONE OFFICE that has yet to decide where it will cut back is the UI Registrar's Office.

"Our mailings are essential and must continue," UI Registrar Administrative Assistant Jean Lawrence said. "Students must receive their diplomas and transcripts must still be sent."

She said she doesn't know how much the additional 3-cent expense will set back the department's mailing budget, adding she expects the money regularly used for data processing, for keeping records up to date and for graduation ceremonies will be used to take up the slack.

"This rate increase isn't going to help anything," Lawrence said.

UI Director of Admissions Mike Barons said he could see only one solution to the problem his department will face as a result of the new postage rates.

"THE ONLY thing we can do is to send students who request an application or other information a first-class letter that tells them their information

Eliot is 'ducky' as Riverfest mascot

By Cathy Jackson
The Daily Iowan

Poor Eliot. The duck who quacked his way to fame as last year's UI Riverfest mascot got his feathers a bit ruffled this winter. Somehow, though, he managed to make it back to star in this year's bash.

The 1988 Eliot design, submitted by artist Rod Faccio, beat out about 50 other ideas entered by local artists in the annual Riverfest logo competition, becoming the first theme the UI Riverfest Commission has used two years in a row.

"(The Riverfest Commission) said it wasn't necessary that the artists implement this duck in the design, but they had hoped they could keep him on as some sort of a trademark," Faccio said. "A lot of people identified the duck with Riverfest activities."

"The design that I submitted depicted six Eliot-style ducks tubing down the Iowa river approaching a waterfall. Two of the ducks had already gone over the waterfall, one of which looks as if he had been dunked," he said. "That's the one they decided on."

"WE PICKED HIM again because he's so damn cute," UI Riverfest Commission Director Joel Rosenstein said. "Last year our T-shirt sales were amazing. We felt it was a good marketing thing — people associate Eliot with Riverfest. He's become a mascot."

The haggard duck accompanies the 1988 Riverfest theme, "Get your feet wet," on T-shirts UI students will soon have to fight each other to get.

"The elite few seem to get them," Rosenstein said. "We've had people all year asking when the shirts come out because last year people put off buying them and we were sold out. We can't keep up with the demand."

The Riverfest Commission hatched the Eliot theme last year — complete with an Eliot personality and an Eliot history — using artist Dan Ayala's design for the logo.

"I guess charisma and pure duck sexuality are the keys to my success," Eliot was quoted as saying in a Riverfest Commission report last year. "There's a lot of partying to be done, and I'm just the duck to

UI officials ask for support

UI Interim President Richard Remington and other UI administrators met Wednesday in Washington, D.C., with Iowa congressmen to ask for more support of research programs and student aid.

The administrators met with Sens. Charles Grassley and Thomas Harkin, Reps. Fred Grandy, Dave Nagle, Jim Ross Lightfoot, James Leach, Neal Smith and Tom Tauke, according to a release issued by UI officials.

Remington asked congressmen at the gathering to support student aid legislation to keep the UI accessible to students. He also asked legislators to support federal sources of research money for the UI, including the National Institutes of Health, the National Science Foundation, the National Public Health Service and the Department of Education.

The meeting was part of an annual series of luncheons between UI officials and Iowa congressional representatives.

Mozambique talk to be held

Dan Murphy, a former UI graduate who served as a district medical officer for the Mozambique Ministry of Health from 1979 to 1982, will present a lecture and slide show entitled "Mozambique and the South African Connection" tonight at 8:30 in Old Brick.

Murphy established a series of medical clinics in Mozambique and was the only doctor for about 200,000 people in the rural northern portion of the country. His presentation will focus on the current situation in the country from a health and development perspective.

Murphy's presentation will be preceded at 7:30 p.m. by the film Destructive Engagement, which examines the war currently going on in the country.

Researcher given grant

A UI College of Medicine researcher has received a $514,500 National Institutes of Health grant to study one of the leading causes of death among pregnant women.

During the next five years, Carl P. Weiner, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology, will investigate the causes and possible treatments of pre-eclampsia — a hypertensive disease that affects about 7 percent of all pregnant women.

The cause of pre-eclampsia is unknown and there is no known treatment for the disease, although the condition subsides upon delivery of the child. Pre-eclampsia can be fatal when complications arise from the condition.

"The Obstetrics and Gynecology Department has a major interest in studying this disease," Weiner says. "Other grant support to study pre-eclampsia has been received from the March of Dimes and the American Heart Association."

The UI department is the only group in the world currently investigating a potential treatment for pre-eclampsia, Weiner said.

Pre-eclampsia usually occurs around the 24th week of pregnancy. Symptoms include high blood pressure, protein in the urine and seizures.

UI releases book on culture

Folklore, fairy tales and myths still thrive in modern society, but in new forms which include superhero comics, movies, television shows, pulp novels and supermarket tabloids, according to a new book released by the UI Press.

In The Bosom Serpent: Folklore and Popular Art, author Harold Schechter examines the similarity between traditional folklore and contemporary forms of amusement.

Schechter is a professor of English at Queens College. His other books include Patterns in Popular Culture, Film Tricks: Special Effects in the Movies and The New Gods: Psyche and Symbol in Popular Art. The Bosom Serpent, priced at $17.95 in 185-page, hardbound edition, is available from the UI Press.

Seiferts files suit in order to stop Land's End lease

By Traci Auble
The Daily Iowan

The owners of Seiferts clothing store filed suit in Johnson County District Court Wednesday, seeking to stop a Land's End clothing store from leasing Seiferts' former store location at 10 S. Clinton St.

Grafton Group Inc. — the parent corporation of Seifert's clothing store, now located in the Old Capitol Center — claims in the suit there was a breach of contract when the owners of Seiferts' former location decided to lease the space to Land's End, according to Johnson County District Court records.

The suit states that on Dec. 8, 1976, Seiferts entered a lease agreement with Center City Properties and Dey Building Corporation for the property at 10 S. Clinton St. Center City is also a managing partner in the Old Capitol Center.

Seiferts moved to Old Capitol Center in early 1984, at which time the store owners signed an agreement with Dey and Center City in which it was agreed the property on Clinton Street would not be leased to any company which sold women's clothing for a period of seven years.

ACCORDING TO the agreement to terminate lease between Seiferts and Day and Center City, "for a period of seven years after the termination, it (Dey and Center City) will not use or lease the premises for use as a retail store selling women's clothing and related accessories including footwear."

Grafton officials recently learned that Land's End will open a store at 10 S. Clinton St. and will sell a full line of clothes, including women's apparel, accessories and shoes — items prohibited in the agreement to terminate the lease, according to court records.

Grafton is requesting the court prohibit Dey Corporation, Land's End and Center City from any further use of the property on Clinton Street in violation of the agreement to terminate lease, according to court records.

Seiferts Assistant Manager Pam Litton said she was not familiar with the case, but said if Land's End were to move into the Clinton Street space, it could affect sales of sportswear and junior clothing at Seiferts.

"I don't know if it will hurt our business," Litton said. "It might hurt our casual sportswear, though."

Grafton is also asking for judgment against Center City and Dey Corporation for damages in an amount that will fully compensate for injuries and damages due to the alleged breach of contract, according to court records.

AIDS home-testing kits banned after Iowa Senate votes 28-14

By Scott Sonner
United Press International

DES MOINES — The Iowa Senate voted Wednesday to ban home-testing kits for AIDS to avoid the dangers of inaccurate test results and prevent con artists from playing on emotions associated with the deadly virus.

On a 43-0 vote, senators also approved a civil rights measure that would prohibit mandatory AIDS testing as a condition of employment.

Backers of the bill banning home tests, passed to the House on a 28-14 vote, said it will encourage victims of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome to seek proper testing and counseling from certified health officials.

Critics said it will deny people a preliminary opportunity to determine whether they have the disease and should seek treatment.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Dave Readinger, R-Urbandale, said many shady operations offer home-testing kits to play on people's fears of contracting the fatal disease, which strikes the body's immune system.

"WE SHOULD not allow these people to come into the state and play on the AIDS emotion, the AIDS anxiety, the AIDS fear," he said. "We're not talking about the common cold virus now. We are talking about a virus that means death."

Sen. Al Sturgeon, D-Sioux City, another key supporter of the bill, said the biggest problem with the home tests is they often give a false signal that a person has tested positive for AIDS.

"We shouldn't allow bogus tests that frighten people," he said. "Even the finest lab tests can't give you 100 percent accuracy. They are about 95 percent accurate and require a follow-up procedure."

Sturgeon said the "false positives" can be life threatening, adding some people have committed suicide after receiving test results showing they have contracted AIDS.

HE SAID failure to implement the ban on home tests would undercut efforts to provide state counseling and contact tracing services to AIDS victims.

"How can you counsel someone about what their options are if you have home testing?" he asked.

Opponents of the ban said the home tests could prove beneficial to some people. "The home tests would allow the true negatives to put their mind at rest without overburdening the laboratories," Sen. Linn Fuhrman, R-Aurelia, said.

Senators defeated an amendment, 28-21, by Sen. Charles Burner, D-Ames, which would have allowed the home kits to be sold in Iowa but only if they were certified by the state Department of Public Health.

"People who would take the home tests might be the kind of people that live in fear and would not go to the doctor for a test or seek counseling," Bruner said.

"I think if they test positive at home they would be more likely to go to the doctor for a confirmation test and get counseling," he said.

Former Iowa football player Nathan Creer, 904 Benton Court, was sentenced Monday to 90 days in Johnson County Jail with 80 days suspended plus one year probation for assaulting Iowa running back Tony Stewart, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Creer was granted his request for work release Wednesday in order to continue working at his job at Target, Highway 6 West, Coralville. Creer will be released from jail beginning April 6 to work from noon to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, according to court records and the Johnson County Jail.

Creer will remain in custody of the Johnson County Sheriff while on work release, according to court records.

Creer was charged last September after allegedly using a piece of electrical pipe to strike Stewart, causing him to suffer a cut under his eye and welts under his arm. The incident occurred on the third floor of Slater Residence Hall on Aug. 25, according to court records.

An Iowa City woman was charged Wednesday with second-degree theft after she allegedly wrote illegitimate checks, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Laretta Welch, 24, 1432 Lakeside Drive, opened a checking account on Aug. 17 at the Iowa State Bank, 102 S. Clinton St., where she deposited no more than $10 and then allegedly wrote checks totaling over $500 to local businesses, according to court records.

Welch allegedly wrote two checks to Zales Jewelry, Old Capitol Center, for $217 and $182; two checks to K-Mart, Highway 6, Coralville for $27 and $30; and one $43 check to a Hy-Vee store. Welch allegedly wrote the checks without depositing money in her account, according to court records.

Welch was being held in Johnson County Jail Wednesday on $1,000 bail bond plus 15 percent surcharge, according to jail records.

An employee of Iowa City Plasma Center, 318 E. Bloomington St., allegedly was approached Wednesday afternoon in connection with a drug sale, according to police reports.

The manager of the plasma center reported that an employee was approached in the parking lot of the center at about 12:30 p.m. Wednesday by a male and a female in a two-toned gold Pontiac Grand Prix with a smashed windshield, the report stated.

Individuals in the car reportedly asked if the employee smoked marijuana and then opened a case which the employee believed contained LSD, according to the report.

The individuals left when they were unable to make a sale, the report stated.

Korematsu will address internment

By Cathy Jackson
The Daily Iowan

Fred Korematsu, with lawyer Lorraine Bannai, will recount his experience as one of the 110,000 Japanese American citizens transported to United States concentration camps during World War II in a lecture in Boyd Law Building Friday at 11:30 a.m.

Korematsu was convicted by the Supreme Court in 1944 of violating a military order to report to a camp, but 40 years later won a celebrated case to vacate that conviction.

"He was placed in a concentration camp as the result of what can only be described as a kind of racist hysteria in the United States at the possibility of a Japanese invasion of our West Coast," UI Law Professor Burns Weston said.

As grounds for the internment, the U.S. government said Japanese and Japanese Americans were guilty of espionage and posed threats to government stability, according to UI Asian American Law Students Association President Leroy Gee.

LAWYERS PROVED those grounds were not valid, but not until 1982 when the Korematsu v. United States case was finally re-opened.

"For 40 years people wanted to forget about (the internment)," Gee said.

But in the late 1970s, lawyer Peter Irons found evidence there was no threat from the Japanese Americans during the war, according to Gee.

"There was never one documented case of Japanese espionage," Gee said. At that time, third-generation Japanese American lawyers — those born in the camps or after — encouraged Korematsu to re-open his case, according to Gee.

Along with helping to uncover this information about the internment during the trial, Korematsu lobbied this winter for a Japanese American Reparations Bill, which is up for a U.S. Senate vote next week.

THE BILL asks the U.S. government to acknowledge as a mistake the placement of Japanese in internment camps, many located in the deserts of Arizona, Wyoming, and Colorado. The bill also requests the government to pay $10,000 to $20,000 to each of the 45,000 to 60,000 internment survivors, Gee said.

"When they were rounded up they had to sell everything they owned for 10 to 20 cents to the dollar," Gee said. "$20,000 still won't be enough to make up for what they lost. It will just be a token of the (U.S. government's) mistake."

But UI Associate Law Professor Barry Matsumoto, who was born in an internment camp, said President Ronald Reagan has indicated he will veto the bill if it gets through the Senate.

"It seems to me it sends a clear message about what his views on the subject are, which I obviously would disagree with," Matsumoto said. "Several thousand is not a large amount of money for people who were simply thrown in prison for three years."

MATSUMOTO SAID evidence uncovered recently also shows the federal government withheld information indicating there was no justification for the Japanese-American imprisonment.

In addition to Friday's lecture, the Asian American Law Students Association and several other law student groups will sponsor a Thursday showing of a documentary about the Japanese American internment, Unfinished Business at 11:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. in Boyd Law Building Room 225.

Gee said the film, nominated for an Academy Award, fully documents this episode of American history.

"From what I know about the Midwest, people aren't too knowledgeable about the internment," he said. "History courses just give lip service but don't go into great detail about what happened."

Hispanic culture will be focus of UI conference

By Deborah Gluba
The Daily Iowan

As the U.S. Hispanic population reaches 20 million, dispelling negative stereotypes about Spanish-speaking Americans is the goal of a conference to be held Saturday at the Union.

"Impact of the Hispanic Culture in the United States" was the idea of the UI's first national Hispanic fraternity, Sigma Lambda Beta. It will feature 10 visiting speakers who will address topics including Hispanic American history, politics and literature.

UI junior Pepe Rojas-Cardona, a member of the executive planning committee for the conference, said there are approximately 400 Hispanics on the UI campus. He said the conference will attempt to promote a greater awareness and understanding of Hispanic culture.

"So far there has been a lot of excitement generated throughout the community and the state," Rojas-Cardona said.

THE SPEAKERS will discuss Chicano writers, Chicano art and political participation of Hispanics in the United States. They include professors from the University of California-Los Angeles, Stanford University and Boston University.

West German professor Horst Tonn, from the University of Duisberg, will present "Chicano Literature in the Context of American Ethnicity" as one of his final discussions before he returns to Europe. Tonn is one of a small number of Chicano-life scholars outside the United States.

Planning for the event, which is being made possible by a grant from the Iowa Humanities Board and numerous local sponsors, began last summer.

Rojas-Cardona said he expects about 300 people to attend the daylong workshop. Anyone who wants to attend the luncheon or banquet should register by Friday, he said.

UI LIBRARIAN Helen Ryan, another member of the conference executive planning committee, said the committee is pleased with the speakers.

"These are the top people in the U.S. who specialize in Chicano arts," she said.

She said Chicano arts is a new and interesting field that incorporates all aspects of Hispanic culture.

Ryan said the conference would be unique because it combines faculties from across the country with UI students.

"We think it will be unusual because it will be aimed at a broader base than just the academic community," Ryan said.

The conference registration fee is $12 for students and $25 for non-students. The fee includes workshops, meals and a dance.

The dance will follow the conference with music provided by Oasis, a Chicago-based group that plays both Latino and rock music. Admission will be $3 for the event, which begins at 9 p.m. in the Union Main Lounge.

Vote on arms treaty moves to Senate

WASHINGTON — The historic INF treaty, the first of the nuclear age to order the destruction of a class of superpower missiles, was sent to the Senate Wednesday on a 17-2 vote by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Floor debate on the treaty — containing precedent-setting inspection methods and Soviet agreement to eliminate more weapons than the United States will — is not scheduled until mid-April.

The Senate is expected to recommend ratification of the Intermediate Nuclear Forces treaty, signed in Washington Dec. 8 by President Ronald Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, before Reagan goes to Moscow for his fourth summit with Gorbachev May 29 to June 2.

"Prospects are very good for passage of the INF treaty," said Assistant Senate Democratic leader Alan Cranston of California.

Strike against Noriega loses steam

PANAMA CITY, Panama — A nationwide opposition strike aimed at ousting military strongman Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega appeared to lose momentum Wednesday with the opening of supermarkets for the first time in 10 days.

But most other stores in the capital stayed closed. European and Latin American diplomats said Noriega was no closer to leaving voluntarily now than he was a month ago, at the onset of Panama's latest political crisis. Indeed, Noriega may have hardened his stand as the pressure from the United States grew, they said.

"It is taking longer and longer to get Noriega out," a diplomat said of Washington's efforts to oust Noriega. "And the longer it takes, the higher the cost will be."

Experts differ on Baby M visitation

HACKENSACK, N.J. — Rival expert witnesses both testified Wednesday that Baby M should be allowed to build a relationship with surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead Gould, but greatly disagreed on when that relationship should begin.

Lee Salk, a child psychologist from Cornell University who testified for the child's father, William Stern, said the 2-year-old girl should be protected until she is 10 and old enough "to understand the facts of her conception."

But Harold Koplewicz, a Long Island Jewish Hospital psychiatrist testifying on behalf of Whitehead Gould, recommended increased visitation beginning immediately with the child now known as Melissa Stern.

Third charge against Mechem dropped

PHOENIX — State senators voted Wednesday to dismiss a third article of impeachment against Gov. Evan Mechem, setting the stage for a vote on the two charges against him as early as Monday.

By a vote of 16-12, the Senate dropped a charge that Mechem failed to report a $350,000 campaign loan on state-required financial documents.

Supporters of the move said they feared Mechem's criminal trial on felony charges that he concealed the loan could be prejudiced by publicity about the impeachment proceedings.

Academic success not tied to class size

WASHINGTON — An Education Department report debunked Wednesday the long-standing theory that student achievement is tied to the size of a classroom, saying reducing classroom size has no effect on pupils' grades.

The report by the department's Office of Educational Research and Improvement concluded that reducing class size is unlikely to have "tangible benefits for student achievement." It also said this method of improving achievement "is inconsistent with the push to enhance teacher professionalism and the expectations of professional skill."

Officials recover stolen Einstein notes

AUSTIN, Texas — An "invaluable treasure" of Albert Einstein's hand written notes, stolen last week from a display case at the University of Texas, has been recovered after officials obtained a search warrant based on an anonymous tip, officials said Wednesday. The document was slightly damaged.

"This is an invaluable treasure that belongs to the entire species of humanity . . ." a Travis County spokesman said at a news conference.

The stolen document is a single page of handwritten mathematical notes made by Einstein in the 1950s. The page appeared to be slightly damaged, with a small piece of paper torn from the margin and a small water stain, Chalmers said.

Bill to rehire controllers clears House

WASHINGTON — The House approved a bill Wednesday that would force the Reagan administration to rehire at least 1,000 air traffic controllers fired nearly seven years ago.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Guy Molinari, R-N.Y., was adopted on a 234-180 vote. It now goes to the Senate.

The legislation, which proponents say would make the skies safer, would mandate the hiring of the controllers during a two-year period. It is vehemently opposed by the administration.

4 Arab protesters die during anti-Israel riots

By Louis Toscano
United Press International

JERUSALEM — Israeli soldiers killed four Arabs during anti-Israel protests Wednesday and the army shut down a Palestinian news agency, choking the flow of information from the sealed-off occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip on one of the bloodiest days of the Palestinian uprising.

At least another 55 people were wounded — 32 by army gunfire — as riots swept West Bank villages and U.N.-run refugee camps, Palestinian and military sources said.

The explosion of violence dealt a blow to Israeli authorities, who had closed the West Bank and Gaza and deployed thousands of soldiers and police to prevent violence during protests timed to commemorate Land Day in 1976, when six Arabs were killed in a demonstration against Israeli confiscation of Arab land.

Scattered protests by Israeli Arabs acting in solidarity with their 1.5 million Palestinian brethren in the territories were reported in northern Israel, where a call for a general strike met with virtually complete success.

AN ESTIMATED 10,000 people turned out for a peaceful rally in the town of Sakhnin, but the protests fell far short of organizers' predictions of massive demonstrations by Israel's 800,000 Arab citizens.

The West Bank and Gaza were sealed off to journalists for a second day under an army order issued Monday night.

The military refused permission for the 850,000 Palestinians in the West Bank to leave the territory and a general strike closed all businesses and left roads deserted.

The 650,000 residents of Gaza lived under virtual house arrest as a 24-hour curfew turned the teeming, densely populated coastal strip into what a U.N. official called "one gigantic ghost town."

Telephone lines to Gaza were cut off for a second day.

Jackson, top Democrats meet

Party leaders struggle with possible Jackson nomination

By Joseph Mianowany
United Press International

WASHINGTON — As the presidential campaign moved on to Wisconsin, civil rights leader Jesse Jackson met in Washington with a number of distinguished Democrats, as the party tries to come to grips with the possibility that Jackson, if he continues his string of impressive primary performances, may be their nominee.

Jackson began his day with a breakfast meeting with some of Washington's Democratic elite, many of whom are struggling with themselves over what to do if the black civil rights leader becomes the clear front-runner.

Clark Clifford, a longtime party leader and adviser to presidents, noted afterwards that "the party of the Democrats has always been the party of innovation. I think it's entirely possible that Jesse Jackson may be the one who's bringing the new innovation into our political process."

JACKSON CALLED the gathering an "historical meeting" and former Democratic Chairman John White said it represented "a new maturing of the political process in America, a growing up of America."

"It represents a bonding in the Democratic Party," White added.

Meanwhile, Vice President George Bush said Wednesday he was worried about the effectiveness of the Justice Department in light of Attorney General Edwin Meese's woes and Democrat Michael Dukakis called for Meese to resign.

Bush and Dukakis were the big winners in Tuesday night's Connecticut primary, while Jackson, who finished second to Dukakis, performed better than expected.

For the Republicans, Bush got 70 percent and Dole, on the day he withdrew, pulled 20 percent. For the Democrats, Dukakis won 58 percent, while Jackson had 28 percent. Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., finished with 8 percent.

The next major showdown comes in Wisconsin next Tuesday and all the candidates headed there Wednesday.

BUSH, SPEAKING in Madison, Wis., was asked about the resignations of several top Justice Department officials, who apparently left because of frustrations over the legal troubles surrounding Meese.

"I do worry about the effectiveness and morale in the Justice Department," said Bush. "It's a very special department of government. These were good people who left. They haven't said why they left. This troubles me. No question about that. But I am not going to prejudge Mr. Meese."

As expected, Dukakis was much tougher, contending in an interview on CBS that the troubles at the Justice Department "should not be tolerated."

He argued that "Mr. Meese's continued service as attorney general is an embarrassment to the people of this country and apparently now it is an embarrassment to some very fine people who are leaving the Justice Department."

Bush also argued that ethical problems were not the sole property of the administration and that every White House and Congress has had troubles.

Swaggart

Treby said Swaggart instead would abide by a three-month suspension imposed by the Louisiana District Council. He said Swaggart also would refrain from distributing any taped sermons during the remainder of the three-month period.

"According to his submission to these, his elders, and to the will of God, he is looking forward with great anticipation to returning to television and the pulpit in accordance with the district's decision, on Sunday, May 22, 1988," Treby said. "There is no risk in doing what is right."

"The Louisiana District has rightfully taken the firm position that the district alone has the authority under (church) constitution and bylaws of the Assemblies of God to decide on appropriate plans of rehabilitation for the ordained ministers of the Louisiana district," the Swaggart statement indicated.

SWAGGART HAS 30 days to appeal but has not yet made a decision or notified church officials of his intention, the attorney said. The General Presbytery will meet again in August.

The sex scandal that forced Swaggart from the pulpit is similar to events surrounding the downfall of PTL ministry founder Jim Bakker and New Orleans television evangelist Marvin Gorman.

In a tearful, televised display Feb. 21, Swaggart told members of his 7,000-plus congregation in Baton Rouge that he was guilty of an unspecified "moral failure." He told church elders his transgression amounted to a one-time meeting with a prostitute in a seedy motel on the edge of New Orleans.

The woman, however, claims Swaggart paid her $50 per meeting to perform obscene acts on a regular basis for more than a year.

JEFFREY HADDEN, a professor of sociology at the University of Virginia and co-author of Televangelism, Power and Politics, due for release next month, had suggested that economics would dictate Swaggart's next move.

The fire-and-brimstone preacher's ministry already has been hit by layoffs.

"It boils down to simple arithmetic," Hadden said. "They've had a month or so to figure out what degree they are capable of scaling back their operations."

do it."

IN THE REPORT, Eliot, whose idol is Spuds MacKenzie, said his only insecurity is his name, because it isn't cool.

"In that movie E.T., the little boy's name was Elliot and he was a wimp," Eliot said.

Riverfest Ad Committee member Tracy Tripoli, who designed the duck prints on the back of the shirts and split the $100 logo contest award with Faecio, a graphic artist for The Daily Iowan, said she is glad the commission stuck with the duck this year. "I wasn't really aware of Riverfest, but when those shirts came out, the duck was all over and it made people more familiar with it," she said.

It looks like Eliot may wade around Iowa City for a while, according to Tripoli. "I think they should keep it, it will help them in the future," she said.

ROSENSTEIN SAID the Riverfest Commission makes enough money from the T-shirts, now on sale at the Union Bookstore, Iowa Book and Supply, and Wild Things to cover many Riverfest expenses.

"We get only 15 percent of our budget from student government," he said, "and the rest comes from T-shirt sales and community sponsors."

With so many adoring fans, Eliot, the official UI party animal, may have to plan ahead a bit this year and get himself copyrighted.

"We seem to be getting some national recognition," Rosenstein said. "We're going to have to copyright him soon."

Riverfest will be held this year in Union Field and other campus locations April 15 to April 24.

No more Meese

There's a certain smell when the wind is out of the East, and no, it's not the IBP plant — it's the Justice Department decomposing rapidly.

On Tuesday, six Justice Department officials resigned to protest Edwin Meese's continued tenure as attorney general. The group includes Deputy Attorney General Arnold Burns and criminal division head William Weld, respectively numbers two and three in command. The solicitor general, now second in command, has expressed misgivings about the department as well.

By many reports morale has been dropping in the department ever since Meese came on board. Many felt he had been ethically compromised when he accepted interest-free loans from office seekers. Somehow this did not prevent his confirmation as attorney general. Since then Meese has been connected to just about everything sleazy in the District from Wedtech to the shredding party. Nowadays Justice Department staffers try not to mention their place of employment during cocktail chitchat.

The last straw for Burns and Weld came when Meese appeared on a national news show referring repeatedly to businessman Robert Wallach as "my good friend." Some of Meese's subordinates have been charged with prosecuting Wallach for multiple felonies, but apparently the attorney general didn't feel that his statements would prejudice the case. Burns and Weld felt differently, and gave White House chief of staff Howard Baker a "him or us" ultimatum. On his way out, Weld got a standing ovation from co-workers.

Spokesmen for Meese and President Ronald Reagan, showing their usual disregard for truth, tried to characterize the resignations as the normal attrition from a closing administration. They reassured the public the resignations didn't signal any "new" dirt on Meese. The attorney general himself spent the day ducking reporters.

Insiders report Meese is now so mired in defending himself that he does nothing to earn the salary paid him — the Justice Department has no leadership. Given Meese's record this may be an improvement. But still, for the sake of the budget if nothing else, perhaps the Senate watchdogs who confirmed him should think about undoing their mistake.

Wait and see

The question is, which is a lesser violation of the First Amendment — preventing Rupert Murdoch from owning as much of the media as he can afford, or allowing him to control an excessive portion of it in two major markets, thereby silencing other voices?

Tuesday a federal appeals court answered that question with a resounding "ask us later." The court ruled that Congress had acted unconstitutionally in singling out publisher Rupert Murdoch with a law preventing him from owning more than one media service in a single market. Happily, the court did not find, nor did it attempt to find, anything wrong with the principle behind the law against media cross-ownership.

Against Murdoch is the fact that he is plainly, almost pathologically, running for media emperor of the world. In his favor are the demographics of his particular situation — New York and Boston are such enormous media markets that Murdoch's ownership of one paper and one television station in each hardly constitutes a monopoly. There is also the First Amendment to consider, whose inspired phraseology means, to Murdoch, "the right to buy as many newspapers as your accountant says you can."

But what ultimately saved Murdoch was not the First Amendment but the Fifth, which guarantees equal protection under the law. The court found, and rightly so, that Murdoch was the victim of a law — in this case the Hollings Amendment, which banned the Federal Communications Commission from granting waivers and extensions to violators of cross-ownership laws — specifically designed to vex his attempts to establish a media empire of sensationalist rags and bad television.

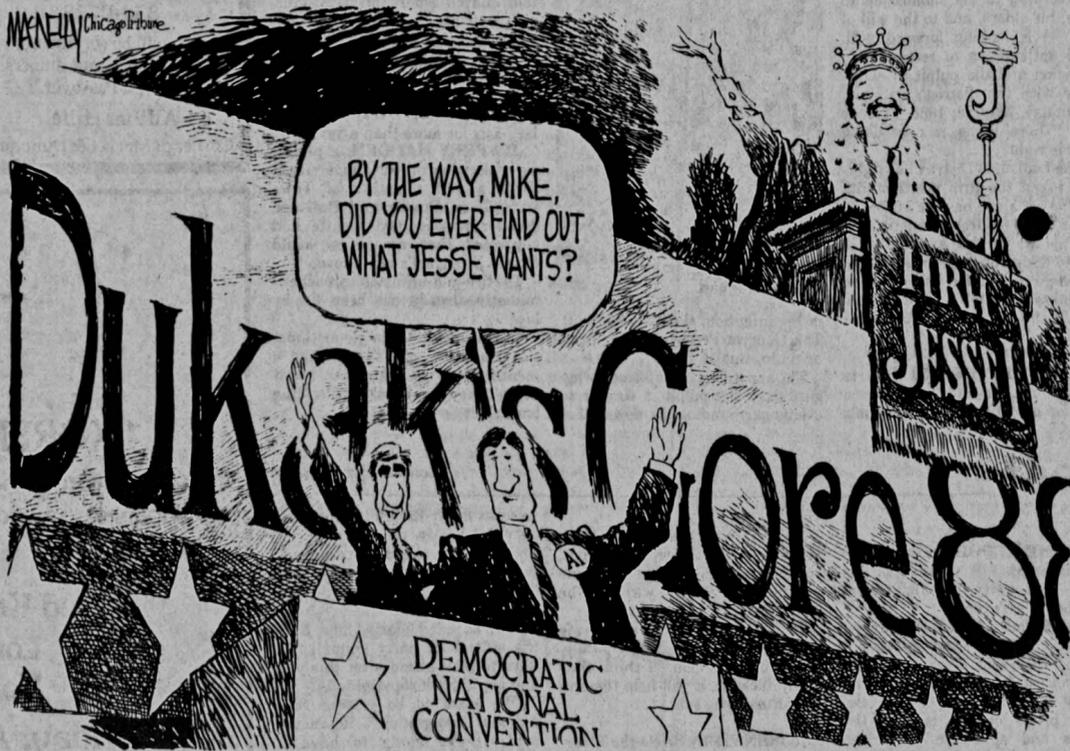

In this fashion the real debate has been postponed, but not for long. Doubtless there will be other Rupert Murdochs who test the validity of existing media laws and the resiliency of the media market place — in fact, the court's ruling guarantees it. Already Peter Kalkow, the real estate developer who bought the New York Post from Murdoch, has announced his plans to buy a radio or television station in the same market and challenge the constitutionality of the FCC ban on cross-ownership. But unlike Murdoch, Kalkow will not be able to claim that he was singled out for persecution by Congress.

No one wants a handful of men to control the media, and it would be foolish to say that what we read in the papers and see on television is not, at least in part, a media creation, reflecting the taste, politics and priorities of those who disseminate news. On the other hand, news is business, and will forever be run by businessmen. Kalkow's challenge, when it happens, will force the courts to decide if the media really is a public trust, or if the First Amendment protects the rights of rich men to buy up all the ink.

Does the bell toll for thee?

Dino — We were laying in hammocks in some ridiculously out-of-the-way bamboo-and-wire hut, in the dark, by the Caribbean Sea, in Mexico. You, me and your brother Vince.

"If you could describe yourself in two words," said Vince, "what would they be?"

My answer came without a thought. "Scared," I said, "and lonely."

You asked me to explain. What explanation could there be?

"How about you?" I asked.

Your hammock swayed back and forth. The candlelight flickered. We could hear the sound of waves breaking on the white sand surf. A warm breeze blew between the bamboo slats of the hut. Your brother slurped on a mango. We were lazy and the time passed slowly.

"Evolving," you said, and thought awhile longer. "I can't think of another word. Just evolving."

NOW I HEAR it's possible you've evolved right off this planet, and possibly by your own choice.

Our mutual and steadfast friend Howard has phoned and he tells me you are missing. Have been for a week, and they're concerned.

"Last he was heard from," Howard tells me from a distance of 2,000 miles, "he called his parents in Detroit from a pay phone near the ocean (Pacific) and told them he couldn't handle it anymore, he was coming home." Your dad told you he would fly out and help you pack, but when he called your apartment later to let you know when he would arrive, Vince answered and told him he hadn't heard from you in a couple of days. That's when they started to worry.

"VINCE FOUND a poem he wrote," Howard tells me. "He said it sounds like a suicide note."

The phone line crackles.

"We put up posters and called the cops," Howard says. "Nothing's turned up in the hospitals or in the morgue. That's a positive sign."

I have ceased to believe in positive signs, but I do not tell Howard this. I move the phone over so I can stare at the painting you did, the one I took from your room without asking you. It is hanging on my wall. It has scared a visitor or two. It is a stark portrait of a person with three eyes.

I think of you missing and I think of the ocean. I cannot help it. I myself have often regarded the stars at night, rare and luminous above the ocean's dark, immeasurable maw, and reached my arms out to take their sparkling fire into my hands, and ended up deep in cold, salty water, and panicked — ran back to shore with all my might, breath coming furiously and tears running down my face, out of chilling fear —

IS THAT HOW you choose to go, Dino? Adrift in the vast black, with so many things cold and harmful, while the stars and your third eye and the hearts of all who love you look down with wonder and concern?

Please, I pray, no.

I remember the thousand times we played music together. I remember watching your spirit take flight and soar over the rooftops of the city, the way you closed your eyes and led us to places above the clouds, challenged us, bade us follow you with a gentle push of your music.

Could I have helped save you? If I had stayed?

I remember the tentative look on your face, as if you were a soufflé, and when I came over to say hi my knock on the door collapsed you. But you humored me, latched yourself onto my world, let me distract you from your solitary wonderings for the short time I would stay.

EVEN THEN, YOU cocked your head in the middle of conversations. There was a tune you alone could hear. What did it mean to you? What made you, even in the company of people who demonstrably loved you, so alone?

Could I have helped save you? If I had stayed?

With a laugh, I promise Howard I will keep an eye peeled for you. But I am serious, Dino: I know you may never belong in this world. Still, phone home. It isn't fair that you left without a goodbye. At least tell us for sure. If you are within the sound of my prayers, put two nickels and a dime in the slot and let us know you are still evolving.

Bob Ivy's column appears on the Viewpoints page every Thursday.

For Jackson, black's beautiful

The Democratic Party is quivering with fright over what to do about Jesse Jackson. And I can understand how they feel. They can't afford to have Mrs. Thelma Lloyd mad at them.

Who is Mrs. Lloyd? She is a nice lady who lives on 99th Street on the South Side of Chicago.

What makes Mrs. Lloyd politically significant is that she is black. No Democrat can hope to be elected president next November if they don't get the votes of the Thelma Lloyds of America.

Mrs. Lloyd tells me that she has been reading my column for many years, going back to when I wrote for another Chicago newspaper.

And she says that in those days she used to like me. "You were bright and funny," she says.

BUT NOW I'm not the same man. As she put it:

"You have changed for the worst. You sound so mean and racist when you write about black people, especially the Rev. Jesse Jackson."

"You can't help but let your racism come out plain as day as though you are proud of yourself."

An interesting, if inaccurate, observation.

The fact is, I've been writing about Jesse Jackson since he first burst into prominence in Chicago in the late 1960s.

There were times when I wrote favorably about him and times when I made it clear that I thought he was a double-talking hot dog.

And I haven't said anything about Jackson since he became a presidential candidate that I didn't say when Mrs. Lloyd was reading me years ago. I still think he has his good points and I still think there are times when he is a double-talking hot dog.

Mike Royko

But now, in Mrs. Lloyd's view, if I write unfavorably about Jackson it means that I have become "mean and racist."

THAT'S NOT merely my problem. It is the problem of the Democratic Party and the other candidates.

If any of them dare say anything disparaging about Jackson, they run the risk of having the Mrs. Lloyds of America — and there are millions of them — consider them racists and hold a grudge next November.

Robert Dole could take pokes at George Bush, and Bush could poke back. Paul Simon could take smacks at Richard Gephardt. Albert Gore can snipe at Michael Dukakis. Dukakis can take a verbal shot or two at Gore.

But everybody must be nice to Jackson, because if they aren't, Mrs. Lloyd is going to think they are racists.

This puts the other candidates at a considerable disadvantage.

For example, when Albert Gore pointed out the obvious — that Jackson lacks governmental experience — it was promptly interpreted as a grab for right-wing support. And that, to some, translates into racism.

SOME OF the other candidates would like to point out that Jackson's economic proposals might be whacky and that his foreign policy ideas are out of a dream world.

They might like to challenge him to explain who is going to foot the bill for some of his pie-in-the-sky social programs.

But they can't. If they do, Mrs. Lloyd might say that they are racists and withhold her vote.

They might want to ask him about some of the outrageous statements he's made in the past. Not when he was teenager, but when he was a grown man with a national reputation.

They might want to poke around the financial records of Operation Breadbasket, which he once ran, and Operation PUSH, which still exists.

But they can't do that, either. Mrs. Lloyd won't like it.

So there is one set of rules for every other candidate and another set of rules for Jackson. They can say, "Hey, you once said this," or "You once supported that." But only to each other. Not to Jackson.

AND THIS applies to the press and broadcast news. We can poke into Gary Hart's private life or catch Joe Biden lifting someone else's words and tell the world about it. We can poke fun at George Bush for being an elitist or ponder the dark side of Robert Dole's personality. We can chortle about how President Reagan's aides write cue cards that tell him how to say "Good morning, how are you?" to distinguished guests.

But if we question Jackson's qualifications, we're racists.

For years, I wrote unfavorably about the late Mayor Richard J. Daley and his Machine. His admirers frequently told me I was an S.O.B., but they didn't accuse me of being anti-Irish.

When Bernard Epton ran against Harold Washington for mayor of Chicago, I had some unkind words for Epton's campaign. But I didn't get even one letter accusing me of being an anti-Semite.

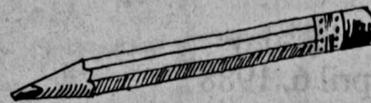

It's part of this nation's tradition that the records of politicians have always been fair game, both for their opponents and the press.

But that doesn't apply to Jackson. And Mrs. Lloyd has told us why.

It's an odd turnabout. For years, Jackson has told us how tough it is to have been born black.

Now that he's a politician, it turns out that being black is the best thing he has going for him.

Meese

Department," Meese said. His comments came as White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater knocked down rumors that Nancy Reagan, in concert with White House chief of staff Howard Baker, was urging the president to ease his longtime friend from office.

"I never heard that said by anyone — that they wanted him out," Fitzwater said.

Fitzwater also said Reagan was monitoring the situation and had not yet spoken with Meese, although, "I'm sure they will at some point."

But Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia led the renewed offensive against the embattled attorney general — the subject of a year-old independent prosecutor's probe and whose top aides resigned Tuesday — claiming Meese "has become the crown jewel of the sleaze factor in Reagan administration history."

"He ought to get out," said Byrd.

"THE PRESIDENT ought to ask somebody, if he doesn't want to ask him himself, to ask Mr. Meese to step aside, step down."

The increased attacks were prompted by the abrupt resignation Tuesday of two top department officials, Deputy Attorney General Arnold Burns and Assistant Attorney General William Weld, who took four aides with them to avoid spilling "blood on the floor" because of the legal and ethical questions surrounding the attorney general, according to sources.

Reagan, however, said his support for Meese was unswerving.

"I have every confidence in him," the president said. "He's a friend for 20 years. I'm not going to comment further on what's going on."

But Byrd was joined by the first Republican calls for the attorney general to step aside, as well as from Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis, former Attorney General Elliot Richardson and Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass.

Sen. Bob Packwood of Oregon, the first GOP senator to weigh in against the attorney general, said Meese was an embarrassment and the administration "would be better off with his leaving the Cabinet."

"I THINK IT IS unfortunate if the standard is going to be we will all wait until we're indicted. . . .

That is the standard for a bank robber and should not be the standard for high public office."

"I think you do the president a favor if you were to resign," Packwood said.

Even Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a longtime Meese backer, reacted to the news by expressing some anxiety about morale at the department.

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., a key swing Democrat on the Senate Judiciary Committee, also called for Meese to step down, saying the administration could no longer blame his problems on partisan political attacks.

"The criticisms have now come from his own people," he said. "I think it's only a matter of time before the attorney general leaves office."

3 the Republicans led the defeat of Wright's proposed humanitarian aid bill for the Contras because it contained no arms.

The aid cutoff changed the political landscape in Central America and the Contras and the Sandinistas, both bleeding by a war estimated to have claimed 50,000 casualties, entered direct peace talks. The agreement on a cease-fire, the release of political prisoners in Nicaragua, and a pledge by the Sandinistas to work towards political reconciliation, led to the legislative breakthrough on Capitol Hill.

Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., said the agreement is aimed at "the twin goals of peace and democracy in the region."

"It sends a message to the Contras that they are not abandoned, that we do care about them, we want to keep them healthy and a viable force," he said. "And it lets the Sandinistas know that it is important to the United States Congress that the talks that take place down there take place with good faith and they move toward democracy."

CHENEY WORRIED that the Democrats would tie up the possible military aid request in committee, or use their vast majority to subvert a vote.

Wright said providing for military aid could wreck the peace proposals signed in Sapo, Nicaragua. He resisted setting a specific date for a vote on a specific arms package on grounds it would give Reagan improper legislative control of the bill.

A straitjacket proposal could also slow passage in the Senate, which, although more favorable to Contra aid, likes to freely amend bills, too.

The Republicans asked Wright to assure Michel in a letter there would be no raw deal on a military aid request.

"The Contra issue has been a terribly difficult one and I hope that we have now forged a truly bipartisan relationship on this issue," Wright said.

is coming in two to three weeks," he said. "We could then send the information third class, but to some inquiries we'll owe an immediate reply."

The increase will mean a loss of some services and much slower service in the Admissions Department, according to Barrons. He said the department could begin sending some items by bulk mail, but pointed out bulk-mailing rates are also being raised.

"There is no way to rectify this situation," Barrons said. "We have asked for an increase in next year's admissions budget, but given the university's state of funding we probably won't see it."

16th Annual April Fools' Day Sale

PHOTOWORLD-CONTRA AFFAIR!

"What began as a regularly scheduled April Fools' Day Sale deteriorated in its implementation into an all-out price-cutting frenzy"

Low-price freedom fighters slash every price in store!

No item is spared in the violent reductions; most items hit with double discounts!

- All Frames ..... 50% off!
  - All Filters ..... 50% off!
  - All Albums and refills ..... 45% off!
  - All Books ..... 30% off!
- Everything in the store will be on sale!*

Vivitar 7x25 Binoculars

Valued at

$54.95

*We reserve the right to judge the validity of your souvenir.

Louis' role not yet clear

When asked about his role in the contra affair reporters were told that President Louis was suffering from a sudden case of laryngitis. Shortly thereafter Louis released this statement:

"I was kept briefed on the sale proceedings—I was very definitely involved in the decisions about support to the low-price freedom fighters. My idea to begin with."

Allegations of price-lists being smuggled from store

"I am shocked to hear what the competition said about my smuggling the true prices lists out in my clothes. It is untrue, it is outrageous..."

—long time employee Reta Fawn Lekin

Note: Any resemblance of people, places and events depicted on this page to actual people, places and events, living or dead is entirely DELIBERATE & INTENTIONAL.

The Charge: "I just don't believe what the employees say. It does not seem logical that an established business would have a sale of these proportions, taking on the responsibility of affecting the shoppers of this community."

—PhotoWorld competitor

The Response: "I never intended to profit from my price-cutting activities and I never made any pretense about that fact."

—Vice President Richard Blumdexter

Pentax Supplies Non-Lethal Aid

In an effort to help the low-price freedom fighters, Pentax delivered 40 Pentax Mini Sport II Cameras which must be sold at a ridiculously low price:

35 mm Pentax Mini Sport II
1 Roll Kodak Film

"Sometimes you just have to go below regular price, I believe."

—College St. Store Manager Jann Ream Hall

"The low prices start here with us. We made the decision. We thought we had the authority to do it. We thought it was a good idea. We were convinced that Louis and Blum would, in the end, think it was a good idea. But we did not want them to be associated with the decision."

—Store managers Gregory North Smith and Jann Ream Hall on their roles in the PhotoWorld-Contra Affair.

The Verdict & Conditions: "The ultimate responsibility for the events in the PhotoWorld-Contra Affair must rest with the management. If the management did not know what the low-price freedom fighters were doing, it should have. But we will not turn our backs on the shoppers of this community. THE SALE WILL TAKE PLACE WITH THESE CONDITIONS:

Connecticut nips Ohio State for NIT crown

By Mike Weil
United Press International

NEW YORK — Phil Gamble scored 25 points to help Connecticut complete a rise from last place in the Big East Wednesday night with a 72-67 victory over Ohio State in the championship game of the National Invitation Tournament.

The Huskies, 20-14 overall, finished the Big East regular season at 4-12 and have gone 14-1 against non-conference foes this year. The Huskies captured their first non-conference postseason tournament and denied Ohio State, the 1986 NIT champion, its second title in three years. Hundreds of fans waving pom-poms rushed onto the court when the final buzzer sounded.

THE HUSKIES HIT 8 of 9 free throws in the final two minutes and consistently broke Ohio State's pressure. Tate George added 14 points and Murray Williams had 13 for the Huskies. Jay Burson scored 16 points, Tony White had 15 and Curtis Wilson 13 for the Buckeyes, 20-13.

Connecticut reached the final of the 32-team tournament with victories over West Virginia, Louisiana Tech, Virginia Commonwealth and Boston College in the semifinals.

Ohio State advanced to the final with victories over Old Dominion, Cleveland State, New Mexico and Colorado State.

With the score tied 46-46, Connecticut scored 8 straight points to take control of the game.

Steve Pikiell hit a three-pointer with 7:35 remaining to start the surge and Tate George followed with a steal and a breakaway dunk. Connecticut then forced Ohio State into a five-second violation on the ensuing inbounds and Gamble followed with a three-pointer to make it 54-46 with 6:36 remaining.

OHIO STATE CUT the lead to three points twice in the final 30 seconds but Pikiell and Murray Williams each converted one-and-ones to seal the triumph.

Trailing 27-25 at halftime, the Buckeyes opened the second period with an 11-3 run to take a 36-30 lead. Burson keyed the run with 7 points on a pair of layups and a three-pointer.

The Huskies, however, countered with 7 straight points, with Gamble completing the run with a three-pointer, to take a 37-36 lead.

The Huskies led 27-25 after a first-half highlighted by a shooting duel between Gamble and Wilson. Wilson finished the half with 9 points and Gamble scored 13 on 5-of-8 shooting, including 3 for 5 from three-point range.

Celtics pleased with ex-Hawk's versatility

By Michael Trilk
The Daily Iowan

CHICAGO — When the news hit Iowa that a boy who had grown as tall as the corn grows was coming to play basketball for Lute Olson's Hawkeyes, naturally the Iowa faithful figured the new recruit would play at center.

But not all things are what they seem.

When Brad Lohaus signed his letter of intent with Iowa, he figured he was headed for smooth sailing in a well-known, sound program. Things didn't really pan out that way.

After an uneventful freshman season at Iowa, Lohaus was thrown his first curve. Olson, the man who recruited Lohaus, resigned his position at Iowa and moved to the head coaching job at Arizona. Lohaus was from Arizona.

LOHAUS DECIDED to stay, figuring he was still better off in Iowa City. After all, he was Iowa's first seven-foot recruit, the Hawkeyes had been to five straight NCAA tournaments. Surely there must be a place in Iowa's future for a guy that tall.

George Raveling replaced Olson and after one year under the new coach, Lohaus was redshirted. At first it appeared the year away from basketball did Lohaus no good. But remember, not all things are what they seem.

Now Lohaus is playing with the Boston Celtics. He isn't a superstar but he's in the NBA just the same.

Lohaus' transformation took place just before his senior season. Raveling left for USC and in came Tom Davis, who switched the seven-footer from center to forward. That didn't draw much attention, but when Lohaus took a liking to the new three-point line, eyes were popping. So was Lohaus. All of a sudden he was reborn.

"IT DOESN'T surprise me,"

"Where would Brad Lohaus be without that fifth year?" says Iowa Coach Tom Davis.

said Raveling, who has not had a winning season at USC since taking over the program two years ago. "I told him he was going to be a pro prospect. I remember telling him that I would regret if he didn't get into a position to be a high draft choice. Maybe it took my leaving to do so."

Redshirt years are common among college freshmen and injured upperclassmen, but not for healthy upperclassmen. At first it seemed the redshirt year only hurt Lohaus, but current coach Davis said it helped in the long run.

"What happened to Brad Lohaus really weighs heavily in my mind," Davis said. "Where would Brad Lohaus be without that fifth year?"

Surely not in the NBA, and certainly not playing with the likes of Larry Bird, Kevin McHale and Danny Ainge. Strange as it sounds, Lohaus is now a Boston Celtic. Even stranger is that he fits in.

"THERE IS NO question he fits into the Celtics organization," Celtics Coach K.C. Jones said. "His attitude is good, he's a hard worker and he's enthusiastic. It's all the good stuff."

"I love it," Lohaus said. "Just waking up in the morning I was pinching myself. I still am. It's something that very few people get to do and I'm one of them and I'm enjoying myself."

If it weren't for the switch from center to forward, Lohaus wouldn't be in the NBA. Lohaus played at Iowa with Greg Stokes, Michael Payne and Kevin Gamble. All three were drafted by the NBA. Payne was cut by the Houston Rockets, Stokes played one year with Philadelphia and Gamble is currently playing for the CBA's Quad-City Thunder after starting his season with the Portland Trailblazers.

Why did Lohaus make it when the other three didn't?

THERE WAS SOME luck involved. It is easier to become a doctor or a lawyer than it is to make the NBA. Gamble was drafted by a team that is too deep at his position. Payne and Stokes were inside players in college but neither could handle the inside game of the NBA. Lohaus had an ace in the hole.

He's a seven-footer that can shoot from the outside.

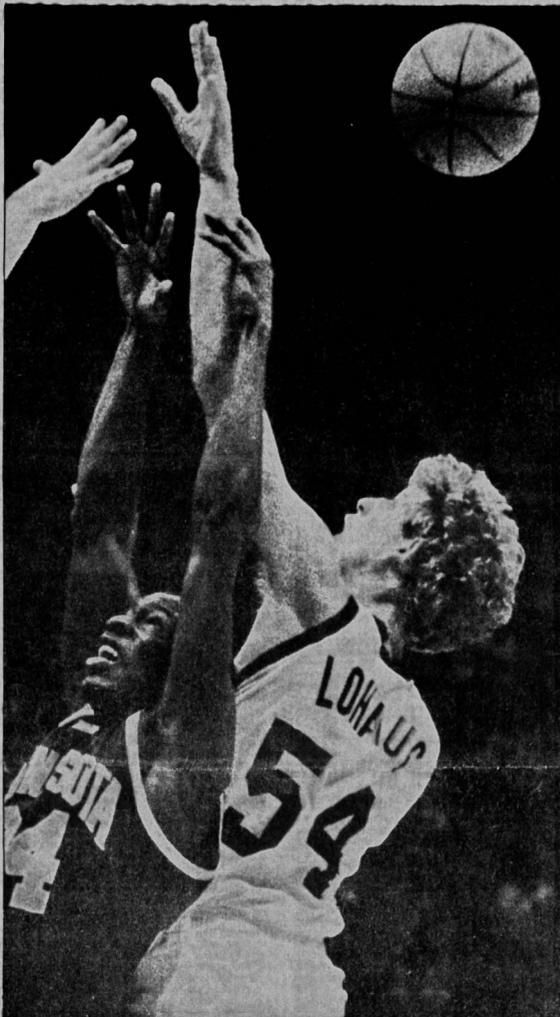

"We didn't really look at him as a center," Jones said. "We were impressed with him as a guy who can shoot from the outside, who had some speed and was a good passer. He has some size on him but we just liked what he had."

In the college ranks, a seven-footer is a giant, but he's just a little over the average height in the NBA. No longer is Lohaus a center.

"I THINK I'M more oriented toward the forward spot," Lohaus said. "At center that's a big role to fill. For one thing I don't weigh enough. I'm big enough but I don't weigh enough to go in and battle with those guys every day. If I get more strength and gain more weight, maybe. But right now it's going to be strictly forward."

Being a Celtic is one thing, but breaking into the Celtic's starting lineup is another. As a rookie Lohaus isn't too worried about playing time. Jones figures to bring him along slowly.

In a March 18 game against the Chicago Bulls, Lohaus came off the bench, grabbed an offensive board and scored. The next two trips down, Lohaus missed a 10-footer and turned the ball over. He is definitely a rookie.

Former Iowa center Brad Lohaus, now a reserve with the Boston Celtics, has been moving his game to new heights.

"I THINK THIS year I need to play consistent," Lohaus said. "Tonight I came in, got the offensive rebound and scored real quick but then I had two turnovers and they're not looking for that. They're looking for me to come in and keep the pace going and not screw things up. "I'm learning more in practice than I do in games," Lohaus added. "Going up against Larry (Bird), Kevin (McHale) and Robert (Parish) every day helps. They're constantly pulling me aside and See Lohaus, Page 5B

Lohaus, Celtics can't halt Jordan

By Hugh Donlan
The Daily Iowan

CHICAGO — Dreams, and history, are made of nights like this.

On March 18, 1988, the Chicago Bulls' Michael Jordan scored 50 points and the Bulls enjoyed a rare triumph over the Boston Celtics, 113-103.

It was a night that involved living National Basketball Association legends (Jordan and Larry Bird), former World Champions (the Celtics) and Jordanesque violations of gravity. And there was a mean game of basketball, too.

Only four times this season has an NBA player reached the half-century mark, and this game was Jordan's third such 50-point effort. It was also the first time the Bulls had beaten the menace in green in the hallowed Chicago Stadium since Dec. 17, 1985.

THE BULLS SNAPPED the Celtics' six-game winning streak and "Air" Jordan was worth his weight in gold, Olympic or otherwise. He was simply unstoppable.

Jordan overpowers Bird for a dunk Jordan darts from the key through the paint past Dennis Johnson, Kevin McHale and Robert Parish and scores on a left-handed layup. Jordan switches the ball from one hand to another in mid-air and scores. Jordan clears out the lane, goes one-on-one with the long-armed Kevin McHale and scores again.

Jordan's 17 points in the game's final quarter insured the victory.

The NBA's leading scorer was 19 of 32 from the field, sank all 11 of his free throws, dished off 9 assists and had 5 steals to go with 5 rebounds on this historic night.

Raveling revels in California comforts

By John Gilardi
The Daily Iowan

LOS ANGELES — Forget the won-loss record. Forget the media heckling of the team's performance. Forget the pressure from alumni to succeed.

George Raveling is a happy man. The former Iowa and now second-year Southern California basketball coach said despite a dismal 7-21 mark last year, "I thoroughly enjoy USC and I love living in Los Angeles. It's the happiest I've been in 20 years."

Who wouldn't agree? Year-round temperatures about the same as those during an Iowa summer without the humidity, an urban lifestyle, plenty of professional sports.

That's what Raveling likes — not being in the "media fishbowl."

IN LOS ANGELES, Raveling falls somewhere in line behind a host of professional athletes and a couple dozen movie stars. USC basketball coverage rarely makes the front pages and evening news, something far different from Hawkeye basketball in Iowa.

"Here, I'm just another coach. I come so far down the line when it comes to coaches that it's not funny," Raveling said. "But it lets you enjoy life in a more reasonable manner."

And if he had the chance to do it all over again, Raveling wouldn't even think twice.

"It's a fairy-tale situation," Raveling said about his move to USC and the transition of present coach Tom Davis to Iowa. "It's one where everyone walked away happy. I wouldn't change the situation for anything."

That's not to say living in Iowa was not reasonable, but the move West got Raveling out of the constant spotlight of cameras and reporters and fans bothering him whenever he stepped out in public.

BUT IF THERE is one nagging feeling about his tenure at Iowa, it's relationships that he's lost with some Iowans.

Following his departure in March 1986, Raveling said people who had called themselves friends stopped talking to him.

The 50-year-old coach said people represented themselves as friends for the wrong reasons.

"They didn't want to be friends with Rav, just the Iowa basketball coach," Raveling said. "I'm shocked that I never heard a word from a lot of people the day after I left Iowa. It was the biggest hurt — a lot of artificiality."

Raveling still keeps in touch with a friend in Iowa, who sends him videotapes of Hawkeye games when he cannot watch them on his satellite dish.

He watches every Iowa game. As a fan, he says "it was a heck of a year." He watches a group of players he recruited and only

Hawks have luau at Hawaii's expense

By Anne Upson
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa men's tennis team (13-2) defeated Hawaii (18-10-1) 8-1 Wednesday on the Klotz Tennis Courts.

Iowa Coach Steve Houghton said he saw powerful performances from Iowa's top three players — Claes Ramel, Martin Aguirre and Dave Novak — and Hawaii's top three — Steve Casey, Jim Murray and Yuri Sohn.

"Overall the meet went pretty well," Houghton said. "Their number one, two and three players were very good. They played very strong sets."

Houghton said a weak spot of the Rainbow Warriors was in the complete strength of the team.

"They were a pretty good team one through three," Houghton said, "but they fall off after that."

HAWAII ASSISTANT coach Blaine Comer echoed Houghton's evaluation of the team.

"Iowa has the depth in the lineup that we don't have," Comer said. "Our players, two and three, played extremely well. The win over Iowa's No. 3 guy was certainly a bright point in the match. Iowa played very well."

The Rainbow Warriors' only victory was a defeat over Dave Novak. According to Houghton, Novak struggled through the three sets against Hawaii's Yuri Sohn because he wasn't familiar with Sohn's technique of play. "Novak played well, he just wasn't used to the guy's (Sohn) style of playing," Houghton said. "He hung in there and hung in there. I'm happy with his play."

According to Comer, Iowa's dominating win over Hawaii doesn't reflect his team's true performance.

"I THINK WE are a decent team," Comer said. "Iowa deserved to play a better team

National League Capsules

(Listed in order of 1987 finish; 1987 record includes games won-lost, percentage and games behind.)

St. Louis Cardinals

1987 — First, 95-67, 586.
 Manager — Whitey Herzog.
 Manager's quote — "We have to compensate for the loss of Jack Clark. We more than anything else this spring, we have to see if we're going to be able to have enough run production."
 Spring developments — LHP Darryl Strawberry (shoulder) recovering from offseason surgery and has done limited spring training. RHP Lee Lacy (shoulder) also behind schedule. RHP Jose DeLeon, acquired from White Sox, pitched in the rotation. CF Willie McGee, who batted fifth last season, will hit third. Tony Pena will wear glasses while hitting and catching.
 Outlook — Team speed (248 stolen bases) is excellent. Todd Cox and DeLeon form basis for sound staff when all are healthy and Todd Worrell is proven closer. SS Ozzie Smith anchors second IF defense and typical speed outfield turns hits into outs. 1b Bob Horner is comparable hitter to Clark, but not as good an RBI man. Team hit only 94 home runs last season counting Clark's 35. Run production falloff without Clark was very noticeable. Should challenge for top spot again unless Mets run away with it.
 Last championship — 1987 NL pennant.

New York Mets

1987 — Second, 92-70, 568, 3.
 Manager — Dave Johnson.
 Manager's quote — "We could dominate this season, if there's any team that can dominate, it's this team here. It depends on the health of the ballclub."
 Spring developments — Darryl Strawberry criticized his teammates in Johnson's magazine article that could affect team chemistry. Rookie SS Kevin Elster will start. LHP Bob Ojeda comes out of long suspension. Last season, throwing without pain, LHP Sid Fernandez experienced back spasms. CF Lenny Dykstra, who will likely play every day, built up his body over the winter. Andy Barkley, lefty swinging catcher Mackey Sasser for backup.
 Outlook — Club looks like the class of the division. Potential premier pitching staff in baseball with RHPs Dwight Gooden, Ron Darling and Rick Aguilera, and Ojeda and Fernandez. Deep bullpen with Roger McDowell, Randy Myers and Dave Cone. Power up and down line. Ozzie Smith and speed with 3b Howard Johnson, Strawberry, Dykstra andookie Wilson. Age factor could be considered on CF Gary Carter and 1b Keith Hernandez (both 34).
 Last championship — 1986 World Series.

Montreal Expos

1987 — Third, 91-71, 562, 4.
 Manager — Buck Rodgers.
 Manager's quote — "Everything is upbeat and ready to go. We want to improve our defense and execute the way we did last year."
 Spring developments — LF Tim Lincecum pitched by sore shoulder. Rookie SS Luis Rivera will start. Hubie Brooks moves from SS to RF. CF Mike Fitzgerald missed most of camp because of bone fracture of right hand. LHP Neal Heston working on a changeup. Ron Shephard, impressive in build for OF job, sidetracked by chipped bone in right index finger. RHP Bryan Smith experienced muscular discomfort in throwing arm. RHP Pascual Perez missed first two weeks of camp because of visa problems. Obtained veteran Craig Nettles.
 Outlook — Outfield with Raines and Brooks may lack power but will produce runs. Corners sound with 1B Andre Dawson and 3B Tim Lincecum. Wallach. Set up the middle with rookie infielders and Fitzgerald. Starting pitchers Floyd Youmans, Heaton, Dennis Martinez, Pascual Perez, Sebba and Smith don't have great track records for consistency. Deep bullpen headed by Tim Burke. Probably not strong enough to beat out St. Louis and New York but should finish third.
 Last championship — 1981 NL East.

Philadelphia Phillies

1987 — Tied fourth, 80-82, 494, 15.
 Manager — Lee Elia.
 Manager's quote — "I feel strongly that running will be a big part of our game. I feel last year we had too many RBI people."
 Spring developments — Cy Young winner Steve Bedrosian (walking pneumonia) is on disabled list until April 11, sending either RHP Bruce Ruffin or LHP Don Carman to bullpen. Obtained CF Mike Young from Baltimore for utility OF Jeff Stone, 3b Rick Schu and OF Keith Hughes. Young can provide power and speed. Phil Bradley, obtained from Seattle, will play LF. RHP Darryl Strawberry, probable starter, developed sore elbow late in spring.
 Outlook — Beyond LHP Shane Bieber, Phillies starting corps is weak. Bullpen probably strong. Must find a better SS than Steve Jeltz. Teams ran at will against C Lance Parrish and pitchers. A solid lineup with a fine blend of speed and power, featuring 3b Mike Schmidt, 1b Von Hayes, 2b Juan Samuel, Parrish and Bartley. Last championship — 1983 NL pennant.

Pittsburgh Pirates

1987 — Tied fourth, 80-82, 494, 15.
 Manager — Jim Leyland.
 Manager's quote — "I don't want to be a spoiler anymore. I want to be one of the guys who gets the spoils."
 Spring developments — John Smiley, a much-sought after LHP, switches from bullpen to starter. SS Rafael Ramirez, behind Felix Fermin and Al Pedrique on the depth chart, hitting surprisingly well this spring. 1b Randy Milligan, 1987 International League MVP, obtained from Mets and will likely platoon with left-handed hitting Sid Bream.
 Outlook — GM Sid Thirt and Leyland have this team moving up. Outstanding young talent in OFs Barry Bonds and Andy Van Slyke, 2b Jose Lind, C Mike LaValliere and 1b Mike Diaz. Young pitching staff, led by RHP Mike Dunne, Doug Drebak and Brian Fisher, but excellent in last few weeks of season. Strong pen in Jim Gott and Jeff Robinson. Left side of the infield defense shaky with 3b Bobby Bonilla. No reliable left-handed pitcher.
 Last championship — 1979 World Series.

Chicago Cubs

1987 — Sixth, 76-85, 472, 18 1/2.
 Manager — Don Zimmer.
 Manager's quote — "If our young pitchers can come through we've got a chance to improve. We know we can hit. We just have to see if the pitching comes through."
 Spring developments — Chicago city council voted to put lights in Wrigley Field and Cubs scheduled to play eight night games there this season. Signed Andre Dawson to guaranteed 2-year contract. 1b Leon Durham missed some time because wife had trouble delivering baby. Zimmer will have OF Dave Martinez, SS Shawn Dunston and 2b Ryno Sandberg running more. RHP Calvin Schiraldi, a reliever in Boston, will start, but bothered by sore shoulder. LHP Scott Sanderson (back) out until at least June.
 Outlook — Despite sending Keith Moreland to Padres for reliever Goose Goslin, Cubs have plenty of power. Infield is strong with CF Jody Davis and Sandberg. Questionable pitching aside from Rick Sutcliffe. Chances for moving up to top of division are remote. Young pitchers must come through for club to contend.

San Francisco Giants

1987 — First, 90-72, 556.
 Manager — Tom Trebelhorn.
 Manager's quote — "I think we'll be back. We remember how close we came and all we accomplished. If we continue to improve, we'll be in it again."
 Spring developments — Craig Belliveau, Mike Aldrete, who filled at 1b and OF last season, is a superb hitter and wants to get him 600-200 at-bats. Starting rotation will be Dave Dravecky, Kelly Downs, Mike Krukow, Mike LaCoss and Rick Reuschel. Atlee Hamaker will be long reliever. Practically no competition for top job.
 Outlook — Giants are loaded with power from 1b Will Clark, OFs Candy Maldonado and Jeffrey Leonard and 3b Kevin Mitchell. Infield is strong. RHP Eric Davis, has been working out at 1b. Starting pitchers in general have looked good. Chris Sabo beat out Angel Salazar for utility IF spot.
 Outlook — Reds have strengthened starting pitching by adding LHP Danny Jackson, John Franco and Rob Murphy anchor solid bullpen. Outfield of Kal Daniels, David Bell and Greg Braxton can be explosive if healthy. Left side of IF strong with 3b Buddy Bell and SS Larkin, but right side is weak. A fourth straight second-place finish probable for Rose with first not out of question.
 Last championship — 1979 NL West.

Cincinnati Reds

1987 — Second, 84-78, 519, 6.
 Manager — Pete Rose.
 Manager's quote — "We've got a good ballclub. We know that going in. We're going to be a competitive team."
 Spring developments — Former ace RHP Mario Soto, seeking to rebound after two years of shoulder problems, will be opening day pitcher. Rose looking for a leadoff hitter among OFs Tracy Jones and Paul O'Neill and SS Barry Larkin. Eddie Milner, re-signed to back up CF Eric Davis, has been working out at 1b. Starting pitchers in general have looked good. Chris Sabo beat out Angel Salazar for utility IF spot.
 Outlook — Reds have strengthened starting pitching by adding LHP Danny Jackson, John Franco and Rob Murphy anchor solid bullpen. Outfield of Kal Daniels, David Bell and Greg Braxton can be explosive if healthy. Left side of IF strong with 3b Buddy Bell and SS Larkin, but right side is weak. A fourth straight second-place finish probable for Rose with first not out of question.
 Last championship — 1979 NL West.

Houston Astros

1987 — Third, 78-86, 469, 14.
 Manager — Hal Lanier.
 Manager's quote — "We have to play more consistent baseball. We did in 1986. We didn't in 1987. We have to move runners along, do a better job of bunting. We should score more runs. We have the speed to do it."
 Spring developments — Reports on LHP Jim Deshaies rebounding from rotator cuff surgery are optimistic. Free agent RHP Joaquin Andujar has apparently won starting job, moving Danny Darwin to bullpen. Reliever Joe Sambilo working on a sinker. 2b Bill Doran moves to cleanup spot. Search for viable backup to C Alan Ashby has been disastrous. Lanier given contract extension through 1989.
 Outlook — Kevin Bass, Gerald Young and Billy Hammer compose formidable young outfield. Mike Scott and Nolan Ryan head staff that could shine if relievers are healthy. Darwin will strengthen middle relief and Dave Smith is the 1987 — Fourth, 73-89, 451, 17.

Los Angeles Dodgers

 Manager — Tom Lasorda.
 Manager's quote — "I've never had this many questions since I've been manager. But would you rather have too much groceries in your refrigerator or none at all?"
 Spring developments — C Mike Scioscia, OF Kirk Gibson and SS Aldeiro Griffen were the only players assured of where they would be when season started. Manager's quote — "I've never had this many questions since I've been manager. But would you rather have too much groceries in your refrigerator or none at all?"
 Outlook — Fernando Valenzuela and Orel Hershiser still among top two starting tandems around, but rest of staff is shaky. Relievers Jay Howell, Ken Howell and Jesse Orosco come in good models of health and consistency. Gibson and Davis will add speed and punch to the attack. The bullpen, even with Gring at short, is poorer enough talent to challenge for second or third.
 Last championship — 1985 NL West.

Atlanta Braves

1987 — Fifth, 69-92, 429, 20.
 Manager — Chuck Tanner.
 Manager's quote — "We can be run productive this year. Our defense can do well. It all comes down to our pitching. But they're young, and not all young pitchers are thrown away."
 Spring developments — LHP Tom Glavine has been one of few bright spots in Atlanta's sorry platoon. Glavine has pitched well in two starts, two weeks because of a bone spur in his elbow. RHP Rick Mahler, a mop up man by the end of the season, will start opening day by default. He is a veteran and 40 on opening day. SS Andres Thomas bothered by sore right elbow. 2b Damaso Garcia (knee) probably will not start the season. RHP Pedro Martinez, LHP Dorey Don James may move to CF because of unproductiveness of Terry Blocker and Albert Hall. Reliever Bruce Sutter saw some action in the spring, but Braves are not counting on anything from not models of health and consistency. Gibson and Davis will add speed and punch to the attack. The bullpen, even with Gring at short, is poorer enough talent to challenge for second or third.
 Last championship — 1985 NL West.

San Diego Padres

1987 — Sixth, 65-97, 401, 25.
 Manager — Larry Bowa.
 Manager's quote — "When asked where he expected improvement, Bowa said, 'In all areas. Otherwise it's going to be another long year.'"
 Spring developments — NL batting champ Tony Gwynn had surgery to correct a tendon problem in his left index finger, but says he will be ready for opening day. Rookie 2b Roberto Alomar has impressed people and short relief Andy Rusling him and go with Randy Reed. Starting rotation will feature five right-handers — Ed Whilton, Andy Hawkins, Eric Show, Jimmy Stoen and Mark Gram.
 Outlook — Padres possess two franchise players in Gwynn and C Benito Santiago, along with RHPs Tim Lincecum and 1B John Kirt. Wallach. Set up the middle with rookie infielders and Fitzgerald. Starting pitchers Floyd Youmans, Heaton, Dennis Martinez, Pascual Perez, Sebba and Smith don't have great track records for consistency. Deep bullpen headed by Tim Burke. Probably not strong enough to beat out St. Louis and New York but should finish third.
 Last championship — 1981 NL East.

RHP Pedro Martinez, LHP Dorey Don James may move to CF because of unproductiveness of Terry Blocker and Albert Hall. Reliever Bruce Sutter saw some action in the spring, but Braves are not counting on anything from not models of health and consistency. Gibson and Davis will add speed and punch to the attack. The bullpen, even with Gring at short, is poorer enough talent to challenge for second or third.
 Last championship — 1985 NL West.

San Diego Padres

1987 — Sixth, 65-97, 401, 25.
 Manager — Larry Bowa.
 Manager's quote — "When asked where he expected improvement, Bowa said, 'In all areas. Otherwise it's going to be another long year.'"
 Spring developments — NL batting champ Tony Gwynn had surgery to correct a tendon problem in his left index finger, but says he will be ready for opening day. Rookie 2b Roberto Alomar has impressed people and short relief Andy Rusling him and go with Randy Reed. Starting rotation will feature five right-handers — Ed Whilton, Andy Hawkins, Eric Show, Jimmy Stoen and Mark Gram.
 Outlook — Padres possess two franchise players in Gwynn and C Benito Santiago, along with RHPs Tim Lincecum and 1B John Kirt. Wallach. Set up the middle with rookie infielders and Fitzgerald. Starting pitchers Floyd Youmans, Heaton, Dennis Martinez, Pascual Perez, Sebba and Smith don't have great track records for consistency. Deep bullpen headed by Tim Burke. Probably not strong enough to beat out St. Louis and New York but should finish third.
 Last championship — 1981 NL East.

Philadelphia Phillies

1987 — Tied fourth, 80-82, 494, 15.
 Manager — Lee Elia.
 Manager's quote — "I feel strongly that running will be a big part of our game. I feel last year we had too many RBI people."
 Spring developments — Cy Young winner Steve Bedrosian (walking pneumonia) is on disabled list until April 11, sending either RHP Bruce Ruffin or LHP Don Carman to bullpen. Obtained CF Mike Young from Baltimore for utility OF Jeff Stone, 3b Rick Schu and OF Keith Hughes. Young can provide power and speed. Phil Bradley, obtained from Seattle, will play LF. RHP Darryl Strawberry, probable starter, developed sore elbow late in spring.
 Outlook — Beyond LHP Shane Bieber, Phillies starting corps is weak. Bullpen probably strong. Must find a better SS than Steve Jeltz. Teams ran at will against C Lance Parrish and pitchers. A solid lineup with a fine blend of speed and power, featuring 3b Mike Schmidt, 1b Von Hayes, 2b Juan Samuel, Parrish and Bartley. Last championship — 1983 NL pennant.

Pittsburgh Pirates

1987 — Tied fourth, 80-82, 494, 15.
 Manager — Jim Leyland.
 Manager's quote — "I don't want to be a spoiler anymore. I want to be one of the guys who gets the spoils."
 Spring developments — John Smiley, a much-sought after LHP, switches from bullpen to starter. SS Rafael Ramirez, behind Felix Fermin and Al Pedrique on the depth chart, hitting surprisingly well this spring. 1b Randy Milligan, 1987 International League MVP, obtained from Mets and will likely platoon with left-handed hitting Sid Bream.
 Outlook — GM Sid Thirt and Leyland have this team moving up. Outstanding young talent in OFs Barry Bonds and Andy Van Slyke, 2b Jose Lind, C Mike LaValliere and 1b Mike Diaz. Young pitching staff, led by RHP Mike Dunne, Doug Drebak and Brian Fisher, but excellent in last few weeks of season. Strong pen in Jim Gott and Jeff Robinson. Left side of the infield defense shaky with 3b Bobby Bonilla. No reliable left-handed pitcher.
 Last championship — 1979 World Series.

Chicago Cubs

1987 — Sixth, 76-85, 472, 18 1/2.
 Manager — Don Zimmer.
 Manager's quote — "If our young pitchers can come through we've got a chance to improve. We know we can hit. We just have to see if the pitching comes through."
 Spring developments — Chicago city council voted to put lights in Wrigley Field and Cubs scheduled to play eight night games there this season. Signed Andre Dawson to guaranteed 2-year contract. 1b Leon Durham missed some time because wife had trouble delivering baby. Zimmer will have OF Dave Martinez, SS Shawn Dunston and 2b Ryno Sandberg running more. RHP Calvin Schiraldi, a reliever in Boston, will start, but bothered by sore shoulder. LHP Scott Sanderson (back) out until at least June.
 Outlook — Despite sending Keith Moreland to Padres for reliever Goose Goslin, Cubs have plenty of power. Infield is strong with CF Jody Davis and Sandberg. Questionable pitching aside from Rick Sutcliffe. Chances for moving up to top of division are remote. Young pitchers must come through for club to contend.

Lewis begins quest for gold

By Scott Wingert
The Daily Iowan

Defending 136.5-pound Olympic champion Randy Lewis began a spirited defense of that weight class Tuesday night in New York City.

Lewis defeated 1986 world champion Khazer Isaev of the Soviet Union, 5-1, in a dual meet between the two wrestling superpowers at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum.

"It's a tight match, one with a lot of fighting," U.S. Coach Dan Gable said. "Isaev is having a real tough road trip. He's lost four of his last five matches."

Three other former Hawkeyes —

Brad Penrith (125.5 pounds), Jim Heffernan (163) and Rico Chiapparelli (180.5) — all fell to their Russian counterparts as the Soviet Union defeated the United States, 6-4.

LEWIS, IN HIS first competition at 136.5 pounds in 1988, fell behind the Soviet on a first-period takedown, but rallied back with a takedown and two-point tilt to take command and win the match.

Chiapparelli, currently ranked second in the United States at 180.5 pounds, lost to Alexander Tambovtsev, 4-3, on a 3-point roll in the first period off Chiapparelli's own maneuver.

"He (Chiapparelli) went for the big move," Gable said. "He scored three takedowns, but he still needs to create more scoring opportunities for himself."

Penrith lost a 6-2 decision to Ruslan Karaev, a wrestler Iowa assistant coach Barry Davis defeated, 5-2, on his fourth try in Iowa City last April.

Heffernan scored the first takedown against Nasin Gadjichanov, but had to default with a knee injury after Gadjichanov rallied to lead, 7-1.

Other U.S. wrestlers to post victories were Ken Chertow (5-4 at 114.5 pounds), Kirk Trost (default at 220 pounds) and Bruce Baumgartner (Heavyweight).

Intramural champion decided

By Bryce Miller
The Daily Iowan

"The Pete Rose of intramural racquetball."

That is the light-hearted definition Recreational Services graduate students use to describe Bill Blanchard.

At age 42, Blanchard preaches a gospel that ascending age doesn't have to mean descending activity. And he's backing up his words by competing with men half his age not even fair to compare any of the competition to Bill. He's hands and feet above the rest."

The Daily Iowan/Scott Norris

Bill Blanchard, a 42-year-old teaching assistant in Leisure Studies, goes after the ball during a recent match in the Field House. Blanchard makes it a habit of beating players younger than himself.

The accolades were reciprocal when Blanchard gave his views on the champion.

"He (Brechon) used excellent shots to keep me off balance," he said. "He combines a lethal combination of power and strategy to overcome his opponent."

WILL THIS BE the swansong for Bill Blanchard? Not hardly.

Blanchard is in his first year of working towards a Ph.D that should keep him at Iowa for awhile.

And besides, he wants another shot at Brechon.

• April 8 will mark the entry deadline for four intramural events.

Softball, coed tennis (singles are offered during the fall term), frisbee golf and ultimate frisbee will be starting soon.

Softball has a $15 fee. That includes a $10 forfeit fee that will be returned if competitors participate.

Coed tennis has a yet undetermined ball fee. Frisbee golf and ultimate frisbee will be provided at no cost to those interested.

• If you have any questions concerning intramurals contact any of the graduate assistants in Field House Room E216 or call 335-9293.

... and teaching them a few tricks.

Blanchard strolled easily through competition leading to the finals, held just prior to spring break. There he faced three-time defending champion Scott Brechon.

In a highly competitive match that started out close, Brechon used his "pure power," as Blanchard later called it, to breeze to a 15-7 victory in the first game of the best-of-three series.

GAME TWO WAS a rerun of the first battle, with Brechon proving too much for Blanchard in posting an identical 15-7 victory.

As both men caught their breath following the decision, the now four-time champion Brechon had nothing but praise for his opponent.

"Bill was easily my toughest match," he said. "The score may seem to indicate otherwise, but it's

Area radio station loses wager

Arizona's needy will be fed a 20-pound ham, thanks to a bet Iowa City radio station KRNA lost to radio station KLPX in Tucson. KRNA bet the ham on the Iowa-Arizona basketball game last Friday. The ham is being shipped by the Amana Meat Market, a place where Arizona basketball Coach Lute Olson used to shop when he coached the Hawkeyes. KRNA has made several bets in the past with other radio stations. After the Hawkeyes lost the 1986 Rose Bowl, the station flew a KROQ disc jockey from Los Angeles to Iowa.

Lacrosse club will host Wisconsin

The Iowa Lacrosse Club will host Wisconsin Saturday April 2 at 1 p.m. at Union Field.

Iowa bowler to compete at nationals

Iowa bowler Jennifer Swenson will compete in the Women's National Collegiate Championships at Reno, Nevada, April 2-5. Swenson advanced to nationals by winning the regional tournament at Mankato State in February. She averaged 180.77 in 18 games during that segment of the competition.

Milwaukee may get indoor soccer team

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Owners of the Milwaukee Wave have had talks with operators of Minnesota and Chicago teams in the Major Indoor Soccer League about the possibility of getting one of them moved to Milwaukee, a newspaper reported. The talks have been most intense with the Minnesota Strikers, The Milwaukee Sentinel said in its Wednesday edition. The Strikers lead the MISL Eastern Division and are considered among the favorites to win the league title.

With eight games remaining in the regular season, the Strikers lead their division but are at the bottom in attendance, averaging 5,770.

Killy joins 1992 Olympic committee

ALBERTVILLE, France (UPI) — The committee organizing the 1992 Winter Olympics voted unanimously Wednesday to expand its membership to include former triple alpine gold medalist Jean-Claude Killy.

Killy, 44, had agreed earlier this month to rejoin the Olympic Organizing Committee (COJO) as a co-president, one year after his resignation from the group had caused a public furor.

"I had bet $100 with (International Olympic Committee) President Juan Antonio Samaranch that I would not return, and I have lost," Killy said. "With a project such as this one, it is difficult to stay on the outside when you have the chance to be on the inside."

Reds' Milner suspended for 1 year

PLANT CITY, Fla. (UPI) — Cincinnati Reds outfielder Eddie Milner has been suspended without pay for one year because of a second episode of cocaine use, club officials announced Wednesday.

Milner, 32, underwent treatment for cocaine use early last season while with San Francisco and returned to play for the Giants at mid-season. He became a free agent in the off-season and was picked up by Cincinnati, the team he had spent his entire career with before being traded to the Giants a year ago.

Reds officials said Milner disclosed his continued use of cocaine Wednesday in a meeting with club general manager Murray Cook and team physician Warren Harding.

Colorado State wins NIT consolation

NEW YORK — Pat Durham scored 7 of Colorado State's final 9 points and hit a layup at the buzzer to lift the Rams to a 58-57 come-from-behind victory over Boston College in the consolation game of the National Invitation Tournament.

Oregon State suspends track and field

CORVALLIS, Ore. — Oregon State will suspend men's and women's track and field next year to help offset an athletic department budget deficit, school officials announced Tuesday. Indoor track and cross-country also will be eliminated next year. Oregon State currently has 70 men's and women's track participants.

Hazzard dumped by UCLA

By Mike Barnes
United Press International

LOS ANGELES — Walt Hazzard, whose Bruins stumbled to 16-14 one season after he was named Pacific-10 Coach of the Year, Wednesday was fired as basketball coach at UCLA.

No replacement was named for Hazzard, who as a flashy play-making guard helped the Bruins win the first of their 10 NCAA championships 24 years ago. He leaves with a 77-47 coaching record over four seasons.

UCLA, playing a demanding schedule, got off to the worst start in school history and ended the season with a 73-71 loss to Washington State in the first round of the Pac-10 Tournament in Tucson, Ariz.

AFTER THE LOSS, Hazzard criticized his players for giving up, and guard Pooh Richardson agreed, but tearfully added he and his teammates — and not the coach — was to blame.

Hazzard was hurt earlier in the season by the loss of Greg Foster, a 7-foot sophomore center, who left to transfer to Texas-El Paso.

"We appreciate Walt's many years of contribution as a student-athlete and alumnus, and his four years of service as head basketball coach," Chancellor Charles Young said in a statement. "This was an extremely difficult and painful decision to make, but we felt that it was in the best interest of the UCLA basketball program to make a change at this time."

Hazzard, 46, a disciple of former UCLA Coach John Wooden, appeared on the verge of restoring the Bruins to their glory days of old after leading the team to a 25-7 record last year. UCLA won its first Pac-10 regular season crown since 1982-83, then captured the inaugural conference tournament at Pauley Pavilion.

THE BRUINS, though, were eliminated in the second round of the NCAA Tournament by Wyoming, and slipped badly this season. This year, they lost to Temple, Brigham Young, St. John's and North Carolina in a 4-8 start. All those losses came at Pauley Pavilion, where the Bruins once seemed unbeatable.

Hazzard coached the Bruins to four straight victories to conclude the regular season, but UCLA was stunned by Washington State in the Pac-10 Tournament.

Bulls

FOR THE SELLOUT crowd of 18,676, even those fans who paid $100 for a seat at court-side, it was a show worth more than the price of admission. They had, after all, come to see Jordan defy gravity and the human imagination.

"Jordan singlehandedly dismembered and dismantled all of us. Nothing we tried could stop him," said defensive ace McHale, one of several Celtics who attempted in vain to contain Jordan.

"I think Jordan was ready for us even before he got up this morning. He turned it loose, then took it a step higher," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said.

"Against teams like the Celtics or Lakers, I have to raise my game to another level," Jordan explained, as if his 50 points were just another day at the office.

It is hard to imagine the game being played at any higher level. Not only was the audience captivated by the mind-numbing performance of Jordan, but it was also graced by the presence of another living legend, Bird, the epitome of hard work and dedication.

THE THREE-TIME league MVP gave his customary 110-percent effort despite assorted injuries that included a bruised achilles' heel, a broken nose and a fractured cheek bone.

How do you feel, Larry? "Fine," he replied with obvious displeasure, both feet and his right wrist soaking in ice.

Big game with the Bulls on Sunday, Larry?

"We'll be ready," Bird warily replied, more in disgust with the evening's result than in his own physical discomfort.

The NBA's third-leading scorer scored only 19 points, on 8-of-19 shooting, most of which came in the game's waning moments, far less than his 30-point average. Bird was understandably frustrated after witnessing such a performance, his own as well as Jordan's.

"I JUST COULDN'T hit my shots. Our defense was horrendous. We were out of synch all night and played sloppy," he said.

Late in the second quarter, Bird went down to the floor clutching his injured face only to return after the injury time-out. Then, in the fourth quarter, Bird again went crashing to the floor after being closely guarded on a shot by the Bulls' Jordan and Charles "Oak Tree" Oakley.

Enough was enough. Bird charged the referee and verbally expressed his displeasure, using language nobody's mother would be proud of. "I was lucky to make it out alive," he said. "I was taken down, and the official missed the call. That was uncalled for."

Bird was slapped with a technical foul and the crowd roared as if it had been told drinks were on the house.

On this night, they probably should have been.

Iowa junior Claes Ramel returns a shot to Hawaii's Steve Casey Wednesday at the Klotz Tennis Courts. Ramel defeated Casey in three sets 6-3, 3-6, 6-0. The Hawkeyes defeated the Rainbow Warriors, 8-1.

helping me with things." Jones is also helping the Boston rookie keep things in perspective. "He needs to work on his defense and posting up," the Celtics coach said. "He needs to work on a lot of things but he's got a lot of talent. If he gets out there and works every day on his defense and how to get a shot and work on his hook shot then he'll be all right. He's in a learning process right now and he might get a few minutes or he might get none. He is going to be nice for us."

LOHAUS FITS IN with the Celtics away from the game, too. While at Iowa he had several nicknames but the one that stuck was "Dog." Since being drafted he's become Boston's newest "Bird." The Celtics refer to him as "Big Bird" because he resembles the Sesame Street character of the same name.

From a forward's point of view, Lohaus hopes he can follow in Boston's other Bird's footsteps. One thing is for sure, though. Lohaus is no longer a Dog.

coached for one season, while no Davis recruit has ever played a minute for the Hawkeyes.

"I THINK THEY had another good season," Raveling said. "Some of the games Iowa lost were tough games to win to start with. It's hard to play away at Michigan and Indiana."

B.J. Armstrong, Ed Horton, Roy Marble, Kent Hill, Al Lorenzen, Jeff Moe, Bill Jones, Michael Morgan, Michael Reaves, Bart Casey.

All were recruited and coached as freshmen and sophomores by Raveling.

"We expected them to mature to where they are as juniors and seniors," Raveling said. "That's why we recruited them."

Raveling has kept up the recruiting at USC — 10 new players were on last year's team, one which shot only 43 percent from the field and averaged 62 points and 33 rebounds per game.

On the court, the Trojans set such "records" as worst season start (1-7), worst loss (44 points, 92-48 at Arizona) and most turnovers (474).

THE LOCAL MEDIA helped Raveling and his 16 players remember that during the season.

Headlines from L.A.-area newspapers include: "Trojans can't turn over new leaf," "When UCLA needs a break, USC provides" and "It's going from bad to embarrassing for USC."

Still, such media attention doesn't seem to bother Raveling. He admits the first two years have been rough, but he said when hired it would take at least three to four years to start turning the program around.

"We've just got to get better players. We have every confidence we'll get the job done," Raveling said. "It's a challenge to prove you can put together a winning program."

than they did. I know we can play better.

Houghton said the win over Hawaii still didn't display the team's full force. He said he was concerned about upcoming Big Ten matches.

"I am pleased with our win over Hawaii," Houghton said, "but I'm not convinced about our strength. We still are getting ready for the Big Ten season."

Comer said the Rainbow Warriors travel to the continental United States twice within the season.

Hawaii's remaining stops on their tour include Notre Dame, Michigan State, and Aurora (Ill.)

Father, Amerasian son unite

United Press International

DAVENPORT — A Davenport man and his 17-year-old Amerasian son Wednesday began the first full day of their new life together in the United States.

John Wakefield, 53, and his Vietnamese son, Mathew Tran, whom Wakefield had seen only in photographs since his birth in Vietnam in 1970, held a tearful first meeting at the Quad-City Airport in Moline, Ill., Tuesday night.

Tran, who was accompanied by his mother, Toi Tran, on flights from Vietnam to Bangkok, Thailand, San Francisco and Moline, does not speak English but he and Wakefield still managed to communicate their feelings through hugs and kisses.

"This is really fantastic," said Wakefield, who was joined by about 40 well-wishers at the airport welcome. "When you feel someone and hold them, you can tell if they care."

THE SCENE culminated Wakefield's efforts for the past five years to get his son out of Vietnam.

Speaking through an interpreter, Mathew Tran said: "I'm glad to be in this country so I can get an education and be a lawyer, an engineer or a doctor and make my father proud of me."

Wakefield said he planned to take the rest of the week off at work to spend time with his son, who will enroll at Davenport West High School and likely begin classes next week.

'A New Life' leaves Alda in nice-guy limbo once again

By Kevin C. Kretschmer
The Daily Iowan

Alan Alda is a member of a select group — he's a hyphenated filmmaker. Like Woody Allen, Warren Beatty, James L. Brooks and Henry Jaglom, Alda takes on the major creative responsibilities of his films. In this case he serves as actor/director/writer of A New Life — which is fitting because its structure is hyphenated.

A New Life, a pseudo romantic comedy on the problems resulting from a mid-life divorce, is a loose collection of character types, "happening" places and "in" activities. Thanks to Alda's sharp eye and witty writing, this amalgam — from transvestite muggers to racquet clubs — does spawn some hearty laughs. This approach often favors one-liners at the expense of structure; still, A New Life is not just an assortment of jokes devoid of any deeper meaning.

THE BREAKUP of Steve and Jackie Giardino's (played by Alda and Ann-Margret) 30-year marriage forces a return to the single world, which proves a rough transition for both. After several false starts, Steve takes up with a feminist doctor (Veronica Hamel), while Jackie strikes up an intense relationship with a sculptor/waiter (John Shea).

Shea's character Doc is best described by his possessive nature, and the picture's theme turns out to be about possession, or degrees of it. Each of the leads is searching for a level of control in life that will allow room for the complementary presence of another person.

Surprisingly, and despite the constant impression that A New Life has the air of a glorified telefilm, Alda doesn't settle for pat solutions to his characters' problems.

ALDA SPORTS a graying beard and curly perm to help cancel any afterimages of Hawkeye Pierce which the audience might have. Instead of appearing as the good-natured, sensitive guy, he plays a character with his share of faults. Ann-Margret is as talented as she is beautiful, and Hamel comes off with a warmth and humor she had little chance to display on "Hill Street Blues."

The biggest beneficiary of Alda's script is Hal Linden, as Steve's fellow stockbroker and friend Mel Arons, who describes himself as "a shallow but happy man." Linden's role is not integral to the workings of the plot, so he's free to spread his considerable charm without any responsibility for carrying the film.

Alda has yet to make an outstanding film. His past efforts (The Seduction of Joe Tynan, The Four Seasons, Sweet Liberty) have been pleasant diversions but have not lived up to the expectations that "M*A*S*H" engendered. A New Life keeps him in pleasant limbo while his fans wait to see if he can break out and really deliver some taste of the genius of the 4077th.
