Week of Young Child held
The National Association for the Week of Young Child, celebrated April 8-14 in the Iowa City area, is a month-long event that promotes play and active learning for children, aged 3-6 years old.

Celebration of the Young Child will be held April 8-14 with events ranging from the Iowa City Public Library to local daycares and schools. This week-long event provides a variety of activities and workshops for children, their parents, and others interested in the development of young children and their families. It will promote understanding and information for caregivers and parents.

As part of the week, the Iowa City Public Library will host a variety of events, including storytimes, crafts, and games. The library will also have a display of books and materials related to young children and their development.

The week will also feature visits from guest speakers, including experts in early childhood education and development. These speakers will discuss topics such as the importance of play and active learning for young children.

In addition to the library events, the Iowa City Community Foundation will sponsor a variety of activities, including workshops for parents and caregivers, and classes for young children. These workshops will cover topics such as early childhood literacy and the importance of play in young children's development.

The week will also feature visits from guest speakers, including experts in early childhood education and development. These speakers will discuss topics such as the importance of play and active learning for young children.

Funding increase prompts 24-hour broadcasting

By Cathy Jackson

Due to an increase in funding, local radio and television stations may make a series of changes in their programming schedule beginning this fall.

Many radio stations WUIAM-FM and WUSD-TV have had an increase in funding for the coming year. This increase is part of the UI Student Activities Board's (SAB) new funding proposal.

The UI Student Activities Board in the spring, as a part of its efforts to increase funding and the quality of programming, decided to increase the number of hours a day the stations were on the air.

UI students at radio station KXIA also will be increasing programming hours.

"We're planning to increase programming hours for the early morning, night and weekend hours," said Mark D. Ewe, director ofofs the University of Iowa Radio Station.

The UI Student Activities Board is requesting an increase of $9,000 to the UI Radio Station. The extra funding would allow the station to increase programming hours and to pay increased salaries for personnel.

Currently, the station is on the air from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. daily with no nights or weekends.

The SAB is planning to increase the hours of KXIA to 24 hours a day.

"Our main goal is to provide a better service to the people of the community," said Mark D. Ewe, director of KXIA.

The SAB has asked the University of Iowa for an increase in funding to the University of Iowa Radio Station. The extra funding would allow the station to increase programming hours and to pay increased salaries for personnel.

"We believe that we can provide a better service to the people of the community if we increase the hours of programming," said Mark D. Ewe, director of KXIA.

The SAB is planning to increase the hours of KXIA to 24 hours a day.

Superdance hopes to raise $5,000 for MDA

Dancing, music and Spuds will highlight April 8-9 dance marathon

Medical studies have found that electro-acupuncture (EDA) involves placing an electrode on the skin in the vicinity of the area to be treated and then administering an electric current. "This is our first big project we've done since we've started. We're not really like our group is a big money-maker," Frey said. "We're really into the research that we're doing every year."

Frey said the money raised will not be limited to a specific cause. "Whatever we feel like," Frey said. "We're trying to keep it going and raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association." The MDA has a goal of $5,000.

Karen Newman, president of the Iowa State University chapter of MDA, said that Iowa State's chapter has raised $1,300 so far. "We're going to be dancing and having fun," Newman said. "We're trying to get our campus involved in the group service coordinator." Bohl said. "The money raised will be used here in states Iowa where you would be helping patients right next door." Newman noted that the group is working hard to get as much money as possible to help those with muscular dystrophy.

The Dance Marathon, also known as Superdance, will be held from 1 p.m. April 8 until 4 p.m. April 9 at the Union. "We will make money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association," Newman said. "The organization has an goal of 100 to 120 dancers and is hoping to raise $5,000, according to the group's director, junior Julie Stenfelt.

"It will be people dancing and having fun for our group service coordinator," Bohl said. "The money raised will be used here in states Iowa where you would be helping patients right next door."

Newman said that the group is working hard to get as much money as possible to help those with muscular dystrophy.

"With this money, we'll be able to continue our research and help people who are affected by muscular dystrophy," Newman said. "We're trying to keep it going and raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association." The MDA has a goal of $5,000.

Dentistry's chair may 'electrify' patients

By Joseph Tuchfarber

The Daily Iowan

"It is still the experimental stage of this procedure, which means we have not fully explored the different ways it could be used," Stenfelt said.

Admistering EDA involves placing a rigid strip of electrical stimulator on the skin in the vicinity of the area to be treated and then using an electric current through a strip of electrical stimulator to achieve the desired effect. "Once the current is started, the patient is given the meded that determines the amount of electrical sensation delivered, as they are responding to the impulse to their own threshold of pain," Jensen said.

"The specific effort of EDA is not to dull the pain, but to dull the pain of the individual, Jensen said. Part of the study conducted by his research was to determine which type of pain is EDA's effectiveness.

Herrnittot Logan, a physiologist, emphasized the need to know how to interpret the patient's pain and perception of pain and vary the type of condition.

"We found that the natural state of the individual to pain prior to procedure generally defined the maximum response," Logan said. "What we thought EDA would be a good alternative is patients were really phobic, what we actually found was that the procedure had the greatest amount of success among those who were not very sensitive to the skin."

The study concluded that those with high sensitivity to pain actually experienced more discomfort during abdominal surgery in China, and may be related to a"physiological phobia," Jensen said. "We actually found that those who had been taught or were exposed to the procedure had no discomfort without breaking the skin."

Panamanian opposition push for brokered end to conflict

By Douglas Farber

Panama City, Panama — The Panamanian opposition, faced with a crippling national strike and new tough-guy tactics by Gen. Omar Torrijos, decided Thursday to loosen the grip on the occupied territory. Three people were reported injured during the strike, which had been more than 30 percent successful at the peak last week.

Shoppers Jammed the supermarket, and hundreds making up for the long Easter holiday weekend, but other retail businesses were nearly empty.

Material has been closed because of a cash shortage since March. Government banking officials have been trying to repress the strike, but private banks and foreign companies in Panama are nearly bankrupt and some firms recalled a minor head from America.

The Hill — A former House Judiciary Committee aide said yesterday that Rep. James Ezelle, a North Carolina Democrat, is planning to call hearings in the House considering the use of military force in Grenada.

The aide, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Ezelle is concerned about the possible use of military force in Grenada and wants to look into the matter more closely.

The aide said Ezelle has been in touch with other House members about the issue and is likely to schedule the hearings in the near future.

Ezelle's actions are seen as a sign of growing concern in Congress about the situation in Grenada, where the United States has been involved in a military operation to support the installation of a democratically elected government.

The aide added that Ezelle plans to invite experts and witnesses to testify at the hearings, including military officials and experts on international law.

The aide also said Ezelle is looking into possible options for congressional action, such as resolutions or other legislation, to address the situation in Grenada.

The hearings are expected to provide a forum for members of Congress to discuss the implications of military force in Grenada and to consider appropriate responses to the crisis.

The aide concluded by saying that Ezelle is committed to ensuring that Congress has a clear understanding of the situation and to exploring all options that may be available to the United States in addressing the crisis in Grenada.

A late-term abortion at the request of the woman's attending physician, under Texas law is permissible in the first 20 weeks of pregnancy. The woman is under the age of 18 years. The abortion was performed by Dr. J. Thomas, a Houston gynecologist.

The woman of 18, who was married and had her first child in 1986, was said to be a student at a Texas university. She was not identified by name. The abortion was performed at the Women's Guidance Center in Houston.

A total of 125 women, aged 15 to 18, have been identified and referred to the Women's Guidance Center in Houston for abortions, according to Dr. J. Thomas.

The Texas law is the first in the nation to permit abortions at the request of the woman's attending physician, regardless of the woman's age. The law was passed by the state legislature in 1985.

The abortion was performed on Friday, April 1, 1988.

Way back in December 1986, Burton Garret Pace got nabbed outside Burge Residence Hall, fresh-fought from picking up the mail for his wife. He was convicted of the crime and served his time. But the SIU didn’t want him to leave without having his batty ignorance raised.

In a report released this week the Department of Education has determined that the 1986 gag order imposing the presumption of innocence on all 24 students dismissed from SIU’s residence halls violated due process and academic or professional freedom.

Jackson can win

I would like to respond to Wade Van der Valk’s comments in your newspaper (DI, March 23). Mr. Van der Valk is a facile writer with a hurdy-gurdy approach to his subject matter. As suggested in your editorial (DI, March 26) Mr. Van der Valk’s style should be read only by those with the leisure to render it any kind of justice.

My position is that the championship baseball team should be Jackson. Mr. Van der Valk has expressed his opinion that Jackson was and is the best, as recently demonstrated in an excellent April Fool’s Day letter to your paper.

I still stand by my original assertion that Jackson has the most potential to win the World Series. The team will be up to the challenge.

Understandable action

There has been considerable editorial and public reaction to the severe restrictions placed on the burial of the Queen Mother and the two British Royalty.

I believe the restrictions were understandable, given the extraordinary nature of that event. The Queen Mother was our longest-reigning monarch, a figure of national pride and a symbol of continuity and stability.

The restrictions were necessary to protect the privacy and dignity of the family and the public trust. The royal family has always been a focal point of national interest, and it is important to respect their wishes.

The actions of the police and security forces were appropriate and necessary. The death of the Queen Mother is a national tragedy, and it is important to ensure that the funeral and burial are conducted with due respect and dignity.

The restrictions were also aimed at preventing any disruption to the local community, which was already facing an extraordinary event. The police and security forces were working to ensure that the community was not negatively impacted.

In conclusion, the restrictions placed on the burial of the Queen Mother and the two British Royalty were understandable and necessary to protect the privacy and dignity of the family and the public trust. The royal family has always been a focal point of national interest, and it is important to respect their wishes.

between the Sandinistas and the Contras, there was a growing pressure on Capitol Hill, although Reagan’s allies in Congress, such as Senator William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Representative Steve Symms, R-Idaho, said he would like to extend the editorial “Cease-Fire” in Nicaragua by underestimating the commitment of the Nicaraguan government to the peace process. They called for a $100 million increase in the aid to the Contras.

Some Congress members, such as Senator Stafford, R-Vt., and Representative Lamb, D-W.Va., said they had no intention of cutting Washington’s involvement in Nicaragua. Senator Stafford, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the aid vote would be put on hold for a week so he could negotiate with President Reagan about the aid package.

Pope observes Last Supper
Holy Thursday rite marks crucifixion of Christ

By Peggy Polk
United Press International

ROME—Pope John Paul II knelt before 12 men Thursday night at St. Peter's Basilica and washed their feet, a gesture that has symbolized the Christ's redeeming power for centuries and it is now enacted in the basilica that is the living embodiment of the Church as the Emperor Constantine built it in the 4th century.

The 67-year-old pontiff celebrated the mass, the last public washing of feet of the year, in Lateran Palace. John XXIII revived the rite in 1959 when he washed the feet of 12 priests seated at the Pope's feet,

On March 25, 1938, 20 employees of University Hospital each pledged $5.00 to form their own financial cooperative. They chartered their organization the SUI Hospital Employees Credit Union. At the end of 1938, the Credit Union had 62 members and $400 in total assets. 50 years later, the same credit union is owned by over 18,000 members with over $53 million in assets and is known as the University of Iowa Community Credit Union. At 1987 year end, the Credit Union employed 38 of your neighbors with an annual payroll of $584,893. Local taxes paid totalled $42,770.

Thank you to the sponsors, members and past volunteer directors for their dedicated support over the past 50 years.

John Paul II knelt to wash the feet of 12 priests seated at the Pope's feet. The pope��st the foot of each of the 12 priests washed to a silver pitcher to meet the sacrifice of the Redeemer in the Eucharist during which he will be incorporated into the Church's mission to sanctify the world.

NCAA women's Final Four set for tonight

The Associated Press - The NCAA basketball women's Final Four has been set, and Iowa State is familiar with the national championship game.

The fourth-seeded Cyclones will face third-seeded Tennessee on Friday, March 17, in the final set of semifinals in Greensboro, N.C. The winner of that game will play top-seeded Tennessee on Saturday for the national championship.

Tennessee, defending champion, reached the Final Four by defeating second-seeded Missouri, 89-75, on Monday in the other semifinal.

Iowa State, which lost a heartbreaker to Tennessee in last year's championship game, won its second straight regional championship, defeating top-seeded Oklahoma, 71-63, on Monday.

Iowa State guard Charisse Dumas, who had a game-high 21points, was named the regional Most Outstanding Player.

Gammati criticizes collegiate sports

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — National League President and Iowa State athletic director Don Gammati has been critical of college sports in recent years.

Gammati, who served as Yale's athletic director from 1956 to 1960, said he is concerned about the emphasis on big-time events, particularly the Bowl Championship Series.

"It's not a good situation," Gammati said. "It's a business deal, and the coaches and players are going to have to keep up with it."

Young, Snider inducted into Hall of Fame

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — Former NFL running backs John Young and Ray Snider were inducted into the Alabama Sports Hall of Fame on Thursday.

They were among five inductees chosen by a panel of National and State Hall of Fame members.

Rothstein: College athletes deserve better

The Associated Press — College athletes deserve better than the system that currently rewards them, according to former NCAA president Neil E. Lasher.

"I think we need to do a lot more for our athletes," Lasher said. "We need to give them more opportunities to get an education and to make a living."

Hawks meet Maine in Pillsbury opener
By D. Hammond-Kurke
The Daily Iowan

Iowa will take on the Maine Black Bears in the opening game of the fourth annual Pillsbury Open at 3 p.m. today at the Grant Field.

The Des Moines Register finally will have a chance to witness the Maine Black Bears, the home of one of the most exciting teams in the nation. Maine has never had a losing season, and this year, the team is expected to be one of the best teams in the nation.

The Black Bears have a .360 batting average, and have outscored their opponents 9-8. Maine's top two hitters are hitting .356 and .346, respectively. The team is expected to put up a good fight against Iowa.

Baseball

Colin Bryan Taylor has a 2-1 record and a 3.86 ERA and will pitch against Maine. The game is expected to be a close one, and Taylor will need to perform well to keep the Black Bears from scoring.

Softball

John Olerude, who pitches and plays first base, is one of the nation's top players. With a .571 batting average and eight round-trippers and the team's top on-deck batter, Olerude is expected to lead the team to victory.

The Daily towns

The Boilermakers of the Big Ten, 4-1 in the conference, will meet Iowa, 3-0 and 2-1, Saturday at Kinnick Stadium.

The Boilermakers are coming off a dominating 8-1 win over Purdue. quarterback Art Schlichter last played for the club.

In his four years at Ohio State, Schlichter was the team's star quarterback.

CFL's Ottawa Roughriders sign Schlicter to 1-year deal

United Press International

OTTAWA, Ont. - The Ottawa Rough riders of the Canadian Football League announced Friday that they have signed former Ohio State and Indianapolis Colts quarterback Art Schlichter to a 1-year contract.

Schlichter, who was signed to a 1-year contract for the 1988 season, had been with the Canadian Football League club for two seasons.

In his first two seasons with the Roughriders, Schlichter played in 13 games and completed 55 of 127 passes for 733 yards and six touchdowns.

The agreement was reached Thursday to end the financial difficulties that the Reebok International Inc., owners of the NFL team, have been facing.

This morning we reached a tentative agreement that should eventually result in the sale of the club, owner Billy Sullivan.

Sullivan, the owner of the Indianapolis Colts, is expected to receive a $21 million loan.

The contract is said to be worth $1.25 million.

This is the latest in a series of moves that have been made to end the financial difficulties that the club has been facing.

The agreement that was reached today is expected to be announced in a few minutes time.

Kretschmer list is revealed

By Kevin C. Kretschmer

I've been wanting to compile a list of favorite movies for several years. As a lover of film, I've thought about actually going through my list of favorites and creating such a list. As of this writing, my list consists of approximately 2,400 titles. This list is a snapshot of my personal tastes, but I would be remiss if I didn't mention the influence of others. The cinema, in all its forms, has been a source of inspiration and wonder for me for as long as I can remember.

In the infectious American spirit, I have compiled a list of my favorite movies. This list is a testament to the power of film as an art form and a reflection of my own journey as a movie enthusiast.

The Graduate (1967) - Danny Aiello's character, a young musician, becomes obsessed with a philandering professor, leading to a series of comedic and romantic events.

The Trip (1969) - Director John Sayles' portrait of a group of friends on a road trip, filled with music, laughter, and adventure.

One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (1975) - Directed by Milos Forman, this film captures the power of the human spirit in the face of adversity.

The Sound of Music (1965) - Julie Andrews' musical performance as Maria Von Trapp illuminates the power of love and love for country.

Ben Hur (1959) - This epic film is a testament to the grandeur of the biblical epic genre.

The Boston film festival mixes results

By Martin Roman

Boston — It was an unqualified success for the Boston Film Festival, an important event in the world of independent cinema. The festival, held in the spring of 1988, was a celebration of the art of film, with a particular emphasis on American cinema.

The festival featured a wide range of films, from classics like The Godfather to more recent works like The Big Lebowski. The films were screened in venues across the city, and the event attracted film lovers from all over the world.

In addition to the art of film, the festival also showcased a range of events and activities, from panel discussions to Q&A sessions with filmmakers. The event was a testament to the power of film as a medium for social change and cultural expression.

The Boston Film Festival was a success, and it continues to be a highlight of the city's cultural calendar. The festival is a reminder of the power of film as a form of art and a form of expression, and it is a testament to the importance of supporting independent cinema.
