223 drug traffickers næbed in Sicily, U.S.

By Lori Santos United Press International

WASHINGTON - Attorney General Edwin Meese said Thursday authorities pierced "to the heart" of an international Mafia heroin ring and netted 233 traffickers in Sicily and the United States.

Meese, hailing the operation as the "largest international drug case ever developed by the federal government," said 69 suspects nationwide and 164 in Italy were charged with importing heroin into the United States from Europe and distri-buting it through a network stretching from coast to coast.

Officials said more than 100 arrests already had been made and more were continuing in New York, Los Angeles, Boston, Washington, Cleveland, Charlotte, N.C., and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

In New York, pre-dawn raids by 230 federal agents netted 32 suspects alone, among them a Catholic priest, authorities said. Seven others were being sought. Agents nationwide seized businesses, guns, jewelry and

"FBI AGENTS were able to work their way to the heart of the accused Sicilian Mafia organization," Meese asserted.

At a news conference in Washington where he repeatedly sidestepped questions about his own legal tribulations, Meese said the two-year covert operation would have "a significant impact on heroin imports into this country from Italy." The attorney general, however, acknowledged it was difficult to assess just how much an impact. Court documents in the case also revealed Sicilian Mafia involvement in the distribution of cocaine in the United States and pointed out an unusual barter system that included the export of cocaine from the United States to Italy, where it was exchanged for heroin that was smuggled into this country.

"The charges filed today repreent a stunning success for the FBI, whose dedication never wavered despite long months of the most dangerous, demanding undercover work," Meese said. The FBI, tipped to the well-organized network by the "Pizza See Drug Bust, Page 9A

Board sought to govern UI Hospitals

By Paula Roesler The Daily Iowan

The Iowa House Appropriations Committee Wednesday recom-mended the creation of a special board to govern the UI Hospitals and Clinics. But Rep. Mary Neu-hauser, D-Iowa City, Thursday said the proposal is just an attempt by legislators to attack the state Board of Regents, which currently governs UI Hospitals.

Legislators argue the Board of Regents lacks the time and the expertise to run UI Hospitals, but Neuhauser said those critics are just upset with the board - especially Board President Marvin Pomerantz — for partisan stands

"It is just a way for (legislators) to gain revenge against the regents," she said.

State Board of Regents President Marvin Pomerantz said Thursday UI Hospitals have an "excellent track record" and said "there is no reason a special board should be appointed to govern the hospitals."

IF LAWMAKERS adopt the proposal, which is part of a $621 million education spending bill, the UI Hospitals will be governed by a nine-member special committee under the jurisdiction of the state Board of Regents.

Neuhauser said the proposal is unnecessary because the regents already have the authority to create a special board.

"They don't need a special law to create a board," she said.

Creation of a special board is unwise because such an arrangement would separate certain functions of the hospital from others, she said, adding the colleges of Medicine, Pharmacy and Nursing, as well as basic scientific research, are integral to the functions of the

"As far as planning, it seems as if (hospital administrators) take disregard for the other parts of the university, but the creation of a special board would only exacerbate the problem," she said.

SEVERAL OF the regents are also against the proposed creation of a special board.

"I don't understand why there would be need for a special board," Regent Bass Van Gilst said Thursday. "I feel the University Hospital is tremendously well-managed.

"I have not found were there is a problem that would justify creating a special board," he said. "I can't see them doing anything new that they haven't done already."

Regent John M. Greig agreed: "I think the hospitals are run very well. There is no need for a board that not only costs money, but doesn't have the expertise to run

Currently, lawmakers disagree with hospital administrators over programs for low-income Iowans and developmental measures at the hospital.

Creation of the committee would take control of the hospital away from the regents and give it to the Democrat-controlled Legislature.

UI Hospitals and Clinics administrators were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The board of directors of Student Publications Inc., which governs The Daily Iowan, Thursday unanimously selected UI graduate student Chris Lamb as the 1988-89 editor of the paper.

UI senior Howard Brown, chairman of the SPI Board, said he is pleased with the board's choice. "Chris has a great deal of experience in journalism," Brown said. "He also is a teaching assistant in the Journalism Department and has experience teaching and nourishing new reporters.

"The thing I like best about Chris is his ability to teach and work with other reporters," he said.

Lamb will become editor June 1. He succeeds UI senior John Gilardi, editor for the past year, who will be an intern at the Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Brown praised the quality of the other applicants for the job.

"It was not a decision we made lightly," he said. "All the candidates turned in very good applica-tions. We were very impressed."

LAMB SAID Thursday night he is "happy" with the board's decision. He urged reporters and other staff members at the DI to stay with their posts.

"I think The Daily Iowan is in good shape for reporters right now," he said. "I'm not a yeller and a screamer. I want to be able to trust the editors and the writers. I want to get involved, too."

Senate approves Contra aid measure

By E. Michael Myers United Press International

WASHINGTON - The Senate approved and sent to President Ronald Reagan Thursday a nearly $48 million bill renewing humanitarian aid to the Contra rebels and supporting efforts to peacefully end the seven-year Nicaraguan civil

The Senate approved the bill, 87-7, with five Democrats and two Republicans voting against amid warnings the action amounts to selling out the guerrillas.

"For my part, it is too little, too late, too limited and too loaded with the stench of betrayal," Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., told the Senate before voting for the plan. "This proposal is nothing more than a Band-Aid on the conscience of Congress."

The proposal cleared the House on a 345-70 vote Wednesday, and President Ronald Reagan planned to sign it before he leaves today for an Easter holiday.

The bitterness that has divided Congress over Reagan's policies toward the Marxist-led Sandinista government he accuses of exporting subversion to Central America and his support of the "freedom fighters" resurfaced during the Senate debate.

Firm alleges needless costs for treatment plant

By Sara Anderson

The Daily Iowan

Iowa City could have renovated its current sewage treatment plant and saved approximately $15.6 million while still meeting governmental standards, according to an executive of a company which competed with Metcalf and Eddy for the Iowa City sewage treatment plant contract in 1983.

Michael Sweet, vice president of Parsons/Engineering-Science, a Cleveland-based firm, stated in a letter to Iowa City Manager Ste-phen Atkins dated September 11, 1987, his firm could originally have renovated the existing treatment plant for $22.7 million.

Sweet's firm recommended renova- Schmadeke.

tion of the existing Iowa City Pollution Control Plant, 1000 S. Clinton St., at a cost of $22.7 million which would have "in essence provided the city with virtually a new wastewater treatment plant," according to Sweet's letter to Atkins.

PARSONS WAS one of four firms originally competing for the city's sewer plant contract. The city awarded the contract in 1983 to Metcalf and Eddy, a Boston-based firm which proposed to design and build both a new plant on the south side of town and to renovate the existing one for $38.3 million, according to Iowa City Public Works Department Director Chuck Schmadeke said firms such as Parsons could easily claim lower costs are possible at this point in the project.

"I guess anybody could come forward with lower design costs now," he said. "But I don't know how viable those would be.'

Schmadeke said the city chose Metcalf and Eddy because the firm's submitted plans proposed using existing structures at the pollution control plant site, while Parsons' plans called for rebuild-

They (Parsons) wanted to totally rebuild on the existing site rather than reuse what was there," he said, adding Metcalf and Eddy also was perceived as a more qualified firm.

DURING THE bidding process, firms were asked to describe changes and costs involved in upgrading the existing plant to make it cost-effective over the next 10 to 20 years. Parsons proposed only renovation of the existing plant, while Metcalf and Eddy's bid provided for the renovation and for construction of a new plant.

Former Iowa City Manager Neal Berlin appointed a committee to hear the proposals of the firms and to make a recommendation to the city council as to which firm should be chosen. Sweet said city councilors were told in a 1984 meeting that proposals from the two firms were essentially the same.

"Someone reporting from the committee to the council said the two proposals were the same and I simply don't believe they were," he

Sweet said the city did not tell Parsons it desired a south plant, although the firm could have designed one had they been informed of the city's wishes. He said Parsons could probably still renovate, solving problems at the existing site for $30 million.

"IF THE CITY had wished us to build a south plant, we could have done that, too, at a guaranteed price," Sweet said.

Atkins said little could be done when Sweet wrote the letter because the city was already under contract with Metcalf and Eddy.

A UI College of Medicine student, Cynthia Grosskruetz, has been awarded a $10,000 predoctoral fellow-ship from Berlex Laboratories of New Jersey.

Grosskruetz will use the money toward continuing her research on central cardiovascular responses, focusing on the role of corticotropin releasing factor, a substance that is released by the hypothalamus, and the integrated cardiovascular responses that it evokes.

She works with UI Pharmacology Professor Michael Brody, who is associate director of the UI Cardiovascular Grosskruetz is working for master's and doctoral degrees while pursuing a career as a physician-scientist. During her fellowship, she will have the opportunity to present her research along with other Berlex-sponsored fellows in New Jersey.

Student receives $21,000

Cheryl Emmons, a second-year fellow at UI Hospitals and Clinics, has been awarded a $21,000 research fellowship from the National Kidney Foundation, according to Iowa affiliate Executive Director William Dyar.

Emmons is studying the role of PH in kidneys. His research will be funded by the National Kidney Foundation for the academic year 1988-89.

NSF gives $250,000 grant

Two UI reseachers have been awarded a three-year, $250,000 grant from the National Science Foundation to improve the quality of high-school geometry instruction.

Keith Stroyan, UI professor of mathematics, and Harold Schoen, UI professor of secondary education, plan to offer four-week summer workshops for select high-school mathematics teachers from across the state of Iowa beginning with 20 teachers in 1988. The participating teachers, in turn, will train their local colleagues.

Stroyan, principal investigator on the project, says need for the program arises from the fact that high-school geometry in its broadest sense forms a basis for understanding computer graphics, advanced science and mathematics. He adds that educators are proposing new instructional approaches.

The summer workshops will examine new textbooks and computer software, such as Geometry and Microcomputers, a computerized instructional text written by Stroyan and UI Mathematics Professor Robert Oehmke, and published by CONDUIT, a UI educational software publisher.

The workshop will be held June 13 through July 8 at the UI and will carry four semester hours of graduate credit. The National Science Foundation grant provides tuition, travel, room and board, plus a $200-per-week

Supervisors approve funds for Juvenile Justice costs

The Daily Iowan

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously Thursday to appropriate an additional $40,000 from the general supplemental fund to the Johnson County Juvenile Justice Department for fiscal year

The additional funds will help the department pay for costs resulting from juvenile detention and shelter fees which the Code of Iowa requires the county to pay.

According to Sixth District Chief Probation Officer Paul Nelson, it costs $113 per day for each juvenile put in a detention center and $80 per juvenile placed in a youth shelter.

stay in these facilities is only 12 hours, Nelson said recent exceptions to this rule were the reason additional funding was

"In these cases we're running the equivalent of a juvenile jail and this has resulted in a 50 percent increase in our budget,"

THE COUNTY juvenile justice department supervises the rehabilitation of juveniles aged 12 to 18 who are referred to the department by the judicial system after being found guilty of any delinquent act from minor misdemeanors to more serious felony offenses.

Despite the increasing cost of

The state is required by law to reimburse the county 60 percent of the additional expenditure. The remaining 40 percent, Nelson predicts, will be met by current revenues before the fiscal year ends on June 30.

As for ways of reducing the juvenile justice department's budget, Nelson said more offenders could be funneled through shelters rather than detention centers. This would save $33 per day for each juvenile, he said.

"It's not a cure-all," said Nelson, "but it will save a few

Senator predicts approval of riverboat gambling bill

By Scott Sonner United Press International

DES MOINES - Senate Majority Leader Bill Hutchins predicted a riverboat gambling bill will win Senate approval

Monday, especially if backers win the support of a maverick Republican whose district borders the Mississippi River. Sen. Jack Rife, R-Moscow, has been one of the leaders of the effort to resist riverboat gambling in the Senate, even though business leaders in his district support it as a way to spur the economy of the Mississippi River Valley. The bill legalizing the floating casinos fell one vote short of approval earlier this year, but Hutchins told reporters Thursday he expects to have enough votes to pass the bill the day after Easter.

"I don't know what Senator Rife will do, but I would guess given what his constituency wants he will be under quite a bit of pressure to support the bill," Hutchins said.

ASKED IF Rife's vote is critical to the bill, Hutchins said, "It would be nice to have

"We're counting votes now. I think we'll be okay. We're going to take it up the flagpole Monday. We're going to try to pass it. We may fail, but it's time we make the effort again," he said.

Hutchins said senators plan to reconsider an amendment by Rife which cut the number of riverboat casinos to be legalized from 15 to six. Rife wants the new compromise to be 10 boats, but Hutchins said he expects 12 to be the middle ground.

Such a deal likely would net six boats for the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, four for inland lakes and two for inland rivers.

limit per play for such games as black jack, roulette and slot

On another topic, Hutchins urged doctors to accept the medical malpractice package being pushed by House leaders.

"My understanding is the doctors still aren't happy. They still want caps," he said.

"Last year they were offered some reforms and the medical society didn't think it was enough and it ended up they didn't get any. I hope they don't overplay their hand again. They would not be well served by holding out too long."

The malpractice bill would establish an insurance pool for doctors who carry at least $500,000 in private liability insurance. The pool would be funded partially by a 1 percent surcharge on patients' hospital

UI Food Service manager awarded

By Jean Thilmany The Daily Iowan

UI Food Service Director Steve Bowers was recently named one of nine recipients of the International Food Service Manufacturers Association's 1988 Silver Plate Award, which is granted for superior management skills in the food service

Bowers received word in mid-February he had won the Silver Plate Award, the top honor in the university and college food services category. The award is granted to recipients in nine categories and all recipients become nominees for the Gold Plate Award, which will be awarded on May 23.

"I think this award is a credit to the UI and to the many people that work in food service," Bowers said. "I consider the award a team effort and I'm glad we were recognized."

Bowers, who received a bachelor's ory board which offers students a degree in hotel/motel management weekly opportunity to comment on from Oklahoma State University, has worked as director of UI Food Service since 1976. He said he likes the variety the job provides and the opportunity to interact with

BOWER, WITH the help of five food service managers, coordinates all aspects of UI Food Service, including preparing and serving meals daily for 6,500 UI residence hall students and 600 off-campus

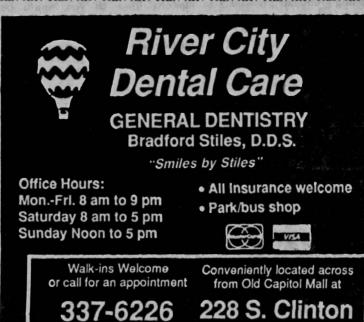

"Our responsibility is to administer the dollars we receive for the best meal we're able to offer," Bowers said, adding the UI Food Service was able to do this at less expense than at any other Big Ten

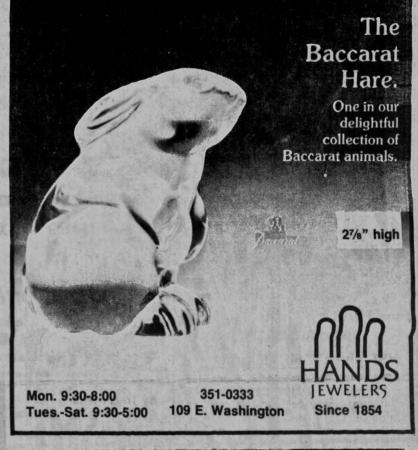

He said that he listens to student input when planning menus and has formed a student menu advisthe meals.

who pushed the measure through the legislature said the absence of Group aids new, older students

By Deborah Gluba The Daily Iowan

Formally recognized by the UI Student Activities Board in Februthe UI Non-traditional Student Group will advocate concerns of older students while providing them a social and informational outlet. The new student group will complete its official status when it seeks funding from the UI Student Senate Friday. Members include UI students who return to class several years after high school, are more than 25 years old or consider themselves non-traditional in any Non-traditional students comprised 31.8 percent of UI students enrolled last fall semester, according to a report issued by the UI Registrar's Office.

The group will ask for funding from the UI Student Senate today to support activities for the remainder of the 1988 term and to set priorities for next year's senate

THE UI Non-traditional Student Group started when several UI counselors noticed a need for support services for older or transfer students and organized its first meetings last fall.

"Non-traditional students had mentioned they felt isolated here," UI Center for Credit Programs Educational Adviser Susan Beadle

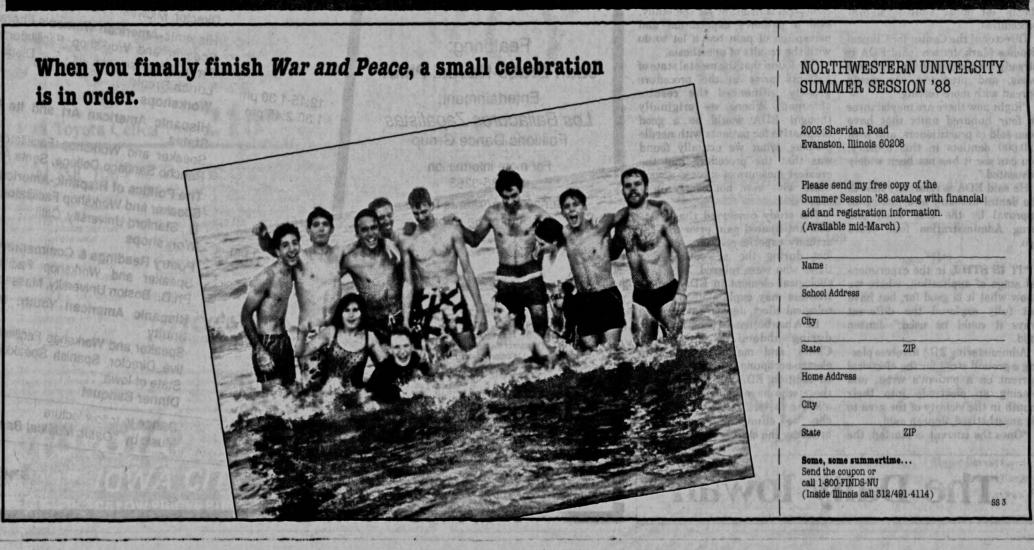

She said the group's primary concerr to provide a social atmopl to non-traditional stu-ents, all interest in the group has been strong.

Lynnea Halberg, UI Counseling Service senior psychologist and one of three group advisers, said the group is planning a spring picnic for members and their families, spouses and children.

"WE'RE WILLING to do whatever they want, as long as they make their interests known to us,"

The group meets weekly at alternating afternoon or evening times to discuss concerns and plan activities. The next meeting is April 6 from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. in the

Superdance hopes to raise $5,000 for MDA

Dancing, music and Spuds will highlight April 8-9 dance marathon

By Karyn Riley The Daily Iowan

Music by local bands and DJs and a special appearance by the original Spuds Mackenzie will highlight an April 8-9 dance marathon, sponsored by Iowa Cares About MDA, a fund-raising group comprised of UI

The Superdance, scheduled to be held from 7 p.m. April 8 until 7 p.m. April 9 in the Union Ballroom, will raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The UI organization has a goal of 100 to 150 dancers and is hoping to raise $5,000, according to the group's director UI junior Nicole

"It will be people dancing and having a good time for a good Scott said. "The money raised by this will stay here in eastern Iowa so you would be helping someone right next door."

The funds raised by the dance will go to research being conducted at the UI, according to the group's publicity chair Sue Newman.

IN THE PAST year, MDA's

eastern Iowa chapter has given more than $200,000 in grants to promote research at the UI. MDA's grants are made possible through donations and fund-raising events, according to Bobbie Van Hoeck, patient service coordinator for MDA.

Iowa Care members say they want the money to go to the UI primarily because of research done by UI Associate Physiology Professor Kevin Campbell, who, along with researchers at Harvard University, was the first to identify a proteinlinked to a severe form of the 4th Annual ing Spring Bicycling

"It's important to provide money for research now so people can have hope for their future," Scott said. "With the major breakthrough they've found here they can get closer to finding a cure.'

Although the majority of money for his research is funded by the U.S. government, Campbell said money raised by the MDA fundraisers is very helpful in furthering his research.

"Our research is leading to a greater understanding of the disease, which hopefully will enable others to develop therapies and possibly a cure," he said.

MEMBERS OF Iowa Cares About MDA, which was organized as a student group in September to devote time for planning the dance and promoting community awareness, said they hope the Superdance will become a major fund-

The first dance, held last year and sponsored by the national service fraternity Alpha Pi Omega, raised $1,300 with 70 dancers participa"This is our first big project we've done since we've started. We'd eventually like our group to be a big moneymaker," Scott said. "With our increased student recognition the dance will be are every year."

Prizes for the most plain. raised will include a V color television.

Dentist's chair may 'electrify' patients

By Joseph Euchner The Daily Iowan

You know those long, gleaming needles? The ones that pierce the roof of your mouth as you grip the examination chair white-knuckled? The popularization of an electrical anesthetic for dental surgery may someday replace this torture.

Researchers in the UI College of Dentistry recently completed stu-dies in the clinical usage of electrodental anesthesia, and found it can be effective in replacing local anesthesia for most routine dental

Director of the Center for Clinical Studies Mark Jensen said EDA is already used clinically on a limited basis, and predicted use would spread with more testing.

"Right now there are maybe three or four hundred units that have been sold to practitioners, and with 120,000 dentists in this country, you can see it has not been widely advocated.

He said EDA is relatively new to the dental industry and was given approval by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration four years

"IT IS STILL in the experimental stage of application, where we know what it is good for, but have not fully explored the different ways it could be used," Jensen

Administering EDA involves placing a ground strap for the electrical current on a patient's wrist, and placing an electrode into their mouth in the vicinity of the area to be anesthetized, Jensen said. "Once the current is started, the determines the amount of electrical current discharged so they can administer EDA themselves, corresponding the impulse to their own threshold of pain," Jensen said.

The specific effect of EDA is not fully understood and varies with the individual, Jensen said. Part of the study conducted by his team was to determine what role fear plays in EDA's effectiveness.

HENRIETTA LOGAN, a psychological consultant for the study, said a patient's expectation and perception of pain has a lot to do with the results of anesthesia.

"We found that the mental state of patients prior to the procedure greatly influenced the results obtained. Where we originally thought EDA would be a good alternative for patients with needle phobias, what we actually found was that the procedure had the greatest measure of success among those who were not overly anxi-

The study concluded that those who anticipated pain prior to EDA actually experienced more discomfort during the procedure than those who were relaxed. This psychological element in EDA's effectiveness may explain its pharmacological effect, Jensen said. EDA has been used experimentally during abdominal surgery in China, and may be related to electro-accupuncture, Jensen said. In addition, EDA may be useful for those who have hemophilia or are allergic to local anesthetics, as it can be administered without breaking the skin.

PANAMA CITY, Panama - The Panamanian opposition, faced with a crumbling national strike and new tough-guy tactics by Gen. Manuel Noriega, weighed a Catho-Church proposal Thursday to ha solution to the country's month-old political crisis.

Manuel Burgos, secretary of the Civic Crusade opposition coalition which has been pressing for Noriega to step down since last summer, said opposition groups were meeting Thursday to discuss an offer from Catholic Archbishop Marcos McGrath for the church to act as mediator between the Noriega regime and its domestic oppo-strike, previously had thought it could force Noriega's removal on its own. The strike was the result of Noriega's supporters ousting President Eric Arturo Delvalle from office after he tried to fire Noriega over the general's indictment in Florida last month on drug

But the strike's failure, combined with the arrest of more than 30 of its leaders Monday when Noriega ordered a bruising raid on a downtown luxury hotel, forced them to consider new tactics.

Burgos, a businessman, said "the strike is still on" Thursday. But the supermarkets and a major chain of pharmacies, plus many smaller businesses, already had opened their doors and abandoned the strike, which had been more than 95 percent successful at its Panama's banks have been closed because of a cash shortage since March 3. Government banking officials have said they hope to reopen by April 8, and Thursday began clearing a backlog of transactions.

But private bankers said the government-run National Bank of Panama is nearly bankrupt and that many fiscal and financial problems must be resolved before it could resume operations.

Israelis order end to closure of West Bank and Gaza Strip

By William B. Ries United Press International

JERUSALEM — Israeli officials decided Thursday to loosen the army's grip on the occupied territories, ordering an end to the unprecedented closure of the West Bank and lifting a three-day curfew on the Gaza Strip, where violent protests immediately erupted in U.N.-run refugee camps.

At least two people were injured, one by gunfire, during clashes with troops in the Jabalia and Rafah refugee camps. Three people were reported injured in protests on the West Bank over the long Israeli

And Maj. Gen. Yitzhak Mordechai, the army commander in Gaza, warned of harsher punishment against Palestinian rioters.

"If we have clear evidence that someone threw a Molotov cocktail with the intent of injuring soldiers and civilians traveling on roads, we against them, including the destruction of houses," he said.

In the past, destruction of houses of those implicated or their families was reserved for the most serious crimes, such as murder. The easing of restrictions on the West Bank and Gaza came as Israel attempted to control the widespread violence that erupted Dec. 9 among Palestinians seeking an end to Israeli occupation of Arab territories. At least 116 Palestinians and one Israeli soldier have died in the uprising.

The curfew on Gaza and the closure of the West Bank to incoming and outgoing traffic were imposed in an unsuccessful attempt to check violence during massive Arab demonstrations Wednesday on Land Day, protesting 20 years of Israeli occupation and government confiscation of Arab lands

At least four people were killed and as many as 100 were wounded during the massive protests Wednesday, Palestinian sources

During the curfew, the army destroyed illegal buildings in the Jabalia camp and arrested 300 people, state-run Israel Radio reported. In the village of Beit Hanun, the house of a person who threw a Molotov cocktail was bulldozed and part of a citrus grove, where stone-throwers hid, was uprooted, the station said.

The army's restrictions on the territories, announced Monday night, barred non-residents, including journalists, from entering the West Bank and stopped Arab residents from leaving. All 650,000 residents of Gaza were kept under virtual house arrest by

For much of Thursday in Tel Aviv, Defense Minister Yithzak Rabin, armed forces Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Dan Shomron, area commanders and intelligence officials discussed whether to extend the restrictions. They eventually decided to lift the Gaza curfew and reopen the West Bank as planned today.

The West Bank and Gaza were reported generally quiet Thursday, but there were scattered incidents of violence. Protests erupted in at least six West Bank towns and U.N.-run refugee camps. At least ople were reported injured in the West Bank.

The extent of the unrest was difficult to determine because, for a third day, reporters were denied free access to the territories.

Hasenfus: Bush knew of Contra aid

WASHINGTON - A manager of the Contra aid network said in 1986 that Vice President George Bush knew of possibly illegal White House efforts to channel military assistance to the Nicaraguan rebels, according to testimony made public Thursday. Eugene Hasenfus, a crew member on a Contra resupply flight downed over Nicaragua in October 1986, testified that he was told the private rebel aid network was "being run out of the White House and Bush knew things."

Hasenfus, in a deposition to the congressional Iran-Contra committees, said such remarks were made on several occasions by his boss, William Cooper. Cooper, who supervised other pilots and crews operating out of El Salvador for a private aid network, piloted the downed plane and died in the crash.

PTL pleads for protection from IRS

SPARTANBURG, S.C. — Attorneys for the bankrupt PTL argued in federal appeals court Thursday that its protection from the Internal Revenue Service must continue if it is to survive.

PTL lawyer Bradford Leggett said allowing the IRS to revoke the ministry's tax-exempt status would dry up donations and hamper its efforts to pay off a debt of about $70 million.

Arguments were heard by a three-member panel of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that convened in Spartanburg to hear PTL's appeal of a lower court ruling that removed tax-exempt privileges the IRS claims it abused.

The church-state battle has gone on since December, when U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Rufus Reynolds issued an order blocking the revocation, saying such an action would be a death knell for PTL, which saw its fortunes crumble with the resignation of Jim and Tammy Bakker amid a sex and money scandal.

BATON ROUGE, La. - Evangelist Jimmy Swaggart, threatening a schism within the Assemblies of God church over his suspension in a sex scandal, Thursday pressed ahead with plans for summer camp meetings amid claims Oral Roberts had cast the demons out of his fellow television preacher.

Swaggart associate Mike Evans told a Dallas television station Roberts cast out the demons during a phone conversation with

"He (Swaggart) said to me that Oral Roberts called him up and told him he saw demons with long fingernails digging their flesh into Jimmy Swaggart's body, and that he cast those demon spirits out of Jimmy Swaggart," Evans told WFAA-TV.

Shultz renews Middle East peace effort

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State George Shultz, acknowledging the odds are against him, returned to the Middle East Thursday for another effort over Easter and Passover to sell his plan for reviving the peace process.

Shultz's first stop after leaving Washington Thursday afternoon was Rome, where he will talk with Italian officials today and attend Easter Mass Sunday in St. Peter's Square. He flies to Israel Sunday evening.

He has had no apparent success in pushing his Middle East plan in similar trips earlier this year, but he has said he is willing to make the trip, even if the odds are long against success.

In interviews with Arab and Israeli journalists this week, Shultz said he still believes his plan is viable and, "Most important, it has a chance of getting us into negotiations for peace. I don't see that anybody has a better idea."

Cuban 'aliens' get parole approval

ATLANTA - Nearly half the Cuban refugees being held in federal prisons have been approved for parole in a review process sped up by violent uprisings they staged last year in Atlanta and Louisiana, their lawyer said Thursday.

Of the 3,800 Cubans jailed as "excludable aliens" - some since shortly after the 1980 Mariel boatlift delivered 125,000 Cuban emigres to Florida's shores - at least 1,781 have been approved for release or already have been freed to live in halfway houses or with their families, said Gary Leshaw, a lawyer who represents

Rules to assure AIDS confidentiality

WASHINGTON — The Health and Human Services Department proposed changes to regulations Thursday that would strengthen protections for confidentiality of AIDS test results and encourage people to be tested for the fatal disease.

Panel extends date for alien amnesty

By Philip J. Garcia United Press International

WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee, in a victory for immigrant advocates, approved legislation Thursday to extend by about seven months the May 4 deadline for the alien amnesty program.

The panel voted 22-12 to extend the deadline to Nov. 30 to coincide with the cutoff date for a separate legalization program for seasonal agricultural workers.

In addition to an extension, the bill authorizes $2 million for a public information campaign. The committee acted immediately after receiving the measure from its Immigration Subcommittee, which approved it 7-3. Approval came one day after Alan Nelson, commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, restated the agency's opposition to any extension of the

Rep. Romano Mazzoli, D-Ky., chairman of the Immigration Subcommittee and sponsor of the extension bill, said "the data suggest" there could be as many as 1 million immigrants who are eligible for amnesty but have yet to step forward.

As of Tuesday, according to INS figures, a total of 1.1 million applications have been submitted under the main legalization program, while another 347,013 applications have been filed under the special farm worker program.

Mazzoli emphasized that the bill does not expand the program or alter the rules. "This is still a one-shot proposition," he told the full committee. Earlier, in subcommittee deliberations, he said, "We don't really believe that this will be an inordinate burden on the INS."

But Mazzoli and his supporters warned there is no guarantee the bill would win final congressional approval or that President Ronald Reagan would sign such a bill into law counter to the recent opposition voiced by the INS and Attorney General Edwin Meese. The INS is part of the Justice Depart-

WASHINGTON - FBI Director William Sessions, on hand as Attorney General Edwin Meese dodged questions about his legal problems while announcing a drug bust, said he was not embarrassed to be associated with the Justice Department.

"I most certainly do not find any embarrassment at all about my association with the Department of Justice, an institution that is unrivaled and unparalleled in the world," Sessions said. "It's an excellent institution and I'm proud to be a part of it.

Meese, at a news conference to announce more than 200 arrests of members of a Sicilian Mafia heroin ring, refused to answer repeated questions about this week's resignation of his two top aides because of his continuing legal problems, and morale and effectiveness at the department.

Leading Democrats push for Wisconsin labor vote

By Rosalind Rouse United Press International

MILWAUKEE - Democratic front-runners Michael Dukakis and Jesse Jackson, facing a Wis-consin showdown, pushed for the labor vote Thursday and Dukakis, in a veiled shot at the civil rights leader, said he has done more than just talk about problems. Five days before Tuesday's primary, the four Democratic presidential candidates blitzed through the state, and party leaders believe between Dukakis, the Massachusetts governor, and Jackson, whose presidential campaign has been on a roll since he won Michigan's caucuses Saturday.

Almost forgotten in the fray is the Republican side of the primary, where Vice President George Bush is virtually assured an easy win

ers at a Beloit paper machinery factory and said, "I just don't talk about jobs; I've helped to create them by the hundreds of thousands. I just don't talk about good schools, I've worked to improve the schools in my state."

JACKSON HAS tried to capitalize on labor strife in Wisconsin, making several visits to off-the-job workers, including 800 meatpackers who have been on strike against Patrick Cudahy Co. since Jackson, who won the endorsement of United Auto Workers Local 72, spoke Thursday in Wausau with workers from the Marathon Electric Co. who were shut out of the plant last November.

In a similar speech in Cudahy

Wednesday, Jackson stressed jobs over the Star Wars missile defense and said the United States must pay more attention to labor.

"I will invest more in people than missiles," he said. "We do not need Star Wars in outer space; we need jobs in Cudahy."

Jackson struck back at criticism that he has never held an elected office and the vice president, saying he has spent "25 years leading people in crisis" while Bush "is a

Scott, 55, was arrested late Wednesday after he was questioned a second time about the death of Cecelia Arthur, 50.

Arthur was shot once in the head. A saw was used to cut her body into pieces in a process that police said may have taken 24 hours, and the body parts were discarded in plastic bags along the Maumee River.

To body parts were discovered last weekend by children playing near an Interstate 75 bridge.

CAPT. KENNETH Koperski said Scott was not considered a suspect after initial questioning, but was interviewed again because of inconsistences in his first statements. Scott then admitted he killed Arthur during a dispute involving his rent, Koperski.

Scott, who was sought for questioning since last weekend when most of the body parts were discov-ered, was located at a plasma onor center.

Protecting peepers

Way back in December 1986, Barter Garrett Pace got nabbed outside Burge Residence Hall, fresh-caught from peeking up the ventilation grates at females while they lathered up and

At the time — in a court hearing on Dec. 11 — Pace admitted that he was guilty of going into the women's showers in Burge and Hillcrest residence halls. Sixth District Judge L. Vern Robinson ruled that he was guilty.

Then Johnson County District Court overturned all that and ruled Pace should get a new trial, because he wasn't properly informed of his rights at the time of his guilty plea.

Never mind that Pace is a law student and that a person doesn't exactly need to be a law student to know a basic constituional right when they see one - or a loophole.

The real rub here isn't that Pace wasn't clued in properly to his rights. Police are human, after all, and humans make mistakes, overlook things. If the system didn't meticulously watchdog little things like the reading of rights, the system would be fatally, inherently flawed.

The real rub is that he said he was guilty, and everybody knows he's guilty, and he knows he's guilty. For him to get a new trial - as if there was anywhere in this mess a "reasonable shadow of a doubt" - seems a stupid waste of time and legal money.

And there's a philosophy that seems violated, some feeling that a guilty plea should count for more. After all, Pace isn't saying he's innocent now. He's only saying that he didn't get

That's the way all valuable lessons are learned and upkept, sadly. The strongest praise of this country's legal system is that it stoops to protect even a self-confessed individual ventilation-grid peeker-at-showering-women from any hint of injustice.

Band-Aids won't work

The Department of Education has shown it would rather avoid America's educational problems instead of facing them. In a report released this week the department determined the long-desired goal of limiting class sizes in order to improve academic achievement is a "waste of money and effort."

Citing the necessary addition of one million teachers and an estimated cost of $69 billion to reduce class sizes from 24 to 15, the report states unequivocally there are less expensive ways to boost test scores. The department is using test scores as the sole standard of academic achievement and improvement by which our educational system should be judged. And they are coming to conclusions which anyone familiar to classrooms will immediately recognize as untrue.

As support for disassociating class size from academic achievement, the report emphasized that Japanese students have exceptionally high math scores even though the average size of a math class is 41. But strictly speaking, test scores reflect only a student's understanding of the information on the test, and therefore high test scores do not necessarily reflect the overall quality of education.

There are certain elements of education which can only be attained through small class sizes because they require individual attention, especially in the earlier years. Only through individual teacher-student relations can a person's specific educational problems be diagnosed and addressed. When young children first enter school, these problems, if not addressed, can create permanent barriers to learning.

But at all levels of schooling, if a student's specific problems or concerns are ignored, his or her interest in a particular subject or desire for education as a whole can be greatly injured. The kind of attention which addresses these issues can only be provided in a small classroom setting.

The government also complains, of course, that it would be very expensive to reduce class size. Naturally, it will cost a considerable amount of money to improve the system, but if we really want improvements, then commitments - monetary and otherwise - must be made. For the American educational system to be improved, substantial funding rather than cheap and temporary Band-Aid fixes need to be implemented.

The Department of Education is approaching this problem from the wrong end in order to avoid facing it. By distorting the relationship between the quality of education and test scores and suggesting the previously established priority of limiting class sizes is completely impractical, they can now avoid making those expensive yet necessary changes.

Better education will result in higher test scores and long-lasting improvements, but scores cannot be the only standard by which the quality of education is measured. Superficial solutions will not mend the sorry state of education in America. It will only make matters worse in the end.

Jackson can win To the Editor:

I would like to respond to Mike Royko's comment (DI, March 29) on Jesse Jackson's "change of heart" toward the Democratic delegate process. Can Royko honestly say that he has not changed his own mind since 1972? Is he really that perfect? I doubt it.

To write a whole spread criticizing that Jackson happened to change his mind in 16 years is absurd. More so, it proves once again that certain sectors of society are scared to death that Jackson might be our next president and are willing to do anything to derail his campaign.

Understandable action

To the Editor:

Steve Donoghue's editorial on recent violence in northern Ireland (DI, March 28) reeks of ignorance, prejudice and racism. He argues that the actions of mourners at an Irish Republican Army funeral procession deserve "No excuse, no explaination ...," and indeed he fails to provide any background or insight into 800 years of British domination. The whole argument sounds frighteningly similar to the British-designed legal system the people of Ireland are subject to: no presumption of innocence, no right to jury by trial, not even the right to face their accusers.

The death of two British Royal Ulster Constabulary officers at the funeral was certainly tragic. But the actions of the mourners are better understood when we recall the cold-blooded murder of three unarmed IRA members in Gibral-- shot down in the street by British forces. At their funeral, mourners were attacked with grenades and a handgun. Five more innocent people were killed, and more than 60 injured.

No wonder mourners at the subsequent funeral reacted violently when the two undercover RUC officers sped toward the funeral at 40 mph and screeched to a halt directly in front of the procession. No wonder the soldiers' "warning shots" proved useless. Donoghue doesn't mention these circumstances. Instead he calls the mourners "barbarians" and claims that the IRA itself is to blame for the bloody repression by British

The argument that people are incapable of governing themselves is implicitly racist. It's wrong whether it's used against the people of South Africa, Palestine or Ireland.

The Anglo-Irish Agreement, a security pact designed to step up domestic repression while downplaying the role of Great Britain, can't mask Britain's interest in keeping Ireland divided and ruled. So long as British domination continues, so must the liberation struggle of the IRA, Sinn Fein and the Irish people.

The real story

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to Steve Donoghue's editorial (DI, March 28). His piece brought to light just how much our views of world events are changed and formed by the media power structure.

I saw the film clip of what transpired at the funeral procession for the slain IRA members apparently before the media censors had a chance to mold public opinion. The clip shown on ABC news at 5 p.m. told a different story than the one reported by Donoghue.

In this version the two slain were not merely British soldiers but undercover SAS men (special forces) who did not stumble accidentally into a possible explosive situation, but instead tried to use their car as a weapon, barreling into the crowd at a high rate of speed. This attempt at murder was foiled when a taxi that was at hand drove into the path of the car between the SAS men and the crowd of mourners, preventing a number of deaths. Recognizing the SAS men and realizing what they had attempted enraged the mob, and at this point the violence ensued.

The media, and not Donoghue, are at fault in this situation, for I saw the same footage on later broadcasts on several different stations.

The incident with the cab had been removed, leading to very different conclusions if you had not seen the uncensored report.

Having let Donoghue off the hook on that point, I will put him on another when he says that there is nothing else the British paramilitary can do now but increase security measures at burials. There is something else they can do - get out of northern Ireland.

Research the shield To the Editor:

A scenario . . . Moammar Gadhafi has obtained access to nuclear weapons and a delivery system to get them to the United States. The president, angered by Gadhafi's continued support of terrorists, launches an attack against terrorist bases inside Libya and against Gadhafi himself. Gadhafi, already half-crazy, responds by launching a nuclear attack against the United

This scenario can end in d ways: 1) Having no way to shoot down the nuclear weapon, the United States' only response is to launch a nuclear attack against Libya in hopes of deterring any other attack. Millions in the United States and Libya die, or 2) Having the Star Wars defense shield in place, the nuclear weapons are destroyed before they ever detonate, and they harmlessly fall into the ocean.

Which would you rather rely on? I believe that we should continue researching the possibility of a space-based defense shield.

Helms said the pivotal refusal of the House to give the Contras new military aid had doomed the guerrillas and that the aid would not stop subversion in Central

"It's a feel-good move, cover-myhide-move, because of the people of the other House having betrayed the cause of freedom and attempting the mouflage that betrayal by a so-contras," Helms said.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia said the bill will maintain pressure on the Sandinistas to work for peace and democracy in Nicaragua by keeping the Contras together. He called on the administration to hold direct talks with Nicaragua and "put them to the test" on their pledge not to subvert its neighbors.

VOTING AGAINST the aid plan were Sens. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii; Brock Adams, D-Wash.; William Proxmire, D-Wis.; Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; John Melcher, D-Mont.; Robert Stafford, R-Vt.; and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.

Some critics of the plan, even though many ended up voting for it as better than nothing, were harsh in their comments.

Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, said the Congress was "useless and gutless" for cutting off military aid

"I hope I am proved wrong," Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., chairman of the Intelligence Committee and a supporter of military aid, told the

"If there is a time when Americans are fighting and dying in this hemisphere in the future, that circumstance can be traced directly to the result of the impasse in Congress and the refusal to act in a responsible way to give these people the tools to fight Marxism.

"WE ARE NOT talking about Vietnam, half a world away," he said. "We are talking about countries that border us.

The $47.9 million bill sends only food, clothing, shelter, medicine and medical care to the Contras during the 60-day cease-fire in which they will negotiate political reconciliation with the government of President Daniel Ortega.

The House voted down Reagan's request for new military aid to the guerrillas on Feb. 3, and the pipeline of American arms and supplies financed by a $100 million appropriation in 1986 ran dry Feb. 29.

The Contras have been operating on stockpiles since then, and hopes of a restoration of humanitarian aid collapsed on March 3 when House Republicans led the defeat of this assistance because it contained no arms.

THE POLITICAL opening in Nicaragua through the accords signed March 23 cleared the way in Congress for all sides to promote the peace process by sending $17.7 million in humanitarian aid to the Contras; $17.7 million to care for children injured in the conflict that began in 1981; $10 million to a truce verification commission established by the accords; and $2.5 million to the Agency for International Development to deliver the Contra supplies.

Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, smoothed House passage of the aid bill by pledging to give prompt and fair consideration to a possible request by Reagan to restore Contra military in the event the peace process collapses. Byrd gave a similar assurance to Senate Repu-

Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., said the aid agreement "lays the ground work for a permanent cessation of hostilities" in Nicaragua. Dodd has frequently accused Reagan of seeking a military solution to the Nicaraguan strife.

The lead defendant named in the government's complaint, Emmanuel Adamita of Brooklyn, "was a courier in the Pizza Connection ring" and allegedly became "one of the masterminds" of the new ring, officials said.

Additional arrests took place in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Texas and Ohio.

In the operation, agents bought or seized six kilograms of heroin and four kilograms of cocaine. Italian authorities last month seized 22 kilograms of heroin, which officials said came from Southwest Asia.

Authorities said couriers smuggled the drugs by taping the narcotics to

Pope observes Last Supper

Holy Thursday rite marks crucifixion of Christ

The Holy Thursday rite in the Basilica of St. John in Lateran opened the most solemn period of the liturgical year marking the betrayal, crucifixion and burial of Christ, which precedes the Easter Sunday celebration of his resurrec-

Following the gospel of the mass, the leader of the world's 840 million Roman Catholics bowed to pour water from a silver pitcher over the right foot of each of the 12 priests seated on an elevated bank of chairs near the altar.

THEN HE dried each foot and kissed it as Jesus is said to have done at the Passover supper with the apostles fewer than 12 hours before his crucifixion.

Pope John XXIII revived the footwashing ceremony in 1959 after a lapse of centuries and it is now enacted in churches throughout

"Christ knew that 'his hour had arrived," John Paul said in his

"Christ goes to meet the sacrifice that has the redeeming power, the power to free man from the slavery of sin and death, the power to pull man from the abyss of spiritual death and of condemnation."

The pope drove across the Tiber River from the Vatican to celebrate the mass in the basilica that is his church as bishop of Rome.

The baroque structure stands on the site of a church the emperor Constantine built in the 4th century to symbolize the triumph of Christianity over paganism.

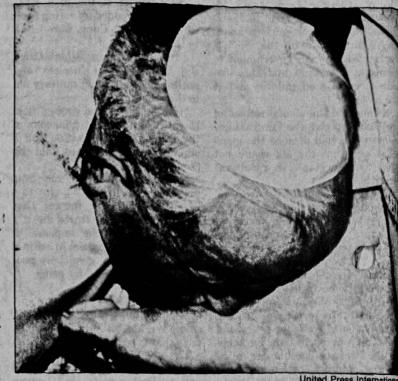

Earlier Thursday, the 67-year-old pontiff celebrated the mass of the before 22 cardinals, more than 30 archbishops and bishops, some 1,000 priests and thousands of Easter pilgrims.

During the mass, the pope consecrated the chrism, a mixture of olive oil and balsam which will be used for the next 12 months in the rites of baptism and confirmation and the ordination of priests.

The mass also is the occasion during which priests renew their vows of chastity, poverty and obedience.

John Paul told the priests they had gathered "to renew our priestly readiness to serve."

Tourney betting pools keep 'March Madness' intensity up

By Scott Wingert The Daily Iowan

Today is the first day of April, but March Madness is still running rampant.

For those people who have been living in a vacuum the last three weeks, this madness takes the form of the NCAA Basketball Tournament, a sports junkie's delight.

The event, thanks to big-time ollars created by television giants ESPN and CBS, has grabbed the kind of nationwide attention that used to be reserved only for events like the Super Bowl and the World

"I get nothing done in March ecause of that tournament," said Dave Staudt, a junior political science major at Iowa and a selfproclaimed basketball fanatic.

games have already beamed into millions of homes across the country. The action will conclude with the Final Four Saturday and Monday at Kemper Arena in Kansas

LAS VEGAS, of course, takes its fair share of bets on the games, but many local people do also. Hardly a bar, business or fraternity misses out on the fun and excitement of setting up a pool, predicting the winners and lounging while waiting for the champion.

"I guess it's the overwhelming suspense created by a single-elimination tournament," Staudt, who is involved in one pool at a local factory, said. "Plus, by this time of year, everyone knows everything about the remaining

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Arizona Coach Lute Olson, like a candidate who keeps winning primaries but is scoffed as a front-runner, has become fed up.

'All of the talk, such as, Well, they played in a weak league; who have they played; they played better teams earlier in their schedule; and their league will make them soft in the tournament." Olson said. "This team has proved from the beginning that they are a quality team.

Arizona, 35-2, is the nation's No. 2 team. The Wildcats have won by an average of 27 points in their four NCAA Tournament games. Should they continue that pace they will break a tournament record set by the 1967 UCLA squad years to reach the Final Four. Oregon State made the trip in "WE'VE HEARD THESE excuses prices asked for January's Super Temple among its March prizes.

STAUDT, LIKE MANY others, likes Oklahoma for the title, but the choice is anything but unanimous. People who watched Iowa bow out of the tournament know of Arizona's varied strengths, and Duke has the Atlantic Coast Conference Championship and No. 1

And this year's Cinderella team, Kansas, may be no Cinderella at all. Led by Kodak Player of the Year Danny Manning, the Jay-hawks have won eight of their last nine games and will play before a partisan crowd in Kansas City.

NCAA women's Final Four set for tonight

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) - Defending champion Tennessee meets Louisiana Tech tonight in the semifinals of the NCAA women's basketball tournament, a year after the Lady Volunteers routed the Lady Techsters for the national title.

Tennessee, 31-2, throttled Louisiana Tech 67-44 in last year's championship game. The Lady Volunteers also beat Tech 76-74 in February on a last-second basket by Sheila Frost.

The winner plays either Auburn, 31-2, or Long Beach State, 28-5, who meet in tonight's second semifinal, in Sunday's championship

NEW YORK (UPI) - Kansas City Royal fans received the best bargain in the major leagues lst season while Chicago Cub rooters saw the least for their money.

Royals backers enjoyed a contending team and, according to figures in the April issue of Money Magazine, they paid the lowest prices in the American League for the privilege. Cubs fans endured a last-place finish while shelling out the second-highest prices in the National League.

The magazine has ranked teams in each league by the average cost a family of four pays for a game. Figures include ticket prices, parking, snacks, souvenirs and program.

The lowest prices in the majors came at Dodger Stadium, where a family of four paid $65.75 to see a game. However, this buy failed to keep the Dodgers from falling below three million in home attendance for the first time since 1981. The Dodgers finished fourth, 17 games from first place in the NL West.

AL prices proved higher than those in the NL and, in both leagues, East Division clubs charged higher prices than West. Division averages are: AL East $82.19; AL West $77.29; NL East $79.40; and NL West $75.48.

Hassard yearns for more from lowa

By Bryce Miller The Daily Iowan

Following an impressive performance like the one the Iowa women's track team turned in at this past weekend's Florida Relays, many coaches would be quite satisfied.

But not Jerry Hassard. Hassard is quick to point out that the Hawkeyes must retain their work ethic and not become complacent this early in the season.

"Obviously I'm very excited about our effort at Florida," he said. "But there are still a lot of things to get accomplished. This team knows that it can be better."

Iowa took home four relay crowns in addition to two individual titles

Women's Track

at that meet among a group of strong competitors. According to Hassard, the Hawkeyes will again face a challenging field when they host five teams Saturday at the Iowa Open.

"THIS MEET DOES a number of things for us," he said. "In the past it (the Iowa Open) has proved to be developmental for us and it should serve that same purpose this year. It gives us a chance to assess our athletes at an early point in the Drake and Northern Iowa are scheduled to be at the meet, along with Wisconsin, Western Illinois and Northeast Missouri State.

Northern Iowa Coach LeAnn Shaddox, a former graduate assistant under Hassard, said she feels there is a great deal of parity in the field but puts the Hawkeyes in the role of the favorite.

"This meet should provide many exciting events," she said. "The Hawkeyes look the strongest at this point. We just want to use this meet as a chance to get off to a

Hassard said he thinks Iowa's outdoor campaign should be stronger than the indoor season for a number of reasons.

First of all, Hassard likes the schedule.

"Our schedule is picture perfect for us right now," he said. "We don't have to deal with any real big meet situations for a while. That should allow us the proper time to mature."

Hassard also likes the progression of the field events.

"With athletes like Becki Borg, Wendy Bare and Lynn McMillan, our jumps are beginning to gain some depth," he said. "I also feel that our throwing events are coming along nicely.'

The addition of Davera Taylor will be a very important contribution to the relays and sprints, according to Hassard.

"She (Taylor) adds to the depth of our relays," he said. "But more importantly, she adds to the quality of those events." Surprisingly, the one thing Hassard is afraid of won't be running in this weekend's meet.

"I just hope the weather holds ut," he said. "I'm confident in what my girls can do. They'll get a chance to prove it if mother nature cooperates.'

THE NEWEST FILM & VIDEO AWARDS! THE BENJI: FOR THE BEST, MOST FUN AND MOST ENJOYABLE ON TAPE

■ It's Oscar time again. But, what of the Oscar-nominated films? How accessible are they to the everday man on the street, especially in Iowa City? Here in the Midwest, there is a good chance every year that we won't even have had a chance to see the nominees for best picture before the awards ceremony. That is why we have decided to come up with our own awards for film and video work that we feel has merit: The Benjies. Benjies are awarded on the basis of either a single work or a body of work. The nominating process was fairly simple. We looked at performers, directors, and films that in some cases may have a more commercial impact than their Oscar counterparts. Nominations were compiled, nominees selected, and thus, The First Annual Benji Awards are under way It hasn't been a strong year for supporting actresses. Most of the strong women's roles this year were lead roles. In looking at an award for supporting actress, we nominated women, in some cases, who may have been the star of the movie, we just didn't feel they were quite strong enough to warrant a best actress in a lead role nomination. Therefore, the nominees are: Kim Basinger for strong supporting work in NO MERCY, NADINE, and 91/2 WEEKS: Holly Hunter for RAISING ARIZONA; Jami Gertz for THE LOST BOYS and the upcoming LESS THAN ZERO, and Teresa Russell as the chilling title vamp in BLACK WIDOW. Old favorites and young newcomers hold the field in the Best Supporting Actor category. Michael Caine is a strong contender with HANNAH AND HER SISTERS, WHISTLEBLOWER, and THE FOURTH PROTOCOL. We won't even take too many points away from him for JAWS: THE REVENGE. Other nominees are: Dennis Hopper for his eccentric portrayals in HOOSIERS, THE RIVER'S

Hawks meet Maine Blevins, Hawkeyes

By G. Hammond-Kunke The Daily Iowan

Iowa will take on the Maine Bears today at noon in the opening game of the fourth annual Pillsbury Baseball Classic at the Metrodome in Minneapolis.

The five-team tournament field will also include Washington State, Flordia State and host Minnesota. Each team will face each other once with the best record winning the tourney.

Last year, an amateur team, Team Cuba, won the event, which was hosted by Wheaties the previous three years. Michigan won two years ago and Oral Roberts won in

The Hawkeyes are expected to face some of their toughest tests of the season in the four-game round robin set up. Following the Maine game, Iowa, 7-6, will tangle with 10th-rated (ESPN) Washington State at 3 p.m. The Cougars, an NCAA tournament qualifier last year, have a 21-4 record.

IN A NOON start Saturday, Coach Duane Banks' team will play No. 21 Florida State, 23-8. Host Minnesota, 4-5, and Iowa have a 3:05 p.m. game Sunday.

"We scheduled the tough tournament on purpose," Banks said Sunday, "because we wanted the good competition prior to going into the Big Ten season. We could come out of there 0-4 and really play well."

The Metrodome is nicknamed the "Homerdome," and Banks said he hopes the Hawkeyes can take advantage of it.

"I hope we hit more (home runs) than the others do. The ball carries really well there. It's a fun place to Maine, 10-13, qualified for the College World Series five straight years (1981-86). Four of the Bears losses this season have come to powerhouse Miami of Florida. According to Coach John Winkin, Maine should have won the three games against the Hurricanes. Maine has never had a losing season under the Winkin, who is in his 15th-year.

"IT'S GOING TO be an awfully great tournament with all those tough teams," Winkin said.

Maine's top two hitters are right fielder Don Hutchinson, hitting 360 on the year, and first baseman Mike DeLucia, who is hitting .356.

The Bears feature a top battery duo with hard-throwing righthander Gary Taylor and catcher Colin Ryan. Taylor has a 2-1 record, an 0.38 ERA and will pitch against Iowa.

Washington State is the defending Pacific Ten North Division champion. The Cougars lost to eventual champion Stanford in the College World Series a year ago.

The Cougars sport a .326 team batting average and have clobbered 27 homers in 25 games.

JOHN OLERUDE, who pitches and plays first base, is one of the nation's top players with a .515 average. Olerude leads the team with eight round-trippers and the lefty has a 0.88 ERA and a 4-0

Catcher Randy Snyder has been projected by Baseball America as the sixth player to be selected in the major league draft, while out-fielders Jim Connors and Kevin Scott are hitting .418 and .414.

First baseman Steve Webb has clubbed six home runs, and 12 Cougars are hitting over .300.

Florida State, which finished sec-ond in the 1986 College World Series, boasts perhaps the best catcher in the college ranks in all-American Barry Blackwell. Second baseman Edwin Alicea is also an all-American. Alicea has stolen 24 bases in 28 attempts.

As a team, the 23-8 Seminoles are hitting .315 and they have swiped 114 bases.

We're a young, talented team that likes to run and we have good pitching," Florida State first base coach Rod Del Monico said.

Ricky Kimball is a relief ace with a 4-1 record, a 2.15 ERA and a 90-mph fastball, and starters Bret Davis (3-2) and Dave Sorokowski (3-0) "can also bring it," according to Del Monico.

Minnesota is off to a 4-5 start but the record may be misleading. The Gophers only lost to No. 8 Arizona State 7-5 and won two of three games from 1986 World Series winner Arizona last week.

Second baseman Brian Raabe is hitting at a .571 clip, and J.T. Bruett, a junior center fielder, is batting .424.

Iowa's top hitters include Bill Heinz (.404, six home runs, 14 RBIs) and Chris Hatcher (.370, six home runs, 17 RBI's.)

Allen Rath leads the mound staff with a 2-0 record and 1.71 ERA. Rath has fanned 22 in 21 innings.

in Pillsbury opener eyeing consistency

The Daily Iowan

First-year Iowa softball Coach Gayle Blevins needs some questions answered, and most of those revolve around the inexperienced Hawkeye pitching staff.

Iowa, 15-5, will get a chance to clear things up in doubleheaders against St. Ambrose today at 2 p.m. and Saturday against Western Illinois at 1 p.m. Both matchups will be played at the Hawkeye Softball Complex.

"We still have some big question marks," Blevins said. "And consistency is the biggest one. We're hoping this weekend will give us a few answers.

The mound staff consists of one senior and three freshmen — a large

Softball

reason for the Hawkeyes' inconsistency, according to Blevins. But the Iowa coach isn't being overanxious because she needs to soldify the pitchers before the Big Ten season begins April 8 against

"GOING INTO THE BIG TEN season, we want to have a two-pitcher starting rotation with a short reliever," Blevins said. "We don't have that yet."

Cris Barry, who compiled a 7-7 mark last year, is the senior who anchors the pitching group. To this point, she hasn't been pleased "I've been inconsistent," Barry said. "Our staff as a whole has been fine - the freshmen have doing a really good job and they're in a tough position. "They've really held up well, but I haven't done my end of bargain

BARRY SAID SHE DOESN'T mind shouldering the added pressure of being the lone senior. "It's pressure I enjoy having on me," she said. "It's a good feeling to know they are relying on you."

Despite the fact that St. Ambrose might be overmatched by the Hawkeyes, Blevins hasn't penciled the sweep in her book just yet.

"When smaller schools get the chance to match up with a big state school, they'll do everything they can to get a win," she said. "That's why we want to play against the game as much as possible and try to execute our best performances."

Western Illinois was a preseason top 20 pick, and the Westerwinds are coached by one of Blevins' mentors — Kathy Veroni.

By G. Hammond-Kunke he Daily Iowan

Four seniors — Jennifer DuBois, Kim Burkard, Kirsten Worcester nd Stephanie Smith - will close at their careers as Iowa gymnasts tonight at 7 against Illinois-Chicago au e Field House North

"It's been an enjoyable four years and this season has been the most njoyable season for me, even hough I've been injured," DuBois, the shares the Iowa record in the foor exercise at 9.45.

DuBois had surgery on her toe in ugust before the season started so he wouldn't be hampered by the ainful injury as she was for two easons. However, complications et in when the toe became fected, preventing the talented Indiana native from competing as an all-arounder this year.

Then DuBois injured her left heel, which set her back even further in terms of preparation.

"IT WAS REALLY sad, not being ble to compete as an all-arounder, but at least I've been able to verform in my two favorite events, the beam and floor," DuBois said.

It was great to just be a member the team that took Iowa out of the celler (at the Big Ten meet last reekend). That was one of the best, experiences I've ever had as a

"It'll be a very emotional moment or me (Friday) knowing it'll be my last floor routine after four years here," DuBois added. Iowa is coming off its best performance in school history. The Hawkeyes set three records, including the team score of 180.55. Earlier his season against the Illinois- Illinois-Chicago.

BURKARD WAS ALSO ready for a big season on the balance beam, entering the season as the fourthbest Iowa gymnast on the balance beam with a 9.25. However, Burkard went down after being stricken with food poisoning.

"I lost 12 pounds and it took me a long time to regain my strength," Iowa's only fifth-year senior, who is working on her masters in business, said.

"I'm not disappointed though. College gymnastics has been a very good experience for me," Burkard said. "I learned a lot about myself in terms of desire and how to work

Burkard added that next year's team "will have a super season. As be beam and floor," DuBois said. long as they stay healthy and the season was still well worth happy they should continue to progress. There really is so much talent on this team.'

Some of that talent includes sophomore Robin Zussman, who tied her school vault record last weekend, and junior Nancy Reilly. In Iowa's last meet, Zussman was .10 short of tying the Iowa all-around mark

First-year gymnasts Michelle Cahal, Tracy Junker, Suzanne Gorny, Chris Patterson and Suzanne Watson will also be looking to set personal bests against

Marshall: No regrets about Redskins pact

ited Press International

mebacker Wilber Marshall, lured from Chicago with a $6 million free agent pact, said Thursday he has as compensation for the loss. regrets about leaving the Bears and hopes to help the Redskins repeat as Super Bowl champions. Coach Joe Gibbs, commenting for the first time on Marshall's signing, said such aggressive personnel moves are necessitated by the NFL's parity system that rewards losing teams with high draft picks and weak schedules and penalizes winning teams. "I think the league is geared to mmer the guys who are on top and pull everybody back toward middle of the road. I think the only way to survive that is to be ressive," Gibbs said. "It was ithin the rules and it was a chance for us to be aggressive and get somebody we really had to have nd overcome the fact that we were picking at the bottom of the league

HERNDON, Va. - Washington

MARSHALL, 26, a Pro Bowl election in two of his four NFL easons, agreed to a five-year, $6 million contract with the Redskins and joined the team when the Bears failed to match the offer at midnight March 18. Chicago received first round draft choices in 1988 and 1989 from the Redskins don't have any regrets." Marshall said during his first news conference since joining the Redskins two weeks ago. "I'm not bitter. I took a step up and I'm here and I'm having a great time. When I was there (in Chicago), I had a great time. I caused no problems, said nothing that would make them feel bad about me."

Marshall becomes the highest paid Redskins player, eclipsing the $900,000 paid each year to quarterback Jay Schroeder. He is now the highest paid defensive player in the NFL.

"Hopefully I can help this team win another Super Bowl," Mar-shall said. "My goal is I want to be MVP. I came pretty close a couple of years ago. I'm going to work hard and I want that most of all. If I do that, I'm going to help this team. I want to be the best player, defensive-wise.

Veterans lead Hawk golfers

Zwiener begins season with high expectations, strong roster

By Michael Trilk The Daily Iowan

Iowa men's golf Coach Chuck Zwiener has a tee-it-up-and-seewhat-happens attitude about his 1988 team. While the Hawkeyes haven't had many championship seasons in the past few years, this year's team boasts a roster full of veterans. Zwiener's top five include co-captains Bob Kollsmith and Steve Reilly, returning players Jeff Schmid and Dave Holmes and freshman Brad Klapprott. Zwiener also has the services of three Hawkeyes who saw considerable varsity action a year ago in Chris Kramer, Joe Kramer and Eric Elliott.

Men's Golf

'We shouldn't be too bad. We had a good fall," Zwiener said.
"We didn't really lose anybody from last year's team and we have a freshman in Brad Klapprott who made our top five. He's a pretty good player and should help us out. We'll find out in the next couple of weeks."

Iowa will start its regular season at the nine-team, 54-hole Purdue Invitational this weekend in West Lafayette, Ind. The Hawkeyes have played in the tourney

"I HAVENT SEEN the list of teams that will be there this weekend, but in the past they have always had some good teams," Zwiener said. "We've had mixed results - we've played well and we've had times when we have played not so well."

The tournament will be played on the Boliermakers' North Course, a layout that Zwiener said is much different than the Hawkeyes' home Finkbine Golf

"It's a lot different from our course," Zwiener said. "It's a short, very tight course with a lot of trees and hills."

Although the Purdue tourney will be the first regular-season match of the year for Iowa, the Hawkeyes did get some playing time in on a spring break trip to

"We played a couple of practice matches down there and I thought we played OK," Zwiener said. "Down there it's hard to tell though because we were playing on different grass." Other teams in the Purdue field include the host Boilermakers, Wright State, Louisville, Minne-sota, Notre Dame, Ball State, Bradley and Western Illinois.

The tournament will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday with the teams playing 36 holes and conclude Sunday with an 18-hole round. Sunday's tee time is 9 p.m.

Netters face Big Ten foes over weekend

Hawkeyes aim to end mediocrity

By Hugh Donlan The Daily Iowan

The Iowa women's tennis team is ready to attempt a climb from the middle of the Big Ten pack.

The Hawkeyes, 6-6 overall and 1-1 in the conference, will meet the Minnesota Golden Gophers, 8-7 and 2-1, Sunday in Minneapolis. Last season, Minnesota finished fourth in the conference while Iowa trailed close behind in fifth. This season, both clubs have struggled with difficult non-conference foes and each has lost 8-1 to 11th-ranked Indiana.

Women's Tennis

A victory by the Hawkeyes would take the team one step closer to its goal of improving upon last season's fifth-place finish, and Iowa-Coach Micki Schillig said she is confident her troops will come out on top of this Big Ten battle.

"I know it's going to be a tough match and it's one we'd really like to have," she said. "But I don't even want to think about losing it because I don't think we will."

IOWA'S NO. 2 singles player Madeleine Willard said she thinks she knows what it will take for the Hawkeyes to upend the Golden Gophers.

"It's a really big meet for us," Willard said. "In order for us to beat Minnesota, our singles are going to have to be really good."

Official lineups for the match have not yet been released, but the toughest tests for the Hawkeyes should come at Nos. 1 and 2 singles. Minnesota is led by the singles play of Karin Eneberg, a native of Helsinborg, Sweden, who is 17-13 on the spring.

Minnesota's Anne Gorde has a 17-17 record, and the No. 2 doubles team of Eneberg and Anne Marie Ovnik is 17-7 on the season.

Experienced Boilermakers set to challenge Hawkeyes

By Anne Upson The Daily Iowan

The Iowa men's tennis team, 13-2, will open the Big Ten season at home against Purdue, 4-6, at 1 p.m. Saturday at Klotz Tennis

The Hawkeyes are coming off a dominating 8-1 win over Hawaii Wendesday, but Iowa Coach Steve Houghton said the more experienced Boilermakers could offer tougher competition.

"They have a group of seniors, (Jim) Grey, (Jim) Schumacher and (Tom) Ryile, who have been playing for four years," Houghton said. "Since those guys are seniors I am sure they are determined to have

Men's Tennis

According to Houghton, Grey, all-Big Ten last season, and Schumacher could be a particular threat to the Hawkeyes as a doubles team. Purdue Coach Ed Dickson said the Hawkeyes' season record is a little intimidating but he anticipates good competition.

"LOOKING AT THEIR record they have the confidence to win a lot," Dickson said. "It will be a tough match but I expect a great

Houghton said that with the exception of Michigan, the other Big ten teams are close in talent

"With the exception of Michigan in the Big Ten," Houghton said, "we tell our team that we can beat the other team and they are telling their teams that they can beat us. It gives us some really close competition."

In this part of the season it is important that the team performs well, Houghton said. Last year, Iowa also had an exceptional performance on spring break but faltered in the Big Ten season.

Catherine Wilson, Iowa's No. 4 singles and No. 1 doubles player, has forced Schillig to alter her lineup. The best doubles combinations have not yet been decided. As a result, the Iowa coach said "it's important we come out of singles

WILLARD EXPRESSED a similar concern.

"Our singles are usually really solid," she said. "But our doubles teams have been a little 'iffy'. Sometimes we will play well together and sometimes we won't." Although the contest pits thirdplace Minnesota and fourth-place Iowa against each other and may have an effect on seedings for the Big Ten Tournament, Willard said the team has a down-to-earth approach for this and every match. With our team, we will go out and A leg injury to first-year player play hard and we'll try to do the best we can, but we'll also have fun," she said. "If we lose one match, it's not going to be life or

Schillig also has a low-key atti-

"We're just going to have to want it more," she said.

IOWA NOTES

. No. 3 singles and No. 2 doubles player Liz Canzoneri is the first Hawkeye to be nationally ranked. The sophomore, 17-3 in the fall, is ranked 88th by the NCAA.

• Wilson will undergo surgery on her left leg at University Hospitals next Friday.

• The Minnesota match will be played on Easter Sunday, despite efforts by Schillig to reschedule the

"I'm not too excited about it," she said. "I tried to get it changed."

Reebok buys ailing Patriots

United Press International

FOXBORO, Mass. - A tentative agreement was reached Thursday to sell the financially ailing New England Patriots to the head of Reebok International Inc., officials of the NFL team said.

"This morning we reached a tentative agreement that will eventually result in the sale of the team," said Patriots General Manager Patrick Sullivan, son of owner Billy Sullivan.

DETAILS OF the sale to Paul Fireman, chairman and chief footwear and clothing firm, were to be disclosed at a 3 p.m. news conference, officials said.

"There are quite a few things that have to be done first, but we feel very good about the agree-ment," Sullivan said. "This is a deal which is a good situation for everybody and resolves this and is going to be very good for the fans of New England."

United Press International

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. - Writer John Clellon Holmes, who coined the term "beat" to describe the literary and social rebels of the Beat Generation following World War II, died Wednesday of cancer. He was 62.

Holmes died one day after being admitted to Middlesex Memorial Hospital's Weiss Hospice Unit. He had been debilitated for some time by cancer but continued writing until a few months ago.

Holmes, a native of Holyoke, Mass., and a resident of Old Saybrook, Conn., was a novelist, critic, poet, essayist and educator who wrote of the beat lifestyle in Go, his first novel, in 1952 He was a companion of Jack

Kerouac, Allen Ginsberg, William Burroughs and other writers in New York after World War II. He came up with the term "beat" to describe the negative reaction of young people to the "gray flannel suit mentality" of mainstream American society in the post-war

AFTER HIS FIRST novel, he wrote more about the beat lifestyle in Nothing More to Declare, published in 1967. Some critics regard it as the definitive chronicle of the Beat Generation.

The writings of Holmes, Kerouac and other beat writers had a profound influence on young people in the 1960s. A pacifist who viewed violence and fanaticism "as the enemies of life," Holmes supported the non-violent opposition to the war in Vietnam.

But Holmes was critical of the hippies and the "fad culture" of the time, which he said was characterized by "a feeling of helpless-

Holmes also was known for his writing about jazz. He published The Horn, a novel about the world of jazz, in 1958. Other books include Get Home Free (1964); The Bowling Green Poems (1977); Death Drag: Selected Poems (1979); Visitor (1981) and Gone in October (1985).

Kretschmer list is revealed

The Daily Iowan

've been wanting to compile an all-time Top 10 list of my favorite movies for several years now. Nevertheless, the thought of actually going through my lists of all the films I've seen (yes, such lists do exist) was always enough to discourage me. Editors, however, have ways of changing your mind about such things. Ouch!

In the past 12 years I've seen approximately 2,400 films. That is full, alert viewings, be it in theaers, on television, or on cassette. What scares me is that there're people reading this who will claim hey've seen more than that. To those people I say, "Hey, you mushrooms in training, get out once in a while. Experience sunlight." But I digress.

The winnowing process was a most difficult one. I was forced to establish certain criteria to make my choices, such as their ability to stand up to multiple viewings. director (limited to one selection) and emotional impact (these films, in one way or another, actually changed the way I think about

Without further ado, here (alphabetically) are the triumphal

Ben Hur (1959) - This gargantuan MGM production of the Lew Wyler qualifies as both the best epic and the best religious film ever made. Charlton Heston and Stephen Boyd are perfect adversaries in their greatest roles as peace-loving Hebrew prince and Roman centurion, respectively. The justifiably famous sea battle and chariot race sequences may never be surpassed for action and suspense. A record 11 Oscars include best picture, actor (Heston), director, ad infinitum.

The Graduate (1967) - Dustin Hoffman became a star overnight with his excellent performance as Benjamin Braddock, a recent college grad who has trouble finding a focus in the real world. The humor in the Buck Henry-Calder Willingham script is subtle, dry and devastating. Mike Nichols won the Oscar for best direction and the wonderful Simon and Garfunkel score should have won best score.

It's a Wonderful Life (1946) -Director Frank Capra and frequent star James Stewart were both concerned that their wartime service may have killed their Hollywood careers - which goes to show that even the great ones can doubt their talent. Perfect casting highlights this ultra-sentimental review of one man's life and his effect on others. The perfect Christmas perennial which improves on each additional viewing.

Lady and the Tramp (1955) — ture was the studio's first in Cinemascope. The artwork was so meticulous that the result was something between live action and cartoon quality, though it proved too expensive to ever be repeated. It's a sweet romance with adventure, comedy and music (songs by Sonny Burke and Peggy Lee).

Manhattan (1979) - Woody Allen's bittersweet but hopeful romantic-comedy says to take love where you find it and don't worry what your "friends" might think. Mariel Hemingway gives a glowing, star-making performance, Gordon Willis' black-and-white photography is absolutely brilliant and the George Gershwin score is "'S wonderful."

Some Like It Hot (1959) -Writer-director Billy Wilder is arguably the most versatile director in motion picture history, from adventure to drama to war to romance to comedy. Ah ... those comedies, fast-moving, witty, silly, but most of all — hilarious. This tale of two male musicians who witness the St. Valentine's Day Massacre and hide out as members of an all-woman orchestra is sidesplitting, with flawless performances from Tony Curtis, Jack Lemmon and Marilyn Monroe.

The Sound of Music (1965) -Julie Andrew's joyous performance as Maria Von Trapp illuminates hit since Gone With the Wind. The tunes in the Richard Rogers-Oscar Hammerstein II score are all infinitely hummable, and the locations are gorgeous. Five Oscars included those for best picture and director (Robert Wise).

The Warriors (1979) - This controversial film reportedly incited gang violence outside some, of the theaters it played. Director Hill used a lightning pace and stunning action scenes to create the ultimate chase film. Andrew Laszlo's superb use of color at night is a real plus.

The Wizard of Oz (1939) - The best fantasy film ever made is also the most conducive to multiple viewings. It has everything: charming performances, elements of comedy, adventure, horror, great songs, surprising special effects, innovative uses of black-and-white and color photography and a happy ending. What more could anyone want? It's my personal favorite.

Young Frankenstein (1974) — Mel Brooks' talent for parody reached its peak in this spoof of '30s horror films in which every detail is attended to, down to the diagonal opening credits. Gene Wilder, Marty Feldman, Teri Garr, Peter Boyle, Cloris Leachman and Gene Hackman (as the blind man) give such on-target performances that you'd swear these were outtakes from an old Universal horror

Boston festival mixes results

By Martin Bernheimer Los Angeles Times

BOSTON - It was an unrealistic idea, a costly idea, a daring idea, a wonderful idea. In the infectious spirit of "glasnost," representaives of the United States and the Soviet Union wanted to sponsor a pair of broad-ranging, reciprocal festivals of music and dance.

The Russians would come to Boston in the spring of '88. The Americans would go to Moscow in the fall of '89.

Significantly, this was not planned is one of those glamorous programs in which one country sends the other its fanciest, most palatable, most commercially viable products. The repertory, for the modern, perhaps avant-garde.

Forget Tchaikovsky symphonies. Forget Eugene Onegin. Forget Swan Lake. Tradition was out. Adventure, one hoped, was in.

The project was to be called "Making Music Together." It represented the mutual brainchild of Sarah Caldwell, Boston's favorite, least practical, most embattled visionary, and Rodion Shchedrin, a powerful Soviet politico as well as versatile Soviet composer.

THE DANCE EVENTS would evolve around Maya Plistetskaya. The fabled, strong-willed, quintessentially dramatic ballerina happens to be Shchedrin's wife. She also happens to make life interestthese days for the official Muscovite regime of her nominal boss, Yuri Grigorovich.

She was conspicuously absent from the Bolshoi's balleyhooed tour of the United States last year. But at 62, she continues to dance, continues to choreograph, continues to hypnotize the masse

The Boston festival began March 11 and should end soon. Events were still being added at press time. The $4.6 million cultural sprawl involved as many as 500 artists - American as well as Soviet - performing nearly 100 programs.

In addition to the ballet extravaganzas and large-scale concerts, recitals, lectures, symposia, mimetheater demonstrations, educational efforts, choral and folkmusic presentations. The Boston Symphony ventured several premieres. The Opera Company of Boston approximated the elaborate Bolshoi production of Dead Souls, Shchedrin's celebrated adaptation of the Gogol novel. Boston University hosted contingents from the Moscow Conservatory. No single pair of eyes and ears could take in everything.

AS IS NOT unusual when it comes to the realization of Sarah Caldwell's dreams, the festival nearly failed to materialize at the last minute. The impresariaconductor apparently underestimated her expenses drastically, and overextended her creditors.

Complicating matters, the Soviets kept coming up with program and personnel surprises. The already complex logistics kept getting jogged and juggled by unexpected, ill-planned developments,

The embarrassing threat of cancellation loomed. Finally, the initial upbeat was made possible by desperate intervention from George Shultz at the State Department plus a partial financial rescue from the commonwealth instigated by Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis.

Dukakis, not incidentally, showed up on the most glamorous occasion, a super elaborate tribute to Plisetskaya. In a rather coy speech, he mispronounced the ballerina's name and confided that he planned to visit Moscow during the second installment of the festival. He declined to predict in what capacity he would be a fellow

THE BOSTON FESTIVAL turned out to be a triumph of good will, if not a triumph of good organization. An air of improvisation hung over some of the events, as did the threat of overexposure to imported novelty for its own sake.

The printed programs and ads represented triumphs of creative transliteration. Most intriguing, perhaps, was a composer identified as Gortel (Hertel?), who wrote the score for Vain Precaution. Then there was an adagio from Spartacus, to be danced by the characters Egin (Aegina?) and Krass (Cras-

The public did not invariably know what was happening and where. Only a handful of listeners turned up to hear an almost-impromptu concert in which Gidon Kremer and friends played Shostakovich quartets. Friedrich Lips - probably the world's leading exponent of the bayan (a colorful cousin of the accordion) - played a fascinating program of mock-electronic pieces, plus a dazzling arrange-ment of Figaro's Largo, to an empty hall.

MANY EVENTS had been scheduled for the reasonably intimate confines of the old Wilbur Theatre. These were moved, however, to the ornate ecclesiastical environs of the Tremont Baptist Temple when it was discovered that the Wilbur was a union house. Unions, we learn, are not useful to the itinerant needs of guests from the workers' republic.

Ah, irony ...

When it could keep up, the public took the changes in stride. The audiences weren't exactly enormous for the more obscure, out-ofthe-way concerts. Still, enthusiasm ran high, the threat of aesthetic indigestion notwithstanding, and conviviality remained palpable.
