Students on housing hunt have several options for assistance

By Deborah Gluba
The Daily Iowan

UI students looking for housing this spring may take advantage of several local services that will aid them in the search.

The UI Housing Clearinghouse, UI Rent for Services and the Iowa City Senior Center's Shared Housing Program offer referrals for both tenants and landlords.

The UI Protective Association for Tenants will advise tenants or landlords about housing issues.

The UI Housing Clearinghouse is located in the Union's Campus Information Center. Homeowners and people looking for a roommate or someone to sublet for summer may list details about their properties or apartments in binders for others to see.

"People can list places to live with us, and anyone looking for a place to live can find the names of landlords and contact them," CIC Coordinator Susan Jepson said.

She added people with available housing appreciate the free service because they can put more details in the binder than they can in a classified ad. Jepson also said the clearinghouse is useful for people who are now starting to look for fall housing or summer sublets.

CIC ALSO MANAGES a housing option called Rent for Services. Interested landlords list their phone numbers with the service to be contacted by possible tenants who agree to exchange maintenance, housekeeping or other jobs for the rent or a part of the rent.

"The idea behind it is students exchange part of their rent for See Housing, Page 7A

Hospital amendment rejected by Senate

By Jay Casini
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa Senate Tuesday rejected a measure proposed by the Iowa House that would have moved control of UI Hospitals and Clinics from the state Board of Regents to a governor-appointed board of trustees.

The proposal, which was included as an amendment to an education budget bill passed April 5 by the House, would have established a nine-member board to oversee UI Hospitals. Board members would have been selected by the governor from a list of candidates named by state legislators.

Sen. Richard Varn, D-Solon, was the floor manager of the Senate amendment that struck the House's board proposal from the bill.

VARN SAID two major issues contributed to the Senate defeat of the measure.

"First of all, there were some real serious constitutional questions raised about how the board would be appointed," Varn said. "Secondly, people just didn't think that particular amendment was needed."

"In the Senate, we just haven't had the concern certain House members have had about the operations of the hospital," Varn said.

When problems occur at UI Hospitals, Varn said, he prefers to address individual concerns directly rather than adopt a sweeping board for oversight.

Varn said structurally UI Hospitals should be governed by the regents.

"I think there is a certain degree of logic to having the Board of Regents involved in the hospital because it is such an integral part of the University of Iowa," Varn said.

UI HOSPITALS Information Director Dean Borg said he considered the defeat of the House's proposal a vote of confidence for the regents control.

"We consider the Senate's action an affirmation of the leadership provided by the Board of Regents and an endorsement of the service currently provided by the University of Iowa Hospitals," Borg said.

The Senate sent the amended version of the education budget bill back to the House on a 46-1 vote.

Varn said the House can either accept the bill without amending it further or call for a joint conference.

"If it goes to conference, it won't be on this issue," Varn said.

ALTHOUGH VARN said he expects the House's proposal to be abandoned for this legislative session, he said he expects the issue to be raised again.

"This issue will come back," Varn said. "The House may try again next year. In fact, the Board of Regents may do something on their own about it in the interim."

In an April 1 article in The Daily Iowan, state Board of Regents President Marvin Pomerantz said the hospital had an "excellent track record" under the control of the regents and said "there is no reason a special board should be appointed to govern the hospital."

Marines engage in strange 2-hour firefight in Panama

By Douglas Tweedale
United Press International

PANAMA CITY, Panama — U.S. Marines fired mortars and automatic rifles in a mysterious two-hour firefight Tuesday against possible intruders at the same Navy fuel depot where a Marine accidentally was killed a night earlier, U.S. officials said Wednesday.

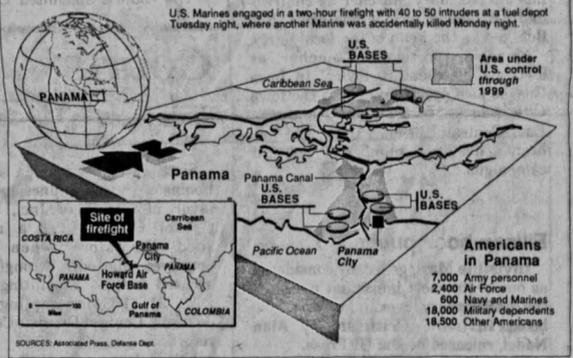

Col. Ron Sconyers, director of public affairs at the U.S. Southern Command, said the Marines opened fire Tuesday night but acknowledged he could not rule out the possibility there may not have been any intruders after all in the incident.

"We cannot rule anything out at this time," he said when asked whether nervous Marines could have begun firing into the darkness.

The Panamanian government said it was preparing a statement on Tuesday night's incident.

Elsewhere in Panama, riot police arrested three protesters who had attempted to organize a march of unemployed workers against Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, chief of the 15,000-member Panamanian

Conflict at U.S. Air Force Base

Defense Forces and the country's de facto leader.

THE POLICE, backed by paramilitary forces carrying automatic weapons, chased demonstrators through the capital's main streets for more than an hour.

No casualties were reported in the gunfire and mortar fire Tuesday night at the same fuel depot where a Marine died 24 hours earlier in a similar incident.

On Monday night, Cpl. Ricardo Villahermosa, 25, of Santurce, Puerto Rico, was accidentally killed in the crossfire of fellow Marine guards shooting at what they believed were intruders, Pen-

Hostage ordeal drags on at Algerian airport

By Brendan Murphy
United Press International

ALGIERS, Algeria — Hijackers holding 32 hostages on a Kuwait Airways jetliner allowed three Algerian officials to board the aircraft Wednesday and promised to avoid more violence, but there were no conclusive signs the ordeal was nearing an end as it entered a 10th day.

Algerian Interior Minister El Hady Khediri spoke to the masked gunmen for 30 minutes aboard the Boeing 747 about five hours after the plane landed at Houari Boumediene International Airport early Wednesday amid optimism the crisis would end soon. Two other negotiators followed him later in the day.

"This is a very complicated situation. It has taken a long time to develop and it will take some time to untangle," a senior official in the Algerian government information agency said early today.

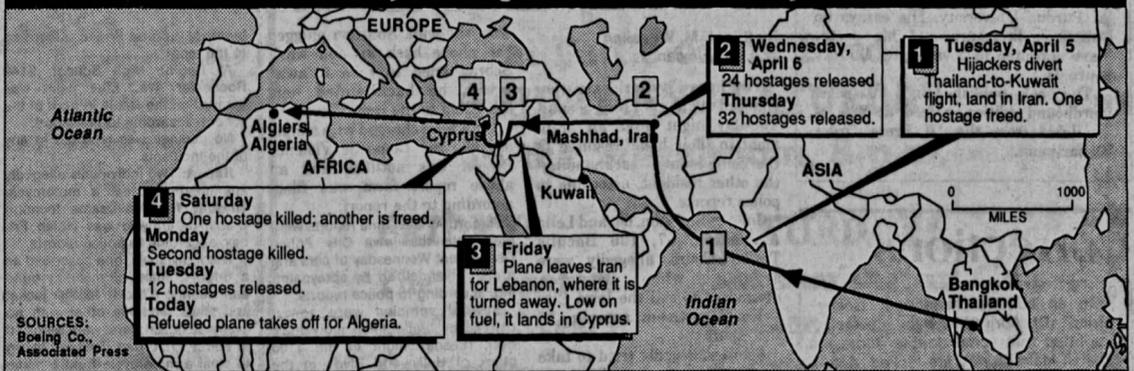

The plane had spent five days on a runway in Cyprus where the hijackers killed two hostages and then traded 12 passengers for fuel.

THE 12 FREED passengers and the bodies of the dead men were flown Wednesday to Kuwait, the hijacked plane's original destination.

"May God punish the killers," screamed the mother of one of the slain hostages after the flag-draped coffins were lowered from the cargo hold and the haggard survivors greeted by government officials and weeping relatives.

AIDS raises caution in medical community

By Jay Casini
The Daily Iowan

As the number of AIDS cases continues to grow in the state of Iowa, members of the UI Hospitals and Clinics medical community are finding that the disease is causing major changes in their profession.

Ralph Knudson, a UI family practice physician who will be part of the staff at the UI Hospitals' new outpatient AIDS clinic, said the disease has caused significant changes in the attitudes and practices within the local medical community.

"There is definitely more awareness and concern and care in protection against accidental infection by needle sticks or coming into contact with contaminated body fluids," Knudson said.

"Along with that, there is a growing awareness of the prevalence of AIDS and that everybody in the health care profession will have to deal with the problem in some way," Knudson said.

LOCALLY, Knudson said he sees different reactions to increasing cases of AIDS. Knudson said those in the medical profession who dealt with the initial cases of AIDS locally generally have become accustomed to working with the disease and are taking prudent precautions.

However, Knudson said people in the medical community who have only recently been forced to confront the disease are now showing signs of anxiety.

"People who have worked with the disease for awhile aren't as frightened of it," Knudson said. "There still are, and there have been numerous studies that show this, people who are misunderstanding their risk of contracting the disease through treating people with AIDS."

UI Hospitals Nurse Epidemiologist Dorothy Rasley said it is the hospital's responsibility to make sure personnel are trained in proper infection-control procedures.

Groups support conference

Four agribusinesses and a private foundation with an interest in rural issues have contributed a combined total of $140,000 to support a UI-sponsored conference on reducing health hazards in agriculture, the UI Foundation announced today.

The contributions from the five organizations will help underwrite "Agricultural Occupational and Environmental Health: Policy Strategies for the Future," a two-part national conference in Iowa City and Des Moines this September.

The organizations and their contributions include: Pioneer Hi-Bred International of Des Moines, $50,000; the Northwest Area Foundation of St. Paul, Minn., $50,000; the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, $30,000; John Deere, $5,000; and Land O' Lakes Inc. of Arden Hills, Minn., $5,000.

"We are very grateful to these organizations for their generous contributions," said Kelley Donham, conference organizer and professor at the UI Institute of Agricultural Medicine and Occupational Health. "Their generosity makes them partners with us in charting policies that will help reduce health hazards for farmers, ranchers and everyone in agribusiness."

The conference is scheduled in two sessions — the first in Iowa City Sept. 18-21 and the second in Des Moines Sept. 29-30. Representatives from farm constituency groups, the medical profession, the extension services, the Iowa Legislature and state and federal agencies will be invited to participate.

During the Iowa City sessions, participants will discuss causes and solutions for health and safety problems faced by farmers and others in agricultural occupations. The Sept. 29 session in Des Moines will focus on policy strategies for alleviating those hazards. Conference highlights will be reviewed during a public forum in Des Moines Sept. 30.

Recommended policy strategies will be published after the conference and distributed to key legislators, policymakers and public interest and advocacy groups. Iowa State University is also helping to plan the conference.

Local party elects chair

The Johnson County Democratic Party has elected Mary Mascher as chairwoman, replacing former chairman Ron Bohlken as the head of the local party.

Mascher, a science teacher at Roosevelt Elementary School in Iowa City, is past president of both the Iowa City Education Association and the East Central Uniserve Unit. She has been active in a number of political campaigns.

Ellison book published

Invisible Man, generally considered as one of the most important novels of the 20th century, is examined in a new book, Invisible Criticism by Alan Nadel, released by the UI Press.

In 1952 Ralph Ellison won the National Book Award for his only published novel, Invisible Man, about the life of a nameless young black man in New York City.

In Invisible Criticism: Ralph Ellison and the American Canon, Nadel examines the work, particularly its literary allusions, and shows that Ellison's book challenges the accepted readings of such major American authors as Emerson, Melville and Twain.

He also shows that Ellison has presented a symbolic history of blacks in America as they moved from the 19th century to the 20th, from the rural South to the urban North, and as they moved, sometimes invisibly, through American fiction.

Nadel is assistant professor of English at Purdue University. His essays on American literature and his poetry have appeared in a variety of literary journals.

The book, published in a 181-page, hardbound edition, priced at $20, is available from the UI Press Order Department.

School board ponders new high-school football field

By Deborah Gluba
The Daily Iowan

Tension between Iowa City's two public high schools stemming from an alleged Iowa City High School home team advantage at Bates Field has prompted the Iowa City School Board to study the feasibility of building another football field.

The Iowa City Community School District's Athletic Facilities Issues Committee presented a report to the school board Tuesday night that stated there is a need for separate athletic facilities at Iowa City and West high schools.

The report suggests building a West High athletic complex which would cost an estimated $280,000 to $450,000.

The report also stressed a need to update existing Iowa City High's athletic facilities to meet minimum competitive standards, and to implement a new game management plan at Bates Field. It also suggested the board appoint another committee to evaluate the existing district athletic organizational structure.

COMMITTEE MEMBER Lanny Kampfe said the report attempted to give the board a long-term perspective on district athletic facilities.

"We offer to the school board a long-range solution to providing competitive sports in Iowa City," Kampfe said.

He also said he was personally surprised when he toured the district athletic facilities and found discrepancies between schools.

"Our committee felt that no new projects should be undertaken until facilities are brought up to safe standards," Kampfe said.

Committee member Lynne Rowat said the board should strongly consider implementing the proposals.

"If we could look at today as the first step in our long-range plan, it can be a benefit," Rowat said.

THE COMMITTEE recommended immediate site improvements, totaling $132,500, which include resurfacing the tennis courts and installing baseball outfield fencing at City and West high schools.

Other suggestions include providing custom padding for eight district volleyball courts, dropping the ceiling in the West High wrestling area and upgrading Shrader Field.

A detailed explanation of the recommended changes in available capital allocations for site improvements will be presented at the April 12 school board meeting, according to the report.

Coralville City Council begins search for city administrator

By Steve Weiss
The Daily Iowan

The Coralville City Council is trying to find a new city administrator following the resignation earlier this month of Coralville City Administrator Frederick D. Bluestone.

The city council received Bluestone's resignation at a special council meeting April 5. Bluestone has held the position since it was created approximately two years ago.

"I have enjoyed working for the city of Coralville and I now intend to move on and pursue other fields of endeavor," Bluestone said in his letter of resignation.

The council appointed Coralville Mayor Michael Kattchee as interim city administrator until a replacement for Bluestone can be found. Though he will not receive additional salary, Kattchee sees no problems with the new arrangement.

Kattchee said he has had previous experience as the Coralville city administrator when the duties of the position were the responsibility of the mayor's office. Kattchee has been mayor since 1978.

THE DUTIES of the city administrator include taking the policy of the city council and putting it into action, said Kattchee. Also, the city administrator is in charge of most of the city's personnel.

Kattchee said he started the selection process for a new city administrator immediately by placing advertisements in several professional job flyers and the Des Moines Register.

As advertised, the job offers a negotiable $34,000-a-year salary. The deadline for resumes is May 14, at which time the city council will begin selecting and interviewing prospective applicants.

Kattchee said he hopes the position will be filled in the next 90 days.

"It's a legitimate expectation but there are many variables," Kattchee said. "Last time it took us six months (to fill the position), but we did it deliberately slow. Now we're doing it deliberately fast."

Courts

By Traci Auble
The Daily Iowan

Sixth District Judge L. Vern Robinson ruled Wednesday in favor of Younkers Inc., Old Capitol Center, after a man sued the store when an employee allegedly wrongfully accused him of shoplifting on Dec. 21, 1984, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Lyle B. Jones entered a lawsuit on May 14, 1985, in which he sued Younkers for $5,000 for allegedly having suffered a damaged reputation since the accusation was made in public. Jones also claimed the acts of the employee were "unreasonable, unlawful and done with malice," according to court records.

Jones also sued for an additional $50,000 for exemplary damages. Younkers denied that it was negligent or that Jones suffered any actual damages due to the employee's actions, according to court records.

Robinson ruled against Jones and assessed him court costs, according to court records.

A bond of $2,875 was posted Tuesday for an Iowa City man charged with second-degree criminal mischief Monday, according to court records.

Patrick J. Rogers, 19, 2131 Leonard Circle, allegedly knocked down light poles at West High School and tore up yards with a vehicle on Jan. 31, according to court records.

Rogers allegedly bragged to other students that he was involved in the incident. His vehicle shows damage to the bumper and was observed to be muddy after the incident, according to court records.

A warrant for the arrest of a Coralville man was issued Wednesday for charges of second-degree theft of a motorcycle on April 10, according to court records.

Christopher M. Martin, 18, 961 22nd St., allegedly was in possession of a stolen Suzuki motorcycle when officers stopped him on Brown Deer Road for a traffic violation.

Officers were informed of the theft after they stopped Martin and the motorcycle was recovered approximately 75 feet from where the traffic stop had taken place.

Witnesses to the theft observed Martin pushing the motorcycle in order to start it before the police arrived, according to court records.

A bail bond of $2,500 with a 15 percent surcharge was set Wednesday in conjunction with the warrant. A preliminary hearing in the case is set for April 27.

Two Iowa City residents were charged with simple assault Tuesday night after an argument in their home resulted in the complainant "backhanding" the other resident, according to police reports.

John F. Simpson, 64, and Lelia A. Schrag, 57, 136 Baculis Trailer Court, allegedly were arguing when Simpson attempted to call the Iowa City Police Department, according to the report.

Schrag allegedly tried to take the phone away from Simpson, and then unplugged the phone from the wall. Simpson plugged the phone back in, and when Schrag tried to take it away again, he backhanded her, according to the report.

Both were charged with simple assault, the Domestic Violence Project was notified, and an abuse report form was filed, according to the report.

Report: At least nine reports were filed with the Iowa City Police Department Wednesday of cars and a statue vandalized by spraypainting, according to police reports.

Several vehicles were spray-painted by unidentified individuals over Tuesday night in the 1100 block of Hollywood Blvd., in the area of Brookwood Drive and the Sycamore Mall, and in the 1600 block of Spruce Street, according to the report.

At Regina High School, 2140 Rochester Ave., blue paint was sprayed on the statue in front of the school, according to the report.

No damage was reported in any of the incidents.

Report: Two individuals allegedly attempted to steal a motorcycle Tuesday from the same location that a motorcycle was stolen Friday, according to police reports.

The individuals, one described as a 6-foot-2 male of medium build and wearing a brown leather jacket and jeans, and the other with no available description, were reported at about 11:10 p.m. Tuesday trying to steal a motorcycle from a home on the 400 block of Emerald Street, according to the report.

Iowa farming families still feel effects of rural crisis

By Paula Roesler
The Daily Iowan

The farm crisis media blitz is over, but repercussions of the crisis still exist, according to UI Rural Crisis Group Chairman Doug Kintzle.

"Things were so bad in the past few years (the American public) wanted to hear good things," Kintzle said, explaining the U.S. media is now de-emphasizing the ongoing struggle of the American farmer.

"There has been a profit in Iowa — we've seen it in hogs, we've seen it in cattle," he said. "But most profit came from the federal farm program. So I see a problem there. If the political winds change, it could be another problem for farmers."

When Kintzle's parents were unable to meet payments in 1985, they turned their land over to the federal government, reducing their landholdings from 1,000 to 40 acres.

HIS PARENTS now farm 800 acres of corn and 600 acres of soybeans in a rural community about 60 miles north of Iowa City, he said. They own about 300 acres and lease the rest, he said.

"A lot of times the smaller operations are still around just because of the diversity and because they haven't had time to build up the debt," Kintzle said.

UI sophomore Kurt Herke said his father's large landholding in Graettinger, Iowa, was a major factor leading to his father's bankruptcy in 1986.

Herke's father owned five corn, bean and pig farms in his hometown, with a total landholding of 1,200 acres.

"What he probably should have done is rent land so he wasn't tied to the payment when the farm economy went bad," Herke said, adding he believed northwest Iowa was the area hardest hit in the state by plummeting land values.

Herke and Kintzle said the farm crisis drew people away from Iowa and to states like Colorado and Arizona where the economy is more promising.

BUT HERKE said his father turned a misfortune into an opportunity and started a custom furniture business in his small hometown and called it Kountry Wood-hut.

"I was talking to him about farming last time I was home and I asked him how he felt about it," Herke said. "He said he doesn't miss it at all."

Before his father started the carpentry business, Herke said his family was in a financial strain.

"I didn't even expect them to pay for my college education," he said, adding he has financed his education with guaranteed student loans, Pell grants and part-time jobs. "I guess maybe some people do get some (financial) help from their parents, I never did."

Herke said he is not interested in farming. He wants to go into hotel and restaurant management after graduation.

"When I was in grade school, I thought things were going well (on the farm)," he said. "Then, you started hearing more about the farm crisis in junior high and high school. You know, no one wants to go into a failing business."

But Kintzle, a senior finance major, said farming is a legacy in his family — his father, uncles and grandfather have all farmed grain crops in his hometown — but he said he plans to work in the real estate department of a Des Moines-based insurance company after graduating in May.

"I would like to own about 80 acres to farm sometime, but right now I don't have the needed capital and it's not the right climate to go into farming," he said.

Speaker recalls life of apartheid

By Jean Thilmany
The Daily Iowan

South African apartheid is a form of 20th century slavery that cannot be reformed but must be completely ended, author Mark Mathabane said Wednesday night. Mathabane spoke to a crowd of about 100 in the Union Ballroom.

"I come to you as a witness to reveal as best I can the system in which I lived for 18 nightmarish years," Mathabane said.

He said as a child he lived in the ghetto of Alexandria, a 1-square-mile plot of land inhabited by 150,000 blacks who lived in "poverty, suffering, illiteracy, pain and death." From the confines of Alexandria, Mathabane said, he could see the richest white suburbs in the world.

"I survived the nightmares of the life I was subjected to because I was determined never to make my peace with the ghetto," Mathabane said. "I vowed to go to hell before I would let the white man determine my place under the sun."

EIGHTY-FIVE percent of the white population never sees a black ghetto, yet the government of apartheid tells the rest of the world it knows what a black needs, feels and is capable of achieving, according to Mathabane.

"It certainly doesn't know the traumas I'm subjected to," he said.

Mathabane said his father earned $10 a week as an occasional laborer. Half of his income went to pay rent on the shack they lived in, Mathabane said.

He said his parents constantly fled police raids and his father was frequently arrested for the crime of being unemployed.

While his parents hid from the police, the 5-year-old Mathabane was left to care for his siblings.

The Daily Iowan/Scott Norris

Mark Mathabane describes his years in South Africa before his audience in the Union Ballroom Wednesday night.

"THE RAIDS taught me to hate people who inflict pain on me and my brethren," he said.

Mathabane said the hopelessness of his youthful experiences almost led him to give up life at the age of 10.

"I was rescued by two matriarchs who fought to create hope for children in a bleak world — my mother and my grandmother," Mathabane said.

He said they taught him to be proud and dignified, even in a state of poverty.

HIS MOTHER resolved to see Mathabane educated. He said he was enrolled in a tribal school, where he was beaten because he did not have the proper books and could not pay his school fees on time.

"When I complained she always said, 'Child, as long as you're learning something, it's worth it,'" Mathabane said of his mother.

When he came to the United States, he was surprised by the extent education was taken for granted, he said.

"In my travels across the U.S. I encountered many deserted libraries," he said. "This is the result of the debased authorities of selfishness and greed which are blindly followed."

Mathabane graduated from the Columbia University School of Journalism. He was able to bring three of his siblings to live in the United States last year. The rest of his family remain in South Africa.

He said people in other countries have paid the ultimate sacrifice for many of the freedoms Americans abuse and take for granted.

"We should ever remember Americans don't have a monopoly on freedom," he said. "Freedom is in the hearts of people everywhere."

Mathabane is the author of Kaffir Boy, a book about his experiences growing up in apartheid South Africa.

Rahman talks on Mideast unrest

By Sara Anderson
The Daily Iowan

Peace between Palestinians and Israelis can come only after Israeli attitudes change, according to Hasan Abdel Rahman, former director of the Palestine Information Office in Washington, D.C.

Rahman spoke before a crowd of about 150 people at the Union Wednesday night.

Addressing causes of the Palestinian uprising, which began last December on the Gaza Strip, Rahman said Palestinians are reacting to oppression at the hands of Israelis.

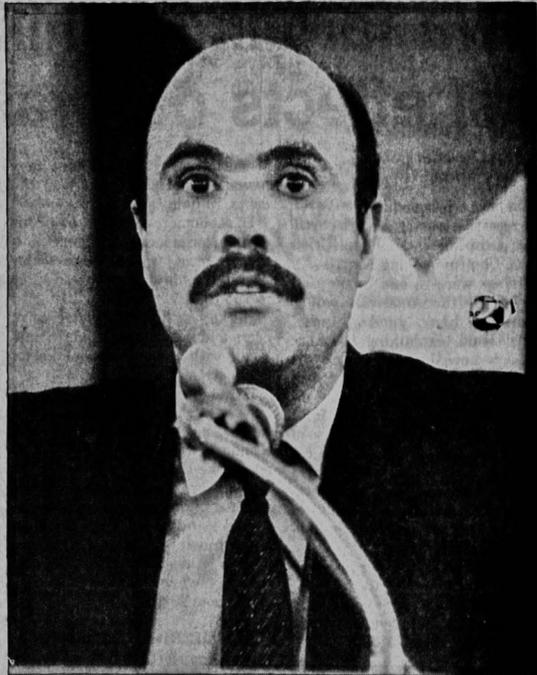

"The Israelis must recognize the fact that Palestinians are not obstinately nursing an ancient grudge," he said. "They rebel against continuing injustice, which provokes continuing resistance. The uprising represents the dying gasp of the Israeli myth of the occupation as a benevolent and merciful one."

"This is a volatile issue," he said. "It is not one which can be buried alive or entrusted to the healing powers of time alone."

RAHMAN SAID prospects for peace in the region do not look promising.

"I really don't see that we are close to peace now, at this moment, considering Israeli attitudes," he said. "Peace cannot come unless there is a change in Israeli hearts and minds. The uprising will continue. I only hope they will come to terms with the reality of Palestinian people because only then, can prospects for peace be feasible."

Rahman spoke against recent legislation, sponsored by Sen. Charles Grassley, D-Iowa, which resulted in closure of Rahman's office and of the PLO mission to the United Nations. The American Civil Liberties Union has taken up the case as an abridgement of the First Amendment right to free speech.

THE GRASSLEY amendment breaks international law, according to Rahman.

"Mr. Grassley has enacted one of the most dangerous, discriminatory actions in the history of this country," he said. "You now have the United States isolated, opposing international law and treaties and I do not believe it was the people of Iowa who wrote Grassley to tell him to close the PLO."

Rahman said although it has repeatedly been accused of practicing terrorism, the PLO does not support terrorism.

"There are individuals who practice terrorism and I am opposed to them," he said. "But I believe it is a God-given right of Palestinians to fight against Israeli occupation."

EACH SIDE must realize complete destruction of the other is impossible, Rahman said. The Israelis and the U.S. must accept the fact the Palestinians are a people with national rights.

Rahman said that, given the fact there are 3 to 4 million Israelis and 4½ to 5 million Palestinians, the groups must learn to tolerate one another.

"The Israelis cannot eliminate all Palestinians, even if they try, and they have, and Palestinians cannot eliminate all Israelis," he said.

Rahman said he doubted whether Israel will be able to resolve the conflict alone.

"There are realities and there is wishful thinking," he said. "The wishful thinking part is that the Israelis, without external interference, will be able to sit down and solve the conflict."

Rahman, a naturalized American citizen, said he has experienced prejudice because of his heritage.

"As a Palestinian who lives the agony of the Palestinian people, who was discriminated against as I was brought up, I cannot but sympathize with all victims of racism in the world," he said.

UI senate will hold daycare fundraiser

By Cathy Jackson
The Daily Iowan

The growing financial need of UI Student Senate Daycares has prompted the student senate to hold a public relations fundraiser tonight.

Organized in conjunction with the national Week of the Young Child, the fundraiser — titled "The Changing Face of Higher Education" — will be held in the Union South Room from 5 to 8 p.m.

Speakers at the event, including Iowa City Mayor John McDonald, UI Vice President for Student Services Philip Hubbard and a representative from Iowa Congressman Dave Nagle's office, will focus on promoting the importance of state-funded day care at the UI.

"INSTITUTIONS need to change because the makeup of student, faculty and staff bodies are currently changing," UI Student Senate President Melinda Hess said.

Hess said day care is becoming a more important issue in higher education due to the increasing number of single parents, women and two-income families for whom daycare services are essential.

"Student senate and the Student Senate Daycares are trying to embark on a public relations and fundraising campaign," she said, "to increase awareness among University of Iowa students, faculty and staff, and the Iowa City community."

At the door, a $5 donation will be requested for the event, which will also include live musical entertainment and refreshments.

HESS SAID the money raised will go to the Student Senate Tuition Assistance Program, a new form of student senate aid for UI student families with children in UI day care. The money may also be used to help pay a $5,000 debt left after one of the five UI daycare centers closed last month.

"Friendship Day Care closed with a $5,000 debt," Hess said. "Some money might go to that."

Money will also go to the other day cares, Hess said, to help ease funding problems.

But Hess said she doesn't expect a large fund right away. "I would expect about 50 to 75 people to attend," Hess said. "I think we're looking to the reception as more of a public relations event for the University of Iowa daycares. It's too early to tell what the response will be."

Mayor John McDonald re-emphasized Hess's commitment to get the word out about daycare funding problems.

"BY JUST making everyone more aware, it could ultimately be more beneficial down the road," McDonald, who will read a proclamation for the Week of the Young Child at the fundraiser, said. "I think day care is extremely important. It's something that's becoming more and more prevalent."

The fundraiser will complement student senate efforts already in progress to raise money for the four UI Student Senate Daycares.

Student senate sent information this week to UI faculty and staff about the new Payroll Deduction Program that will allow them to make tax-deductible contributions to the daycare fund straight from their paychecks every month.

Iowa City TV store files suit against Fry's wife

By Traci Auble
The Daily Iowan

Owners of an Iowa City TV store filed an appeal Wednesday in a small claims suit brought against the wife of Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry in a dispute over payment for a satellite dish, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Owners of Brad and Bob's Tee Vee, 1024 Gilbert Court, are requesting prompt payment for a satellite dish the store installed for the Frys, for which they undercharged them, according to court records.

Storeowners said it took employees 57½ hours to install and assemble the satellite dish, but only charged the Frys for 46½ hours of work. Included in the hours of installation was travel time from Iowa City to the Frys' old house and to the future site in North Liberty. Time to disassemble the old satellite dish and transport it seven miles was also included, according to court records.

BRAD AND BOB'S Tee Vee said it did not charge the Frys for one trip when water in a pipe was frozen and two trips when the "housesitter" did not show up, according to court records.

Claiming it is in a losing situation, Brad and Bob's Tee Vee filed suit against the Frys in the fall of 1987 for $2,237 plus court costs based on the unpaid bill, according to court records. The bill for parts and services supplied was billed on July 30 for $1,924 plus interest of $313. Shirley Fry filed a counterclaim stating Brad and Bob's Tee Vee owed her $400 for loss of satellite programming for five months and loss of magazine subscription for five months, according to court records.

The court ruled against Shirley Fry on Dec. 22, saying she owed the store $282 with a 10 percent interest rate. But Brad and Bob's Tee Vee was fined the court costs, according to court records.

KGB hints West behind ethnic unrest

MOSCOW — The head of the KGB, the Soviet secret police, hinted strongly Wednesday that he thought Western intelligence agencies were behind the recent ethnic unrest in the Soviet Union.

Viktor Chebrikov, a member of the ruling Politburo as well as head of the KGB, described the unrest in the disputed region of Nagorno-Karabakh as "anti-social actions of a nationalistic nature."

"It is an open secret," he said, "that secret services of imperialist powers and foreign anti-Soviet centers actively join extremist nationalistic actions. Later on, they start playing the part of open instigators of hostile actions aimed at kindling hostility among the people. One should not underestimate the danger of this method of subversive activity."

Aquino off to China amid coup rumors

MANILA, Philippines — With thousands of government troops braced for the possibility of an attempted coup, President Corason Aquino left the Philippines today for a three-day state visit to China, marking the first time in 18 months that she has turned over the helm of government.

Aquino, who has survived five military coup attempts in two years and an escalating communist insurgency, assured the nation Wednesday that her rule remained strong and stable, despite the recent escape from military custody of former Philippine army Col. Gregorio Honasan, who led the most serious of those uprisings last August.

But on the eve of her departure for Beijing, the president also announced that she was leaving her government under the control of her loyal military commanders and advisers — not in hands of other elected officials.

Gore assails Dukakis on foreign policy

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. — Sen. Albert Gore, trying to jump back into the thick of the Democratic presidential contest, lashed out Wednesday at Michael Dukakis on foreign policy, charging the Massachusetts governor made "unwise and irresponsible" comments about the use of nuclear force.

Gore said Dukakis made a serious blunder by commenting to The (New York) Daily News that he would advocate a nuclear first strike against the Soviet Union in the event of a communist invasion of Western Europe.

Gore, who has boasted that his foreign policy credentials are far superior to those of Dukakis, contended it was a mistake for a president or a candidate to comment on when he may use nuclear force.

Lawmakers OK proposals to fight drugs

WASHINGTON — The Senate endorsed two proposals late Wednesday to step up the government's war on drugs, attaching the anti-drug measures to a $1.1 trillion fiscal 1989 spending plan.

Lawmakers voted 93-0 in favor of one provision, which would add up to $1.4 billion for federal law enforcement efforts, drug treatment and education programs and construction of new federal prisons. Some of the money also would be directed toward special anti-drug programs in Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Jamaica, the Dominican Republic and Latin America.

U of Mass students protest alcohol ban

AMHERST, Mass. — More than 1,000 University of Massachusetts students Wednesday protested a new ban on alcoholic beverages at campus concerts and sporting events. Some chanted, "All we are saying is give booze a chance."

The outdoor "booze party" rally began on the steps of the Student Union Building where the students hoisted an empty beer keg onto a ledge. They then marched to the Whitmore Administration Building and pounded on its locked doors.

Baltimore collecting used condoms

ESSEX, Md. — The Baltimore Health Department is scooping up used condoms daily at a sewage treatment plant as part of a federally funded program to count how many city residents are using "safe sex" measures, officials said Wednesday.

Diane Dwyer, acting AIDS coordinator for Baltimore's Health Department, said the effort is being conducted under a $48,000 grant from Centers for Disease Control. Doctors say the use of condoms helps prevent the spread of acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

The method of accumulating the data on condom use was developed because surveys are not always accurate and monitoring condom sales indicates only what is being purchased and not what is being used, officials said.

Bono wins mayoral election

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Capitalizing on his celebrity status, Cher's former singing partner Sonny Bono was elected mayor of this desert resort in a landslide 2-1 margin over his closest rival.

"I'm happy that Sonny has achieved something that he has worked so hard for," Cher said from Los Angeles Wednesday.

"The entire city of Palm Springs is behind him," Bono's spokeswoman, Marilyn Baker, declared a day after Tuesday's election. "Sonny's given us an air of hope and excitement that we haven't had in decades."

Bono, a registered Republican who has long shed his "aging hippie" image, won the non-partisan race one day after his ex-wife won the best actress Oscar for her role in the movie Moonstruck.

Government proposes fine against Eastern

By Frank T. Csongos
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The government proposed an $823,000 fine against Eastern Airlines Wednesday for alleged safety violations, launched a thorough inspection of the financially struggling carrier's fleet and opened an investigation of its parent company, Texas Air Corp.

Eastern denied the allegations and called its operations "perfectly safe."

Federal Aviation Administration Chief T. Allan McArtor said: "Starting this afternoon (Wednesday), and continuing through a 30-day period, Federal Aviation Administration inspectors will literally 'touch' every one of Eastern's 267 planes through a special 100 percent ramp inspection program."

McArtor — who appeared with Transportation Secretary James Burnley at an unusual joint news conference — said the FAA will examine "the significance of what appears to be the recurring trends on non-compliance" with federal regulations.

IN MIAMI, Eastern Airlines President Phil Bakes called a news conference to respond to the move and said the company welcomed the inquiry even though he acknowledged it would hurt business. "We welcome it (the investigation) because we hope the whole story . . . will begin to be told," Bakes said. "Eastern is perfectly safe. Eastern has been perfectly safe."

McArtor, while saying passengers on Eastern are "not at risk," declared: "I want to ensure that the continuing pattern of fines, safety violations and apparent insensitivity of some of Eastern's officials to procedural compliance with FAA requirements, do not erode the margin of safe flight for tomorrow's ticket holders."

Henry Duffy, president of the Airline Pilots Association, said the union is pleased the government is "publicly recognizing that problems exist at Eastern." He added, however, the pilots will take a wait-and-see attitude until results of the Eastern probe are made available.

JOHN BAVIS, chairman of the Eastern pilots' unit, said, "We will not accept, we will not fly unsafe aircraft on Eastern."

The FAA issued a record $9.5 million fine against Miami-based Eastern in 1986 because of safety infractions. The fine was paid last year but not before the government threatened to ground the airline unless it took action to correct the problems.

Burnley said the department is beginning a preliminary investigation of Texas Air, the Houston-based parent of Eastern and the nation's largest airline company, and the airline's management.

Reagan rips Speakes' 'kiss-and-tell' memoir

By Thomas Ferraro
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Ronald Reagan said Wednesday he had been unaware that quotes attributed to him were fabricated by his former spokesman, Larry Speakes, and denounced "kiss-and-tell books" by ex-aides.

A visibly angry Reagan also charged that Speakes was wrong to imply in his new book, Speaking Out, that the president does not read newspapers. "Yes, I do," he told members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, adding wryly, "So you're not getting away with anything."

The first question put to Reagan after he addressed the group was about Speakes' admission that as White House spokesman, he made up remarks and passed them along to reporters as direct quotations of what the president said during the 1985 Geneva summit.

Although the remarks were widely reported at the time, Reagan said, "I was not aware of it and just heard it recently, as all the rest of you did, in the words in his book."

In his first public response to Speakes' book, Reagan went on to say, "I can tell you right now that I have no affection for these kiss-and-tell books that are being written and I find them entirely fiction."

Moments earlier, in his prepared remarks, Reagan made light of the affair. Leading into a story he has told before, he quipped: "That's one of the great things about this job: You get to quote yourself shamelessly. And if you don't, Larry Speakes will."

The line drew sustained laughter and applause from the several hundred editors attending the group's annual convention.

In his book, Speakes described Reagan as someone who did not like to read newspapers and also said he made up a couple of quotes to try to make Reagan look good.

STUDENT FOOTBALL TICKET SALES TO BEGIN APRIL 18

Students may order their 1988 Football Season Tickets beginning April 18 at the Athletic Ticket Office in Carver-Hokeye Arena. The cost of the tickets are $42.00 per student and $96.00 per student guest ticket. Student season tickets are good for all six home games of the 1988 football season. Student guest tickets are available on a limited basis; all students ordering these tickets may not be accommodated, but will receive a refund for their order at Fall pickup. Priority buying is from April 18 thru May 13, and this is the only time that guest tickets may be ordered. Athletic Ticket Office hours are 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., Monday thru Friday. Students may pick up their tickets beginning September 7. Please read the student ticket policy before placing your order.

STUDENT FOOTBALL POLICY - 1988

- A student may purchase one season ticket at the student price of $42.00. A guest ticket may be ordered at the public price of $96.00. A limited number of guest tickets will be available; therefore, all students ordering these tickets may not receive them. Guest tickets are only valid when entering the stadium with another student and are not replaceable if lost or stolen. The guest ticket will not be available after May 13 the deadline for student priority. Office hours are 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.
- Students will receive priority based on the number of consecutive years they have applied for or purchased football tickets at The University of Iowa. There will be no loss in priority for off-campus programs or a bona fide illness. An individual who misses two or more consecutive seasons for reasons other than the above will lose all priority.
- In order for a student to receive their priority for football he/she must order sometime during the period of April 18 to May 13, 1988. These orders will be filled according to priority established. Any order placed after May 13 will be filled as if the order was a zero priority. Students ordering after the priority period will also accrue a year of buying credit toward their priority for purchase of tickets in following years.
- Individuals may order season tickets for a group no larger than six. If all group members cannot be present when the order is placed, the members who are not present must provide either their personal check with current and summer address thereon or cash and their ID number to the person placing the order. One student may not write a personal check in payment for another student's tickets.
- The lowest priority within a group will determine the location of the entire block of tickets for that group. That is, all students within a group will carry the lowest priority of any member in that group. If certain priorities are denied student or guest tickets, anyone with higher priority requesting seating with this group will also be denied tickets.
- Student season tickets will continue on sale on a non-priority basis after May 13 and will remain on sale through Tuesday, August 31. Tickets may be sold after September 7 if available. Please contact the Athletic Ticket Office for further information.
- Each student must pick up their own ticket in the fall. The student must present their own student ID with current registration (Fall 1988) sticker and picture ID at the time of pickup. Student pickup will begin Wednesday, September 7.
- Students may cancel their football season ticket order and receive a full refund up until the Friday before the first home game. After that date, refunds will be issued only for the portion of games remaining to be played. No cancellations or refund requests will be honored after the student ticket has been picked up and signed for. All requests for refunds must be made in writing to the Athletic Ticket Office. Please provide your full name, ID number and an address for the mailing of the refund check. ALL REFUNDS ARE NOT AUTOMATICALLY PROCESSED AND MAILED.
- A student ticket, to be valid, must be accompanied by a University of Iowa ID with current registration (Fall 1988) sticker and a picture ID. A student ticket may be used by the original purchaser or by any other University of Iowa student, but the original purchaser will be held liable for any violations of the student ticket policy. The penalty for a violation of the University policy involving the ID and ticket will be the loss of the use of the ticket for two games. If a non-student is found using a student's ticket, that student forfeits all future student ticket privileges.
- Disciplinary action will be taken as a result of disorderly conduct on the part of a student ticket holder. Discretionary measures will be left up to the investigation of the Dean of Students. This may result in the loss of the student's ticket for the remaining season or possibly the remaining enrollment period of said student at The University of Iowa.
- Everyone, regardless of age, is required to have a valid ticket for admittance to all University of Iowa football games. This includes infants in arms.
- DUPLICATE TICKETS CANNOT BE ISSUED FOR LOST OR STOLEN STUDENT TICKETS.

At last, saving lives

To smoke or not to smoke?
On June 6, New Yorkers addicted to tobacco will be asking themselves that very question. The reason — a new law under which tobacco smoking is prohibited or severely restricted in public places from restrooms to arenas, from courtrooms to hotel lobbies. Errant smokers who light up where they shouldn't face a $50 fine and the ignominy of public censure for engaging in what was, not so long ago, the most widely accepted vice this side of getting plastered.

Doubtless, the New York City ban will usher in a new era in the debate about public smoking and the rights of non-smokers. (Beverly Hills tried it last year, but who cares about Beverly Hills?) The question boils down to this: Is a ban on public smoking a legitimate, constitutionally defensible measure to improve the public's health, or is it just, in the words of Queens College professor and avowed pipe smoker Alexander Bardosh, "another example of bureaucratic social engineering raised to the level of consensus?"

No sentient being, not even a sentient smoker, could deny the health hazards of tobacco use. Government figures published last week in Time cited 350,000 smoking-related deaths each year, or seven times the number of people killed in automobile accidents. A surgeon general study done two years ago indicated that secondhand smoke, long thought merely annoying, poses a threat all its own.

So the consensus, truly, is that smoking is a deadly compulsion. And the guilty party in this horrifying massacre is not smokers themselves — who are addicts, and therefore victims — but the tobacco industry which, since the surgeon general first issued warning in the early '60s, has used its powerful lobby to throw a veil of bad science and legal artifice around itself and has continued, against common decency, to hawk its deadly product.

The threat of smoking to non-smokers is real, but slight when compared to the effects of the addiction on the smoker himself. Although New York lawmakers have adopted the rhetorical posture that the public anti-smoking law is really about the rights of non-smokers — and its the only posture they can adopt under the circumstances — it's clear what's really on their minds.

For the first time, a major municipality is taking a stand against the lies of the tobacco industry. How many smokers will be inspired to quit the habit when smoking is made inconvenient? One? A hundred and one? Maybe smokers are taking a fall for the crimes of Phillip Morris and R.J. Reynolds, but it's a fall that may just save their lives.

Reagan talks again

Ronald Reagan has, if his spokesmen can be believed, often talked about the importance of free markets and getting the "government off the backs" of American businessmen. The recent demise of a proposed 7.9 billion bushel corn sale to Pakistan suggests that some markets are freer than others and that, if the government is not on the backs of farmers, it is not on their side either.

The Pakistanis wanted to buy the American grain for poultry feed. They had lifted their ban on import of grains in order to supplement their own drought-reduced harvest. This sounds like a classic opportunity for supply and demand to operate beneficially. But the U.S. Maritime Administration, an agency of the Transportation Department, insisted that the grain be shipped on American vessels. This stipulation added an extra 74 cents a bushel to the cost of the American corn, effectively pricing it out of competition.

The Maritime Administration is charged with seeing that the moribund American merchant fleet gets thrown a bone here and there by the government. Much patriotic rhetoric comes into play. The gist of it usually is that if World War II ever flares up again we're going to need the Liberty Ships to convoy to Murmansk, like they did back in 1942. Thus, various things can, by law, only be carried by American ships, and the merchant marine stays this side of extinction.

The Agency for International Development asked the Maritime Administration for a waiver of the American carrier requirement. Now, if Lyn Nofzinger or Ed Meese had asked for the waiver it would have gone through like poultry feed through a goose. This not being the case, one of the Maritime people denied it, cryptically citing "innumerable instances where agencies don't adhere to the letter of the law." In this administration Americans may well wonder which agencies and what laws.

The proposed corn sale never caught the president's interest somehow. It lacked the symbolic appeal of the hundreds of millions of dollars we send to Pakistan every year in the form of military hardware for both the local dictatorship and the neighboring Afghan resistance. Thus, a chance for international cooperation in the cause of feeding people and a clear case of mutual benefit has been buried, and the Reagan rhetoric shown again to be only that.

Gain health, lose the world

My sister Trippi is at the rabbit ears of a dilemma. It's been four years since she quit all behavior that was even remotely "unsafe" — no smoking, no drinking, no driving in her boyfriend Raymond's Buick, no nothing, in fact.

It was all because of her son, Sprout. The minute she found out she was pregnant she concentrated every ounce of idealism in her being toward the life growing inside her.

She wouldn't wear anything that wasn't all-natural fiber and would hold her breath near all major intersections. She planned for the child to sleep on a Japanese futon and play in a biodegradable microbiosphere. (We called them sandboxes in my day.)

Trippi was adamant. Her son would not suffer the chemical contamination we experienced as fetuses. (Our mother ate Big Macs.)

And she stuck with it through a trying pregnancy. The kid didn't give her many problems, but another mother's child did — her boyfriend Raymond.

"YOU'RE TOO DAMN healthy," he'd tell her. "You get on my nerves." One day he brought home a tube of Crest instead of Tom's All-Natural Toothpaste and it was all over — she booted the bastard.

Friends stopped coming by. She was so serious. If she wasn't getting high, why bother to visit? There wasn't any hootch to mooch.

Yet, she carried on.

It wasn't until Sprout was 4 years old that she was truly tested. That's when he left the cozy, toxinless nest Trippi had made for him and discovered the wide world of day care. (In my time, we called it nursery school.) There he lost his innocence; there he broke his mother's heart.

"I made it a strict rule with him," she tells me over mugs of peace-grass blossom tea. "He knew how much it meant to his mother, but he still did it!"

"WE'VE GONE OVER this before," I tell her. "First it was the chocolate. The kid got sick of carob and I don't blame him. So he went hogwild and filled the bathtub with it. So what?"

"You're making a big thing of it again. Of course he's going to rebel bigtime. It's only natural for a 4-year-old to want to watch television. All his friends do."

"It'll stunt his imagination," she wails. "Look at all the two-legged walleye salmon walking around. What do you think made them that way?"

Their mothers' nagging, I think but don't say. The teakettle filled with French mineral water whistles on the stove.

I AM DISTRACTED by the whistling, which is a shrill A-minor at about 900 decibels, so I can only half-hear Trippi complain about people losing touch with their environment. She is wiping her eyes with a 100-percent agave cloth woven by the peasants of Central America and doesn't move to shut off the stove.

"TV can't be that bad," I shout. "We watched a lot of it when we were kids, right?"

Trippi is not consoled. "Look how we turned out," she mutters.

I finally get up and remove the teakettle from the stove and Sprout enters stage left, barrels into me, bounces off and collapses into his mother's arms. He's bawling.

"Mommy, Mommy," cries the kid. "They made fun of me again today."

Trippi shoots me that half-concerned, half-angry look that somehow implicates me. "What is it, Sprout dear?"

"They called me stupid," says the kid, "because I don't know who Zoltron is." He sobs. "And Zoltron. And Macaron. And Weenoneednoreeron."

I'M PUZZLED. Did they change the English language around since I learned it in school?

"But I bought a TV so you could keep up with your peers," Trippi says soothingly. She makes it a point not to disguise her motivations from her son.

"It's not on TV, Mom, it's on cable."

"But I bought you cable so you'd be able to chip in during conversations in the microbiosphere, honey."

Sprout jumps out of his mother's arms and stamps his feet on the linoleum.

"But Zoltron is on at 7:30 on Saturday morning!" he shrieks. "We need a VCR!"

Later, Trippi gets me alone on the porch.

"Can I bum a cigarette?" she asks me. "You know, Raymond called me. He's back in town."

Those bug boys strike again

It used to be simple. If anybody in the old neighborhood had bugs, they'd walk over to see Joe the exterminator. If he was out killing bugs, his wife would be there. If the shop was closed, you just walked around back and rapped on the door of the flat where they lived.

Joe would come over with his spray machine and chemicals, peer into the pantry, knock on the walls, gaze thoughtfully at the woodwork and tell everybody: "You go out for a while. This stuff don't smell too good."

When he finished the job, he'd say: "Don't worry. When I kill 'em, they stays kilt. But if they come back, lemme know and I'll kill 'em again." A man of his word, he'd return until every last one was doomed.

JOE DIDN'T advertise, although he had one promotional gimmick: In his shop window was a big jar that contained several genuine, live black widow spiders. On summer evenings, when people took walks, there would always be a small crowd in front of the window, staring at the black widows. Some of the old ladies crossed themselves.

There was no reason for Joe to advertise. Everybody knew he was there and would get the job done. As he said, the bugs would be kilt. That was then and there. This is now and someplace else.

And a couple of months ago, the blonde noticed these silvery little bugs darting across our kitchen floor.

She shrieked. Bugs have that effect on some people. I shrugged. As I told her, they don't appear to be ferocious, so why worry? If they eat one of the cats, then we'll do something.

BUT SHE wanted immediate action. So she flipped open the Yellow Pages.

Having been conditioned since childhood by TV, she called Orkin, the big, national chain of bug killer. It airs commercials showing their bug fighters marching to your rescue like brave Marines.

Naturally, they're no longer known as "exterminators." An outdated word. They now engage in "pest control." I prefer exterminators, which is specific. Pest control could mean anything from a school-teacher to a tavern bouncer.

Anyway, she called the nearest Orkin office, one of many in this city. And one of many in 46 states. It's the nation's biggest killer of bugs. It's so big that it has several separate corporate divisions. And it's owned by something even bigger called Rollins Environmental Services Inc., which is traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

THOSE TINY bugs in my kitchen are big business.

The local Orkin office sent a pest control expert to the house. Although he didn't act like a Marine, he identified the creatures as "silverfish," and said that for $150 he would slay them. But their demise required at least two zaps — one now and another in two weeks.

She wrote the check, he spent about 20 minutes spraying, and vowed to return.

Two weeks later, she waited all morning before phoning. He said: "I forgot," but promised to be there the next week.

That day came, but the bug hero didn't. She phoned again. Somebody else answered and said that particular pest controller was no longer with the Orkin company. She didn't say where he went. Maybe something ate him.

But they promised that the next week, someone else would be out to finish the job.

ANOTHER WEEK, another no-show.

By then, the tiny silver fellows were boldly galloping across the floor again. So she called and said enough was enough and to just mail a refund.

"It will take six weeks for a refund," the man said. "It has to go through our national office."

"Fine," she said, "just send it." Seven weeks passed without a refund. Another phone call, and this time the office manager said they had no record of a refund request or of anything else regarding our silver creatures.

After further discussion with the blonde, at times a bit loud, the manager said that he would agree to refund half of the $150. Why only half? Because they had made the one visit. That was as logical as a doctor cutting you open, not sewing you back up, but charging half his regular fee.

Now the blonde stomps the bugs when she sees them, and I tell her that it could be worse: if they had been killer ants, by the time the world's biggest pest controllers arrived, all that would have remained would have been our bones.

It's another example of why bigger isn't always better. Joe the exterminator wasn't traded on the New York Stock Exchange, but when he said the bugs would be kilt, they was kilt.

Sometimes bigger is just richer. And dumber.

Earlier Wednesday, one of the 12 freed passengers was identified by a U.S. Embassy spokesman in Nicosia, Cyprus, as naturalized American citizen Rami Hughes, who was born in Egypt and also goes by the name R. Attialla Ali. He said he feared he would be killed if the hijackers knew he had an American passport.

"I took fortunately my other passport with me," the freed hostage said referring to his Egyptian passport, "and when they stopped to collect the passports, I gave them the other passport and I kept my American passport hidden in my briefcase."

AFTER MEETING with the hijackers aboard the airplane, Khediri said, "They told me they would try in Algiers to be very calm and use no violence. They told me they would not employ violence. I think they knew what they were saying."

He said the hijackers repeated to him their demand for the release of 17 convicted Shiite Moslem terrorists jailed in Kuwait for the 1983 bombing of the U.S. and French embassies.

Khediri then met with Kuwaiti Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Saud bin Nami, who Wednesday flew in to join the negotiations at the airport near the rugged Djura Mountains looming on the horizon.

Al-Ossami, who arrived with an eight-man negotiating team clad in flowing white robes and traditional Arab headpieces, was optimistic. "I am confident for a happy ending in Algiers," he said.

AT 3:55 P.M., an Algerian identified as army Col. Becchine, a senior security officer, entered the plane and stayed for about 30 minutes. At about 7:30 p.m., an unidentified Algerian official met with the hijackers for 30 minutes.

The Algerian and Kuwaiti officials meeting behind closed doors at a building next to the main terminal gave no signs the ordeal might be near an end.

Official Radio Algiers said the discussions are proceeding normally despite widespread speculation that they have run upon serious snags. The hijackers have requested 20,000 tons of fuel, purportedly to keep the aircraft's air conditioning and electrical systems running. They also asked for a change of underwear for everyone aboard, officials said.

Officials in Cyprus had said the remaining passengers were expected to be released on arrival in Algeria as part of a negotiated resolution of the hijacking. But the high expectations of a quick resolution once the plane landed in Algeria have run into skepticism.

THE PLANE LANDED in Algiers at 3:06 a.m. Wednesday (9:06 p.m. CST Tuesday) and it was not clear what was stalling the negotiations — whether there were differences between the hijackers and the Algerians, or between the Algerians and the Kuwaitis.

"We hope this problem will be solved soon. But it may be some hours yet," Kuwaiti Ambassador to Algeria Gasin Bourisly said.

Housing

working," Jepson said. Iowa City resident Anne Stapleton participated in the Rent for Services program in the summer and fall of 1987. She said her family benefited from the arrangement because they gained a babysitter while helping a UI student who needed a place to stay.

"I think that if the family has the space available, this can be an arrangement to the benefit of both parties," Stapleton said. A SIMILAR PROGRAM is offered by the Iowa City Senior Center. Homeowners who want companionship or someone to help with household duties, in trade for rent, submit their names at the Iowa City Senior Center.

Shared Housing/Elderly Coordinator Diana Miller said the arrangement is good for senior citizens because it gives them the security of knowing there is someone in the house at night.

"Every year we make about 26 matches," Miller said. "The bulk of those are between May and August." She said nearly all of the 100 applications already received this spring are from students, and she will review them for compatible landlord schedules, leases and rent.

Iowa City resident Margaret Alton said she decided to participate in the program after getting divorced. She was first matched with another divorced woman, and now shares her home with a UI graduate student.

SHE SAID the service monitors participant preferences including music, schedules and personal habits before making interviews between people. Applicants have 30 days after their initial meeting to accept the match.

"It provides someone with a great deal of safety," Alton said. "You don't end up with just anyone off the street."

A service fee, usually $25, is paid by each tenant and each homeowner when the lease is signed to cover processing expenses by the Senior Center.

Once students find housing, the UI Protective Association for Tenants offers them advice concerning leases, damage deposits and roommate problems.

Nathan Novak, PAT coordinator, said illegitimate damage charges are one problem tenants can avoid if they take the time to complete a damage assessment with the landlord before moving into their apartments.

"We try to encourage communication because we find that is where a lot of problems occur," Novak said. "There is often a lack of communication between tenants and landlords."

Panama

tagon spokesman Dan Howard said.

The Panamanian government vehemently denied involvement in the Marine's death.

Sonyers said about 100 Marines were involved in Tuesday's incident, which he repeatedly referred to as a "firefight" at Arraijan Tank Farm, a sprawling 800-acre facility located in dense jungle near Howard Air Base, about 5 miles west of Panama City.

SONYERS SAID Howard and Albrook Air Force bases were both placed on alert Wednesday and U.S. officers conducted a sweep of the Arraijan facility, which contains underground tanks of fuel for ships and jet fighters.

By late afternoon Wednesday U.S. military authorities had not reported finding any physical evidence of intruders, such as shell casings from small arms that were reportedly used against the American troops.

Sonyers said Marine sentries at the depot reported spotting a group of 40 to 50 people wearing dark uniforms at dusk Tuesday.

"These people were identified as not the normal type of people (who are seen in the area) and were under observation the entire time," Sonyers said. "There was nothing to identify them with any particular organization."

"At approximately 7:35 p.m. CST Tuesday, U.S. Marine Corps personnel ... reported receiving fire from a location where they had observed unauthorized personnel," he said.

Mecham backs out of TV program

By Lori K. Weinraub
United Press International

PHOENIX — Former Gov. Evan Mecham, who earlier speculated the Arizona Supreme Court canceled a May 17 recall election because they were afraid he would regain the post, backed out of a scheduled live TV appearance Wednesday in a disagreement over ground rules.

The court ruled 4-1 late Tuesday to cancel the recall election because of Mecham's impeachment conviction, apparently dooming any chance Mecham had of recapturing the governorship.

Mecham was scheduled to announce his plans for the future in the televised appearance, but walked out of the studios of station KTSP-TV just minutes before air time when he and station management failed to agree on the format.

THE FORMER governor wanted to read a 15-minute prepared statement, while station executives had set up for a question-and-answer format.

As Mecham left the station, he said there apparently was some confusion during talks between his representative and the station. He said he wanted to make his statement live so "it doesn't get edited in the pages."

KTSP News Director Dave Howell said the station's agreement was that Mecham would participate in a question-and-answer segment. He said there was no agreement that he would be allowed to read a statement.

When both sides could not agree on the format heading into the segment, Howell said he just dropped the interview rather than change the format with less than a minute to air time.

"We wouldn't accept his ground rules," he said.

MECHAM WAS replaced as governor by Democratic Secretary of State Rose Mofford April 4 when the state Senate convicted him on impeachment charges of misusing state funds and obstructing a criminal investigation.

RASLEY SAID all hospital personnel are expected to wear gloves, masks and eye goggles during procedures in which there is a risk of coming into contact with bodily excretions.

"One of the things we have to go by are the standards set by the Centers for Disease Control," Rasley said. "You have to set some kind of compliance thing. You can't have somebody say, 'Well, I know the risks,' because that does not relieve the hospital from responsibility."

In addition to CDC standards, Rasley said the Occupational Safety and Health Administration will be spot-checking hospitals and fining those not complying with the proper precautionary measures.

UI Hospitals Emergency Room Nursing Director Sharon Johnson said the increased emphasis on protection has made the medical community more aware of the risks associated with the disease.

"I think there has been enough education of late that it makes it obvious to a staff member that following these procedures is a very prudent thing to do," Johnson said.

JOHNSON SAID she has noticed hospital personnel being more careful to follow proper procedures.

"They are more aware and alert now to all the ramifications that might erupt," Johnson said.

Because emergency room personnel cannot immediately identify trauma patients that are "at-risk," Johnson said it is important to treat every patient with the same precautions and to keep protective gloves, masks and goggles close by. UI Emergency Room Nurse Mike Miller said he does not believe taking the extra precautions alters the quality of nursing he is able to give.

"When you are wearing the gloves your touch perception is decreased in some procedures, but I don't believe that it adversely affects the kind of nursing you can give," Miller said.

MILLER SAID the increased emphasis on protection and proper procedure is educational, but said he sees some less positive results from the AIDS crisis.

"It's adding a certain level of suspicion to people who come in for care from the medical and nursing perspective," Miller said. "I hear a lot of people ask, 'Well, are they positive?' or 'Have they been tested for HIV?' — whether it's because of the patient's social history or background or from the symptoms they present."

In the midst of the AIDS crisis, Miller said patients who have unexplained illnesses are regarded suspiciously, but said he does not fear getting the disease from his patients.

"I came to grips with this a long time ago," Miller said. "I have a lot of friends who are suffering with the disease. We still eat together and I still visit them. Actually, I am more likely to get hepatitis-B in a medical setting."

"EVERYONE IS personally afraid of getting the disease, but I don't go around taking care of patients as if I was afraid because I know the percentage of my likelihood of getting the disease is next to nothing," Miller said.

Johnson said a certain degree of fear about the disease is widespread, but said she is not afraid of contracting the disease from a patient.

"I think the odds are in my favor," Johnson said. "If you are prepared and educated and you do everything that you think is prudent, then I think it is simply a legitimate risk for the type of work that I am doing. It is something that I have to deal with, but I wouldn't change my profession because of it."

However, even though Johnson said normal precautions have become second nature among many people in the medical profession, anxieties still arise when contact with potentially infected body fluids occurs.

RASLEY SAID she has counseled medical personnel who have panicked when confronted with an AIDS-related crisis.

"There will be those few who are always having fears, and there will be those few on the nursing unit who, when first confronted with taking care of an AIDS-related complex will say, 'Well, I just don't know,'" Rasley said.

"I'm on call to talk to people with anxiety about it, but by the time it takes me to walk from my office to where they are in the hospital, I'll get there and they will say, 'It was just that initial panic. I've thought about it and I know there is no risk,'" Rasley said.

Iowa Center for AIDS/ARC Resources and Education Director Rick Graf said the first reactions to AIDS seen in the medical profession are usually no different from the general public's.

"THE REACTIONS are usually the same as everybody else's," Graf said. "If they don't know about the disease and are not well-informed, then the fear can overcome what is known about the disease. There have been fearful and harmful reactions from people in the medical profession."

"There is not one group that is more panicky than the rest," Graf said. "I think everybody needs better education."

Rasley said the AIDS crisis in the Midwest may get worse before it gets better, but she said better education for both the medical profession and the public about the disease is the key to stopping an epidemic.

"I think it depends on what is done," Rasley said. "If you look at the statistics in San Francisco, where gay and bisexual behavior was substantially the highest risk area, the behavior has been changed and the epidemic is leveling off."

Miller agreed education is the answer to solving the AIDS problem.

"From a personal perspective, I think the greatest hope lies in breaking down the barriers about differing groups in society," Miller said. "The sooner we can stop worrying about what group does this and what group does that and start saying, as a society, this is what we need to do to stop this disease, the better off we will be."

Hitters quiet as Hawkeyes-Minnesota split

Heinz says hitting isn't easy task

By G. Hammond-Kunke
 The Daily Iowan

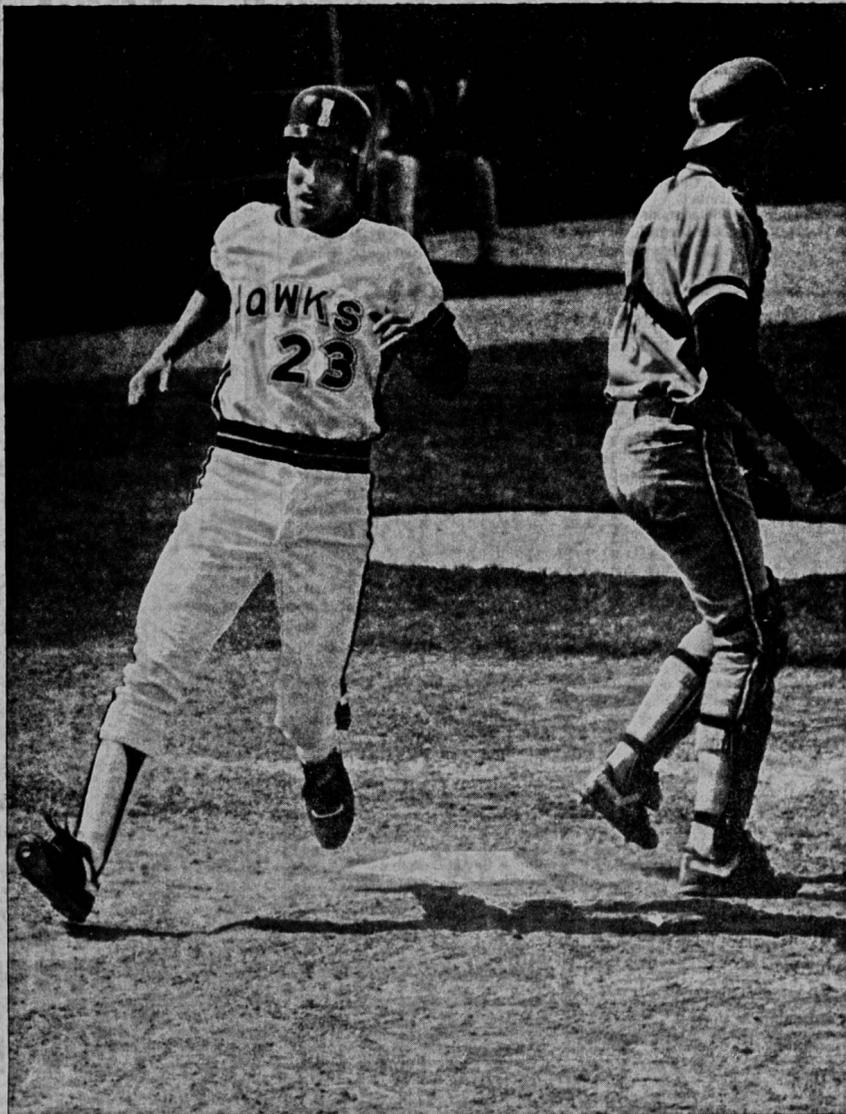

Bill Heinz is a survivor. The Iowa right fielder sat out the 1985 season after surgery for a herniated disc in his back. But the Allison Park, Penn., native fought off the adverse situation, calling the injury "a blessing in disguise," to become one of Iowa's best power hitters ever. "I like to be considered a power hitter," Heinz said. "I put a lot of pressure on myself to come through, especially with runners on base because that's what a cleanup hitter is expected to do." Over the past few years, Heinz has hit some booming blasts out of Iowa Field. He currently ranks in a number of Iowa career categories — first in doubles (52), third in home runs (33) and sixth in hits (193).

"RIGHT NOW I'M seeing the ball better than I ever have, but I'm not satisfied with how I've been hitting it. Maybe I should take more first pitches or wait for the perfect pitch. But my philosophy is, if it's in there... hit it."

Hit it he has. If Heinz continues at his current pace, he'll hold a lot more Iowa records. After 26 games, the slugger leads Iowa in seven offensive statistics — average (.381), slugging percentage (.680), doubles (11), total bases (66), hits (37), runs (28) and at-bats (97). He also sports a .415 on-base percentage while clubbing six home runs.

But it's still not good enough for the line-drive, hit-it-in-the-gap hitter.

"I know I can do better. I want to do it all as a hitter. I'm not hitting with guys on base," Heinz, whose goals include hitting .400, said.

Boland tosses 2-hitter in nightcap, but loses

By Scott Wingert
 The Daily Iowan

It isn't hard to tell the Big Ten baseball season already has the league's coaches pressing for answers.

Though Iowa's Duane Banks and Minnesota's John Anderson joshed amiably with each other at home plate after splitting a doubleheader Wednesday at Iowa Field, both coaches scowled seconds later about each team's hitting attacks.

The Hawkeyes (4-2 in the Big Ten and 14-13 overall) won the opener, 6-3. The Gophers (2-4, 9-14) were victorious in the second game, 1-0.

The Hawkeyes' Allen Rath (4-0) went the distance in the first game, while Iowa's Mark Boland (2-5) tossed a two-hitter in defeat in the second game.

"WE'VE GOT TO get tougher mentally," Banks said. "I'm really disappointed with our mental makeup in the second game. You shouldn't lose a 1-0 game in college. Not with the pitching we're seeing."

Anderson, meanwhile, wasn't even happy winning the 1-0 game.

"We're so undisciplined at the plate," Anderson said. "We were chasing a lot of balls that were outside the strike zone. Until we get better offensively, we're only going to be an up-and-down ballclub."

Iowa fell behind, 2-0, in the opener before shortstop Tim Costo launched his third home run of the season, a solo shot to right field, to lead off the third inning.

Minnesota came back with run in the fourth on a pair of singles by Jeff Goergen and Bruce Bates and a sacrifice fly by Vince Paylan.

BUT THE HAWKEYES rallied back in the sixth inning when Mike Bradley started a four-run burst with a bloop double behind first base.

Keith Noreen then singled to right field to chase Gopher starter Den-

'88 'Mr. Basketball' signs with Iowa

Stringer also signs on a top recruit

By G. Hammond-Kunke
 The Daily Iowan

Iowa has offered its seventh and last available scholarship for the 1988-89 basketball season to Wade Lookingbill, the 1988 Iowa Mr. Basketball award winner out of Ft. Dodge High School.

Iowa women's Coach Vivian Stringer also received a signature from one of the most sought-after players in the country — Cassandra Rahming, a 5-foot-11 lightning-quick guard from Twin Lakes High School in West Palm Beach, Fla.

More than 100 schools offered Rahming a scholarship. She picked Iowa over Florida State and Clemson. Rahming was named Player of the Year for the second time by the Palm Beach Post after averaging 29 points, 9 rebounds and 6.5 assists per game.

"The quality of education available at Iowa is very well established. They have a lot to offer academically and athletically," Rahming said. "I chose Iowa because I like the standards they set for (its) athletes."

Lookingbill, a 6-6, 195-pound center, was put on hold by the Iowa staff last fall with the thought that there might be a scholarship open this spring. Lookingbill waited to commit just in case something materialized, and it did when Mark Jewell left the team, who cited a lack of playing time.

Lookingbill, who will play small forward for the Hawkeyes, joins Iowa prep Troy Skinner who signed a national letter of intent Wednesday. Last fall, three players — Ray Thompson, Acie Earl and James Moses — signed on with the Hawkeyes.

TWO SCHOLARSHIPS were awarded to transfers Matt Bullard, a 6-10 center considered to be an impact player from Colorado, and 6-8 power forward Michael Ingram from Missouri.

Lookingbill, tabbed as the best big man among Iowa preps, was offered scholarships by Drake and Northern Iowa, Ohio State, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Northwestern, the Naval Academy and Southern Illinois were interested in Lookingbill during the fall signing period.

"I waited and I'm really happy that something opened up," Lookingbill said. "I'm really excited about going to Iowa. It's a great program. And the Big Ten is a tremendous league."

Lookingbill helped propel Ft. Dodge to its first state basketball championship in the school's history under first-year coach Tom Goodman, whose son, Jay, accepted a scholarship to play for Johnny Orr at Iowa State.

LOOKINGBILL SHOT 59 percent from the field while scoring 22.9 points and snaring 11.5 rebounds per game for the 23-1 Class 3-A team. Lookingbill, who holds school records for most rebounds (768) and most career starts (69), is one of three players in Iowa to play in four state tournaments. His 551 points is second most in school history.

Goodman said Lookingbill's play at the AAUs last summer may have impressed the Iowa staff.

"It may take a couple of years for him to get the feel of it," Goodman said. "But Wade will be a good asset for Iowa. He plays extremely hard and is a tremendous competitor. Wade runs the court well and can hit the mid-range (15 to 17 feet) jumper," said Goodman, who also coached for 12 years at Sioux City North High School.

"HIS BIGGEST ASSET is his rebounding. Wade has long arms and is really strong and aggressive

Hawks tackle NCAA prelims

The Iowa men's gymnastics team will face the top competition in the nation tonight when they take part in the NCAA preliminaries in Lincoln, Neb.

The 10 chosen teams — Illinois, Nebraska, Stanford, Penn State, Oklahoma, Ohio State, Houston-Baptist, UCLA, Minnesota and Iowa — will be in the running for "The Final Three" match to be held Friday night.

The Hawkeyes finished No. 5 nationally after a record-breaking 1988 season. Iowa set new school standards on the pommel horse (47.75), still rings (47.60), parallel bars (47.70) and horizontal bar (48.75).

After an undefeated home campaign (8-0), the Hawkeyes scored another school-record 284.90 in the Big Ten Meet. They finished second to top-ranked Illinois.

IOWA COACH TOM Dunn said he thought the other schools would be tough.

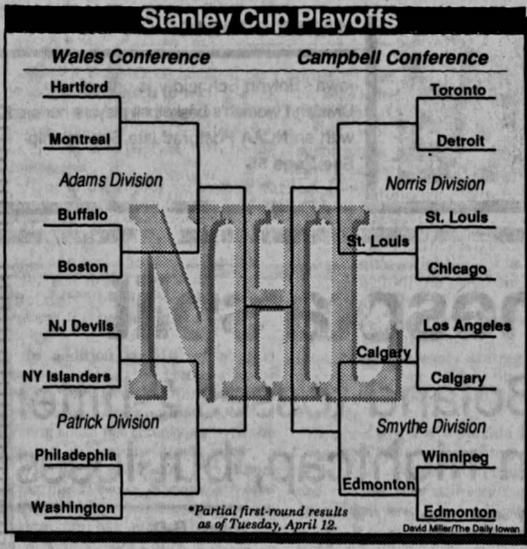

"The only team I feel we should beat is Penn State," Dunn said. "The other teams will be really close."

Nebraska Coach Francis Allen agreed with Dunn and predicted his second-ranked Cornhuskers would go to the finals.

"We have two guys who finished in the top ten last year and they

Ex-Bear Payton shoots own employee

SCHAUMBURG, Ill. (UPI) — A gun being handled by former Chicago Bears running back Walter Payton accidentally discharged Wednesday and wounded an employee at Payton's suburban Chicago restaurant, police said. The employee, Elmer Hutson, 28, of Hoffman Estates, was shot in the left leg as Payton handled the .9 mm semi-automatic handgun in the office of his Restaurant, Studebaker's, said Schaumburg Police Chief Kennedy Alley. Hutson was listed in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights. "The shooting was accidental and no charges will be filed," Alley said. "We've interviewed six witnesses, including Mr. Payton himself and there is no reason to believe the shooting was anything but accidental." Payton, a gun collector, kept the World War II vintage, French-made handgun at his restaurant and had it out because he was going to take it home, Alley said. The gun was registered to Payton, he said. Payton thought the gun was not loaded, but there was one bullet in the firing chamber, Alley said.

Ex-Tiger dies of heart attack at 77

TOWSON, Md. (UPI) — Frank Skaff, who served the Detroit Tigers as coach, manager and scout, died Tuesday on a scouting trip to Towson State University, the team announced. He was 77. Skaff was coach for Detroit in 1966 when Manager Charlie Dressen died during the season. Bob Swift replaced Dressen and also died. At that point, Skaff stepped in and served as interim manager for 79 games. The Tigers finished third in the American League in 1966. Mayo Smith was named manager in 1967 and Skaff became a scout.

New Indy-car rules put into effect

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — New Indy-car rules requiring tighter wheel assemblies come too late for Lyle Kurtenbach, a spectator whose death at last year's Indianapolis 500 has prompted a $9 million wrongful death lawsuit. Kurtenbach, a 41-year-old construction materials salesman from Rothschild, Wis., was watching the race from the top row of a grandstand between the third and fourth turns. His wife Karen Ann, their stepdaughter and eight relatives sat beside him. Kurtenbach died after the right front wheel assembly came off the car of veteran Tony Bettenhausen, ricocheted off Roberto Guerrero's car, flew into the air and struck Kurtenbach in the head. He died later at Methodist Hospital. Two months ago, Kurtenbach's widow filed a federal suit claiming the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and others failed to take adequate safety precautions. The suit also charges that the car and tires were defective and spectators were not warned of the dangers of the race. Locking pins now are required on all wheel assemblies during Championship Auto Racing Teams events under a rule adopted for the 1988 season. But should fans be worried about attending this year's Indy 500? The attorney for Kurtenbach's widow says no. Kurtenbach's death was the first at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway since driver Gordon Smiley was killed in 1982.

Syracuse's Kane pleads guilty to assault

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — After being arrested at gun point, Syracuse football star Tommy Kane Wednesday pleaded not guilty to charges he assaulted a police officer who was about to have his illegally parked car towed. Kane, 24, who led the nation with 14 touchdown receptions last season, was arrested Tuesday after he allegedly assaulted Officer Lisa Phelan. The officer was arranging to have Kane's Cadillac towed because it was illegally parked, police spokesman Rod Carr said. Phelan, 29, suffered minor injuries to her right arm and right hand when Kane shut the driver's door on her arm while she was attempting to grab his keys from the ignition, and then struck her with the car door as he backed it out of the parking spot, Carr said. Phelan returned to her patrol car and chased Kane for about four blocks before he stepped out of his car and confronted her, Carr said. After the football player pushed and threatened the officer, she pulled her gun on him and held him at gun point until other officers arrived, the spokesman said. Phelan was treated at Community-General Hospital and released but will be on sick leave for the next four days, Carr said. Kane's car has 19 outstanding parking violations, which puts it on the city's scofflaw list, Carr said. The 5-foot-11, 180-pound, Kane decided in January to give up his final year of eligibility at Syracuse and enter his name in the NFL draft. He scored a school-record 14 touchdowns on 44 receptions for 968 yards as Syracuse compiled an 11-0-1 record and ended the season ranked fourth in the nation. Kane, who was named a Sporting News All-America, led the nation last season in both touchdown receptions and with an average gain of 22 yards per pass catch.

An energetic Horvath unsets Fernandez

AMELIA ISLAND, Fla. (UPI) — Unseeded Kathleen Horvath, playing her second match of the day, upset seventh-seeded Mary Jo Fernandez Wednesday 7-6 (7-5), 6-3 to advance to the third round of a $300,000 women's tennis tournament. Second-seeded Martina Navratilova advanced to the third round of a $300,000 women's tennis tournament Wednesday night with a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Yugoslavia's Sabrina Goleis.

Doubles play lifts Hawkeyes

By Anne Upson
The Daily Iowan

For the Iowa men's tennis team, history repeated itself Wednesday. The Hawkeyes downed the Iowa State Cyclones by the identical score, 6-3, they won with in February. The victory at Ames raises Iowa's record to 16-3 on the year and 8-1 in the last nine matches.

Iowa and its cross-state rival were even after singles play, 3-3. The Hawkeyes got victories from Dave

Men's Tennis

Novak, Lars Nordmark and Jay Maltby.

Iowa Coach Steve Houghton said the Hawkeyes struggled because the Cyclones' singles players had improved.

"It was a combination of Iowa

State playing exceptionally well and us not being on a home court and not playing our best," Houghton said.

IOWA QUICKLY broke the scoring deadlock and swept all three doubles matches, which made Houghton a happy man.

"I am pleased with the doubles," Houghton said. "At the end of the singles the team seemed doubly determined to win the match and they did."

"This is a good Iowa State team," Houghton added, "the best we have played in years."

The Hawkeyes are five short of the school record for wins in a season — 21 in 1984 — with seven matches to go. Their next match is against Northwestern April 17 at home beginning at 1 p.m.

"The Big Ten is crazy," Houghton said. "It has its ups and downs. I know that Michigan dominates, but it is close."

Wheelchair hoops tourney is first ever

By Bryce Miller
The Daily Iowan

Rick Spooner has a different take on what it means to be disabled. "It shouldn't be called disabilities," said the Iowa senior. "I think it's more appropriate to say different abilities."

Spooner is president of the Rolling Hawkeyes, a group of approximately 12 university students who promote disability awareness — and have some fun as well.

Spooner, who walks — and runs — with the aid of crutches, has led the charge in spreading the message of the group for the past two years, and has been involved with the group since coming to Iowa in 1981.

Previously the Rolling Hawkeyes were sports oriented, but Spooner said he has attempted to change that narrow view.

"WHEN I FIRST became involved it seemed to be just wheelchair basketball," he said. "We've tried to broaden our scope to include social activities as well."

Part of that expansion includes Disability Awareness Days, which run through Friday. Various speakers, introductions to new adaptive devices and the first-ever wheelchair basketball tournament are some of the scheduled activities.

Spooner, who is in charge of the tournament, said that excitement is high for the event.

"Everyone seems to be pretty fired up about it," he said. "We hope that this will help us get the word out and increase interest in the opportunities we have to offer."

The opening round of the tournament is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. today on Courts 7 and 8 of the Field House. Second-round competition will follow at 2:30 p.m. with the finals set for 7:30 p.m.

Spooner, who has cerebral palsy, said the Rolling Hawkeyes have opened a lot of doors for him.

"I have made a lot of lifetime friends," he said. "It has been a great experience."

NCAA probes Cowboy football

United Press International

STILLWATER, Okla. — Oklahoma State officials have confirmed the NCAA has begun an official inquiry into alleged recruiting violations in the university's football program.

"I have the utmost confidence in the current football coaching staff, especially head coach Pat Jones," Oklahoma State president L.L. Boger said in a prepared statement released Wednesday.

Boger said independent outside investigators would conduct an investigation for the school into the allegations and prepare a response.

The NCAA began a preliminary investigation nearly a year ago into the football program.

BOGER DECLINED to reveal the specifics of the latest NCAA letter, which notified the school of the organization's official inquiry.

He said he will meet soon with representatives of the Chicago law firm the school hired last year to review details of the inquiry.

"As a member of the Big Eight and the NCAA, we must abide by their rules and I have made that very clear to all connected with our athletic program," Boger said.

"My experience with them (the football staff) indicates that they have made and are making every effort to comply with applicable NCAA rules and regulations," he said.

Boger said he had asked the law firm retained by Oklahoma State "to expedite their work so as to resolve the matter as soon as possible. Hopefully, this can be accomplished by the end of summer."

He said that the school's Big Eight faculty representative, Dr. Gerald Lage, and legal counsel Charles Drake are involved in coordinating the investigation with the law firm.

Boger said there will no further comment on the investigation until it is completed.

Pepperdine's Asbury promoted

United Press International

MALIBU, Calif. — Longtime Pepperdine basketball assistant Tom Asbury Wednesday was named head coach, succeeding Jim Harrick who resigned a day earlier to coach UCLA.

Asbury, Harrick's top aide since they arrived at the seaside campus in 1979, coordinated Pepperdine's recruiting and was in charge of the Waves' advance scouting.

"We felt for the benefit of our program continuity in recruiting that we wouldn't waste time flying in coaches from all over the country," Pepperdine Athletic Director Wayne Wright said at a news conference. "We never looked at Tom as an assistant or top assistant but as a co-coach."

Asbury helped establish Pepperdine's "San Francisco Pipeline," which led to the recruiting of Levy Middlebrooks, last season's West Coast Athletic Conference Player of the Year, and Eric White, now with the Los Angeles Clippers.

"I'M VERY appreciative of Pepperdine giving me this challenge," Asbury said. "It's an ideal position for me. I've had a number of opportunities to move on, but I always wanted to be the coach here."

Asbury, 42, recently was named one of the nation's Top 15 assistant coaches by Basketball Times magazine.

He takes over a team that finished 17-13 and fourth in the WCAC, earning an NIT Tournament bid. The Waves return three starters, including leading scorer Tom Lewis.

Before coming to Pepperdine, Asbury was an assistant at his alma mater, Wyoming, and a high school coach in Colorado.

He earned all-Western Athletic Conference honors while helping Wyoming capture the league championship and an NCAA Tournament berth in 1967.

Asbury played one season for the Denver Rockets of the old American Basketball Association before beginning his coaching career with Wyoming's freshman team in the 1968-69 season.

Iowa's Schneider nets NCAA award

By Marc Bona
The Daily Iowan

Iowa basketball player Jolynn Schneider was awarded an NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship Monday and becomes the first Iowa female athlete to ever earn such a national honor.

Schneider, a communications major, was one of four female Division I basketball players to receive the annual academic award, worth $4,000, it was announced Wednesday. The scholarship is to be applied to postgraduate studies at the institution of her choice and is based on the student-athletes' academic, athletic and leadership merits as judged by a panel of national collegiate academic and athletic officials.

"It's fantastic," Schneider said. "I was really surprised. To be recognized by the NCAA, it's fantastic. I'm sure my parents will be happy."

Schneider, though, said she is unsure of her future, saying she needs to "research areas of study," but added she is leaning toward pursuing an MBA after taking a year off.

THE GROSSE POINTE, Mich., native, who studied pre-medicine for three years at Iowa before switching to communications, has a 3.15 GPA and has been chosen four times as an academic all-Big Ten player. She has also won United States Achievement Academic All-American honors.

Schneider earned honorable mention all-Big Ten status and was co-captain of the 1987-88 Big Ten champion Iowa squad which finished 29-2 overall and ranked No. 1 for much of the season. Schneider, a starting forward in every contest this season, was selected to the Amana-Hawkeye Classic and Northern Illinois Fast-break Fest all-tournament teams.

For two years, Schneider — a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority — served as the only student member of the UI Board in Control of Athletics. She also served as the president of the UI Women's Intercollegiate Sports Committee.

NCAA may allow 3 new bowl games

United Press International

bowl games can offer.

TARPOON SPRINGS, Fla. — Groups trying to establish new college football bowl games in Tucson, Ariz., Baltimore, and Indianapolis should know the fate of their efforts by Friday, an NCAA spokesman said Wednesday.

The NCAA Post Season Football Subcommittee held the first day of its three-day annual meeting Wednesday at the Innisbrook Resort, 30 miles northwest of Tampa. The nine-member group, of which Purdue Athletic Director George King is chair, will review the results of the 18 bowl games held after the 1987 college football season.

Among the various tasks assigned to the subcommittee are auditing the financial results of the bowls, recertifying the games, discussing the date bids can be issued and the maximum payouts

"BASICALLY, IT'S just internal, nitpicking type of stuff," said Bob Minnix, staff liaison for the subcommittee.

Whether the NCAA will expand to 21 bowl games likely will be voted on Friday before the meeting breaks up, Minnix said. It is highly unlikely there will be any change in the invitation dates.

"They (Tucson, Baltimore and Indianapolis) are the same three that applied last year and are back again this year for reconsideration," Minnix said.

Asked if the subcommittee would vote on the requests, Minnix said, "I would hope so. We have not had any consideration on them at this point, but these bowls are anxious. They have been through this before. I would suggest they would be considered and evaluated before we leave here on Friday."

Islanders' loss is Devils' work Recruits

By Fred McMane
United Press International

The New Jersey Devils seem possessed.

A change in spirit — dare we call it a devil-may-care attitude? — has the Devils within one victory of pulling off a big upset in the opening round of the Stanley Cup playoff series.

The Devils lead the New York Islanders, the first-place finisher in the Patrick Division, 3-2 in their best-of-seven series and can advance to the second round with a triumph Thursday night on their home ice at East Rutherford, N.J. Remember the "Ya Gotta Believe" slogan that served as the New York Mets' battle cry during their National League championship season of 1973? Well, these Devils believe just as hard.

THEY SAID THEY would learn from last Sunday night's harrowing overtime loss to the Islanders and they did. They beat the Islanders, 4-2, Tuesday night on the Islanders' home ice and now they are preparing to end the series.

"Maybe down the road, like if we make it all the way to the finals or something, that game Sunday night will be some kind of turning point," said Pat Conacher, who scored the winning goal Tuesday night. "It wasn't easy to forget Sunday, but you have to take the lesson for whatever it's worth."

Philadelphia, Montreal, Boston and Detroit also can wrap up first-round playoffs tonight. Edmonton, Calgary and St. Louis have already advanced to the quarterfinal round.

PHILADELPHIA IS counting on a return to form of goalie Ron Hextall to wrap up its series with Washington. Hextall, though, has not played well against the Capitals in this series. Through five games, Hextall has given up 18 goals on 128 shots, has a 4.27 goals-against average and has been yanked from the nets in the third period of the last two contests after surrendering several easy goals.

under the boards. He can really fire the outlet pass on the break, too," Goodman added.

Lookingbill is also a good student, notching a 3.3 (B plus) grade-point average. He is undecided about his major but is leaning towards business.

"Everything has been happening so fast," Iowa's Mr. Basketball said. "Winning the state championship without a doubt means the most to me."

"There's a lot of things I need to work on — getting stronger, my shooting range, rebounding, ball handling... I'm going to work hard the next four or five years," Lookingbill said.

St. Louis catcher Tony Pena makes a diving tag on Chicago's Leon Durham as he attempts to score in the third inning. Left fielder Vince Coleman threw out Durham at the plate.

Cards win on sacrifice fly; White Sox unload Hulett

United Press International

Bob Horner drove in Vince Coleman with the game-winning run on a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the seventh inning, lifting the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs in St. Louis.

Danny Cox, 1-1, pitched eight innings, walking none and striking out three, while Todd Worrel pitched two-thirds of an inning for his third save.

In San Francisco, Will Clark homered off Pat Perry with two outs in the 11th inning, giving the San Francisco Giants a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Clark's second homer of the season made a winner of Don Robinson, 1-0, and tagged Perry with his first loss in two decisions. Clark, who hit 35 home runs last season, hit nine against Cincinnati.

Jim LeShaies, making his first start of the season, tossed a two-hitter for his second career shutout and Denny Walling drove in two runs to lead the Houston Astros to a 4-0 victory over the Braves in Atlanta. The loss drops Atlanta to 0-8, their worst start in franchise history.

DeShaies, 1-0, struck out five and walked two. The left-hander underwent arthroscopic surgery to the rotator cuff in his throwing shoulder in October.

Pirates 7, Phillies 0
In Pittsburgh, Bobby Bonilla drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a groundout and Brian Fisher combined with Jim Gott on a five-hit effort to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Phillies made four errors, all during the first three innings, to help the Pirates win their third straight game.

Fisher gave up five hits and two walks and struck out two over 7 2/3 innings to pick up his second victory in as many starts.

Royals 9, Orioles 3
Danny Tartabull drove in four runs with two doubles and two singles to power the Kansas City Royals to a 9-3 victory over the Orioles in Baltimore Wednesday that handed the winless Birds their eighth straight defeat.

Kevin Seitzer scored three runs and added a two-run double and pair of singles to the 18-hit attack as the Royals pounded Mark Thurmond, 0-2, for six runs on 10 hits.

Floyd Bannister, 2-0, held the Orioles hitless through four innings before Tito Landrum's RBI single broke the no-hit bid in the fifth inning.

Yankees 5, Blue Jays 1
In Toronto, Richard Dotson allowed only four hits over eight innings and the New York Yankees rocked Dave Stieb, 0-2, for five first inning runs Wednesday en route to a 5-1 triumph over the Toronto Blue Jays.

MEANWHILE, ON THE trading front, the Chicago White Sox dealt infielder Tim Lulett to the Montreal Expos for a player to be named later or cash, the team announced Wednesday.

The White Sox will receive their compensation by June 1, a team spokesperson said.

Jenny Condon tripled and lost her helmet on the run to third. The teams played the remainder of the game under protest by Blevins, who said Condon should have been called out because of the missing helmet. Both umpires disagreed, and the play stood.

In game one, Iowa exploded in the sixth inning for three runs, survived a scare in the seventh and held on to edge the Cyclones, 3-2.

Repp went 6 2-3 innings for the win and Tami Chown was credited with the save.

Iowa scored all of its runs in the sixth when Repp helped her own cause, singling home Wick and collecting a game-winning RBI in the process.

SUCCESSIVE DOUBLES in the sixth helped Iowa, as Coughenour scored the first run of the rally, doubling and then scoring on a shot by Amy Johnson which went through shortstop Tina Amfah's legs. Wick then hit a two-bagger, scoring Johnson.

Condon, who went three for six in the series, knocked an inside-the-park home run in the seventh inning after Carl Seymour singled down the third-base line. The threat, though, didn't go any further.

The Hawkeyes next play Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich., April 15-16. The remaining Iowa home schedule (all games are double-headers):

- Northwestern, 3 p.m., April 19
- Ohio State, 3 p.m., May 6
- Ohio State, 1 p.m., May 7.

'Juice' has manic zaniness

By Locke Peterseim
The Daily Iowan

Lately the film world has been overrun with lame-o comedies that throw together several competent comic actors, a successful director and a clever high concept and hope things come out OK at the box office. If it works, you could end up with a Ghostbusters. If it doesn't, you get Club Paradise.

Beetlejuice works. Boy, does it ever work.

Hands down, this is the flat-out funniest film since Raising Arizona. Granted, it's been a slow year for off-the-wall comedy — filmmakers keep tripping themselves up with plot and meaning. But Beetlejuice remembers to forget the heavy stuff and goes for the wide-open comedic burn.

Barbara and Adam Maitland (Geena Davis and Alec Baldwin) are a couple of Walton's Mountain yuppies who, through a Topper-esque mishap, find themselves a little bit deceased. At first, it's not all that bad killing time in the attic, enjoying some postmortem R&R, but when their peaceful Connecticut home is invaded by new owners — the radically wacko-chic Deetz Family — the Maitlands decide to go a-haunting. But when the genteel ghosts fail to spark any notice, let alone terror, they get desperate and call in a professional — an afterlife lounge lizard otherwise known as "Beetlejuice" (Michael Keaton) — to clear out the pesky mortals.

The Exorcist-Ghostbusters role-reversal alone is cute enough, but when placed in the warped hands of director Tim Burton (Pee Wee's Big Adventure), Beetlejuice goes spinning off into an afterworld of hilariously childlike silliness. The result: a surrealistic combo of Day-Glo Dante and Topper on acid.

MANY OF Burton's stylistic visual tricks will be recognizable from Pee Wee, including claymation creepy-crawlers and eye-popping jumps and jolts. He plummets Beetlejuice through its cotton-candy carnival ride with a delightfully reckless disregard for cinematic safety.

But as much as Burton leaves his Play-Doh mark on the film, it must be realized that he had a lot of fine comedic clay to work with. Geena Davis continues to establish herself as the new comedy-horror Queen of Cuteness (come on — didn't anyone else find The Fly funny?), and Alec Baldwin is perfectly bland. Jeffrey Jones and Catherine O'Hara come close to grave robbing the show with their impeccable portrayals of the high-culture corn flakes, the Deetzes — the gag being that the supernatural inhabitants of the house are ultranormal while the more tangible humans are the true "Addams Family"-style nuts.

GLENN SHADIX is also good as Mrs. Deetz's interior decorator/spiritual advisor who reworks the Maitland's pleasant abode into a Dali-esque disco of neo-chic kitsch. And Winona Ryder is perfect as the Deetz's ultra-sensitive, black-clad, angst-ridden daughter — a delightful blend of Virginia Woolf and Robert Smith who can see, and subsequently befriends, the hapless haunTERS.

Once Keaton blasts his way out of his graveyard stockade like some demented Dead Zone-David Lee Roth, the film is thrown into a hyperkinetic, hell-raising high gear. The comic actor who enlivened Night Shift and Mr. Mom with his zany charm is physically unrecognizable under pale crypt-mold and lewd gravel voice. But the manic energy is all there — Beetlejuice scurries across the screen at a high-speed swagger like a grotesque salesman-from-Hell — Freddy Krouger possessed by Crazy Larry.

FROM THEN ON, Beetlejuice just gets funnier, coming close to climaxing with the funniest presentation of Harry Belafonte's "Banana Boat Song" since Johnny Fever and Venus Flytrap belted it out to a toolbox-beat in the "Bomb Threat" episode of "WKRP in Cincinnati." But the film hangs in there a little longer to finish up with the most frantically funny wedding since Chuck and Di eloped.

However, it should be pointed out that Beetlejuice does have a few non-fatal forensic flaws. Bolton is right on in his offbeat world, but he has a little more trouble when forced to play in reality's sandbox — subsequently, the film tends to slow down a lot when it moves away from the Land 'o Weird. And as side-splitting as Keaton is, the title creep is only onstage for one-third of the picture's proceedings.

But any film that plays as far out of the ball-park as Beetlejuice does can be forgiven a few filmatic misdemeanors here and there. Beetlejuice's minor weaknesses are never serious enough to derail this hilariously hell-bent-for-polyester rollercoaster of entertainment.

Yo La Tengo with The Merry Pranksters play at Gabe's Oasis, 330 E. Washington St.

Bands

By Radoslav Lorkovic
The Daily Iowan

Yo La Tengo, Hoboken's New Wave hot dogs, takes its '64 Rambler to Gabe's Oasis, 330 E. Washington St., tonight, playing its lean, rooted style of rock 'n' roll.

The trio is fronted by former rock critic Ira Kaplan, whose vocals sound like a cross between Bob Dylan and Lou Reed, combined with an authentic Jersey back alley growl. Kaplan is backed by Georgia Humblee on drums and Stephen Wichniewski on bass.

Yo La Tengo is currently a month behind its Hoboken compatriots, The Feelies, who rolled through town last month. Both bands record on their hometown label, Coyote Records. Yo La Tengo's latest release, New Wave Hot Dogs, has drawn considerable critical acclaim.

Yo La Tengo is Spanish for "I've got it." The band found its name in reference to the 1962 Mets, where an American outfielder shouted the phrase to a Venezuelan shortstop in order to avoid collisions while chasing short flies.

THE BAND WAS formed in 1984 by Kaplan, and after several obscure singles released on comparable labels, the group put together its debut LP, Ride the Tiger, on the Coyote label. The album featured the wild guitar work of Kaplan and Dave Schramm, who eventually left the band, leaving it in its current bare-bones, three-piece lineup. This is the nucleus found on its current and most successful LP, New Wave Hot Dogs.

Comparisons have been made linking Yo La Tengo with the late '60s L.A. sounds of The Byrds and Buffalo Springfield. One critic described the band as a down-and-dirty rockin' version of Poco. Though these roots can be traced from the band's current sound, the fact remains that Yo La Tengo is an '80s New Jersey rock 'n' roll band known for its funky, raucous looseness, unlike the deliberate, state-of-the-art, pioneering styles of its influential predecessors. Yet the group maintains a mainstream pop element within its carefree sound, described by one critic as "the Jersey Jangle."
