Support groups help children of alcoholics

By Jack Watson
Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON—Despite Republican charges Democrats will use a new Senate commission to turn out to be a quagmire in the campaign for the party's presidential nomination, actual Democrat studies are expressing confidence that they will get the presidential nod in an all-out effort to prevent the party's nomination from being turned over to a conservative candidate. In particular, they said that an important advantage over the Republicans is the fact that they can unite behind a single presidential candidate, whereas the Republicans currently have a divided field and no real chance of getting a majority of the party's nomination.

The GREAT RISK identified by the Democrats is that if the nomination goes to the Republicans, the party will have to choose between two men, both of whom would have to campaign against their own party's nomination. This would be disastrous for the party's chances of winning the election, as it would split the party's loyal voters between the two candidates.

The Democrats also believe that the Republicans have a much more difficult task inuniting their nomination behind a single candidate. They point out that the Republicans have a divided field and no real chance of getting a majority of the party's nomination, whereas the Democrats can unite behind a single candidate, such as Bill Clinton. This would give the Democrats a much better chance of winning the election, as it would allow them to focus their efforts on one candidate and not have to divide their support between two.

Computer units aid parking attendants in local ticketing

By James Close
University of Iowa

A new $60,000 pengadegeni ticketing system for Iowa City will allow Iowa City parking system customers to purchase their tickets without a hand-held computer and the attendant at the booth. The new equipment will be available in the Iowa City parking garage on 10th Street.

PARKING Attendants, the ISU History Department has announced, will allow customers to sell the ticket to the customer, and they will be able to use a handheld computer and the information will be entered into the main computer, where it will be stored in a computer file.

Not just any 102-year-old piece of bridal attire would attract Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad’s attention.

But this antique confection, a remnant from Grover Cleveland’s wedding, was only one of several presidential artifacts unveiled here Saturday at the Hoover Library hosts exhibit "Men, Women and Memorabilia" at the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum.

"I think this is a unique exhibit, a remnant from Grover Cleveland’s wedding," Branstad said. "I think that is a unique exhibit, a remnant from Grover Cleveland’s wedding." Branstad said one of the important aspects of the exhibit was that it featured the personalities of the 39 presidents.

"I THINK it's appropriate to reflect on the individual and remember that our presidents may serve as president of our great country over the last 200 years, but they are also individuals," Branstad said.

"There is no question that this is a unique exhibit, an exhibit that will attract thousands of additional visitors from around the country to West Branch and the Hoover Library," Branstad said. "I think this is a classic example of the kinds of things that need to be done to encourage and boost tourism in Iowa."}

USI hosts lobbying assembly

By Deborah Stable

The Daily Iowan

Almost 30 United Student of Iowa delegates from the UI, Iowa State University and the University of Northern Iowa met at USI Tuesday for a lobbying assembly to help students learn how to contact their representatives in Springfield, assembled Saturday.

Nagle told the delegates that effective congressional lobbyists should say anything from a national perspective, makes the history behind it personal and generally is knowledgeable on the situation.

He encouraged student lobbyists to pay attentions to the issues they convey, and the assembly leaders hope to keep strong ties with their movements.

"ONE delegate can have a voice in Springfield," Nagle said.

He discussed numbers of USI addressing issues such as the expense of college, funding and dropout rates and the awareness of education within the student body and policy makers.

"When you come outside of the common thread that exists, you lose your base," Nagle said.

He said that as a member of the Natural Science, Space and Technology Committee, he talks to advance scientific study, upgrade scientific buildings and deal with the problems of funding duplication within scientific departments.

Headphones blamed in

train death of Iowa man

United Press International

FRUITLAND, Iowa - A set of stereo headphones are being blamed for an Iowa man's death following a train accident near this city Monday.

William Jones Jr., of Muscatine, was struck by a train as he walked along the tracks, authorities said. He later died at a hospital.

"The train driver told the police that he could not see the man with the headphones," an official said.

"The headphones were not part of the accident, but it is believed that they could have prevented the man's death," the official said.

Jackson takes union stand
Democrats make final push in Pennsylvania

By Joseph Hennawy
United Press International

PHILADELPHIA—Jesse Jackson lashed out against "wage labor and mass unemployment" today during a combative speech at the Democratic National Convention. Jackson began the last push of their Pennsylvania campaign.

The National convention delegates at stake in the Keystone State's primary Tuesday, Jackson pushed his familiar message of hope to the economically disadvantaged in a keynote speech about the presidential candidates. Jackson is considered a potential Democratic presidential nominee, but he has not made a formal declaration. Jackson is running a "political action" campaign and will not make a formal declaration until after the June 20, 1988, primaries.

Jackson said he would continue running as the principle of the matter. "We need to show America that we are not a race or a people but a people," he added. "Our land will not be sold to anyone by anyone else."

Ronald Reagan during a train tour Sunday, Dukakis continued that strategy and fired one of his brightest blasters at the president, who has insinuated that Reagan's economic policies are to blame for the nation's economic problems. Dukakis called Reagan's economic policies "irresponsible" and said they were a "real and present danger to the American economy."

"We need to show America that we are not a race or a people but a people," he added. "Our land will not be sold to anyone by anyone else."

If the number of people murdered in Iowa was to jump 26 percent over the next three years, state leaders would be doing nothing within their power to counter its increase. But if their development was not to uncover the number of foster care cases will jump from 3,900 in 1987 to 4,900 in 1990, how much bigger would it be? Now, that is no big deal. According to an Iowa State University study released last week, the number of recent years - is not the way to the modem commercial airliner, cigarette smoking was ever make a dent, but parents and laid-off workers, those who solve this growing problem. Nor is a one-time funding increase forecasted looming crisis, says Gov. Terry Branstad, since he recently two years. No one should be affected by Iowa's hard economic times. Increasing funding for these other programs state leaders should merely the majority of the people who use these foster care programs for the next year will not be the same families seen before. Rather, the study predicts that many different families will benefit, because the middle-class who can no longer afford to keep their children. Thus, increasing foster care funding is not enough. Substantial increase is needed in other areas, such as Aid to Families with Dependent Children and special work retraining programs. Increasing funding for these other programs will enable many of the parents already using foster care to be reunited with their children and help other families remain together. Voting funding for APDC and related programs -- actions Gov. Branstad has taken in recent years -- is not the way to solve this growing problem. Nor is a one-time increase financing the more. Instead, Branstad and state legislators should make a long-term commitment to the unemployed, single parents and laid-off workers, those who will continue to be affected by Iowa's hard economic times.

On the right track

It is hard to form the why, in the cramped and airless space of the modern commercial airliner, cigarette smoking was ever permitted in the first place. But as of Friday, a long overdue ban on smoking aboard commercial flights went into effect. Why anyone who's ever been stuck on a runway or thousands of feet up in a circling airplane would want to smoke because they are tobacco addicts, and nowhere anything the dangers smoking has. Having said that, I do not intend to make a political point or to attack the right to smoke, but rather to make a substantive argument of an issue that has been discussed at length in the pages of the Dally Iowan.

It is movie indeed that an en- ded if Paul Robeson was ashamed, or Al Gore ours. A simple argument can be made on the basis of the fact that the movie (or the real life situation) has been won on a consistent basis. Now, if the real world is not a perfect mirror, then the real world is not a perfect mirror. In that case, the question becomes: Is there a way to ask those questions of the real world, rather than only those that are asked in the coverage of candidate's? It is the same world.

SOME HOME-SOULED veterans argue that Jackson was a black man and must not be able to win. Others say that he is a Democrat, and must be able to win because the Democrats are the party of the working people. Yet, the working people want to see a candidate who is not only a Democrat, but is also one who is able to win.

The Constitution is all that matters. The Constitution is all that matters.
Alcohol

Alcoholics who come into contact with a large group of alcoholics in the most important family are the most likely to become alcoholics. It was not just the strong family ties that were important. It was also the presence of a close friend who was an alcoholic. The presence of a close friend who was an alcoholic was the most important factor in predicting alcoholism.

One of the reasons for this is that alcoholics often seek out other alcoholics as friends. They may feel closer to alcoholics than to other people. This can lead to a cycle of drinking and relapse.

3 Hawks snubbed for Olympic team

By Michael Tribb

Iowa all-American guard Michelle Edwards, of the University of Connecticut, said she was "very surprised and disappointed" when she was not invited to the Women's Olympic Basketball team. Edwards, who was the Champion of the World, was chosen as one of the three United States all-American selection committee. Iowa's basketball team and the Iowa women's basketball team were also ignored by the try-out held in College, Springs, Colorado.

"I can't believe it," Edwards said. "There were a lot of people picked that I didn't agree with." Edwards added, "I just want to be in the best shape that I can be to make the team. That's my goal." She was not picked for the 1983 World Cup despite being selected as the Most Valuable Player.

"I'm not too surprised," Edwards said. "That's the way it goes." Edwards is expected to be the next German to get a shot at the Olympics. She is one of the best players in the country and has been a member of the German women's national team for the past three years.

Fielding 4-0 in the fifth inning of the first game, Iowa staged an eight-run rally in the sixth inning to earn a 10-3 win over Purdue. The Hawkeyes, 22-18 overall and 6-8 in the Big Ten, snap a two-game losing streak.

The Hawkeyes scored five runs in the top of the sixth inning off starter Mark Boland, 4-2. Purdue first-year Coach Mike Bradley, who had recently assumed the role of interim coach for the Boilermakers, took over the pitching duties for the game.

In the sixth inning, Purdue had runners on first and third base, but Iowa's defense was unflappable. Purdue's first baseman, Tim Casto, hit a sacrifice fly to score Joe Denkinger from third base. Iowa's catcher, Diana Repp, took the loss.

Pete Miller, who hit a two-run double in the preceding inning, drove in the go-ahead run with a sacrifice fly to left field. Iowa's pitcher, Jim Meshberger, threw a one-hitter in the seventh inning.

In the bottom of the inning, Iowa loaded the bases with two outs, setting the stage for a game-winning rally. Iowa's batter, Tim Casto, hit a sacrifice fly to score Joe Denkinger from third base. Iowa's catcher, Diana Repp, took the loss.

Michigan State's women's golf team finished tied for third at the Spartan Invitational in East Lansing, Mich., last weekend. The team shot a 305, followed by teammate Jennifer Gillies' 307.

"I'M PLEASED with the way we played," Coach Trilkeum said. "I'm real proud of all our girls, the way they handled the pressure of being in the top 10 all weekend.

Women's Golf

The Iowa men's tennis team split matches in conference, and Iowa equaled that feat this past weekend.

"WE HAD ABOUT 60 men, 40 women, 20 men's teams and 20 women's teams," Houghton said. "Just a good turnout for a sunny day.

Men's Golf

All totaled, Iowa finished third, 13 strokes behind the Illini, who shot a 241. Michigan was the runner-up with a 244, followed by teammate Jeanne Gibson and Iowa's Stacey Arnold placed sixth with a 248.

Men's Tennis

Iowa's only defending champion, Paul Andres of Wyoming, was the highlight of the weekend and a string of six victories in a row this season. "Iowa showed great mental toughness during the fall and winter, and we finished with a 7-2 victory over Michigan in the conference, and Iowa equaled that feat this past weekend.

"Our win was certainly in our favor. We're real proud of how we played," Coach Trilkeum said. "Iowa and Iowa State were just like us, with the best second-round effort of the room, at the Spartan Invitational in East Lansing, Mich., last weekend. The team shot a 305, followed by teammate Jennifer Gillies' 307.

"We had a great solid last round. It was very encouraging," Coach Trilkeum said. "We're going to be at the Northern Illinois (1,127) rounded out the field.

Pot-translator Merwin to read

By Sally Stepanek

W.

S. Merwin, one of the most renowned translators of the last 30 years, will be reading at 11 a.m. Thursday at St. Anselm College. One of the most versatile translators of the 1970s, Merwin has translated works from every European language, as well as Arabic, Hebrew, and Sanskrit. His work has been praised for its intellectual and emotional depth, as well as its poetic sensitivity.

Merwin's poetry, novels, and essays have appeared in numerous publications, and he has received numerous awards and recognitions, including the National Book Award in poetry and the PEN American Center Translation Prize. His translation of the complete works of William Blake is considered to be one of the most important in the field.

Merwin's readings will include his latest work, "The Art of the Ordinary," which explores the beauty and complexity of the everyday. The event is free and open to the public.

New Clapton album explores 25 years of guitarist's career

By Richard Harrington

WASHINGTON—Bob Dylan met his true love, Bessie Smith, in the Tidal Basin in 1922, and the two began a relationship that lasted until the singer's death in 1937. Smith was known for her powerful vocals, and Dylan is famous for his poetic lyrics. The two met at a political rally in the Tidal Basin, and Dylan becameinfatuated with the singer's beauty and talent. The couple dated on and off for several years, and Dylan wrote several songs about Smith, including "Lay Lady Lay." Smith's death was a great loss to the music world, and Dylan continues to honor her legacy through his music and writing.
