Disaster strikes U.S. in 3 regions

Firefighters bring L.A. blaze under control after 4 hours

By Eric Malnic
Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — A fire that raged through five floors of Los Angeles' tallest skyscraper, killing one person and injuring at least 40 others, was finally brought under control Thursday morning.

Nearly 300 firefighters battled for 3½ hours through walls of flame and showers of shattering glass to extinguish the blaze in the 62-story First Interstate Bank Building. The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Smoke billowed hundreds of feet above the 859-foot building, obscuring the view from helicopters that braved fire-generated winds to pluck eight persons from the roof and drop firefighters and equipment to combat the fire from above.

Fire officials said the blaze started at 12:37 a.m. CST in the southeast corner of the 12th floor. The flames spread rapidly, fueled primarily by wood, plastic, fabric and other combustibles used to furnish and decorate the offices.

WITHIN MINUTES, the flames licking upward through shattered windows had spread to the four floors above.

Fire officials described the blaze, which generated temperatures estimated at more than 2,000

Explosions rock Louisiana refinery, Nevada fuel plant

By Allan R. Bruce
United Press International

Earth-shattering explosions at an oil refinery in Louisiana and a rocket fuel plant in Nevada killed two people and left at least seven missing in a terrifying 14-hour stretch Wednesday and early Thursday.

There was one confirmed death in each of the disasters and officials in Louisiana said six people still were missing Thursday in the refinery explosion and fire. In Nevada, an executive stricken by polio as a child was missing in the blasts that also killed a company vice president.

The causes of the two incidents were under investigation.

The powerful blasts at a Shell Oil Co. refinery in Norco, La., early Thursday and the Pacific Engineering Co. rocket fuel plant in Henderson, Nev., just before noon Wednesday each splintered windows in major cities 20 miles away.

The two incidents forced the evacuation of thousands of people, idled employees and caused untold millions of dollars in damage.

But the impact of the two disasters

Survey: UI has lowest faculty pay in Big Ten

By Jean Thilmany
The Daily Iowan

Despite the 11.3 percent salary increase UI faculty members received for the 1987-88 school year, their salaries are the lowest among the Big Ten schools, according to a survey by the American Association of University Professors.

The low salaries could have an effect on the quality of education the UI provides, former UI Faculty Senate President Bruce Gronbeck said.

"If we don't have the salaries to attract high-ranking professors, we can't be a high-ranking university," Gronbeck said.

Nationally, the average college professor's salary increased 4.9 percent to $37,000 a year. Although the UI's salary increases were better than the national average, salaries for UI professors ranked 10th among its 11 comparable institutions.

The comparable institutions include some Big Ten schools as well as UCLA, North Carolina, Arizona and Texas.

The UI also ranks 10th in pay when compared only to other Big Ten schools.

THE AVERAGE UI professor earns $51,000 a year while the average professor at Northwestern University — the Big Ten school with the highest-paid professors — earns $61,000, according to the AAUP survey.

"We are competing with other institutions for the people we want to hire," said Peter Shane, current president of the faculty senate. "The people we are most excited about getting and keeping are the people other universities are also excited about getting and keeping. Salary becomes a vital part of that concern."

Shane said UI competitive salary rankings are higher for assistant and associate professors than for full professors because UI administrators realize the biggest pressure on the salary level always occurs at the entry level.

State observes Nurses' Week

By Paula Roesler
The Daily Iowan

"Nursing Means Opportunities" is the message on billboards in Iowa City and throughout the state during Nurses' Week May 2-6, according to UI Hospitals and Clinics Nursing Director Sally Mathis.

"This is sort of part of a larger effort to bring the nursing shortage to the public's attention," said Mathis.

State health care facilities and private donors are sponsoring the billboard campaign, Mathis said, adding four billboard advertisements in Iowa City have been purchased by the nursing week committee.

Iowa is experiencing a nursing shortage because fewer students are graduating from high school and because more women today are entering traditionally male-dominated fields, Mathis said.

But Mathis said Iowa is less affected by the nursing shortage than are coastal and Sunbelt states, where the shortage was recognized more than a year ago. Iowa has only felt the shortage in the last six months, she said.

UI COLLEGE of Nursing Program Director of Student Services Carol Gruber said there has been a 20 percent decrease in the UI's nursing program this year.

According to a recent U.S. Health and Human Services report, there has been a 70 percent decline in the past 12 years in the number of freshmen interested in nursing careers.

But there are incentives for students to enter the nursing profession. Nurses' salaries have seen an overall increase of 13.5 percent in the past year, she said.

The nursing profession is also becoming a higher-status job, requiring more skills, including the ability to use high-technology equipment, Gruber said.

Mathis said flexibility is another incentive for students to choose nursing as a profession.

"FOR A YOUNG mother, they can choose a later evening shift," Mathis said.

"It's a profession that lets you help people and makes you feel like you are doing something," she added.

Gruber said with the average age of the Iowa population increasing and low enrollment in nursing programs, the nursing shortage will worsen before it improves.

"It's going to become very critical for us to meet the needs of the community, to care for the elderly," Gruber said, adding Iowa has the third-largest population over the age of 65 in the United States.

Citing an American Hospital Association statistic, Gruber said the vacancy rate for hospital nursing staffs in the United States has more than doubled from 1985 to 1986.

"Iowa has been hit hard by the nursing shortages and we are doing what we can to make that need known to the public," she said.

Other efforts by the UI College of Nursing to quell the nursing shortage include sponsoring informational booths at the Iowa State Fair, giving video presentations at Iowa high schools and sending information on nursing to prospective nursing students.

Gruber urges students with an interest in nursing to contact her at her office.

Polish riot police raid plant; work suspended at shipyard

United Press International

KRAKOW, Poland — Authorities moved Thursday to crush labor unrest sweeping Poland, sending more than 4,000 riot police into a strike-bound steel plant where workers were stunned with concussion grenades, beaten and arrested, witnesses said.

The communist authorities also ordered operations suspended at the Lenin Shipyard in the Baltic port of Gdansk, where Solidarity founder Lech Walesa promised about 3,000 holdout strikers, "I will be the last to leave!"

A double cordon of police encircled the shipyard, where the outlawed Solidarity trade union was born amid massive labor unrest in 1980, sparking fears among the workers that a police assault was being prepared.

A dissident source said nine strikers were seriously injured in the police raid at the Lenin Foundry in the southern city of Krakow, but a government spokesman denied there were any injuries. Police said 38 activists were detained.

In Washington, the Reagan administration criticized the "repressive measures" used by the Polish government and insisted only a dialogue with striking workers and Solidarity can lead the country to political and economic recovery.

THE MOST SERIOUS labor unrest in Poland since 1980 began 10 days ago at the foundry where 12,000 workers went on strike demanding a 70 percent pay hike after the government implemented steep price hikes for food and other goods in a bid to overhaul the economy.

The unrest spread to several cities, expanding beyond an economic focus to include political demands such as the legalization of Solidarity, outlawed in 1982.

In the latest development, about 500 bus drivers went on strike Thursday demanding higher wages in the northern seaport of Szczecin, and about 100 police vans were deployed around the depot serving as strike headquarters, a dissident source said. The news agency PAP said unspecified pay increases

UI student to be on TV game show

By Karyn Riley
The Daily Iowan

It could be a game show addict's fantasy — astounding the studio audience with knowledge of Peruvian cocoa beans, hobnobbing with the likes of Wink Martindale and Chuck Woolery and best of all coming back home with enough cash winnings to safely retire from work for an entire week.

For most it will always just be a pipe dream, but for UI graduate student Michael Wegmann, it happened. Wegmann, who appeared on "Card Sharks" a year ago and will be appearing on NBC's "Scrabble" Monday, has won a total of $15,000 from his two ventures into the world of game shows — the only place where a correct answer not only elicits applause, but can also pay for a month's rent.

"All my friends think I'm addicted to these shows but I've just been lucky. I don't even watch game shows," he said. "I just thought it would be a good way to make some fun money."

WEGMANN, WHO was chosen from 500 people trying out for "Card Sharks" during last year's spring break, and who sweated through three audition tests for "Scrabble" during this year's break, said he doesn't have a secret for his game show contestant appeal.

Supervisors vote for hike in county water well fees

By Hilery Livengood
The Daily Iowan

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors voted to increase county water well permit fees from $20 to $50 and to increase county land transaction fees from $50 to $100 during Thursday's formal meeting. County officials visit testing sites twice for both permits, according to Johnson County Health Director Graham Dameron. Fee increases were needed to cover county expenses for performing the services, he said. During inspections for a water well permit, the county tests for bacteria and nitrates in the water and inspects the site of the proposed well, Dameron said. The UI Hygienic Lab charges the county $15 to analyze the sample, he said. The additional $35 covers county costs for visiting and inspecting the site. A law presently before the state Legislature would require a well permit before any type of well could be dug, Dameron said.

Dameron said the new rules will probably gain legislative approval.

"IT IS TO my understanding that this law will pass and be in effect by July 1," he said.

Presently, permits are needed only for wells which provide water for human consumption. All private wells — including livestock, irrigation, recreation, monitoring, industrial and de-watering wells — would require permits before construction could begin if the Iowa Legislature approves the bill, Dameron said. No existing wells would be affected by the law, he added.

Approximately six permits are granted by Johnson County each month, Dameron said.

In the past two years the county has been subsidizing 50 percent of the cost of land transaction permits, Dameron said.

"The increase will bring the fee to nearly what it's costing us to perform the service. It will be more of a fee for a service," he said.

SEWAGE SYSTEMS and wells which exist on property are examined during two on-site inspections for land transaction permits.

"These permits are voluntarily requested by either real estate agencies, homeowners or lending institutions during land transactions," Dameron said. "They are looking to make sure that sewage systems on the property are operating according to state requirements." "We don't go out and dig up anything," Dameron said. "We can't say that the system will be satisfactory for the next 15 years, but our tests usually work out pretty well."

The county performs approximately nine land transaction inspections each month.

Supervisors also unanimously voted to require applicants for beer and liquor licenses to obtain the signature of the sheriff and county attorney.

"This will be an opportunity to get input from officials before granting a permit," Supervisor Betty Ockenfels said.

A Cedar Rapids man was found guilty of simple assault Thursday after he allegedly hit a bartender at the 620 Club, 620 S. Madison St., according to Johnson County District Court records.

Thomas J. Beckfield was at the 620 Club on Jan. 31, and at approximately 12:45 a.m. he allegedly pushed a bartender, according to court records.

An Iowa City man was charged with assault without intent to inflict serious injury, fifth-degree criminal mischief, reckless driving and improper stopping after he admitted to assaulting a bicyclist, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Thomas Easley, 45, 1720 Hollywood Blvd., struck the juvenile bicyclist several times Monday after being provoked by the victim because the victim ran a red light. After Easley tried to hit the victim's facial area, the victim rolled over and Easley continued to hit him on the back, according to court records.

There were red marks on the victim's back, and he was taken to Mercy Hospital where he was examined by a doctor, according to court records.

The victim had obtained a license plate number when Easley drove away from the scene. Police questioned Easley at his residence, where he admitted he assaulted the juvenile and that he had "stomped" on his bicycle, according to court records.

Easley appeared to be intoxicated but stated while he did have four drinks earlier he had had nothing since he returned home. Easley said he was mad at the juvenile for running a red light, according to court records.

An Iowa City woman was charged Thursday with second-degree theft after she allegedly stole cash and merchandise from Younkers, Old Capitol Center, on April 28, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Charlotte B. Vongries, 20, 929 Iowa Ave., was an employee at Younkers at the time she allegedly stole $60 from her cash register by underringing sales. In addition, merchandise valued at $1,085 was allegedly taken by Vongries without paying or selling to another person at less than retail or sale price without authorization by Younkers, according to court records.

The total of merchandise and cash removed without proper authority of Younkers was $1,145. Vongries was observed by store security persons and video cameras stealing merchandise and cash, according to court records.

It can get injured in many ways such as getting bumped on the head or having your head suddenly thrown around as it is in a car accident or fall. A sudden turn in the wrong direction can result in neck pain and stiffness. Sometimes you just wake up with neck pain from sleeping the wrong way. Poor posture and general stress and tension can also lead to neck problems.

ISU honors computer creator after years of monetary losses

By John Peterson
United Press International

DES MOINES — Failure to patent a revolutionary computing device constructed 48 years ago by one of its faculty members cost Iowa State University and the state "many, many millions" of dollars, the inventor said Thursday.

Vincent Atanasoff, 84, of Frederick, Md., visited Iowa this weekend to receive more honors as the father of the modern computer.

He was scheduled to be grand marshal of ISU's annual Veisha parade and the university will rename its computer building after its former mathematics and physics professor.

In the years 1939-1941 Atanasoff, along with graduate student Clifford Berry, who died in 1963, built the first electronic digital computer, a desk-sized affair that Atanasoff said pales in power beside today's pocket calculators.

But the ungainly box of wires, rotating drums and vacuum tubes contained revolutionary principles that all modern computers still use, such as the base two-number system, regenerating memory bank and electronic instead of mechanical computing.

WORLD WAR II interrupted development of the Atanasoff Berry computer and after both men left ISU to work on wartime projects, university officials forgot about the machine and failed to file a patent application.

One department head even decided the computer was taking up too much room in the basement of the physics building and ordered it dismantled.

"Iowa State might have made enough money to look after their money shortages now," Atanasoff said Thursday. "The idea was worth many many millions of dollars. It's too bad we couldn't have helped Iowa State."

Dan Zaffarano, ISU vice president for research and a member of the university faculty since 1949, estimates failing to capitalize on Atanasoff's work cost the institution $2 billion in royalties and development opportunities.

"It's a tragedy Atanasoff or the college didn't make a nickel from this," said ISU spokesman Dave Lendt, who has become one of the elderly professor's biggest promoters.

ATANASOFF'S achievements were obscured in history and might never have become known except for a six-year, $8 million court battle between computer giants Honeywell and Sperry Rand. U.S. District Judge Earl Larson ruled in 1973 that John Mauchly, previously honored as the inventor of the digital computer, actually stole his ideas from Atanasoff during a visit to the ISU campus in 1941.

Larson threw out the Sperry Rand computer patents Mauchly and a colleague shared and decided it was Atanasoff who originated the idea of a regenerating electronic memory bank while on an absent-minded drive through the Iowa and Illinois countryside in 1937.

While Iowa State lost its chance to become the computer center of the world, the college has been on a crusade since 1974 to make sure Atanasoff — and his former school — receive proper credit.

But bad luck and scientific ignorance has hampered those efforts. The landmark court decision was released on Oct. 19, 1973, the day before President Richard Nixon's so-called Saturday night massacre, and news of the ruling was overwhelmed by political upheaval from Washington.

FIVE YEARS AGO ISU threw a big reception for Atanasoff and invited national media but that event was lost in the news of the Beirut bombing attack on the U.S. Marine barracks.

The latest honors are timed to coincide with the publication of the book "Atanasoff — Forgotten Father of the Computer" by former Des Moines Register reporter and Pulitzer Prize winner Clark Mollenhoff.

Iowa State also pursues the publishers of textbooks and encyclopedias that continue to list Mauchly as the inventor of the digital electronic computer.

Blind lawyer to sue airline

By Bill Brewer
United Press International

GRINNELL, Iowa — Blind lawyer Peggy Pinder, who was forcibly removed from an airliner last month, said Thursday a decision not to prosecute her is only partial vindication and now plans to sue Midway Airlines for bouncing her from her seat.

Pinder was carried off a Midway jet at Baltimore-Washington International Airport in Maryland and charged with criminal trespassing last month.

She had refused to obey a flight attendant's order to relinquish her seat in the smoking section of the rear of the plane and sit in one designated for handicapped passengers in a non-smoking section of the aircraft.

Pinder, of Grinnell, said she was notified late Wednesday that the Chicago-based airline, and prosecutors in Maryland, where the alleged offense occurred, had decided not to prosecute her.

"That's the first step in vindicating me," said Pinder, whose arrest came as she was returning to Iowa from a meeting with Democratic Party leaders to discuss ways to allow the blind greater access to party functions.

SHE SAID SHE is "very seriously contemplating" a civil suit against Midway for ordering her to vacate her seat, "to explain to Midway in terms it can understand that it's got to leave its blind passengers alone."

"Blind people have been arrested at about the rate of one or more per month for the last three years or so," Pinder said. "It's time we put a stop to that."

Pinder also said she is pushing Congress to pass a bill prohibiting airlines from designating special seating areas for the blind which already has drawn 100 co-sponsors.

"There's a lot of support for leaving the blind alone," she said.

Scottish Highlanders ready for Minnesota competition

By Cindy Hadish
The Daily Iowan

Like the ducklings on the Iowa River, they reappear every spring. The distinct strains of the UI Scottish Highlanders piping by the riverbank always attract attention. Their playing becomes more common with warm weather in part because of the group's contest emphasis in the spring.

On Saturday, the Highlanders "C Band," or competition band, travels to St. Paul, Minn., to compete in MacAlester College's Highland Games.

Curt Campbell, band manager and member of the drum line, said the band has been going to the contest since the 1970s.

"A former director, Bruce Liberati, decided to take the group to contests in addition to performing half-time shows and parades," said Campbell.

The pipe bands are divided into four grades, with the Highlanders competing in Grade IV, he said. Grade I is for the bands with the most experience.

BAGPIPE INSTRUCTOR Jon Shell said the group probably will be competing against eight to 10 other bands, with a judge for both the drum and pipe sections.

Dancers are also a part of the Highlanders, but they compete individually at the competition.

To prepare for the contest, Shell said the pipers practice at least 30 minutes every day to increase their stamina and also play together to coordinate their tuning and technique.

"I was really pleased with our last rehearsal," said Shell, "and I'm excited about how the drums have been sounding as well."

John Harris is the group's drum instructor, and like Shell, performs with the band as a member.

Harris will be playing snare drum in the competition, along with two other snare drummers and one bass drummer. There are a total of eight pipers in the C band, he said, although there are about twice as many in the Highlanders.

If the Highlanders do well in the competition, they could take home a trophy, while Grade I bands win prize money.

Bill offers tax installments

United Press International

SHENANDOAH, Iowa — Rep. Jim Lightfoot, R-Iowa, Thursday announced he has drafted legislation to spare taxpayers from the financial hardship of paying large amounts to the government every April by allowing them to pay their income taxes in installments.

"This legislation doesn't exempt anyone from paying the taxes they owe. In fact, it makes it easier for them to meet these obligations," Lightfoot said. "By taking the edge off of the one-time federal tax payment, taxpayers will be more likely to pay their taxes in full and on time."

Under the bill, all taxpayers would have the option to pay their federal income taxes in three equal installments on April 15, June 15 and Sept. 15.

However, those opting to pay their taxes in installments would have to pay the government market rates of interest on any balances they owe beyond that April 15.

Amnesty plan draws 2.2 million aliens

WASHINGTON — A total of 2.2 million illegal aliens applied for amnesty, 125,000 in the final 24 hours, the immigration service said Thursday, indicating a "very, very high percentage" overcame fears the program was a trick.

"We think the bottom line answers the question as to how successful (the amnesty program) has been," Alan Nelson, Immigration and Naturalization Service commissioner, told reporters.

"We think the 2 million reflects a very, very high percentage of those who qualify," he added.

Illegal immigrants jammed INS legalization offices nationwide to beat the midnight Wednesday deadline, with an estimated 125,000 filing applications on the last day. All told, 1.4 million applications were filed under the main program by the deadline.

Rift in Contra leadership worries U.S.

WASHINGTON — Administration officials said Thursday they fear that deep divisions could unravel the Contra rebels' political alliance and weaken their negotiating position during peace talks with the Nicaraguan government.

During talks in Washington the past two days, administration and congressional officials urged the Contras' five political directors and military commander to put aside their differences and continue peace talks with the Marxist-led Nicaraguan government.

"The Contra army is at war with itself," said one congressional aide with close ties to the rebels. "It's a blue-ribbon blood bath. We haven't seen anything like this before."

Bennett seeks to cut loan defaults

WASHINGTON — Education Secretary William Bennett sent Congress legislative proposals Thursday to cut student loan defaults, which at $1.6 billion this year is about half of the Guaranteed Student Loan budget.

Bennett said the legislative package, "Student Aid Integrity and Accountability Amendments of 1988," is part of a three-pronged effort to bring under control excessive levels of defaults on government student loans.

The bill focuses mainly on students by tightening eligibility requirements for the loans. But officials stressed government regulations also are being tightened regarding accreditation of higher education institutions, particularly trade and business schools, and their handling of the loan programs.

"These reforms are urgently needed in order to address a number of serious problems that threaten the integrity and viability of our student aid programs," said Bennett in letters to House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, and Vice President George Bush, the Senate's president.

Launch schedule for new shuttle set

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Top NASA officials outlined a new shuttle launch processing schedule Thursday that sets Aug. 22 as the agency's internal planning date for the first post-Challenger shuttle launch.

But Rear Adm. Richard Truly, a former shuttle astronaut and associate administrator for space flight at NASA headquarters in Washington, told United Press International the new launch target is just that — a planning target — and that Discovery will be cleared for blastoff only when it is safe to fly.

"I will say again and again, that I just don't care whether we fly in August or September. Whenever we fly, it'll be safe, it will work and people must understand that it's a long program."

Israel vows to strike Arab bases again

JERUSALEM — Israeli Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin vowed Thursday to strike again at Arab guerrilla bases in Lebanon when it is necessary to protect Israel's northern border and its self-declared "security zone" in southern Lebanon.

"We have not eradicated terrorism in Lebanon — it exists and it is active," Rabin said in an interview with Army Radio.

Security "is attained with persistent fighting, most of it defensive, and occasionally an initiated operation has to be carried out in order to prevent a situation from being created that will make it easier for terrorists to attack us," he said.

Hundreds of Israeli soldiers and Lebanese militiamen had conducted "Operation Law and Order" in southern Lebanon to search out guerrilla strongholds used to launch raids against Israel. The operation ended Wednesday.

Iraq praises U.S. presence in Gulf

MANAMA, Bahrain — Iraq's president praised the U.S. military presence in the Persian Gulf Thursday, saying the 30-ship fleet sent by the United States is successfully completing its mission to protect shipping.

"The source of real danger to the gulf states and Iraq comes not from the U.S. fleet, but rather from Iranian aggressiveness," Iraqi President Saddam Hussein told the Egyptian weekly magazine Al-Musawwar.

Also Thursday, Iraq said its jets had sent missiles into a "large naval target" — Iraq's standard reference for a tanker in Iranian service — in the southern gulf, where the two nations have been at war for nearly eight years.

Chirac defends action in release of hostages

By Brendan Murphy
United Press International

PARIS — Prime Minister Jacques Chirac rejected suggestions Thursday that his government compromised itself or Western solidarity against terrorism in negotiating the release of the last three French hostages held in Lebanon.

"We scrupulously respected the great principles of our foreign policy," Chirac said. "Today, more than ever, France is determined to pursue, with the greatest firmness, the fight against terrorism."

Chirac greeted the three former hostages as they stepped from a government plane at an airport outside Paris Thursday morning, the day after their release. He and Interior Minister Charles Pasqua said the government never dealt directly with the kidnappers and that no ransom was paid.

The two were reacting to domestic and foreign statements questioning whether France had made financial or political concessions to free envoys Marcel Carton, 62; Marcel Fontaine, 45; and journalist Jean-Paul Kauffmann, 48, held since early 1985.

SOME 200 family members and friends engulfed the three former hostages as they stepped from the jet that carried them from Corsica to Paris on the last leg of their overnight journey.

The three later were admitted to the Val de Grace Military Hospital in Paris for observation and treatment. Despite their haggard appearance, they were reported to be in basically good condition.

"It's a great day for us," said Kauffmann, "but it is also darkened by the fact there are only three of us."

Carton gave the most recent news of U.S. hostage Terry Anderson, bureau chief for the Associated Press in Lebanon, saying he played dominoes with Anderson during their captivity.

Kauffmann grimly described the last days of fellow hostage Michel Seurat, who died of an apparent stomach cancer in early 1986.

"We saw Michel Seurat struggle with despair and also, I have to say, with nobility," said Kauffmann. "He didn't say very much. He saw himself dying and he wanted to live. It was something awful."

FBI director comments on officials' behavior

By Philip J. Garcia
United Press International

WASHINGTON — FBI Director William Sessions said Thursday the conduct of public officials should be beyond reproach, "like Caesar's wife," but he declined judgment on the legal and ethical questions surrounding Attorney General Edwin Meese.

Sessions, in contrast to the tough stand taken by Meese up to now, said the "route of resignation" would be open to him if there were widespread perceptions in the public that the FBI director was not "legally and ethically" carrying out his duties.

A Senate subcommittee released a report Wednesday charging Meese violated a White House policy barring officials from intervening on behalf of friends in government contracting when Meese was a presidential counselor in 1982.

Since last May, an independent prosecutor has investigated Meese's involvement in several matters. And continued questions have prompted high-level Justice Department officials to resign in protest and sparked calls for Meese's resignation.

In a wide-ranging informal meeting with reporters, Sessions fielded a number of questions on whether the attorney general's legal and ethical problems have affected Americans' perception about abiding laws.

Sessions responded that "was a very, very important item."

degrees, as the worst high-rise fire in the city's history in terms of damage and severity.

"Everything that was burnable burned down," said Los Angeles Fire Department Capt. Steve Varney. "It was just metal, and that was red hot. ... It looked like Dante's inferno."

"Inside that building ... it was like the inside of a boiler," Fire Chief Donald Manning said. "The water would turn to steam. I wasn't sure we could stop it at all."

One of the main problems in battling the blaze was the lack of a built-in sprinkler system. The building was constructed before a 1974 state law requiring sprinklers.

IRONICALLY, a 40-member crew was in the process of installing sprinklers when the fire broke out Wednesday night. Although the system was 90 percent completed, none of the sprinklers were working yet.

"If there had been a sprinkler system in that building, we wouldn't be here," Manning said.

The blaze, which was visible for miles, attracted large crowds of spectators during the night. Police cordoned off streets surrounding the building to ease the movement of fire equipment, but the blocked streets caused enormous traffic jams during Thursday morning's rush hour, forcing the closure of downtown off-ramps from the Harbor Freeway for several hours.

The man who died in the fire pleaded for help over a hand-held radio before succumbing to the flames and smoke in a freight elevator stalled on the 12th floor.

"I COULD HEAR him calling," said Zora Imamovic, 38, janitor in the building who carries one of the portable radio sets. "He was saying, 'Car 33's in flames! We are dying! ... Please help!'"

The dead man — whose body was found when firefighters pried open the elevator doors at 6 a.m., about two hours after the blaze was extinguished — was not immediately identified.

A Fire Department helicopter spotted another man waving frantically from a 50th-floor window and sent firefighters to rescue him. Firefighter Mike Meadows said that by the time they reached the man, he was overcome by smoke.

"He was behind a curtain, and all we could see was his legs," Meadows said. "A few more minutes and he would have been gone."

Meadows said he gave the man oxygen and helped carry him to the roof where he was picked up by a helicopter. "By then, he was feeling a lot better," Meadows said.

TWO OF THE injured were found disoriented on the 37th floor of the skyscraper before firefighters brought them to safety shortly after dawn.

In all, at least 17 were hospitalized.

Most of the injured were maintenance and janitorial workers. Three were firefighters.

Many of them, and an undetermined number of others who escaped injury, made their way down to the ground using the enclosed stairways. Despite signs warning not to do so, others used elevators to get to the ground floor.

Disasters

extended beyond the scenes of scorched and twisted debris.

THE BLAST AT the Shell Oil refinery sent prices climbing on world oil markets Thursday. One analyst said the explosion removed 1 percent of the U.S. gasoline supply.

Unleaded gasoline gained nearly a penny a gallon on the New York Mercantile Exchange after it was learned the blast had shut down the refinery, which has a capacity of 220,000 barrels a day.

The series of explosions that demolished the Pacific Engineering plant eliminated one of the only two facilities in the West that manufactures ammonium perchlorate, a key combustion agent for solid fuel in space shuttle boosters, intercontinental ballistic missiles and Titan rockets.

Air Force and NASA officials said the loss of the plant was not expected to delay the shuttle program or have a major impact on military rocket production in the near term, but they said it was too early to assess the long-range outlook.

Only at the rocket fuel plant — where a fire broke out and an alarm was triggered — did employees have a few precious seconds to scramble to safety before three huge explosions gouged a crater 400 feet wide and several feet deep from the Nevada desert.

"THEY BLEW AN emergency siren," Assistant Clark County Manager Mike Cool said. "The employees scattered. They came out of the plant and ran in every direction in the desert."

The explosions were so powerful they triggered earthquake-measuring equipment at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena. Scientists said the first blast at 11:53 a.m. PDT Wednesday measured 3.0 on the Richter scale and the second registered 3.5. Those magnitudes were comparable to the shocks produced by the underground detonation of nuclear weapons in Nevada.

Bruce Halker, 56, vice president of operations at Pacific Engineering Co., was killed when the plant was blown apart just before noon Wednesday.

Fire officials said the company comptroller, Roy Westerfield, 61, was missing.

"HE HAD POLIO (as a child) and that is what worries me," Westerfield's son, Gary, told United Press International. "He would have had a hard time getting out of there without help. He did not come home last night and that is not like him."

At least 279 people were treated at Henderson-area hospitals for varying degrees of injuries.

Windows were shattered as far away as Las Vegas, 20 miles to the north. About 200 employees were put out of work and 15,000 residents of Henderson, a city of 54,000 people, were evacuated from their homes or businesses for several hours.

can handle yourself well and are fairly intelligent," he said.

Wegmann said he was excited after winning $14,000 as a three-day champion on "Card Sharks," but he did not allow himself to jump up and down, squeal with excitement or even hug the master of ceremonies to the point of asphyxiation, which can be a common malady of game show winners.

"I like to think I handled myself well on both shows, although it was pretty exciting," he said. "I grew up on a farm and I think people were kind of surprised. I wanted to strip misconceptions of Midwesterners that people have out there."

DURING HIS "Scrabble" appearance, Wegmann only won $1,000 for correctly guessing the letters to "paper" from the clue: "Japanese. Make it with rice." He lost the match following a tie-breaking round and was quickly whisked off the set.

"It happened so fast. One minute you're in a pool of contestants and the next you're on TV," he said. "I was pretty nervous. It seemed we had just started playing and all of a sudden it was the speed round and you go 'ugh.' You just stare into space and then your mind leaves you. I think if I had been a 'Scrabble' buff, I could have done better."

But while on "Card Sharks," he was able to experience the glory of being a game show wizard and managed to extend his stay into three days — or, by game show time, three hours.

"It's pretty wild, because you tape a whole week of shows in one day. You change your clothes and run back to the set and go, 'OK, it's Wednesday,'" Wegmann said.

ALTHOUGH IT is TV, the sometimes artificial and backstabbing world of Hollywood did not intrude onto the game show set. Wegmann said the contestants were treated well and the MCs were a lot of fun, although he said Chuck Woolery looked older in person.

"They want you to have a good time. They just tell you to act normal but to have fun," he said. "They want you to sound peppy; I mean they don't want to hear about your grandma dying or anything."

While on "Card Sharks," where contestants are asked to personalize their answers to the game's questions, Wegmann said he found himself lying in order to make his answers colorful.

"They want you to talk about your personal life so you make things up that relate to the question," he said. "Like I told them that my grandma rode a skating board, stuff like that."

Wegmann said he plans on moving to California after he graduates with a master's degree in business administration in May, but he will not become a professional game show contestant.

"If the opportunity arises I would probably do it again, but it's not like I'll be hounding to get on these shows," Wegmann said. "It was a lot of fun and really exciting. The 'Card Shark' shows make a great party tape."

Sporting high ideals

UI Athletic Director Bump Elliott recently said the Athletic Department may donate to Iowa Endowment 2000, the UI's $150 million fund-raising campaign, contingent on finding extra money in the athletic budget before the end of June. O hail the wonderful news!

This would mark the Athletic Department's first direct financial contribution to the UI — and would hopefully inaugurate a long-term, mutually supportive relationship between the department and the university at large. The possibilities and benefits are practically without end.

Hawkeye athletics is big business and sources of extra revenue are substantial: the football team's bowl appearances, the men's basketball team's tournament games, the additional money-generating TV coverage and the hundreds of diehard boosters of the black-and-gold. We're talking about potential surpluses way above and beyond the costs of running UI athletic programs.

While it's probably true the UI already benefits from the national exposure and great popularity of Hawkeye sports — boosting the school's reputation and academic recruitment — it's quite certain that the Athletic Department could also deliver a tremendous financial lift to general university programs. UI libraries are scraping bottom to meet rising costs and faculty salaries are still last in the Big Ten.

What does the Athletic Department gain by sharing revenues and initiating special fund-raising campaigns? First, all department members and supporters can bask in the awareness that they are contributing to the educational purpose and reputation of the university. Beyond that, it's good public relations and it may even help athletic recruitment.

No hero

Not often are college students honored with Ronald Reagan's national heroes at their commencement.

On Monday, graduates of Jerry Falwell's Liberty University in Lynchburg, Va., were officially sent into the real world with encouraging words for the future. The message was delivered by none other than former Lt. Col. Oliver North, who, ironically enough, is facing 16 criminal charges.

In his first public address since he formally retired, North bravely faced 10,000 avid supporters. His message was clear: Serving your country is not a crime no matter what you do, secret selling of arms-for-hostages operations included.

Regrettably, many Americans see only the clean-cut, smooth-speaking North — not his rash stepping above the law. Specifically, more than 600,000 Americans have signed a petition as part of a national campaign led by Jerry Falwell to get North pardoned. Although North is firmly convinced he acted with the best interests of the nation in mind, the same could be said of Adolf Hitler and Josef Stalin. Their faces are not seen on $10 T-shirts in shopping malls, however.

Fortunately, efforts were launched Monday to keep the president and his staff within the limits of the law — where they belong. The Washington-based organization called People For The American Way has countered Falwell's petition by opposing a pardon and encouraging due process through trial. Its efforts to ensure government aides are bound by the same laws as the average citizen are commendable, though it is unfortunate its efforts are necessary.

North urged students to exercise "your compass of values." Now is the time for Americans to examine exactly which values are worthy of preserving — corruption and secrecy we can do without, but honesty and integrity are values worthy of preservation. In the meantime, let's hope the president is through discovering heroes.

That three-letter word

According to UI Student Health Services officials, the incidence of sexually transmitted diseases has not been decreasing at the UI — where an estimated 25 cases are treated each day — despite increased awareness of STDs. Unfortunately, media attention to the problem and the medical community's "safe sex" campaign have done little to bring down the high number of STD cases, at least at the UI.

One reason given for the lack of change is increased communication about STDs. People have become more comfortable dealing with these diseases and more willing to talk about their symptoms. This is one clear benefit of society's increased awareness. But the numbers show us that increased communication about STDs is not enough.

Society has confronted only the high incidence of sexual diseases, but not the idea of sex. Let's not kid ourselves here. There is a lot of sexual activity occurring as early as junior high, but as a society we have not yet accepted this. This is made obvious by the many people who accept the idea of using condoms, but still speak of sex as a dirty word — not to mention the act.

These kinds of opinions say that everyone — that is, those miscreants who are sexually active — should practice safe sex so that we all stay healthy. But condoms — how gross! — should not be distributed to high-school students, available in the residence halls or readily accessible at all. Because — oh my God! — this might actually increase sexual — there's that word again — activity.

As long as society moralizes about how wrong sexual activity is, even for those who choose to participate, no real progress will be made in the fight against STDs. It's time that Americans accept the actions of others and start to really fight STDs.

It's all in the moon and stars

The tiny woman was humming a merry tune as she sat in her sunny kitchen. She nibbled daintily at a simple breakfast of dry toast, fresh strawberries and orange juice. That man of hers was out doing the morning chores, but she knew he would be in soon. Ynez the cook was already preparing the hearty breakfast he loved so. Her reverie was broken when Ignacio the houseboy placed the morning paper on the table. He had been unsuccessful in his attempt to creep quietly into and out of the room and had managed only to startle both the small woman and the large dog at her feet.

With a savage snarl, the dog lunged after the fleeing servant, who was making a beeline for the nearest exterior exit. Oh well, thought the tiny woman, Ignacio has outrun him before, and he'll probably outrun him this time. She picked up the paper and turned to, of course, the horoscopes.

AS WAS HER habit, she looked at hubby's sign first: "Aquarius — This is a good day to take it easy. You may hear from distant friends or relatives, and you should reply as quickly as possible. Spend time with your family in the evening. Don't be too hasty in dismissing people from your cabinet just because they are avaricious, corrupt scum; everyone has their faults. Veto any trade legislation passed by Congress. Don't trust the Russians." The tiny woman could only shake her head. Wasn't it amazing how accurate, and how personal, these horoscopes were?

She was about to check her own sign when the kitchen door slammed and she heard the oh-so-familiar clippity-clop of cowboy boots on the linoleum. She looked up and there he was, the most powerful man in the world but still her best beau — Ronnie.

"Rustle me up some OJ, Juanita," he called merrily, "this divining entrails is thirsty work. Good morning, Mommie."

"GOOD MORNING, Ronnie," Mommie said, giving Ronnie a peck. "By the way, that's Ynez. Juanita hasn't worked here for five years."

"That's right, I keep forgetting," said Ronnie with a chuckle. "By the way, I may have to learn the name of a new houseboy, too. Freedom Fighter was chasing Predro into a box canyon, and he was gaining on him."

"That was Ignacio, dear," Mommie said as Ynez served the orange juice. "Just as well, if you ask me. He always seemed so sneaky and nervous. By the way, I didn't know you were divining entrails today. Its only been a couple of weeks since the last time. Why so soon?"

"Oh, it was that darned crystal of mine," said Ronnie, shaking his head and grinning. "It just keeps after me to take new readings. I think either we're misaligned or the thing just hates goats. I keep divining the same darned things — don't fire Ed Meese, veto trade legislation, don't trust the Russians."

"WELL, IT never hurts to make sure," said Mommie, giving Ronnie's hand a squeeze. "Now, Ynez's the rest of your breakfast. Ynez! Ynez, what's holding up ... up ... ooooooaaaaaeeeeumm ..."

Ynez, who was on her way to the table, almost dropped her heavily laden tray as she saw her mistress go rigid in her chair and heard her utter weird, unearthly sounds, such has had never before issued from a human throat.

"Stand back, Juanita," cried Ronnie, "Mommie's channeling again! Keep Freedom Fighter out of here if he comes back. The presence of cosmic entities makes him piddle!"

Ynez left her tray on a nearby counter and fled from the eerie tableau. Slowly, Mommie became more and more relaxed until she finally went limp. After a few seconds, she sat up in her chair, her face reposed yet shining with a fierce wisdom. "Heart words, flesh-bound soul called Ronnie," she said in a peculiar accent. "I am high priestess of the wealthy and stylish Egyptian Incas of Mars, Gwa-Kaw Mo'Li. Many there are who would give you counsel, but I tell you it is better that you had beans in your ears than listen to such ones! They would tell you fire Ed Meese, sign the trade bill, trust the Russians. They would even tell you to raise taxes and cut defense spending to balance the budget!"

"I say unto you, trust signs, not logic; listen to the inner voice that whispers to your assumptions, not to outer voices that distract you with facts; reject all information, however well documented, that is not in harmony with your intuition. It is the proud man who makes up his own mind, but it is the wise man who surrenders his mind to superstition to be made up for him. I must go now. Zippidedoodah!"

Ronnie nodded gravely. Again, the portents were consistent, while the facts were discordant yet again. What peace there is in not thinking. In this, Ronald Reagan was, as always, content.

Rest of the story

To the Editor:

The United Press International article, in covering the Lesbian and Gay Rights march in Dubuque on April 30 (DI, May 2), raises several concerns about media coverage of lesbian and gay issues which need to be addressed. This is not intended to be a criticism of The Daily Iowan staff, as it should be commended for running an article about the Dubuque march, but rather of press conventions in covering lesbian and gay events.

My first concern is the use of the term homosexual. Homosexual is a term which was invented by 19th-century psychiatrists and has little relevance to the contemporary lesbian and gay movements. Further, the word homosexual, with the root homo, is frequently taken to mean only men, adding to the invisibility of lesbians in our society. Even though it wasn't mentioned, there were easily as many lesbians as gay men in Dubuque last Saturday.

My remaining concerns apply specifically to the description of the Dubuque march. The event was depicted almost entirely in terms of confrontation, heckling and the police. The march last Saturday was compared favorably to the march last fall, where we were indeed pelted with eggs. However, the article does not even begin to establish the degree of difference between the two. Any conflict between us and our harassers was inconsequential in comparison to the positive aspects of the march.

Usually when a human interest event occurs, the press makes some attempt to give the participants' views of what is happening. This did not happen in the UPI article. They did not convey the experience of the vast majority of the bisexuals, lesbians and gay men, as well as of our supporters, parents and friends, was overwhelmingly positive. It was a joyful, animated and empowering event. It was fun.

I want to again commend the DI for running the article. It was probably the best, and very possibly the only, wire article that they received. But this is the rest of the story.

David L. Tingwald

Damaging headline

To the Editor:

On Tuesday afternoon, I could hear Scott preaching as I set foot on the north side of the Pentacrest. As I approached and augmented the crowd surrounding him, a friend of mine grabbed me by the arm and asked, "What have you guys done?" Clueless, she showed me a headline on the bottom of the first page of the May 3 DI, titled "FSU bans Pikes for alleged gang rape." She thought FSU was some kind of organization on campus that stripped the charter of the Pi Kappa Alpha chapter here at the UI. Confused, I read the entire article and realized that FSU was not an organization here on campus, but actually an abbreviation of a different university, namely Florida State University in Tallahassee.

A few hours later, while trying to find Cliff Notes for The Bible, I overheard two students talking about the Pikes, who, according to the May 3 headline, were nationally banned altogether, including the chapter here at the UI. Obviously they construed "FSU" as some kind of federal organization with the power to strip fraternal charters.

It is evident that this headline was extremely misleading. Most people aren't too familiar with Florida State University's abbreviation. Much confusion would have been eliminated and totally avoided if the incident had occurred at a more notably abbreviated university like MSU or UCLA. Maybe the DI should have referred to the school more specifically — like "Florida State" — instead of the vague and somewhat unrecognizable "FSU."

As a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, I was more than disturbed by the headline and its implications. But my fraternal affiliation is not the only reason for my concern and for this letter. If "Pikes" had been replaced by "Phi Deltas" or the name of a national business fraternity, I would have been equally concerned and just as troubled.

Clearly, the wording of the headline could have been handled differently. My fraternity's name in large bold type next to the words "gang rape" remotely associates the Pikes here at the UI with rape. It negatively singled us out and may have subconsciously labeled us as a bad group of people. This is especially true for those who read the paper by skimming the headlines, hence avoiding the rest of the story and its complete explanation. Negative or not, the headline was certainly not positive. In all fairness, "Pikes" should have been replaced by "fraternity," which may have brought the terms of objectivity and fairness within closer reach of the DI staff.

The DI, along with United Press International, was right to report the incident and place it on the front page because it was newsworthy and especially important to the newspaper's huge student audience. This is important to us as fellow students because we walk on a campus that is saturated by fraternal organizations, not just Greeks.

In the future, the DI should be more conscious of its headlines and neither should the Johnson County chapter of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill.

Too much money

To the Editor:

It seems someone is pulling a fast one on the university. In these times of budget cuts and tuition increases, one might think the administration would carefully consider its expenditures, especially on items not directly connected with educating the student body.

In the DI (May 2) it was reported that the university is soliciting bids for the estimated $300,000 in "basic maintenance" of the president's house at 102 Church St. Included in the proposed maintenance is an $80,000 air conditioning system and new tile for the roof.

I checked with a local air conditioning distributor yesterday, and they informed me that an 11,000-square-foot house would require a 24,000 BTU air conditioner, and the price would range from $600 to $1,000, installed. Either the UI wants to air-condition an abandoned coal mine underneath the house, or someone is walking away with $79,000 of our tuition dollars.

Additionally, one must also wonder about a $120,000 paint job and a $100,000 roof. I can't imagine that the house itself would cost much more than $300,000 to build from scratch!

All this brings up an even more important question. If we do renovate the house, who's going to use it? Even before the UI considers this ridiculous expenditure, it should be certain that if an $80,000 air conditioner is installed, someone will be there to enjoy it!

decided to make advances at the lower ends more than the higher because they know they have to compete in hiring at the entry-level position," Shane said.

UI Vice President for Student Services and Dean of Academic Affairs Philip Hubbard said that while it is true the UI has ranked at the bottom of the Big Ten pay scale for full professors for "quite some time," he said he thinks the higher ranking for other faculty members is encouraging.

"This will help a great deal in recruiting faculty," he said. "Salary is always a consideration and we can make better offers."

The UI has worked hard to increase the salary at entry-level positions, but administrators also must be concerned with attracting and holding full professors, or the quality of education at the UI will decrease, according to Gronbeck.

"Our quality is receding. We are in danger of becoming a mediocre institution," he said. "With the knowledge explosion of the 20th century, if you don't have good people your students will get gyped," he said.

GRONBECK SAID he thinks the state Board of Regents recognized the need for quality education when it approved former UI President James Freedman's plan for three years of 13 percent faculty salary increases. The plan went into effect with a 11.3 percent salary increase for the 1987-1988 school year. Next school year, faculty members are expected to receive an approximately 10 percent raise.

Freedman's goal was to place the UI among the top half of its comparable universities, according to Gronbeck.

Seven percent of next year's 10 percent raise will come from state funds. Student tuition will make up the other 3 percent, Gronbeck said.

"Students soon found out the increases didn't mean only state money," Gronbeck said.

"You can't do that for very long at a university without serious repercussions," he said. "Tuition isn't a solution. We must find alternative sources of funding and I hope the state will carry more."

BOTH THE STATE and the students are tired of paying for the continued increases, according to Gronbeck, but, he said, "If we can't pay, we won't get minds that can move us into the 21st century."

Hubbard said he hopes the next salary increase will be made up of more state-appropriated funds and less tuition money.

"I'm very concerned about the cost of education for students," he said. "Shane said he thinks current professors are loyal to the UI and thinks the city and the students make it an attractive place to be, but said they will leave the UI if they can find attractive aspects, along with better pay, elsewhere."

"I don't want to give the impression everyone is jumping ship," he said. "There would have to be a substantial salary difference to make it worthwhile."

Shane said the number of professors leaving will be slow, but the UI cannot be a competitive university if the numbers continue to dwindle.

"If Iowa residents want to keep saying that this is a great university," Shane said, "that it provides undergraduates and graduates the opportunity to become involved with the creative arts and get hands-on experience in their field, it's going to cost money."

Parents deserve a little credit, too!

If you're sending your children through college, you deserve a little credit. After all, college isn't cheap, and the cost can be pretty rough on family finances.

That's why there are low PLUS Loans. Iowa PLUS Loans are long-term, low-interest loans of up to $4,000 per year, per student to help parents cover the cost of their children's education. And, even if your children are using student loans to help pay part of their expenses, you may still be eligible.

So remember! While your children are off earning college credit, you deserve a little credit, too. Stop in soon or call us at 356-9030 for all the details on Iowa PLUS Loans.

were approved and the strike ended.

In the southwestern city of Wroclaw, police detained three Solidarity leaders and hinted a state of emergency could be imposed to deal with the crisis, according to the wife of detained Solidarity leader Jozef Pinior. Thousands of Solidarity activists were detained during the last martial law in Poland, imposed in 1981 and lifted in 1983.

A SOURCE IN Krakow said the two-stage raid on the Lenin Foundry began at 1:45 a.m. The source, who said he witnessed the raid, said four vans filled with anti-terrorist police in black berets entered the sprawling compound where 12,000 workers demanding a 70 percent pay hike had been on strike for 10 days.

About 2,500 strikers were in the foundry when the attack began, the source said. The terrorist squad, screaming "fall to the ground" and hurling concussion and tear-gas grenades to stun and confuse the group, rushed a building where members of a workers' strike committee were staying and began to chase the strike committee members," the source said.

"Troops were also dropped from helicopters," the source said, and an estimated 4,000 riot police then moved into the foundry.

Dissident sources said workers were injured when they were beaten in unprovoked attacks or when they resisted riot police. One source said, "This was an attack on unarmed people, so they dispersed. Many were beaten."

A POLICE SPOKESMAN said 38 activists were detained during the raid on the foundry. Most members of the 16-person strike committee were detained, but at least one managed to escape, sources said.

Government spokesman Jerzy Urban said police failed to detain two strike committee members while the rest were taken to police headquarters for questioning.

"Nobody was injured," Urban added.

Urban defended the raid, saying, "It was a necessary operation, which had an emergency character." He vowed Poland's problems in the future would be solved by means of "reforms and reconciliation."

The Rev. Jerzy Zaleski, who was with the striking workers in Krakow, said he saw riot police roughly handcuffing and detaining strikers and smashing objects with batons.

Dissident Barbara Labuda said police began by arresting Solidarity activists Stanislaw Hanzlik, Jan Ciesielski and Mieczyslaw Gil.

"I expected such a measure," Labuda said. "They used force to cut off the head of the strikers."

Iowa's Hartlieb honored as GTE all-American

By Marc Bona
The Daily Iowan

Iowa quarterback Chuck Hartlieb, who spent two years on the bench studying his predecessor, Chuck Long, was formally honored Thursday with a GTE academic all-American award at a luncheon at the Highlander Inn.

Hartlieb, who played this past year as a fourth-year junior, will return this fall for a fifth and final season of eligibility.

The all-American team is sponsored by GTE and players are nominated by COSIDA, College Sports Information Directors of America.

Iowa Sports Information Director George Wine said the selection process for the squad has been a challenge for the past 35 years but praised Hartlieb's nomination.

"WE REALLY STRUGGLED with the team because despite the fact we were brilliant publicists," he joked, "we had a helluva time getting it started. And I figured it was because people like bad news better than good. If we'd had an all-felon team things would have been easier."

"I think it's really wonderful we have not only the best-skilled quarterback in the Big Ten but also the sharpest mentally."

The senior finance major, who maintains a 3.22 grade-point average, attributed the award to "time budgeting."

"It's something I don't think the average person can recognize," he said. "Being a quarterback, especially, is a 40-hours-a-week job. But I've always liked challenges, and this is a very special honor for me."

"I LIKE BEING busy. When I have free time I start getting lax. My parents really drilled into me the concept of time budgeting," added Hartlieb, who said the work ethic he learned in high school paid off his first semester at Iowa, when he pulled in a 3.76 GPA.

"I appreciate the fact we're role models, and I think I'm a good model."

Hartlieb said Long has had a big impact on him: "It was a 180-degree turn. I've gone through some changes. I feel fortunate things have worked out. It's not like Chuck Long, where he did it for four years. It's something new for me. Chuck was my host as a recruit here, and I've always

9 teams compete for golf crown

By G. Hammond-Kunke
The Daily Iowan

With hopes of pulling off an upset, Iowa travels to Columbus, Ohio, for the Big Ten women's golf championship today through Sunday.

To do so, Iowa will have to play its best golf against pre-tourney favorites Ohio State, Indiana, Minnesota and Michigan State.

Indiana won the past two conference matches and Ohio State won three straight before that. Iowa was seventh of the nine teams that contended last year.

The 72-hole match will be held on Ohio State's Scarlet Golf Course, which was rated the best collegiate course in the nation by Golf Digest. Scarlet is a par-73, 6,100-yard layout with plenty of water, sand and bending, lightning-fast greens.

IOWA COACH Diane Thomason adds Iowa, Illinois and Purdue to the aforementioned list of favorites, but Ohio State Coach Jana Edwards feels her Buckeyes will come out on top.

"We like being the favorite and we have been playing quite well lately," Edwards said.

"Really, I think you have to say seven teams have a legitimate shot to win it," Thomason said. "Ohio State would be the favorite, but anything can happen if you get hot."

"This is the strongest field that I can remember," Michigan State Coach May Fossum said. "Any one of six teams could win it."

"For us to win, all of our golfers would have to have low scores. We would have to be very consistent every round," Thomason added.

FOUR OF THOMASON'S linksters are ranked in the Big Ten, including Kelley Brooke (12th, 79.6 strokes), Stacey Arnold (19th, 81.1), Amy Butzer (22nd, 81.3) and Jeannine Gibson (23rd, 81.6). Sarah Ward and Chris Heatherly will also be competing for Iowa.

"We've had a very good week of practice. Chris Heatherly has played very well and Stacey is doing a good job," Thomason said. "Jeannine is a pivotal person for us. We'll need a good round from her."

Thomason called Butzer a "dark horse." The junior finished tied for seventh last year's match and finished fourth overall last fall at the Lady Northern Invitational, which was held on the Scarlet course.

"If everyone is consistent, we can win it," Gibson said. "We'll need at least a 78 from everybody but I think we can do it."

INDIVIDUAL FAVORITES to win the tournament include Tracy Chapman, a senior from Indiana ranked 23rd nationally while leading the Big Ten with a 76.7 average, Michigan State's Kelly Holland, last year's runner-up, Kate Hughes, 76.9, and Mary Kuhlmann, 78.4, both of Minne-

Taylor hopes to qualify for Olympic Trials

By Bryce Miller
The Daily Iowan

When fifth-year senior Davera Taylor was under the recruiting microscope of such schools as Kansas, Indiana and a number of small colleges across the country, Iowa had a quality that made it exceptional.

"Hospitality," she said. "I guess you could say that's what brought me to Iowa. Out of all the schools I went to, Iowa was easily the most receptive. I'm not just talking about the coaches. Everyone was extremely friendly."

Taylor's high-school portfolio ranked among the finest in the country. During her tenure at Thornton Twp. High School in Harvey, Ill., just south of Chicago, Taylor was the state champion in the 100- and 200-meter dash as a junior and also took the 100 as a senior.

IN HER SOPHOMORE year at Thornton, Taylor was the state runnerup in the 100 as well as taking second place in the 200 as a

That quality production continued during her first campaign as a Hawkeye.

As a first-year sprinter, Taylor qualified for the Olympic Trials in the 100 where she advanced to the semifinals — a moment that Taylor said remains as one of her most cherished.

"That was probably the best moment I've had as a collegiate runner," said the sociology major. "It was quite an honor because I was one of the youngest individuals to make it. Not a lot of freshmen make Olympic Trials."

Her previous best in the 100 (11.56 seconds at the Kansas Relays) and 200 (23.54 at Big Tens) also came during her first Iowa season. Because of a recurring hamstring problem during her sophomore year and a hip injury as a senior, neither of those marks were in jeopardy — until now.

IRONICALLY, TAYLOR topped her previous best in the 100 two weeks ago where it was first established — at the Kansas Relays. Her time of 11.54 seconds gave Taylor hopes of again making Olympic standards.

"I feel strong enough to make the Olympic Trials this year," she said. "I've been so close this year, I just have to go out and do it."

Iowa sprint Coach Jim Grant said Taylor has showed marked improvement this year and said he feels that nothing is out of her reach now that her injuries, for the Buckeyes loom next for Blevins' squad

By Marc Bona
The Daily Iowan

One game shy of a school-record 30 wins, the Iowa Hawkeyes will host the Ohio State Buckeyes in a four-game series at the Hawkeye Softball Complex today at 3 p.m. and Saturday at 1 p.m.

The Hawkeyes will probably gain the 30 wins and then some as the Buckeyes are struggling this season under .500. Iowa is 29-20-1 and is coming off a two-game sweep of the Northern Iowa Panthers.

"I wouldn't label them as a pitching power," first-year Iowa Coach Gayle Blevins said. "It's not a power-pitching staff at all. It's going to take an adjustment in terms of speed. From what I've heard, they're improving offensively."

"THEY'RE THE kind of club (where) you have to come out and shut 'em down early."

Senior outfielder Jeannette Painovich echoed her coach's sentiments, saying, "They'll be tough. All Big Ten teams are tough. If we put them away early we should be all right."

"We're ready to play. We're pretty much on a roll right now. Everybody's excited. They want to finish on a good note and that should carry us through the weekend."

Softball

Blevins will hurl a common duo at the Buckeyes — first-year pitchers Diana Repp, who was named Big Ten Player of the Week Wednesday, and Tami Chown, a relief specialist at the beginning of the season who was elevated to a starting spot in the rotation. Cristen Barry will probably also see time, Blevins said.

THE PITCHING staff will lead Iowa in what has become a major motivator for the team — a 30-win season. And as the team's offense picks up, the Hawkeyes may just reach the record in the nick of time.

"It's definitely one of our goals," Blevins said. "Before we started the Northwestern series we talked about going 12-0 the rest of the season. We're 6-2 right now, so we'd like to make a good, clean sweep of this series."

Iowa holds a 14-12 series record against the Buckeyes since 1978. Last season, the Buckeyes swept the Hawkeyes in four games.

The Ohio State series is the final one of the season for the Hawkeyes. NCAA Regionals are May 20-21 and the College World Series is May 25-29.

1 p.m. Iowa will send Cal Eldred and Mark Denkinger to the mound.

Iowa drops to 26-21 overall and 12-10 in the Big Ten. Wisconsin is 27-22 overall and 14-8 in the Big Ten.

Wisconsin's Tom Fischer stifled any chances Iowa had to get on the scoreboard, fanning 19 hitters in Game 1, setting a Big Ten record. The old mark was 18 set by Marv Rotblatt of Illinois against Purdue in 1948.

IOWA'S ALLEN Rath, 6-2, was rocked by Wisconsin batters, allowing 10 runs on 13 hits in four innings. Wisconsin hitters attacked Iowa pitching for 17 hits and used rallies of four runs in the first inning and five runs in the fourth to top the Hawkeyes.

Wisconsin's Scott Cepicky blasted a three-run homer in the fourth off Rath. Cepicky broke the school record for homers in a season with his 13th blast of the season.

NBA's Hornets meet with Williams

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — The NBA Charlotte Hornets met with Ohio State Coach Gary Williams and will ask the Buckeyes for permission to interview him for the team's head coaching position, club officials said.

However Williams, who was in Charlotte this week, said talks with team vice president Carl Scheer were less than a job interview.

Others interviewed by the Hornets are Bradley's Stan Albeck, Denver assistant Allan Bristow, Boston Celtics chief scout Ed Badger and former Philadelphia 76ers Coach Matt Guokas.

Redskins release running back Rogers

HERNDON, Va. (UPI) — The Washington Redskins Thursday released two-time Pro Bowl running back George Rogers, who was benched when the team won the Super Bowl championship last season.

The Redskins also released 1987 starting middle linebacker Rich Milot, six-year veteran cornerback Vernon Dean, two-year veteran cornerback Tim Morrison and defensive tackle Kit Lathrop five days before the start of a weeklong mini-camp at the team's suburban training facility.

Rogers, 29, is 15th on the NFL's career rushing list with 7,176 yards over seven seasons. Rogers, the 1980 Heisman Trophy winner at South Carolina, played four years for the New Orleans Saints and was a Pro Bowl selection in 1981 and 1982.

Ex-Bear will move into broadcasting

CHICAGO (UPI) — Retired Chicago Bears safety Gary Fencik will be a commentator on CBS-TV NFL broadcasts this season, CBS officials announced Thursday.

Fencik, 33, retired after last season, his 12th with the Bears. He was a Pro Bowl selection after the 1981 and 1982 seasons and holds the Bears record for interceptions with 38.

Fencik received a degree in history from Yale and a master's degree in business from Northwestern University. He is also a member of the State of Illinois Banking Board.

Jackson named to NBA All-Rookie team

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mark Jackson, who set an NBA record for first-year players with 868 assists and helped lead the New York Knicks to their first playoff appearance in four years, was voted unanimously to the 1988 NBA All-Rookie Team announced Thursday.

Jackson ranked third in the NBA in assists while breaking Oscar Robertson's rookie records of 690 assists and 9.7 per game set in 1961. He also ranked sixth in the NBA in steals at 2.50 per game. Jackson's 205 steals fell six sort of the NBA rookie record of 211 set by Dudley Bradley of Indiana in 1980. He received more votes than anyone else named to the squad. Sports sociologist backs National League

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A sports sociologist said Thursday the 30-day suspension given Cincinnati Reds' manager Pete Rose for pushing an umpire is justified and essential to protect the future of baseball.

"Stiff punishment is needed not only to protect umpires, but to protect the entire sport of baseball," said Dr. Norris Johnson of the University of Cincinnati.

Rose shoved umpire Dave Pallone twice last Saturday night and National League President Bart Giamatti suspended Rose for 30 days and fined him $10,000. Rose is appealing the suspension, contending anything over a week is too long.

Evert withdraws from Open, Sabatini wins

ROME (UPI) — Top-seed Chris Evert withdrew from the $200,000 Italian Open tennis championships Thursday because of a heel injury, and second seed Gabriela Sabatini advanced to the quarterfinals with a quick 6-0, 6-2 victory over Niede Dias.

Injuries mar Red Wings' playoff hopes

EDMONTON, Alberta (UPI) — The Detroit Red Wings, already minus Steve Yzerman, Thursday lost three more key players to injuries.

Centers Petr Klima and Shawn Burr, and defenseman Gil Delorme were scratched from Detroit's lineup for Game 2 of the Campbell Conference final against the Edmonton Oilers. Detroit lost the opener 4-1 in lackluster fashion.

Klima, the Red Wings' leading scorer in the playoffs with 10 goals and eight assists, suffered a fractured right thumb in Tuesday's game, and will be out indefinitely.

Tourney suspended due to heavy winds

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Bob Lohr negated a triple-bogey with three birdies and an eagle Thursday to move to 8-under-par and into the lead before heavy winds forced a suspension late in the second round of the $1.45 million Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational.

STUDENT FOOTBALL SALES ENDS FRIDAY, MAY 13

The cost of the tickets are $42.00 per student and $92.00 per student guest ticket. Student season tickets are good for all six home games of the 1988 football season. Student guest tickets are available on a limited basis; all students ordering these tickets may not be accommodated, but will receive a refund for their order at full pickup. Priority buying was from April 18 thru May 13, and this is the only time that guest tickets may be ordered. Athletic Ticket Office hours are 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., Monday thru Friday. Students may pick up their tickets beginning September 7. Please read the student policy before placing your order.

STUDENT FOOTBALL POLICY—1988

- A student may purchase one season ticket at the student price of $42.00. A guest ticket may be ordered at the public price of $92.00. These orders will be filled according to priority established. Any order placed after May 13 will be filled as if the order was a zero priority. Students ordering after the priority period will also accrue a year of buying credit toward their priority for purchase of tickets in following years.
- Students will receive priority based on the number of consecutive years they have applied for or purchased football tickets at the University of Iowa. There will be no loss in priority for off-campus progress or a home field illness. An individual who misses two or more consecutive seasons for reasons other than the above will lose all priority.
- In order for a student to receive their priority for football tickets, they must order sometime during the period of April 18 to May 13, 1988. These orders will be filled according to priority established. Any order placed after May 13 will be filled as if the order was a zero priority. Students ordering after the priority period will also accrue a year of buying credit toward their priority for purchase of tickets in following years.
- Individuals may order season tickets for a group no larger than eight. If all group members cannot be present when the order is placed, the members who are not present must provide either their personal check with current and summer address thereon or cash and their ID number to the person placing the order. One student may not write a personal check in payment for another student's tickets.
- The lowest priority within a group will determine the location of the entire block of tickets for that group. That is, all students within a group will carry the lowest priority of any member in that group. If certain priorities are denied student or guest tickets, anyone with higher priority requesting seating with this group will also be denied tickets.
- Student season tickets will continue on sale on a non-priority basis after May 13 and will remain on sale through Tuesday, August 31. Tickets may be sold after September 7 if available. Please contact the Athletic Ticket Office for further information.
- Each student must pick up their own ticket in the fall. The student must present their own student ID with current registration (Fall 1988) sticker and picture ID at the time of pickup. Student pickup will begin Wednesday, September 7.
- Students may cancel their football season ticket order and receive a full refund up until the Friday before the first home game. After that date, refunds will be issued only for the portion of games remaining to be played. No cancellations or refund requests will be honored after the student ticket has been picked up and signed for. All requests for refunds must be made in writing to the Athletic Ticket Office. Please provide your full name, number and an address for the mailing of the refund check. All REFUNDS ARE NOT AUTOMATICALLY PROCESSED AND MAILED.
- A student ticket, to be valid, must be accompanied by a University of Iowa ID with current registration (Fall 1988) sticker and a picture ID. A student ticket may be used by the original purchaser or by any other University of Iowa student, but the original purchaser will be held liable for any violations of the student ticket policy. The penalty for a violation of the University policy involving the ID and ticket will be the loss of the use of the ticket for two games. If a non-student is found using a student's ticket, that student forfeits all future student ticket privileges.
- Disciplinary action will be taken as a result of disorderly conduct on the part of a student ticket holder. Disciplinary measures will be left up to the investigation of the Dean of Students. This may result in the loss of the student's ticket for the remaining season or possibly the remaining enrollment period of said student at The University of Iowa.
- Everyone, regardless of age, is required to have a valid ticket for admittance to all University of Iowa football games. This includes infants in arms.
- DUPLICATE TICKETS CANNOT BE ISSUED FOR LOST OR STOLEN STUDENT TICKETS.

Coaches: Winning has mental aspect

By Bryce Miller
The Daily Iowan

Motivation — whether it's in athletics or in our personal lives — remains an untapped medium, according to two prominent area coaches and an award-winning athlete.

Iowa volleyball Coach Sandy Stewart, Fairfield High School girls' basketball Coach Dan Breen and 1987 Iowa Adult Tennis Player of the Year DeArmond Briggs gathered in the Iowa Room of the Union for a symposium on Excellence In Action.

Enthusiasm, goals, motivation and self-image are all words that many a coach uses to generate the emotional fire of a team. But these same words were coupled with a strong visual road map Thursday night.

STEWART'S PORTION of the presentation, "The Power Within," promoted "no-limitation thinking" and how this theory was incorporated into the coaching of her Hawkeye squad.

"Much of our mental philosophy is on setting of goals, as individuals and as a team," she said. "If you allow your players to have an 'I can attain anything' attitude, then you get a lot of surprising changes."

In 1986, Stewart's squad vaulted to a 23-4 record at one point in the season. The Iowa coach said that was one of the most "mentally tough" teams she has led.

"We used a lot of mental techniques to open the gates of our potential in 1986 and the results were great," she said. "Last season we abandoned that philosophy somewhat and our record seemed to indicate that. (The Hawkeyes finished 17-14.) You can be sure that mental workouts will walk hand in hand with our physical workouts next year."

A TESTIMONY TO the effects of a strong mental game plan is Breen's 334-60 career coaching record.

His theory of visualization as "planting seeds and painting pictures" employs confidence and enthusiasm that he demands not only from his players but also from himself.

"I have to come in every day with a positive attitude," he said. "I owe the team that. That's my job. You can't give what you don't have so I must have the confidence before I can expect my players to gain it."

The presentation was sponsored by Student's International Meditation Society, an offshoot of the Transcendental Meditation Society, based in Fairfield, Iowa.

Netters close out home slate with afternoon match vs. Illini

Teams battle for position as Big Tens approach

By Anne Upson
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa men's tennis team (18-6) finishes its season this weekend facing Illinois (11-11) today at 2 p.m. on the Klotz Tennis Courts.

In the Hawkeyes' meeting with the Illini last season, Illinois landed a dominating win, 7-2. This year's match, with Iowa 4-4 in the Big Ten Conference and Illinois 3-4, points to a reversal of last season's outcome.

Illinois Coach Neal Adams said he anticipates the matchup to be close.

"Last year we beat Iowa," Adams said, "but they are an improved team. I expect it to be a 5-4, 6-3 match. We are looking forward to a great team fight."

ALTHOUGH THE Illini lost five players to graduation, Iowa Coach Steve Houghton said he still expects a challenging match.

"They are pretty good," Houghton said. "They are about a game behind us. They are a young team. They are well-balanced but their No. 1 (singles) player, Mark Long, is 5-2 in the conference. He is quite good. It should be a tough match for Claes (Ramel)."

Houghton added that Illinois is a particularly a strong team — Iowa is 15-35 in the series — and has always been a good team.

Iowa's seven-year coach said he had made some minor changes in the lineup, moving Jay Maltby to No. 5 singles and giving Bryan Stokstad a rest. He will also bring in Greg Hebard to replace Maltby at No. 6.

MALTBY BECAME THE first Hawkeye to reach 20 wins when he beat Brian Amero of Wisconsin last weekend.

"Bryan hasn't been playing like he can," Houghton said. "He will still play doubles with Maltby." The doubles team of Stockstad and Maltby is 11-6 overall.

This weekend is the last weekend of competition before the Big Ten Championship May 13-15. Adams said he thought the Big Ten race was shaping up to be very competitive.

"I know that from number two to nine is very, very, even," Adams said. "Anyone has got a chance. Such competition I think says a lot for the players in the conference."

Houghton attributed the tightness of the Big Ten to the ability of the players.

"There are solid players," Houghton said. "They are close enough that a win can hardly be called an upset."

Michigan is currently the top team in the conference, followed by Minnesota.

"Anything else is as clear as mud," Houghton said.

Indiana Invitational gives Iowa look at Big Ten competition

By Brent D. Woods
The Daily Iowan

Iowa men's track Coach Ted Wheeler got a glance at the strength of the Big Ten Conference in last weekend's Drake Relays.

Saturday, he'll get another look when the Hawkeyes travel to the Indiana Invitational in Bloomington, Ind. The invite will feature all of the Big Ten teams except Purdue and Ohio State.

Southern powers, such as Florida, Tennessee and Kentucky, as well as Notre Dame, will also compete in the field, which Wheeler expects to be about 25 teams strong.

"There will be some good southern schools and eastern schools as well as conference teams," Wheeler said. "Most will be looking for national rankings and qualifying times."

Wheeler said Pat McGhee, who won the 110-high hurdles and claimed third in the 400-intermediate hurdles at Drake, wanted to compete in both events Saturday. But Wheeler isn't so sure.

Men's Track

"WE HAVEN'T DECIDED on that yet," he said. "He wants to. We haven't really made that decision."

According to Wheeler, the squad will stick to its strengths in the meet, with most of the Hawkeyes competing in their strongest events.

Hurdler James Armstrong, who has been sidelined with a stress fracture in his foot since the first road trip of the outdoor season, is still recovering and hopes to be ready for the Iowa Open in Iowa City May 14.

"It's better," said Armstrong, who still has to wear a plastic brace to keep his foot from bending. "I should be back by the Iowa Open."

"I've been riding the bike and swimming to keep my conditioning up. I've been concerned about that."

Wheeler is taking a wait-and-see attitude toward Armstrong's return.

"He's been coming along pretty well," Wheeler said, "but you just don't know about these things until then. We'd like to have him back at least 80 or 90 percent, but we're taking it day by day."

Wheeler said the Indiana Invitational will give him and his team a good idea where they stand — and what improvements they'll have to make before the Big Ten meet May 21-22 in Ann Arbor, Mich.

"It will let us know where things are," Wheeler said. "And what our chances of being an upper-division finisher are."

Hawks still looking for leader

By Michael Triik
The Daily Iowan

This weekend will be the last chance for one of Chuck Zwiener's Iowa golfers to step to the front of the pack before the Hawkeyes get to the Big Ten Championships.

All seven Iowa golfers who have participated in meets this year have averages within four strokes of each other. If Iowa has a chance to contend for the Big Ten title at the conference meet next weekend at Illinois, some Hawkeye must lower his average.

This weekend, Iowa will enter the rugged 15-team intercollegiate meet at Wisconsin. The meet kicks off with each team playing 36 holes today and finishing with 18 holes Saturday. Every Big Ten team is entered.

"THE NORTHERN Collegiate is a quality meet," Zwiener said. "It could be a preview of next week's Big Ten meet. We're looking forward to it."

Iowa has never finished higher than fourth at the Big Ten meet since Zwiener took the head coaching job 31 years ago. This time around it would seem that Iowa has a chance to break into the top three.

The Hawkeyes have finished second in its last two meets — two weeks ago at the Spartan Invitational and last week at the Drake Relay's Festival.

Going into this weekend's action, Jeff Schmid is Iowa's top regular with a 77.1 average through 17 rounds. Steve Reilly and Bra Klapprott are next with 77.2 averages through the same amount of rounds.

"She has progressed tremendously this year," he said. "Last year she was kept out of a lot of meets because of injuries and it certainly slowed her momentum. This year she has stayed healthy and should finish strong."

quiet for both teams until the seventh inning. The Hawkeyes scored their first and lone run when third baseman Keith Noreen tripled and scored on a wild pitch by starter-winner Paul Quantrill, 7-2.

Cepicky singled to lead off the bottom half of the inning. Catcher Craig Brown followed with a two-run homer over the left-field fence to win the game.

Iowa had three hits in the nightcap. Wisconsin had four hits, two of which came in the final inning.

The Hawkeyes return home Sunday for a doubleheader with Grandview at 1 p.m.

Edmonton skates to victory

Down 3-1, Oilers come back and take 2-0 lead in series

By Gerry Monigan
United Press International

EDMONTON, Alberta — Mark Messier scored twice and set up Craig Simpson's winner at 5:01 of the third period Thursday night, rallying the Edmonton Oilers over the Detroit Red Wings 5-3 for a 2-0 lead in the Campbell Conference finals.

The Oilers, who struck for three goals early in the final period, can clinch the best-of-seven matchup when the series shifts to Detroit for games Saturday and Monday.

At 5:01, with the Red Wings caught 2-on-1 during a power play, Simpson scored his seventh goal of the playoffs. The Oilers completed their four-goal period when Wayne Gretzky scored into an empty net with 18 seconds left off a two-on-one pass from Messier.

AFTER A lackluster 4-1 loss in Game 1, Detroit did not figure to seriously challenge the Oilers, but led 3-1 after two periods. Messier came out of the penalty box to score on a breakaway 48 seconds into the third, his ninth goal of the playoffs. Jari Kurri scored 20 seconds later off a passing play from Gretzky to Esa Tikkanen.

Detroit played without regulars Steve Yzerman, Klima, Shawn Burr, Gil Delorme and Jim Pavese because of injuries.

admired him. There's not a person at this university who I've looked up to more."

IOWA ASSISTANT coach Bill Snyder, who works with the squad's quarterbacks, compared and contrasted the two Chucks.

"Whether it was Chuck Long or Hartlieb or (Tom) Poholsky or whoever, I don't think there's any physical similarities. But I think there's a fine thread that runs through all of them. And I think it's that fine thread that has made them successful.

"Chuck's (Hartlieb) an all-American young man. He has a tremendous amount of poise, ability to make good decisions, the ability to perform under adversity and exceptional toughness — both physically and mentally — and they all have a presence about them that allows others to perform better."

Snyder said a will to learn has helped all the quarterbacks he's coached: "If you sat down and talked with Mark Vlasic or Tom Poholsky or Chuck Long, you'll see they all have the same characteristics."

HARTLIEB, A 6-foot-3 205-pound signal-caller from Woodstock, Ill., led the Hawkeyes to a 10-3 season which was capped by a victory over Wyoming in the Holiday Bowl. With Hartlieb as a starter, Iowa was 9-1.

He set a slew of records this season, including tying an NCAA mark with four touchdown passes in one quarter and setting a Big Ten record seven TDs in one game. He ranked third in the country in passing efficiency, completing 65 percent of his passes for 3,092 yards and 19 TDs and became the first Hawkeye to throw 300-yard games five times in one season.

Hartlieb was named to United Press International honorable mention all-America squad and first-team all-Big Ten.

Hartlieb comes from a football family. Brother Andy finished his junior year as an inside linebacker at Wisconsin while younger brother Jim — also a quarterback — will join Chuck at Iowa this year. John is a sophomore in high school.

Wine asked Hartlieb what he would like to be 50 years from now. Undaunted, Hartlieb said, "I don't know, be an SID (sports information director)."

1988 KENTUCKY DERBY

Filly gets inside post at Derby

By Pohl-Smith
United Press International

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The best of the Kentucky Derby colts likely will let the lady go first Saturday, and chivalry will have nothing to do with it.

Rather, it was the luck of Thursday's draw for post positions that gave the speedy filly Winning Colors a clear shot to the front of the pack — inside of the favored, undefeated Private Terms and Forty Niner, the colt deemed best equipped to stop her from running away with the roses.

The D. Wayne Lukas-trained Winning Colors, installed the 3-1 second choice in her quest to become just the third filly to win the Derby, drew the No. 11 spot in the field of 17 3-year-olds entered for the $786,200 Classic.

Owner James Cottrell poses with his colt, Kentucky Derby entry Jim's Orbit. Cottrell is the first black to have bred a Derby horse. Post time is 4:33 p.m. Saturday.

FORTY NINER, coupled with stablemate Cefis as the 5-1 third choice, drew the extreme outside gate. Private Terms, the 5-2 favorite who is trying to become the fifth undefeated Derby winner, was posted in the 16th hole, just inside Forty Niner.

Risen Star, the Secretariat colt who upset Forty Niner in the Keeneland Lexington Stakes and the 6-1 fourth choice, got stuck on the rail, where he is in danger of getting bumped, boxed or squeezed off in the mad rush to get out of the gate and into ground-saving position.

In most races, even in most Kentucky Derbies, the No. 11 post would appear to be disadvantageously wide for a speed horse like Winning Colors.

BUT THE DRAW for the 1988 Derby gave the bulk of the inside, ground-saving positions to closers, the horses who need them least. Cefis, for example, likely to challenge Brian's Time for last place early in the race, and Regal Classic, another late-closer, drew the second and third gates respectively.

1988 Kentucky Derby field

Here are the horses that will race Saturday at Churchill Downs in the 114th running of the Kentucky Derby. Probable odds are as of May 5. The winner will receive $611,200 of a $786,200 purse.

The speed horse closest to the rail is Seeking the Gold, who drew No. 8 and was posted the 8-1 fifth choice on the morning line written by Mike Battaglia, the Churchill Downs linemaker and track announcer.

MOST OF THE trainers tried to shrug off the importance of the draw. Even Lukas, who got the best of it for his attempt to break an 0-for-12 Derby record, said, "I still say it's not that important."

Stevens, a two-time Derby winner, said the speed of Forty Niner, the 1987 juvenile champion, would more than offset his post.

"I have the filly inside me, and I'll be right on her rear end," he said. "He won't have to stand in the gate long, and he can leave there running."

"This is the fastest breaking horse in America. He just might break a length in front and say, 'Move over boys.'"

Charles Hadry, trainer of Private Terms, acknowledged, "it wasn't what I was hoping for, but I think he can overcome it."

Victory in the mile-and-a-quarter Classic is worth $611,200. Second place pays $100,000; third, $50,000 and fourth, $25,000.

The race, to be telecast nationally by ABC, is scheduled to go to post at 4:33 p.m.

Dallas advances; Cavs even series

United Press International

HOUSTON — Mark Aguirre scored 38 points, including a club-record 27 in the third period, and the Dallas Mavericks beat the Houston Rockets 107-97 Thursday night to win their first-round playoff series 3-1.

The Mavericks advanced to the second round of the Western Conference playoffs against the winner of the Seattle-Denver series.

Rolando Blackman added 17 for Dallas while Sam Perkins and Brad Davis had 14 each. Akeem Olajuwon led Houston with 40 points.

Aguirre's 27-point outburst set a club record for points by a player in a quarter. Held to six points in the first half, Aguirre scored the first 13 points for Dallas in the third to give the Mavericks a 57-51 lead.

He left the game after picking up his fourth foul with five minutes, 48 seconds remaining. The 6-foot-6 forward returned late in the period and sank two consecutive 3-point jumpers — giving him three in the quarter — to put Dallas ahead 79-70 with 1:10 left.

Aguirre finished the quarter hitting nine of 10 from the field and six of six from the line as Dallas led 83-76 entering the fourth period.

Houston pulled to within five points twice, but a 3-point play by Aguirre with 5:26 left put the Mavericks up 95-84 and the Rockets never threatened after that.

Cavaliers 97, Bulls 91

RICHFIELD, Ohio — Ron Harper scored 30 points and Larry Nance completed a 3-point play with 1:58 left, helping the Cleveland Cavaliers defeat the Chicago Bulls 97-91 Thursday night and setting up a decisive fifth game of their playoff series.

Harper and Nance both made key blocks down the stretch to send the Cavaliers to their second straight victory in the best-of-five opening-round series. Game 5 is Sunday at Chicago Stadium.

Chicago's Michael Jordan, playing with a sore back, led all scorers with 44 points. Jordan has scored 50, 55 and 38 points in the series' first three games.

Judge lets Harmon attend Seattle camp

By James Cahoy
The Daily Iowan

Former Iowa football player Kevin Harmon will be allowed to leave Iowa to participate in the Seattle Seahawks mini-camp according to a ruling issued by Johnson County Sixth District Judge John Sladek Thursday.

Sladek's order permits Harmon to travel outside of Iowa from May 7-16. The 6-foot, 195-pound running back was drafted by Seattle in the fourth-round of the April 24 NFL draft and is slated to report to a Seahawk mini-camp that begins Sunday and ends next Friday.

Harmon was charged Monday with assault causing injury after allegedly hitting an Iowa City man, Todd Patrick Lynch, in the mouth early Saturday morning at the Burlington Street Bridge. One of Lynch's teeth was broken in the incident, according to court records.

HARMON ALLEGEDLY left his car and hit Lynch after Lynch "assaulted a car" driven by Harmon as he crossed the street against traffic, court documents said.

Sladek originally restricted Harmon's travel to within the state pending a May 17 preliminary hearing. Sladek said Wednesday it was "standard procedure to keep a person in state until initial appearance."

Harmon could face a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine if convicted on the serious misdemeanor charge.

Seahawks Director of Player Personnel Mike Allman said Wednesday the Seahawks "hoped the situation is cleared up soon." He also said the Seahawks wouldn't do anything to reprimand Harmon even if he was found guilty.

The Laurelton, N.Y., native led Iowa in rushing with 715 yards during his senior season despite being plagued by injuries.

Harmon was the second Iowa football player selected in the draft. At that time, Harmon said he believed his chances of making the Seahawks were good.

Rabbit rescued in hare-y case

United Press International

KENILWORTH, N.J. — The kidnapers are under arrest, the ransom recovered and the victim is safely back home.

A happy ending to a classic kidnapping case. Classic, that is, except that the victim was a pet rabbit named Smokey.

It all started earlier this week when Michelle Rizzo, 6, discovered that the 2-month-old bunny she'd received as an Easter gift had been filched from its hutch.

In its place was an ominous ransom demand pieced together from newspaper clippings: "If you ever want to see your stupid rabbit alive again, leave $50 in an envelope under the railroad crossing sign behind your house."

Michelle's parents, Joseph and Vera Rizzo, called their neighbor, police Chief Charles David, who called in detectives on their day off to work on the case.

"We felt scared, because we thought that they were going to kill him and they wanted the money," said Michelle's brother, 8-year-old Joseph Jr.

Detective William Dowd photocopied $50 in currency, placed it in an envelope and sent Michelle, Joseph Jr., and their 10-year-old sister Antoinette to place the "ransom" under the rock designated.

A short time later, a teenager from the neighborhood walked up, collected the envelope and was grabbed by members of a police stakeout team.

Movies that never played Iowa City have showed up now on video tape

By Locke Peterseim The Daily Iowan

Here are some more new offerings on video, never before seen in our humble hamlet. Hail! Hail! Rock and Roll — Bully idea to resurrect Chuck Berry for an all-out barn-burning birthday show, but unfortunately Chas just can't get it up musically like the good old days. However, the other half of Taylor Hackford's film does a respectable job of opening up the man behind the music. Through interviews with the Who's Who of Rock 'n' Roll, he not only sheds light on Berry, but also captures a lot of the down-and-dirty essence of the music with the beat that you can't lose. Keith Richards leads Berry's band and steals the show with lovable quips like "Chuck's the only guy ever 'it me I didn't it back," and "Ee's gave me more 'edaches than Mick Jagger."

love affair with your own work and learn to get ruthless with the splicer so the rest of us can sit through these behemoths.

The Hidden — Aliens take over human bodies and battle it out with cops and each other in the streets of L.A. Nothin' new here — lotta bodies fillin' up with lead — but the Terminator/Body Snatchers combo is adequately fast-paced and often funny drive-in fare, even if it doesn't take any original turns with its hackneyed premise. Kyle MacLachlan proves that the campy stiffness he acted with in Blue Velvet and Dune is a natural personality trait, but he makes the oddness work as the "good alien" pursuing a violently rambunctious nasty.

Three o'Clock High — If Steven Spielberg and John Hughes matter, the result would be Phil Joanou. His directorial debut feature takes the usual teen-anxiety workings and gives them a highly stylish, dazzlingly dark comic twist. The plot is easy — mild-mannered Jerry (Casey Siemaszko) p.o.'s the school's simian psychopath and is sentenced to a post-class pummeling. Where Hughes would never consider spilling teen blood in the name of laughs, Joanou has no qualms about plunging his protagonist into a day of graphic tension culminating in a near-mythical brass-knuckled battle. It's too immature and morally shallow to be a boost for the genre, but too innovative and well-crafted to be easily dismissed.

Bands

The Daily Iowan

In Iowa City Saturday at Gabe's Oasis, 330 E. Washington St., is a trio fitting precisely the tired old tag-line of the home boys who went to the Big City and made it big.

Richter scale romp that characterized its rise to the very edge of fame.

The Cry of a Falling Nation contains 11 original numbers — ranging from the naive satire of "It Wasn't Jesus" to the marketable meaning of "The Way We Communicate" — and one cover, "Foxy Lady." The album is a fine example of what a debut album should do: convey in frozen form what listeners get out of the presses in person.

Saturday's show is both a homecoming show and a celebration, since it marks the upcoming release of the band's new LP, 4 AM, on Link Records.

Trumpeter Winton Marsalis plays show in Cedar Rapids

By Kevin Goulding
The Daily Iowan

KCKK-FM, the Kirkwood Community College-supported public radio station, will present Grammy award-winning jazz trumpeter Winton Marsalis in concert on May 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Paramount Theatre in Cedar Rapids.

Despite being only 26 years old, Marsalis took home his eighth career Grammy when Marsalis Standard Time - Volume 1 won the 1987 "Best Jazz Instrumental Performance, Group" award. This makes Marsalis the only artist to win Grammys the last five consecutive years, and the first artist of all time to win Grammys five years running.

Standard Time, his sixth album, was also nominated for "Best Jazz Instrumental Performance, Soloist"; and in the "Classical Performance" field, the Carnival album, recorded with the Eastman Wind Ensemble, earned Wynton the "Instrumental Soloist with Orchestra" nomination. This brings Wynton's combined nominations in the "Jazz and Classical" field to 18 over the last six years. It also sets the stage for his first live double-LP release this summer, recorded at Blues Alley in Washington, D.C.

UNABLE TO attend the 30th annual awards ceremony in New York City, Wynton issued the following statement: "Receiving eight consecutive awards in five years is an affirmation to me, and hopefully a signal to others, that my peers have a sincere appreciation for quality in American music, and that it is not necessary to use gutter language, sexual innuendoes and other trendy gimmicks designed to exploit the immaturity of adolescents to be a recording artist. It is with great pride that I accept this Grammy Award."

Born in New Orleans, Marsalis was raised in a musical family. His father, Ellis, is a widely respected musician, composer and educator. Branford Marsalis, Wynton's brother, is also a successful jazz musician. Wynton was given his first trumpet at age 6 by Al Hirt, but didn't take the instrument seriously until his classical studies began at age 12.

"I STUDIED classical music," he said, "because so many young musicians were scared of this big monster called classical music on the other side of the mountain. I wanted to know what it was that scared everybody so bad. I went into it and found out it wasn't anything but some more music."

KCKK-FM, an exceptionally progressive and appreciated radio station, continues in its commitment to playing the best and the latest in jazz, folk and "new age" music. KCKK-FM is located at 88.3 on your FM dial.

Tickets are available at the University Box Office and the Five Seasons Box Office.
