New UI presidential finalists named

By John Mallardi and Anne Keivin
The Daily Iowan

The state Board of Regents Monday officially named three additional finalists for the position of UI president, bringing the total to six:

- Alice Chandler, president of the College at New Paltz, State University of New York;
- Kenneth R.R. Gros Louis, vice president of Indiana University at Bloomington;
- Hunter Rawlings III, vice president for academic affairs and research and dean of the System Graduate School at the University of Colorado at Boulder.

They join finalists University of Kansas Vice Chancellor Frances D. Horowitz and UI Interim President Richard Remington. University of Arizona Provost Nils Hasselmo was named a finalist in December, but withdrew his name from consideration the same month, citing an overly extended search process.

THE REGENTS in December

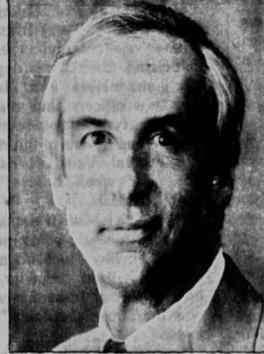

Alice Chandler

Frances Horowitz

Kenneth R.R. Gros Louis

Hunter Rawlings

interviewed Horowitz and Hasselmo after the 17-member UI presidential search committee spent seven months reviewing applications. At that time, the board asked the search committee to submit additional names. The regents also invited Remington to interview for the position.

The five candidates will be interviewed Thursday and Friday at the Des Moines Marriott Hotel, according to a spokeswoman at the Board of Regents office in Des Moines.

In a prepared statement, regents President Marvin Pomerantz said "we welcome an opportunity to meet with them to examine their qualifications and hear their visions" for the UI.

The three new finalists for the presidency visited the UI campus in April.

A FOURTH CANDIDATE, City University of New York Provost and Vice President Steven Cahn, also visited in April but withdrew his name from consideration for "personal reasons," according to search committee chairman Sam Becker.

Becker said that when the presidential search began last May, Chandler and Gros Louis were contacted by the Chicago search firm of Heidrick & Struggles, but both said they were not interested in the position at that time.

The two were contacted again after the search was re-opened in December, and they then agreed to apply.

Since 1980, Chandler has been president of the College at New Paltz, part of the State University of New York system. She was acting provost of SUNY in 1985. Chandler has also held administrative positions — including acting president — at the City College of New York.

Student 'quacks' case of lost ducks

By Paula Roesler
The Daily Iowan

UI junior Rona Bradshaw may be a heroine. She heard cries of help and responded.

While walking to her car in the lot north of the Union after a final exam Monday, Bradshaw heard loud cheeping noises coming from near the riverbank. The cheeping led her to a drainage grate that about 15 ducklings had fallen through, plummeting to the bottom of a shallow cement tunnel, she said.

"The way the mother was calling and the babies were cheeping, I knew there was something wrong," Bradshaw said.

The 2-day-old ducklings fell about 4 feet after slipping through the grate's slats, she said.

Bradshaw said the grate covering the drainage hole was too heavy to lift, so she walked to North Hall where she called the UI Physical Plant. After waiting 45 minutes at the site, Physical Plant and Animal Control Licensing and Shelter workers arrived.

"EVERY TIME the mothers would go by calling, another one would drop in," she said, adding a few more ducklings had fallen through the grate by the time help arrived.

When the workers arrived, two of them were able to lift the grate, remove the tiny ducklings and put them back on the riverbank, she said.

"The mother that probably belonged to half of them, ended up with about 20 because many of the mothers had already left by the time the babies got out.

"There was one that we thought might be hurt," Bradshaw said, "but we set it on the bank and it started cheeping, and the mother answered it, and it started paddling fast toward its mother."

But there was one casualty. The smallest duckling, which seemed to be injured, was taken to the animal shelter, she said.

"IT WAS TINY, and it looked like it had some oil on it," Bradshaw said. "There's some oil in the parking lot."

Animal Control Officer Deb Moe said Monday afternoon the "cold and lethargic" duckling still "isn't responding much to anything."

"The rest of the ducks seemed anxious to go back in the water, but this one just kind of sat there," Moe said.

Bennett will resign post in September

WASHINGTON — The announcement Monday by Education Secretary William Bennett — the most ideologically combative of President Ronald Reagan's Cabinet — that he will resign in mid-September stirred mixed reaction from local and national education officials.

The resignation of the feisty, outspoken secretary was announced after Bennett met with President Reagan and department staff. Bennett said he is resigning to write a book about the nation's education establishment.

Bennett has been education secretary since February 1985, drawing both praise and criticism for his starkly stated conservative views inside and outside the classroom.

He has been blunt in castigating American public education for what he sees as its failure to provide quality education and has been an outspoken proponent of providing aid to private, parochial schools.

BENNETT'S resignation drew both praise and negative comments from education officials.

Howard Carroll of the National Education Association, which has constantly clashed with Bennett, said his group is "disappointed that we couldn't work with (Bennett). He has been very negative. He has offered no solutions and that's what we needed. He retarded the federal effort toward the underclass and the disadvantaged."

Gene Wilhoit, executive director of the National Association of State Boards of Education, praised Bennett for promoting the debate over education reform but said, "I think we would have liked to have seen increased federal financial commitment to education at this time."

Wilhoit also criticized Bennett for trying to apply simple solutions to very complex problems faced by educators. "There's both positives and negatives about his tenure in office."

LOCALLY, IOWA CITY Schools Superintendent David Cronin said that Bennett "won't be revered by educators," but added he should be given credit for arousing concern for the American education system.

"He did generate interest in educational reform," Cronin said. "The debate was needed, but the solutions were not as well thought out. I think his low point was failing to realize the federal government's role in education, and the need to support that role with dollars."

Woman is guilty in Excedrin poisoning

By Cynthia Flash

SEATTLE — A federal jury found Stella Nickell guilty Monday of lacing pain relief capsules with cyanide, killing her husband and a stranger, in the nation's first fatal consumer product tampering case to go to trial.

The seven-woman, five-man jury deliberated 26 hours over five days before convicting Nickell on five counts of violating federal consumer product tampering laws that were adopted as a result of the unsolved 1982 poisoning Tylenol killings of seven people in the Chicago area.

Prosecutors said Nickell tried to copy the Tylenol murders by poisoning her husband and then putting poisoned painkillers on store shelves to make it appear that he was the victim of a random killer.

Nickell, who last week was described by her lawyer as getting "very nervous," sat silently with her eyes downcast as the five guilty verdicts were read.

THE VERDICT came just a few hours after one of the jurors, Laurel Holliday, informed the court she received an anonymous call Friday night from a woman who told her Nickell failed a lie detector test.

U.S. District Judge William Dwyer ruled Holliday could continue the deliberations, in part because of a request by Nickell and her lawyer, federal public defender Thomas Hillier, that she be allowed to remain.

Stella Nickell

Nickell, 44, was charged with five counts of tampering with a consumer product. She was accused of spiking over-the-counter Extra-

Reagan astrologer comments on furor

By Nikki Finke
Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Joan Quigley knew it was going to be a trying week.

She saw it in her stars. "I'm an Aries," the San Francisco socialite explained. "There's a major conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn, which is going to be terrible for many people. Accidents. Fires. Troubles. It's just a very difficult time."

And a very public one, now that she has been identified as Nancy Reagan's mysterious "friend" who former White House chief of staff Donald Regan says in his new book affected "virtually every major move and decision" made by President Ronald Reagan during two terms in office.

The uproar has unnerved Quigley. "To be in this position is very awkward and very uncomfortable," she said in a phone interview. "But there's nothing I can do."

AND WHAT an uproar it has been, following her from San Francisco, to Paris and back home again over the weekend, touching on almost every major White House event of the last eight years, from the Reagan-Gorbachev summits and the president's surgery to his 1981 near-assassination.

It has prompted one comedian to wonder whether there will be a "secretary of Health, Education

Candidate forums to be held

The Johnson County Democratic Party will host two public candidate forums today and Wednesday in Iowa City Public Library Meeting Room A from 7 to 9 p.m.

Today's forum will feature Johnson County Sheriff's candidates Kenneth Stock, Robert Carpenter, Daniel Streckman and Steve Snyder. Wednesday's forum will feature Johnson County Board of Supervisors candidates Charles Duffy, Dick Myers, Betty Ockenfels and David Belgun.

The candidates will answer questions posed by forum moderator Nicholas Johnson and will then take questions from the audience.

Researchers look at fuel

A new study by UI microbiology researchers will investigate the possibility of increasing production of ethane — a commercially useful fuel — from corn starch.

Lacy Daniels, assistant professor of microbiology in the UI College of Medicine, has received an $18,500 grant from the Iowa Corn Promotion Board for his project entitled "Examination of methanogenic bacteria able to produce ethane, propane and butane."

Daniels' research will explore the ability of methanogens, or methane-producing bacteria, to make ethane from ethanol. Recent discoveries by his coworker, Negash Belay, a UI research assistant in microbiology, have shown that small levels of ethane can be produced, but Daniels said he hopes to increase this amount.

The many uses for ethane produced from corn starch could increase the demand for Iowa's corn, Daniels said. Ethane could be more useful as a fuel for vehicles than methanol, which is difficult to compress. Various industries can also use ethane in the production of plastics, Daniels explained.

He added the compound is more easily recovered than ethanol because it does not require distillation.

Absentee ballots available

Absentee ballots are now available for the Johnson County primary election to be held June 7, according to Johnson County Auditor Tom Slockett.

Registered voters unable to vote on election day may request absentee ballots in person at the Johnson County Auditor's Office in the Johnson County Administration Building, 913 S. Dubuque St., until 6 p.m. on June 6. Voters requesting absentee ballots in person at the auditor's office must vote their ballots at the time they request them.

The auditor's office will mail an absentee ballot to any registered voter who requests one by mail. Requests should be addressed to the auditor's office, P.O. Box 1350, Iowa City, Iowa, 52242, and should include the voter's name, current address, social security number, the name and date of the election and the address to which the ballot should be sent.

Absentee voters must request a ballot for the political party to which they belong, either Democratic or Republican.

Absentee ballots may be returned by mail or delivered by hand to the auditor's office in the Johnson County Administration Building. They must be postmarked no later than midnight on June 6. Hand-delivered ballots must reach the auditor's office no later than 9 p.m. on June 7.

ISU president apologizes for Veishea 'hooliganism'

United Press International

AMES — The president of Iowa State University Monday apologized to city and state taxpayers and condemned drunken students' "hooliganism and uncivilized behavior" that erupted at a weekend school festival.

President Gordon Eaton was joined by Gov. Terry Branstad, student leaders and others in criticizing the three days of drunken melees and clashes with law officers that resulted in property damage, scores of arrests and dozens of injuries at the annual Veishea festival, held the week before final examinations.

"We have lost what was a very genuine sense of wholesomeness and goodness in hooliganism and uncivilized behavior, the only apparent basis for which was the abuse of alcohol," said Eaton.

"I can find no reasonable explanation for what happened," he added. "There is only a sense of perversion that some of the students of this university would see fit to insult and profane the public trust of those who help provide for their education."

THE ISU president stopped short of calling for an end to the traditional festival, designed to showcase what the university has to offer, but suggested reinstating classes on the Thursday and Friday preceding the Veishea weekend.

Bjorn Stevens, 22, a graduate student senator, said some students had the feeling Veishea festivities were going to be canceled after this year and adopted an attitude of "we might as well go all out."

"People were yelling 'Veishea, Veishea.' The feeling was in the air that Veishea was going to end and that seemed to provoke it even more," he said. "They were rioting for no reason other than just to riot."

Eaton offered apologies for the weekend outburst.

"As an institution whose roots are presumably based on reason, we owe a profound apology to the citizens and taxpayers of the city of Ames and the state of Iowa for the wanton destruction of public and private property and for the willful injury of 10 public servants," Eaton said.

ISU ALUMNI who returned to the campus for Veishea observations and many current students were "dugust" with the prolonged drunken melees, Stevens said, and he blamed students for not stepping in to keep the celebration from getting out of hand.

Branstad said he hoped the university would continue the festival despite the weekend's "reprehensible acts of violence."

"I think we ought to separate the celebration of Veishea from the events of a minority of students and others who were not students that were reprehensible acts of violence," Branstad said.

Iowa realtors note 5.2 percent hike in first-quarter home sales

United Press International

DES MOINES — The Iowa Association of Realtors Monday said an improving state economy and relatively stable interest rates boosted home sales in Iowa by 5.2 percent in the first quarter, compared with the same period of 1987.

The association, in its quarterly housing report, said 3,723 homes were sold in Iowa, from Jan. 1 through March 31, or 186 more than in the same period of last year and 1,011 homes or 35.8 percent more than in the first quarter of 1986.

The entire increase in sales activity occurred during the first two months of the year, the report showed. The report showed 906 homes were sold in Iowa during January, compared with 798 homes were sold in January 1987, and 1,208 homes were sold in February, or 78 more than in February of last year. Sales during March totaled 1,609 units — the same number as March 1987.

Association officials said the higher sales volume is a reflection of improving economic conditions statewide and relatively stable home mortgage rates.

A fire that began Sunday afternoon in Fries Barbeque and Grill, 5 S. Dubuque St., caused about $500 damage, according to a spokesman from the Iowa City Fire Department.

At about 12:25 p.m. Sunday, an officer from the Iowa City Police Department noticed smoke coming from the building. Fries employees were unable to contain the second-story fire, and the officer evacuated Fries and the surrounding buildings and businesses, according to the report.

The cause of the fire was an operational deficiency and was started when grease ignited in a gas-fire smoker in the upstairs kitchen, according to the spokesman.

Courts

By Traci Auble
The Daily Iowan

The murder trial of Mark R. Peterson, 35, of Coralville, has been reset for Aug. 1, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Peterson waived his right Monday to have his case tried within 90 days of the filing of trial information. Both Peterson and Assistant County Attorney Linda McGuire agreed to continue the trial beginning Aug. 1 at 9 a.m. Pre-trial conference is reset for July 21, according to court records.

Peterson was charged with first-degree murder after allegedly stabbing Marshall Stewart, 61, on March 24. Stewart, who was murdered in his home at 1314 Whiting Ave., was a former manager of the UI Power Plant and had been Peterson's boss at the plant. Stewart retired on Dec. 31, according to court records.

Peterson attacked Stewart and Fire department officials extinguished the flames and no injuries were reported.

Theft: A UI student and an Illinois man were arrested Sunday and charged with third-degree theft after they were allegedly caught attempting to steal a bicycle, according to UI Campus Security reports.

UI freshman Steven S. Danielson, 19, 710 Stater Residence Hall, and Anmar P. Atchu, 18, Glenview, Ill., were arrested at about 1:45 a.m. Sunday for stealing a bicycle from the northwest bike rack at Burge Residence Hall, according to the report.

Report: Railroad explosives believed to be from a Benton County theft reportedly were found Monday afternoon behind Hy-Vee, 1201 N. Dodge St., according to police reports.

About 12 torpedoes were recovered from behind the store and turned over to the Iowa City Fire Marshal for storage, according to the report.

Report: An unidentified individual allegedly attempted to enter an Iowa City apartment sometime Saturday night, according to police reports.

The individual allegedly pried off the screen of the fire escape window to the apartment, located in the 100 block of East College Street, and pulled down the curtain rod, according to the report.

Nothing was reported missing, according to the report.

Theft: A stereo valued at approximately $200 was reported stolen Saturday from a car parked in the Riverside Storage Lot, according to Campus Security reports.

It was reported at about 11 a.m. Saturday that the stereo had been stolen, and a window on the car had been broken during the theft, according to the report.

reportedly stabbed him at least three to six times in the abdomen. Peterson then left the house and Stewart's wife telephoned for help.

Peterson is being held on $200,000 bond in the Johnson County Jail, according to court records.

A Riverside, Iowa, man entered a plea of guilty Thursday to two counts of lascivious acts with a child and one count of possession of a schedule I controlled substance, according to Johnson County District court records.

Randy Allen Tinkle, 34, appeared with his attorney, Jean Lawrence, and entered his pleas of guilty. His sentencing is set for June 23 at 1:30 p.m., according to court records.

Tinkle was identified by an officer investigating the sexual abuse offense. During the several months before March 23, Tinkle allegedly forced a 10-year-old girl to have oral sex with him sometime in March, according to court records.

Tinkle remains in the Johnson County Jail on $20,000 bond. At the time Tinkle entered his guilty pleas he also requested his bond to be reconsidered. Sixth District Judge John R. Sladek originally set the bond at $20,000 due to Tinkle's "past record, unstable living conditions, the lack of steady employment and the seriousness of the offense," according to court records.

The court ruled Friday that Tinkle will be released from jail on May 12, 19 and 26 at 4 p.m. to receive treatment at the Intrafamily Sexual Abuse Treatment Program at the Children's Home of Cedar Rapids, according to court records.

If Tinkle performs well during the treatment, the court will consider changing his release conditions from jail so Tinkle could be released on his own personal recognizance, according to court records.

County sheriff race heats up

Stock angered by ad calling him a 'bad guy'

By Joe Euchner
The Daily Iowan

The race for Johnson County Sheriff heated up over the weekend with the distribution of a political flier which questioned the credibility of Iowa City Assistant Police Chief Kenneth Stock, who is running for the position.

The flier, which called Stock "a bad guy who acts like a good guy," was distributed Friday. It contains an article from The Cedar Rapids Gazette describing a domestic altercation which took place at Stock's Solon home in October 1981.

The altercation involved Stock, his daughter Susan and his daughter's boyfriend. No charges were filed in the incident.

The flier also contained a drawing of Stock standing next to a cartoon rendition of a wolf.

Stock said the flyer was a "cheap effort" by his opponents to make him look bad.

"MY OPPONENTS may feel that's a way to run a campaign, but I don't," Stock said.

He said he didn't think the flier would make a difference in the campaign, adding that his own campaign flier listing nine points of qualification would ensure that Johnson County voters get the right kind of information.

"We want to run a clean race," Stock said. "We won't say anything derogatory about other candidates."

Stock also said the flier was a sign that his opponents are taking him seriously.

"I have no doubt it will be a close race," he said.

A story published Saturday in the Iowa City Press-Citizen quoted Stock as saying he thought Johnson County Sheriff Gary Hughes was behind the flier, but Stock denied Monday he told the paper Hughes was responsible. He said he thought his opponents were responsible for the flier, but declined to name anyone specific.

"I HAVE NO specific knowledge of the flier's origin, but I have my ideas," Stock said.

Johnson County Sheriff Gary Hughes denied any responsibility for the flier Monday.

"It was not from me," Hughes said, "and I have no way of knowing where it came from. I'm not so sure Stock didn't do it himself."

Hughes, who is retiring from the sheriff's office next year after 16 years in the position, said such campaign tricks were new to him, and expressed the hope they would not continue.

"I hope it's not a new phase in the election. I've never seen anything of this kind before," he said.

HUGHES SAID if Stock did accuse him of being behind the flier, the allegation was misdirected, and would only increase friction between the Iowa City Police Department and the sheriff's office.

"It's funny he should attack me — I'm not even running," Hughes said. "I think he owes me and his opponents an apology. It's sad that he should stoop so low."

Stock's three opponents in the race for sheriff — Johnson County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Carpenter, former Coralville police officer Steve Snyder and Iowa City police officer Dan Dreckman — could not be reached for comment Monday regarding the flier.

All four candidates are running as Democrats in the race for sheriff. No Republicans have announced for the position. The primary for the race will be held June 7.

Branstad will veto asbestos removal

By Bill Brewer
United Press International

DES MOINES — Gov. Terry Branstad Monday said he understands the need for school districts to rid their buildings of cancer-causing asbestos but indicated he will veto a bill allowing boards to levy additional property taxes to pay for asbestos removal.

"I don't like to see these burdens placed on property taxpayers without a vote of the people," Branstad said of the bill that would allow boards to enact special asbestos removal levies.

THE BILL is among 87 that remained on Branstad's desk Monday that must be signed or vetoed by May 17.

Branstad said the state has tried to lessen the property tax burden for local governments in recent years, but the bill passed by the Legislature last month "goes in a different direction."

"We continue to have relatively high property taxes, which is an impediment to growth," he said. "I don't think I'd have any problem with this if there was a vote of the people to authorize (a tax increase)."

ON ANOTHER TOPIC at his news conference, Branstad defended his appointment of Darrell Rensink, of Sioux Center, as the new director of the Department of Transportation, saying that during his interviews with three finalists for the post, Rensink "stood head and shoulders above" the other two finalists from California and Virginia.

He also said Rensink, who was appointed acting director when Warren Dunham resigned the DOT directorship in January, showed he has the ability "not only to be a good manager, but also to have sensitivity and awareness of local transportation concerns."

Slater, Rienow hold biannual dorm war

By Anne Keavin
The Daily Iowan

Some residents of Slater and Rienow residence halls may have found it a little difficult Sunday night to study for this week's final exams.

In what has become a biannual battle of the dorms, students in the two residence halls threw bottles and fireworks from windows and chanted obscenities across Grand Avenue, the street between the two residence halls.

But UI residence hall and Campus Security officials said Sunday night's uprising was "relatively calm."

"It wasn't Ames, anyhow," Campus Security Detective Sgt. Leo Eastwood said, referring to weekend rioting at Iowa State University's Veishea celebration.

"It's nothing like the Iowa State thing," David Coleman, assistant director of UI residence services, said. "We don't know how to stage a real riot."

ONE PERSON, UI sophomore James Michael Thune, was arrested early Monday for public intoxication and shooting fireworks, according to Campus Security reports.

No one reported injuries during the fracas, which took place from about 11 p.m. until about 1 a.m. Monday.

Eastwood said students threw fireworks, bottle rockets and beer and liquor bottles — as well as items like apples and oranges — from windows. He said the greatest danger came from bottles. "Everything they could get their hands on, they chucked out the window and threw to the streets," Eastwood said. "Thank God no one hit a car."

According to Eastwood, security officials re-routed westbound traffic on Grand Avenue for about 30 minutes during the incident.

SLATER RESIDENCE Hall Coordinator Ken Neuhaus said about 70 percent of the students involved in the commotion were yelling and playing stereos loudly. A minority, he said, threw bottles and fireworks.

"We can educate the students to the dangers of throwing bottles out windows" and risking fires in high-rise buildings, Neuhaus said, adding the noise disruption was not as serious a concern.

"College students are college students — they just want to scream and yell a little bit. That's just a part of being a student," he said.

Neuhaus said the residents were "basically blowing off pre-finals week stress," and this was the least serious of the three battles he has experienced as a hall coordinator.

He said residence assistants were prepared for an uprising and tried to keep students quiet and calm. R.A.'s from each hall also watched windows across the street and noted the locations of bottle and fireworks launches. Neuhaus said residence hall officials have lists of students who exhibited dangerous behavior Sunday night, and corrective action will be taken.

Lenoch and Cilek mall sports new businesses

By Deborah Gluba
The Daily Iowan

A remodeled downtown Iowa City building located at 130 S. Dubuque St. is now home for two new area businesses.

Freshens Yogurt and Sack's on the Plaza both held grand openings last week in the revamped first floor of the newly named Leno and Cilek Plaza Mall.

Lenoch and Cilek True Value Hardware moved its downtown location to the lower level in January to accommodate the first-floor construction.

Lenoch and Cilek General Manager Jerry Meis said he introduced the redevelopment plan about 15 months ago to the building owners during lease negotiations.

The hardware store had been located in the building since 1980, when JC Penney, which previously occupied the space, moved to the Old Capitol Center.

"ABOUT THE time we signed the lease the farm economy went down and retail has been more tough since that time," Meis said.

He said redeveloping the first floor was an economically sound idea and the lease gave the option to sublet.

Meis said Freshens Yogurt and Sack's on the Plaza were the first two businesses to sublet the newly created spaces last year.

"I think the key is to get three more good businesses in here," he said.

Freshens Yogurt owners Christina and Gary LaCock said they are pleased with the response the store has received. "We've broken records for their franchises," Christina LaCock said. "I nearly ran out of yogurt and had to send one of the students to Indianapolis for more. We were on the verge of wondering what we were going to do."

THE IOWA CITY store is the first private business venture for the Cedar Rapids couple. It is also one of the northernmost locations for southern U.S.-based Freshens Yogurt.

The LaCocks said the company's goal is to make a product which tastes like ice cream but has half the calories.

The other new business in the Leno and Cilek Plaza Mall is a clothing store, Sack's on the Plaza.

Michael Sack, 21, is manager and co-owner of the store. He said it will provide a choice for men aged 20 to 35 who want "directional contemporary" clothes — high fashion that doesn't fade out of style.

Sack said he thought the location was great and it was available when he and his sister and brother-in-law wanted to open the store.

"When the weather's nice, people like to be outside and we are very visible here," he said.

Sack said the store will market some labels that are new to Iowa including Paul Smith, Tom Tailor and Williwear. It will also carry Perry Ellis.

He said some of the clothes will be modeled in a fashion show May 14 at Vito's, 118 E. College St.

Not just a baby sitter

Mother's Day has passed. The colorful cards have been put away, the candy has been eaten and the flowers sit in a vase on the coffee table — reminders of a holiday set aside to celebrate the joy of family and a mother's love for her children.

And, once again, the working week has begun. Fifty-two million of those mothers honored on Sunday awake early enough on Monday to feed and dress their kids and get them to the daycare center before the workday begins. Fifty-two million.

But at a time when 60 percent of mothers of preschool children work outside the home, daycare centers are closing. Daycare centers that do a booming business. Daycare centers that make it possible for women to financially contribute to their families. Clean, affordable, reliable daycare centers that are needed.

Unfortunately, one need not look far to see the problem, because it's happening right here in Iowa City — right here at the UI.

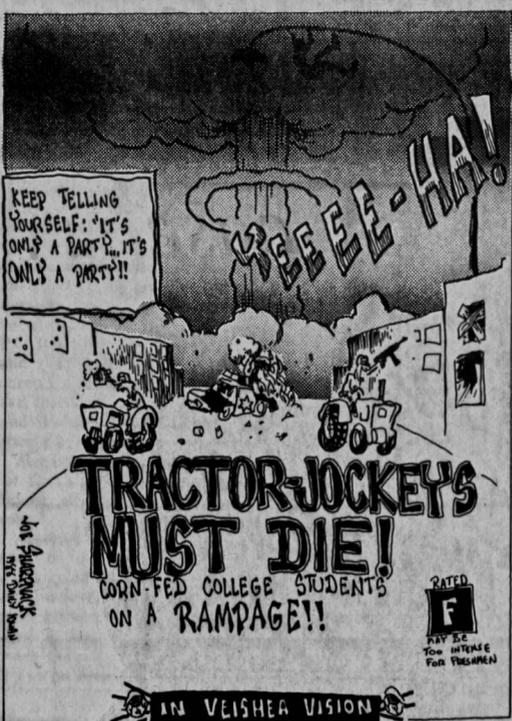

Four daycare centers currently serve UI students, faculty and staff — there used to be five, but one just closed — and these four centers are responsible for approximately 120 children. The centers are struggling.

According to T. John McCall, founder and director of Rainbow Daycare Center, the UI Student Senate recently slashed his center's funding for the 1988-89 school year by $1,500. This comes at a time when daycare employees already work for next-to-nothing and greater numbers of children need "9 to 5" care.

McCall feels cuts in education spending tend to hit day care first because "it is considered a baby-sitting service." If this is the case, spending priorities are being evaluated in grossly inadequate terms. In this age of the double-income family, good day care is fundamental to the healthy growth and development — both physical and emotional — of our children.

Cards, candy and flowers are nice. Suitable daycare funding is essential. Our children's well-being is invaluable.

The party's over

Ah, college! A time to grow! A time to learn!
 A time to puke all over the sidewalk and be arrested in mass numbers.

On Sunday, 5,000 of Iowa State University's finest youngsters stalked out streets, blocks and buildings and proceeded to create a war zone in which eight police officers were injured and lots and lots of property was damaged.

All this resulted from a party. ISU's Veishea weekend extends through a long string of parties on the weekend before that school's week of final exams, and Saturday night has always been the worst of them all, discipline-wise.

This time was worse than any before. Vandalism, fires and assaults on police officers characterized the night until around four in the morning, and jails were filled to overflowing with the drunk and disorderly ranks of America's future. Fortunately, despite all the injury and destruction, the solution — and the punishment — is breathtakingly simple.

No more Veishea.

No doubt ISU students will whine and talk about how they're human, too. But this weekend proved that such a claim is only marginally true, and besides, plenty of other college rituals have gone by the wayside after it was decided that they were too risky or too dangerous. Inter-college brawling, bare-knuckled football scrimmages and now Veishea. A good idea that turned bad.

Maybe an alcohol awareness weekend could be substituted...

Bran new diet fit for anyone

An old friend stopped by recently and went to the refrigerator to get himself a beer.

He took the beer but stood looking inside the refrigerator for several seconds. Then he opened the freezer section and looked at that for a while.

And he began opening kitchen cabinets and looking inside. Finally he shook his head and said:

"Are you moving or something?"

"No. Why do you ask?"

He looked in a couple of more cabinets, then said:

"You don't have any food in this place. I mean, absolutely nothing."

I nodded. He was right. There wasn't a thing to eat in the entire kitchen. Not a morsel. Not a crust of stale bread. Not one can of tomato soup or a spoonful of peanut butter to be scraped out of the bottom of a jar. Nothing.

HE SHOOK his head. "You don't even have a can of stewed tomatoes or things like that. Everybody's got an old can of something or other in their kitchen, but you don't have a single thing. Don't you ever eat?"

"Of course I eat. I eat too much."

"Ah, then you eat all your meals in restaurants."

No, only lunch. And dinner out maybe once a week. The rest of my meals I have at home.

"But there's nothing here to eat. I don't understand."

Most people don't. So I explained the Royko System of Food Shopping for the Single Man.

It works on a very simple principle: I buy groceries once in a while. And in large quantities, too. But then I don't buy another thing until everything is gone.

My friend happened to come along the day after I had eaten the last food in the kitchen — a can of tuna and a frozen waffle.

IT SEEMED to me that if I mixed a cup of flour with an egg, some margarine and water and chopped onion, I would have a form of dough. So I did.

I spread the dough on a pan and put it in the oven, hoping it would become some kind of bread.

As it turned out, my creation became something that resembled onion pancakes. Sort of dried out, slab-like, onion pancakes. Then I fried the other two eggs and put them on top of the sort-of pancakes.

"It sounds awful," my friend said.

Well, Julia Child wouldn't recommend it for a dinner party, but it did get me through the night.

THE ADVANTAGES to this system are obvious. It's economical, because you never buy anything you don't eventually eat. And it forces you to be innovative. I remember the night I had nothing left but two pouches of frozen creamed spinach, three small potatoes and a frozen chicken leg. I made a stew. I don't remember how it turned out, but it was surely high in some kind of vitamin.

"But what about your children," my friend said. "Isn't this rough on them?"

Actually, my sons were partly responsible for my approach to food shopping.

I discovered a law of eating, which I call Royko's Law. It goes this way: Young people will always eat anything that is convenient, then wait until you buy some more convenient foods, and they will eat them, too.

IN OTHER WORDS, if I went out every week and bought five pounds of chicken pieces, five packages of spaghetti, five jars of Ragù sauce and 10 frozen pizzas, they would eat the 10 frozen pizzas and leave the rest. And the next week, they would do the same. Eventually I would have stacks of chicken pieces, bales of spaghetti and cases of Ragù sauce, and they'd still be eating the frozen pizza.

So under my system, when the frozen pizzas are gone, they either

Mike Royko

"What is the advantage of your system?" he asked.

THERE ARE several advantages, and they go this way:

First, you don't have to go shopping very often. At most, I make one shopping trip a month. I've gone as long as two months between trips.

Second, you don't accumulate things that begin piling up in most kitchens — those extra cans of stewed tomatoes and soup gathering dust in a cabinet; the smoked Korean oysters; the packages of frozen chicken in the back of the freezer; the half-filled jars of Welch's grape jelly, side by side in the refrigerator door.

Under my system, you cannot accumulate cans of stewed tomatoes because you have to eat them before you can shop again.

"You must have some peculiar meals," he said.

There have been a few unusual meals, yes. One evening, I found that the last edible items in the kitchen were three eggs, a half-stick of margarine, an onion, and some flour.

I could have taken the easy way out and had three fried eggs. But I was more creative than that.

Senate must approve treaty

Last month, after many years of delay, the United States signed the United Nations Convention Against Torture. Speedy approval by the Senate would signal to the world that Americans are committed to human rights as a matter of principle and not just of expedience.

The right not to be tortured is one of the most basic human rights. Yet this barbaric practice persists in the 1980s in more than one-third of all countries around the world, an affront to humanity and democratic values that knows no geographic or ideological boundaries.

Torture assumes various forms. Victims may be subjected to unbearable pain, prolonged deprivation, humiliation or other physical or psychological abuse. They may be beaten, burned, mutilated, raped, isolated or forced to eat excrement. Torture is used to extract confessions, gain information or simply to intimidate. It may be conducted by the state, or by police or security forces that the state is unwilling to control.

DRAFTED BY the U.N. Commission on Human Rights with the help of groups like Amnesty International, the convention commits signatories to the banning of torture and provides a system for reviewing complaints. It was adopted by acclamation by the U.N. General Assembly in December 1984, after seven years in the drafting stage. It was hailed by Amnesty International as "a significant step toward the worldwide eradication of torture." Particularly important among the treaty's terms are:

- The principle that alleged torturers be prosecuted.
- A prohibition against the sending of refugees or others back to countries where they risk torture.
- The exclusion of "following superior orders" as a defense, and the principle that statements extracted by torture cannot be used as legal evidence.

• The obligation on the part of signatory governments to investigate reliable allegations of systematic torture and related practices, and to compensate victims.

• The creation of a 10-member committee, made up of respected human-rights experts, to look into allegations of torture.

The U.S. government strongly supported the work of the U.N. Commission on Human Rights during the drafting process. Just before its adoption by the United Nations, the convention was approved by a non-binding joint resolution of both houses of Congress that was later signed by the president.

After being ratified or acceded to by more than 20 nations the U.N. convention went into effect last June. Many other states have since joined. But formal ratification by the U.S. Senate has been delayed by a lengthy review process.

IT WOULD behoove the Senate to act promptly. By delaying ratification, the United States puts moral leadership on behalf of freedom and human rights at unnecessary risk. It makes us look like reluctant and selective adherents to human principles. Before any nation can follow our lead, it must see that our respect for the rule of law, including the proscription of torture and related atrocities, is not subject to political expediency. Like the U.N. Genocide Convention that has been ratified but not yet implemented, the torture treaty is a litmus test of our national integrity.

Extending the international conventions against torture is only a step toward a more humane world. But it is a firm step in the right direction, down a road that America helped to build. Treaties alone cannot eliminate torture, but they provide an essential framework and standard for changing the behavior of states. On so basic an issue of credibility and conscience, a nation that claims to be the very symbol of freedom cannot be left behind.

eat what is left, or they don't eat.

"That's kind of sadistic, isn't it?" my friend said.

Yes, but then, what else are young people good for? I am particularly fond of the memory of the evening my youngest son came home and found me in front of the TV set with a bowl in my lap.

"What are you having for supper?" he asked, looking hungry.

"Raisin Bran," I said. "There's still some left in the kitchen."

HE LOOKED in my bowl and said: "Jeez, there's no milk. It's just dry Raisin Bran."

"It's not bad," I said, scooping some of it into my mouth with my fingers. "But some does tend to fall on your shirt."

My friend shook his head and said: "Your sons must be getting skinny as hell."

No, that's not so. My system just encourages them to make the acquaintance of young ladies who have more substantial qualities than mere pretty faces. When they meet girls, they don't ask questions like: "What's your astrological sign?" or "Say, do you come here very often?" They're more likely to say: "Hi? You don't happen to know how to make a good pot roast and dumplings, do you?"

My friend went back to the refrigerator and said: "I notice there's no shortage of beer, so you must do some extra shopping for that."

"As an ancient wise man once said," I told him, "man does not live by Raisin Bran alone."

Chirac offers resignation after defeat

PARIS — Acting the day after a crushing electoral defeat, Prime Minister Jacques Chirac offered his resignation Monday night as France watched for signs of how President Francois Mitterrand intends to put his overwhelming new mandate into practice.

Chirac scheduled a meeting today with Mitterrand to hand over a formal letter of resignation, his spokesman announced. The conservative prime minister remained closeted in his office, meeting with a few key advisers, while aides bundled files into cardboard boxes.

Chirac's decision to depart swiftly opened the way for the Socialist president to name a new prime minister.

According to Mitterrand's lieutenants, the appointee will have the assignment of attracting a parliamentary majority to reflect the broadened electorate that lined up behind Mitterrand in Sunday's vote. If this falls through, of running the government until new parliamentary elections can be held.

S. Africa shuts down opposition paper

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The South African authorities on Monday shut down South, a small anti-apartheid newspaper based in Cape Town, for one month, carrying out their vow to continue closing publications they believe promote revolution.

South, a year-old weekly newspaper with a circulation of 13,000, was the second publication in six weeks banned under sweeping emergency media regulations. The order was seen here as a further step toward silencing publications vociferously opposed to the white minority-led government.

New Nation, a weekly funded by the Roman Catholic Church, was banned March 22 for three months and the Weekly Mail, one of the most influential liberal publications in the country, has been officially warned that the government was considering closing it for at least three months.

"South finds itself in the dock for allegedly promoting the ANC (African National Congress), legitimizing violence, stirring up hatred against security forces and bringing the judicial system into disrepute," the editors of South said in a special edition of their paper published Monday, in anticipation of the closure.

Denmark to decide nuclear ban issue

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — Denmark will hold a snap parliamentary election today to resolve a controversy over a proposed tightening of its peacetime ban on nuclear weapons, a plan government officials said would threaten the nation's full membership in NATO.

An estimated half-million of the country's 3.3 million eligible voters — some 15 percent — were undecided Monday on the eve of the election, said Ole Borre, a veteran election analyst.

Reagan hints at not considering pardons

WASHINGTON — President Ronald Reagan reportedly indicated for the first time Monday that he would not consider pardons for key figures in the Iran-Contra scandal until their criminal trials run their course.

Syndicated columnist Carl Rowan, who had lunch with Reagan in the Oval Office, said Reagan described his policy as "you don't pardon people before they've been convicted of anything."

Relating their conversation in an interview with WUSA-TV, Rowan said Reagan then smiled and suggested he will not have to make such decisions because he will be out of office by the time trials in the case are concluded.

Hahn reports theft of PTL papers

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. — Jessica Hahn, whose sexual encounter with Jim Bakker led to the TV preacher's downfall, said Monday her life has been threatened and "important papers" linked to investigations of the PTL ministry have been stolen from her apartment.

The theft occurred after she moved from her West Babylon apartment last year, but before she could take her possessions to her new home in the Playboy Mansion in Beverly Hills, said Hahn, who returned to Long Island to give testimony to a state grand jury convened to investigate the break-in.

"These were very important papers for the (PTL) investigation," she said.

The former church secretary, accompanied by her lawyer, also said she has received a series of written and telephone death threats and that she has been followed by people in California.

Fire at O'Hare delays flights nationwide

CHICAGO — Delays of up to two hours at the world's busiest airport Monday delayed flights across the country to and from Chicago after a fire at a telephone switching center disrupted air traffic communications, officials said.

"The Federal Aviation Administration has slowed down the system," said Joe Hopkins, spokesman for Chicago-based United Airlines, which told customers to expect delays of up to two hours at O'Hare International Airport.

FAA spokesman Fred Farrar in Washington said the delays at O'Hare and at nearby Midway Airport spread throughout the nation, although only planes to and from Chicago were affected.

Solidarity strike continues

Management, labor negotiations break down

By Charles T. Powers
Los Angeles Times

GDANSK, Poland — Striking shipyard workers decided Monday to continue their holdout against Polish authorities after an all-night round of talks between strike leaders and the yard management broke down without an agreement.

The management had refused to accept a proposal put forward by strike leaders to appoint a commission that would include Solidarity union members to oversee the implementation of any strike agreement.

The commission idea was a compromise proposal that seemed to win only scant backing of the 400 to 500 striking Solidarity activists. The strikers, at a meeting inside the locked shipyard, shouted their determination to stay until they won recognition for Solidarity or the Polish government decided to remove them by force.

ALTHOUGH THE government used the police to end a strike last week at a steel mill in southern Poland, it has held off sending in policemen to end the weeklong strike here.

"Our spirits are up," said Lech Walesa, the Solidarity leader who has remained inside the vast Lenin Shipyard, alternately advising and cheering the strikers on since last Wednesday.

"Those who wanted to leave are gone," Walesa said. "Only the tough ones remain."

Over the last several days, the number of strikers inside the plant has been falling. When it began, an estimated 4,000 to 5,000 workers, out of a force of about 11,000, were active participants in the strike, joining crowded rallies just inside the yard's main gate.

After a predawn police raid last Thursday at the Lenin Steelworks in Nova Huta, the number of strikers dropped sharply and, until Monday, appeared to be declining by about 60 to 70 men a day. A rough count taken by reporters Monday indicated that about 500 workers were still inside.

THE SPIRIT of the strikers has been strained by what many of them see as a lack of response by the Polish public to their protest.

Many of them expected their action, carried out at the birthplace of Solidarity, would spark similar strikes nationwide.

But a combination of the government's hard-line approach to the protests and the general fatigue of the Polish public prevented the outburst the strikers had counted on.

The strikers were heartened at least briefly Monday by a report that workers at the Ursus tractor factory in Warsaw, in the past a staunchly militant work force, had gone out on strike.

But according to a government news agency report, only 70 employees had stopped working. The report denied that the action constituted a strike. Opposition sources and some workers said that about 1,000 workers were involved.

Officials at the plant also denied that a strike was in progress, and there were no signs around the plant indicating that any organized work stoppage was under way.

At the shipyard here, the strikers voiced their decision to stay inside after an emotional speech by Walesa.

"I don't have any doubts," Walesa told the workers, who jumped to their feet in response to his words. "I have another beautiful hand of cards that I haven't played until now."

Soviet dissidents adopt new manifesto

By Roman Rollnick
United Press International

MOSCOW — Dissidents adopted the manifesto of a new political party challenging communist power in the Soviet Union Monday, but sources said KGB agents and police quickly stepped in and detained several people, including leading dissident Sergei Grigoryants.

After two days of meetings at private apartments in Moscow, dissident spokesmen said about 70 members of the new Democratic Union gathered at the railroad station under the watchful eye of scores of police and KGB agents who allowed them to board a train.

"They traveled to a village about 20 miles outside Moscow to the dacha (country cottage) of Grigoryants, where they were to adopt the manifesto and elect party officials," said Yuri Mitunov, a spokesman for the group.

"But the place had been completely cordoned off by the KGB and police, so they switched the venue to a nearby clubhouse in the countryside, and managed only to adopt the manifesto during half an hour of talks before the meeting was broken up," he said.

GRIGORYANTS, 47, one of the most authoritative non-official voices and human rights activists in the Soviet Union, is the editor of the dissident journal Glasnost.

It was established last year under the auspices of the Glasnost Press Club, a group he helped form after his release from more than four years in the notorious Christopol prison.

Mitunov said five other members of his staff at Glasnost were taken in before Monday's meeting. Of the 70 who did meet, he said at least 65 were unaccounted for later, and several were therefore presumed detained.

Another source said Grigoryants had still failed to return to his home in Moscow more than seven hours after being taken in.

ON SUNDAY, Alexander Khartov, another union spokesman, said 25 of 47 members taken to police stations that day had been released within hours after showing proof of residence in Moscow.

"The whole . . . idea of the Democratic Union is to challenge the totalitarian bureaucratic system through non-violent means," Mitunov said.

A copy of the manifesto adopted Monday was not immediately released.

House to work on drug bill

United Press International

WASHINGTON — House Speaker Jim Wright, saying the war against drugs "is not being won," announced Monday a bipartisan effort to write new legislation aimed at curbing the flow of illegal drugs.

Asked if there was room in the budget for increased anti-drug efforts, Wright said, "If not, we'll have to make room for it."

"The war against drugs is not being won. We've got to do more," Wright told reporters.

Two years ago, Wright, then House Democratic leader, led a similar bipartisan move that resulted in a comprehensive anti-drug law. He said that legislation "has been helpful" but has not solved the problem.

Wright said he asked the current Democratic leader, Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., to coordinate efforts in the House to write a new omnibus drug bill, working with House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois.

Wright met last week with the chairmen of committees with jurisdiction over the drug issue "and asked them to expedite consideration of such new measures as recent experience shows to be needed," he said.

Administration and Senate delay action on INF treaty

By Danna Walker
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd, acting with the administration's apparent blessing, delayed congressional action on the INF treaty indefinitely Monday and his colleagues blamed the Soviets for creating problems with the pact three weeks before the Moscow summit.

Byrd, after a series of meetings with administration officials and other senators closely involved in the treaty process, announced a postponement of Wednesday's planned action on the Intermediate Nuclear Forces accord.

"The treaty will not be brought up on Wednesday," Byrd told reporters. "It's obvious that not only have the problems of earlier surfaced, new problems seem to have arisen."

The treaty will "not be brought up until the problems are resolved," he said.

BYRD, OF West Virginia, and Senate Republican leader Robert

Robert Byrd

Dole of Kansas said the decision was made in consultation with the administration. National security adviser Colin Powell, leaving the meetings, called the decision "not a bad outcome."

The Senate treaty leaders, including David Boren, D-Okla., chairman of the Intelligence Committee; William Cohen, R-Maine, the committee's ranking Republican; and Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, blamed the Soviets for allegedly backing away from previously agreed-upon language in the treaty concerning on-site inspection.

"We've had an alarming indication that the Soviets may be backing away from what we think is very clear language of the agreement in the on-site inspection area," Boren said.

Asked to speculate on the Soviet action just three weeks before the summit in Moscow, Cohen said, "It's somewhat surprising, frankly. It is somewhat befuddling to try and comprehend why they might run the risk of jeopardizing the ratification process itself."

Byrd, who reiterated the Senate will not work by an administration-imposed deadline, said the treaty would not come before the full Senate for debate and a vote on ratification until all problems have been resolved — in writing.

Local musician has hopes

By Cathy Jackson
The Daily Iowan

Nothing would stop Iowa City singer/musician Rich Webster from getting on stage that night.

An eighth-grade adolescent with a 104-degree fever and pneumonia, Webster faced more than just the fear of a first gig. He even had to lie to his parents.

"If my parents had known I was so sick, they would have never let me play," Webster said.

But Webster, a UI graduate in English, had decided he wanted to be a star years before that first performance at former Iowa City restaurant Ming Gardens with Zigfield Common, a junior-high band.

"I'm the only person I know who's known what he's wanted to do since he was 5 or 6," the 25-year-old Iowa City native said. "I've wanted to be a rock star ever since I saw a tape of the Beatles on 'The Ed Sullivan Show.' I remember hearing all those screams and saying, 'Ooh, cool.'"

BUT WEBSTER has inspired screams and cheers of his own since then — and although he's not on national television yet, he's become a musical fixture as a solo artist and band member on the Iowa City bar scene.

He started taking piano and guitar lessons when he was in the first grade, and unlike many kids, Webster was begging for them.

"I couldn't wait to play," he said. "Of course, once I did start playing I never practiced. They start you out with those geeky kids songs — why would any kid want to play that?"

Local Iowa City 'Piano Man' Rich Webster aspires to stardom, working to land a record company deal.

But Webster said he faked his way through the lessons by listening to his teacher play the songs first and then playing them back to her from memory, a trick that has served him well when resurrecting old favorites.

Although Webster has been writing original songs as long as he's been performing, he's famous for his throaty interpretations of endeared artists like Elton John and Billy Joel, and groups like the Beatles. The Vine Tavern, 330 E. Prentiss, even calls him its "Piano Man."

AND IT'S A fitting title — he sends shivers up any romantic's spine when he pauses and coos, "She's always a woman to me..."

But fans these days are increasingly requesting Webster's originals, a phenomenon that takes him by surprise.

"I expect them to be my closest friends," Webster said, "but other people will request originals now."

Perhaps those requests are due to the cassette album Webster finished recording with producer John Reasoner of School House Studios in Iowa City last month. His first professional recording, titled "Brick Streets" after Linn Street and Iowa City's old surrounding streets, will be on sale in Iowa City this summer.

"Brick Streets" is really nostalgic," Webster said. "When I was little we'd get on our PJs and go down to A&W. I love the irregularities about brick streets. I like that image. It's a home kind of feeling."

WEBSTER SAID he recorded the cassette, a compilation of ballads and dance tunes, to show record companies what he can do.

"I want to be the John Cougar of Iowa City," Webster said. "I'm going to try to see if KRNA will play it. It's something I've worked hard on and am proud of. I want this to get me a record contract."

And Webster is optimistic about that possibility.

"Overall, I'm really pleased with how it turned out. I listen to this and I think, 'Of course this could be on the radio.' I will make it — it's only a matter of time."

But Webster didn't record his music just to make it big. He's a true lover of music as well.

"Even if I don't get famous, it's been so worthwhile," he said. "If there were no music, you would die. Music is magic. I'm just as in awe of it as anybody else."

Workshop's Galvin wins 1988 award

The Daily Iowan

James Galvin, a member of the UI's Writers' Workshop poetry faculty since 1983, has received a $25,000 John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Fellowship Award for 1988.

Galvin, a 1977 graduate of the workshop and an associate professor of English at the UI, is the author of "Imaginary Timber," "God's Mistress" and the forthcoming collection of poetry, "Elements."

"All of us at the workshop are enormously pleased that the Guggenheim committee saw fit to award a fellowship to Jim," said workshop Director Frank Conroy.

"We are not surprised by this news because we've long been aware of the strength of his work and the uniqueness of his voice."

Galvin is one of 262 artists, scholars and scientists to be selected from among 3,265 applicants for the prestigious fellowship awards totaling $6,343,000.

The Guggenheim Fellowship is intended to secure a block of time free from other duties in which recipients may pursue their scholarly or creative work. This year's fellows were appointed on the basis of unusually distinguished achievement in the past and exceptional promise for future accomplishments.

Hollywood honors Bob Hope

By John Hanauer
United Press International

NEW YORK — "Thanks for the memories; of happiness and heart; of humor sweet and tart; of jokes that bite and shed some light, even when they smart; we thank you so much."

Those are the words first lady Nancy Reagan sings to the tune of Bob Hope's signature song in a three-hour NBC special celebrating Hope's half century of broadcasting for NBC, and also his 85th birthday.

"Happy Birthday, Bob — 50 Stars Salute Your 50 Years with NBC," airs on that network Monday, May 16, 8-11 p.m. Eastern time.

Among the stars performing are Elizabeth Taylor, Lucille Ball, Barbra Streisand, Burt Reynolds, Ann-Margaret, Ginger Rogers, Shirley MaLaîne, Betty White, Bea Arthur, Shelley Long, Tony Randall, Sammy Davis Jr., Michael Landon, Dinah Shore and Jonathan Winters.

DOROTHY LAMOUR, the saring girl that Hope and Bing Crosby chased in their "Road" pictures, will be on hand, as will Hope's more recent sidekick, Brooke Shields. The first lady appeared live to serenade Hope. Former presidents Jimmy Carter, Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford also turn up to offer best wishes.

President Reagan appears on a video, "from one old-timer to another," and saying:

"I've been wracking my brains, trying to figure out what to get an 85-year-old guy who has money, fame, a wonderful wife and the love and affection of an entire country. It's tough. Bob, you need a tank?"

HOPE SAID in some ways the best part of the show was the nostalgic clips.

He and the show's producers were anxious to include something from Hope's radio days — he starred on "The Pepsodent Show" for 14 years, starting in 1938 — and the researchers unearthed a radio special Hope had done and never knew had been filmed.

Hope said radio was an easy medium.

"You'd just do it," he said, "and when a joke got a laugh you'd kiss the script. You could mug all over the place, then when it was over you just walked out and dropped the script in a garbage can on the way to your car. No worry about makeup or anything like that."

Hope said that because of the strike by the Writers' Guild of America, the new show is a song and dance affair.

"Ann Jillian does a whole thing about traveling for the USO," Hope said. "Three or four people talk about vaudeville and we cut to a vaudeville number, then there's Oscar night with everybody in it."

HE SAID Cy Coleman spent three or four weeks writing the original music for the show.

"Then there are all the comics — Jimmy Stewart does a poem, Don Rickles comes out and cuts everybody up, there's Milton Berle and Steve Allen and Danny Thomas," Hope said.

Hope has performed in 1,145 radio programs at the NBC studios and for the Armed Forces Radio Network.

Celtics' Jones wary of Hawks

Boston will have to counter speedy Webb's penetration

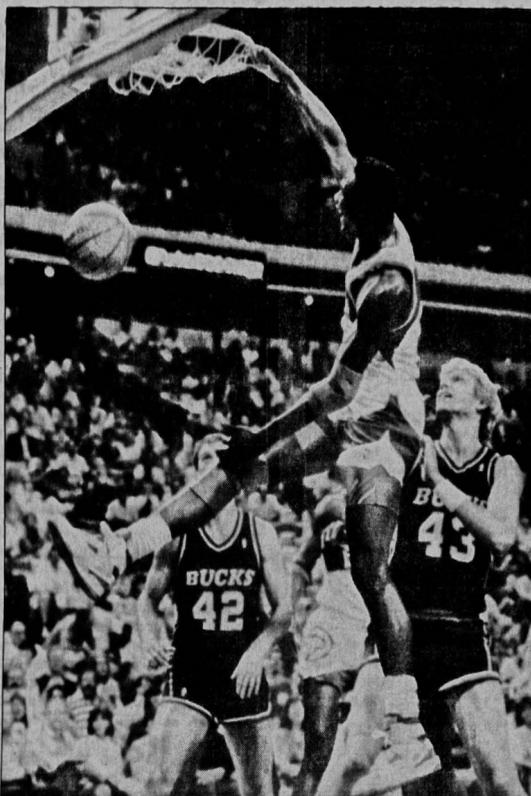

By Fredrick Waterman
United Press International

BOSTON — The Atlanta Hawks' smallest player is one of the Boston Celtics' biggest concerns in the second round of the NBA playoffs. Spud Webb, who struggled through an injury-plagued season, is healthy again and the Celtics are wary of how much the 5-foot-7 guard can change a game. "Spud is one of those tempo-changers," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said after Monday's practice.

and you have to watch for him," said Minniefield, who is 6-1. "I'll try and use my physical strength on him and wear him down." Boston held a 4-2 edge against Atlanta in the regular season and has an 11-game home winning streak. The Hawks have not won at Boston Garden since March 1985.

The Celtics dined the New York Knicks 3-1 in the opening round and think the four-game encounter was good for them.

United Press International

The Atlanta Hawks-Boston Celtics NBA playoff series begins tonight at the Boston Garden. The Celtics will have to contend with Hawks' Dominique Wilkins' strong inside play (shown here vs. Milwaukee Sunday), as well as the quickness of 5-foot-7 guard Spud Webb.

"We needed the rest," Jones said. "Right now, the only problem we have is Dennis, with a groin injury, but he should be OK by Wednesday."

Pistons, ended this season the same way they concluded the previous year — with a first-round playoff loss.

NBA Playoffs

"He comes in and gets everything up-tempo."

Asked for the key elements in the best-of-seven series, which opens Wednesday at Boston Garden, Jones responded: "Spud Webb and hitting the boards."

Jimmy Rodgers, the Celtics assistant coach who will take over Jones' job next year, said Webb "is playing well right now, like he did two years ago, running, penetrating, and being a gnat on defense."

BOSTON, THE NBA'S oldest team, also has one of the league's slowest group of starters. In six games against the Celtics this season, the speedy Webb averaged 4.3 assists and 7.5 points per game despite playing an average of just 14 minutes.

At mid-season, Boston signed free-agent guard Dirk Minniefield, who can stay with Webb.

"I'm about as fast as Spud is, but he's so small, he gets next to you a sense of discipline against the Knicks," Jones said. "If we can play with the same discipline, determination and effort that we did against New York, we should be OK."

BOSTON CLINCHED the series Friday night, winning by a 102-94 margin. Dennis Johnson said the triumph was a "pleasing game because it showed we really wanted to win. Also, we didn't want to play a fifth game because the series was getting so physical."

If the Hawks downed Milwaukee in four games or less, the Boston-Atlanta series would have started Sunday. Instead, the Celtics took two days off from practice and have four days between series instead of one.

"We needed the rest," Jones said. "Right now, the only problem we have is Dennis, with a groin injury, but he should be OK by Wednesday."

Wisconsin school will forfeit titles because of violations

United Press International

STEVENS POINT, Wis. — The University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point announced Monday it was forfeiting its 1987 football titles and all the games it won and tied last season because it has learned two players falsified records and therefore were ineligible to play.

School Chancellor Phillip Marshall said the school was giving up its 1987 Wisconsin State University Conference title and its National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Division II title.

"The University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point has determined that two student athletes who transferred to UWSP in the fall of 1987 and who subsequently participated in the 1987 football team were not eligible to compete," Marshall said.

"THE INFORMATION and records they presented and to which they attested by signature did not include any mention of the university they most recently attended," Marshall said. "The rules of the Wisconsin State University Conference, the NAIA and the NCAA state that athletes who attest to false statements are immediately ineligible."

Marshall said one of the athletes also competed in track so appropriate action also will be taken in that sport.

The two players involved were wide receiver Aatron Kenney and fullback Keith Majors. School officials said both failed to include Angelo State, San Angelo, Texas, in the list of schools they previously attended. St. Ambrose University in Davenport, Iowa, suffered both its losses to Wisconsin-Stevens Point, including a playoff defeat that knocked the Bees out of national title contention. The two forfeits would leave St. Ambrose the nation's only unbeaten team without a national crown.

THE RECORD falsification surfaced after Kenney was drafted by the Indianapolis Colts in the 12th round of the NFL college draft. Angelo State officials contacted the commissioner of the WSUC when they noticed their school was left out in background information on Kenney.

Wisconsin-Stevens Point had a 12-2-1 record last season, winning the WSUC title with a 7-1 conference mark.

Mears runs fastest lap in gusty Indy practice

By Jim Slater
United Press International

INDIANAPOLIS — Two-time winner Rick Mears drove the fastest Indianapolis 500 practice lap of the month Monday despite wind gusts of 35 mph.

Mears guided his Chevrolet-powered Penske car around the Indianapolis Motor Speedway at 213.118 mph, covering the 2 1/2-mile oval in 42.25 seconds. Mears was trying to find the proper alignment for his second car when he reached the top speed after only six laps in the previously unused car.

Mears exceeded 209 mph Sunday after just four laps in his primary car, also a new Penske-Chevy.

Wind prevented most drivers from testing setups for Saturday's first day of qualifying. That is when Mears will try to match A.J. Foyt and Rex Mays by winning his fourth Indy pole.

"THE WIND WAS definitely blowing hard," Mears said. "The pull was about as heavy as I've run in. We changed the car a little to allow for the wind, so I really don't know what it can get. I never really got to run a full hot lap in the car. The wind bothered me, but not as much as a lesser wind has bothered me in another car. That's a good indicator."

"I was completely comfortable with the car. I'm sure we can get more out of it. But it was tough to get anything going out there with the wind. If we get to Wednesday and it's still blowing like this, you'll see guys get more serious about racing in the wind. But to prepare for racing in the wind, you've got to do things backwards from how you normally would."

Mears struggled last year with Roger Penske's uncompetitive chassis. But this season, former Lola designer Nigel Bennett reworked the body and Mears knew he would like the 1988 model the minute he saw it.

"I COULD TELL as soon as we got it out of the crate that we finally had a race car to work with," Mears said. "With last year's car, I wouldn't have been on the track like today. The balance in this car is much better. It's smoother. Once we got the other car balanced, it wasn't all that quick."

Mears had expected new rules limiting the engine boost to cut speeds. Now he believes his speedway records for one and four laps are in jeopardy. Mears set the one-lap standard of 217.581 mph and four-lap mark of 216.828 mph two years ago. Andretti reached a top practice speed of 218.234 mph last year, but official records can only be set in qualifications or the race.

"It doesn't usually take a big enough bite that we can't get it back, but I thought it was going to do more than it has," Mears said. "There is definitely the potential here to flirt with the record, and not just my car."

Mario Andretti had the second-best practice lap of the month Monday, reaching 212.665 mph in his Lola-Chevrolet. Al Unser Jr. reached 211.317 mph in a Chevrolet-powered March.

"You don't just come out here and go for broke," Andretti said. "The reason I'm able to do this is because I'm feeling confident in the team and the way they are preparing the car. I know the set up."

Budd may retire from running

United Press International

LONDON — Zola Budd, the South African-born runner who has represented Britain the past four years, is quitting track and field and returning to South Africa, it was reported Monday night.

The Guardian reported Budd will make an official announcement later this week.

The newspaper said Budd is "extremely depressed" since allegations that she trained last year in South Africa, which made her ineligible to run under international rules.

The newspaper also said her health is deteriorating because she expects to be banned by the International Amateur Athletic Federation from the Seoul Olympics later this year. Consequently, she has decided to leave Britain, abandon international track and return home.

ALTHOUGH BUDD DID not actually compete at a meet in South Africa she did work out beside the competitors. She continues to associate with South African athletes, and the IAAF contends she is not abiding by the "spirit" of its rules.

Budd received a British passport 10 days after arriving in the country in March 1984. She competed for Britain at the Los Angeles Olympics and in the 3,000-meter final tangled legs with Mary Decker Slaney, her schoolgirl hero.

Chown, like Repp, also played several sports in high school and

The future looks bright for Chown and Repp, who already has posted almost half as many victories as Roorda did in her four years as a Hawkeye (43).

Next season, though, people won't be talking about the strength of the first-year players on the team. They'll be talking about a certain sophomore pitching tandem of Repp and Chown.

Playoffs

Gretzky set up Kurri's tie-breaking goal 23 seconds into the second period by picking off a pass by Detroit defenseman Mike O'Connell. It was the first of many Red Wings' errors in period but the only one the Oilers could convert.

Gretzky turned down a breakaway shot from right wing and instead went behind Hanlon. He passed out from behind the net and Kurri ripped home a short shot for his league-leading 11th goal of the playoffs.

ANDERSON BEAT Hanlon with a quick slap from the left point off a feed by Gretzky at 4:03. It was Anderson's sixth goal of the playoffs and his 61st in 111 post-season games, tying him for 12th on the all-time list with Phil Esposito.

Craig Simpson got Edmonton off to a 1-0 start with 4:38 left in the first period. Mark Messier beat Detroit defenseman Lee Norwood to the inside then managed a feeble shot and slid into the downed Hanlon so Simpson could notch his eighth goal. Simpson has scored in 13 straight post-season games.

Probert replied for the Red Wings on a power play when he fell on Oilers goalie Grant Fuhr following a point shot by Detroit defenseman Jeff Sharples. Adam Oates tied it 1-1 with 39 seconds left in the period, batting in the loose puck for Friday, Koharski accused Schoenfeld of shoving him in the runway leaving the ice after the Bruins' 6-1 victory in Game 3. Television cameras captured the incident.

DURING THE altercation, Schoenfeld called Koharski a "fat pig," and told the referee to eat "another doughnut."

NHL Executive Vice President Brian O'Neill said in a statement that Schoenfeld was suspended for acting "in a manner that was dishonorable and prejudicial to the welfare of the league and the game of hockey."

"You can't use the officials as an excuse, but this is a bad situation," Boston's Willie Plett said.

Clubs

The victory was Dubuque's second over Iowa this season.

"I really thought we were going to pull it off and beat them," McDonough said. "If we would have beat them, we would have made the finals."

BLACK LABEL COMPLETED one of its most successful seasons in recent years despite missing key players. Knee injuries ended the season early for Hiram Melendez and Phil Torticill. Tim Patterson suffered a broken hand.

"They were all out early," McDonough said, "(otherwise) we would have been undefeated. Of course I'm disappointed, but you have to expect some injuries."

"But the sign of a good team is being able to overcome the injuries and I think we did a pretty good job of doing that. We had a lot of new guys and they did a super job of filling in."

The weekend also marked the end of two veterans' playing careers for the Iowa club. Scooter McDonough, a fourth-year player from Grinnell, Iowa, and Jim Lloyd, a three-year veteran from Iowa Falls, Iowa, will both graduate with business degrees.

"I didn't think we would be anywhere near this tough this spring," McDonough said. "I'm very proud of this club and I hope they keep the tradition of Stella going."

The women's rugby club ended the season with a 6-4 record after two victories Saturday at Grinnell. The club clobbered Luther, 24-0, behind Lori "Scout" Derham's three tries. Tara Dirth, Lisa Thomas and Karla Sass each scored one try.

Cyndi Miller scored three tries and Lynn Cullen, Danielle Speidel, Becky Ramirez, Lori Derham and Maureen Howe each scored a single try and Sass converted two kicks in the 34-0 trouncing of Grinnell.

"I feel we had a really good spring season. It was nice to end on a pair of wins," Miller said. "This was a building season, so we have high hopes for the fall. We have quite a few players returning."

Riots may have marred Iowa State's Veishea festival, but don't blame it on the lacrosse club's come-from-behind 11-10 victory over the Cyclones Friday.

The club rallied with seven goals in the fourth quarter to erase an 8-4 Iowa State lead and gain the victory.

Designer Klein undergoes treatment for drug abuse

By Melissa Sones
United Press International

NEW YORK — Fashion designer Calvin Klein, known for his controversial and sexy ad campaigns for jeans and perfume, said Monday he was undergoing treatment for alcohol and prescription drug abuse at a Minnesota clinic.

"A little less than two weeks ago, I checked myself into Hazelden Foundation in Center City, Minn., for treatment," Klein, 45, said in a statement released by his New York office.

In the late 1970s, Klein became the nation's first designer-superstar, known for his ad campaigns for Calvin Klein jeans, then for men's underwear for women and most recently for Obsession perfume.

He said he would be released from the program at the end of the month.

"I imagine that for almost anyone going through something like this it would be a private matter," he said. "In my situation I feel compelled to make this public statement because of the many friends and colleagues who have supported my work over the years."

"FINALLY, I wish to say that I've never felt better and look forward to the completion of the program at the end of May."

Klein's celebrity began slowly 20 years ago, in 1968, when he went into business with his childhood pal Barry Schwartz.

Brewers top Twins, extend win streak to 10

United Press International

MINNEAPOLIS — Rob Deer hit a three-run homer to highlight a five-run eighth inning Monday night that helped the Milwaukee Brewers win their 10th straight game, 9-6 over the Minnesota Twins.

Odell Jones, 1-0, gave up three hits and two runs in 4 1/2 innings of relief for the win. Chuck Crim pitched the ninth for his second save. Twins reliever Jeff Reardon, 0-2, permitted three runs on three hits in one inning.

Paul Molitor walked to lead off the eighth, Robin Yount singled and B.J. Surhoff beat out a bunt past Brockton to load the bases. Greg Brock's single scored two runs and Deer followed with his sixth homer of the year.

Red Sox 2, Royals 0

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Roger Clemens fired a three-hitter and struck out 16 — tops in the major leagues this season — to outduel Kansas City's Mark Gubicza and send the Boston Red Sox to a 2-0 victory Monday night over the Royals.

Kansas City, which has lost six straight, managed just two first-inning singles and a ninth-inning single off Clemens, 5-1. Gubicza, 3-4, allowed seven hits and two runs — one unearned — over 8 1/2 innings.

White Sox 3, Orioles 0

BALTIMORE — Jerry Reuss gained the 200th career victory by combining with Bobby Thigpen on a four-hitter to spark the Chicago White Sox to a 3-0 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles.

Baseball Roundup

Dan Pasqua drove in all three runs with his third homer of the season and a sacrifice fly to support Reuss and Thigpen.

Reuss, 2-1, outdueled Mike Boddicker, 0-7 and winless in his last 12 decisions.

Reds 2, Phillies 0

PHILADELPHIA — Danny Jackson two-hit Philadelphia for the second straight time to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 2-0 victory Monday night over the Phillies.

Jackson, 5-1, surrendered just two hits in a 3-1 triumph against Philadelphia last Wednesday in his previous start. Monday, he gave up a hard-hit single to Chris James in the third inning and a double to Mike Young in the ninth en route to recording his second shutout of the season and eighth in his career.

Jackson, 9-18 with Kansas City last year, has allowed only two earned runs over 34 innings in his last four starts. He struck out five Phillies and walked three in hurling his fourth complete game of the season. David Palmer, 0-2, took the loss.

Braves 9, Expos 8

ATLANTA — Gerald Perry and Ron Gant each delivered a two-run double during a six-run third inning and the Atlanta Braves withstood a strong Montreal rally to defeat the Expos 9-8.

The Braves jumped to a 7-0 lead but needed Bruce Sutter's two scoreless innings of relief to hold on. Sutter earned his second save. Rick Mahler, 1-4, gained the win. Dennis Martinez, 3-4, was the loser.

Cardinals 7, Padres 1

ST. LOUIS — Rookie Luis Alica's two-run single capped a six-run second inning and Larry McWilliams scattered six hits over 6 1/2 innings Monday night to carry the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-1 rout of the San Diego Padres.

McWilliams, 2-0, continued his strong comeback from off-season rotator cuff surgery. The 34-year-old left-hander, who made the Cardinals as a non-roster pitcher in spring training after being released by Pittsburgh, has given up just three earned runs over 32 1/2 innings this season — an 0.84 ERA.

The Cardinals blasted starter Ed Whitson, 2-2, who lasted just 1 1/2 innings and gave up all six runs in the second. Whitson had gone only 1 1/2 innings April 28 against St. Louis before Vince Coleman knocked him out of the game with a line drive off his ankle. Whitson yielded four runs in that game.

McWilliams doubled to open the third and scored when Coleman doubled. Ozzie Smith was credited with an infield single when Whitson covered first too late and Tom Brunansky doubled home Coleman with the Cardinals' second run of the inning.

Milwaukee Brewers leftfielder Rob Deer is picked off first base by Minnesota Twins first baseman Kent Hrbek in the second inning during Monday's game at the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome in Minneapolis. The Brewers won, extending their winning streak to 10 games.

NFL REPORT

Redskins' Williams isn't banking on starting job

Packers rake in $3 million profit as income drops

United Press International

HERNDON, Va. (UPI)—Doug Williams said Monday he is not assuming he will be the starting quarterback for the Washington Redskins this season despite his record-setting performance in Super Bowl XXII.

Also, trainer Bubba Tyer announced that starting outside linebacker Mel Kaufman failed his minicamp physical because of career-threatening nerve damage in his neck. Tyer said Kaufman will be re-examined before the opening of training camp July 17, and a decision on his future with the team will be made then.

The Redskins opened their six-day minicamp Monday, with 114 players reporting to the team's suburban Washington training facility. Coach Joe Gibbs led the team through a light practice without pads.

WILLIAMS, WHO turns 33 on Aug. 9, threw for a Super Bowl record 340 yards and four touchdowns in leading the Redskins to a 42-10 victory over the Denver Broncos. But Williams started only three regular-season games last year and earned the starting job for the playoffs only after coming off the bench to rally Washington past Minnesota in the regular-season finale.

"Nobody really walked up to me and told me it was my job to hold on to, so I'm not going to be there thinking like that," said the Super Bowl Most Valuable Player.

"I'm going out there to do the best I possibly can and do my job. That's the bottom line, whether it's as starter or backup. Joe Gibbs makes those decisions and we're going to live by them," Williams added.

WILLIAMS WILL BE competing with Jay Schroeder for the starting job, with veteran reserve Mark Rypien, who spent the last two seasons on injured reserve, and sixth-round draft pick Stan Humphries also vying for a roster spot. Schroeder was a Pro Bowl performer in 1986, but was slowed twice by a separated right shoulder in 1987.

Williams also said he is continuing his rehabilitation program following arthroscopic surgery on his left knee March 10. Williams had two chips removed and scar tissue repaired on the knee after hyperextending it in the first quarter of the Super Bowl.

Tyer said Williams will wear a larger brace this season to protect the knee.

"It's time to start really pumping his leg and getting it strong," Tyer said. "He lacks strength in his thigh. You've got to build that up and continue to work on his range of motion."

WILLIAMS SAID HE anticipates little trouble concentrating on the upcoming season.

"I don't think it will be as hard for me as it would for a Timmy Smith (the rookie who rushed for a Super Bowl record 204 yards) or some of the younger guys," Williams said. "It's not like last year was my first year, even though a lot of the media and the press made it seem that way. I've been around for a while, so I know that you're no better than the last game you play."

Shunning a recent trend by Super Bowl stars, Williams said he has no plans to write a book.

"I've been approached a few times," he said of a book deal. "It's just my decision not to."

The Redskins had hoped to get their first look at free-agent linebacker Wilber Marshall in practice Monday, but he was sidelined from the drills while suffering from a stomach flu, a team spokesperson said. Washington lured Marshall, a two-time Pro Bowl performer, from the Chicago Bears with a $6 million, five-year contract in March and gave up first-round draft choices in 1988 and 1989 as compensation.

Kaufman, a six-year veteran, suffered "weakness and atrophy in his right arm" because of the nerve damage in his neck, Tyer said. Tyer said the linebacker has had the injury for "several years," but it has degenerated to the point where "we can't risk him playing football."

The team also announced offensive tackle Dan McQuaid was waived.

Green Bay Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. — The Green Bay Packers expect to earn $3 million after taxes for 1987 despite a drop in income during the strike-shortened season, President Robert Parins disclosed Monday in a financial report to stockholders.

"Our gross income was $3.3 million less than we had predicted," he said.

Parins said the 24-day strike resulted in decreased operating expenses and savings from unpaid salaries.

Green Bay's share of NFL television revenues totaled $14.7 million, $3 million less than 1986. Ticket revenues actually went up to $8.8 million, $1.1 million more than 1986.

Total revenue dropped from $27.5 million in 1986 to $25.8 million in 1987. Expenses decreased from $24.1 million in 1986 to $23 million in 1987.

The Packers had a slightly higher profit in 1986 — about $77,000 more — even after it set aside a reserve of $1 million for litigation and used $493,000 to set up a charitable foundation.

Green Bay is unique among NFL franchises because it is the only community-owned team. There are 4,626.5 shares owned by 1,800 stockholders, but the team has been set up as a non-profit corporation and no dividends are paid on the initial investment.

Repp, Chown defy youth

By Marc Bona
The Daily Iowan

As gusts of wind spit dust over the infield at the Hawkeye Softball Complex Saturday, Iowa freshman Diana Repp stood stoically for a few brief seconds before releasing a pitch. She let it go, and the hard, bass-like sound of a ball hitting a catcher's mitt could be heard.

It was a typical motion for Repp, who became the first Iowa pitcher to post a 20-win season when she gained two victories in a four-game sweep against Ohio State this weekend, shattering the previous record of 14 set by Diane Roorda in 1983.

The other two wins were netted by Tami Chown, a freshman from Nichols, Iowa, who sports a white headband on the mound and includes a hard fast ball and deceiving change-up in her repertoire which she says will soon expand.

Iowa first-year hurlers Tami Chown (left) and Diana Repp (below) have been the mainstays of the Hawkeye mound corps this past season. Repp, from Fairfield, Iowa, was a 20-game winner while Chown, a native of Nichols, Iowa, earned a team-high four saves. Both helped the Hawkeyes compile a 33-20-1 record this year under first-year Coach Gayle Blevins, breaking the single-season mark of 30 wins set last season.

BOTH HAVE BEEN influential factors in the Hawkeyes' 33-20-1 record this season. Along with having three freshmen on the pitching staff — Andrea Meyers, who finished the season 5-2, is the other — the team was led by a first-year coach, Gayle Blevins, whose success at Indiana over the past eight years appears to be rubbing off on the Hawkeyes.

Repp finished the year 20-9 while Chown ended up 4-4 with a team-high four saves. Repp went the distance 15 times on the year and hurled 201 innings, shattering Roorda's 1984 mark of 172. Both have been the heart of a young team that had five first-year players on a roster of 16. Blevins, though, was pleased with the performances of the squad's youth.

"We had a lot of freshmen that played a lot," Blevins said after the team's final games Saturday. "Repp's been rock solid for us. She doesn't have a lot of tools others have, but she's a very tough person mentally. She gets the maximum use of the resources she's got."

"TAMI CHOWN struggled early with wildness but has really come on."

Chown, a relief specialist who came on as a starter, said the transition from starting in high school to relieving in college was difficult at first.

"In high school I did all of our pitching. It was tough to get used to a relief role," said Chown, a walk-on who also considered attending Waldorf (Iowa) Junior College, William Penn and Creighton.

Both Chown and Repp said the turning point in the season came when Blevins took the team aside 12 games ago and set a simple goal — to win every game for the rest of the season.

"You just get tired of getting pounded on," Chown said. "You just have to say 'let's get it together.'" And get it together they did. The Hawkeyes ended with a flourish, winning 10 of their final 12 games and finishing with a school-record 33 wins, breaking the previous mark of 30 set last season under former coach Ginny Parrish.

REPP AGREED WITH her teammate: "We just got tired of the way things were going. We knew that wasn't our team. We started playing more like us, like we knew we could."

They did, and a big part of the reason why was Repp, who last week was named the team's Most Valuable Player at the annual

Oilers blow lead but triumph in OT

DETROIT — Jari Kurri scored his second goal of the game 11 minutes, 2 seconds into overtime Monday night, giving the Edmonton Oilers a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Red Wings and a 3-1 lead in the Campbell Conference finals.

Esa Tikkanen picked off an up-ice clearing attempt, wheeled to the middle and fed a pass back to Kurri on the right side. Kurri fired past goalie Glen Hanlon's wide side to end the game, sending Edmonton home with a commanding lead.

Game 5 is Wednesday night in Edmonton. Game 6, if necessary, will be in Detroit Friday.

Bob Probert's second straight goal tied it 3-3 for Detroit at 13:13 of the third period. Both times he was camped comfortably in the slot with no one near him, and both times Gerard Gallant fed Probert.

Probert drew Detroit to 3-2 on a power-play score at 10:25 of the middle period — but it was the team's first shot on goal of the period.

THE GOALS were Probert's seventh and eighth of the playoffs and, adding his 13 assists, set a Detroit club record for points during post-season. Gordie Howe recorded the old mark in 1955.

Kurri and Glenn Anderson broke a 1-1 tie with goals set up by Wayne Gretzky 3:40 apart in the second period, putting Edmonton ahead 3-1 with the second period 4:03 old.

NHL officials will return for playoffs

NEW YORK — The NHL Monday resolved its controversy with its on-ice officials and rescinded its suspension of New Jersey Devils Coach Jim Schoenfeld pending a Tuesday hearing.

The league suspended Schoenfeld Sunday for his part in an altercation with referee Don Koharski following Game 3 of the Wales Conference final Friday. The Devils obtained a temporary restraining order from a New Jersey judge minutes before Sunday's Game 4, which allowed Schoenfeld to coach. The assigned officiating crew then refused to work the game, however, and after the start was delayed 67 minutes, it was played with amateur officials.

The Devils beat the Bruins 3-1 in Game 4, sending the series to Boston tied 2-2.

Rugby club claims third at tournament

By Hugh Donlan

Black Label weathered the storm and some fierce competition to capture third place in the All-Iowa Rugby Tournament in Des Moines this past weekend.

The men's club hoped to capture the "B" division crown of the annual tournament, but settled for the consolation championship and a 9-4 record on the season.

"There really wasn't a slouch team in our division," club member Scooter McDonough said. "I guess third is a respectable finish. We were pretty happy with that."

Sunday's consolation game was ended early in the second half because of the treacherous hail and wind conditions that plagued much of the Midwest. The ruggerers were awarded the victory because they held a 6-0 lead over the Cedar Rapids Headhunters when the weather disrupted play.

BOB MULLER SCORED the game-winning try, his second of the season, and prop Cam Torstenson converted on the kick despite gusting winds.

"I couldn't believe he made it," McDonough said of the conversion, "and as soon as he did, the referee called the game."

The club defeated Iowa Falls, 4-3, in Saturday's first match on a 30-meter scramble by third-year medical student Tom Coburn.

"The old man still has some good moves in him," McDonough said of the seasoned veteran, who also serves as a referee.

The Dubuque Dogs proved to be Black Label's nemesis once again when they defeated the Iowa club, 4-0, in Saturday's second game.
