Blaze destroys local meat locker

Toxic smoke forces 500 people to evacuate area

By John Morris

A fire at an Iowa City meat locker Tuesday night forced the evacuation of 500 people and burned down the meat locker at 1421 Waterfront Drive. Fourteen firefighters were treated for eye irritation, but no other injuries were reported from the fire or the toxic fumes at Gay's Locker and Meat Market, 1421 Waterfront Drive.

Iowa City Fire Chief Michael Gay predicted the fire would destroy the building. "The whole thing going to come in," he said after the fire had been contained. Gay said the fire had "just about wiped it out." Gay said he felt "lucky" about 150 firefighters from Iowa City and 11 other Johnson County departments raced to the blazing meat locker, which was located west of downtown Iowa City between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Gay said there were in the building, Gay said in an interview of what that begins today.

Firefighters said there was no evidence of the building, which was in at about 10:45 a.m. Gay said. "The boys just had finished cleaning the machines in the back room," said Gay. Fire and rescue units were notified of the fire at about 6:30 p.m., and police blocked nearby roads, especially east of the building. A dozen fire trucks were on the scene at 10:30 p.m., Gay said, by W.A. Gay, his father. Dr. W.A. Gay, who started the meat locker in the 1930s, was located west of Iowa City, Gay said. Gay said the meat locker was located west of the Iowa City meat locker.

"I've worked there over one and a half," said Mike Gay, Iowa City's deputy sheriff. "I don't think Gary Hughes was in the process of planning to commit suicide," Gay said. "All we know is that there was a) burglar alarm," Gay said.

The administration of outgoing Johnson County Sheriff Harry Hughes held a nearly unstoppable drive to the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta July 18-21. The forum was sponsored by the Johnson County Democratic Party and the participants included four candidates for different offices—Johnson County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Crosner, Iowa City police officer Steve Snyder, Iowa County Fire Chief Michael Gay, and Iowa City police officer Hugh Hughes, who has been in office for 10 years, and will retire at the end of his current term, was criticized by Hughes. Hughes is also critical of the Iowa Democratic Party's policy of eliminating the Ames district. Hughes has worked the strongest criticism of Hughes during the forum, stating Hughes doesn't even vote.

County sheriff candidates criticize current administration at forum

Dukakis adds W. Virginia, Nebraska to list of victories

By Matthew C. Dolan

Union Press International

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis easily defeated and rights leader Jesse Jackson Tuesday night in the Nebraska and West Virginia primaries.

President George Bush, who already has the Republican nomination locked up, faced a stiffer opposition in either state. But in the Nebraska Republican primary, the former Massachusetts governor beat Bush 3-1 in the West Virginia race.

As the political primary season aged to its last hurrah, both Tuesday night for the presidential nomination, both Bush and Jackson vied in two of the Republican primary races—Bush versus Jackson in Nebraska and a gubernatorial battle in West Virginia.

THE NATIONAL news, however, was on the presidential front and how much the two winners can help Dukakis in his drive to the nomination. Although polls show Jackson running well in both states, he nonetheless campaigned vigorously in the past week.

Jackson, a Georgia Democrat, is planning a presidential run. Johnson County could get new rural address system

By Harry Livingston
The Daily Iowan

A new rural address system could be forming in Johnson County by the end of the year as a result of the recommendations of a committee appointed by the Johnson County Board of Supervisors.

The task force, which will meet monthly at the Johnson County Administration Building, will be responsible for developing a new system.

The current system is comprised of up-to-date, but inaccurate, maps that show the tax parcels in Johnson County.

The task force will be responsible for determining how the system operates at the beginning.

The task force was formed as a result of a survey conducted by the Johnson County Planning Commission.

The survey showed that there are currently 100,000 addresses in Johnson County, but only 50,000 of them are in use.

A new system will allow for more efficient delivery of mail and parcels, according to the committee.

Dead frider's brother: BOARD made 'scapegoats' of Northwesters' pilots

By John S. Hildebrand

The Daily Iowan

The Iowa City Board of Supervisors last night voted to accept the recommendation of a task force formed to investigate the crash of a Northwest Airlines flight near Detroit.

The board voted unanimously to accept the recommendation of the task force, which found that the pilots were not responsible for the crash.

The task force concluded that there was no need to take any action against the pilots.

Board members voted 10-0 to accept the recommendation of the task force.

The board also voted 7-0 to accept a letter from the pilots' attorney, who requested that the board not take any action against the pilots.

UI brain research leads to thought process discovery

United Press International;

IOWA CITY — A study of how gravity influences memory has led UI researchers to the discovery that different regions of the brain perform different thought processes.

Anni Damasio, UI professor of psychology, said the findings eventually could lead to treatments for memory loss.

If the brain was to be likened to a computer's memory, the findings could help retrain certain regions so the computer's memory is better.

The study is the first of its kind to use different regions of the brain to perform different thought processes.

In the study, the researchers used a computer model to simulate different regions of the brain. The model was able to perform different thought processes, such as memory and decision making.

The researchers said the findings could lead to new treatments for memory loss, such as memory enhancement devices.

The study also could help researchers understand how the brain learns and remembers information.

Dukakis' OIG Secret Service protection

Both Democratic Front-runners Michael Dukakis and Jimmy Carter have said they will accept Secret Service protection despite widespread unswerving opposition from the public, and Dukakis did not even mention it in his reply to Carter's request for Secret Service protection and to the Civil Service Commission for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Democratic leaders have maintained a virtual blanket of silence on Dukakis' Secret Service request, although the commission has made no final decision on the issue.

Reagan's OIG looks at Secret Service protection

WASHINGTON — President Reagan has asked Attorney General Edward Levi to review Secret Service protection for the Democratic presidential contender Michael Dukakis. The request was made by the President's Office of the Inspector General (OIG), the source of the report.

The White House said Dukakis had not addressed the issue of Secret Service protection in his official campaign

Workers lose battle as strike in Poland ends after 9 days

By Bogdan Turchak

Gdansk, Poland

Workers at the shipyard where the first strike against the government's policies ended after 9 days, said Tuesday, ended a major strike for higher wages and official recognition of the independent union.

The strike, which began May 19, has been the focal point of the government's efforts to persuade workers to give up their demands for higher salaries and an end to the controversy over their union's recognition.

The workers, who had been demanding higher wages and union status, ended their strike after meeting with government officials on Tuesday.

Shultz will meet with Shevardnadze

By Robert S. Eshleman

Washington

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. announced Monday he would meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze in Geneva, Switzerland, the day after Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev is scheduled to arrive.

Mr. Haig said in a separate statement that he was encouraged by Mr. Shevardnadze's statement that the United States and the Soviet Union should work together to achieve a nuclear arms reduction treaty.

Mr. Haig said he was prepared to discuss a variety of issues with Mr. Shevardnadze, including the future of the arms control process and the implementation of the Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty.

Gorbachev: Conservatism has delayed Soviet reform

By Robert Service

Washington

Soviet Union

Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the new leader of the Soviet Union, said Monday that the transition to democracy and economic reform has been delayed by the conservative policies of his predecessor, Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Mr. Gorbachev said that during his first two months in power, he had worked to resolve the country's economic crisis and to institute political reforms.

He said he had been trying to implement a new policy of openness and reform, but that the conservative forces of the Brezhnev era had prevented him from doing so.

Too much mud-slinging

With all of the negative publicity surrounding the Johnson County Sheriff's race, it will be surprising if anyone other than the four candidates can win in the June 7 primary. Even winning Sheriff Gary Sharp has already endured one of the nastier, presumably won't be voting in June's primaries are running for Deacon.

Rather than good American political competition, the race for sheriff looks more like a nasty battle in an ongoing feud between the sheriff's department and the Iowa City Police Department. Two of the candidates, Sheriff Sharp, who is currently employed by the police department, and former Councilman Michael Stock, are currently employed by the police department.

County Sheriff's Department employee.

The feud began in March when Derrick announced his bid for the Sheriff's post. He then suspended his campaign to improve cooperation between the two departments as well. Sheriff Sharp responded by saying that Derrick was ousted from the Sheriff's department and "just wasn't cut out to be a sheriff." He also added that Derrick was "nothing."

In April, Derrick announced his retirement and endorsed his deputy, Carpenter, who has been with the department 22 years. At the same time, it was pointed out to the Daily Iowan that candidates Sharp was threatened with another "lawless official." The charges were dropped, apparently.

And this was how the sheriff's race took another interesting—albeit not encouraging—turn: down the murder truck. Carnage occurred after the sheriff's official arrest for which no one claimed responsibility. The sheriff called "a bad guy who acts like a good guy." The Iowa City Press-Citizen then quoted Sharp as saying that he was "tired."

This attitude was supported by Sharp's and said something about "shooting law no more."

So who are "the good guys" and who are "the bad guys?" At this point, neither the Johnson County Sheriff's Department or anyone else can find out.

Constitutional rights

Recent newspaper articles have underscored one of the greatest fears of university students that have now been realized: the basic rights of the student who works for a university are not the same as the basic rights of the student who works for the police department. This has been true for years, and it is only now becoming apparent to those who have been living in an atmosphere of fear since the Vietnam War.

The decision to move the final round of the Battle of the Bands was a result of a last-minute lawsuit filed by the University of Iowa Students' Union. The lawsuit was brought on behalf of Student of the Year's director and producer, as director of the Union's Communications Department, who claimed that his right to freedom of speech had been violated.

The lawsuit was heard in a federal court, and it was decided that the university's actions were not in violation of the First Amendment. The court ruled that the university had the right to regulate the use of its facilities for events that would not be held by the university itself. The court also ruled that the university had the right to regulate the use of its facilities for events that would not be held by the university itself.

Edwards wins Silver Basketball Award

Iowa State Michelle Edwards has been named the winner of the Chicago Tribune Silver Basketball Award. Presented by the Big Ten Conference, the award is given annually to the nation's top female basketball player.

Michigan senior guard Gary Grant was chosen as the men's basketball award winner. Both the men's and women's selections were chosen by a panel of writers which consisted of Big Ten Conference basketball writers and officials, Big Ten basketball coaches and a group of Chicago Tribune writers.

Edwards, a senior guard from Boston, Mass., averaged 20.3 points and 10.4 rebounds for the Cyclones last season. She was a member of the 2002-03 Big Ten Conference Championship and the Elite Eight round of the 1990 NCAA women's tournament. The Hawkeyes hosted the Big Ten team in rank No. 10 on the national polls and held that position for two weeks.

In addition to scoring, Edwards led Iowa in field goal percentage (58 percent), free throws (82 percent), assists (171), rebounds (271), steals (49) and minutes played (1,401). She led Iowa's scoring attack in 25 of 32 games during the 2002-03 season.

Grant, a senior guard from Chicago, Ill., scored at least 20 points in 27 of 32 games last season. He was a member of the Chicago Tribune's Championship Team and the Elite Eight round of the 1990 NCAA men's tournament. The Hawkeyes defeated the Big Ten team in rank No. 4 on the national polls and held that position for one week.

Budd confirms temporary withdraw

Johannesburg, South Africa (AP) — Runner Zola Budd, suffering from nervous exhaustion, will not play in the 1990 London Olympic Games. She has returned to her native South Africa tomorrow and confirmed she was not planning to compete at the Olympics. She said she was looking forward to being treated by physiotherapists and would not compete until she was fully recovered.

Budd, a former Olympic silver medalist, has been out of action since November after a coach's report on her performance at the 1990 Commonwealth Games in Auckland, New Zealand.

Budd confirmed that she would not compete in the Olympic Games, and a source said she had been advised to take a break from competition. Budd said she would be prepared to compete in the 1992 Olympic Games if she was in top form.

Jackson named top NBA rookie

By Colleen Yearwood

NEW YORK - New York guard John Jackson was named NBA Rookie of the Year in a season swarming with talent and surrounded by great people all year long.

Jackson ranked third in the NBA with 27.4 points per game, his average of 18.6 and 9.5 rebounds per game, tops among rookies. His 311 set by Dudley Bradley of Indiana in 1989.

That song helped the Pistons to 54-26 to lead by 1.03 minutes. The Bulls closed the season with a 106 points and led from early to late during the season.

The 1992-93 Bulls were the league's most aggressive team at the bottom of the rotation.

Overall expanded the margins to 1.03 minutes. In the Boston game, the Pistons were 1.03 minutes ahead of the start.

Jackson's first game at 1.03 minutes, led by Dennis Rodman, who led the Pistons by 1.03 minutes at 1.03 minutes. The Pistons were 2.03 minutes ahead of the start.

A's ride win streak behind Welch trade

United Press International

OAKLAND, Calif. — The A's didn't have anything to do after a 1-0 win over Minnesota on Friday night, so they watched television to catch the late (1-0) game against the Tigers.

The win streak continued on Saturday as Welch improved to 4-2, giving him 40 wins on the season.

Welch joined the A's in 1986 after two seasons with the Angels. He has been a valuable part of the team's success since then.

The A's have won 16 straight games, tying a record set by the 1977-78 American League Most Valuable Player. The streak started with a 2-1 win over the Rangers on April 15.

Welch's ERA is down to 3.09, the lowest in the league.

The A's expected all along when they gave up Griffin. But, after Welch's latest gem, they're glad they moved on.

"When Griffin was traded, we knew we were making a move," said manager Tony La Russa. "But we didn't know how much."
Edwards 'Sunset' fades fast

Acting is a tricky profession in which performers compete to achieve better box office results. A new movie, "Sunset," directed by Richard J. Black, recently opened in theaters throughout the United States.

The film tells the story of a Hollywood madam who becomes involved in a scandal-ridden era of the 1920s. The madam, played by newcomer Emilly Walsh, becomes a target for two detectives, one of whom is played by Matthew Louis.

The film received mixed reviews from critics. Some praised the performances of the lead actors, while others criticized the dialogue and pacing of the movie.

The film was produced by John Smith, an independent filmmaker who has worked on several other projects.

Stravinsky's 'Rite' opened to uproar

By Ross Diemer

The Daily Iowan

The Philadelphia Orchestra and conductor Charles Dutoit performed Igor Stravinsky's "The Rite of Spring" to a packed house at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C.

The performance was met with enthusiastic applause from the audience, who appreciated the energy and passion of the musicians.

The Rite of Spring is a ballet composed by Stravinsky in 1913 and later orchestrated by the composer. The work is known for its innovative use of dissonance, rhythm, and contrasting musical styles.

The performance was part of a larger festival celebrating the 100th anniversary of the premiere of the ballet.
