

The Daily Iowan

Price: 25 cents

Iowa City's Morning Newspaper

Tuesday, August 30, 1988

Local theaters won't show 'Temptation'

By Matt Devine
The Daily Iowan

Iowa City moviegoers will be spared the adventure this fall of crossing the picket lines of demonstrators gathered outside local theaters to protest Martin Scorsese's controversial film, "The Last Temptation of Christ."

It's not the protesters who won't show, but the movie.

The debate over the film took a new twist in Iowa last week when the Central States Theaters Corp. announced it will block distribution of the movie to its chain of theaters, which include four of the five Iowa City movie houses.

Central States Theaters Corp. operates the Astro Theater, Campus Theaters, Cinema I & II and the Englert Theater here.

"We have decided that we're not going to play the picture," said Central States Theaters Corp. General Manager Arthur Stein Jr. "The overwhelming response is that people don't want us to play it."

Stein said the furor surrounding the release of "The Last Temptation of Christ" generated more than 50,000 petition signatures urging the Central States Theaters Corp. to deny the film play in its theaters.

Religious groups sponsored many of the appeals, which weighed heavily in the corporation's decision not to release the movie, Stein said, adding the corporation had not issued its decision based on the content of the movie. "We have not seen the film," he said.

The Central States directive means a long wait for Iowa City filmgoers anxious to see Scorsese's version of the greatest story ever told. The university-operated Bijou Theatre predicted at least a six-month delay before "The Last Temptation of Christ" hits its screens.

"If Central States isn't bringing it, the Bijou couldn't pick it up until next semester," said Bijou Co-Director Bill Palik, who cited the Bijou policy of running a film only after its theater run is complete.

The Central States resolution reportedly marks the first time in motion picture history public appeal has blocked a film's release, according to UI Director of the Institute for Cinema and Culture Dudley Andrew.

"I've been here 20 years monitoring the film world and I can't remember another case where they debated and listened to public opinion," he said.

The UI film scholar speculated that the corporation blocked the film's release in order to protect its relationship with patrons for the future.

"They don't want to alienate 'x' number of viewers, so by not making money on one film, they hope to make money on subsequent films," said Andrew, who called the action "pressure-group restraint."

Opponents of the Scorsese film bristled at the movie's portrayal of a Christ tempted by human desires and have called the implication blasphemous.

See Movie, Page 3A

The Daily Iowan/Joseph Sharpnack

Inspectors cite lapse in safety

By David Vestal
The Daily Iowan

The Duane Arnold Nuclear Power Plant averaged one potentially serious safety lapse a month for the first three months of this year, a rate more than three times the industry average, according to a May Nuclear Regulatory Commission report.

Including the figures for January-March 1988, the number of so-called "safety system failures" at the plant has exceeded the industry average six out of the last eight calendar quarters.

A safety system failure is defined by the agency as a problem that would prevent a safety system from functioning if called upon during an emergency.

The Duane Arnold plant, located 10 miles northwest of Cedar Rapids and operated by the Iowa

Analysis

Electric Light and Power Company, reported three safety system failures during the first three months of 1988.

Nationwide, comparable nuclear plants reported less than one such failure during the same period.

Since April 1986, the Duane Arnold plant has experienced 14 separate safety system failures.

Jan Strasma, spokesman for the regional NRC office in Glen Ellyn, Ill., said safety system failures "can certainly be serious if there is a need for that system and it is not available or cannot perform its function."

But according to Strasma, the large number of safety system failures at the plant "is something of interest, something that we follow, but it is not a hand-wringing situation here."

According to Steve Swails, general manager of nuclear licensing at the Duane Arnold facility the plant has generally performed well.

"I think we've got an excellent performance record," Swails said. "I haven't really tracked how we compare with others, but I think we're favorable."

"We've had really pretty good performance out of the General Electric reactor, and it just continues to get better," he said.

Alternate site may save Union field

By John Bartenhagen
The Daily Iowan

The Union field was moved one step closer to safety Monday when a joint meeting of the UI Parking and Transportation and Campus Planning Committees agreed upon an alternative parking proposal.

The new proposal would place temporary parking lots at three sites: in place of the south wing of the UI Old Music Building; in a lot south of the UI Main Library; and in a lot west of Old Brick. In addition, the proposal provides for 20 more reserved parking spaces at both the Union Parking Ramp and the lower Old Law Building parking lot.

Overall the new proposal would provide 283 additional parking spaces, with the three temporary lots providing 243 of those spaces.

The joint committees will recommend the plan to the UI administration.

The south wing of the Old Music Building was closed this past

Parking Space Distribution Proposal
	Reserved Spaces	Metered Spaces	Total
Old Music Building Site	99	0	99
New Lot #9/West of Old Brick	58	0	58
South of Library	20	66	86
Total	177	66	243

March when it was determined to be unsafe, according to UI Director of Planning and Administrative Services Dick Gibson. The multimedia studios that the south wing housed were moved to the UI International Center.

"That building is structurally unsound — the problems go clear down to the footings and the foundation," Gibson said. "There's no saving that building."

UI Architect Steve Buckman said the building was constructed inexpensively during the late 1920s.

"I think it's served the university well," he said.

The original parking proposal called for the conversion of about one-half of the Union field into a temporary, 171-space parking lot. The lot, which was to replace parking lost to the upcoming construction of the UI Laser Center north of the Union, was supposed to revert to green space following the completion of a permanent ramp north of the UI Chemistry-Botany Building.

UI Director of Parking and Transportation David Ricketts said the new proposal was an improvement over the Union field plan.

"When we proposed building the laser center, we had a long term solution to the loss of parking, in fact we will gain spaces in the long-term, but we had no short-term solution," Ricketts said.

"I think (the new proposal) is a good alternative," he added. "It has problems, mostly from the point of view of permit holders for the Union lot, but I think overall, it's a satisfactory alternative and I have come to like it."

Ricketts said a Union field parking lot would have the advantages of providing direct access to Union employees and free night-time access to campus for students.

But the new site would relieve a long-standing parking problem along the eastern edge of campus, he said.

"We were going to put $100,000 into the Union field site and then tear it up in a year," Ricketts said. "The lot at the Old Music Building should be of comparable cost and we'll probably be able to keep it more than a year."

Ricketts said the reserved parking lot west of Old Brick would be free and open to the public at night and on weekends but added a gate will be installed if there is a problem with cars left overnight.

"We're taking a risk, but we're hoping the new (parking) violation schedule will deter people from leaving their cars there during the day," he said. "Of course it's right by a dorm and dorms give us fits. The students park there at night and then don't get their cars out by morning, but that will be more expensive this year."

Ricketts said he hoped the three temporary lots would remain in place for at least two years.

UI Vice President for Finance and University Services Susan Phillips said she was pleased an alternative plan was being considered.

"I don't think anybody came to choose the Union field for a parking lot thinking it was a great solution to begin with," Phillips said. "That green space is valuable to the whole university, so that

See Field, Page 2A

Rawlings greets freshmen at UI convocation

By Hilery Livengood
and Heather Maher
The Daily Iowan

Of the 3,700 freshmen enrolled at the UI this fall, 600 joined new UI President Hunter Rawlings III and the Kronos String Quartet Monday at the UI's freshman convocation at Hancher Auditorium.

As a fellow newcomer, Rawlings welcomed the group to the UI, saying "It's a great pleasure for me to join you as a freshman here at the university."

Rawlings stressed the importance of the educational community in Iowa City to every UI student's academic career. "You all need to contribute to our community here," he said. "It's crucial to think about giving to the whole, rather than just taking from it.

"Nothing will be handed to you anymore. You must shape your own experience by utilizing the many opportunities here."

Students should also call upon the faculty and staff members of this "community" to help enhance their education, he said. He invited freshmen to meet with him or write to him with complaints or suggestions for improvement.

"Don't suffer in silence," Rawlings said. "Let someone know about your concerns, in fact, let me know."

"We will be monitoring your progress, offering you help and keeping in touch with your parents. We will be checking up on you."

Rawlings also praised the diversity and educational skills of the incoming group, citing the class of 1993 as "probably the best prepared class in the history of this university and the most diverse class ever."

Included in the freshman class are citizens of every Iowa county, all 50 states and many foreign nations, Rawlings said. Six to 7 percent of the class are minority students, the largest percentage in UI history, he added.

Hearing these facts, figures and words of wisdom wasn't exactly what some freshman who came to the convocation had expected.

"I came because I wanted to get involved in the university, and my mother also told me to," UI freshman Marla Kempf said. "But I'm really not expecting all that much."

"I just came to see what everybody in charge of my future has to say," UI freshman Mike Kair said.

But not all in attendance were freshmen, nor did all come to hear Rawlings speak. The music also drew a gathering to the convocation.

"We really just came to hear the Kronos String Quartet," recent UI graduate Patrick Doyle said. "This group drew other people from the music community, too."

"They're 20th century music specialists who are young and outrageous. They're one of the best string quartets in the nation."

"This is just going to blow these kids away," said Mike Geary, a local percussionist. "This is going to be more outrageous than most of these people can deal with. Most really won't have any idea who they are."

This emphasis on the arts is a promising feature of the Rawlings administration, Doyle said. "I certainly hope that with Rawlings here things in the local art world will change. He seems to be more hip to music, dance and drama than Jim O. (Former UI President James O. Freedman). His attitude was stifling."

"The thrust has been moved away from the arts, and maybe with Hunter it will be rejuvenated. Maybe things will be turning around, but I doubt it."

Tani Freiwald, 37, right, and Wes Bailey, 33, explain the way they passed themselves off as participants in controversial sex therapy on a number of television talk shows.

Actors duped TV hosts on sex therapy shows

CHICAGO (AP) — Two part-time actors said Monday they duped TV hosts Oprah Winfrey, Sally Jessy Raphael and Geraldo Rivera and millions of talk-show viewers, by passing themselves off as participants in sex therapy.

However, a psychologist who recommended the pair as guests says they weren't acting.

"It was the idea of going on national television — from a performer's standpoint that's pretty big," said Tani Freiwald, 37, a full-time secretary and part-time actress who played the roles of sex-hating wife and sex surrogate on the shows.

"In my mind, it was almost fulfilling the prophesy Andy Warhol made in the mid-60s that everyone would be a star for 15 minutes," said Wes Bailey, 33, who also has a job looking after an elderly man.

Bailey played an impotent husband on a "Sally Jessy Raphael Show" televised in May and a

35-year-old virgin on a July "Geraldo."

In both cases, he said, he claimed to be undergoing therapy with a sex surrogate, in which a patient has sex with a stand-in chosen by the therapist.

Rivera said he was "not amused" by the hoax and his lawyer was investigating.

"This is something that goes right to the integrity of the broadcast itself. I'm really spitting mad," he said by telephone from New York.

Freiwald and Bailey, both Chicagoans, said they were asked to appear on the shows by a Chicago psychologist-author, Dean C. Dauw, for whom Freiwald was working as an office manager. They said a third person appeared with them on "Geraldo."

"He asked me to do it because the surrogate he does have working for him are neither presentable or articulate enough" to go on televi-

See Talk, Page 2A

Inside

Index
Arts	5B - 6B, 8B
Classifieds	6B - 7B
Crossword	5B
Metro	2A - 7A
Movies	3B
Sports	1B - 4B
Viewpoints	8A
Nation/world	9A - 10A

Weather

Today, sunny with highs in the upper 70s. Ah! Great add/drop weather! Remember, no guns. Professors respond better to calm understanding. They have a hard job, too. Ambiguous test questions take time to create. (My suggestion is a cattle prod!)

CUA
Administration, a U.S. Government Agency

Metro

from DI staff reports

Zip code changes affect residents

Zip code changes have been implemented in Iowa City this summer due to a steady increase in its population during this decade. Two new Zip codes were implemented July 1, dividing the city into three Zip code areas. The approximate areas are:

- 52240 — south of Muscatine and Iowa avenues and east of the Iowa River.
- 52245 — east of the river and north of Muscatine and Iowa avenues. Residents on the north side of either of those two streets with Iowa or Muscatine addresses will retain the 52240 Zip code.
- 52246 — west of the Iowa River.

All Coralville, rural routes, post office boxes and UI numbers are not affected by this change.

Tickets available now for Expo Express

Tickets are available now for the Expo Express, the passenger train that will run between Kinnick Stadium in Iowa City and South Amana for the 1988 World Ag Expo, held in Amana Sept. 7-10. Round trip tickets, which include bus shuttle to the Expo grounds, are $16.50 for coach service and $39.50 for first class and can be ordered at most local banks, Yoder Feeds, the UI Hospitals and Clinics volunteer program and the Iowa City Area Chamber of Commerce.

The manual labor and supplies needed for the preparation of the Expo Express, including 200 tons of rock for a boarding platform at Kinnick stadium, are being donated by the Iowa City Homebuilders Association.

For more information about Expo Express tickets, call the Chamber at 337-9639 or the Union Box Office at 335-3041.

Citizen assembly to guide new president

Iowa City area residents now have an opportunity to participate in a nationwide "Presidential Agenda-Setting Project." Sponsored by the Roosevelt Center for American Policy Studies, the program will involve citizen groups from 12 communities across the country, including the Cedar Rapids/Iowa City and Des Moines areas, gathering to discuss which goals and issues should receive top priority in the next presidential administration.

Approximately 100 residents from the Cedar Rapids/Iowa City region will gather on Oct. 22 at Coe College to participate in a day-long exercise in national goal-setting and strategizing. Policy recommendations from this assembly, combined with those from 11 other communities, will be compiled and analyzed, and the resulting report, "A Citizens' Agenda for the President," will be delivered to the president-elect in November.

To receive an application to take part in this assembly, contact Lu Barta Barron, 1754 D Ave. N.E., Cedar Rapids, 52402, (319) 363-8255, by Wednesday.

Coralville chooses new police chief

A three-month search for a new Coralville police chief has ended and city officials have chosen a 15-year veteran of the Coralville Police Department to fill the position.

After being unable to find a chief among their three outside finalists, council members turned inside and have hired Barry W. Bedford, 37. Bedford starts his $32,000-a-year position Sept. 7 and has 20 years of law enforcement experience in the Iowa City/Coralville area.

Bedford wasn't originally considered for the position because he hasn't completed his master's degree. However, Bedford received a bachelor's degree in sociology from the UI and has acquired 21 credits toward a master's degree.

Corrections

The Daily Iowan strives for accuracy and fairness in the reporting of news. If a report is wrong or misleading, a request for a correction or clarification may be made by contacting the Editor at 335-6030. A correction or clarification will be published in this column.

Subscription

USPS 1433-6000
The Daily Iowan is published by Student Publications Inc., 111 Communications Center, Iowa City, Iowa, 52242, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, legal holidays and university holidays and university vacations. Second class postage paid at the Iowa City Post Office under the Act of Congress of March 2, 1879. Subscription rates: Iowa City and Coralville, $12 for one semester, $24 for two semesters, $6 for summer session, $30 for full year, out of town, $20 for one semester, $40 for two semesters, $10 for summer session, $50 for all year.

Metro/Iowa

Status of incinerators remains uncertain pending more tests

Heather Maher
The Daily Iowan

UI officials are still uncertain whether two planned infectious waste incinerators at the UI Oakdale Campus will receive the necessary air quality permits from the Iowa Department of Natural Resources.

According to William Twaler, director of the UI's Health Protection Office, tests to determine if the incinerators will sufficiently burn off all waste toxins are still being conducted, and the IDNR has not yet reached a final verdict as to whether it will issue the permits.

The two incinerators, one which would be for active duty and one to serve as a back-up facility, will burn infectious waste from places like UI Hospitals and Clinics and research labs, which produce things like used syringes, blood, dirty surgical masks, soiled bedding and bandages.

Twaler is hopeful the results of the tests will be favorable and allow the UI to start construction on the facilities.

"We think that since we haven't heard anything from them, we might be approved this week," he said. "We've already bought the equipment and parts for the incinerators, but we haven't started the renovation because we're waiting to see if the DNR will approve it."

Until now, the UI has disposed of the nearly 3 million pounds of infectious waste it produces annually by first sterilizing it in an autoclave, which kills bacteria with extremely hot pressurized steam, and then bagging it for burial at the Iowa City Landfill.

According to Twaler, the landfill is running out of room to store the waste.

"What you had four or five years ago was a train of thought that said the landfill was the simplest and cheapest method of disposal," said Twaler. "By far, this method is not the best, and it's going to run out sooner or later. That's why we got into this thing — the incinerator at the UI (Medical Labs) was not big enough to take care of our needs."

Pete Hamlin, chief of the Air Quality and Solid Waste Protection Bureau of the IDNR, said that in the past the IDNR has not required air quality permits for all incinerators, but now it is required for any variety or size incinerator.

"We're concerned that any source that emits air contamination be permitted by us. Whether it's an incinerator or a 20-million-pound coal-fire boiler, we issue a conditional permit once we get the plant inspected, and we look at a number of factors," he said.

Hamlin said he didn't see the results of the tests performed at the Oakdale site yet and wouldn't speculate until he had seen the report from test engineers.

Dan Buckman, head of the Design Section at UI Architecture and Engineering Department, was a principal designer of the planned incinerators. Buckman said because the DNR unofficially approved the plans for the facility before any action had been taken, he is optimistic the IDNR will grant the permits.

"Because we took the schematic design to the DNR even before we applied for the permits and explained how we were going to control the emissions and such, I don't think we will have any problem," he said.

Buckman said in the event the DNR rejects the facilities as unsafe, the design engineers would return to the drawing board and make modifications.

Area residents who live adjacent or near the proposed incinerator site are concerned the waste-disposal system will be hazardous or pose health risks. Both Twaler and Hamlin said these fears are unfounded.

"I can't think of any accident that might happen unless the transporting vehicles were involved in a smash up on the road. At that time I don't think anything would happen unless it blew up or exploded, which would do the same thing as the incinerator," said Twaler.

In the event one of the incinerators broke down and was incapable of burning the waste, he said, the back-up facility would be used. If both incinerators were unable to function, the real danger according to Twaler, would be that the hazardous waste would pile up and be a health risk simply from going untreated.

According to the UI's assistant director of Campus and Custodial Services, the entire system of collection and disposal of the waste will be carried out in closed containers and vehicles to minimize the chance of spill or inadvertent distribution of material.

Field

was a very reluctant solution to begin with.

UI Student Senate President Melinda Hess, who along with former UI director of Student Legal Services Chris Swanson organized a campaign to save the Union field, said the new proposal was basically acceptable.

Talk

sion, Freiwald said.

Dauw did not return numerous messages left on his business telephone answering machine and a woman who answered the telephone at his Chicago home said he was in Florida for a seminar. She refused to give her name or release a telephone number where he

"The only thing that really concerns me about the Old Music Building site is, that in the short-term we lose free student spaces at night," Hess said. "Other than that, I'm happy with the compromise we've come up with."

But Swanson expressed reservations about the demolition of the building.

"I don't know what kind of shape this building is in, but I don't believe in tearing down buildings just because they're old," he said.

The new parking proposal is subject to approval by the state Board of Regents. The board meets September 14-15 in Iowa City.

Courts

By Belinda Bloor
The Daily Iowan

A Coralville man was charged with terrorism Saturday after allegedly discharging an arrow from a compound bow in a domestic argument in his residence, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Gary Lee O'Leary, 39, 719 Fifth Ave. Place, allegedly admitted to Coralville police to having fired the bow and arrow. The arrow struck a wall after narrowly missing O'Leary's sister-in-law, according to court records.

Court records state that Coralville police had been called to the residence on other occasions for domestic disputes in which O'Leary allegedly threatened to kill his wife and her sister.

O'Leary was released from custody after a $2,500 bond was posted. He was instructed not to have any contact with the victim. A preliminary hearing is set for Sept. 7, according to court records.

A Coralville man was charged with carrying a concealed weapon

Saturday after allegedly brandishing a Butterfly knife at three males in the 400 block of Iowa Avenue, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Robert William Gauthier, 19, 1507 Olde Hickory Road, was identified to police by one of the males as being the man who had the knife. Gauthier admitted to police to having brandished the knife at the three men when he was located at Bushnell's Turtle, 127 E. College St., after the incident, according to court records.

Gauthier was released from custody on his own recognizance. A preliminary hearing is set for Sept. 16, according to court records.

A Florida man was charged with going armed with intent to fire the arm Saturday after a verbal argument at a Coralville truck stop in which the man allegedly displayed a revolver toward another person, according to Johnson County District Court records.

James Richard Register, 32, Caytee, Florida, was allegedly involved in an argument at Hawk-I Truck Stop, 903 First Ave., in which he pulled a Smith and Wesson 357 from the passenger compartment of his truck and displayed it toward the other person involved in the argument. The loaded revolver was still in the possession of the defendant when police arrived, according to court records.

Bail was set at $2,500. A preliminary hearing is set for Sept. 7, according to court records.

A Texas man was charged with carrying a weapon Saturday after his involvement in a verbal argument at a Coralville truck stop, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Michael John Ryan, 28, San Antonio, allegedly had a knife, which had over a five-inch blade, in his back pocket when police arrived at Hawk-I Truck Stop. Ryan told police he got the knife out for use in the altercation, according to court records.

Bail was set at $1,000. A preliminary hearing is set for Sept. 7, according to court records.

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

HUGE SELECTION OF USED VACUUMS!

AVAILABLE AT

Brandy's

"The Vacuum Cleaner Experts"
425 10th Ave., Coralville • 351-1453
(Across from the Post Office)

You've Composed a Masterpiece! Now finish your work in "classic" style.

Bring your Paper, Thesis or Dissertation to Technigraphics for QUALITY COPIES WORD PROCESSING & LASER PRINTING

TECHNIGRAPHICS

PLAZA CENTRE ONE
IOWA CITY
354-5950

206 1ST AVENUE
CORALVILLE
338-6274

We Take Pride in Your Work!
Park & Shop Bus & Shop

Let Us Set You Up A Program To Get In Shape This Fall!

Semester Specials

$80⁰⁰ or $25⁰⁰ a month

- Saunas • Whirlpool
- Pool • Air-Dyne Bicycles
- Polaris • Universal Equipment • Free Weights
- Aqua Aerobics • Suntan Beds • Family Rates
- Group Rates

BODY DIMENSIONS

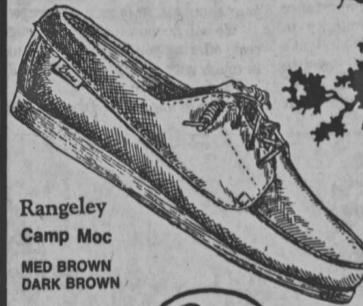

Fitness Center
"No Initiation Fee"

111 E. Washington
Iowa City
354-2252

Cantebury Inn
Coralville
338-8447

FALL FOR BASS

Rangeley
Camp Moc
MED BROWN
DARK BROWN

GUYS-GALS
$54 $48

BASS HAS A SHOE FOR EVERY STUDENT BODY.

Walker's

Men's • Women's • Children's Shoes
Old Capitol Center 338-2946

Metro/Iowa

NRC cr operati

by David Vestal
The Daily Iowan

A recent Nuclear Regulatory Commission report criticizing the operation of the Duane Arnold Nuclear Power Plant is not the first plant management has been cioned.

Charges of mismanagement arose in 1978, when the plant located about 10 miles northwest of Cedar Rapids, faced a containment reactor problem — cracks in water recirculation pipes.

On June 17, 1978, an inspection of the reactor revealed a vigorous coolant leak resulting from a 4-inch long crack in one of eight 10-inch diameter recirculation pipes.

Further testing showed although the visible crack was inches long, this crack acted extended approximately 180 degrees around the circumference of the pipe. When the other recirculation pipes were tested were found to be cracked to extent.

Recirculation pipes transfer sary cooling water from the evaluation of the plant's performance, the agency, known for being harsh with operators, characterized Electric's quality control effort having "longstanding pro weaknesses" and attributed rent problems at the plant lack of management attention.

Palo

The commission's comments part of its Systematic Assessment of Licensee Performance, a report NRC staff assessment of the licensee's safety performance conducted periodically at each of 105 operating U.S. nuclear plants.

The SALP breaks licensee performance into 11 categories, emergency preparedness protection, and assigns operation ratings of 1, 2 or 3 in category, with 1 being the highest.

In the latest SALP — covering March 1, 1986, through March 1987 — the Duane Arnold was given four 1 ratings, ratings and one 3 rating, compared with four 1 ratings and several ratings in the previous SALP.

The plant's rating fell from a 3 in the category of quality control. According to the report, a 3 means that "weaknesses are present" and "licensee response appear to be strained or not actively used so that minimally satisfactory performance with respect to operational safety ... is achieved."

Boley, a nuclear industry spokesman said 3 ratings "are remarkable serious because they are so rare the way the agency does things."

"If you look at the NRC's technical definition of what a 1 and a 2 are, you realize that there rating for unsatisfactory," said. "So the worst you can do is 3, and Duane Arnold got a 3."

Noting the 11 different categories on which plants are judged, he stressed the seriousness of getting a 3 rating in quality control. "Quality control is the assurance the NRC that inspections have been done, systems respond as they are supposed records are being kept. Having rating in quality control strikes as a pretty serious situation," said.

Although Strasma said the D

LYN-

We deliver 2 weeks decide if you want including tax & del

- 1H:
- 6E:
- 6E:
- 12:
- 16:
- 16A:
- 26:
- 29:
- 29:
- 30:
- 31:
- 31:
- 32:
- 32:
- 34:
- 34:
- 34:

List subject

Metro/Iowa

NRC criticizes Palo plant operations in new report

By David Vestal
The Daily Iowan

A recent Nuclear Regulatory Commission report criticizing the operation of the Duane Arnold Nuclear Power Plant is not the first time plant management has been questioned.

Charges of mismanagement first arose in 1978, when the plant, located about 10 miles northwest of Cedar Rapids, faced a common reactor problem — cracks in the water recirculation pipes.

On June 17, 1978, an inspection of the reactor revealed a vigorous coolant leak resulting from a 4-inch long crack in one of the eight 10-inch diameter recirculation pipes.

Further testing showed that, although the visible crack was four inches long, this crack actually extended approximately 270 degrees around the circumference of the pipe. When the other seven recirculation pipes were tested, all were found to be cracked to some extent.

Recirculation pipes transfer necessary cooling water from the primary cooling system to jet pumps inside the reactor. A pipe break at this point in the system could be disastrous.

An analysis performed by the agency stated that a complete circumferential break of one of the recirculation pipes would result in the worst accident possible at the reactor.

According to a 1978 report by David Comey of Citizens for a Better Environment, some industry experts called the severe recirculation pipe cracks at the Duane Arnold plant "the worst U.S. reactor accident yet," and the closest the nuclear industry had come to a meltdown.

At the time, when asked to respond to Comey's charges, Jan Strasma of the NRC reportedly said they were "essentially true."

Critics charged that although the pipe cracks resulted from a General Electric design error, Iowa Electric Light and Power Company, which operates the plant, was warned of the problem and failed to act.

"What is sobering is that this safety problem was recognized in October 1975 and strong language at that time urging prompt repair was neglected," Comey said.

While many plants experienced these cracks, the situation at Duane Arnold was allowed to deteriorate for so long that by the time remedial steps were finally taken, the cracks were already more severe than any other plant had ever experienced, he said.

Then in 1980, new charges of mismanagement arose. The Iowa Commerce Commission ruled that Iowa Electric officials did not properly supervise repairs when the plant was shut down from June 1978 to March 1979 to correct the recirculation pipe leaks.

The commission blamed utility officials for a 30-day delay in reopening the plant caused by lead blocks inadvertently left in repaired cooling system pipes. Removing the blocks cost more than $750,000.

Based on these and other instances of alleged mismanagement, the Critical Mass Energy Project declared in 1983 that Duane Arnold ranked among the poorest-managed nuclear power plants in the country.

Palo

evaluation of the plant's overall performance, the agency, not known for being harsh with plant operators, characterized Iowa Electric's quality control efforts as having "longstanding program weaknesses" and attributed current problems at the plant to "a lack of management attention."

The commission's comments were part of its Systematic Assessment of Licensee Performance, a routine NRC staff assessment of the plant licensee's safety performance conducted periodically at each of the 105 operating U.S. nuclear power plants.

The SALP breaks licensee performance into 11 categories, from emergency preparedness to fire protection, and assigns operators ratings of 1, 2 or 3 in each category, with 1 being the highest.

In the latest SALP — covering March 1, 1986, through May 31, 1987 — the Duane Arnold plant was given four 1 ratings, six 2 ratings and one 3 rating, compared with four 1 ratings and seven 2 ratings in the previous SALP.

The plant's rating fell from a 2 to a 3 in the category of quality control.

According to the report, a 3 rating means that "weaknesses are evident" and "licensee resources appear to be strained or not effectively used so that minimally satisfactory performance with respect to operational safety ... is being achieved."

Boley, a nuclear industry critic, said 3 ratings "are remarkably serious because they are so rare the way the agency does things."

"If you look at the NRC's technical definition of what a 1 and a 2 and a 3 are, you realize that there is no rating for unsatisfactory," Boley said. "So the worst you can do is a 3, and Duane Arnold got a 3."

Noting the 11 different categories on which plants are judged, Boley stressed the seriousness of getting a 3 rating in quality control.

"Quality control is the utility assuring the NRC that inspections have been done, systems will respond as they are supposed to, records are being kept. Having a 3 rating in quality control strikes me as a pretty serious situation," he said.

Although Strasma said the Duane

Arnold plant is overall "an average to somewhat above average plant" in terms of performance, he agreed that a 3 rating in quality control "reflects a managerial problem" at the plant.

The quality control rating was the focal point of the SALP, which noted that there were 13 quality control violations at the plant during the current assessment period compared with two such violations in the previous period.

Noting that "program weaknesses are indicated by the identified violations," the report found that "management involvement and control of quality ... needs improvement" and attributed quality control problems to "a lack of management attention."

The SALP also attributed the "decrease in licensee performance" to "longstanding program weaknesses."

The drop to a 3 rating was noted in an Aug. 31, 1987, letter from the regional NRC administrator A. Bert Davis to Iowa Electric President Lee Liu, where Davis told Liu that "the decline in rating in this area reflects our review of longstanding Quality Program problems and show that your corrective actions were not effective enough to resolve these problems."

Although the recent NRC report labeled current quality control efforts at the plant "inadequate," it also warned that additional quality control efforts may strain the current staffing levels at the plant.

The report recommended Iowa Electric take steps to improve quality control at the plant.

An interim NRC report filed in June 1988 found quality control improvements at the Duane Arnold plant were "essentially on-target with commitments and on schedule."

But Riccio, of the Washington, D.C.-based Nuclear Information and Resource Service, expressed reservations about such improvements.

"No matter what they say, most plants have very modest quality assurance programs. And the problem is, the NRC, being short on inspection staff, relies mainly on the utility owner's word," Riccio said.

"This lax quality assurance at plants all over the country has prompted a growing number of 'whistleblowers' to risk their jobs by exposing safety-related deficiencies," he said.

The next SALP, offering further evidence of the plant's performance, will be released by the agency in February 1989.

We need you!

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE American Heart Association

LYN-MAR LECTURE NOTES

2 Weeks FREE Trial Offer

We deliver 2 weeks of lecture notes FREE of charge, no obligations. Then, you decide if you want them to continue for the entire semester. The full price is $19⁹⁹ including tax & delivery

- | | |
|--------|--|
| 1H:5 | Western Art |
| 6E:1 | Principles of Micro Econ. (Lec. A & B) |
| 6E:2 | Principles of Micro Econ. (Lec. A & B) |
| 12:23 | Earth History & Resources |
| 16:1 | Western Civilization |
| 16A:61 | American History |
| 26:33 | Philosophy in Human Nature |
| 29:05 | Chemistry & Physics of the Environment |
| 29:50 | Modern Astronomy (12:30 Lecture) |
| 30:01 | Intro. to American Politics |
| 31:01 | Elementary Psychology |
| 31:15 | Intro. to Social Psychology |
| 32:01 | Judeo Christian Tradition |
| 32:04 | Living Religions of the East |
| 34:01 | Intro. to Social Prin. (Sec. 1 & Sec. 3) |
| 34:02 | Intro. to Social Problems |
| 34:120 | Intro. to Social Psychology (Sec. II) |

List subject

511 Iowa Avenue • 3039

Movie

Continued from page 1

However, UI professor of Jewish studies Jay Holstein said not everyone within the religious community was offended by the portrayal.

"Some people within the church structure find this to be a pious film, a good attempt to try to understand an individual who is not all God and not all human," he said.

Holstein sympathized with the difficulty of treating a biblical character on film and defended the right of filmmakers to interpret the Bible.

"When you try to do a movie about a biblical character, the problem is the biblical writers spend very little time on character portrayal. Therefore, an artist coming to the story is left with a lot to fill in on his own," Holstein said, adding, "I don't see why an artist shouldn't have the reason to go to the Bible and put his interpretation on it and bring it to the public."

Some residents of Iowa City expressed concern over the Central States Theaters Corp. decision, and said the decision upended their freedom to watch a film or to avoid it.

"I think a bunch of idiots are making decisions for me about what films I will and won't see," said Alan Pease, an Iowa City stage actor.

"The protestors who've taken to the streets about the movie make me mad," he said. "The very same First Amendment rights which allow them to go to the streets gives the filmmakers the same right to make the film."

Jeff Sietsema, an Iowa City resident, agreed.

"(The decision) concerns me," he said. "You should be able to watch what you want to watch."

Stein defended the resolution and said Central States sided with majority opinion.

"I don't think we've had half a dozen people who've said they want to see it," he said.

But Central States Theaters Corp. Iowa City Manager Emmett Frazer said there is a demand for the picture among Iowa City moviegoers.

"We've had a lot of requests to show it from patrons wanting to see the movie," he said.

Disaffected movie buffs may take comfort in the Nikos Kazantzakis novel of the same name on which Scorese based his screenplay, available at Iowa City bookstores.

1-800-4-CANCER

Cancer Information Service

We'll tell you everything we know about cancer. Free.

Central $3.00 Off Any New or Transferred Prescription With This Ad. Excluding B.C. Pills, & Insulin. Cash & Carry Expires 9/30/88

Rexall Pharmacy

You Can't Beat Our Prices!

Dodge at Davenport Sts. • Iowa City 338-3078

The Daily Iowan

HAWKEYE TA KICKOFF

TA's: Make your job easier and do it better! Also for anyone interested in academic careers. Sponsored by the UI Graduate College and the Graduate Student Senate.

GET UP AND GET GOING

Wednesday, August 31, 206 EPB

- 7 PM "Motivation and Teaching" - Nick Colangelo, Counsellor Ed
- 8 PM "English Testing for TA's" - Maureen Burke & Rusty Barcello
- 8:30 PM "Leading Group Discussion" - Dirk Scheerhorn, Comm. Studies

WHAT ARE THEY LEARNING?

Thursday, September 1, 5 Gilmore Hall

- 7 PM "Testing and Grading" - Tim Ansley, Psych. & Quant. Foundations
- 8 PM "Teaching Disabled Students" - Donna Chandler
- 8:30 PM "Teaching Advanced Labs" - Kim Montz, Micro Frontiers, Inc.

TALKLING AND TEACHING

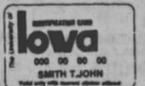

Wednesday, September 14, 3083 Main Library

- 7 PM "Effective Presentations" - Maureen Burke & Stephanie Sesker, Linguistics

ANY QUESTIONS? CALL AL BEARDSLEY AT 335-1394

WE HAVE WHAT YOU NEED TO GET THERE

And we accept:

SELECTION

- More Used Text Books
- More Spirals, Notebooks
- More Calculators
- More Backpacks

PRICE

Compare our prices... we think they are as low as any in town

CHARGE ACCOUNTS

Easy to set up
Takes about a week, unless you bring your folks in Bills mailed the first of each month
No service charge if paid by the 15th

Student ID Charges (takes a short delay after application)

Iowa Book & Supply Co.

Downtown Across from The Old Capitol

Metro/Iowa

Race track expansions considered

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A study released Monday said "properly structured" off-track betting could generate up to $78 million in wagering.

The study showed Iowa racetracks face increased competition from tracks and off-track betting in neighboring states and found state officials must move forward with off-track betting or the Iowa racing industry will suffer.

It shows taking the controversial step of allowing off-track betting would "permanently restructure" the state's racing industry. The study also calls on state officials to review the current tax and racing structure to meet the new competition.

"Properly structured inter- and off-track wagering can soften the impact of this out-of-state competition on Iowa racing operations and make Iowa racing more competitive with neighboring parimutuel industries," stated the study, conducted by the New York-based consulting firm of Christiansen Cummings Associates.

The study found neighboring states' efforts would harm Iowa's racing industry to "a significant degree" unless officials move to counter the competition.

Iowa's parimutuel betting law would have to be changed to allow off-track betting. That suggestion immediately drew fire from opponents.

"I certainly don't think this is the direction Iowa ought to be going," said Sen. William Dieleman, D-Pella, a leading opponent of legalized gambling, during an interview on Iowa Public Radio.

The study released Monday was conducted for the Iowa Racing Commission, which is considering recommendation of the step. It built projections based on establishing off-track betting operations in major Iowa cities which do not have tracks, including Sioux City, Mason City, Cedar Rapids, Davenport and Burlington.

"I've got some concerns about off-track betting, but I wouldn't want to nail myself down until I know exactly what they're proposing," said Gene Shepherd, head of the Department of Public Safety. "It's the control issue."

The study comes a few months before the opening of Prairie Meadows, the state's first horse racing track located at Altoona just outside Des Moines.

"Further, by making it possible for Prairie Meadows to distribute its horse racing through Iowa greyhound tracks, inter-track wagering can increase the fan base for Iowa horse racing," the study showed. "With off-track betting, Iowa's horse and greyhound tracks can penetrate geographic and demographic areas presently beyond their reach."

The study recommended any off-track betting complex be owned by the state's racing industry, rather than being run by the government. That would allow the industry to control the negative impact off-track betting could have on attendance and business at some tracks and in some regions of the state.

The study had some warnings for government regulators.

Lambda Chis rebuild house

By Jay Casini
The Daily Iowan

The newly reconstructed Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity house stands in sharp contrast to the smoking embers left during last year's formal rush.

On the eve of last year's UI Greek Formal Rush week, a fire started by a defective electrical cord gutted the house. Firefighters from Iowa City, West Branch and Coralville extinguished the blaze, but not before it had completely destroyed the attic and third floor and caused extensive water damage to the rest of the building.

The Lambda Chis took part in formal rush despite losing many of their possessions in the blaze. Their rush parties were held in the the UI Lindquist Center and under a tent in front of the remains of the structure.

Lambda Chi Rush Chairman Kevin Holt said the fire brought the members together and did not prevent a successful rush.

"Once we lost the house we realized what we were all about," Holt said. "Some people take the structure a little too seriously, and when we lost it we really found out what the brotherhood was about."

According to Holt, the Lambda Chis bid 25 new pledges last year, just one less than the previous year's rush.

"The guys we got were the guys that cared about the guys in the house, not just the structure," Holt said. "In some ways, the fire was the best thing that could have happened."

Holt said the camaraderie shown after the fire was recognized by the UI Greek System when it awarded the men of Lambda Chi Alpha the 1988 Greek Week brotherhood award.

Following the fire, insurance officials initially estimated that reconstruction would be completed in three or four months, allowing the members to move back into the house in January before the start of the spring semester. However, construction continued into the summer in order to get the house ready for last week's formal rush.

Lambda Chi President Tom Marshall said the early expectations for rebuilding were not realistic.

"The first estimates by the insurance people said we might be able to move back in in some time around January, but then reality set in," Marshall said. "You just can't build a house that fast in the middle of winter."

The Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity house, torn by a fire last year, now stands rebuilt.

Holt said insurance covered $300,000 of the repairs and remodeling of the house. Additional costs were covered by a $175,000 loan and $75,000 worth of donations from Lambda Chi alumni.

The rebuilding modernized the structure and includes more efficient space allocations and central air, Holt said. According to Marshall, live-in dues have increased by about $40 in order to cover some of the remodeling costs.

Rushing out of a new, modernized structure made this rush a lot easier, Marshall said.

"It was great to be able to rush out of the house again," Marshall said. "We had a real good week, and we got a good bunch of guys. We are all really pleased with it."

Employment levels prompt $69 million jobless tax cut

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa businesses were handed a $69 million cut in unemployment taxes on Monday, with officials crediting record employment levels for the windfall.

While the amount of jobless taxes collected by the state will drop sharply, "other factors" including high employment, growing wages and a reduction in the number of people seeking jobless benefits, combine to keep the unemployment trust fund full, officials said.

"This is one more step in improving the tax and business climate," said Gov. Terry Branstad in announcing the cut. "It's encouraging because this is one more sign of Iowa's economic growth."

Under state law, the tax businesses pay in their jobless assessment can be cut when surpluses pile up in the state's unemployment trust fund. Employment Services Director Richard Freeman said that fund had a $390 million balance Monday.

The fund had a balance of $341 million when the fiscal year ended June 30, Freeman said. The impact of the announcement will be to reduce the average tax rate from the current 2.83 percent to 1.96 percent, Branstad said.

About 22,000 businesses will not pay any taxes because they have not laid off workers. There were about 18,000 "angel" employers

prior to the cuts. The state's complex unemployment tax laws assess businesses a tax based on their employment history, with that money used to support the fund which pays jobless benefits.

The cut in taxes comes by shifting to a different set of tax tables which lower the amount of money collected from businesses.

Even with the lowered tax rate, Branstad said, the fund should remain healthy. Last year, the state collected about $225 million in jobless taxes and paid about $120 million in benefits, he said.

Branstad has been a critic of the unemployment system in the past, arguing it imposes too heavy a burden on businesses while giving workers benefits that are too generous.

In making Monday's announcement, the governor said he is satisfied with the jobless system and doesn't foresee the need for any changes.

"I'm satisfied we're going in the right direction," Branstad said, during his regular meeting with reporters. "I think we generally have a good system."

The cut announced Monday will amount to about $86 less in taxes paid by the average business.

Currently, businesses pay an average of $311 per year in jobless taxes, and that will drop to $225 under the lowered tax rate.

Not all businesses will experience a decline in taxes since the tax system is based on employment history. Those who have laid off a number of workers could experience an increase, but that hike will be less than under the old tax system, the governor said.

"I think the new system is working very well," he said.

Branstad said Monday's announcement should put to an end a battle over the jobless issue which was one of the top political issues in the 1986 legislative campaign.

The governor said the lower tax rate should remain in place "assuming stable economic trends."

"We have now reached the point where we have the highest level of employment in the state's history," Branstad said. "It will take $69 million off of the cost of doing business in Iowa."

Coupled with a more than $30 million cut in jobless approved by the Legislature last session, the governor said, officials have trimmed business expenses by $100 million, and that should significantly improve the state's business climate.

YOU CAN GET THERE FROM HERE AND BACK. (And Leave The Driving To Us!)

	Student Rates
	One Way	Round Trip
Chicago	26.00	48.00
Aurora	26.00	48.00
DeKalb	26.00	48.00
St. Louis	36.00	78.00
Des Moines	13.00	24.70
Ames	14.00	26.00
Davenport	7.50	12.00
Waterloo	10.50	21.00
Cedar Falls	11.25	23.00
Mason City	18.75	37.50
Minneapolis	32.25	64.50
Northfield	27.00	54.00

Connections made in Chicago for the suburbs.

Student and pair city rates available for other selected cities. Inquire with agent for details.

UNION BUS DEPOT

Corner College & Gilbert Phone 337-2127

ORDER YOUR Chicago Tribune

This Week (AUG. 29-SEPT. 3)

And Get

Home Delivery at

1/2 PRICE STUDENT RATE

And

Pick Up A FREE Copy

In Front of Iowa Book

(While Supplies Last)

Iowa students will be able to subscribe for Fall Semester Delivery to one of the nation's top 5 newspapers.

Final sports tallies, and stories. Read about the Chicago Bears, the Cubs, and the Sox. Get Big 10 coverage from the big city.

The very best in editorial content. Monday's Business Section. And two pages of comics. Don't forget Mike Royko!

Iowa Book & Supply Co.

Downtown Across from the Old Capitol

OPEN THIS WEEK

Mon.-Fri. 8-8; Sat. 9-5; Sun. 12-4

Back-to-School Sale Sale Sale Sale

Pepe Girbaud Code Bleu Guess Edwin Esprit Surf Fetish Motto Generra Perry Ellis Jou Jou French Connection Creeks

Men's & Women's SHORTS 1/2 PRICE

JEANS from 19.95

Tanks & T's 5.95 to 9.95

Dresses 9.95 to 19.95

Men's & Women's SHOES 1/2 PRICE

DENIM MINI-SKIRTS 1/2 PRICE

Best Selection of Jeans that fit...

MODA AMERICANA

Affordable Fashion for Men & Women Dubuque Street Plaza • Downtown Iowa City

Sammys
ΣAM
LIL' SISTER
RUSH PARTY
Thursday, Sept. 1
9:00 pm
On Top Of MISCUE!!!

KARATE CLASSES
FREE KARATE CLASS DEMONSTRATIONS
August 30 and 31 at 5:15 pm
in Room S-515 Fieldhouse
Karate Classes Begin September 1
Learn self-defense, develop strength, coordination & conditioning
Sponsored by the Division of Recreation Services
Information call: Denis Oliver, Godan, 351-7419 (evenings), 335-8919 (days)

Course omitted from schedule through human error!
THE HISTORY OF PUBLIC HEALTH (16:137)
A survey of major developments in public health practice, especially the control of communicable diseases from classical Mediterranean times to the era of AIDS. Lectures and discussions. Three semester hours. Professor Paul Greenough, 335-0368. Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 to 10:45 in 401 Health Sciences Library. Paper assignments except for registered auditors.
Required texts:
C. Cipolla, Fighting the Plague in Seventeenth Century Italy
R. Dubos, The White Plague
J. Eyles, Victorian Social Medicine
Rotberg and Rabb, eds., Hunger and History
To contact instructor to discuss the course: 335-0368

MEN'S COTTON SWEATERS $25
Sugg. retail up to '60
100% cotton in stripes, solids, and assorted patterns. Lots of colors and weaves. Sizes S-XL. Great for gals, too!
Somebody Goofed
jean shop
119 E. College St., Iowa City, Iowa 52240
M-F 10-9; Sat. 10-5:30; Sun. 12-5

Metro/Iowa Drug

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — arrested 105 people in on drug possession in day in what authorities would be a crackdown drug use among small- U.S. Attorney Charles the arrests early Monday people who consider casual users of cocaine.

"This is an effort to sage the close people with themselves mere users of drugs that the major part of this program said at a news conference the arrests drug demand-reduction

Enroll future

By Sara Langenberg
The Daily Iowan

Despite predictions enrollment at Iowa's enrollment at the UI is one-half percent since

After reviewing a study last March, the state Regents projected that enrollments will play three universities over decade. The UI is expected the hardest hit, with decline of 16.3 percent next 10 years.

According to the increasing tuition, strata requirements, special efforts and a general in the number of 18-year-olds cause the predicted decline.

However, UI Registrar Dallam feels that a magnitude projected decline in enrollment some students.

"If we have reduced s

OUR
Newlyweds? A Visit us for DOWNTOWN
101 S. Dubuque

FALL
NAUTICAL
MON
CLUB MEMBER
$250
All member steam room
HOLIDAY

Politics 1988

Third District Congressional Race — Stance on Issues of the Candidates

	Education	Star Wars Funding	Aid to the Contras	Aid to Argolan Rebels	Aid to El Salvador	B-1 Bomber	Tax Increase to Reduce Deficit	Day Care	Equal Rights Amendment	Increase Minority Job Opportunities Quota	Increased Student Aid Grants	Cut Overall Defense Spending to Reduce Deficit	Harkin Farm Bill	Mandatory Import Quotas	Rescinding Gramm-Rudman Act
DAVE NAGLE 45	Univ. of Northern Iowa, UI Law School	Opposes testing and deployment	Opposes	Opposes	Supports	Opposes further funding	Only as a last resort	Favors Dodd Plan, national daycare standards	Favors	May be helpful not always best answer. Favors affirmative action	Favors	Favors	Opposes	Opposes	Favors, wants to see defense cut more
DON REDFERN 43	Carleton College, Columbia University Law School	Opposes testing & deployment, favors research	Opposes military aid, favors humanitarian aid	Supports	Supports	Opposes further funding	Opposes	Favors mixture of tax incentives and financing programs	Favors	Opposes, favors affirmative action	Favors	Favors	Opposes	Opposes	Opposes

The Daily Iowan/Laura Speer

Nagle-Redfern see close race

By James Cahoy
The Daily Iowan

For 52 years, Iowa's 3rd Congressional District was represented by a variety of different congressmen, all of whom shared one characteristic — membership in the Republican party.

First elected during the height of the Great Depression in 1934, the Republicans held onto the seat through three wars, eight presidents and events ranging from civil rights marches to the Watergate hearings. But in 1986, for the first time in a half-century, the district elected a Democrat, Rep. Dave Nagle.

In what many political analysts think could be one of the closer races of the 1988 campaign, Cedar Falls lawyer Don Redfern is trying to stop Nagle from starting a new trend of holding the seat for the Democrats.

Both candidates said they see the race as a clear-cut contest between different views of government.

"It's probably as clear-cut an election as anyone could want," Nagle said. "The question in this election is do we continue the process of change or do we go back? My opponent has advocated a freeze in spending. To freeze would mean to perpetuate growth in defense, cuts in areas such as education. I think that trend has to be reversed."

Redfern has a different view of the situation.

"I think the number one issue in the campaign is the situation in the House of Representatives," he said. "For the past 34 years it has been under the control of the Democratic party, which has made it into a strangle hold of special interest groups. It just can't say no to any budget request. There has to be a change."

There are many similarities between Nagle and Redfern. Both are lawyers by profession and both list their home as Cedar Falls. They agree on several issues, including support of the Equal Rights Amendment, aid to El Salvador and more money for college students in the form of grants.

But they also hold opposing views on a variety of issues, ranging from the Gramm-Rudman act, which Redfern would support and Nagle would like to see repealed, to the MX missile, which Redfern supports and Nagle wants to see canceled.

Nagle said he sees the priorities of the next few years as putting more money into domestic spending and less into military spending. He said he wants to increase educational opportunities, especially in the areas of math, science and engineering, allocate more federal resources to rebuilding the infrastructure and strengthen federal resources to diversify the economy in order to attract more business to the state.

Redfern said he views controlling the deficit as a top priority and criticizes Nagle for voting for expensive government programs he said make the deficit worse.

"He (Nagle) has voted for every major spending bill that has appeared before the Congress," Redfern said. "The Congress has to try harder to get the budget under control. There has been a real failure to come to grips with the future."

Both candidates said they are making special efforts to attract student votes. Nagle cited his efforts in Congress to force the federal government to spend more money on education as one reason students might be attracted to his campaign.

"The elimination of an affordable college education from the middle-class family's budget is a travesty," Nagle said, adding that he wants to see the 1987 levels of Pell Grants and guaranteed student loans restored and a far greater emphasis on federal resources being used for facility building.

Redfern said students' attraction to his campaign would rest mainly on their concern about the future.

"I think a major issue for students in this campaign is going to be the inability of the House to come to grips with the budget deficit," Redfern said. "Students are the ones who are going to carry that deficit on their backs as the future taxpayers of this country."

Both candidates agree on two things about the upcoming campaign — the national presidential campaign will have almost no effect on the outcome, and the college student population in the district will have a tremendous effect.

"I think students are going to decide this race," Redfern said.

County expects increase in voters

By Sara Anderson
The Daily Iowan

The close presidential race will contribute to high Johnson County voter turnout for the Nov. 8 election, according to Johnson County Auditor Tom Slockett.

Slockett, who also serves as Commissioner of Elections in Johnson County, said high political interest and awareness in this area will bring out voters.

"This has always been a very politically aware area, so I expect a high degree of participation in the process," he said.

The level of interest in the election is the primary factor in turning out voters, according to Slockett.

"That (interest) is always highest for a four-year presidential election," he said. "National politics and national choices are always key factors, the ability to vote for a president and vice president."

Iowa Democratic Party Communications Director Don Stanley concurred with Slockett.

"I think a lot of people will be interested in this election because there is a big choice between candidates," Stanley said.

Stanley said although Iowa has traditionally been a Republican state, the tide may be turning.

"I would say that the fact that in 1986, where we won almost all state-wide positions, that is an excellent indication that Iowa is becoming more Democratic," he said.

Stanley said he estimates an Iowa turnout for the election will be around 1.2 or 1.3 million, adding the Iowa Democratic Party leads the Republican Party of Iowa in terms of registered voters.

David Oman, co-chairman of the Republican Party of Iowa, said the intensity of a campaign contributes to the size of voter turnout.

"If it is perceived to be a close election — and I'd put the '88 campaign in that category — usually that contributes to a higher turnout," Oman said. "And in Johnson County, which has always been something of a political hotbed, you'll see good turnout."

But Oman added the lack of a statewide race could hurt Iowa turnout a little.

"I think the interest in the presidential race is higher than in off years, but this is an anomaly not to have a state race, too, which means less paid advertising for the party, so some of the excitement may be missing because of it," Oman said. "Not having one may take a little of the edge off."

Oman said Bush's choice of Sen. Dan Quayle as a running mate will not ultimately damage the ticket or Republican turnout in Iowa.

"Clearly the question raised about his service in the Indiana National Guard has taken some of the luster off of last week's convention. But I feel that will begin to fade away," Oman said. "I think eventually we will get beyond this and back to the actual campaign."

Oman predicted the economy would be a large issue in the election.

"From a UI or Johnson County perspective, lots of people are thinking about things such as the job market and where they're going to be in a couple of years," Oman said. "I'd say they, too, are interested principally in economic issues."

Slockett predicted Gov. Michael Dukakis will win in Johnson County.

"I think just from being a long-time observer of Johnson County politics, I'd be totally amazed if Dukakis did not win here," Slockett said. "Although, for every rule there is an exception, so there's always a possibility of the exception happening. Very few people would have believed it, but Nixon won the popular vote in '60 in Johnson County. People don't believe that, that could have happened against JFK."

Slockett predicted 80 percent of Johnson County's 58,865 voters registered as of Aug. 24 will turn out in November.

About 43 percent (25,163) of the registered voters in Johnson County are Democrats, 20.5 percent (12,069) are Republicans and 36.75 percent (21,633) are not affiliated with either party.

UI professors stress debate importance

By John Bartenhagen
The Daily Iowan

With the presidential race far from decided, the performance of candidates Michael Dukakis and George Bush over the next several months should determine who will occupy the White House for the next four years, according to UI political science professors.

"Because we have two candidates who aren't maybe as well known as some of the other potential candidates, the debates and how they'll be interpreted may well be the critical factor in deciding this election," UI assistant professor of political science Peverill Squire said. "Right now it's difficult to make sense of what we know about the candidates, so I think it will stay unsettled at least until after the first debate."

One factor that could tip the scales prior to the debates is the outcome of controversy surrounding Bush's running mate, Sen. Dan Quayle, R-Ind.

Quayle, heir to part of newspaper publisher Eugene Pulliam's $600 million fortune, has been accused of using the influence of family friends to gain entry to the Indiana National Guard in 1969 at the peak of the Vietnam War.

"Being vice president is a very difficult job — you're not given much responsibility, and you can really make no mark on public policy. . . It's one of those no-win situations," says UI Assistant Professor of Political Science Peverill Squire.

Squire said presidential candidates' running mates usually don't have much impact on the election outside of their home state.

"A vice-presidential pick usually causes quite a stir right away and then fades to insignificance," Squire said.

"But as long as Quayle continues to be the topic of every conversation, it's going to be damaging to the Republican's chances," he added. "Right now, we don't know if there will be anything more out of the Quayle situation. If there is, it can only work against the Bush campaign."

Cary Covington, UI assistant professor of political science said presidential candidates usually pick running mates who give their party ticket ideological and geographical balance.

"Personally, I don't see too many advantages Quayle brings to the race," Covington said. "He is a help to Bush in terms of the conservative wing of the Republican party because Bush, in the last four to eight years, has been somewhat suspect."

Covington said Dukakis' running mate, Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, should attract more of the conservative Democratic vote the Massachusetts governor needs to compete in the Southern states.

"If Dukakis wins Texas, then Bentsen will have served his purpose," he said. "If they can break through in two or three other Southern states, then Bentsen will have a big plus."

Another obstacle Bush must overcome is the history of failure standing vice presidents have experienced in running for president. The last standing vice president to be elected president was Martin Van Buren in 1836.

"In part, it's because being vice president is a very difficult job," Squire said. "You're not given much responsibility, and you can really make no mark on public policy. If you go too far in trying to establish your independence, then you'll be called disloyal, but if you're too loyal then you'll be called what George Will has called Bush — a lap dog. It's one of those no-win situations."

"Being vice president is a big help in winning the party nomination, but it's never really proven to be an advantage in the general election," he said.

Covington said Bush began trying to separate himself from Reagan during the Republican convention in New Orleans.

"We saw that Bush at the convention made an attempt to establish his independence by saying 'We've had eight wonderful years under Reagan, but now it's time for you to get to know me,'" he said. "Bush was trying to create a separate identity for himself."

"Of course, one speech doesn't do it," Covington added. "But even if Bush is not successful in establishing his independence and is still tied to Reagan, it's not all bad for him because of the president's popularity."

1988 elections promise tight local competition

By James Cahoy
The Daily Iowan

Michael Dukakis and George Bush won't be the only people to receive attention from Johnson County voters this fall. Several local races promise to add spice locally to the 1988 campaign season.

One that promises to be an interesting contest is the race for the Iowa City School Board. Three people — two incumbents and a University Heights attorney — are vying for two pen seats on the board.

Lynne Cannon, 920 Hazelwood St., and Francis Malloy, 1023 Kirkwood Court, both incumbents, are up against Alan Leff, 215 Sunset St., University Heights, for the two vacant board seats in the Sept. 13 election.

The board's seven members serve three-year terms and are responsible for funding, policy and hiring in the Iowa City School District.

The only county race being contested in the fall campaign is the race for Johnson County Sheriff, which pits Johnson County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Carpenter against former Iowa City Mayor

Robert Vevera.

Carpenter defeated three challengers in the June 7 Democratic primary — Iowa City Assistant Police Chief Ken Stock, Iowa City policeman Dan Dreckman and former Coralville policeman Steve Snyder — after a hotly contested campaign marked by charges of mudslinging.

Vevera received over 300 votes as a write-in candidate in the primary, which qualified him to be on the November ballot as the Republican candidate.

In the race for the Johnson County Board of Supervisors, all three Democratic candidates — incumbents Dick Myers and Betty Ockenfels and newcomer Charles Duffy — are running unopposed for three open seats on the board. Johnson County Auditor Tom Slockett runs unopposed.

All five local state representatives are also running unopposed in November. They include State Rep. Minette Doderer, D-Iowa City; Rep. Mary Neuhauser, D-Iowa City; Rep. Robert Dvorsky, D-Coralville; Sen. Jean Lloyd-Jones, D-Iowa City; and Sen. Richard Varn, D-Solon.

Politics 1988

Students

By Cathy Jackson
The Daily Iowan

With the 1988 presidential campaign just around the corner, students, even those who never been involved before, are vigorously campaigning for the candidate of their choice.

Some have taken internships in their political party, around the country to get involved. Others attend Republican or Democratic Conventions, and many have much of their free time in Iowa City, organizing meetings, calling prospective voters.

"About 80 percent of our far has been from high college students," State Representative Dave Epley said. "I think students see this campaign as important. They're really stastic. I can see fire in the eye."

Epley said he thinks UI involvement in the Dukakis outnumber student vote in other colleges and universities around the country.

"I really think the UI reputation for having political students as far as doing good," he said.

But student Democrats

Candidates focus on education

By James Cahoy
The Daily Iowan

George Bush says he was known as "the education president."

Michael Dukakis said that administration of President Reagan has "slammed the door" on millions of people wanting college and says higher education must be more of a priority.

One thing that's clear from rhetoric — higher education become a top issue in presidential campaign.

But how do the candidates stand on issues affecting education in America?

The Chronicle of Higher Education published an in-depth look of the candidates' positions on higher education concerns.

The results reveal similarities between the two candidates, but one important stands out — both Dukakis and Bush suggest they will spend more on higher education than Reagan administration.

On specific issues, Dukakis has taken the high ground, according to The Chronicle.

Tuition Costs: Dukakis would increase grants and decrease loans for students also proposes changes in student loan programs. Students would pay the automatically by having payments deducted from their checks in post-graduation.

Bush backs tax breaks for who buy savings bonds to their children's college education. He also says he wants to grant money for students.

Research: Dukakis says shift federal research support to increase the financing of military research, but he specified the degree of the wants agricultural research focus on ways to find new agricultural products.

FUTONS

Sleep on cotton!
Easy to care for! Easy to use!
Easy on the pocket book!
Easy to move!

PLENTY IN STOCK
Many colors, patterns, prints styles and sizes!

NO WAITING SAME DAY DELIVERY

Futons	69 ⁹⁵ and up
Frames	129 ⁹⁵ and up

BUYER BEWARE! Futon sellers in Iowa City have come and gone. We've been here since way back in '77.

WHOLEARTH

706 S. Dubuque • 354-6000 • (4 Blocks So. of Holiday Inn — Across the R.R. Tracks)

Easy Free Parking

OUR PRICES ARE DOWN TO EARTH

OPEN DAILY
M-F 9-6:00
Sat. 9-5:30
Sun. 12-4:30

NEW SESSIONS STARTING TUESDAY, SEPT. 6

$35⁰⁰

Semester Dues
New & Continuing Members

Certified Korean Master Instructor

FREE DEMONSTRATIONS
Tuesday, Aug. 30 and Thursday, Sept. 1
6:00 pm
S507 Field House
—Open to public—

An Art for Lifell

Club meets Tues., Thurs., Fri.
S507 Field House
5:00 Children, All Ranks
6:00 Adult Advanced
7:00 Adult Beginners
Saturday, 11:00—All Ranks

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 353-4284 or 354-3754

U OF I MASTERS TAE KWON DO CLUB

SELECTED STYLES
NOW $10.
WHILE THEY LAST!

100's to choose from!

Register for $100
Prices good thru Sept. 3

Politics 1988

Students campaign for national candidates

By Cathy Jackson
The Daily Iowan

With the 1988 presidential campaign just around the corner, UI students, even those who have never been involved in politics before, are vigorously campaigning for the candidate of their choice.

Some have taken internships with their political party, traveling around the country to get people involved. Others attended the Republican or Democratic National Conventions, and many have spent much of their free time in Iowa City, organizing meetings and calling prospective voters.

"About 80 percent of our help so far has been from high school or college students," State Democratic Voters Program Coordinator Dave Epley said. "I think these students see this campaign as very important. They're really enthusiastic. I can see fire in their eyes."

Epley said he thinks UI students involved in the Dukakis campaign outnumber student volunteers at other colleges and universities around the country.

"I really think the UI has a reputation for having passionate students as far as doing political work," he said.

But student Democrats aren't the only ones who are passionate about the upcoming election.

Johnson County Republican Headquarters Office Manager Carol Gundrum said returning UI students are already expressing interest in helping with the Bush campaign.

"It's really amazing. Students care about what's going on," Gundrum said. "It's going to be their world we're affecting."

UI Students For Dukakis Co-Chair Skip Jensen said he got involved in the campaign because he thinks the issues facing the nominees this year are critically important.

"In order to change things, the American voter has got to get involved and get out there," said Jensen, who took an internship with the Democratic National Field Staff last semester. "Students really can make the difference, they really can be the swing vote."

Jensen said over the summer the group set up voter registration and information tables in the Union, held several car washes to raise money and had weekly organizational meetings. He and three other UI students also attended the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta.

"Through working just this summer, we've signed up over 650 students supporting Dukakis," Jensen said. "Our goal is to get one-fourth of the student population — between 5,000 and 7,000 — to sign up."

Although the campaign for Bush at the UI is just getting started this fall, Victory '88 Chairman Tom Cope said he thinks student Bush supporters have a good plan for reaching the student body.

"We're hitting hard on the Greek houses and residence halls," Cope said. "Campuses are a good place to get votes. We plan to go all out, we're going to be well-organized in the areas we focus on. We want to win the campus not only for Bush, but for (U.S. Congressional candidate Don) Redfern, too."

Cope worked for the National George Bush For President campaign in Des Moines last year and said he learned everything from making a campaign effective to how to work with people.

"I really enjoyed working with the Bush campaign, but there's a lot of stress involved. It takes a lot out of you," Cope said. "When I got back from the campaign I had gained 40 pounds."

UI sophomore Kati Ray, from Winnetka, Ill., tapes up a stencil on the front door of the Johnson County Republican Headquarters at 10 S. Clinton Street.

She is just one of many UI students who have volunteered to work on the 1988 Presidential campaigns.

Candidates focus on education

By James Cahoy
The Daily Iowan

George Bush says he wants to be known as "the education president."

Michael Dukakis said the administration of President Ronald Reagan has "slammed the door in the face of millions" wanting to go to college and says higher education must be more of a priority in the future.

One thing that's clear from all the rhetoric — higher education has become a top issue in the 1988 presidential campaign.

But how do the candidates really stand on issues affecting higher education in America? Recently, The Chronicle of Higher Education published an in-depth look at some of the candidates' positions on higher education concerns.

The results reveal similarities and differences between the candidates, but one important point stands out — both Dukakis and Bush suggest they will spend more on higher education than has the Reagan administration.

On specific issues, Dukakis and Bush have taken the following positions in regard to higher education, according to The Chronicle:

Tuition Costs: Dukakis says he would increase grants and decrease loans for student aid. He also proposes changes in federal student loan programs so that students would pay their debts automatically by having prescribed sums deducted from their paychecks in post-graduation jobs.

Bush backs tax breaks for parents who buy savings bonds to finance their children's college education. He also says he wants to increase grant money for students.

Research: Dukakis says he would shift federal research support to increase the financing of non-military research, but he has not specified the degree of the shift. He wants agricultural research to focus on ways to find new uses for agricultural products.

Michael Dukakis

George Bush

Bush says the federal government should spend more on scientific research and stimulate increased private support from research by making permanent the tax credit that businesses receive for spending money on research and development. He also wants to reduce paperwork of researchers who receive federal funds.

Minority Students: Dukakis says he would be more active than the Reagan administration in taking action against colleges that violate civil-rights laws.

Bush says he will take an active role in encouraging more people from minority groups to enroll in college, but has not been specific on what he will do.

Democrats control area politics

By Heather Maher
The Daily Iowan

Local leaders of the Democratic and Republican Parties in Johnson County may not agree on much else, but they do concur on one point — if you want to get elected in Johnson County, you have to run as a Democrat.

As the historical records of past elections show, for the past 25 years Democratic candidates for elected office have regularly fared better in Johnson County than have Republican candidates. Since 1963, every elected official in the county, except the sheriff and the clerk of court, has been a Democrat.

UI political science professor Russell Ross, who has been studying Iowa politics and voter behavior for more than 40 years, said many politicians who aspire to elected office in Johnson County have even switched tickets — from Republican to Democrat — because they believe it's the only way they can get elected.

According to Ross, candidates know campaigning as a Republican would be a tremendous battle, so they change their party affiliation.

"It's difficult to get a candidate to run as a Republican, even if the spot is open, because they realize they're at a big disadvantage," said Ross. "This has certainly contributed to the Johnson County Democratic Party's success. It's pointless to bang your head against the wall."

Sue Thompson, a member of the Republican State Central Committee, said she has lived under the Democratic shadow for almost one-quarter of a century.

"In my 23 years here, only one Republican representative to the state house has been elected from the three districts that cover Johnson County," she said.

According to Johnson County Auditor Tom Slockett, voter registration for Democrats in this county is twice that of the Republicans.

"The rule of thumb for registration that has held true almost without exception in the past is 40 percent Democratic, 40 percent independent and 20 percent Republican," he said.

Slockett said the real advantage for the Democrats comes from the registered independents who tend to vote Democratic, adding that several reasons for this voting behavior exist.

"The Democratic party has traditionally supported education and we are one of the best educated and politically aware groups of people not only in Iowa, but in the entire country," Slockett said.

"There is a tremendous diversity of views here in Johnson County," he added. "We have wide experience with people from the rest of the world and as a result we have a sophisticated population making decisions based on their progressive world view. We have a large Czech population that tends to vote Democratic, and an enormous number of state and federal employees who generally fare better under a Democratic administration."

Ross agrees the presence of the UI plays a large role in making the population progressive and Democrat-oriented, but he offered a slightly different political analysis as to the main reason voters favor Democrats here.

"The number one reason why Johnson County is a Democratic county is because there are a lot of Catholics and the Catholic population usually identifies itself with the Democrats," said Ross.

Ross said two other heavily Catholic Iowa counties are also overwhelmingly Democratic — Carroll County and Dubuque County. He explained the religious relationship by pointing out the standard Democratic platform and its traditional appeal to the Roman Catholic Church.

"The Democrats have the image of supporting organized labor, the image of supporting education — which is a very important issue here — and the image of being willing to support social programs," he said.

State Rep. Minnette Doderer, D-Iowa City, who has been in the Iowa House of Representatives for 10 years, the Iowa Senate for five years and active in Johnson County politics for more than 20, said it's not possible to point to any one characteristic about Johnson County that makes it sympathetic to the Democratic platform.

"If Johnson County is anything, we are a thinking bunch of voters who look at the issues," Doderer said. "One party isn't always right and the healthy thing is when they're both strong because it takes a good strong vocal opposition to keep the dominant party in check."

A great deal of split-ticket voting goes on in Johnson County, according to local election officials, and straight-ticket voting is not a characteristic of local voter behavior.

Doderer said during her political career, many Republicans have told her they voted for her despite their party loyalties.

Johnson County Supervisor Robert Burns, a Democrat, said he thinks the presence of Democratic county officials has resulted in strong support for the UI and pronounced support for social programs among county Democrats.

Democrats solicit voter registrations

By Sara Anderson
The Daily Iowan

If you were one of the thousands of UI students waiting in line Monday — any line, be it at the bookstore, Calvin Hall or the advising center — you might have unexpectedly registered to vote.

"We registered 750 people today," said Dave Epley, state Democratic voter program coordinator for Johnson County.

"We were at the Union, at Calvin and on the Pentacrest and had people with clipboards going down the line asking students, 'Are you registered to vote?'"

Epley said that approximately 95 percent of those registered were students, and that most of those who registered were Democrats.

"We did issue both Democratic and Republican cards," said Epley. "But since we really are trying to help Dukakis, we tried to only accept the registered Democrats and we asked those who were Republican to mail their cards themselves."

Both the Republicans and Democrats have booths in the Union, where anyone can get a registration card and thus be eligible to vote in the November elections.

Tom Cope, the Republican chairman for Victory '88, which is the Bush-Quayle student group, said the Republicans are also busy getting out the vote this week.

"We had a table today in the Union and we registered about 400 students down there, and we'll be down there the rest of the week," said Cope.

Cope said Republican students took both Democrats and Republican registration. Cope added the Victory '88 students would be targeting Greek houses and football ticket lines for more registrations in the future.

"We're going to do a lot of things to register voters," he said. "We're going to hit the football lines where students are picking up their tickets, as well as sorority and fraternity houses where more people tend to be Republican."

Epley said UI students who come from other counties or states are able to vote in Johnson County by simply filling out a registration card.

"Any students that will live here in November, including dorms, fraternities and sororities or apartments can register to vote here," he said.

Most students don't want to go through the hassle of calling up their home courthouses and asking for absentee ballots, according to Epley, so they just register here for convenience.

OVERCOATS
LARGEST SELECTION OF ANYONE

SELECTED STYLES NOW $10.00 WHILE THEY LAST

ALL OVERCOATS $20-$60

100's to choose from!

Register for $100 Prices good thru Sept. 3

207 East Washington (Below Godfather's Pizza) 338-2553

AGSTOCK

"A DIFFERENT KIND OF CLOTHING STORE"

M & Th 10-9 T, W, F 10-8 Sat 10-5:30 Sun 12-5

The Men of Alpha Epsilon Pi cordially invite the men and women of The University of Iowa to attend our fall

BACK TO SCHOOL LITTLE SISTER/MEN'S INFORMAL RUSH PARTY

Thursday, September 1, 1988
8:00-11:00 pm
339 N. Riverside
(on the hill across from Hancher)
PLEASE R.S.V.P. 354-9847

Viewpoints

© 1988 Student Publications Inc.

Volume 121 No. 41

Editor/Chris Lamb
Managing editor/Joseph Levy
University editor/John Bartenhagen
City editor/Sara Anderson
News editor/Suzanne McBride
Editorial page editor/John Golden
Nation/world editor/Paul Stolt

Sports editor/Brent Woods
Arts/entertainment editor/Steve Donoghue
Freelance editor/Jay Casini
Photography editor/Todd Mizener
Graphics editors/
Rod Faccio
Laura Speer

Publisher/William Casey
Business Manager/Marlea Fecht
Advertising manager/Jim Leonard
Assistant advertising manager/Cathy
Classified ads manager/Maxine Elcher
Circulation manager/Francis R. Lalor
Day production manager/Gene Dieken
Night production manager/Robert Foley

Briefly

from DI wire services

W. Germany sus

RAMSTEIN, West Germany — Military air shows Monday exhibition that killed 46 critical burns battled for Sunday's tragedy at the described as the worst air were burned beyond recognition on a low-level stunt flight in a ball of flame. The identities of the Americans were critically

S. Africa plans co

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Invaded and withdrawn plans to complete a pullout military said. The government is set to South West Africa-Angola South African forces that 1987.

Tickets remain u

SEOUL, South Korea — Sporting events remain U.S. Games begin, the organizers. For the opening ceremony buyers are offering up to reports. Nearly 1 million ceremony tickets put on could buy them. In all, 4.5 million tickets 10,000 athletes from 161 About 4 million of the tickets 51 percent of those are go

Ex-Marine barric

VANCOUVER, Wash. himself in historic Fort Vancouver said was a lack of help for quietly in exchange for The man, who identified police and FBI agents see 15-foot wall and after he from replica cannons. Rose said he had engaged he agreed with an FBI ne be pointless. He said he that he used to fire off th "Veterans in this coun pride," Rose, of the Tillam disgrace to see them sleep emotional, psychological (those facing) any other s "I feel that what we ne own, run by veterans, not get them back to the Quoted . . .

It was great to be able to — Lambda Chi President day on conducting this year the newly reconstructed page 4A.

Are You Ready Stop Smoking

If you are, call 338-9775.

- Individual counseling by
- Medically endorsed program
- Free consultation.

WEIGHT & WELLNESS MANAGEMENT
2403 Townsend Ln. • Iowa City
338-9775

Major Credit Cards Accepted
Owned and Operated by RN's

Your Family DRUG STORE

Now Open For You All Warm

Old Style 24-12 oz. cans $6.66 plus

Reason enough

Insurance agents call them "accidents waiting to happen." Transplant surgeons call them "donors." Taxpayers are beginning to call them "burdens." And Iowa Department of Transportation officials are once again beginning to call their bluff.

The "them" in each of the above sentences are motorcyclists, primarily those who refuse to wear helmets. Motorcycle pressure groups claim that to force riders to wear helmets infringes upon their personal freedom.

Fatalities among motorcyclists are on the increase. Last month, 15 motorcyclists lost their lives on Iowa's roads. None were wearing helmets. From Sept. 1, 1975, to June 30, 1976, Iowa had a mandatory helmet law. During this time motorcycle fatalities fell from 30.3 per 100,000 to 22.5 per 100,000.

Fifteen motorcyclists doesn't sound like a great loss. Neither does the 42 who have died since January. If motorcyclists want to gamble with their lives that's their business.

But when the cost of medical care for victims becomes excessive, according to DOT officials, then it's ours. Taxpayers often end up paying for the care victims need. Maintaining the existence of self-induced vegetables who either happen to live through the trauma of a motorcycle crash or linger on in comas should not be the main reason for enacting a mandatory law — it should be the only reason. While it should not be the province of government to legislate common sense, in some cases, the common good outweighs the right of a minority to exercise their lack of common sense.

Paul Stolt
Nation/World Editor

Disgraceful bow

By now, most people are familiar with the ongoing controversy surrounding the Martin Scorsese film titled "The Last Temptation of Christ." The fight has been prompted by right-wing fundamentalists who feel that the film's portrayal of Christ is antithetical to the biblical depiction of their savior. Blasphemous, sacrilegious and slanderous is the movie, say those applying pressure to theater owners across the country. They call for the movie's ban.

On the other side of the fence sit those who advocate that the movie's relative worth, accuracy and merits should be judged by the individual viewer — not by a group whose staunchly conservative and literal evaluation of the Bible inherently skews its perception of the film.

The problem created by the differing views is twofold in nature. To begin with, what is seen is an attempt by a relatively well-orchestrated group of religious zealots passing judgment on a film and then expecting private business to deny others the opportunity to view the film because of their condemnation.

Secondly, the very theater owners who are seemingly wilting under this organized pressure are doing an incredible disservice to their viewing patrons as well as the movie industry with which it so closely works. Not only are the theater owners bowing to the fundamentalist's outcry, some are seizing the opportunity to practice their own form of censorship and moral standard-setting.

Both problems are serious. The theater owners who, at this time, have the final say in whether the public will be given the opportunity to see the movie, have an obligation to their customers and their businesses. Also, there is the threat that this spineless response to the concerted efforts of the religious right will encourage further demands for censorship.

John Golden
Editorial Page Editor

Democratic principles

Vice President George Bush has recently attempted to cast doubt on Michael Dukakis's patriotism by criticizing Dukakis' veto of a Massachusetts bill that would have made it mandatory for teachers to lead their classes in the pledge of allegiance. Bush's action is a cheap political shot and merely points out that Dukakis, and not Bush, is the presidential candidate who truly understands the principles of American democracy.

Bush's press secretary, Sheila Tate, told NBC news last week, "We wonder what it is about the pledge of allegiance that makes Dukakis so uncomfortable." Certainly it is not the pledge itself which bothers Dukakis, but rather the unconstitutionality of the government compelling millions of schoolchildren to take an oath of allegiance. As long ago as 1943, the U.S. Supreme Court, citing the First Amendment, ruled unconstitutional a mandatory pledge law. Yet George Bush proudly maintains that he would have signed the bill vetoed by Dukakis.

Such a blatant non-comprehension of Constitutional principles, all the time cloaked as patriotism, clearly shows that George Bush does not have a proper understanding of the concept of "liberty and justice for all," which the pledge of allegiance promises. The liberty spoken of in the pledge includes freedom of opinion, which includes the freedom of expressing one's own opinions and not being compelled by law to recite an oath of loyalty.

In the pledge of allegiance issue, Dukakis is actually showing the greater defense of American liberties by resisting Bush's attempts to compel loyalty and legislate patriotism. Under the Constitution, anti-patriotic sentiments need not be liked, but they must be tolerated as long as they do not endanger the lives or liberties of other people. To do otherwise would be to make the United States a country which does not tolerate dissent.

John Nichols
Editorial Writer

Opinions expressed on the Viewpoints page of The Daily Iowan are those of the signed author. The Daily Iowan, as a non-profit corporation, does not express opinions on these matters.

The 'right' seeks to censor film

Martin Scorsese's controversial film, "The Last Temptation of Christ," will likely not be seen here in Iowa City because of pressure from right-wing fundamentalist sects — both Christian and Catholic, who are part of a national movement to censor the film. Tactics to prevent the public from viewing this film have ranged from attempts to buy the film outright from the distributor so it can be destroyed to public demonstrations. The main concern of the protesters seems to be that Christ is portrayed as more human than they feel is biblically true. The majority of protesters have not seen the film, so one may ask on what are they basing their organized outrage?

Before answering that question directly, it may be helpful to put this religious/political movement in perspective. The Moral Majority came to national attention when they claimed Ronald Reagan as their leader in 1980. He made "their" agenda "his" agenda: outlawing women's rights to a safe, legal abortion; allowing prayer in public schools; undermining hard-won civil, social and environmental laws under the guise of getting government off our backs and putting so-called Bible-based principles in their place. They are nothing if not ambitious.

The leaders of this loosely knit, but fervent group tend to be the flamboyant televangelists like Jerry Falwell, but their followers tend to be the people who live next door to your parents. Individually they, like all of us, are struggling to make sense out of a changing world where events often feel out of our control. Their response to the feeling that the evils of the world are too much to face alone, is to seek a haven of refuge where they are told that the devil causes all their problems. Even better that they are given pat answers to every question. The price of admission to paradise is the suspension of their right to think for themselves. But that is exactly what they are seeking. What we end up with is a match made in heaven; leaders who want to control the hearts and minds of their followers and followers who want to abdicate the difficult task of being personally responsible for their lives.

Diane Kaufman

Now if you were a politically ambitious "shepherd" with a growing flock, what would you do to keep the money rolling in and your power base growing? If you are a right-wing fundamentalist, you use the tried and true method of hate mongering. These are the people who have given new meaning to the word scapegoat. Their tactics are simple: They find a target to blame for the fears their members have, ask for money to fight this scapegoat and incite their flocks to action. This provides money for the leaders and the illusion of control for the followers.

Afraid of the freedom of sexual expression? Let's get the homosexuals. Worried that your wife might get ideas in her head about equality, or that your husband might be attracted to a liberated woman? Let's get those feminists. Feminists have been a favorite target not only for their pro-choice stance on abortion, but because they resist the hierarchic agenda of the right that reads; God, man, woman. Feel threatened by someone who holds differing religious views? Jew baiting is an oldie but a goodie. And as a last resort, when the same old bugaboos aren't as much fun as they use to be, there are always the intellectuals and artists to bash because they ask all of us to think for ourselves — and that is the biggest fear of all.

It is here that the right-wing fundamentalists meet Martin Scorsese. Why are these people so rabidly opposed to letting us see "The Last Temptation of Christ?" Essentially, it is their fear we hear. They are frightened people who do not want their view of the world challenged. It begs the issue to say "Hey, so don't go see the movie . . ." The insidious part of this movement is that it's members aren't happy just living their restricted lives, doing good deeds and living in Christian humility. They also want to enforce their views on us and will go to great lengths — including bombing abortion clinics — to accomplish this goal.

What is their goal? For all of us to be like them; only then can they be really safe.

How the film, "The Last Temptation of Christ," portrays Jesus is not the point. The issue is their attempt to prevent us from making up our own minds about the film's merits. O ye of little faith in your fellow beings. The truth shall set us free. But I don't find that the truth comes in a package TV offer made by Jerry Falwell. If you are really worried about Jesus getting a bum rap, why not look closer to home at the sleazy evangelical leaders who hide behind Jesus skirts everytime they get caught with their hands in the till of someone else's pants. Is it your imagination, or does this really a very effective method for keeping the faithful from looking too closely at their all-too-human leaders? After a year's session of exposes on the Bakkers, Jimmy Swaggart, and nauseum they really needed a whipping boy to distract the trust and file.

Unfortunately, their internal problems are interfering with our First Amendment rights. The right-wing fundamentalists have the right to exert their political pressure where they choose, as long as it is within the boundaries of our legal system, and that is what they're doing. But in that process, they are depriving the public of access to a film by frightening theater chains with economic boycotts and pickets. They haven't been that effective in the political arena on the issues of abortion and school prayer, to name two, so perhaps the theater owners are too easily giving in to a mouse that roars.

The theater owners who have bowed to this bullying might ask themselves if they want to encourage this kind of behavior by caving in to it, or if the fundamentalists stay away in droves is that really going to hurt the box office? If I owned a theater I would be mad as hell that some zealots were trying to infringe on the public's First Amendment rights. As a moviegoer, I know I am.

Diane Kaufman is an Iowa City resident who wrote this article for the Viewpoints page. Her columns will appear periodically.

The Daily Iowan/Joseph Sharp

Revealing hypocritical natures

The selection of Dan Quayle as the Republican's vice-presidential nominee brings back the hypocrisies of the Vietnam War era.

During the Vietnam War era many people acted honestly based on sincerely held beliefs. Those who sincerely opposed the war filed for conscientious objector status, protested the war or fled the United States for Canada or Sweden.

Many protesters made one very big mistake. In their zeal to register their disgust with the war, they performed tasks such as burning the flag or their draft cards or vandalizing property. This disrespect shown toward the rights of others and the symbols and obligations of American society turned off many would-be opponents of the war.

Those who sincerely supported the war joined up or got drafted and went to Vietnam to fight.

My argument, with the exception of some of the more blatantly stupid and destructive behavior exhibited, is not with people in either camp. My argument is with the hypocrites. Dan Quayle is one, but he was far from alone.

From all accounts, Quayle, now the junior senator from Indiana, was supportive of the war in his youth. Over the past 12 years in the House of Representatives and the Senate he has a record of supporting aid to the Contras, the Strategic Defense Initiative and the Reagan defense build-up. The man is hawkish.

John Dornfeld

But when he had a chance to back up his beliefs, to put his money where his mouth was, he blinked, he walked away.

In late 1968 President Lyndon Johnson decided against calling up any more National Guard units for duty in Vietnam. After that it was pretty clear the National Guard was a respectable way to keep your hide out of Vietnam. Quayle joined the National Guard in 1969.

Saying this does not impugn the reputation of the National Guard. The National Guard was, and still is, a fine organization. The people in it are very dedicated to this country.

But if Quayle was hypocritical for joining the Guard, many of the people now criticizing him have their own hypocrisies concerning the Vietnam War.

Many opponents of that war saw themselves as sincere liberals, strong backers of the civil rights movement, strong backers of higher social welfare spending.

Many of these people were attending college not in any lust to learn, but because students were granted deferments. These deferments protected college students from being called into the war effort.

If that wasn't enough, draft counseling offices existed on many campuses to inform students of other means available to evade the draft. These means included having sympathetic surgeons overstate disabilities a person may have or using family connections (as Quayle did) to respectably stay out of combat.

You may say "That's OK, these people opposed the war and they used the system to keep themselves out."

There's more to it than that. Because these sincere, nice liberals used these means, a disproportionate share of the fighting and dying in that war fell on the backs of those who didn't have such advantages. Poor people, blacks and Hispanics didn't like the war anymore than anyone else did, but because they didn't have the connections or access to college education they had little choice but to serve.

Robert F. Kennedy, at that time a senator from New York and an opponent of the war, used to point this out in early 1968 while he was campaigning for the presidency. This is why college students of that era backed Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy for president during the Democratic primary season instead of Kennedy.

So what does all this have to do with today? The supporters of the war who served and those who opposed the war but still served should be very highly respected today. As should those who paid an ultimate price by leaving the United States or by becoming conscientious objectors. They backed up their sincerely held beliefs with action.

Those who protested and used every means to make sure someone else went should have their consciences rouged up. They are liberal, open-minded people, by their actions, felt that if anyone had to die, then it was better that the person be less fortunate, poorer or of a different skin color. Nice liberals indeed.

But the worst were people such as Quayle — war wimps. They strongly supported the war effort. Yet when it came for them to serve their country, to put their ideas into action, they made the same decision as the nice liberals. During the Vietnam War these people decided it was better that those less fortunate than themselves should sacrifice for the war.

This is hypocrisy at its worst.

John Dornfeld's column appears periodically on the Viewpoints page.

Briefly

from DI wire services

W. Germany suspends military air shows

RAMSTEIN, West Germany — West Germany suspended military air shows Monday following the fiery crash at an aviation exhibition that killed 46 people. Scores of others who suffered critical burns battled for their lives.

Sunday's tragedy at the U.S. Air Force Base in Ramstein was described as the worst air show crash involving spectators. Some were burned beyond recognition when three Italian jets collided on a low-level stunt flight and one of them hurtled into the crowd in a ball of flame.

The identities of the dead were not released, but at least 11 Americans were critically burned.

S. Africa plans complete Angolan withdrawal

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — South Africa, which has invaded and withdrawn from Angola several times since 1975, plans to complete a pullout from the war-torn country today, the military said.

The government is set to fly journalists to Rundu, a town on the South West Africa-Angola border, to witness the withdrawal of South African forces that have been inside Angola since early 1987.

Tickets remain unsold for Seoul Olympics

SEOUL, South Korea — About one-half the tickets to Olympics sporting events remain unsold less than three weeks before the Games begin, the organizers said Monday.

For the opening ceremonies on Sept. 17, however, desperate buyers are offering up to $4,000 for $200 seats, according to news reports. Nearly 1 million people applied for the 20,000 opening ceremony tickets put on sale locally, and a lottery decided who could buy them.

In all, 4.5 million tickets are being sold to watch more than 10,000 athletes from 161 nations compete for 237 gold medals. About 4 million of the tickets are being sold in South Korea, and 51 percent of those are gone. The rest are being sold overseas.

Ex-Marine barricades himself in fort

VANCOUVER, Wash. — A homeless ex-Marine barricaded himself in historic Fort Vancouver on Monday to protest what he said was a lack of help for troubled Vietnam veterans, then gave up quietly in exchange for a chance to talk to reporters.

The man, who identified himself as Ken Rose, 40, surrendered to police and FBI agents seven hours after he scaled the fortress' 15-foot wall and after he fired several apparently harmless shots from replica cannons.

Rose said he had enough provisions to stay two weeks, but that he agreed with an FBI negotiator who told him to hold out would be pointless. He said he was unarmed except for black powder that he used to fire off the cannons.

"Veterans in this country paid their dues. They served with pride," Rose, of the Tillamook, Ore., area, told reporters. "It's a disgrace to see them sleeping on the sidewalk. They face a lot of emotional, psychological and physical problems that are unlike (those facing) any other segment of the population in America."

"I feel that what we need to do is set up a recovery place of our own, run by veterans, not by bureaucrats, so we could treat them and get them back to the right way of thinking."

Quoted . . .

It was great to be able to rush out of the house again. — Lambda Chi President Tom Marshall, commenting Monday on conducting this year's UI Greek Formal Rush week from the newly reconstructed Lambda Chi Alpha house. See story, page 4A.

Nation/World

OAS panel probes Haitian allegations

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — An independent team on Monday began probing widespread reports of killings, police brutality and other human rights abuses linked to the military regime of Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy.

The four-member panel represents the International Commission on Human Rights of the Organization of American States.

It has announced no agenda for the five-day investigation, but the OAS office in Haiti said it has government authorization to "freely interview in private persons, groups, entities or institutions . . . without fear of any reprisals."

Members of the team arrived Sunday night and are to report to the next session of the OAS General Assembly on Nov. 14, the statement said. The report is expected to influence future Haiti policy of member nations of the OAS, a Western Hemisphere group based in Washington.

The United States, Canada,

France, West Germany and some other nations have suspended aid to Haiti because of the aborted election last November. The vote was canceled a few hours after the polls opened because gangs of thugs, often joined by soldiers, killed at least 34 people.

This is the first mission to Haiti by the OAS human rights commission since January 1987, when Namphy led a provisional government set up after President Jean-Claude Duvalier fled to France on Feb. 7, 1986, ending a 29-year family dictatorship.

Namphy relinquished power on the second anniversary of Duvalier's flight, but returned to power in a bloodless coup June 19 that ousted the 4-month-old civilian government of President Leslie Manigat. More than a dozen Manigat followers were held for several weeks without charges in the prison-fortress Fort Dimanche.

A day after seizing power, Namphy declared himself president and abolished the legislature. A month later he suspended the constitution, which 99 percent of Haitian voters approved in a March 1987 referendum, but pledged to respect liberties Haitians won with the end of the Duvalier regime.

Henri Namphy

Jean-Claude Bajeux, a human rights leader, said in an interview Sunday the rights violations are directly related to suspension of the constitution.

"Anything can happen, for there is no law or law enforcement in Haiti," he said.

Ortega extends cease-fire

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega Monday extended a five-month cease-fire with Nicaraguan rebels until the end of September.

He also called on the presidents of El Salvador, Costa Rica, Guatemala and Honduras to resume talks on a Central American peace plan. Ortega and the four other presidents last met in January.

"The Nicaraguan government extends until September 30th the halt to offensive military operations . . . so the rebels can put down their arms and accept amnesty," Ortega said in a speech to a group of Indian leaders in Managua.

The rebels, known as Contras, and the Sandinista government first agreed to a cease-fire on March 21. Two days later they signed a pact agreeing to negotiate an end to the 7-year-old war.

Ortega's extension was the fourth of a formal 60-day truce that took effect April 1. The U.S.-backed Contras said in June they would observe the cease-fire indefinitely.

Both sides have accused the other of violating the truce.

A series of political talks to negotiate a permanent cease-fire and pave the way for a peace settlement broke off June 9.

Under the regional peace plan signed by the five Central American presidents in August 1987, the Contras would lay down their arms in exchange for concrete democratic measures by the Sandinistas.

There were these other developments:

• Two Nicaraguan politicians left Managua Monday and went to Miami to discuss with Contra leaders the release of political prisoners.

Erick Ramirez and Mauricio Diaz are members of the National Reconciliation Commission set up under last year's peace plan.

• The archbishop of Managua, Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo, in an interview broadcast on the Vatican City's radio station, said human rights violations are continuing in Nicaragua despite the cease-fire.

Americans, Britons may be freed; Iran deals for hostage information

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran wants foreign hostages in Lebanon freed, but when it might happen is not clear, a Church of England emissary said Monday.

Bishop John Brown said he was in Beirut to investigate the fate of four missing Iranians so Tehran would use its influence with pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem extremists who hold foreign captives.

"The impression one gets very much is that the Iranians are very anxious to have the hostage situation taken right off their agenda," said Brown, who is the Anglican bishop of Cyprus, based in Nicosia.

Eighteen foreigners now are held in Lebanon, among them nine Americans and three Britons. They include Anglican church envoy Terry Waite and Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, who was kidnapped March 16, 1985, and is the foreign hostage held longest.

Asked whether Waite and the others would be freed soon, the bishop said: "I have no feeling about the timing of it. I feel he (Waite) will be released, but I have no knowledge of the timing."

Brown arrived Sunday from Iran on his second visit to Lebanon in a month as representative of Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, spiritual head of the Church of England and leader of the world's Anglicans. He spoke in a telephone interview with The AP.

On Sunday, Brown spent an hour with Patriarch Mar Nasrallah Butros Sfeir, spiritual head of Lebanon's Maronite Catholics, the main Christian sect.

"When I came the first time a month ago I was asking questions about four Iranian hostages," Brown said. "This time I really came back to ask the same people, especially the Maronite leadership, if there are any answers."

The bishop said he had some leads, but would not elaborate.

He seeks information on four Iranians who disappeared while driving in the Christian heartland north of Beirut after Israel's 1982 invasion of Lebanon: Revolutionary Guards commander Ahmad Motevaselian, Charge d'Affaires Mohsen Musavi, Kazem Akhavan of Iran's official news agency and their driver, a Lebanese with an Iranian passport.

Hashemi Rafsanjani, speaker of Iran's parliament and its military commander, has promised to help free British hostages if the Church of England learns the fate of the missing Iranians.

"I would like to know from the Christian elements in Beirut whether or not there are any Iranian hostages alive at all," Brown said. "This would be an enormous help for us."

Are You Ready To Stop Smoking?

If you are, call 338-9775.

- Individual counseling by appt.
- Medically endorsed program.
- Free consultation.

WEIGHT & WELLNESS MANAGEMENT
2403 Townsend Ln. - Iowa City, IA
338-9775

Major Credit Cards Accepted
Owned and Operated by RNY's

The New York Times

Free copies available all week long at the Airliner.

Campus Delivery Mon.-Fri.
Home Delivery on Sunday

Send checks to:
Douglas Rolling/NY Times
P.O. Box 8805
Iowa City, IA 52244

FALL SUBSCRIPTION SPECIALS:
Sept. 5-Dec. 16 at 25¢/day is $17.75 (M-F)
Sept. 11-Dec. 11 at $2.50/Sunday copy is $32.50
(No delivery Nov. 22-27) $50.25 Total

READERS BECOME LEADERS

Your Family Store

DRUG TOWN

DRUGTOWN NO. 1
Southside • Highway 6 Bypass
Store Phone: 354-2544
Pharmacy: 354-7121

DRUGTOWN NO. 2
Northside • 1221 N. Dodge
Store Phone: 337-6424
Pharmacy: 337-6310

Now Open 7 am to Midnight Daily
For Your Shopping Convenience!
All Warm Beer Sold at 5% Over Cost or Less!

Old Style Beer
24-12 oz. cans
$6.66 plus deposit

Miller Lite Beer
24-12 oz. cans
$8.99 plus deposit

UNIVERSITY BOOK STORE ORIENTATION: 101
(Section 1) Fall, 1988

COURSE OBJECTIVE:
To increase the student's awareness of the University Book Store and the services it provides.

COURSE OUTLINE: CONVENIENCE
Located in the Iowa Memorial Union, the University Book Store is your one-stop shopping store. You can purchase your textbooks and choose from an extensive line of electronic, computer, and school supplies as well as a wide selection of apparel items.

SECURED BACK PACK CHECK
Provided for your protection. It ensures the safety of your belongings while you're in the store.

ASSISTANCE
Friendly and experienced staff members are located throughout the store and are eager to assist you.

EASY CHARGING
No hassle, no waiting. Charge your textbooks and other supplies on your student, staff, or faculty ID, VISA, American Express, or MasterCard.

QUICK CHECK-OUT
An increased staff means short check-out lines and minimal waiting.

USED BOOKS
Looking for a break on the cost of your books? Many used textbooks are available at reduced costs.

ATTENDANCE
Attendance is mandatory. There will be no excused absences.

OFFICE HOURS:
Monday - Thursday 8:00 a.m. - 8:00 p.m.
Friday 8:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Saturday 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Sunday 12:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.

GOOD LUCK AND HAVE A GREAT YEAR!

University Book Store
Iowa Memorial Union • The University of Iowa

Nation/World

Chile's leaders meet to pick nominee in presidential race

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Augusto Pinochet and the other military commanders meet today to pick a nominee for the October presidential referendum, with Pinochet expected to be the only candidate.

Under the election rules established by the military government, Pinochet, the army commander, and the three junta members will name a single nominee and then the voters will vote "yes" or "no" on that candidate.

If Pinochet is selected, as expected, and wins the referendum he would remain in office until 1997. Pinochet, 72, led the bloody coup that ousted the elected government of Marxist President Salvador Allende in September 1973.

On Monday, police used water cannons to scatter a demonstration in downtown Santiago by women chanting anti-government slogans and urging voters to vote "no" in the referendum. Witnesses said about 25 people were detained.

Pinochet and the junta members, navy chief Adm. Jose Merino, air force commander Gen. Fernando Matthei and national police director Gen. Rodolfo Stange are scheduled to meet at noon today at the Defense Ministry to select the nominee.

The 1980 constitution, which outlines a phased return to democratic rule, gives the commanders 48 hours to make a unanimous choice. If they do not agree, an eight-man National Security Council would name a single nominee.

Council members are Pinochet, the junta members and four other officials, three of whom were appointed by Pinochet.

Government officials have said they expect today's meeting to end within hours and arrangements have been made for an announcement ceremony late today.

No date has been announced for the referendum, but it is expected to be disclosed today along with the candidate. Pinochet has said the referendum will be held in early October.

If a majority of voters cast "yes" ballots in the referendum the nominee will begin an eight-year term March 11. If a majority votes "no," an open election will be held in 1990.

Pro-Pinochet groups on Monday began an all-night vigil in front of the government palace to await the junta's decision on a nominee. They have planned a celebration rally.

Opposition leaders called on people to bang pots and pans from their windows Tuesday night to protest the impending nomination.

A coalition of 16 opposition parties issued a statement Monday saying they expect Pinochet to be nominated, but they also appealed to the junta members to pick someone acceptable to both the government and opposition.

Augusto Pinochet

Roman Catholic Cardinal Juan Francisco Fresno called on Chileans "to vote their conscience" in the referendum and announced there would be daily public prayer sessions in a Santiago park until the balloting.

Two polls released by academic centers Monday showed most of the people questioned would vote "no."

Fitzwater: Delvalle's Miami visit won't change U.S.-Panama policy

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — President Ronald Reagan's spokesman said Monday that the administration continues to recognize Eric Arturo Delvalle as the legitimate president of Panama and that his surprise visit to Miami reflects no change in U.S. policy.

"There is no change in our policy," said Marlin Fitzwater, referring to the fact that the U.S. still recognizes Delvalle's position despite his overthrow last February by Manuel Noriega and America's unsuccessful attempts to oust the military leader.

Fitzwater said Delvalle had requested a meeting with U.S. officials and that "there probably will be a meeting later in the week with State Department representatives" in Florida.

Delvalle, who had been hiding in Panama with the help of U.S.

officials since February, arrived Sunday in Miami.

The spokesman said he was not aware of any discussions on the issue of political asylum for Delvalle.

Fitzwater said the Panamanian leader will also meet with other opposition leaders and plans to leave "either this week or next week."

There are no plans for Delvalle to speak with Reagan or to travel to Washington to meet with administration or State Department officials, Fitzwater said.

The spokesman pointed out that Delvalle had met in Florida once before with the Assistant Secretary of State Elliott Abrams, adding, "I think that will happen again this time."

The president is relaxing on his 688-acre ranch north of Santa Barbara, on the third week of his traditional California vacation. He and his wife Nancy are to return to Washington after Labor Day.

Delvalle and his wife were met by Secret Service agents, who were providing 24-hour protection at an undisclosed South Florida location.

Asked if he could confirm the use of Secret Service agents, Fitzwater said he could not, but that the U.S. government "normally provides Secret Service protection for visiting heads of state."

Queried about Delvalle's use of a U.S. government plane, Fitzwater said he could not confirm that either, but that he did not find it unusual if true.

"He's in a unique situation where he doesn't have access to the facilities of his own government. So I don't know whether that's the case, but I would consider it certainly likely and possible," Fitzwater said.

Eric Delvalle

After Noriega was indicted in Miami and Tampa on drug trafficking charges, Delvalle tried to fire the military leader. But Noriega refused to go and instead had Delvalle replaced with Manuel Solis Palma.

UI Students & Faculty

Start out the semester right! Attend The University of Iowa FALL OPENING CEREMONY held Tuesday, August 30 at 9:25 am on the east steps of the Old Capitol.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED in submitting a well-reasoned, relevant and insightful opinion column for publication on the Viewpoints page, contact:

JOHN GOLDEN
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR
335-5863

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!

1" 3-Ring Binders
Only $1.95

While Supplies Last

kinko's
the copy center

OPEN 24 HOURS
14 S. Clinton

338-COPY (2679)
(Across from the Pentacrest)

Brent Woods

Time to get On The Line

Many of you die-hard college football prognosticators are probably asking the question — when does this year's On The Line column start and how can I be involved?

This column will answer your nagging questions.

A new and improved version of On The Line will be at your disposal this season. It's new because, well, it's a new season, and it's improved because you will only have to read it on Fridays and Mondays instead of every day.

Last year, if you will recall, OTL appeared every day during football season — yes, every day, and it got to be a bit much. It was an outlet in which frustrated staff members vented their mental anguish, mostly on incoming freshmen.

Well, we're cleaning up the OTL column this year, and we promise to verbally abuse freshmen only once a week at the most.

For you newcomers, the Daily Iowan publishes a ballot during the football season listing the Big Ten games and a tiebreaker contest. You circle the schools you think will win each game, and guess a score on the tiebreaker.

Then you simply sign your name, dip out your ballot and drop it off at 111 Communications Center before noon on Thursdays.

Remember, no more than three, count 'em, three, ballots can be turned in per person. Last year it was five, but we hate paperwork. And if it takes you five ballots to win, you don't deserve to.

Daily Iowan Sports Editor Brent Woods, Assistant Sports Editors Neil Lewis and Matt Zlatnik and sports staffer Mike "Magic" Trilk will pick for the staff, and we will publish our choices, and yours, in Friday's column. We may also have a guest picker chip in once in a while.

We will tally our wins and losses, as well as reader picks, and publish all the results in Monday's OTL. The reader, that's you, who has the best ballot will be declared the winner and get either a warm handshake and a pat on the back or a frosty keg of brew from a local pub, depending on how generous our potential sponsors turn out to be.

If you do win beer, remember, in these parts you must be of legal drinking age to claim your prize. So if you aren't 21, make some older friends fast.

Today you can find an official OTL ballot below this column, however, from this day forward, we will run a ballot in the Scoreboard section every day.

OTL will begin right away this week, despite the fact that there are only four Big Ten games scheduled. We've thrown in some other contests of national significance, and of course, the always pertinent tiebreaker game.

So, look for your ballots in the Scoreboard section and remember the deadline — noon on Thursday. We would like to wish you, the readers, the best of luck in your OTL pursuits this year.

This Week's Games

- Iowa at Hawaii
- Washington State at Illinois
- Duke at Northwestern
- W. Michigan at Wisconsin
- Virginia Tech at Clemson
- Florida State at Miami
- Tennessee at Georgia
- Texas A&M at LSU
- N. Carolina at S. Carolina
- San Diego State at UCLA
- Tiebreaker:
- Angelo State
- at Sam Houston State

Name _____

Phone _____

The University of Iowa
Student Senate

'Serving for the benefit of all students'
THE UI STUDENT SENATE is hiring for the
SECRETARY AND EXECUTIVE
ASSOCIATE POSITIONS

Qualifications for both include: familiarity with MacIntosh SE computer system, good administrative and office skills, experience in student government. Both are paid positions.

Those interested should contact either Mike Skinner or Melinda Hess at 335-3263.

Applications are due Friday, September 2, at 5:00 pm in the Student Senate office.

The UI Student Senate is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

In this Marine Corps officer's program, you follow your major before you follow ours.

A college major leaves you little time to minor in anything else. So how do you become an officer in the United States Marine Corps, if you want to concentrate on your major before you devote your undivided attention to one of ours? Join the Marine Corps' PLC (Platoon Leaders Class) program, where all your training takes place in the summer. The kind of training that will really test your ability. If you want to become an officer in the Marine Corps, join the PLC program. And this summer you can change majors.

Call the Officer Selection Office Collect at (515) 284-4457/4349.

MIT, Structural Engineering.

Analyzing and designing bridges. Developed working model of a double spandrel arch bridge. The HP-28S helps him analyze structural stress and geometry. It's the only calculator that lets him do both symbolic algebra and calculus.

It features powerful matrix math and graphics capabilities. And HP Solve lets him solve custom formulas without programming. With more than 1500 functions, 32K RAM and both RPN and algebraic entry, the HP-28S is the ultimate scientific calculator.

University of Virginia, Finance.

Studies fluctuating stock and money market trends. Assisted head trader in Yen at Chicago Mercantile Exchange. The HP-12C with RPN lets him analyze prices, ratios, net present value and internal rate of return. He can even create his own custom programs. The HP-12C is the established standard in financial calculators.

UC Santa Cruz, Marine Biology.

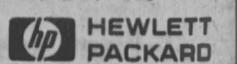

Studies behavior of blue whales and effect of environment on distribution of marine mammals. The new, easy to use HP-22S has a built-in equation library with solver, giving her access to the most commonly used scientific equations. Statistics with linear regression. And algebraic entry. The ideal student science calculator.

University of Michigan, MBA candidate.

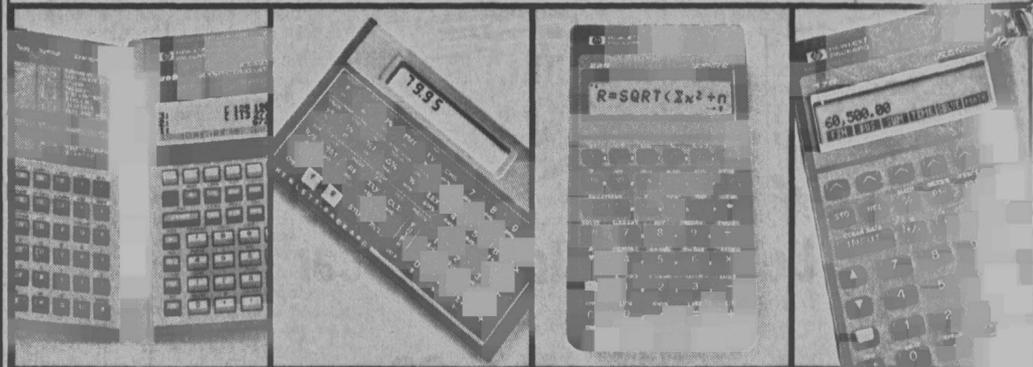

Assisted on pricing projects for GM. The HP-17B offers easy algebraic entry. Plus time value of money, cash flows and linear regression to analyze budgets and forecasts. HP Solve lets her enter her own formulas and solve for any variable.

Hewlett-Packard's calculators are built for your success. Look for them at your campus bookstore. Or call 1-800-752-0900, Ext. 658E, for your nearest dealer.

We never stop asking "What if..."

New Achievers in Heavy Metal, Swing, Blues and Motown.

HP-28S SCIENTIFIC CALCULATOR

HP-12C FINANCIAL CALCULATOR

HP-22S SCIENTIFIC CALCULATOR

HP-17B BUSINESS CALCULATOR

Interested well-reasoned thoughtful opinion on the e, contact:
LDEN
GE EDITOR
63

BACK
NTS!
Binders
1.95 lies Last

O'S center
HOURS
nton
(2679) Pentacrest)

LLY A. VAN DEURSEN

iversity of Michigan, MBA idate. Assisted on projects for GM. The HPffers easy algebra entry.
ime value of money, cash and linear regression to ze budgets and forecasts.
olve lets her enter her own ulas and solve for any variable.
les Hewlettard's calculators are built ur success. Look for them ur campus bookstore. Or
-800-752-0900, Ext. 658E. ur nearest dealer.

HEWLETT PACKARD

IP-17B BUSINESS
CALCULATOR

INSIDE SPORTS

From fencing to table tennis, the UI has sports clubs for everyone. Organizational meetings and deadlines are approaching. See Page 3B

Brent Woods

Time to get On The Line

Many of you die-hard college football prognosticators are probably asking the question — when does this year's On The Line column start and how can I be involved?

This column will answer your nagging questions.

A new and improved version of On The Line will be at your disposal this season. It's new because, well, it's a new season, and it's improved because you will only have to read it on Fridays and Mondays instead of every day.

Last year, if you will recall, OTL appeared every day during football season — yes, every day, and it got to be a bit much. It was an outlet in which frustrated staff members vented their mental anguish, mostly on incoming freshmen.

Well, we're cleaning up the OTL column this year, and we promise to verbally abuse freshmen only once a week at the most.

For you newcomers, the Daily Iowan publishes a ballot during the football season listing the Big Ten games and a tiebreaker contest. You circle the schools you think will win each game, and guess a score on the tiebreaker.

Then you simply sign your name, clip out your ballot and drop it off at 111 Communications Center before noon on Thursdays.

Remember, no more than three, count 'em, three, ballots can be turned in per person. Last year it was five, but we hate paperwork. And if it takes you five ballots to win, you don't deserve to.

Daily Iowan Sports Editor Brent Woods, Assistant Sports Editors Neil Lewis and Matt Zlatnik and sports staffer Mike "Magic" Trilk will pick for the staff, and we will publish our choices, and yours, in Friday's column. We may also have a guest picker chip in once in a while.

We will tally our wins and losses, as well as reader picks, and publish all the results in Monday's OTL. The reader, that's you, who has the best ballot will be declared the winner and get either a warm handshake and a pat on the back or a frosty keg of brew from a local pub, depending on how generous our potential sponsors turn out to be.

If you do win beer, remember, in these parts you must be of legal drinking age to claim your prize. So if you aren't 21, make some older friends fast.

Today you can find an official OTL ballot below this column, however, from this day forward, we will run a ballot in the Scoreboard section every day.

OTL will begin right away this week, despite the fact that there are only four Big Ten games scheduled. We've thrown in some other contests of national significance, and of course, the always pertinent tiebreaker game.

So, look for your ballots in the Scoreboard section and remember the deadline — noon on Thursday.

We would like to wish you, the readers, the best of luck in your OTL pursuits this year.

This Week's Games

- Iowa at Hawaii
- Washington State at Illinois
- Duke at Northwestern
- W. Michigan at Wisconsin
- Virginia Tech at Clemson
- Florida State at Miami
- Tennessee at Georgia
- Texas A&M at LSU
- N. Carolina at S. Carolina
- San Diego State at UCLA
- Tiebreaker: Angelo State
- at Sam Houston State

Name _____
Phone _____

Hartlieb has lock on QB position

By Michael Trilk
The Daily Iowan

Never again will Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry play the quarterback shuffle.

Last year, Fry was known to play three quarterbacks in one game and in no certain order. But no more.

Dan McGwire was the Hawkeyes' head signal caller when Iowa opened the 1987 season at the Kickoff Classic but he shared his playing time with Tom Poholsky and Chuck Hartlieb. None of the three looked especially good in that game against Tennessee and none of them looked like they would ever be Heisman Trophy candidates. Especially Hartlieb.

Hartlieb was the one who tossed an errant pitch that was picked off by a Tennessee lineman and returned 96 yards for a touchdown. But heading into Saturday's opener at Hawaii, Hartlieb is the sole owner of the Iowa quarterback job and he is a Heisman candidate.

"It's nice but all of the individual stuff is out the window," Hartlieb said at Iowa media day activities.

"I would much rather go out and practice and have my actions speak for themselves than talk about those kinds of things."

Whether Hartlieb wants to be a part of this year's Heisman hype or not, he is. That may be one of the factors that chased McGwire off to San Diego State via a transfer. That move surprised both Hartlieb and Poholsky.

"It really surprised me," Hartlieb said. "He wanted to play but you have to wait for your chance to play at Iowa. I have to wait and now Tom (Poholsky) has to wait, but your time will come. Hopefully this will work out best for Dan."

Poholsky opted to stay and wait to become Iowa's No. 1 quarterback even though he guided Iowa to four wins in five starts when Mark Vlassic and Hartlieb went down with injuries.

"Chuck has the show right now," Poholsky said. "So I'm looking at it like any other year. I'm going to push Chuck as hard as I can knowing that it will make him a better quarterback. I can't afford to relax either because I have Matt See Quarterbacks, Page 2B

Chuck Hartlieb

Tip drill

UI sophomore Jeff Bloominger, a Davenport native, breaks up a pass intended for fellow sophomore Jim Schlung, also from Davenport, Monday afternoon on the Union field. Bloominger and nine friends spent the last day before Fall classes playing tackle football.

The Daily Iowan/Scott Norris

Judge suspends Kimball's license

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Saying "the whole country in a sense is watching him," a judge on Monday suspended Bruce Kimball's driving privileges but refused to impose travel restrictions on the former Olympic diver while he awaits trial on alcohol-related manslaughter charges.

Kimball, accused of driving a car into a group of teen-agers and killing two of them Aug. 1, pleaded innocent in Hillsborough Circuit Court to two counts of drunken driving manslaughter and three counts of drunken driving in an accident with serious injury.

Judge Harry Coe allowed the 1984 Olympic silver medalist to remain free on $10,000 bond and said he would not restrict Kimball's travel before his tentative trial date of Nov. 14, because he was satisfied the diver posed no risk of flight.

Kimball, 24, was present for the arraignment, but said nothing as attorney Frank Quesada entered the plea before Coe. If convicted, he faces up to 45 years in prison.

Coe suggested a driving restriction as a condition of bond, and co-defense counsel Lee Fugate did not object.

Fugate said Kimball would be attending the University of Michigan this fall and working part-time at his father's diving school, so he could get around by walking.

Kimball, who finished second in the Olympic platform diving competition four years ago, was a favorite to make the 1988 U.S. See Kimball, Page 2B

Taylor banned for failing drug test

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawrence Taylor, the New York Giants' All-Pro linebacker, will be suspended for 30 days by the National Football League for violating the league's substance abuse policy, two newspapers reported today.

Newsday, in today's editions, reported that the suspension will take effect immediately and will cause Taylor to miss the Giants' first four games, including the season opener Sept. 5 against the Washington Redskins, last year's Super Bowl champions.

Newsday coincides with an earlier report in the Chicago Tribune. Both newspapers cited unnamed league sources as the basis of their information.

Taylor's preseason urinalysis turned up positive, according to the reports, and the league's drug adviser, Dr. Forest S. Tennant, told the club Saturday that the test showed a trace of cocaine.

According to the Tribune, "more than two" other unidentified players will be suspended along with Taylor and all the suspensions will be announced later today by Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

The Giants would not immediately confirm the report.

"I have no comment on any of that stuff," Giants General Manager George Young told Newsday late Sunday night.

Following New York's final preseason game Friday — a 17-13 loss to the Cleveland Browns — Taylor said: "I do believe I've never been in condition as much as I am now."

Taylor underwent treatment for substance abuse in February 1986. He returned to the Giants and helped lead them to a Super Bowl win in the 1986 season.

The NFL policy on substance abuse calls for Taylor to sit out 30

Lawrence Taylor

Steady showers wash out Open

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1988 U.S. Open started the way last year's tournament ended — with rain.

Steady showers washed out opening day Monday at the National Tennis Center 90 minutes after play began.

Only five matches were completed, and only one of those involved a seeded player, No. 11 Zina Garrison's 6-0, 6-3 victory over Nicole Provis.

Second-seeded Mats Wilander was leading former NCAA champion Greg Holmes 6-2, 6-1, 1-2 when play was halted.

No other men's seed got to play a single point.

The wet scene was reminiscent of the final Sunday at last year's Open when rain forced the men's final between Ivan Lendl and Mats Wilander to be delayed until Monday.

Garrison beat the rain by beating Provis in just 59 minutes.

"I was really nervous to play the first match on the first day of the tournament," she said. "I didn't want to be the first seed to go out."

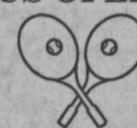

Garrison had reason to be wary of Provis, an 18-year-old Australian who reached the semifinals at the French Open this year. But Provis, ranked 34th in the world, barely avoided a shutout.

Garrison won the first 11 games before Provis staged a mini-rally and pulled to within 5-3 in the second set. But Garrison broke back in the next game to end the match.

Although she lost three of the last four games, Garrison wasn't disappointed.

"I don't like to win zero and zero," she said. "It's like a jinx going into the next round."

US OPEN

TENNIS

Garrison, who was ranked as high as No. 5 in the world three years ago, has dropped to No. 12 and hasn't won a tournament this year.

"I've been playing some really good tennis, although my ranking doesn't show it," she said. "I've reached the semis or quarters of most of the tournaments I've played in."

"For the first time in my life, I'm totally committed to being a professional tennis player. I feel good about that and I feel good about myself."

Wilander, who won the 1988 Australian and French Opens, also was feeling good Monday after demolishing Holmes in the first two sets. But rain halted play after Holmes held serve to take a 2-1 lead in the third set.

Wilander, who was beaten by Lendl in last year's marathon final, has never won the U.S. Open. But his chances of winning this year are as good as they've ever been.

Lendl is seeking his fourth straight Open title, but he is having an off year. If he doesn't win here, it will be the first time since 1983 that he has gone through a year without winning at least one Grand Slam title.

USOC stands firm on Myers case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although Angel Myers' supporters insist that taking birth control pills caused her to test positive for a steroid, the U.S. Olympic Committee on Monday stood firmly behind its drug testing and the decision to remove her from the U.S. Olympic Swim Team.

"We have total confidence in the integrity and validity (of the drug testing process)," USOC spokesman Mike Moran said.

He said substances which birth control pills produce are very easily detectable and can be recognized immediately.

"We have tested hundreds of women who had taken all sorts of birth control pills," Moran said. "The level of substance which birth control pills produce is very easily detectable. We know exactly what we're looking for, what level."

"Birth control pills produce characteristics of a disqualifying substance, but the level and dosage (of the substance) is where it (disqualification) occurs."

Although the USOC will not identify the banned substance involved in Myers' case, a statement released by her family said she had been informed that it was a steroid.

Kirt Myers, who coaches his daughter, released a statement Monday afternoon from the family's home at Americus, Ga., saying that she will appeal her removal from the U.S. team.

"Administrative appeals are being conducted in order to reinstate Angel Myers as a member of the U.S. Olympic team," Kirt Myers said in the statement. "Appeals are in progress through U.S. Swimming Inc., the swimmers' sanctioning organization, and the U.S. Olympic Committee."

"We feel that there are problems with the test and that there have been possible violations of the U.S.

See Myers, Page 2B

Sportsbriefs

Bears cut former Hawkeye Norvell

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Former Iowa defensive back Jay Norvell was among eight players released Monday by the Chicago Bears, who trimmed their squad to the NFL limit of 47.

Norvell, who had been playing linebacker, also was cut by the Bears during camp last fall, then joined their strike replacement team.

He was a starting safety on the 1985 Iowa team that won the Big Ten Conference title and played in the Rose Bowl.

America's Cup officials choose boat

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A catamaran with a rigid wing sail was selected as the defender in next month's America's Cup regatta against New Zealand's challenger yacht, Cup defense officials said today.

The hard-sail multihull was picked over a nearly identical catamaran which uses traditional soft sails, said Dennis Conner, who will skipper the San Diego Yacht Club's entry.

Conner also named his crew for the best-of-three race series, which starts Sept. 7 off San Diego's Point Loma. He said that the wing sail had outperformed the soft-sail version during informal defender trials over the past two weeks.

"As everyone knows, the soft sail initially was my favorite," said Conner. "It's more like what I'm used to sailing and it has more flexibility. However, I was prepared to be convinced that the wing sail was the way to go."

Olympic flame burns out in relay

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — An Olympic torch flickered out on the first leg of the torch relay and the angry Seoul Olympic Organizing Committee plans to make sure it doesn't happen again.

"It's bad luck to have it happen anytime," said a spokesman for SLOOC Monday. "But on the first leg — ouch! Everyone's hopping mad."

More than 21,000 runners are carrying the Olympic Flame across South Korea to Seoul for the Sept. 17 start of the Olympics. Each runner gets to carry the torch for one kilometer (0.62 miles) on its journey.

Lee Chin-young of the Torch Relay Division said every precaution is being taken to ensure the Olympic flame and the runners complete the 22-day, 4,168-kilometer (2,605-mile) zigzag relay without further incident. Or without losing the flame.

A group of about 25 officials are traveling with the torch, she said. They coordinate with local representatives who have arranged runners, and distributed the running clothes, in their areas.

Each torchbearer during the one-kilometer run has about 10 escort runners selected to run alongside for that leg of the journey. In addition, there is a police car, an official vehicle and a jeep in front of the runners.

Scoreboard

National League Standings

East	W	L	Pct	GB	L10	Streak	Home	Away
New York	77	53	.592	—	6-4	Won 1	41-22	36-31
Pittsburgh	71	60	.542	6½	z-5-5	Won 2	37-31	34-29
Montreal	66	64	.508	11	3-7	Lost 2	33-29	33-35
Chicago	65	64	.504	11½	z-6-4	Won 1	33-31	32-33
St. Louis	60	71	.458	17½	6-4	Won 2	33-35	27-36
Philadelphia	53	77	.408	24	2-8	Won 1	31-32	22-45

West	W	L	Pct	GB	L10	Streak	Home	Away
Los Angeles	76	54	.585	—	z-7-3	Won 4	36-31	40-23
Houston	70	61	.534	8½	z-5-5	Lost 2	38-26	32-35
San Francisco	69	62	.527	7½	z-5-5	Lost 1	40-28	29-34
Cincinnati	66	64	.508	10	z-5-5	Lost 2	34-31	32-33
San Diego	64	66	.492	12	z-7-3	Lost 1	39-28	25-38
Atlanta	45	86	.344	31½	4-6	Lost 1	22-41	23-45

z-denotes first game was a win

Today's Games

Pittsburgh (Fisher 7-9) at Cincinnati (Jackson 18-6), 6:35 p.m.
Los Angeles (Hershiser 17-8) at Montreal (Holman 2-5), 6:35 p.m.
San Diego (Rasmussen 12-7) at New York (Ojeda 8-12), 6:35 p.m.
San Francisco (D.Robinson 5-4) at Philadelphia (Palmer 7-9), 6:35 p.m.
St. Louis (Mathews 2-4) at Atlanta (Jimenez 1-5), 6:40 p.m.
Chicago (Schiraldi 8-8) at Houston (Knepper 12-4 or Andujar 1-5), 7:35 p.m.

Monday's Games

Pittsburgh 8, Cincinnati 1
Los Angeles 2, Montreal 1
New York 6, San Diego 0
Philadelphia 3, San Francisco 0
St. Louis 3, Atlanta 2

Wednesday's Games

San Diego at New York, 12:35 p.m.
Chicago at Houston, 1:35 p.m.
Los Angeles at Montreal, 6:05 p.m.
Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, 6:35 p.m.
San Francisco at Philadelphia, 6:35 p.m.
St. Louis at Atlanta, 6:40 p.m.

American League Standings

East	W	L	Pct	GB	L10	Streak	Home	Away
Detroit	74	56	.569	—	z-4-6	Lost 3	42-23	32-33
Boston	73	56	.566	½	6-4	Won 1	45-23	28-33
New York	68	60	.531	5	z-2-8	Lost 4	37-30	31-30
Milwaukee	67	67	.500	9	z-5-5	Lost 1	39-30	28-37
Toronto	65	66	.496	9½	z-5-5	Lost 2	31-33	34-33
Cleveland	63	68	.481	11½	z-5-5	Lost 1	35-30	28-38
Baltimore	45	84	.349	28½	z-6-4	Won 1	29-37	16-47

West	W	L	Pct	GB	L10	Streak	Home	Away
Oakland	81	50	.618	—	4-6	Lost 1	40-23	41-27
Minnesota	73	57	.562	7½	5-5	Won 1	37-27	36-30
Kansas City	69	61	.531	11½	7-3	Won 4	37-28	32-33
California	66	64	.508	14½	z-6-4	Won 4	29-32	37-32
Texas	59	70	.457	21	6-4	Lost 2	32-34	27-36
Chicago	57	74	.435	24	3-7	Won 1	33-34	24-40
Seattle	52	79	.397	29	5-5	Lost 1	27-35	25-44

z-denotes first game was a win

Today's Games

Detroit (Terrell 7-10) at Chicago (Bittiger 1-4), 7:30 p.m.
Cleveland (Candiotti 10-8) at Kansas City (Power 5-5), 7:35 p.m.
Toronto (Musselman 5-2) at Milwaukee (Higuera 11-8), 7:35 p.m.
Minnesota (Smith 1-0) at Texas (B.Witt 6-8), 7:35 p.m.
New York (Dotson 9-7) at Seattle (Campbell 4-8), 9:05 p.m.
Baltimore (Schmidt 6-3) at California (Lazorko 0-1), 9:35 p.m.
Boston (Clemens 15-9) at Oakland (Stewart 15-11), 9:35 p.m.

Monday's Games

Chicago 3, Detroit 2
Kansas City 6, Cleveland 3
Toronto 6, Milwaukee 1
Minnesota 3, Texas 2
New York at Seattle, (n)
Baltimore at California, (n)
Boston at Oakland, (n)

Wednesday's Games

Toronto at Milwaukee, 1:35 p.m.
Boston at Oakland, 2:15 p.m.
Detroit at Chicago, 7:30 p.m.
Cleveland at Kansas City, 7:35 p.m.
Minnesota at Texas, 7:35 p.m.
New York at Seattle, 9:05 p.m.
Baltimore at California, 9:35 p.m.

Quarterbacks

Continued from page 1B

Rodgers right on my tail."

While Hartlieb dodges questions about the Heisman he realizes that he is Iowa's main man. Being the top gun might put more pressure on the Hawkeye senior but Hartlieb doesn't show it.

"I feel a lot more comfortable about the position this year," Hartlieb said. "The uncertainty is gone. Everybody feels good about their role and that's the way it was a few years ago."

(Chuck) Long was No. 1, Mark (Vlassic) was No. 2, I was No. 3 and Tommy (Poholsky) was No. 4. You still have to get the job done because if you don't someone will step forward to get it done."

Long was in the middle of the Heisman hype in 1985 and he too didn't put much emphasis on winning the coveted bronze statue. Although Long didn't win the award, Auburn's Bo Jackson did, Long did have some prestigious goals for himself. Long wanted to play in the Rose Bowl. He did and so does Hartlieb.

"I have to prove myself to myself and my teammates this year," Hartlieb said. "We were a pretty good football team at the end of last season and that's because we started playing as a team. We are going to try and do that from the start this year."

Fry has directed the Hawkeyes to Pasadena twice since coming to Iowa and said that the key both times was keeping his key players healthy. Hartlieb is definitely a key player in Fry's 1988 plans but Poholsky says he will be ready to step in should the occasion present itself.

"I'll be ready," Poholsky said. "I have game experience so it's not like I've never come into a game before. I'm going to be just as good of a quarterback as Chuck Hartlieb and I'll be just as prepared for every game as he is so if I have to go in there won't be any dropoff at all."

Kimball

Continued from page 1B

team before the accident. He competed at the trials in Indianapolis earlier this month but failed to make the squad.

Among the spectators at the diving trials was a group of Florida residents protesting Kimball's efforts to go to Seoul, South Korea, for the Summer Games in the wake of the deaths of Robbie Bedell, 19, and Kevin Gossic, 16.

Members of Mothers Against Drunk Driving were in the group attending the trials in Indianapolis, and Tom Slattery, head of the local MADD chapter, was in the courtroom Monday, as were Bedell's father and girlfriend.

While prosecutors have refused to release the results of Kimball's blood-alcohol tests from the accident, the Tampa Tribune has reported it was 0.20 percent. Under Florida law, a driver with a level of 0.10 of higher is presumed intoxicated.

Police estimate Kimball was traveling between 70 and 90 mph when his car struck several other vehicles and plowed through a group of teens gathered at a popular roadside in suburban Brandon known as "The Spot."

Coe instructed attorneys to notify witnesses that they would not be allowed to publicly discuss the case. The judge cited concerns for prospective jurors if the case gets to the trial stage.

The judge also set a meeting for Sept. 8 to discuss with media representatives any restrictions that he might impose on the press at a trial.

Myers

Continued from page 1B

Olympic Committee's protocol during the collection process of the samples and we hope to be able to present this information at an administrative hearing this week.

"The deadline for certifying members of the U.S. Olympic Team is Thursday, Sept. 1, so time is of the essence.

"Angel firmly maintains that she has not taken any banned substance and that the test is in error," the statement said. "There must be some other explanation for the positive find."

"During the last year Angel has subjected herself to the possibility of drug testing seven different times and has been selected for drug testing four different times without difficulty. By subjecting herself to these drug tests she indicates her innocence."

An earlier statement issued by the family said she had a prescription for Ortho-Novum, a birth control pill which has nearly identical characteristics to the steroid the USOC claims (Myers) was testing positive for.

Although Myers' original appeal to the U.S. Swim Team was turned down, if that group decides she has a valid appeal, it could ask the USOC to reconsider it.

Her removal from the team was announced Sunday in Los Angeles, where Myers and some other swimmers had gathered to begin processing for the trip to the Olympics.

Myers, 21, set two national records in the recent trials and had a shot at winning five medals in swimming at the Seoul Games.

She tested positive during the recent trials at Austin, Texas.

AP College Top 20

How the Associated Press Top Twenty college football teams fared this week and schedule for Sept. 3:

- Florida State (0-0) was idle; at No. 8 Miami, Florida.
- Nebraska (1-0) beat No. 10 Texas A&M 23-14.
- Oklahoma (0-0) was idle; vs. Virginia Tech.
- Clemson (0-0) was idle; vs. Virginia Tech.
- UCLA (0-0) was idle; vs. San Diego State.
- Southern California (0-0) was idle; Thurgood at Boston College.
- Auburn (0-0) was idle; vs. Idaho.
- Miami, Florida (0-0) was idle; vs. No. 1 Florida State.
- Iowa (0-0) was idle; at Hawaii.
- Texas A&M (0-1-0) lost to No. 2 Nebraska 23-14.
- Michigan (0-0) was idle; vs. Idaho.
- Georgia (0-0) was idle; vs. No. 7 Tennessee.
- Notre Dame (0-0) was idle; vs. Idaho.
- Alabama (0-0) was idle; vs. Idaho.
- Michigan State (0-0) was idle; vs. Idaho.
- West Virginia (0-0) was idle; vs. Bowling Green.
- Tennessee (0-0) was idle; at No. 12 Georgia.
- Louisiana State (0-0) was idle; vs. No. 10 Texas A&M.
- South Carolina (0-0) was idle; vs. North Carolina.
- Penn State (0-0) was idle; vs. Idaho.

NFL Preseason Glance

American Conference	W	L	T	Pct	PF	PA
Indianapolis	3	1	0	.750	83	55
Miami	2	3	0	.400	87	105
Buffalo	3	0	0	250	49	74
New England	1	3	0	.250	89	109
N.Y. Jets	1	3	0	.250	68	81

National Conference	W	L	T	Pct	PF	PA
Houston	4	0	0	1000	114	50
Cincinnati	4	1	0	.800	110	82
Cleveland	3	1	0	.750	80	37
Pittsburgh	3	1	0	.750	113	103

American Conference	W	L	T	Pct	PF	PA
N.Y. Giants	3	1	0	.750	99	58
Washington	3	1	0	.750	137	98
Dallas	2	2	0	.500	75	104
Philadelphia	2	2	0	.500	87	66
Phoenix	1	3	0	.250	92	94

National Conference	W	L	T	Pct	PF	PA
Minnesota	3	1	0	.750	91	77
Green Bay	1	2	1	.375	72	104
Chicago	3	3	0	.500	87	96
Detroit	0	4	0	.000	39	80
Tampa Bay	0	4	0	.000	31	76

Thursday's Games

Buffalo 14, Tampa Bay 7
Philadelphia 27, Detroit 9
Denver 21, Indianapolis 20
Phoenix 41, Kansas City 21

Friday's Games

Cincinnati 27, New England 21
Minnesota 24, Miami 17
San Francisco 27, Seattle 21
Los Angeles Raiders 37, Chicago 22
HITS—Puckett, Mark Gossic, 181; Boggs, Houston, 99; Brett, Kansas City, 94; Puckett, Minnesota, 92; Winfield, New York, 88.

Saturday's Games

Philadelphia 31, New Orleans 29
Green Bay 27, New York Jets 24
Washington 34, Atlanta 17
Houston 54, Dallas 10

Major League Leaders

American League	BATTING (366 at bats)	Boggs, Boston, .363; Puckett, Minnesota, .347; Greenwell, Boston, .341; Winfield, New York, .329; Trammell, Detroit, .326.
RUNS	Boggs, Boston, 100; Canseco, Oakland, 98; Rhoaderson, New York, 96; Molitor, Milwaukee, 91; Puckett, Minnesota, 84.
HOME RUNS	Boggs, Boston, 103; Canseco, Oakland, 99; Brett, Kansas City, 94; Puckett, Minnesota, 92; Winfield, New York, 88.
RBIS	Boggs, Boston, 173; Molitor, Milwaukee, 161; Greenwell, Boston, 160; Franco, Cleveland, 156.
DOUBLES	Boggs, Boston, 37; Brett, Kansas City, 36; Greenwell, Boston, 35; Rey, California, 33, 4 are tied with 32.
TRIPLES	Reynolds, Seattle, 10; Yount, Milwaukee, 10; Wilson, Kansas City, 9; 6 are tied with 6.
HOME RUNS	Canseco, Oakland, 34; McGriff, Toronto, 30; Gassett, Minnesota, 28; McGwire,

Baseball's Top 10

American League	G	AB	R	H	Pct.
Boggs/Bn	125	477	100	173	.363
Puckett/Mn	126	522	84	181	.347
Greenwell/Bn	126	469	69	160	.341
Winfield/NY	122	453	80	148	.329
Trammell/Dt	111	411	64	134	.326
Molitor/Mn	125	498	91	161	.323
Brett/KC	127	477	73	152	.319
Rhoaderson/NY	108	423	96	134	.318
Franco/Cle	123	496	75	156	.315
Mattignly/NY	111	460	78	144	.313

Cardinals 3, Braves 2

ST. LOUIS ab r h b i ATLANTA ab r h b i
Clemens 4 1 1 0 0 Gwynn 3 1 0 0 0
OSmithss 4 1 1 0 0 Dameslf 2 1 1 1
Pruitt 1b 4 1 2 3 0 Perry 1b 4 0 2 1
Brimmyr 4 0 1 0 0 D'Murphy 1b 4 0 1 0
Pudlin 3b 4 0 1 0 0 Thomas 4 0 1 0
Quend 2b 4 0 1 0 0 Runge 3b 4 0 0 0
Ford lf 3 0 0 0 0 Benedict 3 0 1 0
T'Pac 3 0 0 0 0 Simms 3 1 0 0 0
DeLeon p 0 0 0 0 Blocker cf 4 0 1 0
McWms p 0 0 0 0 Mahler p 2 0 0 0
Castello p 0 0 0 0
Totals 33 3 3 3 Totals 31 2 2 2
St. Louis 003 000 000-3
Atlanta 000 000 000-2
Game Winning RBI — Guerrero (2).
DP—St. Louis 1, Atlanta 1, LOB—St. Louis 3, Atlanta 6, 25—Guerrero, Dames, G'Perry, HR—Guerrero (6), S—Mahler.

St. Louis

DeLeon W 9-8
McWilliams 1-3
Castello 5-1
Atlanta
Mahler 9-12
DeLeon pitched to 1 batter in the 6th.
WP—Mahler, DeLeon.
Umpires—Home, Rung; First, Williams; Second, Engle; Third, West.
T—2:29, A—5,688.

Twins 3, Rangers 2

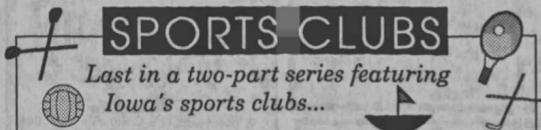

MINNESOTA ab r h b i TEXAS ab r h b i
Moses cf 4 0 1 1 McDowell cf 4 1 1 0
Herr 2b 3 0 0 0 Fletcher 3 0 1 0
Gladehill 4 0 0 0 O'Brien 1b 3 0 0 1
Hrbek 1b 4 0 2 0 Sierra lf 3 0 0 0
Larkin dh 3 0 1 0 Petralic cf 4 1 1 0
Harper c 3 1 1 0 Ince/dh 4 0 1 0
Bush rf 3 1 1 0 Espy lf 3 0 2 0
Gagness 3 1 1 1 Buchie 3b 3 0 3 1
Dwyer ph 1 0 0 0 Brower p 0 0 0 0
Lombard 3b 3 0 0 0 Wilkerson 2b 3 0 0 0
Newman 3b 3 0 0 0
Totals 31 3 3 3 Totals 30 2 2 2
Minnesota 030 000 000-3
Texas 000 000 000-2
Game Winning RBI — Newman (2).
E—Russell, DP—Texas 2, LOB—Minnesota 6, Texas 7, 25—McDowell, Buchie, SB—Espy (24), Newman (7), S—Fletcher, Espy, Wilkerson, Harper.
Umpires—Home, Shulock; First, Reilly; Second, McKeen; Third, Kaiser.
T—2:29, A—15,096.

THE FIELD HOUSE
111 E. COLLEGE ST. • IOWA CITY, IA 52240
STILL THE BEST LUNCH IN THE BIG TEN!
Sandwiches, Burgers, Soups, Salads

Sports

Iowa clubs offer sporting variety

By Matthew Zlatnik
The Daily Iowan

If your favorite sport is not on the intramural slate, maybe there is a club devoted to it.

Spirited swordplay can be found at the Fencing Club, which meets Tuesday and Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 3 p.m. in Room S521 of the Field House.

"We have four or five people to nations last year," said Sarah Baker, president of the club. Despite the high ability level of some members, all are welcome, Baker said. The club travels to area tournaments and also sponsors several meets. Dues are $20 per year.

The Volleyball Club plays Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the North Gym of the Field House. There is also an interscholastic team, said Vice President Brent Sliefert. The team goes to tournaments in Des Moines, Ames and Dubuque, but Sliefert stressed that the main idea of the club is to have fun playing volleyball. For more information, go to a meeting or contact Sliefert, Don Schutt, or Bill Dornier.

Table Tennis is another hit-the-ball-over-the-net game, and the club meets Tuesday nights in Room S507 of the Field House. There is no fee and equipment can be borrowed at the Field House. "Any skill level is welcome," said Club President Gary Olson. Go to a meeting to get involved.

Try the Badminton Club for a related sport. The club tentatively plans to meet Friday from 7 to 10:30 p.m. on the badminton courts at the Field House. There is a $6 annual membership fee. Though play is mostly recreational, club members can participate in an annual spring tournament. To get involved, go to a meeting. Bring your own racket or check one out from the Field House.

The Downhill Ski Club sponsors trips over Winter and Spring Breaks, usually to Colorado or Utah. To prepare, they hold weekly meetings at a time and place to be announced. There is a $10 fee to join the club, which owns a small amount of equipment. It also sponsors an annual ski swap, in which members can buy and sell used equipment. For more information, contact Club President Pete Scholz or attend a meeting.

If you would rather ski up and around hills, maybe the Cross Country Ski Club is for you. There will be an organizational meeting in October or November; look for flyers and advertisements. The club holds monthly meetings to discuss equipment techniques and also goes on ski touring trips around the Midwest. Dues are $8 per year. Interested people should look for the club's advertisements or contact Club President Jim Omohundro.

The Lacrosse Club competes against other clubs in the Big Ten and the Midwest. There will be an organizational meeting soon, time and place to be announced. Dues are $15 and equipment is furnished. To get involved contact Recreational Services or look for information about the meeting.

Putting the ball in the net is also the goal of the Water Polo Club. The season starts in three or four weeks, said club officer Eddy Johnston, and this fall the team will play three or four tournaments against Big Ten and other Midwestern clubs. There is a $10 fee to join and no experience is necessary. Call Johnston or look for the flyers the club will post in the next few weeks.

The Aikido Club gives lessons in this defense-oriented martial art. Classes are Mondays and Wednesdays at 6:30 p.m., Friday at 4:30 p.m. and Saturday morning from 10 to 11:30, all in Room S511 in the Field House.

Dues are $35 to join and $25 to renew. To become involved go to a class or attend the exhibiton the club will give tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the classroom. For more information contact Recreational Services.

The Billiards Club disappeared sometime last year but under the leadership of Blanca Bailey is trying to get restarted. In the past, the club has met once a week, sponsored campus-wide tournaments and sent members to the Big Ten tournament. Those interested should contact Bailey at the Arts and Crafts Center in the Iowa Memorial Union.

The Juggling Club meets once a week on the Pentacrest. It also gives exhibitions at area nursing homes, schools and day-care centers. There is a fee of $3 per semester, which covers transportation costs. The exact meeting time has not yet been determined; those interested should contact Club President Fred Romell or Recreational Services.

The Bowling Club fields a team of five men and five women who compete against Big Ten and other regional schools. The team will be selected through tryouts on Sept. 10, 11, 17 and 18, at Colonial Lanes at 1:30 p.m. If you're just interested in recreational bowling, you can still be part of the club, according to Acting President Jennifer Swenson. Three games can be bowled for $2 a night. Go to one of the tryouts or call Swenson for more information.

"The Rolling Hawks Club provides recreation and support for disabled and non-disabled students on campus," said member Rick Spooner. Those interested should contact Club President Leroy Nida.

Recreational Services will offer many sports

By Matthew Zlatnik
The Daily Iowan

Entry forms are due soon for this fall's intramural season. Recreational Services will offer five regular sports, five short tournaments and Mini Sports Week.

Coed sports will be softball, flag football, wallyball and innertube water polo. There will also be coed divisions in the canoe racing, golf and pre-holiday basketball tournaments.

There will be men's and women's divisions in flag football, singles tennis, golf, basketball, canoe racing and the Home-Run Derby.

A field goal contest will be open to men, and there will be a women-only softball division.

Entries are due Sept. 7 for softball, flag football, tennis and the golf and canoe racing tournaments. The deadline for the field goal contest and the Home-Run Derby is Sept. 30.

Innertube water polo and wallyball entries are due Oct. 5, and pre-holiday basketball tournament entries should be in by Oct. 27.

Deadline for entries in the Turkey Trot, a cross-campus race, Nov. 10. Entries for spring semester basketball and soccer are due Dec. 14.

Sign-up for the golf tournament begins Sept. 19. Deadline for the coed tournament is Sept. 23, and the tournament will be Sept. 25. Men's and women's sign-up continues until Sept. 30 and the tournament will be Oct. 2.

Entry forms and more information are available at Recreational Services, Room E216 in the Field House. A complete roster is not necessary when entering.

Softball schedules will come out Sept. 9, and competition begins the next day. Schedules for the other sports will be available Sept. 13. Competition begins Sept. 14.

Mini Sports Week will be the first week of November. Planned activities include bowling and badminton for men and women, trapshooting for men, and men's, women's and coed divisions in swimming. Entries are due Oct. 27.

"This is something new we're going to try," said Warren Slebos, associate director of recreational services. "League activities are low that time of year, so we hope to encourage better participation."

Slebos expects 5,000 to 6,000 intramural participants this year. Flag football and basketball both have 2,500 to 3,000 players, and the total number of participants in all sports is expected to be about 10,000. This number is higher than the total number of players, Slebos said, because those who play more than one sport are counted more than once.

"We're also looking for referees," said Bill Jacobson, graduate assistant at recreational services. "We need about 150 to 200."

Meetings for those interested in being flag football referees will start Tuesday, Sept. 6. More information is available at Recreational Services.

Fees range from $2 for canoe racing, to be returned at the tournament, to $45 for men's flag football, which includes a returnable $10 forfeit deposit.

MOVIES

Astro
MARRIED TO THE MOB (R)
7:00, 9:30

Englert I & II
TUCKER (PG)
7:00, 9:30

BIG (PG)
7:10, 9:30

Cinema I & II
NIGHTMARE ON ELM ST. 4
7:15, 9:30

STEALING HOME (PG-13)
7:00, 9:15

Campus Theatres
FISH CALLED WANDA (R)
7:10, 9:30

THE GREAT OUTDOORS (PG)
7:15, 9:30

COCKTAIL (R)
7:00, 9:30

M.T. Chen
2 for 1 All Drinks
4 to 6 Mon.-Fri.
Old Capitol Center

BO JAMES
Food & Drink Emporium
1.99 GIANT BURGERS
with French Fries
Sun.-Thurs. 9 pm-Midnight

HUNGRY HOBO
DELI-ECTABLE MENU

Taco Salad Reg. 1.65, Lrg. 2.25
Mini Tossed Salad95
Potato Salad45
Macaroni Salad45

Delicious Sandwiches

Cold Hobo Sandwiches Reg. King
1. Spiced Ham, Cooked Salami, Cheese 1.35 2.59
2. Ham, Salami, Cheese 1.49 2.89
3. Ham, Turkey, Cheese 1.49 2.89
4. Ham, Cappelacqua, Salami, Cheese 1.65 3.09
5. Bologna & Cheese 1.35 2.59
6. Pepperoni & Cheese 1.49 2.89
7. Turkey 1.39 2.69
8. Ham & Swiss 1.49 2.89
9. Roast Beef (well or rare) 1.75 3.39
10. Tuna Fish Salad 1.49 2.89
11. Hobo Combination 2, 4 & 6 1.75 3.39
Ham, hard salami, capocola, pepperoni, provolone cheese 1.49 2.89
Yellow Sub 1.49 2.89
3 Cheese-cheddar, swiss & provolone

Hot "Hobo" Sandwiches
12. Roast Beef (well or rare) 1.79 3.49
13. Corned Beef on Rye 1.79 3.49
14. Pastrami 1.79 3.49
15. Beef & Cheese 1.89 3.69
16. Reuben on Rye 1.89 3.69
17. Ham & Swiss 1.55 2.99
Hot Pepper Rings 10 .20
Chips45

Hobo Baked Potato
20. Butter 1.09
21. Butter, Bacon Bits 1.19
22. Butter, Sour Cream 1.29
23. Butter, Sour Cream, Bacon Bits 1.49
24. Melted Cheddar 1.69
25. Melted Cheddar, Bacon Bits 1.79
26. Melted Cheddar, Broccoli/ Cauliflower 2.19
27. Melted Cheddar, Mushrooms 2.19
28. Melted Cheddar, Diced Tomatoes, Bell Peppers, Diced Onions 2.19
29. Sour Cream, Chopped Cheddar, Bacon Bits 2.19
30. Chili, Chopped Cheddar, Onions (optional) 2.59
31. Ham & Melted Cheddar 2.59
32. Roast Beef, Melted Cheddar, Mushrooms 2.79
33. Taco Tots 2.79
Chili, Onion, Tomato, Lettuce, Chopped Cheddar, Sour Cream

HUNGRY HOBO
PH. 337-5270
517 Riverside Dr.
Sun.-Thurs. 10:30 am-10:00 pm
Fri. & Sat. 10:30 am-11:00 pm

"I HATE THE WAY THEY WRINKLE MY CLOTHES!"

YOU COULD LEARN A LOT FROM A DUMMY! BUCKLE YOUR SAFETY BELT.

College Club
121 E. College

TUESDAY NIGHT

50¢ DRAWS $1.50 PITCHERS

ALL NIGHT LONG!

Non-alcohol drinks available for 19 & 20 year old customers

Let's Play Ball

The Student Services Committee of the Student Senate has made sports equipment available for free checkout at the University Box Office in the IMU. Just bring your University I.D.

- Softball (mitts, bats, bases, balls) 1 set
- Volleyball (net and ball) 2 sets
- Footballs 2
- Soccerballs 2
- Frisbees 2

Q: What is a "Momix?"

A: It's a milk supplement for veal calves

But it's also the sexiest, funniest, most inventive dance company today. In a word, Momix is MARVELOUS!

August 31, 8 p.m.
All tickets $10.00
For tickets and information, call Hancher Box Office, 335-1160

Hancher

George's
Greek Island
18 S. Clinton - Across From The Pentacrest • 351-6865

Tuesday Special

1/4 Chicken 2.49

Baked Potato or Fries,
Salad & Pita Bread

We need YOU!

WERE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE American Heart Association

PAGLIAI'S PIZZA
Frozen Pizzas Always Available
12" Sausage, Beef, Pepperoni, Canadian Bacon

SERVING BEER AND WINE
Family owned business, 26 years!
"Chosen the best eat in pizza in town,"
UI Student Poll

351-5073 302 E. Bloomington St.
Open 7 Days a Week 4:00 to 1:00 am

HOUSE
IOWA CITY, IA 52240
T LUNCH IN TEN!
s, Soups, Salads

Coming this month on CURIOUS MUSIC

August
30 Phillip Glass interview
September
6 Charles K. Noyes interview
13 The piano music of Erik Satie
20 Michael Farley interview
Curious Music in Iowa
27 Elliot Sharp interview

And more inquisitiveness to come...

Tuesday nights 11 pm-2 am
KRUI FM 89.7
Your Inquisitive Alternative

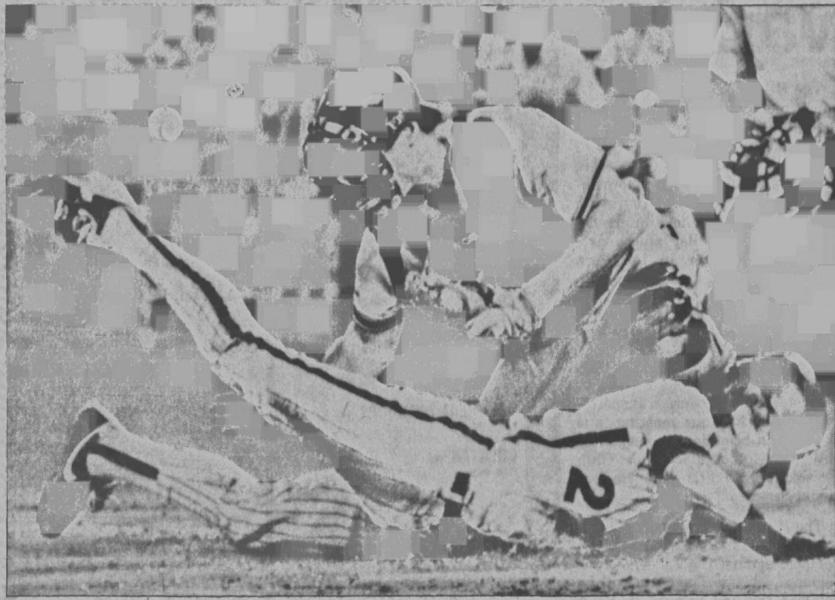

O'S
CLASS, MARGARITAS
DRAWS BAR LIQUOR

Gabe's Oasis
THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 1
SIZES!
DRINK SPECIALS 9 PM-CLOSE PARTY
and are deeply appreciated)

ATTENTION!
ers Wanted!
a University Sports
ting experienced Goalkeepers also competitive league
g experienced soccer ve "A" and recreational ill be provided.
ct evenings:
5

EAT IOWA
RIP-OFF
semi-finals
1st, Finals
e Red Stallion male dancers
w York compete for you're the judge!
DIES NIGHT
IOWA with dancers from irty Dancing
★ Men of Texas
★ 1st Class Males
tasia
LION
oralville ck east
Stop

Sports

San Francisco Giants catcher Bob Melvin loses control of the ball as Philadelphia's Bob Dernier dives face first into home to steal a run during first-inning action in Philadelphia Monday night.

Cone tosses one-hitter; Mets beat San Diego 6-0

NEW YORK (AP) — David Cone pitched a one-hitter and rookie Gregg Jefferies had three hits, including his first major-league home run, as New York beat San Diego, 6-0.

The Mets have won six of their last seven games, and maintained a 6½-game lead in the National League East over second-place Pittsburgh.

Keith Hernandez added a solo home run off Eric Show, 11-11, who allowed four runs in five innings.

Cone, 14-3, struck out eight and walked two en route to his third shutout of the season and fifth complete game. It was the Mets' first one-hitter since Sept. 17, 1984 when Dwight Gooden beat Chicago. It was New York's 17th one-hitter, the club has never had a no-hitter.

Dodgers 2, Expos 1

MONTREAL — Alfredo Griffin hit his first home run of the season and 20-year-old Ramon Martinez won his first major league game as the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the Montreal Expos 2-1 Monday night for their fourth straight victory.

With the score tied 1-1 in the eighth, Griffin homered with one out over the right-field fence to send the Expos to their 13th loss in 18 games.

Ramon Martinez, 1-1, in only his fourth career game, went seven innings allowing seven hits and an unearned run to beat veteran Dennis Martinez. Jay Howell finished the game for his 17th save.

Pirates 8, Reds 1

CINCINNATI — Andy Van Slyke's two-run double highlighted a four-run first inning that shook Pittsburgh out of a scoring slump as the Pirates beat Cincinnati, 8-1.

The Pirates, who had scored just 22 runs in their last 12 games, batted around in the first inning off rookie Keith Brown, 1-1.

Pittsburgh then sent seven batters

Major League Baseball

to the plate for two more runs in the second off reliever Rob Dibble as they rolled to just their third victory in eight games.

Phillies 3, Giants 0
PHILADELPHIA — Shane Rawley allowed four hits for six innings in his first start since coming off the disabled list and Bob Dernier stole home as Philadelphia beat San Francisco, 3-0.

The Phillies snapped a five-game losing streak as they won for the second time in the last 15 games. It was the Giants' fifth loss in their last six games.

Cardinals 3, Braves 2

ATLANTA — Pedro Guerrero hit a three-run homer to lead the St. Louis Cardinals past the Atlanta Braves, 3-2.

Guerrero, who batted 12-for-28 in his first full week with the Cardinals after being acquired for pitcher John Tudor from Los Angeles, was named National League Player of the Week earlier in the day.

White Sox 3, Tigers 2

CHICAGO — Carlton Fisk and Ken Williams homered and Donnie Hill singled home the tiebreaking run in the fifth inning Monday night as the Chicago White Sox beat Detroit 3-2, the Tigers' third straight loss.

Bill Long, 6-9, allowed seven hits in 7½ innings. Bobby Thigpen finished for his 28th save, giving up pinch hitter Dwayne Murphy's RBI single in the ninth.

Steve Searcy lost in his major league debut. Searcy, the International League's most valuable pitcher, was recalled from Class AAA Toledo earlier in the day. He yielded three runs on five hits in 7½ innings.

Royals 6, Indians 3
KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Danny Tartabull's two-run homer capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning and the Kansas City Royals beat the Cleveland Indians 6-3 for their fourth straight victory.

Willie Wilson drew a leadoff walk from Rich Yett and Scott Bailes, 8-12, relieved. Kurt Stillwell sacrificed, Kevin Seitzer singled home the tying run and George Brett singled. Reliever Don Gordon got Pat Tabler to ground out but Tartabull followed with his 20th home run.

Bret Saberhagen, 13-13, gave up 11 hits over eight innings. Steve Farr pitched the ninth for his 16th save.

Blue Jays 6, Brewers 1

MILWAUKEE — George Bell hit a three-run homer and Lloyd Moseby had three hits, leading the Toronto Blue Jays over the Milwaukee Brewers 6-1.

Jim Clancy, 8-13, won with a seven-hitter. He struck out five and walked none in his fourth complete game.

Bell hit his 18th homer in the sixth for a 4-0 lead Tom Filer, 5-8.

Twins 3, Rangers 2

ARLINGTON, Texas — John Moses' RBI single capped a three-run second inning Monday night and the Minnesota Twins beat the Texas Rangers 3-2.

The Twins strung together five singles with two outs in the second. Brian Harper and Randy Bush started the outburst and Greg Gagne, Al Newman and Moses followed with run-scoring hits.

Fred Toliver, 6-3, allowed two runs on seven hits in six innings. Jeff Reardon went the final inning for his 33rd save as the Twins' stopped a three-game losing streak.

Jeff Russell, 10-6, gave up eight hits in his fifth complete game.

Final NFL cuts claim Wilson, many other veteran players

(AP)—Quarterback Marc Wilson, who spent five years trying to become the solution to the Los Angeles Raiders' quarterback problem, was told Monday that he wasn't the answer in Green Bay either.

But Wilson, an eight-year NFL veteran, wasn't the only "name" cut on a typical last Monday of the NFL preseason, a day of heart-break not only for rookies and free agents, but for dozens of veterans as NFL teams got down to the 47-player limit by the 3 p.m. deadline.

"I know what the business is like, how ruthless it can be," said 32-year-old Doug Betters, a one-time Pro Bowl defensive end and 11-year veteran waived by Miami. "I was just an insurance policy the last two years. I don't think I was ever given a chance to compete for a starting job."

Rusty Hilger, who beat out Wilson for the Raiders' quarterback job last year then lost it back to him was also among those cut. So was defensive end Bob Buczkowski, who spent two years on injured reserve after being the Raiders' top draft choice in 1986.

Among the other veterans to go were a group with recent Super Bowl rings: tight end Clint Didier and running back Keith Griffin of the defending champion Washington Redskins; wide receiver Stacy Robinson, guard Chris Godfrey and safety Greg Lasker of the New York Giants' 1986 champions; and wide receiver Keith Ortega and defensive back Reggie Phillips, who returned an interception 26 yards for a touchdown in Chicago's 46-10 Super Bowl victory over New England after the 1985 season.

"It was probably the toughest cut we had to make," Redskins general manager Bobby Beathard said of the release of Didier, who lost his job to second-year man Craig McEwen. "But we felt Craig would help us more with our passing game. He was a little more maneuverable."

The Rams, meanwhile, were left with just one quarterback — Jim Everett — after cutting backups Steve Dils and Hugh Millen. Millen was immediately claimed by Atlanta, leaving Coach John Robinson to say that he would reactivate Dils on Tuesday if he cleared waivers.

Among the other cuts were Paul McFadden, whose 91 field goals were more than any Philadelphia Eagle in history; strong safety Lester Lyles, a two-year starter for the New York Jets; wide receiver Frankie Neal, Green Bay's second-leading receiver as a rookie last year with 36 receptions; wide receiver Mike Jones, New Orleans' leading receiver in 1986; running back Walter Abercrombie and line-backer Robin Cole of Pittsburgh; defensive backs Russell Carter and Ron Fellows of the Raiders and four other Super Bowl veterans: running back Gene Lang and defensive back Steve Wilson of Denver; defensive lineman Jerome Sully of the Giants' 1986 team, who was cut by the Colts, and center Pete Brock of New England.

Houston cut defensive lineman Charles Martin, best known for his body slam of Chicago quarterback Jim McMahon while with Green Bay in 1986, a play that got him a two-game suspension.

In addition, veteran tight end Kellen Winslow, once an All-Pro, was suspended by San Diego for refusing to play. Winslow, who suffered a severe knee injury in 1984, said he was unfit; the Chargers said he was fit.

Cincinnati waived its rights to two holdouts, fullback Larry Kinnebrew and defensive back Robert Jackson, leaving them free to sign with anyone.

Center Mike Baab was traded to New England for a draft choice by Cleveland, which also cut veteran defensive lineman Al "Bubba" Baker and Dave Puzzuoli. Baker was the defensive rookie of the year with Detroit in 1978.

And there was a trade involving two No. 1 draft choices — the New Orleans Saints sent their top pick of last year, defensive lineman Shawn Knight, to Denver for their first pick this year, nose tackle Ted Gregory.

Mr. Cohen
2 for 1 All Drinks
9 to 11 Mon.-Thurs.
Old Capitol Center

BO JAMES
Food & Drink Emporium
$1 Margaritas Domestic Bottles Bar Drinks
9 pm-Midnight Sun.-Thurs.

the DEAD WOOD 6 S. Dubuque Cold Brew!

75,000
Quality Used Books At These 4 Shops!
MURPHY-BROOKFIELD
Scholarly Used Books In The Liberal Arts
219 N. Gilbert

haunted bookshop
Large Selection of Literature History and the Arts
520 Washington

The Bookery
More Than A Bookstore
Magazines, Ephemera, Etc.
116 S. Linn

AMARANTH BOOKS
Literature, History The Sciences
332 E. Washington

TUESDAY SPECIAL
All Day Every Tuesday
$2.39
3 pieces of the Colonel's original recipe or extra crispy chicken, potatoes & gravy, cole slaw, and a buttermilk biscuit; all for only $2.39!
Kentucky Fried Chicken.
361-6180 5810 MURKIN AVE. IOWA CITY
561-8088 809 1st AVE. CORNELL

Micky's Bar & Grill
TUESDAY
CONGLOMERATION
Ham, Turkey, Swiss & Cojock Cheese grilled on wheat and teamed up with our house dressing.
$1.99 4 to 10 pm
$1 Pints of Guinness Stout, Harp or Bass Ale s-d.
Open Daily at 11 am
11 S. Dubuque

"Come out" with us!
Celebrate our 1988-89 season debut with one of the world's premiere chamber orchestras.

All-Mozart Program:
Overture to The Impresario, K. 486
Clarinet Concerto in A, K. 622
Adagio for Violin and Orchestra in E, K. 261
Symphony No. 41 in C ("The Jupiter"), K. 551

The SAINT PAUL CHAMBER ORCHESTRA

"If ever there was a case of love at first sound, this is it." Newsweek
With Christopher Hogwood conducting.
"The joy of simply making music is his fuel." Chicago Tribune

$19.50/$17.50 Nonstudent
$15.60/$14.00 UI Student
UI Students may charge to their University accounts
Call 335-1160 or toll-free in Iowa outside Iowa City 1-800-HANCHER
The University of Iowa Iowa City, Iowa Hancher

Thursday September 15 8 p.m.

THAT'S RENTERTAINMENT

HANNA SCHYGULLA DEBORAH HARRY Forever, Lulu

Prince St Station
Downtown & Queens

1 THAT'S RENTERTAINMENT DOWNTOWN
218 E. Washington 338-0977

2 THAT'S RENTERTAINMENT CORALVILLE
Hwy. 6 West 338-0980

3 THAT'S RENTERTAINMENT RIVERSIDE DR.
517 S. Riverside Dr. 338-7040

4 THAT'S RENTERTAINMENT EASTSIDE
1566 1st Ave. 338-2615

Arts/Entert

Old Crea

talks of a

By Kevin Goulding
The Daily Iowan

The Old Cream Theatre is one of Iowa's best kept secrets. It is, if you can describe something as a secret that plays more than 65,000 annually at home in Garrison and 50,000 in fall and spring touring seasons.

Housed in a former co-op dairy, the theater complex includes two stages, a restaurant and a courtyard beer garden. Founded in 1971, the theatre group traces conception back to the '60s era and appropriately, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Artistic Director and founder Thomas Johnson recalls — "It was 1971 and the Vietnam War was raging, people were dropping out, pursuing alternative lifestyles, growing mushrooms. I was teaching (Iowa State University), I had just turned 30 and I was restless. Remember the Kent State killing? I was doing 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' on campus, people were protesting, there were open mic nights, all this action was going on and here I was in this auditorium doing a 400-year-old play and struck me. I wanted more action."

Responding to an ad in the paper by a group of artists in Garrison, Johnson made his move. "The group, which included potter, sculptors and printmakers, had a tile factory on the edge of town with a kiln and workshops. Aspiring to establish an artists' community, they were looking for theatre and dance people. I fell in love with the idea. We quit our jobs, packed up the children and moved. Six months later, all the artists were

NOW HIRING

Shirts, C
Employeee
Stagehand

The University of Hancher

Quit si
Creating A
WELCOM

RIVER ROOM
THE RO
◆ Outsto ◆ Break

UNION III PANTRY
FOR TH
◆ Choic
◆ Pastrie

Iowa Memorial Union
Caterings
TO COM
◆ From r
receptio

IOWA M

Arts/Entertainment

Old Creamery head talks of art in Amana

By Kevin Goulding
The Daily Iowan

The Old Creamery Theatre is one of Iowa's best kept secrets. That is, if you can describe something as a secret that plays to more than 65,000 annually at its home in Garrison and 50,000 in its fall and spring touring seasons.

Housed in a former co-op dairy, the theater complex includes two stages, a restaurant and a courtyard beer garden. Founded in 1971, the theatre group traces its conception back to the '60s era and, appropriately, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Artistic Director and founder Thomas Johnson recalls — "It was 1971 and the Vietnam War was raging, people were dropping out, pursuing alternative lifestyles, growing mushrooms. I was teaching (Iowa State University), I had just turned 30 and I was restless. Remember the Kent State killings? I was doing 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' on campus, people were protesting, there were open microphones, all this action was going on and here I was in this auditorium doing a 400-year-old play and it struck me. I wanted more action."

Responding to an ad in the paper by a group of artists in Garrison, Johnson made his move. "This group, which included potters, sculptors and printmakers, had a tile factory on the edge of town with a kiln and workshops. Aspiring to establish an artists' community, they were looking for theater and dance people. I fell in love with the idea. We quit our jobs, packed up the children and moved. Six months later, all the artists were gone but two."

One of the groups first moves was to acquire the creamery co-op, an abandoned wreck. The first year was easy. They purchased the building for $3,000 and sold $4,000 worth of salvage. "Then we started putting roofs on, and next we realized we needed a three-year plan, then a five-year plan," explains Johnson. "In my heart of hearts I thought maybe we'd be here a year, and I'd write a book about how not to start a theater. Then I woke up and realized I'd been here 19 years."

In addition to its home season and touring to Iowa schools, Iowa's only professional equity theater recently finished its second full season

Artistic Director and founder Thomas Johnson recalls — "It was 1971 and the Vietnam War was raging, people were dropping out, pursuing alternative lifestyles, growing mushrooms. I was teaching (ISU), I had just turned 30 and I was restless. Remember the Kent State killings? I was doing 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' on campus, people were protesting, there were open microphones, all this action was going on and here I was in this auditorium doing a 400-year-old play, and it struck me. I wanted more action."

at ISU where it played as part of arts season. In addition, OCTC will the Iowa State Center's summer perform three productions through

The cast of "Cotton Patch Gospel," OCTC's opening production at the Amana Visitor Center Theatre in Amana.

October in the newly constructed Amana Visitor Center theater. The season will coincide with the World Ag Expo scheduled in the Amana Colonies Sept. 7-10.

The challenge to balance the budget is a continual struggle. "We're struggling to make payroll on Monday," lamented Johnson. "Most non-profit theaters require 50-60 percent in subsidies. We're operating at 75 percent from ticket income. We'd just be making that money and generating 40 percent subsidy."

And what does Johnson think today about his location in rural Garrison? "It doesn't make diddly-squat difference if you're in Garrison, Iowa, New York City or Minneapolis, if you're getting the audience to respond the way you want them to, what you've set out to achieve, it's just as satisfying no matter where you are. It's the beauty of live theater."

Chapman, Michael top 'Billboard' lists

The following are the top record hits and leading popular compact disks as they appear in this week's issue of Billboard magazine. Copyright 1988, Billboard Publications, Inc. Reprinted with permission.

HOT SINGLES

1. "Monkey" George Michael (Columbia)
2. "I Don't Wanna Go On with You Like That" Elton John (MCA)
3. "I Don't Wanna Live Without Your Love" Chicago (Reprise)
4. "Sweet Child o' Mine" Guns N' Roses (Geffen)
5. "Simply Irresistible" Robert Palmer (EMI-Manhattan)
6. "Fast Car" Tracy Chapman (Elektra)
7. "Roll With It" Steve Winwood (Virgin)
8. "Perfect World" Huey Lewis & The News (Chrysalis)
9. "Love Will Save the Day" Whitney Houston (Arista)
10. "1-2-3" Gloria Estefan & Miami Sound Machine (Epic)
11. "Make Me Lose Control" Eric Carmen (Arista)
12. "Hands to Heaven" Breathe (A&M)
13. "When It's Love" Van Halen (Warner Bros.)
14. "Sign Your Name" Terence Trent D'Arby (Columbia)
15. "If It Isn't Love" New Edition (MCA)
16. "I'll Always Love You" Taylor Dayne (Arista)
17. "Another Part of Me" Michael Jackson (Epic)
18. "Nobody's Fool" Kenny Loggins (Columbia)
19. "All Fired Up" Pat Benatar (Chrysalis)

20. "It Would Take a Strong Strong Man" Rick Astley (RCA)

TOP CD'S

1. "Tracy Chapman" Tracy Chapman (Elektra)—Platinum (More than 1 million units sold.)
2. "Hysteria" Def Leppard (Mercury)—Platinum
3. "Roll With It" Steve Winwood (Virgin)
4. "Appetite for Destruction" Guns & Roses (Geffen)—Platinum
5. "He's the DJ, I'm the Rapper" D.J. Jazzy Jeff & The Fresh Prince (Jive)—Platinum
6. "Faith" George Michael (Columbia)—Platinum
7. "OU812" Van Halen (Warner Bros.)
8. "Dirty Dancing" Soundtrack (RCA)—Platinum
9. "Richard Marx" Richard Marx (EMI-Manhattan)—Platinum
10. "Open Up and Say Ahh" Poison (Enigma)—Platinum
11. "Long Cold Winter" Cinderella (Mercury)
12. "Let It Loose" Gloria Estefan & Miami Sound Machine (Epic)—Platinum
13. "Heavy Nova" Robert Palmer (EMI-Manhattan)
14. "Small World" Huey Lewis & The News (Chrysalis)
15. "The Hardline According to Terence Trent D'Arby" Terence Trent D'Arby (Columbia)—Platinum
16. "Kick" INXS (Atlantic)—Platinum
17. "Reg Strikes Back" Elton John (MCA)
18. "More Dirty Dancing" Soundtrack (RCA)—Platinum
19. "Stronger Than Pride" Sade (Epic)—Platinum

The Daily Break

BLOOM COUNTY

Doonesbury

NOW HIRING!

Waiters, Cafe Employees, and Stagehands

The University of Iowa
Hancher

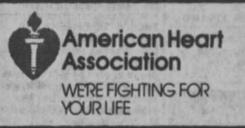

We are looking for a select group of enthusiastic University of Iowa students who interact well with people and enjoy the performing arts.

Interviews will be held on September 1, 6, and 7.

Sign up at the Campus Information Center, IMU, for an interview time beginning Monday, August 29. Sign-ups close when all interview times are taken.

The Iowa Center for the Arts is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. United States law requires that all applicants must be able to show proof of identity and right to work in the U.S. within 3 days of commencement of work.

Quit smoking.

Creating A New Culinary Tradition

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!

THE ROOM WITH A VIEW...

- ◆ Outstanding Salad Bar ◆ Stir Fry
- ◆ Breakfast Specials ◆ "Home" Cooking

FOR THOSE ON THE GO...

- ◆ Deli Sandwiches ◆ Tacos
- ◆ Gyros ◆ Burgers ◆ Pizza ◆ Salad Bar

FOR THE GOURMET TASTE...

- ◆ Choice Coffees ◆ Croissant Sandwiches
- ◆ Pastries ◆ Great Midwestern Ice Cream

FOR A MORE ELEGANT ATMOSPHERE...

- ◆ Featuring foods of quality and distinction, reservations available.

TO COMPLEMENT ANY OCCASION...

- ◆ From riverbank barbecues to formal wedding receptions, a special flavor for every occasion.

IOWA MEMORIAL UNION

Crossword

Edited by Eugene T. Maleska

ACROSS	35 Time period	53 Spanish title
1 U.S. Coast	36 Actress	54 Twain novel
Guard woman	37 Eye	63 SW Asian country
5 Pile neatly	38 membrane	64 Proportion
10 Throat-clearing sound	40 Main artery	65 Money exchange fee
14 Roof edge	42 Italian wine center	66 Having all one's marbles
15 — d'hote	43 Mentally defective person	67 Holding device
16 Opposite of yep	45 Son of Gad: Gen. 46:16	68 — and robbers
17 British Navy woman	46 Moray, e.g.	69 Seattle 1977 Derby winner
18 Foreigner	47 A king of Judea	70 Pulls
19 Speaker of baseball	48 Thanksgiving Day sauce	71 Gaelic
20 Scarlet weaverbird	49 Thanksgiving Day source	DOWN
23 Ott or Tormé	51 Ration-book agcy.	1 Stitches
24 Liquid meas.		2 Segment
25 — Hill, 1940 song		3 Assert
30 Auriculate		4 Change a title
		5 Groom, e.g.
		6 Falsehood, sometimes
		7 Red powder used in India
		8 Priests and bishops, e.g.
		9 Nairobi is its capital
		10 Oppositionist
		11 Cornucopia
		12 Long heroic poem
		13 Engage, as gears
		21 Spider network
		22 Escape
		25 Sandy shore
		26 River in France

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ALAS PAVO WARP
LION TAMED OVER
EZRA ALENE RENO
CATCHWORDS DRIP
SAKI ISSEI
EPIC AREAS
SOD DECAL ASTER
ATOP PENAL TOME
CIGAR DINES MID
CESAR ZEAL
SHEBA ONCE
GREW WATCHWORDS
AERO ALIAS REDO
PAIR ROOST MAIL
SPED DONE SMEE

Iowa Book & Supply Co.
Downtown Across from The Old Capitol
Iowa's Most Complete Book Selection Featuring 40,000 Titles

Arts/Entertainment

Famed pianist Van Cliburn muses on his life and career, feels good, younger than ever

NEW YORK (AP) — In April 1958, a quiet young Texan brought classical music to the heart of America and captivated a nation by winning the Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow.

Van Cliburn was the first American ever to win the coveted prize, and he won by playing the explosive and romantic "Piano Concerto."

He stopped performing a decade ago to take an "intermission" from his hectic concert and recording schedule and is now returning to the concert stage.

"I love music passionately," the pianist said. "It is my life. But I think of the time necessary to make something ready for the concert stage. It's a lonely procedure and a solitary life."

"A friend said I certainly move at a snail's pace," he said with a laugh. "I don't want to rush this thing. I do love my audiences. Through the years it has been so heart-warming to hear from people who remembered hearing me and want to hear me again."

Cliburn's first performance since Oct. 1, 1978, was last Dec. 8 at a White House dinner for Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. Before he left the White House, he promised conductors Mstislav Rostropovich and Zubin Mehta that he would appear with the National Symphony and the New York Philharmonic.

He also received an award but did not play at a Carnegie Hall concert in June which unveiled the 500,000th piano built in America by Steinway.

In September, he will play at the inauguration of the Dallas Symphony's new hall. And he has been talking to RCA Records, which is releasing his old records as compact discs, about recording again.

Cliburn stopped accepted future dates in 1977, intending to give himself about a year's sabbatical.

"When I was young, I told some little friends, 'I feel I will work very hard in the first part of my life,' he said. 'I want to have an intermission. I want to take the intermission while I'm young enough to enjoy it and get something out of it. I feel I will work very hard the last part of my life.'"

He began playing piano when he was 3 and made his orchestral debut with the Houston Symphony when he was 12. The next year he performed at Carnegie Hall, made his New York Philharmonic debut at 19 and went to the Soviet Union at 23.

"It has been playing, playing, playing," he said.

Cliburn took his "intermission" when he did because both his father and his manager, Sol Hurok, died in 1974.

"I didn't get to spend too much time with my father. Some managers rearranged certain dates so I had a little more time with him at the end. I wouldn't exchange that for anything. There are certain things in life you never get back," he said.

Cliburn received invitations to play but was enjoying his social life too much, so he extended his holiday. Then the White House called on Nov. 17, requesting that Cliburn play at the Gorbachev dinner.

"I was very flattered by the invitation. Then I thought what an interesting and lovely experience it would be," he said. "I had been practicing... I was enjoying my work."

Cliburn had given up his long-time apartment across the street from Carnegie Hall and bought a house in Fort Worth, Texas, moving in with his mother, Rildia Bee Cliburn. She was his only piano teacher until he went to the Juilliard School at 17.

"My mother is my chief critic," he said. "After the White House phone call came, I asked her, 'Do you think I can do it?' She said, 'Well, I don't know. Let me hear you play a program tonight.' She listened. She said, 'I want to hear this again tomorrow night.' I was practicing feverishly. The next night I played my little program for her. She said, 'I think you can go ahead and call and accept.' She is critical; she makes little suggestions. She has a great sense of style and drama."

"She thinks I've had a long enough intermission and I've got to get back to the second half of my life," Vladimir Horowitz recommended the same thing.

In 1983, Cliburn went to a small party for Emil Gilels the last time Gilels played in New York. "I thought possibly he would give me a lecture. Instead, he said, 'I'm so proud of you for having the strength to take time off and smell the flowers.' He said, 'You'll know when to start playing again. Never think about time.'"

"When I was a child, my mother never wanted me to think about how long I was going to practice. She said, 'If you do, you're not concentrating on what you're doing. When you go to the piano, only think of accomplishing something. If you can do something in a short amount of time, fine. Practice until it is what you want.'"

"It was terribly providential for me having my teacher in the house, ready to correct mistakes immediately," he said. "Children of parents who aren't trained go to a lesson and it takes another lesson just to correct things. In my case it was already corrected and I was on to other things."

Cliburn would like to perform in the Soviet Union next season — Gorbachev had asked when he'd be visiting.

"I can not believe it has been 30 years since I was in Moscow," he said. "I feel younger today than I did then. I feel so good."

Record industry reflects on the pros, cons of music videos

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Music videos have become one of the sharpest promotional tools for records since radio play, but their usefulness may be waning.

Not all artists need, or want, their MTV, and record company executives concede that after years of trying, they simply cannot make money selling video clips to consumers.

While costs have increased, outlets for showing music videos have diminished from several syndicated shows to just two continuous programming cable channels and six major cable shows lasting from 14 hours a day to one hour a week.

Still, such stars as Tiffany, Terence Trent D'Arby and George Michael owe their success to the image they present through slick video productions that cost anywhere from $10,000 to $225,000 to produce.

"When videos first started, it was an emotional point for everyone to ask for one, and it made sense," said Jeff Gold, vice president of creative services for A&M Records. "I can remember five years ago that $100,000 was an unthinkable amount, and now $100,000 is a regular cost for a major production."

"Three years ago, I said there was no market for music videos in retail stores. That holds true today. We don't even stock it — it just isn't worth it to us," said Allan Caplan of Omaha-based Applause Video, with 85 retail outlets.

Record companies, who finance artists' video production, tend to view music videos as strictly a promotional vehicle, according to Jack Rovner, a marketing vice president for CBS Records. The companies usually make the initial outlay for the production then seek repayment tied to the success of the record the video is promoting.

"But 85 percent of our records fail to break even, and in that case we shoulder the entire cost," Gold said.

"What has changed in the past five years is the amount of scrutiny about why we are doing a video: What is it going to yield for the artist? Can we get a placement (air time) for the video? And will we realize our goals and the artist's goals," Rovner said.

"It's always been our feeling that you should come see the band live, because there's no way to translate the energy and the excitement of what goes on stage and try to put it inside a box the size of a TV set," said Alex Van Halen, drummer of the rock group Van Halen.

For its "5150" album, Van Halen released no promotional videos, but later made a concert-length film from which video programs edited some clips. Similarly, the band has decided to promote its "OU812" album with a concert. Both albums reached the top of the charts without a video.

"Sometimes we will kick back and spend the (promotional) money putting a band on the road," said A&M's Gold. "You can put a band out on the road for a long time for what it costs to do a video, and in some cases, the money is better spent."

No one denies that videos played in heavy rotation on Music Television (MTV), Video Hits One (VH-1) or Black Entertainment Television (BET), can mean big sales and instant recognition.

"Music video is as powerful, if not more so, than it has ever been," MTV Senior Vice President Lee Masters said.

Like other music video outlets, MTV has matured in its seven years, with 17 of 168 weekly hours now devoted to non-video programs. The video rotation has dropped from 120 to 80 clips, and audience analysis has begun to determine what videos are presented, and when.

Outlets have refused to show some videos whose content they consider controversial, such as drug use, explicit sexuality or nudity. Record companies also have to take into account that videos are presented in European markets on regular television, sometimes on children's shows.

Lovelist Hoffman dramatizes normal family's AIDS struggle

NEW YORK (AP) — Alice Hoffman calls "At Risk," her seventh work of fiction, "another very small domestic book." Everybody else in the publishing industry is calling it "that AIDS novel."

Even before publication, 20th Century Fox snapped up the film rights to "that AIDS novel" and the Book-of-the-Month Club made it a Main Selection. Hoffman's publisher, G.P. Putnam's Sons, has run off a first printing of 100,000 copies and is spending $100,000 to promote "At Risk" — the kind of publicity campaign usually reserved for authors who grade bon mots on the talk show circuit or write diet and exercise books.

The story Hoffman has chosen to tell is of the Farrells, a painstakingly normal New England family whose world collapses with the discovery that 11-year-old Amanda has contracted AIDS from a blood transfusion. While she battles ostracism from her classmates and struggles for small victories in gym meets, her parents, Ivan and Polly, retreat from one another and her 8-year-old brother, Charlie, languishes from neglect.

The writer's strike has idled her screenwriting for now, and she has not started work on her next novel. What, then, is she working on these days? She smiled. "Birth announcements."

Classifieds

111 Communications Center • 335-5784
11 am deadline for new ads & cancellations.

PERSONAL

CHAINS, RINGS
STEPH'S Wholesale Jewelry
5 S. Dubuque St.
EARRINGS, MORE

FREE Bible correspondence course. Send name, address to: BCC
P.O. Box 1851
Iowa City IA 52244

GHOSTWRITER. When you know WHAT to say but not HOW. For help, call 338-1572. Phone hours 8am-10pm every day.

ABORTION SERVICE
Established since 1973. 6-11 weeks $190, qualified patient; 12-16 weeks also available. Privacy of doctor's office. Experienced gynecologist. WDM-OB-GYN. 515-223-4848 or 1-800-642-6164.

REMOVE unwanted hair permanently. Complimentary consultation. Clinic of Electrolysis. 337-7191.

THE DAILY IOWAN offers Park and Shop Bus and Shop ($10 minimum purchase)

PREGNANT?
We are here to help! FREE PREGNANCY TESTING confidential counseling. Walk-in 9am-1pm MWF or call 351-6556

CONCERN FOR WOMEN
United Federal Savings. Big Suite 210 Iowa City

MRS. TAYLOR, palm and card reader. Tells past, present, future. Moved to new location. Call for appointment. 338-6437.

FREE PREGNANCY TESTING
No appointment needed. Walk-in hours: Monday through Friday, 10:00am-1:00pm. Emma Goldman Clinic 227 N. Dubuque St. 337-2111.

BASIC ASSERTIVENESS TRAINING
Women's Center 335-1486

THE DAILY IOWAN'S HOURS FOR PLACING ADS ARE 8AM-5PM MONDAY THROUGH THURSDAY, 8AM-4PM FRIDAYS, ROOM 111 COMMUNICATIONS CENTER.

WOMEN'S CENTER
needs volunteers. 335-1486
Ask for Jeanne.

SUPPORT GROUPS - FALL 1988
—Friends, Relatives or Partners of People Receiving Psychiatric or Psychological Treatment
—Incest Survivors
—Writing Without Teachers
—A Place for Asian Women
—Women's Spirituality
—Formerly Battered Women
—Health, Fitness and Exercise as a Lifestyle —Divorced and Separated Women
—Single Mothers
—Thesis and Dissertation Support Group
—Newly Gay Women
—Lesbians
—Undergraduate Women (18-25): Dating, Relationships and Friendships with Men
—Black Women
—Jewish Women
—Lesbians Over 40
—Latin American Women
—Survivors of Suicide: For Female Friends, Relatives, and Partners of Person's Who Have Committed Suicide
—Women Over 40
—Women With Chronic Illness and/or Disabilities —Women With Eating Disorders
—Women Artists - Painting and Drawing

WOMEN'S CENTER, 335-1486

EMERALD CITY Returns Gemstones, Crystals, Jewelry Repair. Exotic Indian Ceremonial Imports, Rings, 114 1/2 East College.

GAYLINE - confidential listing, information, referral, T.W.Th 7-9pm. 335-3877.

DISCUSSION GROUPS - FALL, 1988
—Feminist Literature
—Books By and About Women
—Women Who Love Too Much
—Fundamentals of Anti-Racism
—Self: Personal Work and Readings
—Co-dependency in Relationships
—TV, Movies and Magazines
—Women Who Want Us To Be and Who We Are
—WOMEN'S CENTER, 335-1486

BIG TEN Rentals, Inc. has microwaves and refrigerators. Lowest prices in Iowa. Free delivery. 337-RENT.

COMPACT DISC SALE
AT WHOLESALE COST
SALES START AT
$6.80
LIMITED PRESENT AND LIMITED OFFER!
ENDS SEPTEMBER 7, 1988
HAWKEYE VACUUM & SEWING
725 S. Gilbert 338-9158

ENTREPRENEUR CLUB
September 8th/15th
6:30pm, 346 IMU
ORIENTATION MEETING

PERSONAL SERVICE
WASHBOARD LAUNDRY-IT
Laundromat, dry cleaning and drop-off.
1030 Wisconsin
354-5107

CONCERNED? Worried? Don't go it alone! Birthright, an emergency pregnancy service. Confidential, caring, free testing. 338-8665, 1-800-848-LOVE(5683).

THE CRISIS CENTER offers information and referrals, short term counseling, suicide prevention, TDD message relay for the deaf, and excellent volunteer opportunities. Call 351-0140, anytime.

TARDOT and other metaphysical lessons and readings by Jan Gault, experienced instructor. Call 351-5151

CPR TRAINING by pro. Private or group. 354-2275

COUNSELING ASSOCIATES
Professional Staff
Sliding Scale
338-3671
Hours by appointment

THE SHIATSU CLINIC
Stress reduction, drug-free pain relief, relaxation, gentle health improvement.
319 North Dodge
338-4300

RAPE ASSAULT HARASSMENT
Rape Crisis Line
335-6000 (24 hours)

PERSONAL SERVICE

WHAT'S NEW IN IOWA CITY? HAIR CARE & MORE
SALON & RETAIL CENTER

Corner of Burlington & Gilbert
354-HAIR (4247)
NOW OPEN to help you maintain your hair and skin in the very BEST condition.

Sebastian Redken
Paul Mitchell
Nexus
Aveda
...and more
AT GREAT PRICES!

MICROWAVES $30/semester. Compact refrigerators $39/ year. Lowest prices in Iowa. Free delivery. Big Ten Rentals Inc. 337-RENT.

AID'S INFORMATION and anonymous HIV antibody testing available.

FREE MEDICAL CLINIC
120 North Dubuque St.
337-4458
Mondays and Thursdays
6:30pm-8:30pm

MEDICAP PHARMACY
in Coralville. Where it costs less to keep healthy. 354-4354.

PEOPLE MEETING PEOPLE

ALONE & SINGLE? Free brochure. Date-Mates Inc. Box 2328-D73, Decatur IL 62526; 1-800/747-MATE.

SINGLES DATING CLUB. Meet that special person, friendship, marriage. This ad may change your life. Special introductory offer. Please send $1.00 for information packet. 221 East Market, Suite 250-D1, Iowa City IA 52240.

BIGDAY Monthly Newsletter. Opportunity to meet new friends. SASE: FOR YOU, P.O. Box 5751, Coralville IA 52241.

LOVELY? NEED A FRIEND? LOOKING FOR LOVE? PLACE AN AD IN "PEOPLE MEETING PEOPLE" COLUMN.

NEED A MAILBOX? FREE call in service

"Street Address" "Shipping/Packing/Supplies" "Postal Services" "Fax" "Answering Service" No long lines! MAIL BOXES, ETC. USA 221 E. Market (East of Burge) 354-2113

ADOPTION

WE ARE interested in adopting a brother or sister for our adopted son. If you know of anyone considering placing a child for adoption, please call Dan or Gail collect 712-274-1617. Strictly confidential. All medical and legal expenses paid.

ADOPTION: Loving couple, writer and wife, financially secure, wish to adopt newborn. We promise a wonderful life, much love, security, understanding. All expenses paid. Legal, confidential. Help you with housing, counseling. Please call collect 212-995-2351.

SELL AVON EARN EXTRA $$$
Up to 50%
Call Mary, 338-7523
Brenda, 645-2276

GOVERNMENT JOBS, $16,040-$59,220/year. Now it's your chance. 805-687-6000, extension R-9612 for current Federal list.

BOSTON nanny, two children, nonsmoker, references, begins ASAP. Call Debbie after 5pm, 617-332-6182 or 617-244-6158.

BEST PART TIME JOB IN TOWN! Earn $100-$160 per week. Residential home cleaning. Monday through Friday, part time (day hours). Work full week or part of a week. We train. Uniforms and equipment furnished. Need car. Call Merry Madis. 351-2468.

ZACSON TELEMARKETING announces new sales positions open for qualified applicants. If you desire to earn $4,500/ hour plus commission on your sales, we want to talk to you. Call Mr. Edmunds at 338-9900 (1pm-9pm) for consideration.

AIRLINES NOW HIRING. Flight Attendants, Travel Agents, Mechanics, Customer Service. Listings. Salaries to $105K. Entry level positions. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. A-9612.

PART TIME janitorial help needed. Apply 3:30pm-5:30pm, Monday-Friday.
Midwest Janitorial Service
2121 9th Street
Coralville

GOVERNMENT JOBS! Now hiring in your area, both skilled and unskilled. For a list of jobs and application, call 1-815-383-2627 Ext. J-500.

EASY WORK! Excellent pay! Assemble products at home. Call for information. 312-741-8400, extension A-1894.

PERSONAL SERVICE
WASHBOARD LAUNDRY-IT
Laundromat, dry cleaning and drop-off.
1030 Wisconsin
354-5107

CONCERNED? Worried? Don't go it alone! Birthright, an emergency pregnancy service. Confidential, caring, free testing. 338-8665, 1-800-848-LOVE(5683).

THE CRISIS CENTER offers information and referrals, short term counseling, suicide prevention, TDD message relay for the deaf, and excellent volunteer opportunities. Call 351-0140, anytime.

TARDOT and other metaphysical lessons and readings by Jan Gault, experienced instructor. Call 351-5151

CPR TRAINING by pro. Private or group. 354-2275

COUNSELING ASSOCIATES
Professional Staff
Sliding Scale
338-3671
Hours by appointment

THE SHIATSU CLINIC
Stress reduction, drug-free pain relief, relaxation, gentle health improvement.
319 North Dodge
338-4300

RAPE ASSAULT HARASSMENT
Rape Crisis Line
335-6000 (24 hours)

HELP WANTED

POST advertising materials on campus. Write: College Distributors 33 Pebbleshollow Trail Naperville IL 60564

BABYSITTER needed for kindergarten boy; near Horace Mann, M-F, 10am-Noon. 337-9753.

WORK STUDY ONLY. Opening for a CLERK (20 hours/week) in the Psychology Department, University Hospital School. General office work, data coding/entry, bibliography preparation, and file maintenance. Data entry/coding experience is helpful, but not necessary. Good library skills and typing speed of 20-30 wpm are desirable. Work schedule to be arranged. Contact Mary Hossein, 353-6138. Salary is $4.25/hour.

CHARLIE'S Taking applications for cocktail servers and bartenders. Apply in person after 2pm, 102 5th Street, Coralville.

OVERSEAS JOBS. Also Cruise ships. $10,000-$105,000/year! Now Hiring! 320 plus Listings! (1) 805-687-6000 Ext. OJ-9612.

NOW HIRING Registered U of I students for part time custodial positions. University Hospital Housekeeping Department. Day and night shifts. Weekends and holidays required. Apply in person, C157, University Hospital.

WE ARE NOW

Accepting applications for all positions and shifts for the new BURGER KING restaurant, 1445 Boyrum Street (across Hwy 6 Bypass from Hy-Vee on the south side of Iowa City) Interviewing and hiring immediately.

* Flexible Schedule Part or Full-Time

* Special Rate Meals

* Free Comfortable Uniforms

* Competitive Wages

* Ample Advancement Opportunities

Applications are available at the State Job Service of Iowa, 1810 Lower Muscatine Rd. and the downtown BURGER KING, 124 S. Dubuque Street in Iowa City.

Senior Citizen applicants welcome. EOE/AA

NANNY'S EAST Has mother's helper jobs available. Spend an exciting year on the east coast. If you love children, would like to see another part of the country, share family experiences and make new friends, call 201-740-0204 or write Box 625, Livingston NJ 07038.

Rocky Rococo

NOW HIRING ALL POSITIONS
• Competitive Wages
• Drivers start at $3.75/hour plus 50¢ per delivery plus tips
Apply at: ROCKY ROCOCO 118 South Dubuque

NOW HIRING Many positions available. GOLDEN CORRAL 621 South Riverside Drive

NEED CASH? Make money selling your clothes. THE SECOND CAT REBATE SHOP offers top dollar for your fall and summer clothes. Open at noon. Call first. 2203 F Street (across from San Marcos). 338-9454.

PERSONNEL OFFICE KIRKWOOD COMMUNITY COLLEGE
P.O. BOX 2988 CEDAR RAPIDS, IA 52406 319-398-5615 AA/EEO Employer

WORK-STUDY. Old Capitol Museum. Several tour guide positions available starting immediately. 10-20 hours weekly. $4.00 per hour. Most weekends required. Public Relations Experience Necessary. Call 335-0648 for appointment.

NOW HIRING full or part time cocktail servers. Nights and/or days. Apply in person 2-4pm, Monday-Thursday, Iowa River Power Company, EOE.

NOW HIRING one full time day bartender. Apply in person 2-4pm Monday-Thursday, Iowa River Power Company, EOE.

NOW HIRING part time busboys and dishwashers. Apply in person 2-4pm Monday-Thursday, Iowa River Power Company, EOE.

TACO BELL NOW HIRING ALL SHIFTS Start at $3.50/hour, flexible schedule, discount meals, uniforms provided. Apply in person at 213 First Avenue, Coralville.

TENANT COUNSELOR for the Protective Association for Tenants Strong communications skills required in dealing with landlord/tenant issues. Training provided. Beginning fall term. 10-15 hours/week. $4.50/hour. WORK STUDY ONLY Apply: P.A.T. Office 1st Floor IMU 335-3254 Deadline, August 31, 1988

BABYSITTERS needed Monday, September 12, 1988 and Wednesday, September 21, 8am-NOON. Call Karen, 338-8755.

ENERGETIC and enthusiastic people needed to fill positions immediately. Apply in person at: Bruegger's Bagel Bakery 225 S. Iowa Avenue

HOUSEPARENTS/COUNSELORS Excellent opportunity to gain unique experience supervising developmentally disabled children and adults in the Iowa City, Washington and Monticello areas. Live-in positions include room, board and salary plus medical, dental and life insurances, paid vacations. Some positions allow application to study or have daytime employment. Send resume to: Systems Unlimited, 1040 William Street, Suite A, Iowa City 52240. EOE/AA.

RN The Emma Goldman Clinic, a non-profit women's health facility, is seeking a highly motivated RN to work in our client services. Responsibilities include well woman gynecology exam and birth control counseling and assessment in a relaxed, non-educational setting. This RN would also work with clients in our first trimester abortion services with training provided. Previous experience in a hospital health care and administration desirable. Excellent communication skills and pro-choice beliefs necessary. Full time salary, excellent hours and liberal benefits. Application deadline September 2, 1988. Emma Goldman Clinic 227 North Dubuque Street Iowa City IA 52245 319-337-2112

BABYSITTERS needed Monday, September 12, 1988 and Wednesday, September 21, 8am-NOON. Call Karen, 338-8755.

ENERGETIC and enthusiastic people needed to fill positions immediately. Apply in person at: Bruegger's Bagel Bakery 225 S. Iowa Avenue

HOUSEPARENTS/COUNSELORS Excellent opportunity to gain unique experience supervising developmentally disabled children and adults in the Iowa City, Washington and Monticello areas. Live-in positions include room, board and salary plus medical, dental and life insurances, paid vacations. Some positions allow application to study or have daytime employment. Send resume to: Systems Unlimited, 1040 William Street, Suite A, Iowa City 52240. EOE/AA.

RN The Emma Goldman Clinic, a non-profit women's health facility, is seeking a highly motivated RN to work in our client services. Responsibilities include well woman gynecology exam and birth control counseling and assessment in a relaxed, non-educational setting. This RN would also work with clients in our first trimester abortion services with training provided. Previous experience in a hospital health care and administration desirable. Excellent communication skills and pro-choice beliefs necessary. Full time salary, excellent hours and liberal benefits. Application deadline September 2, 1988. Emma Goldman Clinic 227 North Dubuque Street Iowa City IA 52245 319-337-2112

BABYSITTERS needed Monday, September 12, 1988 and Wednesday, September 21, 8am-NOON. Call Karen, 338-8755.

ENERGETIC and enthusiastic people needed to fill positions immediately. Apply in person at: Bruegger's Bagel Bakery 225

HELP WANTED

WORK-STUDY position available. Museum of Natural History. Good communication skills, ability to work with public, and interest in natural history desirable. $4.25 hour. Call 335-0482 for appointment.

LIVE IN childcare NYC, Iowa suburb. Carefully screened, needs responsible, loving parents to care for one child. Good other benefits; airfare paid. One year commitment. Call Day 814-747-1445.

BABYSITTER needed, M-F, 7pm-midnight. Own transportation, references. Theresa, 351-0482 after 5pm.

FARM HAND needed to work weekends in exchange for full room and board. Theresa, 351-0482 after 5pm.

NOW HIRING daytime prep work full or part time inc. experience. Monday-Thursday, 8am-4pm, Friday.

YES, THE DAILY IOWAN CLASSIFIED AD DEPARTMENT IS OPEN DURING THE NON-HOURS WE ARE OPEN 8AM-5PM MONDAY-THURSDAY, 8AM-4PM FRIDAYS.

ASTHMA? Three week study of nebulizer medications. Must be non-steroid dependent. COMPENSATION. Call 335-7556 or 356-6500.

PART TIME DELIVERY HELP WANTED Afternoons 1 pm-5 pm, Mon-Fri. Good driving record required. Apply at KIRWAN FURNITURE 1550 1st Ave. Iowa City (next to Wendy's)

AND PASTEUR PERSON IN THE CLASSIFIED AT THE DAILY IOWAN skills as a must. Part time 11:00 am-3:00 pm (could be used season).

To apply: p an application in Communications Center or on August 22.

IMU FOOD SERVICE is now accepting applications for FALL EMPLOYMENT. Sign up for interview at Campus Information Center Iowa Memorial Union

PAPER CARRIERS NEEDED IN THE FOLLOWING AREAS: Jefferson, Market, Governor, Lucas, Dodge Washington, Iowa Ave., Governor, Lucas

Apply: The Daily Iowan Circulation Department 335-5783

NOW HIRING. All positions D.I. audio crews, office staff. Mobile Music Systems, 354-4440

KITCHEN help and drivers wanted immediately. Full or part time. Apply in person Monday, Friday. Sam the Chicken Man 314 1/2 East Burlington

WORK-STUDY cleaner for Willowbrook School, M-W, F 2 1/2 hours/day, 4pm-6:30pm. 337-3871

SALES: Party Favor Firm. A Total of Glass, serving on-campus representative for sales to Greek Houses during 1988-89 school year. Make your own hours and average $400/month in only 10 hours/week. Samples, Sales Materials, and Training at no cost to you. Line up an interview with our National Recruiter at 1-800-331-3801. Ask for Tasha Cummings.

JACK AND JILL Nursery School needs an assistant teacher to substitute from 7:30am-3:30pm, September 1 through September 15. Dial 338-3900, 121 Highland Court.

EARN MONEY AT HOME! Electronic Jewelry, Toys, Electronics, etc. Full time or part time work available. Call (Refundable) 1-407-744-3000 Ext. 8338 24 hours.

STUDENTS desiring resume-building experience. Embusment communications wanted to place resumes across the country for support of the University. Excellent working conditions, no quotas, flexible schedule. Evening work hours - must be available each week three of the following nights: M, Tu, W, Th - from 5:30-9:30pm, $4.00 hour with merit increase. Call the UI Foundation at 335-0482. August 29 from 5-8pm or Tuesday August 30 from 7-9pm or Wednesday, August 31 from 3-5pm. Ask for Beth or Robert at 335-3305.

STUDENT NURSING ASSISTANT involves general nursing assistance on the Inpatient Unit, Division of Developmental Disabilities (University Hospital School), 20 hours a week. Apply with every other weekend of 10 hours. Contact Doris Houser, 356-1758, room 302, University Hospital School.

CHILD CARE OPPORTUNITY Part time of full time for an 18 month old girl in a creative family in Iowa City. Call Chris at 354-2623.

BULT carriers wanted for Press in Iowa City. East side and West side. Call Kathy, 335-9255.

NEED: Grad students to serve as note takers in the following areas: Art, Astronomy, Economics, Geology, History, Philosophy, Psychology, Religion and Sociology. $7.50-$11.25 per lecture. Typing required. Call 338-3039.

NEED MONEY! Officially Appointed Recreational Services EPA of 335-9255.

INFANT room aids, 7:30am-3:30pm and 12:30pm-4:30pm Monday-Friday. 337-4843.

BARTENDERS, waiters/waitresses needed, experience helpful. Apply in person between 3pm-5pm at Micro Sports Bar 211 Iowa Avenue.

HELP WANTED

DEMOCRATIC campaign looking for energetic people to fill full time staff positions. 319-232-1988.

WANTED full or part time help. Call 337-9743, leave name and number on answering machine.

SAVE LIVES and we'll pass the savings on to you! Relax and study while you donate plasma. We'll pay you CASH to compensate for your time. FREE MEDICAL CHECKUP, BONUS and MORE. Please stop by and SAVE A LIFE. Iowa City Plasma 318 East Bloomington 351-4701

PART TIME student positions. Approximately 10-15 hours weekly. Experience in at least one of the following: Computer Graphics, Database Management, programming, Audio Visual Equipment operation and maintenance. Apply in person to Media Services, S-277, Hospital School.

STUDENT CLERK Student data entry clerk needed 10 hours per week. Must type 50 wpm by test. Accounting background and Lotus experience preferred. Contact Shirley Lottenbach, 256-1431, University Hospital School.

GENERAL cleaning help needed for the following shifts: 12:30pm-2:30pm M-F and 7pm-11pm M-F. Call 351-0876.

PART TIME help wanted to clean carpets and upholstery. Call 351-0878.

THE IOWA CITY School District has the following vacancy: Full time printer, second shift, 8pm-11pm. Previous experience as printer on AM or AFS Digi machines. Send letter of interest and resume to: The Office of Personnel 529 So. Dubuque St. Iowa City IA 52240. Deadline for applying, Friday, September 2, 1988. EOE.

AFTER school sitter wanted. Males and minorities welcome. Light housekeeping; Monday-Thursday, 3:30 hour. 338-5220.

AMBULANCE DRIVERS and EMT-A's Must be 21 years old. CPR certified. Contact OCA, 354-7878.

HOUSEKEEPERS wanted. $3.50/hour plus. Weekends. University Inn Highway 6 West Coralville (next to Handall's)

POSITION available for full and part time CNAs; any shift. Flexible schedules, tuition grants, pleasant working conditions. Call 351-1720 for interview appointment.

MOTHER'S HELPER University instructor wants college students to fill following slots for babysitting 3 1/2 year old boy for high housekeeping. M, T, W, Th, F, 8:45am-Noon (or 12:30pm), and 3pm-6pm, (Saturdays 9am-1pm). Please apply for any slots for which you are free. Home is a few blocks from University (two blocks from Hancher). Prefer those with car or use of car. 354-9156.

IMU FOOD SERVICE Immediate openings. Sideroom, chef openings, salad department, Union Station, River Room. Apply at Campus Information Center IMU.

WORK STUDY program teaching aids needed immediately. Willowbrook School, M-W, F 12 hours per week. 338-0601, 354-8274.

WANTED, work study lab attendant. Responsible for materials, equipment reservations, telephone use. Must like working with people, be cooperative, patient, have good phone manners, desire to learn, able to convey information. Flexible hours. M-F only. Call Scott at 35-8252, or call at AV Lab, N153 Undergrad Center.

SERVICE Master offering office cleaner. Approximately 15-30 hours per week. Ideal for student or retired. Apply in person 3:30pm-5:30pm. Service Master, 1714 5th Street, Coralville.

DEMY'S now hiring waitresses, waiters, cooks, dishwashers. All shifts, flexible hours. Apply in person, 1800 North Dodge Street.

ADULT carriers wanted, earn up to $12/hour. (66 daily, 256 Sunday) 20 hours a day, 7 months/week. No collect expense. Call 337-NEWS for information.

Godfather's Pizza. Offering part-time delivery, counter and kitchen help for day and night shifts. Flexible hours, friendly crew, and the best pizza, make Godfather's Pizza a place where you will enjoy working. Apply now at: Godfather's Pizza 531 Hwy E West 207 E Washington

WORK-STUDY. Secretary needed to Graduate Student Senate. 5-10 hours/week. Must be available Wednesday evenings. Typing skills 10 plus wpm and familiarity with word processor desirable. $4.25/hr. Call 331-3260.

NOW HIRING night line cooks, experience required. Apply in person 2-4pm, Monday-Thursday. Sea River Power Company, EOE.

ELKS COUNTRY club needs: Lunch cook, T.H.F., 10:00am-2:30pm Dishwasher, Wash and Fri evenings (with some additional hours). (Latter, 25-40 hours/week. Call 351-3700.

PART TIME delivery person for auto parts store. Experience in auto parts not required. Apply in person 11am or 2pm-5pm. Lawrence Brothers 243 Maiden Lane

CHILD CARE OPPORTUNITY Part time of full time for an 18 month old girl in a creative family in Iowa City. Call Chris at 354-2623.

BULT carriers wanted for Press in Iowa City. East side and West side. Call Kathy, 335-9255.

NEED: Grad students to serve as note takers in the following areas: Art, Astronomy, Economics, Geology, History, Philosophy, Psychology, Religion and Sociology. $7.50-$11.25 per lecture. Typing required. Call 338-3039.

NEED MONEY! Officially Appointed Recreational Services EPA of 335-9255.

INFANT room aids, 7:30am-3:30pm and 12:30pm-4:30pm Monday-Friday. 337-4843.

BARTENDERS, waiters/waitresses needed, experience helpful. Apply in person between 3pm-5pm at Micro Sports Bar 211 Iowa Avenue.

HELP WANTED

HOUSEBOYS needed for sorority. 338-8594, ask for Nancy.

LIVE IN childcare NYC, Iowa suburb. Carefully screened, needs responsible, loving parents to care for one child. Good other benefits; airfare paid. One year commitment. Call Day 814-747-1445.

BABYSITTER needed, M-F, 7pm-midnight. Own transportation, references. Theresa, 351-0482 after 5pm.

FARM HAND needed to work weekends in exchange for full room and board. Theresa, 351-0482 after 5pm.

NOW HIRING daytime prep work full or part time inc. experience. Monday-Thursday, 8am-4pm, Friday.

YES, THE DAILY IOWAN CLASSIFIED AD DEPARTMENT IS OPEN DURING THE NON-HOURS WE ARE OPEN 8AM-5PM MONDAY-THURSDAY, 8AM-4PM FRIDAYS.

ASTHMA? Three week study of nebulizer medications. Must be non-steroid dependent. COMPENSATION. Call 335-7556 or 356-6500.

PART TIME DELIVERY HELP WANTED Afternoons 1 pm-5 pm, Mon-Fri. Good driving record required. Apply at KIRWAN FURNITURE 1550 1st Ave. Iowa City (next to Wendy's)

AND PASTEUR PERSON IN THE CLASSIFIED AT THE DAILY IOWAN skills as a must. Part time 11:00 am-3:00 pm (could be used season).

To apply: p an application in Communications Center or on August 22.

IMU FOOD SERVICE is now accepting applications for FALL EMPLOYMENT. Sign up for interview at Campus Information Center Iowa Memorial Union

PAPER CARRIERS NEEDED IN THE FOLLOWING AREAS: Jefferson, Market, Governor, Lucas, Dodge Washington, Iowa Ave., Governor, Lucas

Apply: The Daily Iowan Circulation Department 335-5783

NOW HIRING. All positions D.I. audio crews, office staff. Mobile Music Systems, 354-4440

KITCHEN help and drivers wanted immediately. Full or part time. Apply in person Monday, Friday. Sam the Chicken Man 314 1/2 East Burlington

WORK-STUDY cleaner for Willowbrook School, M-W, F 2 1/2 hours/day, 4pm-6:30pm. 337-3871

SALES: Party Favor Firm. A Total of Glass, serving on-campus representative for sales to Greek Houses during 1988-89 school year. Make your own hours and average $400/month in only 10 hours/week. Samples, Sales Materials, and Training at no cost to you. Line up an interview with our National Recruiter at 1-800-331-3801. Ask for Tasha Cummings.

JACK AND JILL Nursery School needs an assistant teacher to substitute from 7:30am-3:30pm, September 1 through September 15. Dial 338-3900, 121 Highland Court.

EARN MONEY AT HOME! Electronic Jewelry, Toys, Electronics, etc. Full time or part time work available. Call (Refundable) 1-407-744-3000 Ext. 8338 24 hours.

STUDENTS desiring resume-building experience. Embusment communications wanted to place resumes across the country for support of the University. Excellent working conditions, no quotas, flexible schedule. Evening work hours - must be available each week three of the following nights: M, Tu, W, Th - from 5:30-9:30pm, $4.00 hour with merit increase. Call the UI Foundation at 335-0482. August 29 from 5-8pm or Tuesday August 30 from 7-9pm or Wednesday, August 31 from 3-5pm. Ask for Beth or Robert at 335-3305.

STUDENT NURSING ASSISTANT involves general nursing assistance on the Inpatient Unit, Division of Developmental Disabilities (University Hospital School), 20 hours a week. Apply with every other weekend of 10 hours. Contact Doris Houser, 356-1758, room 302, University Hospital School.

CHILD CARE OPPORTUNITY Part time of full time for an 18 month old girl in a creative family in Iowa City. Call Chris at 354-2623.

BULT carriers wanted for Press in Iowa City. East side and West side. Call Kathy, 335-9255.

NEED: Grad students to serve as note takers in the following areas: Art, Astronomy, Economics, Geology, History, Philosophy, Psychology, Religion and Sociology. $7.50-$11.25 per lecture. Typing required. Call 338-3039.

NEED MONEY! Officially Appointed Recreational Services EPA of 335-9255.

INFANT room aids, 7:30am-3:30pm and 12:30pm-4:30pm Monday-Friday. 337-4843.

BARTENDERS, waiters/waitresses needed, experience helpful. Apply in person between 3pm-5pm at Micro Sports Bar 211 Iowa Avenue.

HELP WANTED

HOUSEBOYS needed for sorority. 338-8594, ask for Nancy.

LIVE IN childcare NYC, Iowa suburb. Carefully screened, needs responsible, loving parents to care for one child. Good other benefits; airfare paid. One year commitment. Call Day 814-747-1445.

BABYSITTER needed, M-F, 7pm-midnight. Own transportation, references. Theresa, 351-0482 after 5pm.

FARM HAND needed to work weekends in exchange for full room and board. Theresa, 351-0482 after 5pm.

NOW HIRING daytime prep work full or part time inc. experience. Monday-Thursday, 8am-4pm, Friday.

YES, THE DAILY IOWAN CLASSIFIED AD DEPARTMENT IS OPEN DURING THE NON-HOURS WE ARE OPEN 8AM-5PM MONDAY-THURSDAY, 8AM-4PM FRIDAYS.

ASTHMA? Three week study of nebulizer medications. Must be non-steroid dependent. COMPENSATION. Call 335-7556 or 356-6500.

PART TIME DELIVERY HELP WANTED Afternoons 1 pm-5 pm, Mon-Fri. Good driving record required. Apply at KIRWAN FURNITURE 1550 1st Ave. Iowa City (next to Wendy's)

AND PASTEUR PERSON IN THE CLASSIFIED AT THE DAILY IOWAN skills as a must. Part time 11:00 am-3:00 pm (could be used season).

To apply: p an application in Communications Center or on August 22.

IMU FOOD SERVICE is now accepting applications for FALL EMPLOYMENT. Sign up for interview at Campus Information Center Iowa Memorial Union

PAPER CARRIERS NEEDED IN THE FOLLOWING AREAS: Jefferson, Market, Governor, Lucas, Dodge Washington, Iowa Ave., Governor, Lucas

Apply: The Daily Iowan Circulation Department 335-5783

NOW HIRING. All positions D.I. audio crews, office staff. Mobile Music Systems, 354-4440

KITCHEN help and drivers wanted immediately. Full or part time. Apply in person Monday, Friday. Sam the Chicken Man 314 1/2 East Burlington

WORK-STUDY cleaner for Willowbrook School, M-W, F 2 1/2 hours/day, 4pm-6:30pm. 337-3871

SALES: Party Favor Firm. A Total of Glass, serving on-campus representative for sales to Greek Houses during 1988-89 school year. Make your own hours and average $400/month in only 10 hours/week. Samples, Sales Materials, and Training at no cost to you. Line up an interview with our National Recruiter at 1-800-331-3801. Ask for Tasha Cummings.

JACK AND JILL Nursery School needs an assistant teacher to substitute from 7:30am-3:30pm, September 1 through September 15. Dial 338-3900, 121 Highland Court.

EARN MONEY AT HOME! Electronic Jewelry, Toys, Electronics, etc. Full time or part time work available. Call (Refundable) 1-407-744-3000 Ext. 8338 24 hours.

STUDENTS desiring resume-building experience. Embusment communications wanted to place resumes across the country for support of the University. Excellent working conditions, no quotas, flexible schedule. Evening work hours - must be available each week three of the following nights: M, Tu, W, Th - from 5:30-9:30pm, $4.00 hour with merit increase. Call the UI Foundation at 335-0482. August 29 from 5-8pm or Tuesday August 30 from 7-9pm or Wednesday, August 31 from 3-5pm. Ask for Beth or Robert at 335-3305.

STUDENT NURSING ASSISTANT involves general nursing assistance on the Inpatient Unit, Division of Developmental Disabilities (University Hospital School), 20 hours a week. Apply with every other weekend of 10 hours. Contact Doris Houser, 356-1758, room 302, University Hospital School.

CHILD CARE OPPORTUNITY Part time of full time for an 18 month old girl in a creative family in Iowa City. Call Chris at 354-2623.

BULT carriers wanted for Press in Iowa City. East side and West side. Call Kathy, 335-9255.

NEED: Grad students to serve as note takers in the following areas: Art, Astronomy, Economics, Geology, History, Philosophy, Psychology, Religion and Sociology. $7.50-$11.25 per lecture. Typing required. Call 338-3039.

NEED MONEY! Officially Appointed Recreational Services EPA of 335-9255.

INFANT room aids, 7:30am-3:30pm and 12:30pm-4:30pm Monday-Friday. 337-4843.

BARTENDERS, waiters/waitresses needed, experience helpful. Apply in person between 3pm-5pm at Micro Sports Bar 211 Iowa Avenue.

HELP WANTED

HOUSEBOYS needed for sorority. 338-8594, ask for Nancy.

LIVE IN childcare NYC, Iowa suburb. Carefully screened, needs responsible, loving parents to care for one child. Good other benefits; airfare paid. One year commitment. Call Day 814-747-1445.

BABYSITTER needed, M-F, 7pm-midnight. Own transportation, references. Theresa, 351-0482 after 5pm.

FARM HAND needed to work weekends in exchange for full room and board. Theresa, 351-0482 after 5pm.

NOW HIRING daytime prep work full or part time inc. experience. Monday-Thursday, 8am-4pm, Friday.

YES, THE DAILY IOWAN CLASSIFIED AD DEPARTMENT IS OPEN DURING THE NON-HOURS WE ARE OPEN 8AM-5PM MONDAY-THURSDAY, 8AM-4PM FRIDAYS.

ASTHMA? Three week study of nebulizer medications. Must be non-steroid dependent. COMPENSATION. Call 335-7556 or 356-6500.

PART TIME DELIVERY HELP WANTED Afternoons 1 pm-5 pm, Mon-Fri. Good driving record required. Apply at KIRWAN FURNITURE 1550 1st Ave. Iowa City (next to Wendy's)

AND PASTEUR PERSON IN THE CLASSIFIED AT THE DAILY IOWAN skills as a must. Part time 11:00 am-3:00 pm (could be used season).

To apply: p an application in Communications Center or on August 22.

IMU FOOD SERVICE is now accepting applications for FALL EMPLOYMENT. Sign up for interview at Campus Information Center Iowa Memorial Union

PAPER CARRIERS NEEDED IN THE FOLLOWING AREAS: Jefferson, Market, Governor, Lucas, Dodge Washington, Iowa Ave., Governor, Lucas

Apply: The Daily Iowan Circulation Department 335-5783

NOW HIRING. All positions D.I. audio crews, office staff. Mobile Music Systems, 354-4440

KITCHEN help and drivers wanted immediately. Full or part time. Apply in person Monday, Friday. Sam the Chicken Man 314 1/2 East Burlington

WORK-STUDY cleaner for Willowbrook School, M-W, F 2 1/2 hours/day, 4pm-6:30pm. 337-3871

SALES: Party Favor Firm. A Total of Glass, serving on-campus representative for sales to Greek Houses during 1988-89 school year. Make your own hours and average $400/month in only 10 hours/week. Samples, Sales Materials, and Training at no cost to you. Line up an interview with our National Recruiter at 1-800-331-3801. Ask for Tasha Cummings.

JACK AND JILL Nursery School needs an assistant teacher to substitute from 7:30am-3:30pm, September 1 through September 15. Dial 338-3900, 121 Highland Court.

EARN MONEY AT HOME! Electronic Jewelry, Toys, Electronics, etc. Full time or part time work available. Call (Refundable) 1-407-744-3000 Ext. 8338 24 hours.

STUDENTS desiring resume-building experience. Embusment communications wanted to place resumes across the country for support of the University. Excellent working conditions, no quotas, flexible schedule. Evening work hours - must be available each week three of the following nights: M, Tu, W, Th - from 5:30-9:30pm, $4.00 hour with merit increase. Call the UI Foundation at 335-0482. August 29 from 5-8pm or Tuesday August 30 from 7-9pm or Wednesday, August 31 from 3-5pm. Ask for Beth or Robert at 335-3305.

STUDENT NURSING ASSISTANT involves general nursing assistance on the Inpatient Unit, Division of Developmental Disabilities (University Hospital School), 20 hours a week. Apply with every other weekend of 10 hours. Contact Doris Houser, 356-1758, room 302, University Hospital School.

CHILD CARE OPPORTUNITY Part time of full time for an 18 month old girl in a creative family in Iowa City. Call Chris at 354-2623.

BULT carriers wanted for Press in Iowa City. East side and West side. Call Kathy, 335-9255.

NEED: Grad students to serve as note takers in the following areas: Art, Astronomy, Economics, Geology, History, Philosophy, Psychology, Religion and Sociology. $7.50-$11.25 per lecture. Typing required. Call 338-3039.

NEED MONEY! Officially Appointed Recreational Services EPA of 335-9255.

INFANT room aids, 7:30am-3:30pm and 12:30pm-4:30pm Monday-Friday. 337-4843.

BARTENDERS, waiters/waitresses needed, experience helpful. Apply in person between 3pm-5pm at Micro Sports Bar 211 Iowa Avenue.

HELP WANTED

HOUSEBOYS needed for sorority. 338-8594, ask for Nancy.

LIVE IN childcare NYC, Iowa suburb. Carefully screened, needs responsible, loving parents to care for one child. Good other benefits; airfare paid. One year commitment. Call Day 814-747-1445.

BABYSITTER needed, M-F, 7pm-midnight. Own transportation, references. Theresa, 351-0482 after 5pm.

FARM HAND needed to work weekends in exchange for full room and board. Theresa, 351-0482 after 5pm.

NOW HIRING daytime prep work full or part time inc. experience. Monday-Thursday, 8am-4pm, Friday.

YES, THE DAILY IOWAN CLASSIFIED AD DEPARTMENT IS OPEN DURING THE NON-HOURS WE ARE OPEN 8AM-5PM MONDAY-THURSDAY, 8AM-4PM FRIDAYS.

ASTHMA? Three week study of nebulizer medications. Must be non-steroid dependent. COMPENSATION. Call 335-7556 or 356-6500.

PART TIME DELIVERY HELP WANTED Afternoons 1 pm-5 pm, Mon-Fri. Good driving record required. Apply at KIRWAN FURNITURE 1550 1st Ave. Iowa City (next to Wendy's)

AND PASTEUR PERSON IN THE CLASSIFIED AT THE DAILY IOWAN skills as a must. Part time 11:00 am-3:00 pm (could be used season).

To apply: p an application in Communications Center or on August 22.

IMU FOOD SERVICE is now accepting applications for FALL EMPLOYMENT. Sign up for interview at Campus Information Center Iowa Memorial Union

PAPER CARRIERS NEEDED IN THE FOLLOWING AREAS: Jefferson, Market, Governor, Lucas, Dodge Washington, Iowa Ave., Governor, Lucas

Apply: The Daily Iowan Circulation Department 335-5783

NOW HIRING. All positions D.I. audio crews, office staff. Mobile Music Systems, 354-4440

KITCHEN help and drivers wanted immediately. Full or part time. Apply in person Monday, Friday. Sam the Chicken Man 314 1/2 East Burlington

WORK-STUDY cleaner for Willowbrook School, M-W, F 2 1/2 hours/day, 4pm-6:30pm. 337-3871

SALES: Party Favor Firm. A Total of Glass, serving on-campus representative for sales to Greek Houses during 1988-89 school year. Make your own hours and average $400/month in only 10 hours/week. Samples, Sales Materials, and Training at no cost to you. Line up an interview with our National Recruiter at 1-800-331-3801. Ask for Tasha Cummings.

Arts/Entertainment

Embattled singer Eartha Kitt writes of her life and times

LONDON (AP) — It's a song that nightly rouses theater audiences. It's also the title of Eartha Kitt's impending book.

After four decades in a career filled with fame and misfortune, Kitt wants all to know: "I'm Still Here."

"I sing the song because it relates to my own experience," the veteran performer said of her second-act show-stopper in "Follies," Stephen Sondheim's 1971 musical, which has been running for more than a year at London's Shaftesbury Theater.

"That's why it's wonderful when I see young people coming around asking for an autograph. It makes me feel as if I'm still here," she said.

She joined the cast July 4, replacing Dolores Gray as the hard-bitten Carlotta, a woman who turns the memory of her "good times and bum times" into a classic Broadway hymn to resilience.

Kitt has parlayed her own "bum times" into a career that rode out divorce and political harassment to find her making her London musical debut at what she thinks, but isn't sure, is the age of 60.

"All I knew was I had to survive because I was being abused by everybody that came along and anybody I was thrown to," she said.

Her life has made headlines as often as her work.

Kitt was born on a cotton plantation in South Carolina, the illegitimate child of a half-black, half-Indian woman who was raped by the white son of the plantation owner. When she was five, she was sent to live with an aunt in Harlem — a time marked by poverty and hunger.

The difficulties continued even when her burgeoning career brought the money that comes with fame. Her marriage in the 1960s to William McDonald ended in an acrimonious divorce.

Kitt has parlayed her own "bum times" into a career that rode out divorce and political harassment to find her making her London musical debut at what she thinks, but isn't sure, is the age of 60. "All I knew was I had to survive because I was being abused by everybody that came along and anybody I was thrown to," she said.

In 1968, she denounced the Vietnam War in front of Lady Bird Johnson, wife of the late President Lyndon Johnson, in a remark that led to a CIA dossier denouncing Kitt as "a sadistic nymphomaniac with a vile tongue."

Today, thoughts of these events leave her bemused as much as bitter.

"Why did they make such a furor over a little person like myself?" she said, pausing during the interview to focus on the needlepoint seat cushion she is making, or to tend to her 6-week-old pet dove named Folly.

"I was ostracized for telling the truth," she said. "You're asked a particular question and you expect them to want to hear your particular opinion, and when the truth rings against their ears... you get knocked out of the box."

Kitt found work difficult to come by after the CIA allegations. But 1978 proved a turning point of sorts, when she returned to Broadway in the musical "Timbuktu!" and was invited back to the White House by President Jimmy Carter.

However, the White House invitation failed to provide the necessary balm.

"I'm still waiting for the government to say I'm sorry," she said. "America is supposed to be run by the people for the people, not by one schnook in the White House."

"I don't think America should be run by one person anymore. She's gotten too big and spread herself out too much," she said. "She's dissipated herself from the inside, and if she allows it to continue, she's not going to have anything left for us, the citizens of the country."

The marriage last year of her only daughter has left her feeling lonely and vulnerable.

"I always worked because there was somebody I could do something for, like my daughter," said Kitt, dabbing at her eye with a handkerchief. "Now, she's gone, and it hurts. It's one of the feelings I'm writing about in the book."

"I'm Still Here" is the third memoir she has written. It is to be published in Britain in September 1989 by Sidgwick and Jackson.

"It never becomes remote, no," she said of her past. "The pains are too great."

But despite "the empty-nest syndrome," Kitt takes solace in her fans and her work, and in being back in England.

"Paris and London are the places that made me realize there is an Eartha Kitt inside of me somewhere," said the performer, who first came to London in 1949 as a dancer with Katherine Dunham's troupe.

"It amazes me that wherever I go, the public is there," she said.

Entertainment Today

At the Bijou

"My Night at Maud's" (1970) — Eric Rohmer directs the third and most intellectual of his "Six Moral Tales." A Catholic man (Jean-Louis Trintignant) becomes infatuated with a woman not of his usual type. 7 p.m.
 "Out of the Past" (1947) — Classic film noir with Robert Mitchum getting into all kinds of trouble with former lovers and bosses. 9 p.m.

Television

"Wildside — The Impossible Bird" — This program was made in Kenya with a zoologist who lived with ostriches for eight years and studied them in great detail. His knees now bend backwards, and he can disembowel a lion with one well-placed kick (6:30 p.m.; IPTV 12). "Nova — The Man Who Loved Numbers" — This special profiles the life of Indian clerk S. Ramanujan, who astonished the dons of Trinity College in 1913 with his self-taught math skills (7 p.m.; IPTV 12).

IT'S HAPPENING NOW!!

CAMPUS BIBLE FELLOWSHIP

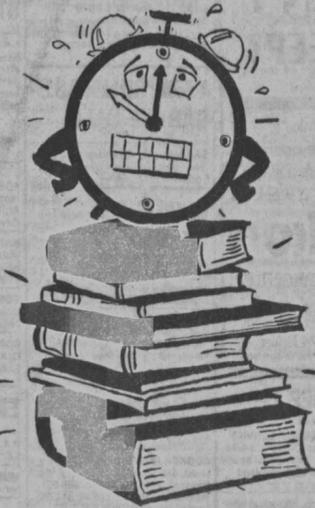

Bible Studies, Thursdays - 6:30 pm
 Danforth Chapel
 (by the I.M.U.)

September 8 (Thu) "Walk Through the Old Testament"
 September 9 (Fri) Movie: "Ordinary Guy"
 September 15 (Thu) "Is the Bible Reliable?"
 October 14 (Fri) Retreat

For information call:
 351-7777; 337-6830; 354-6655

THERE IS STILL TIME!

It doesn't matter where you bought them... we buy back.

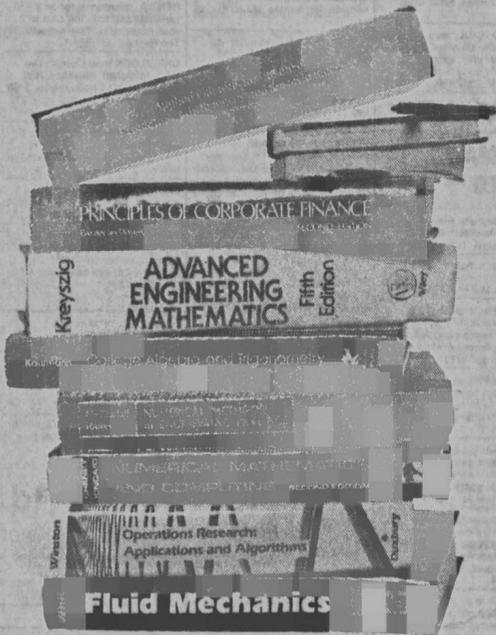

BOOK BUY BACK

August 30 8:30 A.M. - 6:00 P.M.
 August 31 8:30 A.M. - 6:00 P.M.
 Sept. 1 8:30 A.M. - 6:00 P.M.
 Sept. 2 8:30 A.M. - 4:30 P.M.

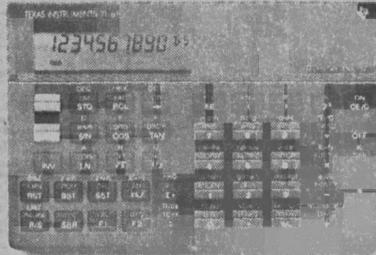

Visa, MasterCard, American Express, Student/Faculty/Staff Charges accepted.
 Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 8 a.m. - 8 p.m.; Fri. 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.; Sat. 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.; Sun. 12 p.m. - 4 p.m.

University Book Store
 Iowa Memorial Union - The University of Iowa

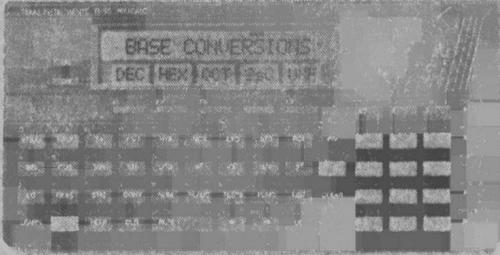

Good Grief. Good News.

The TI-60 Advanced Scientific Features such built-in functions as hexadecimal/octal conversions, integration using Simpson's rule, statistics (including linear regression), trend line analysis and metric to English conversions. There are also 84 programming steps for repetitive calculations.

The TI-65 Technical Analyst™ Offers all the built-in functions of the TI-60, plus a stopwatch/timer, eight physical constants, decision programming (if...then) capabilities and 100 programming steps for repetitive calculations.

The TI-95 PROCALC™ Our most powerful, top-of-the-line advanced scientific features 8K RAM and a full range of scientific, mathematical and statistical functions. It uses redefinable function keys to provide easy access to 200+ functions with menu-like windows and has a flexible file management system to conveniently store programs and data. The TI-95 offers optional accessories such as Solid State Software™ cartridges for Mathematics, Statistics, and Chemical Engineering, and 8K Constant Memory™ cartridge, a portable printer and a cassette interface.

TI designed its advanced scientific calculators to help cut science and engineering problems down to size.

It takes more than an ordinary calculator to help make an extraordinary future scientist or engineer.

TI's advanced scientific calculators—the TI-60, TI-65 and the TI-95 PROCALC—were designed with all the right scientific mathematical and statistical functions you'll need to get ahead in school and in your career.

These powerful calculators were carefully created to be easy to use. They feature large, color-coded keys and simple keyboard layouts. This helps you concentrate on real problem solving, instead of solving the mysteries of a complex calculator.

With all the demands your advanced courses place on you, you need the help of an advanced scientific calculator from TI.

Copyright © 1988 TI

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS

™ Trademark of Texas Instruments Incorporated

Price: 25 cents

Greenh

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of climate researchers has warned that the "greenhouse effect" of the Earth will continue even if there are sharp cutbacks in the use of the chemicals which cause the problem.

The heat-up "appears to be inevitable, even with... drastic, probably unrealistic reductions in greenhouse forcing" by the release of carbon dioxide and other gases, the scientists reported in the journal of Geophysical Research Atmospheres.

The group, led by James Hansen of the National Aeronautical and Space Administration, reached that conclusion after running computerized climate models in

Rawl welcomed

By John Bartenhagen
 The Daily Iowan

UI President Hunter Rawlings stressed the need for ties between the university and the state in an officially welcoming more than 29,000 students to the UI during the fall opening ceremony Monday morning.

"This year in our scholarship and research, in our teaching and study, and in our official administrative duties, I hope will keep in mind that the university of Iowa belongs to the world. One is academic; it is inward, to advance the development of knowledge. The other, the public; it turns outward to enhance the development of the state and its citizens. We members of the university community, have an obligation to both worlds," Rawlings said, addressing the more than 300 students and faculty gathered in front of the Capitol for the ceremony.

"Let us remember that w

Local a

By Hilery Livengood
 The Daily Iowan

In the wake of numerous local — many of which were set arsonists — UI administrators and student leaders are working to heighten the fire safety awareness of UI students, faculty and staff.

Vice President of Finance University Services Susan Phillips is asking all members of the community to remain alert to unusual activities in UI buildings and areas around campus to help with the task of fire prevention on campus.

"We're really trying to heighten people's attention to some of the problems that we've experienced in recent months," Phillips said, noting that someone else is wa

Sam Scranton, a forest service worker, after battling a fire near Cooke