In what organizers called a "token" event, about 200 people showed up on Tuesday for the annual National Coming Out Day event at the Iowa City Pentacrest.

The event was sponsored by the 15 Gay Pride Unions and the Lesbian Alliance to commemorate the 1987 event in Washington and the same gay rights protest that was held in Iowa City.

On Tuesday, a group of gay pride demonstrators gathered on the Pentacrest and marched through the downtown area.

As a reminder that gays and lesbians exist within the community, the gathering was held to encourage acceptance and understanding of the gay community.

The event was also held to encourage the community to support gay pride organizations.

The gathering was attended by about 200 people, including local and national leaders.

According to the National Organization for PRIDE, about 120 people showed up on Tuesday for the Gay Pride Union's annual National Coming Out Day event.

Financial institution indicted

Tampa, Fla. (AP) — A bank holding company based in London was indicted Thursday in the United States, as well as in Argentina, Colombia, and the United States.

The indictment was announced Thursday by the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of New York, which charged BCCI with conducting more than $32 million in illicit transactions.

School board approves talented program funding

By Sara Langford

The Daily Iowan

The Iowa City school board approved the continuation of funding for the Iowa City Community Health (ICCH) of $33,000 in the budget for the 2023-24 school year.

The funding will go towards the continuation of the ICCH program, which provides health education and resources to students.

"We are grateful for the continued support of the ICCH program," said Board President Dr. John Robinson. "This program is a valuable resource for our students and we appreciate the funding that will allow it to continue."

New law targets bus signal violators

By Nicole Nystrom
The Daily Iowan

Buses drivers may now take down the license plate number and description of a vehicle that ignores the morning signals on a stopped school bus and use the information as evidence to prove the violation.

"The only difference between the old law and this new law is that now the bus driver must contact the law enforcement agency to report the vehicle," said Laura Ertey, an employee at Iowa City Coach Co. Inc., 1515 Willow Creek Drive. "Before, drivers had to actually identify the driver of the licensee plate number and general description of the car and driver.

Kriz said the legislation went into effect July 1.

"Before this, when we reported an incident, we just called police and told them what happened," said Kriz. "But it just wasn't enough to describe it."

As a result of the new law, more drivers are getting ticketed and fined.

"We have reported to the bus drivers, they just called people home and told them what they did was illegal," said Kriz. "But it just wasn't enough to describe it."

Anyone interested in participating on a Riverfest Committee to plan the festival is invited to attend a meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 10, in the RiverMusik Clubhouse.

Riverfest, an annual event held on the first Saturday in October, has become one of the largest festivals in the state. This year's event will be held on Saturday, Oct. 8.

Doug Gould, director of the Festival of the Borders, said interested individuals are encouraged to attend the meeting.

"We're looking for people to help plan this year's event," said Gould. "We've been very successful in the past, but we're always looking for new ideas and ways to make the festival even better."

Gould said the festival has grown significantly over the years and is now a major tourist attraction for the area.

The theme of this year's festival is "MUSIC OF THE BORDERS," and the event will feature live music, food, and activities from bordering countries.

"We want to showcase the cultural diversity of our region and encourage people to come out and enjoy the festival," said Gould.

Gould said the festival committee is made up of volunteers from the community, and he is hoping to attract new members to the group.

"We need people to help plan and execute the festival," said Gould. "It's a big undertaking, but it's also a lot of fun."

Gould said the festival committee meets on the first Monday of every month at 7 p.m. at the RiverMusik Clubhouse.

"We're always looking for new ideas and ways to make the festival even better," said Gould. "If you're interested in helping, just come out and join us."

Aide: Bush didn't lead ads deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Dan Quayle said Friday that President George Bush didn't lead a real "ad war" against his opponent, Democrat Michael Dukakis.

"It's not accurate," Quayle said on ABC's "This Week." The Bush administration has accused the campaign of the Massachusetts governor of running ads that are factually inaccurate, but Quayle denied that Bush participated in the ad campaign.

"It's not true," Quayle said. "There's no evidence that he's involved in anything." He added that the ads were "a little bit of a stretch." The White House has charged the Dukakis campaign with running ads that included inaccuracies.

"I don't get involved in advertising," Quayle said. "I don't know the guy, but I don't think he's the kind of person who would do that." The vice president said he was not surprised by the ad campaign.

Bush has been criticized for not being more active in the campaign against Dukakis. Quayle said the president had been "very patient" in responding to the campaign.

Candidates clash over trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Sanders, the independent presidential candidate, and President Ronald Reagan met Thursday in an interview on the issue of trade.

"I don't think we'll see a lot of change," Sanders said. "We'll see some minimal changes." The candidates had earlier met in a private session to discuss the issue of trade.

The meeting came two days after Sanders announced that he would challenge Reagan for the presidency.

The Wednesday battle report looked at several potential capital cities and targets and did not cover a strategic raid, instead focusing on a specific urban area.

The report also cited that the urban centers were under siege, with tension between local residents and the military.

The report further noted that local residents were under threat from Pakistan, where border towns and refugee camps serve as a strategic base.

The report also mentioned that President Mitterrand had spoken of his trip to northeastern France, in which he urged the parties to cover the terms to reach a base agreement.

The report concluded that the talks of the past days had failed, with no agreement.

Rape

Our state has the highest rape rate in the country. In the last year, there were 10 reports of rape filed with the police. The reports included those of women who were raped by a stranger, a acquaintance or a family member.

The majority of these cases were reported to the police in the early morning hours. The police allowed demonstrations fearing that they would be accused of mistreating the victims.

Debate raises troubling questions

The vice presidential debate between Dukakis and Quayle has raised more questions than it has answered. The two candidates have had a series of public appearances over the last few weeks, and the debate itself was largely focused on their views on domestic issues such as healthcare and education.

Obvious hypocrisy in foreign policy

The United States has been criticized for its foreign policy, particularly its role in supporting the Contras in Nicaragua and its involvement in the Gulf War. The Democratic candidate, Dukakis, has been accused of being too soft on foreign policy, while the Republican candidate, Quayle, has been accused of being too aggressive.

President George H.W. Bush has been criticized for his foreign policy, particularly his decision to invade Panama and his role in the Gulf War. The Democratic candidate, Dukakis, has been accused of being too soft on foreign policy, while the Republican candidate, Quayle, has been accused of being too aggressive.

Not so cute

Senator Jeff Preston has been criticized for his role in the Iran-Contra affair and his support for the Contras in Nicaragua. The Democratic candidate, Dukakis, has been accused of being too soft on foreign policy, while the Republican candidate, Quayle, has been accused of being too aggressive.

Real Christians

To the Editor:

My heart goes out to the young man who was turned away from his local church last week because of his sexual orientation. It is unfathomable to me that in our time, in our society, we allow such ignorance and intolerance to remain. Why do the institutions of the Catholic Church continue to be associated with "Christian" principles? Tod Green, who has apparently been convicted of murder, should be made to face public judgment. Mr. Green, in your own pain and anger, do not confuse Christians in the church with religious hypocrisy. There are many real Christians around. I could introduce you to them.

No integrity

To the Editor:

I was pleased to hear the anti-Castro forces ad to The Daily Iowan. (Oct. 19) That I knew about it, I would have been proud to add my name. I have thought for some time that the writers for the Cuban Review doesn't give a damn about anybody who won't white, wear, accept, and adopt their policies. It is consequently offended by people who don't live in the name of Christ. I feel a Christian, and have set out before the United Nations, in the task of the Cuban Review. I hold my hand, offered words of love and support on the Cuban Review. I hold my hand, offered words of love and support on behalf of the Cuban people. Tod Green, in your own pain and anger, do not confuse Christians in the Catholic Church with religious hypocrisy. There are many real Christians in the church. I could introduce you to them.

Stop screaming

To the Editor:

I am writing to take exception to a comment attributed to Dick Brief, President Bentsen, "President Bentsen," when Mr. Bentsen said, "I am announcing Quayle's candidacy for the presidency."

Mr. Bentsen is quoting an expression from the movie "Airplane!", a film which gained much of its humor from the absurdity of its script. To use a line from a film as a citation, Scientific, when the context of the film is simply like the reader to consider the possibility that Mr. Bentsen's statement was in fact levity, is not appropriate. The implication to express political disagreement is always before us. It seems like as many solution to voting expansion. In the long run, even the attempt at expression seems to reflect both sides, and to shut down rational conversation. In fact all of our actions are in a sense manifestations of the various political factions within the nation. The various factions of these factions are the various factions of the nation.

"We will continue to signs petitions against the Campus Review. I know it is really outside the bounds of the law to do this sort of thing, to put the restraints on people and to shut down rational conversation. In fact all of our actions are in a sense manifestations of the various factions of the nation."

If only the left wing and right wing sing in this book would be a victory for democracy. Let us not speak of democracy.

Mets fans deserve Series in October

Our 20-year-old friend, Butch derini, a former ballplayer at Central and a veteran of the ineptitude of the mediocrity, virtually always looked for the worst when the Mets were at Wrigley Field, or in any other place where they were anything but loveable.

The Mets have been all my life. That’s why I root for them, even though they are a New York team. I’ve been a New York Mets fan since 1962 and have never been disappointed.

I know what you’re thinking. Why don’t you sell your soul to the Mets and watch them lose? Bill, even if you believe in doing what is really true—what is right—you have to wonder about the Mets. But I’ll be watching them, and hoping for a victory, until the last pitch is thrown on the last day of the season.

When the Mets hold their last home game of the season, they will have had a disappointing season. They have not lived up to the expectations that were set for them at the beginning of the year. But I still believe in the Mets, and I’ll be there to root for them, even though I know it’s going to be a tough time for them.

I’m a Mets fan, and I’m not going to give up on them. I’ll be there to root for them, even though I know it’s going to be a tough time for them. I’ll be there to support them, even though I know it’s going to be a tough time for them.

Cone's 5-hitter beats Dodgers; Mets tie series

LOUISVILLE (AP) — David Cone allowed only two hits and no walks while striking out 11 Dodgers today in a 5-0 Mets win. It was the second consecutive game in which Cone pitched a shutout, and the left-hander improved his record to 15-6. Cone, who has been pitching exceptionally well of late, said he felt good today and was able to get his good stuff working from the start.

The Mets improved to 1-0 in the best-of-seven series against the Dodgers, who came into the game with a 3-2 lead in the series. The Mets clinched the series with a three-run first inning, scoring twice in the third inning and adding a run in the fifth.

In the first inning, Cone held the Dodgers scoreless on two hits and two walks. In the second inning, he allowed two hits and retired the side. In the third inning, Cone allowed a hit, but retired the side. In the fourth inning, he allowed a hit, but retired the side. In the fifth inning, Cone allowed a hit, but retired the side.

The Mets scored three runs in the first inning on a two-run double by Darryl Strawberry and a sacrifice fly by Todd Zeile. In the third inning, the Mets added two runs on a two-run double by Edgardo Alfonzo and a sacrifice fly by Paul O'Neill.

The Dodgers had two hits, both by Dave Winfield, and were held to one run on two hits. The Mets' hits were by Strawberry, Alfonso, O'Neill, and Ron Darling, who pitched a complete game and struck out 11.

The Mets won the game 5-0, and the series 1-0. The next game is scheduled for Wednesday at Dodger Stadium.

"Airplanes" drama plays at Hansen

By Kevin Golding
The Daily Iowan

"Airplanes" is a modern jazz-opera piece presented by the University of Iowa's Drama Department at Hansen Stadium on the University of Iowa campus at 11:30 p.m. on Sept. 26, 1988.

"Airplanes" is a musical and dance spectacle created by Philip Glass, director; Antonia Fraser, playwright; and John Adams, composer. The piece is a co-production of the University of Iowa Dance Theatre and the University of Iowa Drama Department. The production is directed by Philip Glass, with Antonio Fraser as the playwright and John Adams as the composer.

The story of "Airplanes" is based on the life of the German aviator Otto Lilienthal, who is considered the father of modern aviation. The piece is a blend of music, dance, and spectacle, with Lilienthal's life and work as the central theme.

The piece is set on the roof of a building, with Lilienthal's life and work as the central theme. The production features a large cast of dancers and actors, with Lilienthal's life and work as the central theme.

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan - Iowa City, Iowa - Wednesday, October 12, 1988

Student leaders said they would bring the issue of a health fee to the attention of the Student Government Association and the UI Student Health Service.

Michelene T. Smith, a junior in English, said the administration and Student Government Association leadership could help in the development of a health fee, but the final decision would be left to the student body.
