Libyans plan to open plant for U.S. probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - Libya's foreign minister said today that his country has no intention "for the time being" of producing chemical weapons, but is seriously considering the allegations about the plant.

The dialogue between the Soviet Foreign Minister and his U.S. counterpart has been described by some sources as "significant," perhaps even "serious." Despite this, there is little hope that a breakthrough will be achieved.

The situation in Libya has not improved, according to reports. The government continues to insist that the plant is for peaceful purposes.

The U.S. Secretary of State, who has served on the security committee, said he does not expect any breakthroughs in the talks this week.

Jet crash wounds 76 in Britain

BRITAIN, England - A 747 aircraft carrying 180 passengers crashed at London's Heathrow Airport today, killing at least 39 people and injuring several more.

The plane, a British Midland Airways Boeing 747, was en route from Amsterdam to London when it crashed on takeoff. All passengers, including crew, are believed to have been killed.

The crash occurred near the London area, where a number of passengers have reported seeing fire and smoke before the plane hit the ground. The cause of the crash is under investigation.

Eight Minutes over the Mediterranean

A U.S. jet fighter shot down two Libyan planes, one over Libya and the other over the Mediterranean Sea.

The Libyan planes were intercepted by U.S. jets over the Mediterranean, where they were destroyed.

The U.S. military said the intercept was carried out in response to a Libya's decision to shoot down an American plane.

Kremlin finance threatens reform

MOSCOW (AP) - Prime Minister Mikhail Gorbachev said today that the Soviet Union was facing "new and serious economic problems." The Prime Minister said that the government had to take immediate action to prevent the economy from slipping into crisis.

He announced a number of economic measures, including the abolition of the state monopoly on the production of consumer goods and the introduction of price increases for some consumer goods.

The measures were seen as an attempt to stabilize the economy, which has been sliding into recession for several months. The government has been criticized for its inability to control inflation and to increase industrial output.

The Prime Minister's announcement was welcomed by economists, who said it was a step in the right direction. However, they warned that more drastic measures would be needed to prevent the economy from sliding into a deeper recession.

The economic problems are seen as a major obstacle to the government's ongoing reform program. The government has been criticized for its inability to implement tough economic measures, which would be necessary to stabilize the economy and to reduce the country's dependence on oil exports.

The government has been under pressure to implement more radical reforms, but has been unable to agree on a comprehensive economic strategy. The Prime Minister's announcement was seen as a sign that the government was willing to take bold action to prevent the economy from sliding into a deeper recession.

Iowa high-school pens path to Bush's inauguration

RAPPAPORT — Tiffany Fabricant offered George Bush a "wildly" soft gift last week after he and his wife, Barbara, mentioned the 14-year-old's name during their visit to the school.

"As any student could tell you," said the Iowa high-schooler, "some people in this country would love to see Bush win."

Bush, campaigning in Burlington, Iowa, Tuesday, said he was "very grateful" for the gift of a "V for Victory" pin, which was presented to him by the school board.

"It's a pin that I've worn many times," Bush said, "and I think it's a great symbol of American pride." He added that he would wear it to the inauguration.

The young Iowa girl, who said she was a "Bush for Bush" supporter, presented the pin to Bush during his campaign stop.

"I was so inspired," she said, "that I decided to give him a pin." She added that she had been "awestruck" by Bush's campaign and his ability to "connect with people." She also said that she believed Bush would be a "better job" in office than a "man."

Gas fumes force evacuation of businesses.

When a small amount of gasoline was dumped down an alley drain behind a downtown store Dec. 26 - typically the day of the year - an entire block of businesses in the Downtown was "heavy gas smell" coming from the sidewalk. "It was an entire block of businesses, during the day of the year - an entire block of businesses in the Downtown."

County officials screen vice board to decide whether or not vote on whether customers should be allowed to have guns within the stores. An Omaha police sniper killed a severe mental problems and was inside a beauty salon.

If official confirmed the problem with the gas leak was behind Barfunkel's, he would not allow the people to pour gasoline. That was discovered Dec. 29 and the harm potential to the customers was very great.

Capitol Heights city councilor; Robert Wadman, said that the gas was not absolute danger to the people. That was not known then.

The case was brought before a panel and there was a fight over several issues. The city councilor told them, "We want the process to be as fair as possible."

"His stability was deteriorating and the harm potential to the hostage was escalating, so the officers took the opportunity to rescue the hostage without further harm to the "officer," he said.

"Most of the time all the victims were not present, but there were a few cases of a person remote from physical harm, although Fane had told hostages that the people were not threatened."

Fire officials eventually exercised to the market's gas tank and began ventilating the three businesses where the fumes were located. Iowa City police also evacuated businesses in the north side of the pedestrian mall and attempted to seal the block off."

A vote for Kubby

To the Editor:

In the Iowa City Council race, I see Denny Kubby is one candidate whose position I support. I believe his record of dedicated service to the City speaks volumes about his ability to work with the Iowa City Council.

Kubby's experience is impressive, having served as a member of the City Council since 1988. He has a proven track record of hard work and dedication to the Iowa City community. His experience and knowledge of the issues facing our city make him an excellent candidate for the Iowa City Council.

I believe Kubby's leadership and commitment to Iowa City will be a breath of fresh air for our city. He has the vision and the determination to make Iowa City a better place to live.

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my support for Cuban elections. It is an important step towards democracy and freedom for the Cuban people. The Cuban people have the right to choose their leaders and shape their own future. Cuba should be allowed to hold elections that are free and fair, and that reflect the will of the Cuban people.

I urge everyone to vote in these elections, and to support the Cuban people in their quest for democracy and freedom.

Caveat on colored condoms

To the Editor:

I am writing to the Iowa City community, especially the youth, about the recent controversy surrounding the colored condoms. It is important to consider the potential consequences of using these products.

Colored condoms are marketed as a fun and exciting way to engage in sexual activity. However, they can lead to unintended pregnancies and the transmission of sexually transmitted infections. It is crucial to be aware of the potential risks associated with their use.

I urge everyone to be cautious and informed when it comes to sexual health and safety. Let's work together to create a healthy and safe environment for everyone.

PARIS - PRESIDENT George W. Bush on Tuesday threatened new countermeasures against Iran, saying he had new evidence of "malignant" behavior before the January 1980 hostage crisis that "we should have" done more to cope with.

"We believe that Iran is getting ready to meet the world with new forceful means," he said in the White House briefing. "We have new evidence that Iran has been planning and preparing to do that."

Bush cited the January 1980 hostage crisis after years of negotiations over the release of 52 Americans, a framework for an arms freeze, and an agreement to allow inspections of Iran's nuclear facilities. But the talks collapsed.

Executed in the name of God

A program to execute the leaders of the Muslim Brotherhood in Egypt's 1981 coup came full circle on Tuesday when a court convicted and sentenced to death 21 members of the group.

"This is the year of the Muslim Brotherhood," said a prosecutor in the trial, which began in 1991. "They have been given the opportunity to repent, but they have refused." A judge sentenced 19 of the defendants to death by hanging, and two to life in prison.

Soviets build chemical arms elimination facility

PARIS (AP) — The Soviet Union has stopped producing chemical weapons, President Bush announced yesterday, destroying its massive stockpile this year, Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze announced Saturday.

Bush said the Soviet Union, which has more than 100,000 chemical weapons on its soil, would destroy its entire chemical arms proliferation system by the year 2000.

U.S. officials said the move is a significant development because it will not only help to end the arms race, but also improve relations with the Soviets.

The U.S. has long called for the destruction of chemical weapons as a way to reduce the threat of chemical weapons use.

Shevardnadze and representatives of other countries will be invited to the destruction ceremony.

The Soviet Union has been working on the destruction of its chemical weapons since the late 1980s.

The move is seen as a major step toward a nuclear-free world.

Bush praised the Soviet Union for its decision and called on other nations to follow suit.

The move is also expected to boost the chances of a nuclear arms treaty with Russia.

The decision comes as the United States and Russia are set to begin talks on a possible arms reduction agreement.

Armenians begin rebuilding after earthquake

WASHINGTON - A month after a magnitude 7.5 earthquake

Cheating is topic of NCAA meeting

SANTFRANCISCO (AP) - Charles Neinas, a thorn in the side of the NCAA for more than a decade, has been named chairman of the panel that reviews cases of academic fraud at the nation's colleges.

Neinas, 64, was named on Tuesday by NCAA President Emory丁ley Miller.

"It's a thorn in the flesh for the NCAA," said Miller, who took over as president in January. "He's been a thorn in the flesh for the NCAA for a long time."

Neinas, who is the president of the University of Missouri-Kansas City, has been a vocal critic of the NCAA's handling of academic fraud cases.

"I've been a thorn in the flesh for the NCAA for a long time," Neinas said.

Valivoda denies allegations of corruption

Stanford, R.C. [AP] - Coach Dave Van Dine fired the head football coach at North Carolina State, saying the charges are "completely baseless." He was still trying to put together a new staffing plan after the firing of Bubba Wallace, who had been his defensive coordinator, last week. The move followed an announcement by the university that it would conduct an investigation into allegations of corruption at the school.

Van Dine said that while he was aware of some issues, he did not believe there was any evidence to support the claims.

"We are not going to comment on the specific allegations until we have completed our investigation," Van Dine said in a statement. "We have a deep regard for the integrity of our student-athletes, coaches, and staff, and we will take all necessary steps to ensure that our programs are operated in accordance with the highest standards of the NCAA."

The school said the investigation would focus on the areas of academic integrity, compliance with NCAA rules, and financial aid.

Van Dine had been at the school for 10 years, and had been the head coach for five seasons. He has a 25-25 record in five seasons. The Hawkeyes are gearing up for the Jan. 15 showdown with No. 1 Oregon in the national championship game.

The school said it would conduct a comprehensive review of its athletics program, with a focus on areas such as compliance, academic integrity, and financial aid.

The school also announced that it had hired a new athletic director, John D. Elrod, who had previously served as the interim athletic director at North Carolina State.

Elrod said he looked forward to working with Van Dine and the rest of the athletics staff to ensure that the school's athletics programs were operated in accordance with the highest standards of the NCAA.

Ghost of films past haunts Murray in 'Scrooged' comedy

By Lackie Peterson
The Daily Iowan

At first, it's hard to put your finger on what's not working in "Scrooged." Maybe it's the story, the settings, the performances, or even the lighting. But take a closer look and you'll see something is amiss. Murray has played the Christmas Cynic before, but there's something different about this one. It's as if he's trying too hard to be funny, and it's not coming across.

"Scrooged" is a film about the holiday season, but it's more than just a Christmas movie. It's a commentary on the excesses of consumerism and the dehumanization of the workforce. Murray's character, Roger Cross, is a boss who exploits his workers and turns a blind eye to the suffering of those around him. But when Cross encounters a Christmas spirit, he begins to question his own values and behavior.

The film is rich with humor, but it's also a serious social critique. Murray delivers a nuanced performance, but it's the supporting cast that really shines. Candy Clark, Bill Murray, and Carol Kane all turn in strong performances, and the film features cameos from many of the greats of 1980s Hollywood.

"Scrooged" is a film that is both funny and moving, a testament to Murray's talent as an actor. It's a film that is sure to be enjoyed by audiences of all ages, and it's a holiday classic that will be remembered for years to come.

Murray's role as Cross is a complex one, and he delivers a performance that is both funny and moving. He brings a sense of humanity to the role, and it's a performance that is truly memorable.

The film is directed by Frank Oz, who also provided the voice of the film's ghostly spirit, the Ghost of Christmas Past. Oz is a master of physical comedy, and his direction is one of the strengths of the film.
