Pomerantz suspected of mixing business with politics

DES MOINES (AP) — Senate Democrats said Monday they are becoming increasingly frustrated by the GOP activities of state Board of Regents President Marvin Pomerantz but have no proof that the Des Moines businessman is letting politics interfere with state university business.

"It has been suggested to (Pomerantz) that he does step across that line, and he ought not to be doing that," said Senate Majority Leader

Bill Hutchins, D-Audubon. "The problem is it doesn't seem to be having any effect on his activities, and I think that's what concerns some of us."

Pomerantz was the subject of a brief, impromptu debate on the floor of the Senate after Sen. Wally Horn, D-Cedar Rapids, issued another appeal for Pomerantz to curtail his Republican fund-raising activities.

"If not, step down as president and then do your politics," said Horn. Senate Minority Leader Cal Hultman, R-Red Oak, defended Pomerantz.

"We have a citizen government with citizen boards in this state, and when you put the criteria in there that you cannot be involved in political campaigns — you cannot have a political profile — you're going to exclude a lot of excellent people," Hultman said. "And I think a vendetta against one individual at this point is wrong."

Horn is a member of the House-Senate education budget subcommittee that last week grilled Pomerantz over his partisan activities, which include helping finance Republican legislative candidates. Pomerantz, a Des Moines businessman, said his political activities do not influence his decisions on the Board of Regents, which oversees the three state universities. He said he will retain his right to participate in politics and remain on the Board of Regents.

Horn said there is evidence that politics are creeping into the Board of Regents. During last week's subcommittee meeting, Democratic legislators criticized the hiring of Nancy Norman as associate director of Iowa State University's new Social and Behavioral Research Center for Rural Health.

Norman, whose husband also is active in Republican Party activities in Iowa, took the job upon resigning as director of the Iowa Department of Human Services. In that post, she had come under fire for her management policies.

Board Executive Secretary R. Wayne Richey said he submitted Norman's résumé to all three universities but put no pressure on the schools to hire her.

Republican Gov. Terry Branstad appointed Pomerantz to the regents post.

Trial begins: North faces 12 charges

Bush freed from subpoena

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oliver North's Iran-Contra trial will begin Tuesday with President George Bush free of a subpoena seeking his testimony but with former President Ronald Reagan still "subject to call," the judge in the case said Monday.

Portions of Reagan's diary also might be required as evidence, U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell ruled. However, he rejected North's subpoena seeking Bush's testimony in the trial in which North faces 12 criminal charges.

When North, who was indicted last March, walks into the U.S. courthouse near the foot of Capitol Hill, he will become the first figure in the Iran-Contra affair to stand trial.

Many of the same witnesses who testified in the nationally televised congressional hearings two years ago are expected to be called by the prosecutors, including former Attorney General Edwin Meese and North's secretary, Fawn Hall.

At North's side will be Brendan Sullivan, an aggressive Washington lawyer who also represented North before the congressional panels investigating the Iran-Contra affair.

At a hearing Friday, the government had sought to quash North's subpoenas seeking testimony from both Reagan and Bush as well as records from Reagan.

Gesell said North's lawyers have "made no showing that President Bush has any specific information relevant and material to the charges of the indictment which makes it necessary or appropriate to require his appearance."

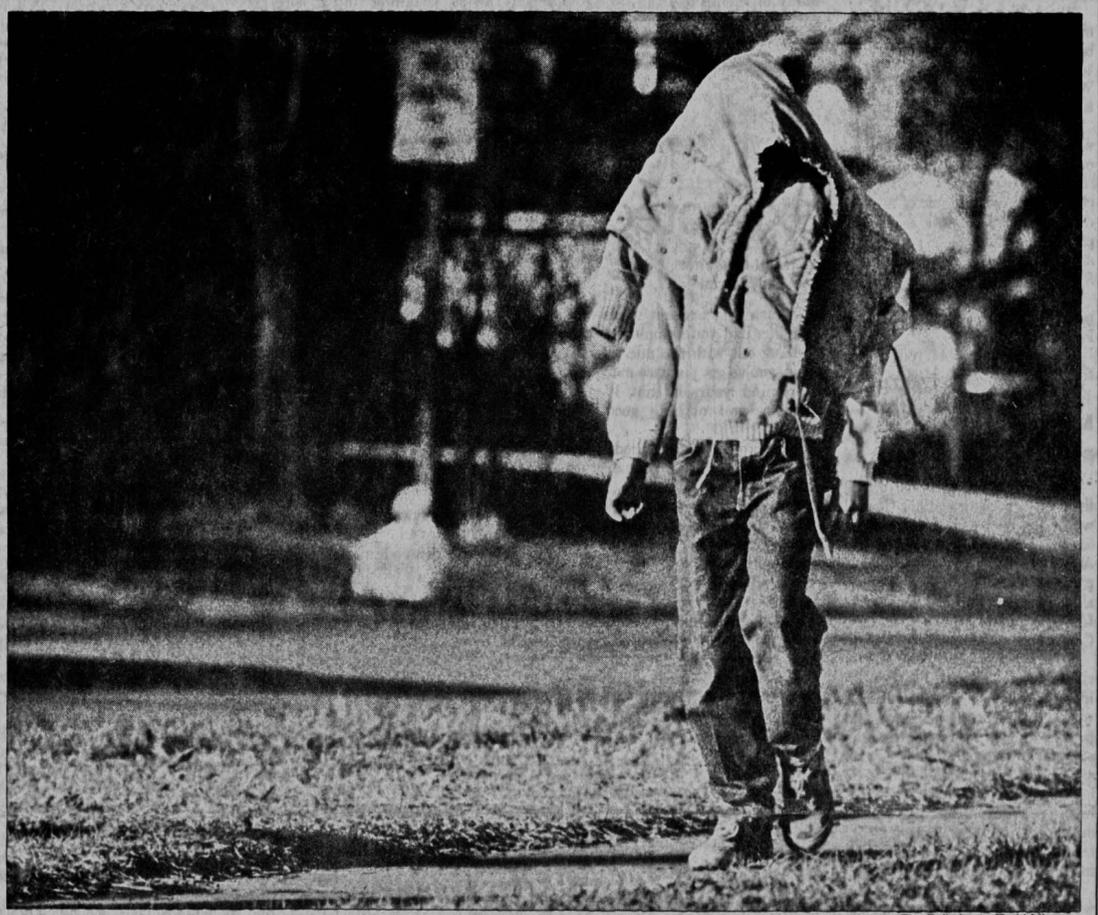

But "President Reagan shall remain subject to call on the ... subpoena" served on him by North in December, Gesell said in a three-page order.

The judge said Reagan wouldn't be called as a witness "unless and until" the court issues another order after giving the Justice Department and Reagan's lawyers an opportunity to list their objections at a hearing.

Gesell quashed North's subpoena for Reagan's diary, except for what he described as a "narrow exception."

The judge said the diary subpoena would be "subject to renewal" if North's lawyers support a claim that "President Reagan ordered, directed, requested or, with

Miller praised for pro-life proclamation

By Paige Bierma

and Jean Thilmany
The Daily Iowan

Attorney General Tom Miller's recent declaration in favor of halting privately financed abortions at the UI Special Gynecology Clinic is irrational, said Charles deProse, a physician at the clinic.

Miller said he favored halting privately financed abortions at the UI clinic. More than 1,300 abortions were performed last year at the clinic, UI officials said.

"I can't fathom on what basis (Miller) would want to say that," deProse said. "The teaching of the procedure to medical students is a completely legitimate procedure."

Miller's statement was made on the heels of Thursday's abortion demonstrations during which 155 people were arrested. More than 300 pro-life demonstrators and 200 pro-choice counter-demonstrators took part in the rally.

"To do with interference with accepted legal, medical procedures, which are important to teach and to be learned by physicians in training," deProse said. "To prevent that, just because this is a public institution, would be like the attorney general deciding he didn't like heart transplants and deciding to (discontinue that procedure) here, too."

Jackie Fordice, member of the Iowa City Defenders for Life, a group that was active in last week's Operation Rescue anti-abortion protest, approved of Miller's statement.

"Now that people are seeing that the pro-life movement is active, they are going to respond," Fordice said.

Steinberg receives manslaughter ruling

NEW YORK (AP) — A state jury Monday convicted Joel Steinberg of manslaughter in the beating death of his illegally adopted 6-year-old daughter, Lisa, a death that refocused national attention on domestic violence.

Steinberg showed no emotion as each of the 12 jurors was questioned about the verdict, which came in about 6:38 p.m. The jury found him innocent of the more serious charge of second-degree murder.

The verdict culminated a case that touched the nation's conscience, with witnesses providing wrenching detail of the physical and emotional havoc wrought by spousal and child abuse — and the failure of others to intercede.

Lisa's biological mother, Michele Launders, 27, seemed to exhale a sigh of relief when the verdict was announced.

She was sitting next to Graceann Smigel, the grandmother of a young boy who was found in Steinberg's apartment when police and Emergency Medical Service paramedics removed Lisa's comatose body the morning of Nov. 2, 1987.

The boy, who also was illegally adopted by Steinberg, has since been returned to his biological mother.

The conviction on the charge of first-degree manslaughter carries a maximum sentence of 8 1/3 to 15 years. It was a charge that prosecutors at one time had considered dropping from the case.

Public attention was riveted on the trial during the seven days of testimony last month by Hedda Nussbaum, Steinberg's battered live-in companion of 12 years. Her story of abuse and psychological manipulation was broadcast live on New York's three television network affiliates and in part nationally on the Cable News Network.

Nussbaum, testifying under immunity from prosecution, said she was so dominated by Steinberg that she was unable to defend herself from virtually systematic beatings or to protect Lisa.

She also said she was unable to bring herself to summon medics promptly on Nov. 1, 1987, after Steinberg told her Lisa was unconscious on the bathroom floor. The girl had lain there nearly 12 hours by the time Nussbaum called an ambulance; she died of brain damage in a hospital three days later.

The jury was in its eighth day of deliberation after a trial that lasted three months. Sentencing was set for March 8.

Defense lawyers claimed it was Nussbaum who fatally beat Lisa out of jealousy over the attention Steinberg paid the child. Prosecutors — pointing to Nussbaum's own severe injuries and deteriorated mental state — said she was incapable of such an act.

Nonetheless, state Supreme Court Justice Harold Rothwax instructed the jury that it must consider Nussbaum an accomplice in Lisa's death.

Musical therapy gives counseling a new tone

By Julie Deardorff
The Daily Iowan

"Fill in the answer to this question," Brenda Freed instructs her patients at the Oakdale Chemical Dependency Center. "One memory I had before using, was ..."

They scribble the answer on half-sheets of notebook paper and wait for question number two. A few minutes later, if they feel comfortable, the patients share their responses with the others and a group poem is created.

But this isn't a regular therapy session — it's musical therapy.

Everyone now chooses a rhythm instrument, and the group poem is read aloud, with accompaniment. Sometimes, only the line contributor will play when his words are read, and sometimes, the whole group will play.

"One man was very non-verbal," Musical Therapist Brenda Freed said. "He chose the xylophone, an instrument that is usually played all the way through. That was his form of expression, and the group responded positively. They really liked his contribution."

Oakdale is one of four areas on campus where Freed conducts her sessions. Each week, the use of music to obtain non-musical goals takes place in Child Psychiatry, Adult Psychiatry and General Hospital Pediatrics. It is also used in group homes, public schools, hospitals, retirement homes and correctional institutions around the country.

"Music therapy is not just being a musician, and it's not just being a therapist," Freed said. "It's a combination, using musical skills in a therapeutic way. Some people are very good performers, but they lack the social skills. There's a training for it. We perform in a way, but our goals are to reach people, to raise self esteem and awareness."

The goals and approaches of a music therapist vary with each patient. Small children may learn to follow directions by passing a beanbag in a circle to music, while paraplegics could beat a drum to strengthen their muscles. Movement and dance promote physical self-expression and

Johnson County, UI take steps toward improving 911 system

By Diana Wallace
The Daily Iowan

Though final implementation may still be years away, Johnson County and the UI have taken the first steps toward creating an improved emergency 911 telephone system.

The Johnson County Joint Service Board and a UI internal screening committee have been meeting periodically for the past several months to research an implementation strategy for an enhanced 911 system.

The new system, called "E911," would allow for quicker response to emergencies by automatically providing emergency personnel with the address and phone number of the caller.

Dick Myers, Johnson County supervisor and chairperson of the county's service board, said it's still too early to estimate the total cost of the system. The county committee will meet with several private and public businesses and safety agencies to explore various implementation plans.

Proposed healthcare plan extends access, curtails cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — A commission including three former presidents on Monday proposed a national healthcare system that would ensure access to basic medical services for all Americans, with financing by all but the poorest.

The system is designed to extend health care to the estimated 37 million Americans who are uninsured, to curtail soaring health costs and to improve the quality of medical care nationwide, said the National Leadership Commission on Health Care.

The proposed "strategy of providing access by asking every American to take responsibility for his or her own care and to assume a very small share of the cost of those who cannot assume that responsibility is eminently fair," the commission said in its report.

Without change in the nation's healthcare system, costs are expected to grow from the current $550 billion a year to $1.5 trillion by the year 2000, said Paul Rogers, a former Democratic congressman from Florida who co-chaired the commission with former Iowa Gov.

Tour of Mesquakie art to be given by curator

Gaylord Torrence, professor of art at Drake University, will conduct a free gallery tour of the "Museum Perspectives" series, at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday in the UI Museum of Art.

Torrence, co-curator of "Art of the Red Earth People: The Mesquakie of Iowa," will discuss the objects in the exhibition in the context of the Mesquakie culture.

The exhibition will continue at the museum through Feb. 26.

The Museum of Art, North Riverside Drive, is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 12 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

WRAC hosts discussions on racial struggles

"Black Women and Social Movements" will be the topic of a brown bag lunch scheduled for 12:10 p.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday at the Women's Resource and Action Center, 130 N. Madison St.

The contributions of black women will be discussed within the context of their struggles and time.

"Crossing the Color Line: Interracial Dating," is the topic of a panel discussion exploring the issues and problems arising when people who are culturally and racially different form relationships.

The program will take place 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Union, Purdue Room 341.

For further information on either of these events, call 335-1486.

Member of Israeli pacifist group to speak

The Program Committee of the Iowa City Foreign Relations Council will hold a brown bag seminar featuring Ronen Shamir of Tel Aviv, Israel. The event will take place at noon Thursday in Fellowship Hall of the Congregational United Church of Christ, 30 N. Clinton St.

Shamir is a member of an organization called Yesh Gvul (a Hebrew idiom meaning "there is a limit"), which provided moral, legal and political support for the Israelis who served jail terms for refusing to serve in Lebanon after the 1982 invasion of that country. Yesh Gvul has now widened its scope and is organizing means of protest for its members who are refusing assignment to "riot-control units."

Shamir joined Yesh Gvul in 1987, when he stated publicly that he would not take part in military actions in the occupied territories aimed at the forceful repression of the Palestinian uprising. He is currently a doctoral candidate in sociology at Northwestern University.

Shamir will also speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Iowa City Public Library, Room A, on the topic of "Draft Resistance in Israel."

Volunteer opportunities available locally

The United Way of Johnson County has announced several local volunteer opportunities, which include:

• A home-bound UI Hospitals' patient needs help with maintenance chores for a few hours per month. Call Ruth Holiday at 356-1917 for more information.

• The Iowa City Crisis Center needs volunteer crisis intervention counselors. Volunteers provide short-term counseling, suicide intervention and prevention, information and referral, and message relay for the deaf. Intensive training is provided. Call 351-0104.

• Services for Persons with Disabilities needs volunteers to tape-record books for students. Taping may be done at home. Call Deanne Boerner at 335-1462.

• Elderly Services needs people to pay visits to the home-bound elderly. Call Therese at 356-5218.

For information on these and other volunteer opportunities, call Julie Johnston at 338-7823.

'Insidious' influenza leaves students sniffing the blues

By Sharon Hernandez-Dorow
The Daily Iowan

"I feel like shit all day and all night," Jennifer Weglarz, UI junior, said. "This disease is so insidious. It's like a cold, except it won't go away."

Jennifer Weglarz has the flu. If you feel like this, maybe you do too.

Influenza is spreading through Iowa, and Iowa City residents are not exempt.

Dr. Mary Khowassah, UI Student Health Service director, said an outbreak of influenza is typical this time of year.

"We've seen quite a few students since the semester began, and many of them have the flu," Khowassah said.

Khowassah said Student Health Service employees have mostly seen type A among students, although they have seen and treated both A and B types.

There is little difference between the type A and type B strains of flu; both are acute contagious viral infections characterized by inflammation of the respiratory system, fever and muscle pain, said Kot Flora, coordinating director for disease control at the Johnson County Health Department.

Type B can cause an epidemic and usually strikes children. It hasn't been detected in Iowa for a number of years but is suspected of causing the current high number of flu cases in some Iowa primary schools.

Although the most common symptoms of the flu are a fever, severe body aches, coughing and a sore throat, other accompanying symptoms are not uncommon.

Mike Patterson, UI sophomore, said he has had a persistent cough, bad headache, sore throat, chills, sweats and a 102-degree fever.

The most painful symptoms of the flu occur for the first two or three days, but other symptoms, such as a head cold, sniffing or a worn-out feeling, can persist for up to a week.

Weglarz said she has been feeling sick for about a week and doesn't expect to be feeling completely well for another week.

The vaccination for influenza should be taken before or during November to prepare for the January flu season, Flora said.

"The flu season is definitely in January," she said. "In the first week of January, we had 44 cases reported. The next week we had 123 cases reported."

The best advice for someone suffering from influenza is to stay in bed, drink plenty of liquids, keep warm and take aspirin or Tylenol for pain, Khowassah said.

Get out those long johns! Temps expected to plunge by week's end

By Heather Maher
The Daily Iowan

If Iowa City's recent warm weather has had you skipping class to go hang out with the ducks by the river, you've got just two more days to remind yourself that it's still January and nothing good lasts forever.

Area meteorologists predict that by Thursday local temperatures will dive into the low teens and may even hit subzero.

"By the end of the week we'll see zero or below for overnight lows and highs only in the teens during the day," KCRG-TV meteorologist Denny Frary said.

The cause of this impending cold snap originates in Alaska, where Alaskans have been bravely enduring minus 87-degree temperatures. Bitter cold temperatures there have been setting records for the past two weeks, and Iowans will soon be feeling the effects of the jet stream that has been causing Alaska's lows.

"They've been extremely cold in Alaska, as everyone knows, and the jet stream is showing signs of lowering and bringing in some of that cold to Iowa," Frary said.

Regardless of the chilly forecast, today's weather won't be any indication of things to come, according to KWWL-TV meteorologist Craig Johnson.

"You guys (Iowa City) will probably set record highs Tuesday. It looks like temperatures should be in the upper 50s and even be pushing the 60s.

"By the end of the week it will only be around 10 degrees. The cold will settle in, with each day getting progressively colder. Here in Waterloo it should be 10 below by Friday," he said.

This month's mild temperatures may go on the record books as one of the warmest Januaries in history, said Frary.

"These temperatures are very unusual. Right now it looks as though it may be the third or fourth warmest in history," he said.

Frary added that the cold spell probably won't last. "All indications we've seen point to an early spring."

A Davenport man was charged with second-degree robbery Sunday for allegedly taking a woman's purse forcibly from her after approaching her from behind in a UI parking lot, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Charles Alan Moore, 19, was arrested by a UI Campus Security officer after members of the UI track team caught Moore as he ran past them near The Field House, according to court records.

Bail is set at $10,000. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for Feb. 8, according to court records.

An Iowa City man was charged Sunday with second-degree theft after he was arrested on a warrant Saturday for allegedly taking several snow blowers, according to Johnson County District Court records.

Jackie Laverne Gibson, 38, 1233 Gilbert Court, allegedly admitted to Iowa City police that he had five snowblowers in his possession for which he had no receipts, according to court records.

Seven snowblowers were reported stolen in December from Pyramid Motor Service, 309 Highland Ave., with values totaling $1,315, according to court records.

Police learned that five snow blowers were seen being moved from a residence on Page Street. A woman there told police that two snow blowers remained there and that they belonged to Gibson, according to court records.

Gibson was released from custody on his own recognizance. A preliminary hearing is set for Feb. 16, according to court records.

UI professor receives grant for cystic fibrosis research

By Brian Dick
The Daily Iowan

A UI professor will continue to investigate the origins of cystic fibrosis, a genetic disease that attacks every one in 2,000 caucasians, with a $2.7 million grant.

The National Institutes of Health recently awarded the five-year grant to Dr. Michael Welsh, director of the UI Cystic Fibrosis Research Center and professor of internal medicine in the UI College of Medicine.

Welsh, a pioneer in the area of ion transport, first researched the theory that cystic fibrosis might stem from the failure of chloride channels in the cells of the lung to open normally.

Ion transport, the exchange of molecules from one solid tissue into another, is a major area of interest to the researchers at the cystic fibrosis center because it might be one of the possible causes of the disease.

"This failure subsequently prevents the normal secretion of fluid into the airway resulting in dehydrated mucus that coats the lung tissue, generating an ideal environment for lung disease," Dr. Welsh said.

Welsh's investigation in the field of ion transport is a start, he admitted, but much work remains to be done.

"That was a start, but you never know if you're on the right track until you're done — and we're not done," Welsh said.

Welsh's research will contribute to a nationwide effort to combat the deadly disease, he said.

"The National Institutes of Health award the grants on the basis of the originality of the research, resources, past track record and the intent of future research," Welsh said. "The award grants are based on peer reviews."

"Research, here and nationally, is a multi-disciplinary effort," he said. "It involves many people at many facilities."

Cystic fibrosis is a hereditary metabolic disorder involving a defect in both the secretory mechanism of the pancreas and the endocrine gland that produces mucus. The earliest and most severe form of the disease is a blockage of the intestinal tract at birth because of a deficiency of pancreatic enzymes.

Today, an estimated 95 percent of cystic fibrosis patients die of lung-related diseases caused by an accumulation of bacteria and deposits of foreign matter in the lungs, Welsh said.

The Cystic Fibrosis Research Center provides service to patients in the surrounding states.

Dr. Jeffrey Smith, one of the co-investigators on Welsh's biology research team, was awarded a two-year Basil O'Connor Starter Scholar Research Award to study the regulation of chloride channels in cystic fibrosis patients.

"The Cystic Fibrosis Research Center is very large from a clinical standpoint," Smith said. "We treat patients from neighboring states, and in terms of the expansive area it covers, it provides an incredible service to the bordering states."

UI researchers nearing the end of a year-long marijuana study have found few drug-related learning impairments in chronic marijuana users.

Initial observations of the data indicate marijuana users show no significant learning deficiencies when compared to a control group of non-users, said Dr. Robert Block, an associate research scientist in the UI Department of Anesthesia.

"What it looks like is that more of the tests don't show any impairment from marijuana use," he said.

The study evaluated the current results from analytical tests for each group. Researchers then compared the current results with each individual's performance on their fourth grade Iowa Test of Basic Skills.

Comparisons were then calculated to determine whether the mental abilities of marijuana users had decreased since they began using the drug.

Marijuana users scored lower on the verbal abilities portion of the test than non-users. There were no significant differences between the two in the remaining study subject areas — reading comprehension, mathematical calculations, vocabulary and general academic ability.

The study also suggests that the frequency of marijuana usage affects test performance, Block said.

"Preliminary results from the high-school version of the Iowa tests may show slight impairment in frequent marijuana users but none in less frequent marijuana users," he said.

About 200 marijuana users have been tested thus far, and 15 additional marijuana users are needed to complete the clinical portion of the study.

Participants are asked to complete the Iowa Test of Educational Development written test and a number of computer tests. After an initial screening to determine drug use and psychiatric state, a participant may earn up to $50 for participating in the study.

As the use of marijuana is illegal, subjects are guaranteed anonymity through a confidentiality certificate issued by the Department of Health and Human Services.

"The people we are testing are people who are using marijuana, but not while taking our tests," Block said.

Research subjects are required to be between 18 and 42 years old, have used marijuana regularly for two years and have attended fourth grade in Iowa.

Participants may not smoke the drug during the 24-hour period preceding the test.

Men aged 32 to 42 who have never used marijuana are still needed for the control group, said Cathy Braverman, a research assistant working on the project.

She said the battery of tests required for the survey normally takes three to four weeks, and she expected the project to be completed within a few months.

Approximately 350 people have been tested as participants for the study since the research became publicized about nine months ago, she said.

"It's surprising, with the bigger ads we're getting more response," she said.

Block will speak at The Residual Effects of Abused Drugs on Behavior conference in February. The National Institute on Drug Abuse, the group that provided a $260,000 grant for the UI research, will sponsor the event.

Persons interested in participating in the study may call Dr. Block at 356-7026.

Water main ruptures; city reports no damage

By Deborah Gluba

The Daily Iowan

An Iowa City water pipe burst between the UI Alumni Center and the Theatre Building Monday afternoon, but officials said the buildings suffered no damage.

City employees worked into the night to repair the pipes.

"A joint came apart in the pipe," said an Iowa City Water Department employee working at the scene Monday night who chose to remain anonymous. "The joint shifted slightly, allowing it to leak around a seal. We're replacing the gasket and pressurizing it so that it can't move. We have to make sure there aren't any other leaks or cracks."

The city crew worked to stop the leakage from the broken 12-inch main, which helps provide water to Iowa City's East Side. Water running through the broken line was rerouted to nearby 16-inch pipes running along Park Road.

Ed Moreno, assistant superintendent of the Iowa City Water Department, said cold weather and old age may have played a part in the water-main breakage. "Those pipes are under pressure, and sometimes the pipes just get old," he said.

The anonymous city employee also said that another possible cause could have been ground-settling.

He added that workers would complete the permanent repairs on the pipe by midnight.

The pipe breakage occurred near a

UI steam tunnel, and the city required assistance from the UI Physical Plant to locate utilities in the area.

A portion of the water and mud from the broken main entered a UI steam tunnel and is expected to continue steaming until the excess water is boiled out of the lines, said William Dautremont, UI Physical Plant operations supervisor.

Court date set in battle over Lands' End locale

By Belinda Bloor
The Daily Iowan

A June 26 court date has been set for the civil law suit that delayed the opening of a Lands' End outlet store in Iowa City, according to Johnson County District Court records.

The suit was filed by the owners of Seiferts clothing store seeking to stop a Lands' End store from leasing Seiferts' former location at 10 S. Clinton St., according to court records.

When Seiferts moved from the Clinton Street location to the Old Capitol Center in 1984, the store owners signed an agreement with Dey Building Corporation and Center City Properties — the owners of the Clinton Street property at that time — that stated the property would not be leased to any company selling women's clothing for a period of seven years, according to court records.

The suit was filed March 30, 1988, by Grafton Group Inc., the parent corporation of Seiferts clothing store. It claimed a breach of contract occurred when the Clinton Street property owners leased the space to Lands' End in 1988, because of the agreement made with the owners when Seiferts terminated the lease, according to court records.

Lands' End has been waiting for the lawsuit to be resolved for 10 months. When the company signed a lease, the property had already been sold to a third party, Kevin Hanick, realtor for Lands' End, said last summer.

Lands' End officials have been unable to open the "Not Quite Perfect" store as they had planned.

"We're still trying to arrange a lease," said Terry Wilson, Lands' End vice president for communication. "It's in the hands of the lawyers."

Wilson said he thought the company may search for alternate sites for the outlet.

Ultra-right party wins seats in W. Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Conservative politicians said Monday they may have lost touch with like-minded voters after surprising legislative election victories by a tiny ultra-right party led by a former Nazi SS soldier.

Chancellor Helmut Kohl said his governing Christian Democrats would have to "take care of conservative voters" who defected.

The conservative Republican Party captured 11 of the West Berlin legislative assembly's 138 seats in Sunday's balloting. It also will have two seats in the federal parliament in Bonn after next year's national elections, giving the ultra-right its first representation in parliament since 1953.

Police said more than 10,000 people demonstrated in downtown West Berlin late Monday to protest the Republicans' showing. There were isolated rock-throwing incidents and vandalism, but no violence or arrests, they said.

The Republicans, guided by former Nazi SS soldier Franz Schoenhuber, campaigned on a platform of ridding West Berlin of foreign workers such as Turks and giving preferential treatment to Germans seeking jobs.

Foreigners make up more than 10 percent of the city's population of 2.1 million.

West Germany also has been the destination of many asylum-seekers from the Third World, and the Republicans called for sharp limits on their numbers.

Sunday's balloting marked the first time the Republican Party, formed in 1983, won elective seats at the state level. Schoenhuber, whose party headquarters are in Munich, did not run.

The left-leaning Frankfurter Rundschau newspaper called the victories "frightening." West German Jewish leader Heinz Galinski said they were a "heavy defeat for democracy."

However, Greens Party leader Antje Vollmer said the Republicans' "good showing... is a challenge, but it won't kill democracy."

Thousands of people chanted "Kick out the Nazis! Foreigners stay!" in a march through West Berlin late Sunday in protest of the party.

Kohl told reporters in Bonn the party's showing was worrisome and indicated West Germans are increasingly concerned about the growing number of foreigners competing for jobs, housing and social services.

"There is an urgent need to discuss these problems and come up with better solutions," Kohl said. He also said "reasonable solutions" had to be found for the large

Canada abandons exercises after 8 die

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Canada pulled out of joint cold-weather military exercises Monday, the morning after eight soldiers were killed in the crash of a C-130 transport plane trying to land in icy fog at 50 degrees below zero.

The four-engine Hercules was carrying eight crewmen and 10 paratroopers from Edmonton, Alberta, to participate in Brim Frost '89, when it crashed Sunday night at the end of the runway at Fort Wainwright, said U.S. Army Maj. Sherrel Mock.

Three men were in serious condition, one was listed as stable and six others were being held for observation at the base's Bartlett Army Community Hospital, Mock said Monday.

"We don't know if the cold weather had anything to do with it," Mock said. "Teams are out there right now, going through the wreckage."

"The investigation is still in its early stages. They're wondering if it was the weather or something mechanical."

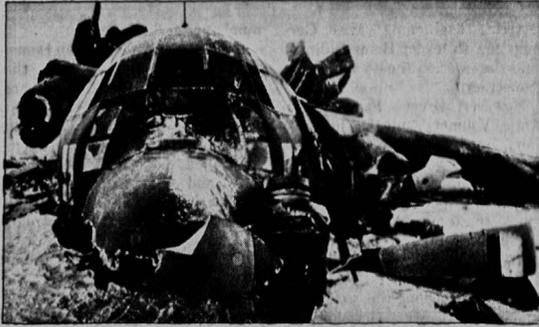

A 450-man Canadian paratroop force was to support the U.S. Army's 1st Brigade, 6th Infantry Division (Light), in a major land battle that was the centerpiece of the Brim Frost ground exercises near Fairbanks.

But after the crash, Canadian officials canceled their forces' participation and recalled their remaining aircraft and soldiers, Mock said.

"They canceled because of the equipment they lost (in the crash)," Mock said. "The aircraft was bringing in equipment ranging from snow machines to cold-weather gear."

Military planners call Brim Frost "the premier cold-weather training exercise in the free world." But temperatures plunging to more than 60 below zero during the past two weeks have been too much of a test.

The bitter cold has caused metal fatigue and rubber fatigue in trucks and aircraft, stalling equipment and generally slowing maneuvers, Mock said.

An entire propeller assembly of the Canadian C-130 aircraft, which crashed late Sunday upon landing at Fort Wainwright Army Post in Fairbanks, Alaska, sliced into the underside of the cockpit. The crash killed eight Canadian special forces soldiers.

"But we've been able to land aircraft," he said.

"Another Canadian C-130 had landed an hour earlier," he said. "The third aircraft in the flight was diverted to the Fairbanks airport because the runway was blocked."

The plane's last contact with the control tower was at 6:47 p.m. There were no distress calls from the crew before the crash, Mock said. There was no explosion or fire after the plane broke in two and skidded to a halt about a quarter-mile down the runway, he said.

Officials confirm W. German chemical shipment to Iraq

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Government officials acknowledged Monday that a West German company shipped a toxic chemical to Iraq, but they disputed a report that the amount was enough to make biological weapons.

Another West German company confirmed it shipped materials to India that could be used for nuclear purposes, but it said the delivery was approved by the federal government.

West German officials also said they are looking into U.S. allegations that Iran used its embassy in Bonn to arrange shipments of supplies for the production of poison gas.

"We are examining this matter, but we have no official indications" that the allegations are true, a government official said on condition of anonymity. "Before we do anything, we must have something in our hands."

There has been a flurry of allegations in recent weeks that West German companies were involved in illegal exports that could be used to produce chemical, biological and atomic weapons.

Some American congressmen say West German leaders looked the other way while such shipments were made, an accusation the federal government angrily denies.

Der Spiegel magazine reported the Frankfurt-based Degussa company shipped 210 pounds of beryllium to India in 1984, which the magazine said could be used in nuclear weapons.

The company, in a statement, said the Indian government provided them with "detailed accounts of where the material would go and for what purpose it would be used" and that it was not for military purposes.

Beryllium, a metal, can be used to intensify nuclear explosions.

In another recent article, Der Spiegel reported that Iraq is developing biological weapons with German assistance.

The magazine said the Bavarian company Sigma Chemie delivered more than 200 milligrams of the toxic substance Mykotoxin to Iraq in 1987 even though the federal government in Bonn knew it can be used to make biological weapons.

Friedhelm Ost, the chief government spokesman in Bonn, acknowledged Mykotoxin, derived from poisonous mushrooms, was sent to Iraq but said the amount "can only be used for scientific and laboratory purposes."

In Baltimore, a U.S. attorney said Monday a chemical weapons component manufactured by a Baltimore company wound up in Iran. Reports say such shipments were arranged through the Iranian Embassy in Bonn.

Breckinridge Wilcox, the U.S. attorney for Maryland, said Alcolac Inc. of Baltimore agreed to plead guilty to one count of knowing violation of export laws in connection with the export of thiodiglycol, a substance that when combined with hydrochloric acid produces lethal mustard gas.

Rabin offers elections in Gaza

JERUSALEM (AP) — Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin, looking for Palestinian support for a peace plan, said Monday he was willing to work for elections in the occupied lands even if Arabs did not immediately halt the uprising.

An influential Moslem fundamentalist leader in the occupied Gaza Strip said he supported the proposal.

In Gaza, meanwhile, soldiers shot and wounded 15 Palestinians in stone-throwing clashes, including a 16-year-old girl and a 15-year-old boy who were in critical condition, Arab doctors said.

A 12-year-old boy was taken to a hospital in Israel with a gunshot wound to the head, the doctors said. The army said it was checking the reports.

Rabin, speaking on army radio, said he was willing to drop his earlier condition that Palestinians halt the violence of the 13-month uprising for several months before Israel would talk about holding elections.

Palestinians have rejected attaching preconditions to elections, which would be the first in the territories since 1976.

Rabin told legislators of his left-leaning Labor Party he was willing to hold talks immediately with Palestinians. Only after an agreement was reached would hostilities have to end, he said.

"When there's agreement on the process, then a calm period will have to begin, because to my mind if you want free elections they cannot take place in an atmosphere of violence," Rabin said.

Sheikh Ahmed Yassin, the leader of Moslem fundamentalists in the Gaza Strip, said he supported the proposal.

"If there will be international supervision, there will be more freedom for the Palestinians and this is the right way. There is no other way to elect the representatives of the Palestinian people," he said on Israel Television's Arabic-language show.

Yassin's statement apparently was aimed at the Palestine Liberation Organization. The Moslem fundamentalist Hamas movement is competing with the PLO over influence in the occupied lands.

The latest conflict came Monday when PLO activists persuaded Palestinians to ignore a Hamas-declared strike.

Soviets bomb Afghan rebels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration accused the Soviet Union on Monday of pursuing a "scorched-earth" policy in Afghanistan as its troops head home from the war-torn country.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman said the Soviets were conducting bombing raids in various areas, using both planes based in Afghanistan and others flying from Soviet territory, while also launching Scud missile attacks.

By contrast, Redman said, U.S.-armed Afghan rebels were showing restraint toward the departing Red army, which is committed to completing the withdrawal by Feb. 15.

Redman gave no assessment of how fiercely the rebels were pursuing their war against the forces of the Soviet-backed Kabul government, nor did he offer assurance the Bush administration would promote restraint.

Cruise missiles in Britain deactivated

MOLESWORTH, England — The last NATO base to receive U.S. cruise missiles was the first to be deactivated Monday under the terms of the superpowers' arms control treaty.

In a short ceremony at the Molesworth base, 70 miles north of London, members of the U.S. Air Force 303rd Tactical Mission wing were advised: "Mission complete."

Reporters and photographers, including several from the Soviet news media, were then permitted to tour the four empty bunkers that until last year housed 16 operational and two spare cruise missiles.

"To me, this is a milestone in the implementation of the INF treaty," said Maj. Gen. Marcus Anderson, commander of the 3rd Air Force, referring to the arms control agreement signed by President Ronald Reagan and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

The treaty, signed in December 1987, calls for the elimination by 1991 of 2,700 Soviet and U.S. land-based intermediate-range nuclear missiles — those with ranges of 300 to 3,000 miles.

Bureau of Indian Affairs called corrupt

WASHINGTON — There is rampant corruption in the Bureau of Indian Affairs and among many tribal leaders, an Indian activist told Congress Monday.

"Within the past two years, I have personally attempted to assist seven Indian reservations located in the Southwest, Northwest and Northern Plains with economic development," said Russell Means, head of the American Indian Movement.

"I know that the tribal governments do not want economic development unless graft is a major ingredient," said Means. He said many tribal officials are honest men and women, but "a vast majority of the tribal officials parasite on the incestuous world of tribal politics. . . . It's embarrassing."

In his testimony before a special investigative committee of the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs, Means called for abolishment of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and said management of the tribes should be the sole responsibility of tribal elders as traditional customs dictate.

Contras claim Bush administration support

MIAMI — Contra leaders insisted Monday that the Bush administration supports them, and strenuously denied the existence of a CIA probe into their possible misuse of secret political funds.

Contra director Adolfo Calero said the Nicaraguan rebels had not had official contact with the president or his aides since the Inauguration. But he said he talked informally to Defense Secretary-designate John Tower and Republican Party Chairman Lee Atwater, and had received assurances that Bush would continue the Reagan administration's support of the Contras.

Car bomb in Beirut explodes, kills 3

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A car bomb exploded as the motorcade of Phalange Party leader George Saade passed a cemetery Monday in Christian east Beirut, killing three people and wounding 17, police reported. Saade escaped injury.

The right-wing Christian leader said later he did not believe it was an assassination attempt because "the route I took . . . is not the road I usually take to my office. . . . I decided only minutes before leaving my house to take this route."

In Damascus, Shiite Moslem militias sponsored by Syria and Iran signed a peace agreement aimed at ending a 9-month-old war in south Lebanon and Beirut's Moslem sector in which more than 500 people have been killed and nearly 2,000 wounded.

Solidarity title allowed for union name

WARSAW, Poland — The Supreme Court has decided Solidarity can be used in a trade union name, which has been forbidden since the Soviet bloc's first free union was outlawed in 1982, the official news agency PAP said Monday.

"A name of a trade union, apart from a name of an enterprise, branch, kind of work or profession, may also contain additional names such as the word 'Solidarity,' according to the decision made by the Supreme Court," the agency reported.

"It was decided that this decision will have the form of a law, obligatory for all courts."

Stripper's Penthouse story angers defrocked Swaggart

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Television evangelist Jimmy Swaggart Monday called a stripper's story of performing sexual acts for him "diabolical and slanderous fiction" and threatened to sue the magazine in which it appeared.

The stripper's employer also labeled the woman's allegations, detailed in the current issue of Penthouse magazine, "a pornographic fairy tale," but the magazine said it stood by the story.

The allegations by the woman, Catherine Mary Kampen, are similar to those levied last year by a prostitute that led to Swaggart's ouster from the Assemblies of God, a Pentecostal denomination, and a major downturn in the fortunes of Jimmy Swaggart World Ministries.

"There is not one shred of truth to these allegations. I have never met or seen the woman," Swaggart said at a news conference at his ministry headquarters.

"Our attorneys learned of this fraudulent story in December and had clearly shown Penthouse and its porno writer, Art Harris (the author), that the story was untrue," Swaggart said. "We now know that they already knew and did not care that it was a lie."

Penthouse spokesman Sy Presten issued a statement for publisher Bob Guccione saying the magazine stood behind the story.

"The fact that she was with Swaggart has been corroborated by her husband and others in Louisiana," the statement said. "The things she reports Swaggart made her do are very similar to the story of Debra Murpree, . . . which have never been contradicted."

Kampen, 38, was quoted in Penthouse as saying Swaggart gained her trust with his counseling, then emotionally manipulated her into acting out sexual fantasies.

U.S. incomes increase 3.8 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans' after-tax incomes shot up 3.8 percent last year, with some of the extra money going to raise the nation's personal savings rate from the 40-year low it had hit just a year before, the government said Monday.

The Commerce Department said the gain in income, adjusted for inflation, was the best since a 3.9 percent gain in 1986 and more than double 1987's 1.7 percent.

In December, personal income totaled $4.2 trillion, with much of the $37.1 billion jump from November resulting from farm subsidy payments. Without those outlays, the government said, December's total income would have been up .08 percent.

Last year's income gains spurred both spending and saving:

- Consumer spending rose 2.8 percent after adjusting for inflation, following increases of 2.7 percent in 1987 and 4.3 percent in 1986.

- In December alone, spending rose 0.9 percent, with the biggest increase, 4.1 percent, posted for durable goods — "big ticket" items expected to last three or more years.

- The average personal savings rate rose a full percentage point, from 3.2 percent to 4.2 percent, the highest since the 4.4 percent set in 1985.

The 1987 rate was the smallest since a 3.1 percent rate in 1947.

Ellison may return in 10 days; exam shows minor damage

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Coach Denny Crum and the seventh-ranked Louisville Cardinals breathed a collective sigh of relief Monday after a thorough examination of Pervis Ellison's injured left knee revealed no serious damage. Dr. Rudy Ellis, the team's physician, said a special X-ray machine that can see through the knee confirmed that Ellison sprained the medial collateral ligament and would be sidelined about 10 days. "The ligament is not torn, nor is any cartilage," Ellis said. "He'll be sore for a while and he'll need a lot of treatment . . . but I don't think this will jeopardize his career in any way." That was the best news, in Crum's opinion. "We're pleased that Pervis' injury isn't a disabling one — at least from a long-term aspect," Crum said. "Obviously, we hope to get him back as soon as possible. We'll just have to take it on a day-to-day basis." Ellison would miss four games if he's out for 10 days, but Ellis said he may be back sooner. "I'm optimistic enough to believe it won't take that long," the doctor said. Ellison said he would return as soon as he was able. "I feel fine; a lot better than I did yesterday (Sunday)," he said. "I want to get back as quick as possible and contribute." Ellison, the team's leading scorer and rebounder, hurt his knee after stealing a pass just before halftime in Sunday's 85-79 loss to No. 15 Ohio State. Ellison's left foot was planted on the foul line at Ohio State's end of the court and his right foot slipped. He fell to the court writhing in pain. "It was painful at first, but then it didn't hurt as bad because it was kind of numb," he said. "I could hear the doctors and trainers talking among themselves, but I couldn't say anything . . . probably because I was scared." "I was thinking, 'This is it. It's over. It (a professional career) hasn't even started and it's over.'"

Dollar bills were flying away. I guess that's why I couldn't say anything." An air cast was applied, and Ellison left the court with the help of two teammates. Ellison spent the second half in the whirlpool, watching the game on television. He left Freedom Hall on crutches. Crum said he's not sure how he will adjust to Ellison's absence. "I haven't made any plans yet. We'll have a coaches meeting after Pervis is examined," he said. "Obviously, Felton (Spencer) and Cornelius (Holden) will be in there a lot, the way it looks." Spencer, a 7-foot junior, is averaging eight points and five rebounds per game as Ellison's backup. Holden, a 6-7 freshman, has averaged almost four points and three rebounds per game in limited action. "The good that can come out of it is if the guys playing Pervis' minutes improve," Crum said. "I'm not so much concerned about winning or losing as much as getting something positive out of this."

Caray named to baseball Hall

CHICAGO (AP) — Harry Caray, the Chicago Cubs' gregarious broadcaster, set aside the facade momentarily Monday when he talked about his new honor as a member of baseball's Hall of Fame. "For a poor orphan from the wrong side of the tracks it's not bad when I can say, 'Buy the house a drink,'" Caray told reporters during a news conference held at his Chicago restaurant. Caray learned Friday that he had been named to baseball's Hall of Fame — the same day he was being inducted into the Italian National Hall of Fame in Atlantic City. But it was both a happy and sad moment, said Caray, who grew up as an orphan before he began his 41-year career in broadcasting. "Here I was at a fine Italian function, and the Italian people are so family oriented. I wondered how happy I would have been if my mother and father had been in the audience. But I never knew my parents," he said. Caray, born Harry Carabina some 70 years ago, said he was "ticked" whenever a friend of his was inducted in the Hall of Fame. But he also wondered why he wasn't elected earlier. "Wherever I'd go, people would ask me why I hadn't been named to the Hall of Fame and I'd say 'I don't know,'" he recalled. "I might have stepped on some toes, but everything I've ever said, I've always said from the heart." Caray said Detroit broadcaster Ernie Harwell, also a member of the Hall of Fame and a member of the voting committee, had called to congratulate him. "Ernie told me it was by acclamation," kidded Caray, "and maybe that's good because if they had taken a vote I might not have made it. And it's a good thing they don't have a 'Hall of Infamy' because I'd probably have made that first." Caray will be inducted July 23 into the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., along with Johnny Bench and Carl Yastrzemski, who were voted in by the baseball writers earlier this month. "I've only been to Cooperstown once, and that was when my hero, Stan Musial, was inducted," Caray said. "It hasn't sunk in yet," he added, "but I'm sure it will sink in. I know that big, strong athletes break down at the ceremony." Caray was a broadcaster for 25 years with the St. Louis Cardinals. He also spent a year with the Oakland Athletics and 11 years with the Chicago White Sox before joining the Cubs in 1981. Caray has great rapport with the fans, many of whom come out to the ball park to hear him sing "Take Me Out To The Ball Game," during the seventh inning stretch. "I'm a fan just like they are," said Caray. "I get mad when they get mad and I boo the umpires when they boo. I don't say it's good, but they see in me what they see in themselves." "Like I've always said, you can't beat fun at the old ballpark. I really feel it and I believe it."

Wilson sentenced for public urination

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Stanley Wilson, suspended from the Super Bowl because of a drug relapse, was sentenced Monday on an unrelated charge of urinating on a sidewalk. Terms of the sentence were not announced, but Justin Verst, the assistant Campbell County prosecutor in charge of the case, said he would recommend that Wilson be required to complete a drug treatment program. Campbell County District Judge Daniel Guidugli agreed to place the 27-year-old Cincinnati Bengals' running back in a diversion program on the disorderly conduct charge, which alleged that Wilson urinated on the sidewalk outside a northern Kentucky nightclub Jan. 5. Verst said he agreed to the defense request for the diversion program because the charge against Wilson involves a first-time offense.

Spanish prince dies in ski accident

BEAVER CREEK, Colo. (AP) — Prince Alfonso de Bourbon of Spain, a cousin of King Juan Carlos, was killed Monday while skiing on a run being used for the men's downhill event in the World Alpine Ski Championships, officials said.

World Championship officials initially gave few details of his death, which occurred about 5 p.m. Monday at the finish line of the downhill course at Beaver Creek Resort. The mishap occurred as the run was being prepared for ski competition later in the week.

All official functions scheduled Monday night were cancelled by World Championship officials, who also ordered flags flown at half staff.

Alfonso de Bourbon, 52, who was not in the line of succession to the Spanish throne, was a member of the Council of the International Ski Federation (FIS) and former president of the Spanish Ski Federation.

Officials said he was free-skiing with at least two companions when he apparently ran into a cable used to suspend banners near the finish line. Although the course was closed, Alfonso was certified to be on it.

Alfonso de Bourbon's father was the elder brother of the father of King Juan Carlos, and they both were sons of King Alfonso XIII, who abdicated the Spanish throne in 1931.

Norwegian claims slalom title

BEAVER CREEK, Colo. (AP) — Unheralded Ole Christian Furuseth of Norway claimed a narrow victory in the men's combined slalom Monday but admitted he will face overwhelming odds in holding off Marc Girardelli for the gold medal at the World Alpine Ski Championships.

The slalom results will be paired with Friday's downhill to determine the combined medalists, with somewhat heavier emphasis given to the downhill in computing the final standings.

Luxembourg's Girardelli, third in the combined slalom, loomed as the clear-cut favorite for the gold medal because of his downhill prowess. He has won three of the last four downhill on the World Cup circuit this season.

Furuseth, on the other hand, said he can "barely ski downhill. I haven't skied it this year. The last time I did, I was five seconds behind (last season at Val d'Isere). But I want to try it, because I think I have a chance for a medal in the combined."

Kimball sentenced to 17 years

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Olympic diver Bruce Kimball on Monday was sentenced to 17 years in prison for a high-speed drunken driving accident last summer in which he plowed into a group of teen-agers, killing two and injuring four.

"You must suffer the consequences of drunken driving. We must stop it. We can't seem to get a hammer on it," Hillsborough Circuit Judge Harry Lee Coe III told the 1984 Olympic silver medalist.

Calling the Aug. 1 accident a "terrible, terrible tragedy," the judge said he hoped the sentence would "scream out to young people" about the dangers of drunken driving.

Coe revoked Kimball's drivers license and said his prison term would be followed by 15 years probation to include community work aimed at teaching young people the dangers of alcohol.

A model prisoner could expect to serve one third of his sentence, which means Kimball could be free in five or six years, according to defense attorney Fran Quesada.

Kimball was legally drunk the night his speeding sports car slammed into a crowd of some 30 teen-agers on a dark dead-end street at a site known as "the spot," a popular hangout for teen-agers in suburban Brandon, Fla.

Prosecutors said he roared down the narrow road at about 75 mph and skidded 397 feet from point of impact, hurling victims 30-60 feet, sideswiping several cars and leaving a trail of blood.

Seahawks' president moves on

KIRKLAND, Wash. (AP) — Mike McCormack, Seattle Seahawks president and general manager for the past six years, is leaving the team, new team owner Ken Behring announced Monday night.

"I've tried every way possible not to make any changes," Behring told a news conference, but added, "it's the one financial position that you do want control over."

Behring said only that McCormack is "leaving" the team and refused to elaborate. He said he'd interview half a dozen candidates as possible replacements.

McCormack said previously his contract ends this week. Reached by telephone at his home Monday night, McCormack said he had no comment.

"I'm not going to hang up on you," McCormack told the Associated Press, "but I'm not going to make a comment."

Behring said Monday night no other major changes were anticipated in the team.

Behring had scoffed earlier this month at reports McCormack was on his way out, saying, "There's nothing different."

Darling, Mets settle on 3-year deal

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Darling and the New York Mets agreed on a three-year, $5.3 million contract Monday night while seven other players settled for one-year deals, reducing the players in salary arbitration to 68.

Darling and the Mets had been $500,000 apart when they submitted salary arbitration numbers. Darling, who made $1 million in 1988, had asked for $1.725 million.

Meanwhile, Billy Hatcher, Juan Agosto and Jim Deshaies agreed to contracts with the Houston Astros.

Hatcher, an outfielder, settled for $495,000, a $255,000 raise. Agosto, a left-handed pitcher, agreed to $480,000, a raise of $277,500. Deshaies, also a left-hander, settled for $470,000, a raise of $237,500.

Two Seattle Mariners settled Monday. Third baseman Jim Presley agreed to $595,000, a $12,500 raise. Catcher Dave Valle settled for $290,000, a $125,000 raise.

Joel Skinner, a catcher for the New York Yankees, settled for $200,000, a $90,000 raise.

Poll

When Illinois lost Thursday night, it appeared Georgetown would move up one place to the top spot, but the Jayas were upset by Louisiana State 82-80 on Saturday.

Louisiana was next in line for a chance at No. 1, but the Cardinals lost at home to Ohio State 85-79 Sunday.

Tubbs, who thrives on record-breaking performances by his teams and tries to "do things nobody else has done," shrugged at the mention of a curse on the previous No. 1 teams.

"If you're saying that's the curse, I like that pressure, trying to defend that," he said. "When it comes down to the nitty gritty, I'd rather be No. 1 and lose than be No. 250 and lose."

"Maybe there's something to that, but we're not worried. We're happy to be where we are and we're going to work our tail off to try to stay there."

Oklahoma's highest ranking before Monday was third. The Sooners reached No. 3 after starting last season 14-0, then lost two straight. Earlier this season, they reached No. 3 again and lost at Pittsburgh.

Tubbs said the fact Oklahoma is No. 1 proves that hard work and persistence pays dividends. "What it should mean is that what we've been saying all along can come true. I think it's very, very important to our players," he said.

"We'll just see how they respond to it. We think it will be a plus for our program."

To show the wide range of opinion on who deserved the top ranking, six teams received first-place votes. North Carolina, 18-3, jumped from seventh to third with four first-place votes and 1,074 points, 19 more than Arizona, 15-2, which improved two places and was named No. 1 on one ballot.

Missouri, 18-3, stayed fifth. The Tigers had three first-place votes and 1,048 points.

Georgetown, which fell to 15-2 with the loss to Louisiana State, dropped from second to sixth with 1,019 points and the final first-place vote.

Louisville was seventh with 1,011 points after having its 14-game winning streak snapped and falling to 14-3.

Florida State, 16-1, moved from 11th to eighth with 797 points, Iowa was ninth, and Seton Hall, 18-2, rounded out the top 10 after being ninth last week.

Michigan dropped one spot to lead the second 10 and was followed by Duke, North Carolina State, Syracuse, Ohio State, Nevada-Las Vegas, Indiana, West Virginia, Louisiana State and Stanford.

Duke had held the No. 1 spot in the preseason poll and for the first nine weeks of the regular season. The Blue Devils, however, lost three straight games over the past two weeks and have fallen to the second 10.

Last week's second 10 was Florida State, Iowa, Nevada-Las Vegas, Syracuse, North Carolina State,

Hawkeye runners catch a thief

By Julie Deardorff
 The Daily Iowan

A purse thief picked the wrong group to run from and was apprehended by members of the Iowa men's track team early Saturday morning.

Members were boarding the bus in front of the Field House before leaving for a meet against Northern Iowa when they noticed assistant coach Larry Wiczorek yelling and running down the middle of the street.

"I was walking back from the Rec Building because I'd parked there," Wiczorek, a five-time Iowa all-American, said. "I heard a guy yelling and I knew something was going on so I chased him. He was sprinting down the middle of the street, and I was sprinting after him."

The chase ended when the purse thief tried to dive headfirst over a snow fence, but landed on top of it.

The man had dropped the purse after St. Clair Blackman threw his black and gold Iowa athletic bag at him. Three other members of the team, Rod Chambers, Louis English and K.P. Lansing, were immediately behind their coach.

"We didn't see him take the purse, but I heard coach Wiczorek yelling 'stop thief,' so I immediately assumed he was in some sort of trouble," said English. After the thief fell over the fence, English stood on him with his foot in the middle of his back.

"It was only one foot," English said. "Coach got him up and we walked him back to the Field House."

Was English scared?
 "Well, the adrenalin was going, but I wasn't scared," he said. "I could see his open hands. He was a dirty guy, emaciated and run down."

Wiczorek said he wasn't sure what was happening while he was chasing the man.

"I was wondering what I was going to do when I caught him," he said. "Fortunately, I had my reinforcements. I yelled at some joggers to stop but they kept running. Of course, they probably didn't know what was happening, and you can't attack everyone running down the street."

After apprehending the suspect, the team members turned him over to the police.

Lansing, an Iowa high jumper, who may have had better luck than the thief at clearing the fence, relayed a new name for the team.

"Someone said we should call ourselves 'The Iowa Track and Field and Team of Vigilantes,'" he said. "It's catchy, but will it fit on a uniform?"

Jadlow, Hoosiers cruise past Iowa

By Bryce Miller
 The Daily Iowan

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Indiana senior center Todd Jadlow went 18 of 20 from the free-throw line on his way to a career-high 32 points to lead the No. 17 Hoosiers to a 104-89 win over ninth-ranked Iowa Monday night at Assembly Hall.

In the second half, Iowa had cut a 12-point Indiana lead to 2, at 77-75 with eight minutes left. Then the Hoosiers took control.

"I was interested to see how well we hung in with Iowa," Indiana Coach Bob Knight said. "They're a very well-conditioned team and I thought it would be a true test of how well we are conditioned. I was pleased with what I saw down the stretch. It was probably the biggest test of our stamina this year."

Iowa Coach Tom Davis said the performance by Jadlow wasn't a complete surprise.

"(Jadlow) played like that earlier in the year," Davis said. "Jadlow played very well inside. He did a good job on the interior. You don't get surprised in this job. You learn to expect the unexpected."

Perhaps overshadowed by Jadlow's outing was a 26-point, 14 rebound effort by Iowa senior Ed Horton. Teammate B.J. Armstrong also had a solid game, turning in 27 points.

"Last year at Iowa I said Armstrong was as good a guard as there is in the Big Ten," Knight said. "He's a hell of a player, he's difficult to control and impossible to contain."

Although the team fouls evened out at 27 apiece, Davis said officials will not allow so much hand checking come NCAA Tournament time. "What you saw tonight you will not see in the NCAA Tournament," Davis said. "I think that really bothered Roy (Marble)."

The win left Indiana alone atop of the Big Ten with a 7-1 record, 17-5 overall. Iowa slipped to 3-3 in the league, and 15-4 overall.

"I'm very pleased at where my club is right now," Davis said. "Yes, I'm very disappointed in the loss, but we are really coming along despite all of the problems we have had this year. We got into foul trouble and had no bench to go to."

"We are not good enough to win in Assembly Hall tonight. It's going to be tough to win on the road in the Big Ten this year."

Women fall to seventh in poll

(AP) — Iowa's loss at Purdue Sunday plunged the Hawkeyes, 16-3, from fourth to seventh in the Associated Press women's basketball poll announced Monday.

The Boilermakers, 15-3, jumped two spots to ninth.

Ohio State, 14-4, returned to the poll at No. 20 for the first time since early in the season, when the Buckeyes were missing Nikita Lowry, sidelined by a knee operation. Old Dominion, which joined the list last week, dropped out after an upset loss at unranked South Alabama.

Unbeaten Auburn, Tennessee and Louisiana Tech continued to hold the top three positions in the poll.

Auburn, which had easy victories over Austin Peay, New Orleans and Florida last week to move to 19-0, again was a unanimous choice for the top spot with 63 first-place votes and 1,260 points from a nationwide panel of women's coaches.

records through Sunday, when the balloting was completed.

Tennessee, 18-1, which beat Georgia 78-64 Sunday, received 1,197 points for second place. The Vols' trip to Texas Tuesday night was made less hazardous with the Longhorns' loss of Clarissa Davis for the game with a sprained ankle. She suffered the injury against Southern Methodist Saturday.

Louisiana Tech, 17-2, held third with 1,128 points after an easy week with two victories in the American South Conference, including a 111-28 win over Pan American.

Stanford, 15-2, which had wins at Oregon and Oregon State to stay perfect in the Pac-10, moved from sixth to fourth.

Win boosts Hawks to ninth

(AP) — After a Big Ten victory over Wisconsin, Iowa rose from 12th to ninth in the Associated Press college basketball poll released Monday.

The Hawkeyes, 15-3 overall, 3-2 in the Big Ten when the poll was released, received 651 points.

After losses by the top three schools in last week's poll, Oklahoma moved into the top spot for the first time in school history.

"It's something I've always wanted to do," Oklahoma Coach Billy

Tubbs said Monday. "I guess you could say it's a dream come true."

"You always want to coach the No. 1 team in the nation, even if it's just for a day. You'd like to coach it forever, of course. I think it's something you work for, and it came true. I'm happy about that."

The Sooners, 17-2, were ranked fourth a week ago but jumped to No. 1 after victories over Colorado and Nevada-Las Vegas, and losses by the top three teams.

In becoming the third team this season to hold the No. 1 spot, the Sooners received 32 of the 66 first-place votes cast by the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters and finished with 1,273 points to edge Illinois in the balloting.

Illinois, which became No. 1 for the first time in 37 years, held the top spot for just one week as the Fighting Illini lost to Minnesota 69-62 before rebounding for a victory over Indiana.

Win streak ends for Ice Hawks

By Matthew Zlatnik
 The Daily Iowan

When the Black squad of the UI Ice Hawks hockey club faced Cornell College this past weekend, it had not lost a game in two years.

That streak ended as the Ice Hawks, 8-1-1, split two games with Cornell, 9-1. The Iowa club won the first game Friday, 8-6, but lost Sunday, 4-3. The weekend marked the end of the Ice Hawks' regular-season league schedule. Both games were played at McElroy Auditorium in Waterloo.

The winning goal Sunday came within the final minutes of the third period.

"Everyone on the bench was very tense the last two minutes, after they scored," player-coach Todd Benson said. "No one said anything in the locker room afterward. We expected to win.

"It was kind of tough because this was the first game all year that we had a full team — three full lines. We just didn't play well."

The Ice Hawks were outshot, 39-26, in Sunday's loss, the first time in the two-year unbeaten streak. But Benson said goalie Nick Ridenour still played well.

The Ice Hawks will play non-league games against the Illinois State varsity squad next weekend in Normal, Ill., and against Iowa State in Waterloo the following weekend. League playoffs will begin in three weeks.

The UI Bicycle Racing Club will meet Feb. 1 and Feb. 2 at 7 p.m. in the Union. The Feb. 1 meeting will be in room 236 and the Feb. 2 meeting will be in the Lucas-Dodge room.

The club will discuss the upcoming racing season and two scheduled collegiate races, April 15 in Ames and April 22 in Iowa City.

"We'll talk about future activities, and some other possible races," club president Chad Osbourne said. "We almost have a conference put together."

Non-racers are also welcome, Osbourne said. The main purpose of the club is to get people started in racing.
