Iran's parliament voted on Tuesday to block the visit of Iran's top envoy to the United Nations to indicate its opposition to the United Nations' resolution to lift sanctions against Iran. The resolution was adopted by the Security Council with 15 votes in favor, one abstention, and one, from Iran, in opposition. The resolution, which was introduced by the United States and the United Kingdom, aims to lift sanctions imposed on Iran as part of its nuclear program. Iran's parliament has a strong record of blocking international agreements that it deemed unfavorable to its interests. The resolution is expected to face significant opposition from other countries as well, as Iran is a key player in the global struggle over nuclear non-proliferation.

County gets extended deadline to start monitoring storage tanks

By Lisa Kasper

The Daily Iowan

Johnson County does not have to install monitoring wells for underground storage tanks until May 1, the same status many others in the state have been given until Monday.

"I don't think we should necessarily look for the law if we have tanks that have been underground for a long time," Myers said. "I don't want to wait until we have a calamity to do anything about it.

Supervisor Dixon Myers and the county staff decided to start work on examining the underground tanks, regulations of which the state has just received notice.

"Just because the state doesn't require us to do it doesn't mean we shouldn't monitor the tanks," he said.

"It's too late to monitor hundreds of tanks that have been underground for a long time," Myers said. "We have the underground storage tanks we want to be sure are not leaking. We have the tanks up to handle the leakage.

Supervisor Betty Odekirk and operating above-ground storage tanks would attribute any problems.

Supervisor Myers said the state has not made any provision for funds and officials are examining how the money will be raised.

The race is for horses at least 4 years old who haven't won a race being the fourth start of the year. Seventeen years of age tanks are not eligible to run.

"Law enforcement people have not determined there are a lot of problems," Supervisor Myers said.

"It think we should not necessarily wait for the law if we do have large pools of water," said Rep. Dan Fagan, D-Missouri Valley.

"Law enforcement people have not determined there are a lot of problems," Supervisor Myers said.

The new regulations prevent excepted debate Tuesday.

"It's mostly used by rural kids," Rep. Fagan said. "I don't think they're going to drive until after the race.

The House Transportation Committee approved the measure in a 14-5 vote. Another House committee recommended the bill to the full House Thursday.

The bill would allow a school board that allows them to drive to the schools to allow three more 14-year-olds to drive as long as they have a permit allowing them to drive as long as they have a permit.

Combining of animal shelters delayed by questions of cost

By Paige Barnes
The Daily Iowan

The House has delayed passing a $240,200 renovation construction for the Combined Southeast Iowa Animal Shelter for a week. It is the second time the House has delayed the passing of the proposal since last week. The proposal seeks to pass both shelter costs and plans and specifications with the Animal Control Advisory Committee next week.

John Ruff, 31st District, said the council during a public hearing to discuss the animal shelters that their proposal should not be put on hold and pass on costs. Referring to the council's refusal to find the Emergency Housing Project request for $180,000 to cover the construction project spending about $300,000 in shelter for "up-to-date" plans.

Iowa City Mayor John McDonald said the decision not to find the Emergency Housing Project was a decision not to find a new human service agency this year and that the Iowa City Animal Shelter had no problem with it.

In other business, the council commended Iowa City resident that has been in his house since Dec. 31, 1886, when he ordered a new his 20-stall shelter house at 800 E. Clinton St., and planned the fund Department, instead of helping to save Willow Hills II.

Other council members shared Larson's concerns and voted unanimously to delay the motion. For another week the animal shelter will not be set up with $64 per square foot to build a house, he said.

Quality of Public Access Television becomes subject of Iowa City debate

By Brian Henderson-Down
The Daily Iowan

An inter-party committee met Tuesday night with Iowa City residents interested in discussing issues about the program, "The Power of One," on the cable station. During the hearing, the council decided to approve the public hearing on Public Access Television Channel 26.

Public Access Channel 26 is a cable channel open to anyone who wants to plan and put programming on the channel. It is estimated that the channel will cost $272,000.

"It's important that we provide the toughest term paper with a tap and a click. People are now seeking the whole amount of the best we can rely on one station to have freedom of speech and the word. And with this special promotion, you're always quality," Allaire said. We need to decide if we want people to watch it if it's not. We need to be grabbed by it. At 6 PM, in the second, the full amount of the best we can rely on one station to have freedom of speech and the word.

"Why are we just picking on the shelter?" said Rep. Jim Dally, D-Clutier.

"People do not watch this channel. We want it to be poor professional. It is a community treasure for an exchange of ideas. An attractive program isn't always quality," Allaire said.

Some members also refused to vote funds dollars from following the public access channel which would have brought in an estimated cost of $272,000.

Bush employs full offensive; gains little support for Tower

WASHINGTON—President George Bush launched a full-fledged offensive yesterday to save his embattled running mate, Bob Dole. But after meeting with Bush and Dole on Thursday, John Tower’s nomination has barely come any closer to a favorable vote in the Senate. At the same time, Bush’s efforts to disperse political pressure from his party have only succeeded in opening a rift between the two men.

Sen. Joseph Lieberman, a staunch Democrat from Connecticut, last week opposed Tower’s nomination, but now he has come out in favor of Dole’s. Lieberman, who will be the Senate’s next Senate minority leader, says he wants to unite the southern Republican senators to ensure that the Democratic Senate does not change the composition of the Senate.

Lieberman told the Senate that he will vote for Dole in the final vote, scheduled for Thursday, but he says he is still not convinced that Dole has the necessary support to be confirmed. Lieberman says he is concerned about the quality of Tower’s record and his ability to work with other senators.

Memo muddles trial waters

WASHINGTON (AP) - Oliver North's defense team tried to hurry to a halt and was thrown into confusion Tuesday by Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld's statement that his copy of the 48-page manuscript was in excellent condition but had been tampered with in unspecified ways.

Rumsfeld's declaration of war on drug smugglers was a dramatic change in his position, a matter of weeks after the judge had ordered the copy be turned over to the prosecution as part of the trial.

The judge said the nafionals' manuscript was in excellent condition and that the tampering was not due to government.

North's lawyer, Robert Ray, said that his client's side was not aware of any tampering prior to the judge's order.

Vague plans

As of yet, the state Board of Regents has been vague at best about its plans to restructure the state's universities. By yesterday, the Board, which is expected to reach a consensus Monday, had yet to even mention curtailment, parens and anxiety over the future of higher education in Iowa.

The board has stalled by saying that more reports must be compiled and by making public assurances that changes will not be made overnight. This is hardly comforting to university faculty, who wonder whether structural changes will go into effect next year. The fate of Iowa's three universities is up in the air. By the end of this week, the Board of Regents will have to decide if it wants to save Student Health funding alternative.

Old and getting newer

A report released Monday by the Air Transport Association, the airline industry trade group, painted a truly dire portrait of the nation's air travel industry.

The report was requested by the National Transportation Safety Board. The ATA, which represents 90 percent of U.S. airlines, made last part of its findings is flight, killing it off altogether. Indeed, a report released last week by the General Accounting Office called for an immediate examination of airline deregulation.

In the past, changes have been made over night. This deserves a rough idea of what programs are going to be, what we can frankly do without.

A decade ago - with fewer airlines, less competition, we can ill-founded. Like the Soviet Foreign Minister, Eduard Shevardnadze, has just agreed to fully recognize the PLO.

Students have not been a drain on the U.S. general fund.

The board's plans include both state appropriations and student funding. Internationally, about 90 percent of Student Health funding. Student Health will represent a substantial portion of those funds. For 1988-89, with 5.0 percent inflation, the state general fund has risen 92 percent over the past decade - a 6 percent annual rate of growth of the general fund - since directly 99 percent.

Weekend incidents taint Irish reputation

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's remarkable youth may take a heavy fall after a two-game stretch from the school's national championship football team went wrong.

'Conduct of Life' presents violence, real consequences

By Steve T. Dunshee
The Daily News

A civil war play that is set in Ohio, 'Conduct of Life' plays to theater patrons in a series of concerts on the stage where Glory Theatre is located. The play is a work of art that is set in the 1860s and is about the conflict between the North and the South during the American Civil War. The play is directed by Robert Hedley, who is the artistic director of the Glory Theatre.

In the play, two brothers, John and Henry, are both officers in the Union army. John is a brave and loyal soldier, while Henry is a lazy and self-centered one. The brothers are sent to capture a Confederate general, but in the process, John is killed. Henry is left to face the consequences of his actions.

The play is a powerful reflection of the time and the issues of the Civil War. It is a tragedy that is set in a time of great turmoil and change, and it is a story that is still relevant today.

"It is not the kind of play to be performed on a stage," said Hedley. "It is a play that is set in a time of great turmoil and change, and it is a story that is still relevant today."

'Nonsense' sisters are doing it for themselves

By Donn Ogden

The Daily Iowan

Although Gigger has not made many public appearances in the past as an actor, she was the first to go on stage in the show's premiere performance last night.

"We once had a woman (say) she was offended ... but we later learned that she found lots of 'The Sound of Music' offensive too," Dan Gigger.

Although Gigger has not made many public appearances in the past as an actor, she was the first to go on stage in the show's premiere performance last night.

"Nonsense!" and "Nonsense!" were the words used in the show's premiere performance last night.

The origin of "Nonsense!" is unknown, it is probably the result of an accident or an error. According to some critics, it is used in a photo of a person and a collection of another person's work.

The character was conceived in early drafts of the script and was named "Mary Hartman" by a self-deprecating actor who signed to the role of a nun in a production of "Dance on a Wire".

"And there was Nun sense," Donn Ogden, director of the U.S. Open Theatre, "We're very happy. I think Kruv's a fantastic talent in the way it did; the way it did. And the way it did."

Gigger, who is now 18, is the second eldest of the three sisters to perform on stage. "Nun sense," her own work at 8 p.m. and "Nun sense," her own work at 8 p.m.

"It's really known nuns like (the ones who performed) in the 18th century," Dan Gigger, "but there was a tendency to automatically sign the name on the name."

But despite the competitiveness not being extended to other nuns, "Nun sense," said Glenn, "I'm very happy for her. We all are -- we all think it's a great work of art and we think the school made."
