Cheney eyed for defense

Easy confirmation foreseen

WASHINGTON (AP) — At first glance, Roy Richard Cheney might seem an unlikely candidate to run the Pentagon, but his selection by President George Bush is only the latest in a string of appointments by the administration of former President Ronald Reagan.

While the announcement caused most political leaders by surprise, the Cheney choice at one time seemed a definite possibility. Bush solicited opinions about the subject.

In fact, the move quickly exerted a steady influence on the military community. Bush, known for his strong defense policy, already had indicated he would seek a strong, unflappable defense secretary.

Branstad's proposal could bring additional funding to universities

By Jay Carver

The Daily Iowan

Several UI budget priorities now include a proposal by the state's governor that may add an additional $200 million to the state's education budget.

Branstad's January proposal recommended the legislature to add educational funding to additional state funding.

However, UI officials expressed some reservations about the appropriation bill, which was passed by the Senate, appropriating $73 million for new and increased educational funding.

The bill also appropriates the two supplemental bills for the 1989 fiscal year, Varn said.

The governor's budget and supplemental bills take into consideration the need for increased educational funding, Varn said.

The 15 minority high school students who were selected last Friday night for the UI police chief's final search panel will spend five days on campus preparing for the interview.

The students, who will not be paid for their work but will be offered a free five-session workshop on interviewing skills in preparation for the interview, were among the chosen finalists.

The fee for the workshop, which will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Union, will be $7.75 a person.

The final search panel will be a mix of high school students, faculty, staff and community members.

As of Sunday, the search committee was still reviewing applications from the chosen finalists, including minority students, and the interim police chief, Cora Don Davis.

The position has not been filled on a permanent basis since 1978.

The position will go to the winner of the search, which is expected to be concluded by the end of the month.

UI Police Chief and interim police chief, Cora Don Davis, said she hopes to narrow the field to five candidates by the end of the month.

The new police chief will be responsible for overseeing the entire department.

The search for a new police chief was announced last month, and the department has been directed to hire a new chief by the end of the year.

Local sparks fly over 'Verses'

"Bazaar of ideas" arguments aim for free speech, retribution

By Brian Dick

Salman Rushdie's novel, "The Satanic Verses," has set back relations between the United States and the Muslim community.

Rushdie, who had been living under police protection in England, was released from house arrest Aug. 13, in London, England. Rushdie had been under house arrest since 1989, after Turkey and several other Islamic countries issued death threats against him. The threats were for writing a novel that was insulting to Muslims.

The Satanic Verses" is the story of a leading Muslim family in 13th-century Baghdad. The novel has been criticized by Muslims for "blasphemous" interpretations of the Koran.

The novel has been translated into at least 15 languages and has sold over 10 million copies worldwide.

The novel was banned in several countries, including Iran, Iraq, and Saudi Arabia. In some countries, sales of the novel were prohibited and in others, the novel was banned from being imported.

Sidelines Soviets report on Afghan war

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Afghan guerrillas fired 150 rockets Monday on the city of Jalalabad, a key government town on the frontline, killing at least 30 Afghan soldiers, according to officials. Guerrilla reports said 41 to 81 people died in the attack.

The Soviet television report said that the Afghan army suffered 500 to 600 casualties in the attack.

Official sources in Islamabad, Pakistan, said that the attack was made by the Red Army and the Afghans were going to take the city of Jalalabad. The officials said the Afghan army and the Soviet Union have been fighting for months to take the city.

The Soviet television report, based on an Afghan army news report, said that the attack was made with the help of advisers from the Soviet Union. The report said that if the attack is successful, it will help the Afghan army to take the city of Jalalabad.

The question of when the Iowa men's basketball team would spend the beginning of spring break playing on the road was finally answered Saturday night.

The Scarlet Knights of Rutgers defeated the Hawkeyes 87-70 at Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

In a 15th-ranked Missouri team, the Hawkeyes fell to 15-11 overall, 5-8 in the Big Ten.

The Scarlet Knights of Rutgers, on the other hand, moved to 15-10 overall, 7-6 in the Big Ten.

Hawks open with two wins
The Iowa basketball team opened the season with wins over Eastern Illinois and Marquette. The Hawks dominated the Eagles, winning 81-53, before turning around and responding to a competitive game against Marquette, winning 62-58.

Iowa had the advantage in both games, outscoring their opponents in both contests. The team's defense was strong in both games, limiting Eastern Illinois to 37 points and Marquette to 58.

Blevins' squad posts 2-3 weekend mark
The Iowa women's basketball team posted a 2-3 record over the weekend. The team opened with a loss to Western Kentucky, but bounced back with wins over Eastern Illinois and Marquette. They then suffered losses to Oregon and Minnesota.

Iowa is currently ranked 17th in the Associated Press poll, reflecting their strong performance in the opening weekend.

Iowa takes sixth at Illinois invite Senior Graham Pcreman led the Hawkeyes to a sixth place finish in the Illinois Invitational. The team scored a respectable 217, placing them ahead of both Indiana and Wisconsin.

Percman's score of 69 helped the Hawkeyes earn their sixth place finishes. The team's next tournament will be the Purdue Invitational.

Kite wins Nestle tournament in playoff
Iowa women's tennis player Tamara Kite won the Nestle tournament in a playoff match against her teammate, Savannah Berry. Kite won 6-4, 6-2 to claim the victory.

The Nestle tournament is a prestigious event held in Europe, and the victory will certainly boost Kite's confidence as she prepares for the rest of the season.

Cyclones sweat out NCAA tourney bid

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State received the hoped-for invitation to the NCAA basketball tournament Sunday, but the selection committee made Coach Johnny Orr and his players sweat a little before deciding their fate.

When the drawing was done, the Hawkeyes had gathered in the football locker room fororing it up high.

"We took it in the wire, and I was really happy," Orr said after the phone call from the NCAA selection committee's Max Lucier, the team's leading scorer, "the way things have been going for us."

The Hawkeyes won the meet title in the Iowa invitational this past weekend, but the team was not happy with their performance qualified for the NCAA Championships.

The meet was one of the final meets before the March 23 entry deadline for the NCAA Championships. Iowa was the highest-scoring team in Madison, Wis.

Iowa would place fourth with 244 points, followed by Nebraska with 243 and Iowa State with 242. Stephenville, Texas, and New Haven were the lowest-scoring teams to qualify to the NCAA Championships.

Karamazovs gamble with skill

The Daily Iowa

You must have eaten and they didn’t laugh at.

Within minutes, of course, the audience was enormously amused with their multifaceted juggling skills and their ability to make verbal puns and play off

the profundity of Dostoevsky’s philosophy — to bricklayer Auchter-

on, no better than a masonry graduate, as long as newspapers are around.

The Karamazovs — brother tuans who are not brothers and yet brothers — have gained widespread recognition for their masterful juggling and their ability to make verbal puns and play off

the profundity of Dostoevsky’s philosophy — to bricklayer Auchter-

on, no better than a masonry graduate, as long as newspapers

are around.

Although they get their start on the street, the Karamazovs have taken their juggling skills to an entire new level. Their performances include adaptations of Dostoevsky’s "The Brothers Karamazov" and "The Idiot" by staging a series of silent scenes to describe the main characters and their actions. In one scene, a man juggling balls is interrupted by a woman who is reading a newspaper. The man then continues his juggling, while the woman reads on. Another scene involves a man juggling pins, while a woman is playing chess.

The Flying Karamazov Brothers

Among many reviews recently published worldwide, there has been a great deal of excitement regarding the Flying Karamazovs’ impressive tricks and their ability to incorporate juggling into both music and literature. A traditional highlight of the Flying

Karamazovs’ shows is "The Gambler," in which the audience is invited to get into the act by providing three stone statues that will challenge the jugglers’ skills. The Karamazovs are known for juggling between 15 and 25 balls simultaneously, and their tricks are often interspersed with silent readings from Dostoevsky’s novels. Although the Karamazovs’ set openings are not always the same, they have demonstrated a great deal of creativity in their performances. The Karamazovs are also
