Landfills: Iowa not a pretty site

It's not a great deal of garbage, but it's there every morning. It's not a big deal, but its odor can be nauseating. And its noise—quietly ticking away—can be deafening. That's how the county landfill will become.

But that garbage doesn't just disappear. It'll be buried in the ground, in a big hole in the ground. And it'll sit there for 200 years, maybe longer. And it might start ticking away. See page 12.

Rawlings affirms UI academic values
By Harry Livermore
The Daily Iowa

COUNCIL Belpas—UI President Royce Murphy said Wednesday he was encouraged by a visit to the University of Iowa by former UI football player Thaddeus Jefferson, who is now the coach at Arizona State University. Murphy said the visit was a success because it proved to the president that the university's academic mission was being carried out by its athletes.

The visit was part of a larger effort by Murphy to stress the importance of athletics to the university. Murphy said the visit was a success because it proved to the president that the university's academic mission was being carried out by its athletes.

The criticism of athletic programs on campus has been ongoing, with some saying that the university is not doing enough to support the academic programs. Parking cramps will ease with extra lots, new ramp

By Brian Dink
The Daily Iowan

For the past year, more than half of the parking spaces in the U.S. Main Library have been sequentially assigned to work in the U.S. Water Plant. The new plans are under review to reduce half of those spaces in April as well as ensure available parking facilities located outside campus, according to U.S. Water Plant officials.

Because, according to the water plant, the upgrade in capacity forced the construction to accommodate the parking spaces last March. The plant, which currently supplies 25 percent of the campus' water, will increase its output by 50 percent once the new plant is completed. The water plant is expected to be operational by the summer of 2012.

"It is too late in the year right now, but construction will be finished in the fall. When the new facility is open, parking spaces will open up in the library," Lloyd said.

Lloyd added that there is an additional construction phase that will leave the lot to be re-opened in early summer. During the construction of a sludge plant, the U.S. Water Plant was on the state's political agenda.

The measure was also on the ballot in 2008 and was defeated by 51 percent of the voters in a non-binding referendum focused on the people's interest. Doreen and Iowaans had a chance to vote on the creation of an equal rights amendment and the measure was defeated.

"It's people think the amendment is unnecessary," Lloyd said. "And I think it's something that the lifestyle is not involved in their lives, too.

It's not known how it was controver- sial in Iowa. Doreen said a suggested resolution that advocates should explore their energy funding for a federal cens..."

Externs sample ‘real jobs’

By Sarah Kohle

Special to the Iowa Daily

While many UI students will spend spring break working on their own or clocking up at the Iowa union store, a small group of students will be working in real jobs.

From March 20 to 24, 18 UI students will participate in the UI Career Information Network externship program, which gives students the chance to spend one week working with an alumnus in a career of their choosing. Those students have been paired with alumni who work in a variety of fields ranging from law to insurance to television production.

"An externship is a great opportunity to see what a certain field is like and to choose a career," said UI bachelor of commerce student Germain R-Broone. "This is a foot-in-the-door move." Later in the year, Germain plans to seek a job with the Discovery Channel.

In preparation for spring break, R-Broone said he was working with a professional at Discovery Networks. His program includes "a lot of research and networking. He’s providing an excellent base for us, especially after he left the company." The externship is an excellent way to gain real-world experience.

"I expect it will open my eyes to what UI undergraduates and graduate students are doing," said R-Broone. "This is a foot-in-the-door move." We've been used

We've been used. Not used, abused. Someone, somewhere decided that their own well-being was more important than the well-being of others. The US invaded Iraq and Afghanistan, and the world is still reeling from the consequences.

Yesterday, a Baghdad copy of The Daily Iowan turned up all over the US. The headline read: "U.S. AT WAR WITH EL SALVADOR." These distortions, lies on the verge of perversion, and falsehoods raise questions about the necessity of the US government's support for El Salvador's government in the right-wing government of Juan Napoleón Duarte, and the death squads that rule that country.

While the facts—and I use the term "facts" loosely here—are set to dispute, let's hope if they are going to use our name, they would at least do some research.

This "news" even prompted Professor McElhearn to write, "The Daily Iowan, reporting (or not reporting) on Eli Salvador over the past several years. It is clear that our coverage has generally followed the agenda set by the US government during this time." The key word here is "has." By posing themselves off as us, they attempted to add a certain amount of sensibility to their news—essentially anything the preceding organizations or groups simply do not here.

In short, they violated our copyright for a blatantly political profit. On the basis for this "news," and the corresponding testimonial in Washington, D.C., was funded, along the entire chain: "Columnists and sports editors to an end in US and to Eli Salvador. Here, they're worried about your tax dollars. And from what your student feed.' These groups had to get the money to publish this nonsense.

The look also provided an aid as a foundation for a rally that will be held Wednesday, urging everyone to "demonstrate and protest against the United States governmental policies against the violations of the law in El Salvador, and break them here in the United States."

Today's rally, if it actually occurs, will bring to light the smokescreen that has been propped up: "El Salvador. Everyone who attends will know who they are, and if anyone will press them that they are after, they are good enough to be killed.

Most credible organizations follow the laws of the United States: they don't lie, they don't lie, they don't lie. They have to read before any credible organization gets to their point. The Iowan, for example, has never been since it started to publish in 1908. The people who put this "news" of The Daily Iowan breaks through any credibility, and self-worth—which both of which are so weakly lacking in the Daily Iowan, we are stating, what little credibility they had.

If they keep yelling across like this, they'll never hear anything.

Solving a problem

Because of the US administration hierarchy thought it was a bold step Tuesday, decided to withdraw Ray Thompson from competitive sports until he has been cleared of all violations of laws in El Salvador, apparently, against U.S. citizens. If Thompson is found to be guilty of the charges made against him, including those of his former employer at Indiana University, there is no doubt that he will be held accountable for his actions.

According to the article, Thompson was found to be in violation of Indiana University's policies and procedures concerning student-athletes. These violations include, but are not limited to, the following:

1. Violation of academic integrity policies.
2. Violation of drug and alcohol policies.
3. Violation of institutional financial aid policies.
4. Violation of institutional eligibility policies.
5. Violation of institutional honor code policies.

As a result, Thompson is subject to disciplinary action under the policies and procedures of Indiana University. The university has not disclosed the specific nature of the violations or the disciplinary action taken.

Adherence in magnitude, not in people

We have all listened to and read a seemingly endless number of things, but most of what we hear is not true. What has Ray Thompson been accused of? It starts with the premise that people have been "talking to the police," but the police have not released any statement about this.

We have no intention of talking to any athlete or coach before the matter is resolved. We have no way of knowing what they are saying or not saying. However, we do know that Ray Thompson has been accused of violating the law in El Salvador, and that these charges have been upheld by a court of law.

Without any evidence of guilt, Thompson cannot be held accountable. We are happy to see that the court system is working, and that it is providing justice for all parties involved.

Eastern strike affects few UI students' plans

By Nolaite Hyristen

The Daily Iowan

and The Associated Press

Eastern Airlines is not planing to fly as long as 10 percent of its pre-strike schedule, so Iowa City airport travelers and the strike will affect few UI students going back to school.

On Monday, the airline announced that when service is reduced next week, it will fly only 90 percent of its scheduled flights.

March 6, triggering walkouts by its pilots and flight attendants, the airline has reduced the number of its intemstion flights.

As soon as the strike was announced last week, Michael Trainor, 20, of Washington, began to book flights on other airlines for students whose travel plans were affected by the strike.

"The airline has been sending out letters to students who have their travel plans canceled," Trainor said.

"We've heard of the strikes or the possibility of one, but it happened," Trainor said. "There were other airlines we were left without ...."

Andrea Gaffney, senior, Palm Beach, Florida, was planning to fly to New York City for a week on a flight that left Iowa City last week on American Airlines.

"I thought it was a done deal," said Gaffney, "but apparently there was an issue with American Airlines, so I've got to fly with United Airlines instead.

"We didn't get the change notice in the mail, so we had to come here to check on the flight," Trainor said.

Two clients of Travel Concepts Inc., 109 S. Gilbert St., bought tickets to travel to Miami and Orlando.

Egypt assumes Israeli resort talking peace, seeing protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of Israel's Arkadia Publishing, "The Americas Verses," agreed Wednesday to allow newspapers to publish up to 50 words of the book in an attempt to moderate criticism of the book by heeding a request from the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"The publication of an edition of over 100,000 copies of the book is a serious matter, and we believe that it is the right thing to do," said the president of Arkadia Publishing, Peter J. Gentry.

The book, "Satanic Verses," has been the subject of protests and legal action in the United States and other countries, particularly in the Muslim world, after it was published in 1988.

The American Society of Newspaper Editors had suggested that the publisher, Viking, Inc., make the book available for publication.

Normally, publishers permit the publication of an edition of more than 100,000 copies of a book, but typically only in a book review.

But Gentry said that the publication of the words could be published by newspapers as soon as they gave a proper copyright and credit to the author and on the additional condition that the material always be put into proper context as to the overall meaning of the book.

Arkadia Publishing plans to sell the work of its publishers under terms of a "no reprints" clause.
Salvadoran army admits to massacre

SAN SEBASTIAN, El Salvador - The Salvadoran army said Friday it was responsible for the massacre of 10 peasant farmers, the first admission of guilt in a massacre that triggered the civil war.

The announcement by army Maj. Ramon de Leon came after months of international pressure and threats of economic sanctions by the United States and the United Nations.

The massacre, which was committed by army troops in the village of Cainta in March, prompted a worldwide outburst of condemnation and led to the ouster of President Alfredo Cristiani last month.

The army announcement was made in a statement read by army Maj. Mauro de Leon, who said the army was responsible for the massacre.

"We apologize to the relatives of the victims," he said. "We admit our responsibility."

Cavaliers dump Bulls

Cleveland, Ohio (AP) - Mark Price scored 21 points and Cleveland took advantage of Jordan's early exit trouble-free as the Cavaliers beat the Chicago Bulls 110-104 in the third round in the last eight playoff series at the Central Division. Democrats, at 44-44, remain percentage points Chicago Bulls. Jordan picked up his second foul and was pulled from the game after a technical foul. Chicago, at 47-14, had eight right outs in the game.

The Bulls, who shot 38.7 percent from the field in the first half, just 37.9 percent in the second half. The Bulls scored nine straight points to widen the margin to 10 ahead, but less than a minute into the fourth quarter.

The Bulls trailed 40-44 at halftime, but Beatrice Pippen scored eight points in the third quarter and the Bulls had right to 109 within 11 after those quarters.

Eisen: Fresh, polished dance

By Kathleen Hurley

The Daily Iowan

The muscular, commanding presence of Glenn Close in "Dangerous Liaisons" would have been more than enough to convince most audiences that she would indeed be the ideal choice to star in the new Broadway production of "Liaisons," which opens Thursday in New York. But Close is not alone. From the moment the curtain rises, one is treated to a feast for the eyes and ears, thanks to the polished performance of the dance company, the inventive staging and the masterful choreography.

"Liaisons" is about much more than simple seduction and sexual "Twister." Instead, it is a thrilling ride through the complex web of human relationships and desires, as the characters navigate the treacherous terrain of love, lust and power. The show is a masterful blend of music, dance and drama, with each element perfectly balanced to create a truly unforgettable experience.

For those familiar with the story, "Liaisons" will be a familiar tale of intrigue and betrayal, but for those new to the story, it is a captivating and engaging retelling of the classic French novel by Choderlos de Laclos. The show is directed by Joel Grey, who is known for his work on Broadway and in film, and is choreographed by the legendary Bob Fosse.

The cast is top-notch, with Close leading the way as the manipulative and seductive Vianey de la Falaise. She is supported by a talented ensemble, including Glenn Close as the seductive and mysterious Madame de la Hulpe, and John Lithgow as the wealthy and powerful Gilbert de la Cantigny.

The show opens on Thursday at the Broadhurst Theatre in New York, and is not to be missed. It is a testament to the power of art and a reminder of the timeless appeal of a well-told story. For those who have never seen "Liaisons," this is a must-see production. For those who have, it is a chance to see the story in a whole new light, with a fresh and dynamic interpretation.

Frieder accepts Arizona State offer

By Steve Reed

The Arizona State basketball team was invited into the NCAA Tournament thanks to a dramatic three-week stretch during which it took down several Top 25 opponents. The team then won two of its games in the NCAA tournament.

Seed means nothing as 64 fight for NCAA crown

By Gary Grant

Despite the fact that the NCAA tournament is a single-elimination format, the seedings can be a misleading indicator of how teams will fare. In recent years, lower-seeded teams have often performed better than expected, while higher-seeded teams have struggled.
