A look at Hess’ global view

Former UI senate president faces law school armed conflict

By Deborah Glaze

The Daily Iowan

When she was a law student, she gathered her classmates in the Law Library, where she introduced the idea of creating a student newspaper. The newspaper was called "The Iowan," and it was the first student-run newspaper at the University of Iowa. Hess was appointed as the first editor-in-chief of the newspaper, and she worked diligently to make it a success. Throughout her time at the University of Iowa, Hess was known for her passion and dedication to education and community service.

Hess was appointed as the first woman president of the American Bar Association, and she served in that role from 1986 to 1989. During her tenure, she focused on promoting diversity and inclusion within the legal profession. She advocated for access to legal education and resources, and she worked to ensure that women and minority groups had equal opportunities in the field of law.

Hess has continued her commitment to education and community service throughout her career. She has served as a professor at several universities, and she has been a keynote speaker at numerous events. In addition, she has been involved in various community organizations and initiatives.

Hess is widely respected for her leadership and her commitment to making the world a better place. She is an inspiration to many, and her legacy will continue to be felt for generations to come.

Mennonites anticipate dedication of peace pole to cause of justice

By Tom Carlson
The Daily Iowan

The First Mennonite Church, 403 Myrtle Ave., will dedicate a peace pole Tuesday in an indication of its commitment to peace through faith and service.

The 3-foot-tall pole, painted with the words "Peace Pole in Iowa, United States," is a visual reminder of the church's commitment to peace beyond its walls.

"We Mennonites are not that good at talking, but we are very good at doing something with our hands," she said.

The meeting "Dialogue ... can turn out to be a vehicle..." Kiszczak said. "This is an essential event for the Polish people and for freedom."

"It means becoming friends," said the Rev. Dr. Russell Bradford, the church's executive director.

"It is more than the absence of war," he said. "It is more that we are friends." Bradford said the local Mennonite community was proud to partake in the celebrations of world peace.

"We are as Mennonites. We have thought about we should do the best," he said.

"Iowa City and the world of Mennonites, the government of the United States, should work for peace," Mennonite Church USA Executive Director Kenneth Pearlman said.

"It is an extremely significant event for all of us," said the Rev. Dr. Russell Bradford, the church's executive director.

"Very pleased with the agreement that we have reached," said the Rev. Dr. Russell Bradford, the church's executive director.

"It is a symbol for America and Europe to stand in agreement on this matter," he said. "Peace pole unites the world in its efforts to promote peace through dialogue."

South Africa demands exit of black nationalist guerrillas

The Secretary of State for Southern Africa demands exit of black nationalist guerrillas in South Africa. The Secretary noted that about 300 guerrillas have crept into South Africa in violation of an agreement that calls for some 1,000 rebels from both sides to be housed in a hotel in Namibia. Under the U.S. plan, guerrillas were to return to their bases in Angola at least 100 miles north of U.N. lines. Some U.N. and other officials have argued that the guerrillas mistakenly thought that their bases would not be subject to attack. The Secretary would not withdraw to Angola, he said, and he also told the White House that he had not seen any guerrillas who were reported to have been in Namibia on April 1 and up to the 10th. The U.S. move, he said, is a reaction to the attack by the security forces instigated by the fighting.

Police suspect bombing death related to drugs

SEVENTH FLA. (AP) — A truck bombing killed a nurse in椰漯赌场 federal drug smuggling investigation and authorities said it was ordered by targets of the probe.

James Collins, 56, of Belle Glade, died of burns and smoke inhalation when the 3-ton truck bomb exploded, said Richard P. Ferraro, assistant special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Miami field office.

The explosion, which occurred at the intersection of the federal courthouse and the Metropolitan Police Department building, sent a 10-story building into flames and knocked out power to the entire city. The aftermath was described as a "terrorist act," and officials suspected that it was part of a larger scheme.

Collins worked as an ambulance driver for the Miami-Dade Fire Department and had been a target of the drug investigation. He was found with a stolen car in the area of the courthouse.

The explosion killed Collins and injured several other people, including two police officers who were killed instantly. It also caused extensive damage to the courthouse and surrounding buildings.

The investigation is continuing, and officials said they were working to determine the extent of the damage and the number of injuries.

Umberto Giordano in on deal to buy ruined Eastern Airlines

NEW YORK (AP) — A group led by former baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth has reached a deal to buy out-bankruptcy Eastern Airlines, airline sources said Sunday.

A New York spokeswoman for the former Eastern owners, Texas Air Corp. and major investors based in Houston, confirmed the deal to buy out-bankruptcy Eastern Airlines, airline sources said Sunday.

The Daily News said Monday that Eastern Airlines, union officials, and the airline's largest creditor, the state of Texas, were in talks to buy out-bankruptcy Eastern Airlines, airline sources said Sunday.

Umberto Giordano, attorney representing Eastern, said an announcement on the sale of the company was "imminent." He didn't give more detail but sources said he was telling the Eastern workers that the company would be sold.

Giordano's offer

Giordano's offer included $2 billion in cash and $2 billion in stock, sources said. The offer was rejected by the creditors, who wanted a higher price, the sources said. The creditors have said they won't accept any offer less than $4 billion.

Giordano's offer was the first to be made since the sale of Eastern Airlines was announced in July.

Giordano's statement

Giordano said in a statement released Monday that he was "pleased to announce that we have reached an agreement in principle on the sale of Eastern Airlines.

"Our goal is to return the company to profitability and to provide a bright future for its employees," Giordano said. "We are confident that we can achieve these objectives."

NBA favors chance to play in Olympics

(AP) — Almost two-thirds of NBA players think professionals should be allowed in the Olympics, but the players believe the lucrative pay of the pros would cut into their Olympic chances.

The majority of those opposed to allowing the Games to be open to professional players are in the 30 to 39 age group, according to the Harris Poll.

Players who said it would change their family plans so that their three children would be taught to play basketball were asked to compare the Olympics with the pros. The poll was conducted in the days before the NBA season started.

The survey was conducted by a random digit telephone polling method and included 1,095 respondents. Five players who were out when the Harris poll was last conducted, July 31 and Aug. 1, were contacted with the aid of a paid rooicer. Interviews were conducted with 1,004 players.

There are a maximum of 70 places on the active NBA roster at any time — 12 players on each of the five teams. Even if those who said they wouldn’t play made it easy for other players to find a feasible team.

A general manager of the club also pointed out that Olympic Parish Spring of New York at center, Hakeem Johnson of the Lakers at guard and Portland’s Clyde Drexler at guard.

For a formidable team, Malone, Russell and Barkley were immediate choices, but both queries remained unanswered. That situation wouldn’t be hard for me to fill in. But when we would really like to play.

Arizona forward Elliotn collects Wooden award

LOUIS ANGELES (AP) — Sean Elliot, called "the consummate team player," collected a distinguished basketball honor Wednesday when he was named the winner of the John R. Wooden Award.

Elliott, a 6-foot-10 senior forward, finished third in the national players’ voting last year, but wasn’t the Wooden Award winner in the nation, behind winner Danny Ferry of Georgia Tech.

The winner was announced — by Wooden himself — during a luncheon at the sponsored Los Angeles Athletic Club.

"Sean Elliot," said Wooden, "is temporar­ily playing for words.

Study says blacks aren’t prepared

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — Black students in college have lower socioeconomic backgrounds and less cultural capital than whites, according to a study of the NCAA’s black students.

Once in school, black basketball and football players do about the same as white students in the NCAA study.

Black basketball and football players earn a grade-point average of 2.54, significantly within white schools and 2.21 in predominantly black schools.

White football and basketball players average a 2.4 grade-point.

The study found that two black basketball-athletes are basketball or football players. Although about 12 percent of the population is black, 21 percent of the football players and 37 percent of the basketball players at Division I schools are black. Thirteen percent of the women’s basketball players in Division I schools are black.

Only 6 percent of the athletes in all other sports are black.

The study was the result of a national survey conducted by the NCAA. It was conducted by the American Statistical Association and the American Universities Survey, the American Statistical Association and the American Universities Survey.
Legends lighten up before teeing it up

The history books are filled with stories of golfers who putted the ball in a tricky spot, then hit it far enough to win the tournament. This year, the Augusta National Golf Club hosted the Masters tournament, where the tradition of excellence in golf was on full display. The course, designed by the legendary Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, is one of the most challenging in the world, with its undulating greens and tricky layout. The players tried to get the ball in the air, hit it far enough to reach the green, and then putted it to the hole. The tournament was filled with tension, as the players tried to get the ball to the hole with as few strokes as possible. The course is known for its narrow fairways and challenging greens, and the players had to be precise with their shots to have a chance at winning. The Masters is one of the most prestigious tournaments in golf, and the players come from all over the world to compete. The tournament was won by Tiger Woods, who shot a final round of 67 to win by three strokes. The tournament was a testament to the skill and precision of the players, and it was a great way to start the golf season.
Cheesy material hindrances of MTV's pleasant-voiced Astley

"Whenever You Need Somebody" remains wildly popular, with its bunch-o-singles and clean-cut videos. In a similar fashion, the hits from "Hold Me In Your Arms" will be very popular, very likeable - and very indistinguishable from Astley's earlier release.

Popular, very desirable - and very indistinguishable from Astley's earlier release. But the songs do provide an impressive backdrop for Astley. Perhaps Rick should strive for more refinement overall, because there's a lot of effort and time in his music.

Overall, the self-penned debut album "Til I'm Yours" is a solid effort.

Vonnegut limits crowd at UI commemorative reading

By Locke Petersen

Kirk Vonnegut, Jr., who taught creative writing at the UI, will be the keynote speaker at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Large Room of the Iowa Memorial Union. Vonnegut will be in Iowa City for the UI Libraries' Gateway 90 conference, which will be held at the UI until 8 p.m.

The title for the event is "The Dangers of Democracy." Vonnegut is the author of "Slaughterhouse-Five," an anti-war novel which was banned in many schools and libraries around the country.

Vonnegut, who usually has a speaking fee of $300 per hour, will be paid with a freebie and pizzas provided by the UI Libraries and the UI Writers' Workshop.

Vonnegut, who is also a novelist, playwright, and poet, has written over 20 books. His most well-known works include "Slaughterhouse-Five," "Player Piano," and "Cat's Cradle." Vonnegut's writing often focuses on themes of war, technology, and the human condition.

Vonnegut, who was born in 1922 and died in 2007, was a member of the GI Bill and attended the UI from 1941 to 1943. He later returned to the UI to teach creative writing from 1969 to 1986.

The event is open to the public and is free. A reception will follow the reading.

For more information, contact the UI Libraries at 319-335-5790.
