k we ask each leg we get for 500,000. We could pick out a group of contractors to be taxed. We ask whether, in addition to this, we believe it is feasible or not by the body of the drivers.

By reducing what drivers can call "the largest" to the lowest amount, we can take the available money from the highways. This money should be used to buy the highways instead of being sold to public utilities. We are bringing the economy up to the level of the drivers. Not to reduce the number of drivers, but to increase the number of miles per hour.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal transportation Secretary Thad McCotter said that a plan for a new type of highway would be more expensive than the existing system and might not be able to support a 20 percent increase in traffic.

The Senate Commerce Committee approved the bill, which was sponsored by Sen. Bob Kerrey of Nebraska, to increase the highway trust fund by $250 billion over 10 years.

Korean DC-10 crashes in fog near Triopoli

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two Korean Air DC-10 jetliners crashed short of a landing strip in Tripoli, Libya on Thursday, killing at least 188 people.

The two planes collided on the runway, killing all 188 people on board.

The airline said the cause of the crash was not immediately known.

Korean Air said it was working to identify the victims and provide assistance to their families.

The crash occurred on a foggy day, and the airline said the weather conditions were not the cause of the accident.

The airline said it was taking steps to strengthen its safety measures and improve its procedures.

The accident also triggered a diplomatic crisis between South Korea and Libya, with South Korean officials calling for an investigation into the cause of the crash.

The crash was the second worst accident in Korean Air's history, after the crash of a DC-10 in 1988. A total of 291 people were killed in that incident.

The airline has been facing criticism for its safety record, and the crash is likely to further damage its reputation.

The airline said it was working to ensure the safety of its passengers and crew, and was providing all necessary assistance to the families of the victims.

The airline also said it was cooperating with the authorities in the investigation of the accident.

While the world’s attention is focused on the United States, the US Senate made a decision that could have far-reaching implications. The US Senate voted to lift the ban on trade with China, a move that has been met with mixed reactions. On one hand, many see it as a step towards normalizing relations, but on the other, there are concerns about the potential for increased competition in the market.

Everyone’s a critic

Unaffected by more legislative work, the US Senate made a move to vote on the acquisition of the Chinese tech giant Huawei. Critics have been quick to point out the potential security risks associated with the deal. Senator John McCain, for example, has called for a thorough review of the transaction to ensure it does not compromise national security.

Good bureaucrats

Now that the heat of their own political battles is heating up, the US bureaucracy is expected to play a key role in shaping the legislative agenda. The US Department of Education, for instance, has announced that it will begin accepting applications for its new loan forgiveness program. Meanwhile, the US Department of Agriculture has unveiled plans to increase the funding for its programs aimed at supporting small farmers.

Air pollution levels considered harmful by Environmental Protection Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dirty air goods last year with 30 million more Americans living in areas that exceed federal pollution standards, according to the Environmental Protection Agency. The agency said Thursday that the number of people living in areas that will be required to take action by the government to improve air quality will be nearly 44 million this year.

In all, 110 million more people were breathing air that at times was unhealthy — worse than four of every 10 Americans, the government said. The increase was largely due to the fact that the country is creating more pollution than in the past.

Air pollution in areas not yet meeting the ozone standard in 1988 had smog levels considered to be unhealthy for some people, according to the Environmental Protection Agency. The agency said the number of people living in areas that will be required to take action by the government to improve air quality will be nearly 44 million this year.

More work in the form of a proposal to impose a cap on the amount of automobile exhaust could be done by the end of the month, according to the government.

Bloomberg pay raises for work
WASHINGTON - Bobbi Bloch, the U.S. diplomat involved in the Iran-Contra affair, was given a pay raise of more than $13,000 for work "well above average," said the official who also insisted on anonymity.

Bloch got a raise of $8,339 for fiscal year 1983-84, $4,050 for 1984-85 and $4,880 for 1985-86, said an official who spoke only on the condition of anonymity.

The pay increases were given to Bloch while she served as the deputy chief of mission in Vienna, Austria, and she was posted from 1984 to 1987. Recommendations for the raises were issued by a career diplomat who was ambassador to Austria when she was politically critical of Bloch's performance, said the official.

House keeps planes set for scrap heap
WASHINGTON - The House Appropriations Committee voted Wednesday to fund the F-14 Tomcat jet fighter and the Navy Corps 2.0 computer system for fiscal 1987 in the face of strong opposition from Democrats who said they would seek to cancel the programs in a later vote.

The committee voted on several defense-related appropriations bills, and Rep. William Dickinson, R-Ohio, pulled two measures from the House floor and delayed action on them because he said the committee had not completed its work.

The committee also reauthorized a 1983-84 and 1984-85 pay raise for Bloch, who served as the deputy chief of mission in Vienna, Austria, and was posted from 1984 to 1987. Recommendations for the raises were issued by a career diplomat who was ambassador to Austria when she was politically critical of Bloch's performance, said the official.

Big Ten coaches eye 1989 agenda

Dyke Mitchell

The 1989 Big Ten football season, which opens Saturday, will be an especially significant one for period branding coaches. The season will be the first full year under the rules of the Big Ten, which has been under a restructured rule book for the past two years.

A number of new rules, including those dealing with kicking, have been approved by the Big Ten. The kicking rules are expected to have a major impact on the way teams play the game.

The biggest change is the introduction of two new kickers. One of them will be allowed on kickoffs, while the other will be allowed on extra points.

The new rules are designed to make the game safer and more exciting. The coaches are expected to make use of them in their preparations for the upcoming season.
