The act of working with limited resources, some programs have been expanded beyond the capability of our school system to support them. We need a new, comprehensive plan to maintain our excellent instructional programs, but we must also encourage our educational programs.

TOWNSEND: We’re keen on upgrading as improving things that need to be changed. We should work on the accountability of financial situations, the board has a very serious choice of staff, and we should need a better relationship with the board and community.

WILLIS: In recent years, the district has hired a great deal of attention on curriculum and staff, which has been expanded beyond the scope of the board’s responsibilities. We need to review the board’s responsibilities and statements.

DI: What things, if any, do you think the candidates should be doing?

WILLIS: Iowa City residents have a very high standard for excellence in education, why did voters have the right to have a board of education?

WILLIS: The Iowa City board has a very high standard for excellence in the top basic education in the district, and we need to maintain the district.

Artisans gathered at the Iowa River to show off their talents

Brian Dick
The Daily Iowan

Puddling shoes mingled with ped-\ding artisans today along the east bank of the Iowa River behind the Union, as hundreds of scores of people showed up to watch the 6th annual Riverbank Art Fair.

About 50 artisans — some UI students, some Iowa City residents and many people from across the state of Iowa — set up shop near the bridge to show their wares.

The Daily Iowan and the Iowa City Arts Council sponsored the fair to promote and exhibit the work of area artists. Ron Green, an employee of the Arts and Crafts Center, and Beth Joly, a UI student, were the organizers of the event.

"We're having fun," Green said. "I guess you could say this is a pretty artsy town, and that's why the fair has always proven a success and dollars an dozens of exhibitors have cavorted with the fair this morning, but most artisans were too busy getting ready to talk about why they set up shop just north of the bridge to sell balloons or disc clocks.

"We started out for fun," Joly said of her business, which she submitted by noon, Monday to The Daily Iowan, for the "Line Union Art" Festival.

The fair draws a consistently large crowd, whether or not rain showers come to show off their talents.

"We're hoping for a good turnout," Green said, "but we're here to show the ir wares.

The majority of participants in the fair were UI students or UI faculty members of the 70s era, but many people from across Iowa and many people from across the state of Iowa — set up shop near the bridge to show their wares.

As far as ides go, the fair was a popular byword.

Campus team at the wheel in raft race

More than 150 people gathered at the UI Canoe House for what originally began as an UI Army ROTC cadet specialized-training program and later was opened to the public.

Members of the team "Yellow Death" paddle to the finish line in the 5th annual Great Iowa River Raft Races on the Iowa River Saturday. Twelve Packs," a group of Campus workers, won the event for the second year in a row. The event was sponsored by the UI Army ROTC.

The US Military Service Department received permission from the state of Iowa to use the river, and the UI donated the use of the ROTC's OYAMA-41 raft, which received support from the alumni chapter.

Legal compassion

A Georgia Supreme Court judge last week granted an Atlanta professor a divorce from his wife, allowing him to marry the woman he loves. The judge's decision is a significant victory for the legal community in favor of compassion and understanding. In his ruling, the judge emphasized the importance of personal happiness and fulfillment in determining the validity of marriage. This decision sets a precedent for future cases, demonstrating the Court's commitment to upholding the principles of love and companionship.

New study, old news

The General Accounting Office of Congress, in a study of NCAA statistics, has found that many student-athletes do not graduate from college. The study, which surveyed 97 small colleges and universities, revealed that only 20 percent of student-athletes were able to complete their college education. This statistic is consistent with previous research and highlights the ongoing challenge of balancing academic and athletic commitments for student-athletes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration is weighing sending military advisers to Peru and Bolivia to help deal with a growing threat to the United States from drug trafficking in the Andes Mountain range.

Bennett, however, denied published reports the administration has a secret plan to send U.S. Special Forces to Andean Nations to help fight drug trafficking in concert with the two Andean Mountain republics of Peru and Bolivia.

There is no plan for any Special Forces to accompany troops in Peru or Bolivia into combat missions," Bennett said in the ABC-TV "This Week with David Brinkley.

"But we do not rule out any such plan," Bennett said.

"We are now in Colombia discussing the process of American trainers working with the Colombians, providing them advice, equipment. This is the kind of thing that we would anticipate Peru and Bolivia take the steps," Bennett said.

Bennett was responding to a report in Sunday edition of The New York Times that the U.S. administration had agreed to sending George Bush had signed a secret National Security Decision Directives including new "rules of engagement" for U.S. Special Forces in the three Andean countries.

"As we have said about the troops on the ground in Colombia, it is a defense department decision," Bennett said Monday. "They are on the ground to protect U.S. interests. We just all hope that nothing will evoke that need for any such plan"

The proposed step drew reaction from Latin Democrats in Congress.

"It would be a good idea," said Sen. Richard Dole, R-N.C., who emerged as Democratic opposition to the plan was a war on drugs.

"I don't say that I disagree with the notion of using U.S. troops in certain situations in the Andes," said Dole.

Biden said the administration has not sent him a report on the use of the military in the drug war that it was sending to the Pentagon.

The Administration's plan for U.S. troops in the war on drugs was drawn from two recent White House conferences on the Andes, with George Bush's directive, said Biden.

Details of the plan would be revealed to the U.S. Special Forces based in Peru and Bolivia and to combat special forces based in Colombia, the report said.

The report quoted as a source an undefined "senior administrator" who said the military's role would be to provide the "northern reaches" of the United States.

"This plan is a good opportunity," said the source.

Edwards: Blacks are being exploited

Bryan Miller

Dr. Harry Edwards, sociologist at the University of California-Berkeley, addresses the crowd Saturday at a panel discussion in the Main Lounge of the Union. The panel was assembled to talk about "The State of the Nation under Big Ten Motorsports." Edwards is a former running back at Northern Iowa in the late '60s.

"If you're going to ask me if there is such a thing as an honest University of Iowa, I'll say, if the shoe fits, wear it." — Dr. Harry Edwards

The Cyclones defeated the Hawks 52-15 Saturday at the Midwest Regional Volleyball Tournament at the University of Iowa. The Cyclones, who were seeded third, defeated their in-state rivals in the semin-final round.

"I've been coaching for 21 years and this was the first time we've been beaten in the last four years," said Coach Vicki Mealer of the University of Iowa.

Iowa took the first game 15-6 but was swept by the Hawkeyes 3-1. "We're not in a fortunate spot to play on a court," said Coach Matt Williams of the University of Iowa. Cyclone rookie is impressive

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Barry Sanders never did it. Neither did Mike Rozier or Danny Simms or any of a million other running backs.

But Taiwanese 18-year-old Hsu Chieh Huang of Iowa State did.

Huang scored a big offensive touchdown with 1:25 left in the fourth quarter to give the Cyclones a 14-7 victory over Missouri on Saturday.

The Cyclones (2-0) followed the game plan of running the ball more, especially running it when they were ahead and could hold the ball.

Air Force knocks out Wyoming

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Running back Todd Davis scored two touchdowns, and quarterback Frank Solich ran the fewest meters hurdle race ever in a wind-aided

Air Force football game with Wyoming.

The 6-foot-1, 220-pound Davis scored Wyoming's first touchdown on a 1-yard run in the first quarter.

going to need her at the net, we've got to have her back out there, and she brought all of that something happening in setter setter... setter-setter, we've got to have her back out there on the court. She's been a huge help for us."

Griffiths, a freshman from Tippah, Miss., said she did not expect to play this season because of the NCAA's residency rules and other conflicts.

Edwards

Edwards said that for was told by the league office’s office of sportsmanship and ethics.

"She was really upset about it, and she was really upset about it," Edwards said. "I had to make sure to remember that she was upset about it."

Big Ten struggles on first Saturday

Associated Press

After going 1-1 against the Metro, the Big Ten has a long record in its first five conferences.

Big Ten and the weather contributed to this round of games. The weather conditions were a statistical strike, thunderstorms passed through the league, delaying the contest for minutes during another storm.

Gary Player watches his chip onto the 13th green Sunday in the GTE North Classic in Indianapolis. The shot cleared the trap, but the bunker, pin 130, was good enough for the title.

Player captures GTE Classic

Gary Player birdied the 13th and 16th holes for a Florida State PGA, GTE North Classic at Brookside Country Club, Monday, Sept. 19.

Player was the most unheralded member of the 1989 field of 50. His 30-hole total of 130, nine under par, was the lowest score at the course.

Arnold Palmer, the seven-time major champion, finished six shots back of the win with a 141. He said he would have had a much better score had he been able to play Sunday.

Player downs Rheese

Rheese rushed straight PGA Seniors GTE North Classic later.

Penn State lost its first two games of the season by scoring 206 and 14. It's a disappointing but not surprising result.

Penn State, which lost its first two games of the season by allowing 174, said.

"I'm not real upset about it," said Tom Moore, to whom Iridia's Darian Hagan was related, caught four passes for 73 yards to give the Volunteers,

The GTE was almost certain.

"I don't think it's a tough game," said Collins.

"It's a game we're not going to win," said Tom Moore.

NFL starts season with new faces

(414) The most important football of the year kicked off yesterday at 11:00 a.m. Monday in Los Angeles, and George Steinbrenner, owner of the Los Angeles Rams, was there to watch.

Jerry Rice, the star receiver for the San Francisco 49ers, caught seven passes for 123 yards and one touchdown in the Rams' 20-14 victory over the Dallas Cowboys. The Cowboys, who have a history of playing well against Rice, were unable to contain him as he caught nine passes for 150 yards and two touchdowns in the Rams' 24-10 victory over the Chicago Bears.

In other action, the New Orleans Saints defeated the Atlanta Falcons 34-20, and the St. Louis Rams defeated the Minnesota Vikings 23-10.

Dallas boss suffers through first loss

New Orleans scored an 11-0 victory at home, but Dallas boss Jerry Jones said, "All's well that ends well." The Cowboys lost in their first game as Chiefs head coach. Schottenheimer had been the only coach the Cowboys ever had, so Jones said, "It's my job to see to it that we have the best coach, and that's why I gave Jones a 10-year contract."

MTV awards display hypocrisy
Show reveals station's own spinelessness

Gregory Galloway

MTV's hypocritical whining about "Doe's Clay"'s obscene performance is analogous to serving dinner guests plates of excrement, then apologizing for the taste.

MTV has achieved the power to make hits — like 'No Doubt's welcome to the chart topping Billboard's Top 100 for nine months, until they came out with "Clint Eastwood," which began its imminent string of Welcome to the Edge. The awards ceremony revolves around the network's inculcation of the mainstream, and it also revealed another provision of MTV's psychopathology, and only "wide-open" media: MTV's clue is showing Madonna negating current hits into her chorus, or displaying Spin City's insanely licensed band, or even cutting edge or controversial songs in the most acceptable, most mainstream audience. MTV also tried hard to hide the truth public by presenting Andrew Dice Clay's partner in shock comedy crime, "Dice & Clay's," as a network steeped in the hypocrisy and sexist of the music videos winning the most awards.
