Sanatononymous' program brings gifts to kids

Based on previous year's success, Iowa City's Old Cap Center on Monday began the task of collecting gifts for those organizations in its "Sanatononymous" project.

Now in its ninth season, Sanatononymous is designed as a way to allow individuals and organizations to donate to causes they believe in, with the donations being distributed to those in need of Christmas gifts. The Old Cap Center has been a part of the program since 2007.

The gift drive will be held through Dec. 19, according to Blair Johnson, a marketing director at the Old Cap Center.

"This year, we have a lot of the same organizations that we've had in the past," Johnson said. "We've heard from a lot of the same people that they will be setting up to pick up the Christmas holiday morning.

The Old Cap Center, along with other organizations and individuals, will be giving donations of clothes, Bibles, books and hats and mittens. People actually go out and buy these gifts for the organizations, as we only have one day of the year to do it."

Public school enrollments increase after 20-year slide

DION JOSEPH - Iowa public school enrollment has bucked a downward trend and increased in both elementary and secondary schools.

The Iowa Department of Education reported an increase of 1,000 students from the previous year's count, which was the first increase since 1996, and the state total is now 569,500.

"The school enrollment increase was nearly offset by a decline of 2.8 percent to 60,000," according to Johnson.

The increase was based on previous years' success, Iowa State University, IDAC, tzhe Regina High School,

Courts

Dion Joseph - The Iowa Supreme Court on Monday granted a petition to review a decision of the Iowa Court of Appeals.

The case, which is set for December 19, according to Johnson, is based on a decision to review the matter in the case of L. v. Johnson County District Court.

"It's a nice supplement to kids' toys," she said. "We want to try to make sure everyone has a gift this holiday season."

"We're doing this to help children," she added. "We're doing this to help children."

No extrahours added at library for finals

Rooms open in EPB, Scheffuer

Researchers warn that adding typical "make-up hours" to the current library schedule would mean that students might have to work late at night to study. In fact, the library will be open for study periods during exam week, too.

"The library is open for study periods during exam week," said library administration. "This year we will be open the entire semester, through exam week."

A study done by the American Library Association found that the average student spends more than six hours a day in the library when studying, and that this time is often used for other purposes, such as writing papers or doing research.

"We need to make sure that students are not only using the library for study purposes," said a library administration official. "We want to make sure that they are using the facilities to their fullest potential.

In addition, they also added that the library is open during the summer for students who are studying for exams.

"We are open during the summer for students who are studying for exams," said another library administration official. "We are open 24 hours a day during the summer, so students can come in and study whenever they want.

some spot at least here where the air gets thick. The building was not the best place to build those areas as well as the heating

Walker said HPO receives and follows up complaints about US buildings approximately once a week.

"When people tell us they don't have control over their environment, they don't like it, and they complain," he said.

The complaint he hears most often, he too cold, which can cause headaches or eye irritations, or even the source of many complaints, he said.

At this point, Walker said, there is no system to classify the "sick building" as a building.

"We haven't found any obvious source," he said, adding that the investigation will continue until a solution to the problem is found, if there is indeed a problem.

"So far, we've got a clean bill of health,"
Walker added.

Navy tests missile despite protests

CAPE MAY, N.J. (AP) — The Navy tested its most advanced cruise missile despite protests by a group that had hoped to stop the test launch of a Trident 2 missile.

The Navy launched the missile from a cruiser Monday evening in the Atlantic Ocean. The missile, which can carry a nuclear warhead, is designed to replace the Trident I missile in the U.S. strategic nuclear forces.

A group of protesters, including members of the Vineyard Friends Meeting, a Quaker group, had planned to protest the launch. However, the group was unable to block the launch.

Briefly

"We did a perfect launch, just perfect," said Capt. Alan Boerger, commanding officer of the Atlantic Test Range. "Mackellar, the submarine, is at the target."

The Navy said its ships had "sharply and steadily" seen a ship and moved away, and that the test was a "safe, successful" demonstration of the weapon.

Military officials from U.S. stationed in Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet military personnel in East Germany demanded a team of U.S. military officers for 7½ hours on the eve of President Bush's summit with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev. The Soviet team was invited to East Germany and insisted on meeting with American military personnel. Navy Lt. Col. The stone plaque calling for justice for those who have been killed in Gaza, where 1.5 million people live, was plastered and bulldozed by Israelis after the 1987 massacre. "It's uncertain how much the Arab leaders will pay for this," said Marwan el-Masri, 42, when asked if residents were not worn out, "It's spur of the moment." He's uncertain how much the Arab leaders will pay for this.

Bittner steals release accompany is new ‘golden era’ of animation

Hollywood (AP) - The debut of the latest in a series of fun-loving learning adventures, "The Lion King," hit theatin the fall of childhood with a bang, the thetame set in a forest full of wise animals that demonstrated the importance of friendship and the power of music. "The Lion King," produced by Walt Disney Pictures, was released in theaters on July 10, 1994, and grossed over $1 billion worldwide. It is considered a classic animation film and has since become one of the most beloved movies of all time.

The film follows the story of Simba, a young lion who must learn the responsibility of leadership after the sudden death of his father, Mufasa. Along the way, Simba is aided by his loyal friends Timon and Pumbaa, and learns important life lessons about love, loss, and forgiveness.

"The Lion King" was directed by laptop studio head Roger Allers and featured the voices of Matthew Broderick, James Earl Jones, and Whoopi Goldberg. It received critical acclaim for its music, animation, and story, and has since become a cultural phenomenon.

The success of "The Lion King" sparked a renewed interest in animation, with studios investing heavily in new and innovative projects. This "golden era" of animation saw a resurgence of interest in the art form, with filmmakers exploring new storytelling techniques and pushing the boundaries of what animation can achieve.

For example, the much-loved film "Toy Story" was released in 1995 and revolutionized the animation industry by being the first feature-length computer-animated film. "Toy Story" was a massive success, grossing over $360 million worldwide and earning an Academy Award for Best Animated Feature.

Other notable films from this era include "Beauty and the Beast" (1991), "Aladdin" (1992), "Pocahontas" (1995), and "Tarzan" (1999). These films were not only commercial successes but also critical successes, often praised for their engaging stories, beautiful animation, and memorable songs.

In addition to the major studio releases, independent animators also flourished during this time. "Urats" (1990) and "Feral" (1991) were two examples of experimental animation that gained critical acclaim.

The success of animation during this era can be attributed to a combination of factors, including the advancements in technology, the increased interest in storytelling, and the willingness of studios to take risks with new and innovative projects.

Today, animation continues to be a popular and respected art form, with new films being released each year that push the boundaries of what animation can achieve. Whether it's the classic hand-drawn style or the cutting-edge computer animation, animation remains a powerful tool for storytelling and entertainment.

Vincent outlines plans at first winter meetings

NAHBVILE, Tenn. (AP) — Commissioner

Vincent said today at baseball's winter meetings that he wants to improve relations between management and players.

Vincent, making his first state-of-the-game address, said he hopes to renegotiate a collective bargaining agreement with the union which would govern our drug program for baseball.

"I think it's important that we continue to improve relations between management and players," Vincent said.

Vincent also said he has not made any plans for a strike.

The commissioner said that since the last five years, the number of individual teams has increased and the number of teams that have been eliminated has decreased.

Vincent said he plans to introduce an improved drug program, expansion, fast-tracking of baseball to Europe, and an improved drug program.

"Within 90 days of a labor agreement, the National League will announce a definitive timetable for the addition of two teams to the National League," Vincent said.

The commissioner said that each of the last five years, the number of individual teams increased and the number of teams eliminated has decreased.

Vincent said he hoped to bring the eyes of baseball to Europe and would soon appoint a direct executive for the international area.
