Defense lawyers who face Manuel Noriega in the Medellin cocaine trial will move to have him declared a "special prisoner" by a Florida federal court judge in Miami. The move could result in Noriega's being allowed to engage in unstructured exercise and watch television in his cell, his lawyers have said.

Czechoslovakia's government has been weakened by internal divisions and criticism from abroad, leading to political instability and a loss of popular support. The country faces economic challenges and international孤立.

The government has attempted to maintain its grip by enacting new laws and regulations, but these have met with widespread resistance and strikes. The situation is critical, and the government's future is uncertain.

In the context of the Cold War, Czechoslovakia represents a significant player, and its events and decisions have implications for broader geopolitical dynamics.

LEMON, Perry (AP) — Police set up roadblocks around Lima on Wednesday and detained 11,000 people in a search for the killers of former defense chief Enrique Lopez, considered the most prominent victim of Peru's decade-long guerrilla war.

Flags flew at half-staff, and the government declared a national day of mourning in honor of Lopez, who was buried Wednesday at a military cemetery outside Lima.

At least 300 people were detained, most for not having proper documents. The majority will be released in a few days, the government said.

Lopez was commander of the army under President Alan Garcia until he was named the country's first defense minister in October 1987, the year the war began. Both men were joined under one department.

The assassination was the Shining Path's first of this year.
Stalin died of a broken heart

Leaving the economic explanations to the Marxists and look instead for a political explanation for a phenomenon.

Jean Kirkpatrick

If I may, I’ll try to stay away from the academic end of things and focus on the entertainers, athletes, and regular people. It’s the entertainers who are, in my opinion, the real heroes of history. If you look at the lives of the people who have made a difference in the world, you’ll see that it’s not the politicians or the military leaders who have made the most impact, but the entertainers. It’s the entertainers who have the power to change public opinion and bring about social change.

The entertainers of the world, from Charlie Chaplin to Elvis Presley, have used their platform to speak out on important issues. They have used their voice, event, or image in recent memory to bring about change. And it’s not just the entertainers of our time. We can look back at history and see how the entertainers of the past have also made a difference. For example, the entertainers of the Harlem Renaissance used their platform to promote African American culture and bring about social change.

So, in conclusion, the entertainers are the real heroes of history. They are the ones who have the power to change public opinion and bring about social change. And we should all strive to be like them, to make a difference in the world through our own actions.

Animal collector Andy Koffinan of Seattle has thrown a hurdle in the way of the giant toothy frogs in wet Washington state. "Under 150 miles from their target, the water had dropped to less than 4 feet deep beneath the rocks, and as many as 5,000 people somehow might be out of their homes, but that seems to have escaped any attention."

The highway Patrol reported that the de­ high estate knocked over six trees and damaged the farms. Other drivers drove for miles up and down the road near the Shoshone River. "They are now using shovels and other equipment to get the water out," Wall said.

"The frogs have been hibernating under the rocks that had been built in back with Big frogs are becoming a big deal in California (Sacramento) - In the city of San Francisco, a woman has been hailed as the "queen of the giant toads" by California state Senator Ken Cooley, who has made it his mission to protect the amphibians from being eradicated.

"She's been working hard to protect these amphibians," Cooley said, "and we must do everything we can to save them."

The amphibians are protected under federal law, but they are still threatened by habitat loss and pollution. Cooley has been pushing for increased funding for wildlife conservation and protection agencies.

"We need to do more to protect our natural resources," he said. "These animals are a part of our heritage and we must do everything we can to keep them safe."

Hawks eye key matchup

Iowa and Iowa State's Dave and his Iowa basketball teams have presented a lot of excitement since they started the season in Ohio State, but the majority of that excitement has been Iowa State's.

Despite eligibility, turnovers, and injuries, the Hawkeyes, who are in the top 25 this season, have appeared the most capable team in the Big Ten.

The 7 p.m. tip will take place in the Wisconsin Fieldhouse.

Facing a tough schedule with six of its nationally ranked opponents, the Hawkeyes are looking to win a third straight meets, starting Wednesday against the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

DeMarco said she feels the Hawkeyes are ready for it.

"We need all the strength we can get to do well against Nebraska," said DeMarco.

"It's so early in the season," said DeMarco.

Both will be performing on the vault this season, and looking to have its records in every event.

The Hawkeyes are the Big Ten school, which is under NCAA investigation.

"The driving factor—neither of these guys need the money—to present a good product that is good for basketball and raise money for charity," said Levinson.

"It's been a real race to the finish," said DeMarco.

"We can't control the weather, but we can control how we perform."
Thompson may have last laugh

WASHINGTON (AP) - Georgetown coach John Thompson, a man whose career has been marred by controversy, is now a favorite to win the NCAA championship, thanks to the performance of 6-foot-5 center Patrick Ewing, a late-in-the-process recruit who has led the Hoyas to their first Final Four appearance.

"If great freshmen are the key to success," Thompson said, "then we've got the key." He said he was happy University of Kentucky's Bo Ryan had elected to pass on Ewing, who had committed to the Hoyas days before.

Candelaria takes free-agent route

NEW YORK (AP) - Montreal left-hander John Candelaria filed for arbitration with the Expos, a move he said Wednesday he made to avoid strong reprisals by the team.

"It wasn't easy," Candelaria said. "We've got a lot of things to work on." He said he had been working out in Colorado and was planning to return to the Expos this week.

Wednesday, the Expos were still waiting to hear from Candelaria, who had been absent from spring training in Florida due to a shoulder injury.

Women

The 6-foot-3 center has expressed interest in playing for the Los Angeles Sparks, a team the New York Times has reported is interested in signing her.

Brigger and her husband with child, according to the couple, are planning a trip to Europe early next year.

Women's basketball

Walker, a highly sought-long running out of high school, is expected to join the Stars this summer, according to sources.

Casselberry, who is believed to be interested in coming to the Stars as a free agent, is also said to be considering an offer from the team.

Walker, who could not be reached for comment, is reported to have sought and received an offer from the team, which he is expected to sign soon.

Walker's decision is expected to be announced next week, according to sources.

Basketball

"It's tough being an athlete on a university and in this state when there are so many instances of racism and discrimination," the freshman said.

"It's great when things are going well and you get a lot of publicity, but if things don't go well there are consequences for that as well," the freshman said.

Walker said he is looking forward to the upcoming season, when he hopes to return to full strength.

"I've been away from the game for a long time," Walker said. "I'm excited to get back out there and show what I can do."
