Language graduates help high schools move into the 1990's

Debra Wallace
The Des Moines Register and the Associated Press

The 118 students who have been studying Japanese, French and Spanish at Iowa State University and Des Moines colleges for the past four years are about to move into classrooms next semester.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences announced Tuesday that the first graduates of the three Iowa Colleges Language Programs, which was founded in 1979, will begin teaching next semester.

"The students will be able to start teaching in the fall of '89," said Spring Butler, director of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The four-year program, which began in 1979, was planned for the state's high schools and was designed to create a core of knowledgeable teachers who would be able to help their students improve their language skills.

Butler said the program had been in development for the past 15 years, and the state's Department of Education had been involved in the planning.

The program, which includes a four-year curriculum, is a good fit for upper-class students, Butler said.

The program is designed to prepare language teachers to teach in the state's high schools.

The program includes: a four-year curriculum, which includes four years of language study; a two-year internship, which includes a year of teaching experience; and a one-year course in language study.

U.S. military in Liberia to protect citizens

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) - U.S. military officials stepped in to an increasing number of civilains by government troops on Tuesday, after reports that U.S. officials have engaged in combat, said the U.S. government. The officials have been accused of killing civilians.

Two American officers from the U.S. military station in Liberia have been accused of killing citizens. One was a U.S. officer and the other was a Liberian official. The officers were last seen in the town of Gbarnga, where they had been staying.

The U.S. government officials have been arrested and are being held in a cell in a U.S. embassy building. The officers are accused of embezzling nearly $1 million and fled the United States in 1983, pending extradition.

Liberia was founded in 1827 by freed American slaves and was recognized as a sovereign nation by the United States.

Bush to discuss role of military

WASHINGTON (AP) - President George Bush will present an anti-terrorism plan to Congress on Tuesday, getting a panel of muttered Republicans to use the crisis to prod a sense of national unity and work for a change to the nation's health care system.

Bush said Wednesday in the Oval Office that the nation's health care system is in the middle of a crisis and must be reformed. He said the nation should work to improve the system and he would propose legislation to that effect.

Romania's Salvation Front separates

BUCHAREST (AP) — The Romanian Salvation Front government bowed to the clash from the opposition Tuesday and announced a break with the anti-communist forces it governed for three years.

In a further concession, senior Front member Silvia Branes said the Front would propose Wednesday a march on the capital. She said the Front would conform to the demands of the opposition leaders.

The arrival of opposition leader Ion Iliescu in Bucharest on Monday triggered a series of events that ended Tuesday with the Front's announcement.

In a statement released Tuesday, the opposition Communist Labor Party said the Front was in the process of breaking up. It warned that any attempt to retain power would be resisted.

Hunters’ rights

Conflict between hunters and animal rights activists is provoking the Iowa House to waste taxpayers’ time and money.

An Iowa House of Representatives subcommittee approved a bill today that would ban disturbing the nesting places of many species of birds to protect them from poaching. The bill will now move to the full House, where it will be fought by both sides, as both sides are determined to protect their rights.

If the majority of Iowa’s hunting and fishing associations want it, the bill will pass, but if the minority of the people want it, the bill will fail, and this is the crux of the problem.

Legislators, too, should show concern for the preservation of individual rights. The mowing of someone else’s hay is a serious crime. The mowing of someone else’s hay is the destruction of the hay. The destruction of the hay is the destruction of the hay. The bill’s purpose is not the protection of individual rights, but the protection of the hay.

But unlike many other recent issues of race, the bill is not the issue. The issue is the fact that the bill is the issue.

The fact is, the issue is not the issue. The issue is the fact that the bill is the issue.

The bill is the issue.

The bill is the issue.

The bill is the issue.

The bill is the issue.

Romero

against the violent in war-time stranger

Gonzalez, a former director of the U.S. Catholic Conference (now the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops), "the violence in war-time stranger, the European and American people, is a challenge to our generation."

Romero changed everything from a white shirt to a black shirt. Catholic Bishops already have a great many on the press and opinion without any to the press controversy. "We know they would kill him," said Gonzalez.

He said Romero's life expression should be a "proclaimed option for the poor," and that Romero had "seen the Roman Catholic Church alive in the European and American continent because of his commitment to the poor." Romero's commitment in this country to the poor is "a living, breathing Book," he said.

The current archbishop of El Salvador, Arrieta Rivero, during an interview with the Catholic Bishops in Latin America, said the violence in war-time stranger is "an expression of the Church's commitment to the poor.

The one-day film was directed by Kees Overbeek. It was shot in the Squad City of St. Petersburg, Florida, and at the University of Pennsylvania, and at the University of Arizona College of Science.

Students reported that at least half of the students experienced "anxiety" and "very upsetting." One department of students in general studies indicated the most serious anxiety about their studies, while another reported no anxiety. One student in biology's study noted she had "a problem with the time frame for the examinations." There is no evidence that students are affected by the student's report, and that they did not feel upset.

For this female student, the stress was "too much." And another student, "I was not aware but was told to stay away from the lab." It is unknown if the student should, after all, have this information.

Both administration officials and intelligence sources, including Gorbachev's representative in Moscow, have been speculating that the 1989 Gorbachev was in a meeting with the President of the United States at the White House.

One security administration official said that if the decision was made to allow Gorbachev to stay in the U.S., it would be done in a "slow, methodical" manner. He said that if Gorbachev were to remain in the U.S., it would be done in a "slow, methodical" manner.

Gorbachev's representative in Moscow, speaking on the matter, said that Gorbachev was in the U.S. for a "slow, methodical" manner.

Road losses overshadow Iowa's upsets

Byra Miller
The Daily Iowan

In the long shadow of a 154-pound record, Iowa's losses over weekend pesky Nebraska and Minnesota made it seem as though the Hawkeyes have lost their touch. But they probably deserved to fall.

The Hawkeyes have lost only two true road games all season, 71-68 at Iowa State and now 69-67 at Michigan State. The loss to the Hawkeyes is the first shot of the season for the No. 10 team in the Top 25.

"It's one of the most difficult games to win in the Big Ten," said coach Mike Montgomery, "so it's not a shock that it happened this week." He added, "We didn't have a good feel for the game in the second half, but it's not a big loss to the Hawkeyes because they've been down before, they've played well this season, and they've had a good attitude all the way through.

Iowa coach Steve McClain said, "I think it's a little bit bad luck. I'm not sure if we're going to win any games this season."

Story connects Irish player to Illini problems

Pearl denies opening case

Champagnie, 3d. (AP) - The suspending of the University of Illinois basketball program, apparently because of charges by a former student of the school, has led to an opening case in the case of Illinois State assistant coach Don Thomas.

The suspension of the Illini basketball program, which was announced Monday, is the second major college basketball scandal to hit the Midwest in the past year. The first was the University of Wisconsin scandal, which led to the suspension of the Badgers basketball program.

Thomas is assistant coach for the Illinois State basketball team, which is ranked No. 18 in the country. The suspension of the Illini basketball program has led to widespread speculation about the possibility of Thomas being given a job at Illinois State.

"This is the worst time possible," said Thomas. "I'm sure this will affect my job prospects."

Jerseys stolen from NBA Hall of Fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) - The NBA Hall of Fame said Tuesday it lost a collection of 50 jerseys worn by members of the NBA's National Basketball Association.

The jerseys were stolen from the Hall of Fame's offices Tuesday afternoon. The Hall of Fame's security chief said the jerseys were worth $50,000.

Many of the jerseys were signed by players and were worth $20,000 to $30,000 each. The Hall of Fame is working with Springfield police to recover the jerseys.

Hawkeyes ranked 18th on NCAA coaches poll

The Iowa women's basketball team has been ranked 18th in the latest Associated Press poll released Tuesday. The Hawkeyes moved up to No. 18 after beating Nebraska 66-63 last week.

"This is a good vote of confidence," said Iowa coach Lisa Bluder. "It's nice to be recognized by the coaches."

Price's basketball career was not easy. He had to move from basketball to basketball, from basketball to football, and from football to baseball. Finally, he decided to play basketball in high school.

LOUISE (AP) — Julie Brown wonders if you know that her latest album's "Shout Ray Light" is, in fact, just that: a little light pop, a little party music, with a little bit of everything. It's a far cry from the belly-dancing, body-painting, eighties-look Valley girl she might agree. It's a totally new sound for the 25-year-old star of "Half-Baked" and "Dumb and Dumber."

"I've been thinking about making a whole new thing. And it became a whole new thing. I'm not sure why. It just happened."

Brown said that the title of the album was chosen to reflect the experimental nature of the music. "I think we're in a whole new world of music now. I think that's where we're going."}

"Peaceable Kingdom, Too" is the second single from the album and is a departure from the party pop style of the title track. Brown said that the song was written in response to the current political climate and the need for a message of peace and hope.

"I don't want to be a political artist, but I do want to use my platform to talk about things that I care about," Brown said. "I think that's the job of an artist, to be able to talk about the things that we care about and to make a difference."
