Tampa Fall

The Daily Iowan

The winter storm that has buried Iowa cities under enough snow to make arthritis sufferables of snow may not yet overcome the year's weathermen involved in a one accident, it may be the cause of your car's current hooding.

In downtown Iowa City, the number of traffic problems has increased as a result of the storm. While accidents associated for the majority of the traffic problems, only one involved a personal injury, according to Iowa City Police Department. "We always have more accidents, " said Tony. "Fortunately most of them are out of a serious nature.

SNOW Removal Facts

As snow removal moves through the downtown area, the chance of illegally parking cars will increase. According to City Police Captain Don Strand, parking cars on the sidewalks will result in fines ranging from $20 to $100.

Winter weather conditions also make it difficult for firefighters to work. "If we can't get to the victim quickly, the chances of survival decrease," Winkelhake said.

BUSCH promises effort to curb drug demand

CARACAS, Caracas, AP - President George Bush and three Latin American leaders, concluding a tense summit under an acorn and local security shield, forged agreement Thursday to a new joint strategy in the war against drug trafficking.

The leaders promised to work together to create a database that would enable law enforcement agencies to trace and confiscate drug shipments. The database would be used by the United Nations to monitor U.S. drug demand.

Four joint statements signed by Bush and Presidents of Colombia, Panama and Peru. Colombia, Peru, Panama, Brazil and Argentina are the three largest cocaine-producing nations, Bush said. The meeting dealt with a host of issues, including drug trafficking and the drug war.

In their meeting, they stated away from some of the most controversial drug initiatives, such as the idea of a special economic zone of Colombia, and chased instead to deal in broader themes. That broadening of focus reflects a growing desire among nations to forge an international campaign against narcotics sellers.

A joint statement signed by Bush and President of Colombia, see Colombia, Pages 3A and 7A. The three leaders agreed to meet next year to discuss further cooperation in the war on drugs.

Michael Learner
Special to The Daily Iowa

The Iowa Daily just ran a story about the new student organization, the Marxist Union, which has just come into existence.

"In the past few years, there has been an increase in the number of organizations that have been formed," said Learner. "This is a good thing, as it shows that students are starting to take more interest in the issues that affect them."

"The Marxist Union is one of these organizations," continued Learner. "It is a group of students who are interested in the ideas of Marxism, and who want to bring these ideas to the Iowa campus."

"I think it is important for students to have a variety of organizations on campus," said Learner. "This helps to ensure that students have a chance to learn about different ideas, and to express their own ideas."

"The Marxist Union is doing exactly this," said Learner. "They are organizing events and discussions, and are trying to bring a new perspective to the Iowa campus."
County supervisors propose 6% boost in homeowners tax

Lindsey Alan Park
The Daily Iowan

Proposed county tax levies will attract nearly $5 million toward the estimated $32 million that the Johnson County Board of Supervisors on Monday will consider for a 2012 budget.

The proposed levies would mean a percent increase in the assessment of Iowa City residential tax parcels, and close as a percent increase in the assessment of the county’s rural property parcels.

After months of work, the supervisors on Monday will present the budget proposal on which the board has deliberated.

The proposed 2011 tax levies were submitted to the Johnson County Auditor’s Office in September. The final version of the budget will be approved after a public hearing.

The proposed budget would result in a further rural tax bill increase of less than 1%, but the percent increase in the assessment of Iowa City residential tax parcels would be higher than last year’s.

Athletic Director Ross Beets, deputy director for athletics.

Even though the rural levy is higher, the assessment would actually be reduced by .01% in Iowa City.

The proposed levy is .02% percent less per $1,000 of land value than the percent increase in the assessment of the dollar value of Iowa City residential tax parcels.

A public hearing on the proposed budget is set for March 12 at 7:00 p.m. at the Johnson County Administration Building, 915 S. Dubuque St.

Security measures succeed

CARTAGENA, Colombia (AP) - Soldiers were on guard outside and inside a专访 that President George Bush planned to visit, as more than a dozen helicopters guarded a makeshift airfield at the seaside resort to ensure the meeting's security.

The region's political climate was tense after a series of violent incidents, and the U.S. was concerned about the security of the summit.

On Wednesday, the U.S. president and his delegation arrived in Cartagena, which is home to the Colombian navy frogmen, who were responsible for checking the area.

The U.S. security forces had taken extraordinary measures to guard the site, including the deployment of additional troops and the construction of temporary barriers.

President Bush, his wife and his security team were welcomed by a large crowd of well-wishers, who greeted them with plaudits and handshakes.

Bush declared that the U.S. was committed to fighting drugs and terrorism, and that the summit would be a key moment in the fight against illegal activities.

The Colombian navy frogmen checked the area for any potential threat, and were guarding it with frogmen and security personnel.

The U.S. military was also on standby, ready to respond to any incident.

In the central Colombian town of Baracoa, a toll booth on the major highway leading to the summit was painted with the words "Gringos Get Out," referring to the U.S.

Another group kidnapped a truck driver and demanded $2 million in ransom.

The U.S. ambassador to Colombia, Kent, said the U.S. was "confident in the security measures put in place for the summit."

But Gahle looks at the record and the Hawkeyes wouldn't bet a dime on the Big Ten. Michigan made up of Purdue, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa, the Wolverines have a 12-point lead with one game behind Purdue. Minnesota (16-6, 7-5) dropped to fifth place.

In Iowa, it tied second-ranked Michigan (18-5) at 19 points in their earlier loss to Michigan. Michigan won 26 of its last 28 games at Williams Arena.

Track squad looking toward Big Tens

Only one major stumbling block remains before the Iowa men's swimming and diving team can claim an undefeated season. And that block is the National Invitation Championship.

The Hawkeyes will be on the road this weekend for their last two meets before the Big Ten Championships. They will face the Cornhuskers in Lincoln, Neb., and the Golden Bears in Berkeley, Calif, the same two teams that knocked Iowa off the national stage last year.

This is a different situation this weekend because Iowa's underclassmen and freshmen will be more involved than usual. The meet is also the only one this season during the spring season that Iowa will compete against two teams other than the Hawkeyes.

Busy weekend approaches

The Daily Iowan

Back-to-back meets might not be every team's idea of a relaxing weekend, but Iowa gymnastics coach Tracy Dunn doesn't agree.

Friday night's meet, the Hawkeyes will be in Ames to compete against Iowa State. Then they will travel on to Minneapolis Saturday to face Minnesota.

"It should be a fun weekend," Dunn said. "They will be back to school, but (Iowa) State is quite a bit easier. We're hoping for a pretty tight meet. They are coming off of an uneven bars meet looking for a pretty tight meet. Three of his top men will be there, putting a strain on our team competition.

"We're not being to beat them, but we're coming off an uneven bars meet. We've had a weaker than Minnesota. We're almost putting two teams against them."

For the Iowa team, "We're hoping all our gymnasts will be back," Dunn said. "We had quite a few injuries during our meet last weekend."

Director substitutes for snow-delayed actor in Chekhov play, 'Three Sisters'

Jacqueline Comito
The Daily Iowan

University Theatre's production of Anton Chekhov's "Three Sisters" opened Wednesday evening at MacBie Theatre with a little more than the usual amount of delay. The sudden snowstorm delayed one of the actors in Chicago, forcing the director, Eric Forsey, to play the part himself.

"We had to adjust," Forsey said. "It was a pleasure to listen to the rhythm and timing of Act I."

The rhythm and timing of Act I were trodden upon in order to play the remaining acts as quickly as possible. Though the play lasted longer than anticipated, the cast and crew managed to finish the performance within the allotted time. The audience was on the edge of their seats, enjoying the play's intricate dialogue and captivating performances. Forsey's energy during his monologue was great, seeming to be well rehearsed. He seemed to be pleased to be on the stage. His enthusiasm spread to the audience. His presence added an extra level of excitement to the performance.

The curtain went up 25 minutes late, but the delay was quickly forgotten in the presence of the outstanding cast design by Dan Nettleton. The imaginative layout of the Proctor's house was a minor aspect of color and shape strikingly characterized. Director Lani Apperson's costume authentically completed the portrait of turn-of-the-century Russian women. The rhythms and acting of Act I were impossible, the characterization was Afterwards, the audience was left in awe of the actors' performances, carried on a roller coaster of laughter and melancholy, and it was a pleasure to listen to the dialogue while watching the stage relationships develop. Forsey's direction was intentionally detailed. Not one inch of stage was ignored.

Unfortunately, the momentum of the opening act lacked in the succeeding ones. The third and fourth acts were trodden upon as it sounded, acting through these final acts, the cast and crew still didn't fulfill the impressionistic outline of the late, but the delay was quickly forgotten in the presence of the outstanding cast design by Dan Nettleton.
