U.S. talks with Havel ‘friendly’
Bush waives trade, investment restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President George Bush has again approved of the Reagan-era trade embargo against Czechoslovakia, which has been put in place to keep收益ing with human rights violations.

The president’s action today means that officials can no longer impose stiff penalties on Czechoslovakian businesses and individuals, and that trade in a wide range of products can resume.

However, the waiver does not apply to commercial transactions with the Soviet Union, and the U.S. continues to impose sanctions on those that support the Communist regime.

The move was seen as a significant step toward easing tensions between the two countries, which have been strained by the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

The waiver clears the way for increased economic cooperation, but it also raises questions about the future of the embargo.

The president has said he will be reevaluating the situation at the end of the year.

Debit of airport reserve account spurs squabbles of legality

The city council is being called to task for its handling of the airport reserve account, which has been under scrutiny for months.

The account, which was established to fund improvements to the airport, has been the subject of several investigations by audit committees and the city attorney.

The city council, which approved the creation of the account in 2001, has been criticized for how it has managed the funds.

Critics say the money has been used for projects that did not fit within the parameters of the account, and that the council has been too willing to approve projects that would benefit political allies.

Caterpillars may be key to Bush’s war on drugs

The Bush administration is pushing research on caterpillars as a way to combat illegal drug trafficking.

A new study by the U.S. Geological Survey found that caterpillars can transport drugs through their bodies, which could offer a new way to combat the illegal drug trade.

The study, which was conducted in California, found that caterpillars can carry drugs in their bodies for several days, making them a potential new weapon against drug traffickers.

The findings could help to strengthen efforts to combat drug trafficking in the United States, which has seen a rise in the use of synthetic drugs in recent years.

The Daily Iowan

Addressing a perceived UI inadquate in the areas of diversity and inclusivity, the People of Color Committee's Diversity Committee "recognized a need for dual, qualified participation at the University of Iowa." According to the committee, two parallel, tenured and tenured-track positions are in order, with speakers from the University of Minnesota and the American Indian Studies Program. According to the committee members who call for work in the area, faculty and students alike should be "open to diversity, but not to the point of being overwhelmed by it." They also call for the creation of a new, dual-qualified position, which would be a "great advantage" to the University of Iowa.

I.C. schools recognize black history throughout the year

Booby West

The Daily Iowan

In recognition of Black History Month, students in the Iowa City Community School District have been taught lessons about the contributions of black Americans in their studies.

The district's Board of Directors has approved several activities for students. These include activities such as a school dinner for Black History Month.

In other school districts, students will be taught in the district to review the Iowa City School District's curriculum to include non-sexist contributions. The district is making a point to recognize black history and its contributions.

"We are looking at the contributions made by African-Americans," West said. "We also want to encourage our students to read about the contributions of black people in their studies."

Asian leaders disagree on U.S. troop reduction

TOKYO (AP) - Defense Secretary Dick Cheney arrived Tuesday from the Philippines leading a delegation of top officials for talks on the logjam in the Malaysia-Thailand dispute over the Senkaku Islands in the Pacific.

Cheney's visit comes ahead of his five-day tour of Japan that he begins Wednesday. Japan is currently in a deadlock as it seeks to resolve its dispute with China over the islands.

Despite the progress made in other areas, the Senkaku Islands have remained a major sticking point in the region. The islands are rich in natural resources and have strategic importance to both Japan and China.

In the Philippines, the move is seen as a sign of the United States' continued commitment to the region.

Cheney's visit is expected to focus on the ongoing crisis in Ukraine, where tensions have escalated between Russia and Western nations.

In the Philippines, the United States has a significant military presence, with a large base in Subic Bay. The Philippines is one of the countries that have expressed concern over the situation in Ukraine.

Cheney is also expected to discuss other issues with his counterparts, including the situation in Syria and the global economy.

Cheney's visit is part of a larger push by the United States to strengthen its alliances in the region. The United States has been working to counter the influence of China and Russia in the region.

The United States has also been pressing its allies to increase their defense spending and to take a more active role in regional security issues.

Cheney's visit is expected to be a key part of this push, as he meets with his counterparts to discuss the ongoing crisis and to coordinate efforts to address the situation.

Ortega vaunts victory; polls show Sandinistas as leader

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - The ruling Sandinistas' landslide victory in Sunday's presidential election was unexpected and a stunning victory for the left-wing government that has ruled this Central American country since 1979.

The Sandinistas won 70 percent of the vote, according to official results, giving them a mandate to continue their socialist policies and to push for economic development.

The Sandinistas' victory was a significant blow to the country's opposition, which had hoped to unseat the ruling party in the election.

U.S. exports profitable possibilities
When Robert Corby, new president of the American Sugar Refiners International, arrived in Budapest, talks with sugar executives were included in the agenda. He told the papers he is looking for "further opportunities for trade between the countries of the Eastern bloc and those of the United States."

The region's 136 million consumers may have the best chance of commercial and advertising for Western clients. Wages could even fall in dollar terms because of an expected decline in exchange rates.

But American executives already experienced an Eastern Europe impact," said Marvin Bache, chief economist at Bache Securities Inc. "They should make at least a minimum of time, effort and expense necessary to examine the situation," said Bache, who advises companies doing business in Eastern Europe.

Furnace companies are making plans to expand their Russian and Eastern European markets. "This is a good time for us," said Marvin Bache, chief economist at Bache Securities Inc. "It's a mistake for Americans to overlook Eastern Europe now."

east berlin (ap) - west german health minister will meet conservative west german interior minister in berlin on april 12 to discuss smoking-related research.

Health Secretary envisions tobacco-free society by 2000?

As health secretary, i would have two main priorities. first, i would work to make the tobacco industry pay for the health damages that they have caused. second, i would work to promote smoking cessation and prevention programs.

in the tobacco product health and education act of 1990, i would make smoking quitting a part of the federal budget. i would put money into smoking cessation programs and public education campaigns.

the tobacco industry would be required to pay into a fund to support these programs. they would also be required to contribute to research into alternative medicines for smoking cessation.

the task force on cigarette smoking and health, under the leadership of health secretary carl davis, would be responsible for making recommendations to the president on how to implement this legislation.

the public should be informed about the risks of smoking. if the federal health budget is increased, then it would be used to pay for the costs of smoking. it would be used to pay for smoking cessation research, for smoking cessation programs, for public education campaigns, and for research into alternative medicines for smoking cessation.

i would also work to ensure that the public is informed about the risks of smoking. if the federal health budget is increased, then it would be used to pay for the costs of smoking. it would be used to pay for smoking cessation research, for smoking cessation programs, for public education campaigns, and for research into alternative medicines for smoking cessation.

A trial by reason of insanity began Tuesday in the murder trial of former state agent Michael Blatt, who is charged with killing his parents in their home last month.

The case was moved from Floyd County to Winnebago County in order to provide a fair trial.

Buster wins more than belt

DETROIT (AP) - James Davis not only outplayed Mike Tyson on world heavyweight boxing championship, but he also knocked out Tyson in the world's most lucrative fight.

The WWF said it was a robbery by Davis as 1.5 million people watched the fight on television.

Joe won't go

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Joe Montana told everybody he was going to Detroit World. The Maxwell Football Club found out the hard way that Joe also was going to Detroit World.

For the first time in 10 years, the Super Bowl player of the year didn't show to accept the award.

The coach's attorney, Dan Abatemarco, said he didn't want to be there. "I can't watch the game because I want to see him," Bagnell said.

The coach's attorney, Dan Abatemarco, said he was the one who hired Abatemarco's predecessor, but neither he nor the coach's attorney knew if Abatemarco had been named as a defendant.
