Police

The State Board of Regents has approved a new policy regarding sexual harassment at the University of Iowa. The new policy, which is modeled after the policy at Iowa State University, was approved by the board earlier this month.

The new policy consists of several key elements:

1. Prohibition of sexual harassment.
2. Definition of sexual harassment.
3. Reporting procedures.
4. Support and counseling for victims.
5. Dismissal and disciplinary action for perpetrators.

The policy is in response to the large number of sexual harassment complaints that have been filed at the University of Iowa in recent years. The Board of Regents hopes that the new policy will help to create a safer and more respectful environment for all students and employees.

The policy will be distributed to all University of Iowa students and employees, and training sessions will be held to ensure understanding and compliance. The University will also establish a sexual harassment hotline for anyone who has been a victim of sexual harassment.

The University of Iowa has committed to making any necessary changes to ensure that the new policy is effective and that all students and employees are aware of their rights under the policy.

Educatot speaks on school budgets

The topic of the budget for the 1990-91 school year is currently under discussion in the Iowa legislature. The budget is expected to address issues such as funding for elementary and secondary schools, teacher salaries, and school construction.

The budget proposals will be considered by both the House and the Senate, and will be debated in public hearings. The final budget will be approved by the legislature and signed by the governor.

The budget is an important issue for educators and parents, as it affects the quality of education that students receive. It is crucial that the budget is fair and equitable, and that it provides adequate funding for all schools.

FBI enlists UI books to assist in Blumberg case

Brian Degg by the AP

FBI agents used the help of a UI librarian to boost the chances of finding the nation's largest collection of stolen books. Dead last week in Iowa City, UI librarian Anne Tom and a UI student assistant were the first to help the FBI find the stolen books.

The stolen books included several rare and valuable volumes, including some worth more than $10,000 each. The FBI is investigating the theft, which is believed to be linked to an international fraud ring.

According to the FBI, the stolen books were part of a larger collection of rare and valuable volumes that were stolen from the UI Main Library in September 2018. The books included several rare and valuable volumes, including some worth more than $10,000 each.

The FBI is seeking the public's help in locating the stolen books. Anyone with information is encouraged to contact the FBI.

Lawmakers agree on child-care plan

Package will aid low-income families

DES MOINES (AP) — Congressional lawmakers have narrowly approved an $11 billion package that targets new tax breaks to low-income parents and workers for the poor in pay taxes, Rep. Tom Tauke said Friday.
These vouchers could be used for school tuition in Iowa. However, the package also expands school programs for low-income children, Tauke said.

"This is a major breakthrough," said Tauke. "This year we are reaching the millions of the disadvantaged on the horizon."

Tauke said Republicans and Democrats in both chambers, who are expected to pass the legislation this week, are "very pleased" with the provisions of the package. More details remain to be settled, he said.

The package is scheduled to be signed next week in Washington, but Tauke did not endorse it for interviews with Iowa

 Tauke said.

"I think everybody wins," said Tauke, a Republican candidate for the seat held by Democrat

Tom Tauke.

Some Democrats have advocated boasting federal Aid for kids spending.

Senate Democrats have resisted such efforts, saying the current program provides the most and greatest need.

"Mont of the money flows directly to persons," said Tauke.

Nixon admits attempt to stop Watergate probe through CIA

NIXON (AP) - Former President Richard Nixon, in a new book, says he did not call the CIA to block an FBI investigation of the Watergate break-in, an apparent attempt to discredit the agency that had been recommended to him.

"This inaccurate charge," Nixon says, "never made it past a staff member who had a personal stake in averting it."

Richard Nixon, in an apparent attempt to discredit the agency that had been recommended to him.

- Nixon admits aWatergate break-in, ID failed to call the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He said he didn't consider the FBI probe as specific.

- He also writes that "the most widely known false accusation I ever made was a Watergate tape" and that the White House eventually gave up trying to stop the FBI investigation.

- The Watergate break-in, ID "was the one issue on which I ordered the FBI probe on specific plans for the wiretapping or received any information from it," he says.

- Nixon's previous statements that he did not know of White House involvement in the Watergate cover-up until the March 1973 investigation with them.

- There was the "worrying" the inside, which had been looking to, the FBI. A Watergate tape" to which he said was White House Chief of Staff Haldeman disclosed the FBI investigation.

- That tape, recorded June 23, 1972, details the FBI probe, said Nixon's previous statement.

- He said he was unaware of the tape's existence until after the Watergate tapes were released to the public.

- Nixon's admission comes as a significant blow to the Nixon administration's efforts to prevent the release of Watergate tapes.

- The tapes, which contain evidence of Nixon's involvement in the Watergate cover-up, were released to the public in 1974.

- Nixon's admission is likely to further damage his reputation and his legacy, as he is already known for his role in the Watergate scandal.

Central Student Advocacy Party (ASP) one of the political parties running for UI student government, placed a special emphasis on transparency in the March 5 Edition of The Daily Iowan that included numerous false claims about the alleged benefits ASP has given UI students. With the student government already defending itself against questions of integrity, the ASP candidates have demonstrated their lack of concern for UI students, their self-aggrandizement, and their belief in making such false claims.

The advertisement in question covered half a page and began with "ASP has given you..." which was followed by a list of seven different benefits previously received by UI students. ASP claimed to have "gotten" UI students a tuition freeze for next year, the student video program "Students Speak Out", and an open north entrance to the Main Library. The ad went on to claim that ASP continues to make these benefits available to the UI students in the ad at least partially at the expense of the general student body.

A tuition freeze is being considered by the Iowa House, but has not passed, and according to state representative Mark Wilsey, R-Mount Pleasant, UI students are unlikely to see a tuition freeze this year.

The "Students Speak Out" video program, made by ASP candidates, is not an ASP initiative. The program is an altruistic effort by the administration to involve students in a political process that the administration believes is essential for the growth of the university.

The "north entrance to the Main Library" advertisement is misleading. The Cambus is in the middle of the theatre, not in the north entrance. Furthermore, the ad claims that the Cambus is "fully staffed, but ASAP implies in their campaign that the Cambus is not fully staffed". This is a misrepresentation of the facts. The Cambus is open for business and is fully staffed.

The claim that "students have been dancing in the streets, because they have seen the Cambus" is also misleading. The Cambus is open for business and is fully staffed.

The claim that "students have been made new Missions more or less" is also misleading. The Cambus is open for business and is fully staffed.

The student government will not take away the "north entrance to the Main Library" because the administration is not planning to do so. The Cambus is open for business and is fully staffed.

Texas candidate makes rape comment

ALPINE, Texas — Republican gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams is facing new criticism after a tape was released that includes an apparent comment by him about rape.

The 64-year-old Williams, who is running against Democratic Gov. Ann Richards, said during an interview with the Daily Avalanche, a Liberal newspaper, that he had never been asked to mention rape in a campaign.

"If someone asked me if I had raped anyone," Williams said, "I don't think they'd get an answer from me.

"I don't think I've ever been asked about that."

Williams, who is running for the Republican nomination, was quoted as saying he would consider it a "trap" if someone brought it up.

The comment was released Friday by the Alvin Daily Avalanche, which has been an opponent of Williams.

Williams, who is seeking the Republican nomination, has never been publicly asked about rape.

According to the Daily Avalanche, the comment was made during an interview with Williams.

"Williams refused to answer the question and hung up when I brought up the issue of rape," the Daily Avalanche reported.

"I was shocked," the Daily Avalanche quoted Williams as saying. "I didn't expect to hear that."

General Robert C. Duvall, assistant secretary of defense for manpower and reserve affairs, has been ordered by Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney to stop the downsizing of the Air Force Reserve.

Duvall, who is in charge of the reserve component of the military, is expected to brief Cheney on his recommendations later this week.

The move comes as the Air Force struggles to meet its recruiting goals and face a growing backlog of maintenance work.

Duvall said he would recommend increasing the number of reservists available for deployment and streamlining the reserve force to ensure it can respond quickly to any potential threats.

The Air Force Reserve currently has about 122,000 members, down from a peak of 130,000 in 2010.

Hawkies lose to Berkeley in bottom of 7th

The Iowa softball team finally ran up another win.

After winning five games by one run, the Hawkeyes couldn't hold on to a 1-0 lead as they were dashed and dropped a 3-1 decision to Oregon in the third round of the National Invitational Tournament Sunday.

The Iowa State Invitational, which began last weekend, will end this weekend with the final round.

Although the Golden Bears rallied for five runs in the eventual elimination game, they couldn't dominate the Hawkeyes from the first start, and the Golden Bears were pleased with the victory.

"I saw progress in as many areas of the team," Hernandez said. "We are making ingredients present in a high percentage of those areas, and we need to keep that up in the next few games."

Outcomes decided at the buzzer

(AP) — Just when it seemed the NCAA tournament couldn't get any more exciting, it did.

It started in St. Louis, where No. 10 Duke had its perfect season come to an end.

"It's hard to describe the feeling of winning there," said Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski. "It's like winning a championship game."

But the big news was from New York, where the final round of the NCAA tournament was decided in the final seconds.

In the first game, No. 1 Duke went down to St. Louis, 79-60, to the second-seeded Kansas Jayhawks.

"It was a really good game, too," said Kansas guard Wayne Simien. "We were well prepared for the game and we made a lot of big plays."

But the Jayhawks didn't let up and in the final seconds, Duke's Shelden Williams missed a free throw, giving Kansas a 6-3 lead.

In the second game, No. 2 Connecticut went down to New York, 78-72, to the second-seeded Florida State Seminoles.

"We just didn't play our best ball," said Connecticut coach Jim Calhoun. "We had a lot of turnovers and we didn't make our free throws."

But the Seminoles had the last laugh and in the final seconds, Florida State's Steve Alford made a three-pointer to give his team a 72-69 lead.

In the final game, No. 3 Texas went down to New York, 88-85, to the second-seeded North Carolina Tar Heels.

"We were just too good on the offensive end," said North Carolina guard Chris Wright. "We dominated them in the first half and we were able to close the game out."

But Texas' forward Greg Oden hit a three-pointer at the buzzer to give his team a 88-85 lead.

"We had a chance to win," said Texas coach Rick Barnes. "But we just couldn't do it."

The final score was 88-85 and the Tar Heels advanced to the final.

St. Louis returns to NIT semifinals; New Mexico seeks redemption

The St. Louis Billikens are the No. 6 seed in the NCAA tournament but they have advanced to the NIT semifinals, where they will face the New Mexico Lobos.

"We knew we had a chance," said St. Louis' coach Rick Majerus. "We played well in the tournament and we deserved to be in the semifinals."

But New Mexico is looking for redemption after losing to St. Louis in the tournament last year.

"We wanted revenge," said New Mexico's coach Larry Eustachy. "But we lost and now we have to face St. Louis again."

The Billikens and Lobos will face off in the semifinals on Thursday, March 12, at the Edward Jones Dome in St. Louis.
