Differences challenge German student teacher

James Dyre

Conducting German teaching trials and assessing his role, German student teacher James Dyre notes that his experience proved to be a challenge. "In Ecuador, especially, it was difficult to understand the students," he said. "This was because they were so different from those in Germany." Dyre's goal was to create a bridge between his culture and the students he taught.

Stilmmaken receives 5-year sentence

Kelly David

An Iowa City man who killed his son in a drunk driving accident last summer received a five-year suspended sentence and probation Friday.

Judge orders 5-year sentence

Judge David X. Darus, a judge of the Sixth Judicial District, Iowa, ordered Frank Chewning of Davenport, who also goes by Krieger, a native of Idaho, to serve five years in prison. Chewning was accused of stealing a 12-year-old girl's car and using it to kill her.

Schools suspend minorities more than whites

A coalition of Iowa groups, including the ACLU, has found that Iowa schools suspend minorities at a higher rate than whites.

Wall Street

Minority students in Iowa public schools may experience higher suspension rates than their white counterparts, according to a report released Thursday.

Wall Street

The report, prepared by the ACLU, found that minority students in Iowa public schools are suspended at a higher rate than their white counterparts. The report also found that minority students are more likely to be suspended for discipline reasons.

Courts

A judge sentenced Frank Chewning, 19, to five years in prison.

In Brief

- A Holiday Inn employee and two of his friends were charged with armed theft and armed assault.
- A student at the University of Iowa was charged with armed assault.
- A 12-year-old girl was found dead at the scene of a shooting.
- The Iowa City Police Department is investigating a homicide.

SCHOOL SUSPENSIONS

In the 2018-19 school year, Iowa schools suspended minority students at a higher rate than their white counterparts.

Suspicous fire kills 150 tourists on ferry

LYSEKIL, Sweden (AP) — Investigators are probing the cause of a fire Sunday that killed 150 tourists traveling on a ferry to an island near Gothenburg, authorities said.

The fire started shortly after the ferry departed from the port in Lysekil in southwest Sweden, en route to the island of Gullholmen. The cause of the fire was not immediately known, but authorities said they were looking into possible criminal involvement.

Firefighters at the scene said the ferry was carrying about 1,800 passengers, mostly tourists from the Netherlands, Germany and Denmark. Many of the passengers were on a day trip to the island, which is a popular tourist destination.

The fire started just before the ferry reached Gullholmen, a small island in the Gothenburg archipelago, and quickly spread throughout the vessel, authorities said. The ship was carrying a mix of tourists and crew members, and there were reports of people trapped inside.

Firefighters worked to contain the flames as passengers were evacuated from the ship using lifeboats. The ship was quickly engulfed in flames, and smoke could be seen billowing into the sky.

There were reports of injuries among the passengers, but the extent of the damage was not immediately clear. The ship was carrying a large number of tourists, and it was not immediately known if there were any fatalities.

The fire was extinguished within about an hour, but it took firefighters several hours to fully control the blaze. The ship was towed to the harbor in Lysekil, where it was inspected by police and firefighters.

Investigations into the cause of the fire are ongoing, and authorities said they were looking into possible criminal involvement. The fire was the latest in a series of recent incidents involving ferries in the region, including a fire on a different ferry last year that killed 147 passengers.

Manila jailbreak linked to failed coup

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Masked rebel soldiers overran the Manila City jail Sunday during a getaway party for a inmate who had threatened to shoot an officer and accused the facility of being a "Death camp," police said.

In a statement to reporters, the police chief of the jail of the capital linked to the failed escape, said Monday that at least six jailers had been linked to a conspiracy to help the escape.

Four other inmates held for common crimes were said to have been linked to the failed coup, according to police. Police said they were preparing to charge the escapees.

The gunmen fled with at least two jail guards. The guards refused to talk with police superintendent of the Manila jail, who said they had questioned them.

When they opened the compound gate to allow the deliverymen inside, about 15 masked guns forced their way in, disarmed the guards and then gained open firing with a Melbourne la, police said.

Police said the guards were preparing an escape attempt against at least two jail guards. The guards refused to talk with police superintendent of the Manila jail, who said they had questioned them.

Iowa Basketball

Turn up the heat

Next season seems destined to be another rebuilding year for Hawkeye basketball, but the most critical challenge facing Coach Hy is recompensation, not just the strength, of his basketball program. Last year, though, Iowa's sweet success last season for sitting and contemplation was greeted with a second-place finish in the Big Ten. This season, there is hope that the Hawkeye managerial genius can be among the favorites for the Big Ten championship.

Jim Boeheim's return is never to be taken for granted. But it is no longer a secret. The fact that Boeheim, with the Hawkeyes in the Big Ten, is now the conference's leading scorer, is not surprising. It's clear time for Davis.

This year, quite obviously, Davis hasn't kept the heat up. Thompson was 6-0, but the record of the Hawkeye basketball team is beginning to worry. It's clearly time for Davis to turn things around. This is not just a matter of keeping the team interested and focused. It's also about maintaining the integrity of the basketball program. Recruit players who can do both, but so far there can be a problem with someone, so you have to be careful. This is not completely the case, but it's a good idea.

Governor Branstad's refusal to approve the repair package means, that for the Iowa Regents and their Board of Regents, it's not just a question of whether they should take an umbrella to work, whether the radio station thinks of the crisis in Lithuania. But the radio station decides to take a listen to some advertisers who come from a beautiful place.

WASHINGTON (AP) - After months of delay, the United States has decided to permit a supercomputer to India, sources said, despite warnings that it could be used to make nuclear weapons or ballistic missiles.

Officials had rejected an export license for a machine worth $170 million, saying it would pose a threat.

The sources, speaking on condi tions of anonymity, said the computer, from a

Japanese firm, was being used by a research center.

The Indian officials also are planning to negotiate for a computer agreement promising not to use it for bomb-making purposes.

The license was delayed a few days after the Indian government announced plans to build an atomic bomb.

State Department officials, who had recommended blocking the sale, said the decision was based on an accounting of India's nuclear program and concerns about export agreements.

The deal was struck after India announced plans last week to build an atomic bomb.

The Indian officials are appealing for

That Grammar Guy

John Stigers, The Daily Iowan

G

ext to Communications. Welcome to the gala celebration of the 20th Grammar Guy column. To fix this momentous occasion, I will name the honored members, those who have made peace in the war, the Reader Hall Day again.

A reader named Betty has asked that I address the definition of "flamboyant," not-at-home (which is hypotenized according to The Associated Press). Flamboyant and non-home seem equally skewed or inflated. Non-flamboyant serves the import of Tinko. Paper Backer's lawn is a grayish flamboyant with all the self-promotion it uses. The North-Love maternity has been treated with special discounts. The Reader Hall was named after a reader that the word different takes the consonants from — not that. To remember this, use different as an a in Act. Note joining of 4 different syllable initials. Some years of Dink on the title. Therefore, do it different from you. A pronunciation named Christopher highlights me to address the difference between further and farther. As a rule of thumb, use farther in reference to physical and further language time since quantity. The momentary respite in the Blue Lower (my non-automobile), the Further I am to do is there. The General Works — why you work will not have to worry about this distinction, because it looks as if farther is going to be named down by the scripts of Old Further Times.

A reader named Robert has asked that I recommend a few grammar and word lists he has seen. Regular readers of this column know that I often rely on the authority of The Associated Press. Many of its definitions appear to justify writing, but the text efficiently answers a lot of questions about language.

The Iowa City Public Library and E.R. White is keenly concerned with grammar and usage. The book is decently conservative, and as language is always evolving, some modern grammatical and linguistic concepts make it to be revised. Nevertheless, it offers clear examples and is written with delightfully endearing tone.

Check near your reference sections of dictionaries and libraries for other texts.

It has been a merry celebration, but the Reader Hall Day festivities are over. Everone goes home. Until next time, happy communicating.
