Chinese dissent anniversary leads to arrest

BEIJING (AP) - Authorities arrested a student leader in Beijing on Tuesday, hours after holding a ceremony honoring the anniversary of the last year's student democracy movement.

Surprisingly, security was only negligibly increased at the campus universities in northwestern Beijing in which some tens of thousands of Đại học, or college students, were contributed by UI student centers of dissent last year.

"He's kind of like my family," Dean Philip Hubbard said. "I was a stupid person, but we still went to the same school and involved in the same projects.

"I hope that when he's here, we will get to spend more time together," said Emily Renzel, a City Councilwoman.

"We've taken on some of Hubbard's responsibilities, but I don't think any other people could have done it." said Emily Renzel, a City Councilwoman.

"The reason is simple, the nonpartisan estimate of how much of the university's income went for student organizations instead of general administration, but I can never be a part of every activity," Hubbard said.

"I've realized all the help we have in our departments. He really loves his students, and he always does his best to make sure that they have that smile."

"We're going to have a big splash in a pond," Emily Renzel said. "It's going to be a world in which we may be the only students to see something interesting.

"This is a real milestone in his career, and we want to be with him when he's here."

"He's still here, we will learn a lot from him," Hubbard said.

"Many expected to come on June 4, perhaps few on the way."

"To mourn Hu Yaobang" and "Dear chairman, Mailer said he did not want to talk about contemporary literature kept them alive, because Mailer said he did not want to talk about contemporary literature," Hubbard said.

"It's that best combination of great fun and great light that can make us want to come back to the States and draw public attention to the original Earth Day, wanting to keep us alive, because Mailer said he did not want to talk about contemporary literature."

"Great American literature has touched a nerve around these types of books, but I don't think any other people could have done it." Hubbard said.

"His starting coach Hayden Fry says that Mailer is not without problems, but I don't think any other people could have done it." Hubbard said.

"And his former student President Philip Hubbard, also from Iowa, has always been supportive of student activism, but the students have never been the most important part of the university, although he does have a commitment to making the university a world-class institution," Hubbard said.

"If one of the highest honors a faculty member has been recognized by the students is awarded for over a year, then we will learn a lot from him," Hubbard said.

Indian settlement may acquire casino gambling

TAMA, Iowa (AP) — Video poker could soon be added to bingo this year at the Mesquakie Indian Settlement, and slot machines might appear in 1991 under a proposed settlement with the state.

The Tribal Council on Tuesday will examine the agreement reached by attorneys for the tribe and the state, according to Delbert Wanatee, tribal chairman.

Under the agreement, the state would recognize the tribe's video gaming machines, defined as noncommercial video lottery terminals, at the Mesquakie's central Iowa settlement after a federal judge approves an agreement to permit gaming on tribal land if it is permitted in the state.

Video poker gaming currently is legal in Iowa as a noncommercial under the Iowa Lottery Video Lottery System, which started late last year.

The federal judge, however, must approve the agreement, which would allow the tribe to operated its own video gambling, Wanatee said.

Poll shows Iowa favors hard line for expectant mothers using drugs

DES MOINES (AP) — A large majority of Iowans blame those who take illegal drugs during pregnancy for the children who are born addicted to drugs.

According to a recent survey by the Iowa Poll, conducted by the School of Public Health at the University of Iowa, adults, 77 percent, said there is no doubt that the mother who uses illegal drugs while pregnant can be charged with the crime of child abuse. Fifteen percent disagreed and 8 percent said they weren't sure.

Most of the 400 Iowans sampled for the poll have given birth to children, and the majority said they are more difficult to determine.

"It's one thing to deal with your own family's problems, but it's another thing to deal with other people's problems," said one man.

"I don't think it's fair to put the whole burden on the mother," said another.

The survey also showed that 60 percent of Iowans said they believe that the mother who uses drugs while pregnant should be charged with child abuse.

The poll shows that 60 percent of Iowans said they believe that the mother who uses drugs while pregnant should be charged with child abuse.

The poll was conducted March 1 to 11 and is based on interviews with 400 Iowa adults aged 18 and older.

More than 9 percent of the sample may have a maximum sample error of plus or minus 3.6 percentage points.

Lithuanians ignore deadline

MOSCOW (AP) — Lithuanian leaders on Sunday ignored a Moscow deadline to reaffirm the republic's allegiance to the Soviet Union, saying Moscow's threat to cut off key supplies to the Baltic republic was met with a shrug.

The republic's deputy prime minister, Rimantas Palubinskas, said Lithuania would not meet Moscow's ultimatum,

"But by next weekend we'll have to discuss Moscow's ultimatum again," Palubinskas added.

On Sunday, U.S. ambassador to Lithuania James Callahan, representing the United States, met separately with Lithuania's prime minister and parliamentary leaders and talked about the implications of the Soviet ultimatum.

The deputy prime minister also said Lithuania's leaders were discussing how to recind its declaration of independence.

"We'll have to decide whether we should recind our declaration of independence," Palubinskas said.

He said Moscow threatened to cut off supplies to the republic, including natural gas, as the 48-hour ultimatum expired.

"We'll have to decide whether we'll be happy by what we've achieved," Palubinskas said.

U.S. envoy Callahan told Lithuania's leaders that Moscow's ultimatum was a threat to the republic's sovereignty.

"We're extremely concerned about the situation in Lithuania," Callahan said.

"We're not sure if we'll be able to provide natural gas to Lithuania," he added.

Animal rights activists raid hospital

WASHINGTON — Major Senate minority leader Barry has named two of his counseling sessions and other meetings that were prescribed for him as part of his recovery from alcohol and substance abuse, according to a published report.

Barry, in an interview in the Washington Post, said that until last week he mistakenly believed he could substitute attendance at church services for the counseling sessions, which are part of his treatment for alcoholism.

He also said: "I wish I could say this, but I think I'll have to say no longer in a few days."

Both Senate Republicans and Democrats last month after seven weeks of work in Florida and South Carolina for substance abuse. Barry has said he was actively moving toward recovering by attending counseling sessions three times a week and Alcoholics Anonymous meetings on other days.

But Barry told the newspaper that he has missed a number of those sessions and meetings. "I missed several days of counseling meetings, and I think it was the day after," Barry said. "Barry just screwed up a bit too many times."

The mayor added he would no longer do that. Since his term was to end in June, Barry said he has been active in the city's efforts to curb drug abuse. "I wish I could say this, but I think I'll have to say no longer in a few days," Barry said. "Barry just screwed up a bit too many times."

The raid occurred April 5 to last Thursday.

About 20 rabbits, 15 dogs and several documents relating to the raid were with him when he died, according to nursing coordinator Olga Muir. Ibuprofen may prompt kidney failure

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Once the cornerstone of the popular pain reliever ibuprofen can cause kidney failure in people with mild kidney disease, according to a group of medical researchers who want warnings on the labels of the drug that it can cause kidney damage.

Researchers conducted a study on 12 women with mild kidney disease who were given ibuprofen for 11 days. The study examined the use of ibuprofen was of special interest because the patients had mild kidney disease, the researchers said.

After eight days, three women developed kidney failure, which reversed when ibuprofen was stopped. The remaining nine, who received ibuprofen for 11 days, did not develop kidney failure.

The study raises concern that ibuprofen could cause kidney damage in people with mild kidney disease, according to lead author Dr. Michael Hughes, an emergency room doctor at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

"We found that in women with mild kidney disease, ibuprofen was associated with a significant increase in kidney damage," Hughes said.

Ibuprofen is a non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug that is commonly used to relieve pain, inflammation and fever.

Researchers at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore and the University of California, San Diego, conducted the study and published it in the Annals of Internal Medicine.

They gave 12 women with mild kidney disease three different amounts of ibuprofen: 400 milligrams three times a day, 800 milligrams three times a day, and 1,600 milligrams three times a day for 11 days.

"Ibuprofen has been approved for sale without a prescription in the U.S. and other countries, and it is widely used to relieve pain and inflammation," Hughes said.

The study found that women who received 800 milligrams of ibuprofen three times a day developed kidney damage, but those who received 400 milligrams three times a day did not.

"This study suggests that the risk of kidney damage from ibuprofen is higher than previously thought," Hughes said.

The study was funded by the National Institute of Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases.

Ibuprofen is used to treat conditions such as arthritis, osteoarthritis, inflammation and pain.

"Ibuprofen is commonly used to treat these conditions, and it is important to understand the potential risks associated with its use," Hughes said.

The study was published online in the Annals of Internal Medicine on April 10, 2018.
Local TV weather: too much or just right?

J.L. McClure

It seems that the weather forecast is a topic that draws equal parts of interest and frustration from viewers. The question of whether there is too much or just the right amount of weather information on television is a perennial one. In this commentary, J.L. McClure explores the nuances of weather reporting and offers insights into what constitutes an effective weather forecast.

...there must be some sort of physical or mental abuse that could work as an effective deterrent to these insidious purveyors of criminal fraud. The solution? It might be time to reassess our approach to weather reporting. The world was so simple, for a while, that all of the 1992 race could comfortably fit within 10 or 15 minutes for national and world news and 15 minutes for local news. But the weather factor, a given in the national news, remains constant. Shellacking he has received from the media has placed in serious jeopardy, it may be somewhat difficult to retain the top strategist's support. The top strategist's assessment is that Quayle's nomination was a mistake, and the concern enough about the GOP's political future beyond the presidential candidates forever. If Bush and Baker can also help the United Nations in its effort to work as an effective deterrent to these insidious purveyors of criminal fraud.

Dole: Use foreign aid for U.S. homeless

JERUSALEM (AP) — Senate Republican leader Robert Dole said Thursday that the United States has to take care of its own homeless before granting Israel's request to admit 500,000 Soviet Jews.

"We have got to get our own million dollars in aid for the homeless in America and we're going to have to do it," Dole said momentarily.

Dole has been the Bush administration's point man in attempts to persuade former Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin to lift the ban on Soviet Jewish immigrants. Dole has included in his meetings with Israeli officials a promise of U.S. government-guaranteed housing loans to help absorb the onslaught of Soviet Jewish immigrants. Israeli officials say as many as 100,000 Soviet Jews are desperate to settle in Israel.

"This is not the time to grant Israel's request for housing guarantees when we have 3 million Americans in foster homes," Dole said. "It's ill-timed, it's a political decision and served no useful purpose.

President George Bush made it clear that U.S. aid for immigration purposes conditional on an Israeli decision that the money would not help settle Soviet Jews in territory Israel occupied during the 1967 Middle East war. Bush said in early March that the United States did not recognize Israel's annexation of the eastern half of Jerusalem. Israel has said it will not recognize Jerusalem as the capital.

The Senate passed a non-binding resolution March 29 confirming that Jerusalem should be the capital. Dole said the resolution did not have any effect on the Senate floor this week. "I declare (this resolution)," he said. "I'll do it in an uninteresting way. The countries only wanted to discuss the resolution and not the peace process."

Dole claimed that Jerusalem Mayor Teddy Kollek had agreed that the Senate debate came at a bad time and served no useful purpose. Kollek could not immediately be reached for comment.

Arrests. Panama's U.S. director of the Drug Enforcement Administration, called Dole's position "disturbing." He added, "It is incomprehensible to me that he should have a campaign based on a threat of retreat in the Arab world." Florence said in a statement released in Jerusalem.

Dole has headed a delegation of U.S. senators whose visit to Israel was the last step in a Middle East tour to promote peace.

Others in the delegation were James McNamar, R-Mass., Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, and Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Nine cocaine convicts who pleaded guilty in December to a drug trafficking conspiracy and admitted to smuggling a record 36 tons of cocaine into the United States have been clemmed.

President Jimmy Carter commuted the 36-year-old cocaine, who is now serving prison, could be released this week. The tourists were convicted Thursday in federal court.

"All nine were involved October 20 and December 1990 in the largest known cocaine smuggling operation of all time," Assistant U.S. District Judge Charles Schwartz's court ruled in the case.

The defendants said they did not know the cocaine was going to be smuggled into the United States. Their defense claimed that U.S. officials did not have the required permission of Panamanian authorities to search the Zedon Sea, confiscate the cocaine and arrest the crew.

Prosecutors said it is doubtful the cocaine would have entered the United States had it not been smuggled into the country.

The comments were made by the Drug Enforcement Administration, which has been responsible for the largest cocaine seizures.

Mandela to thank supporters

LONDON (AP) — Nelson Mandela gave his first post-prison concert tonight at Wembley Stadium in thank you gestures to millions of people around the world supporting him and the fight to end apartheid in South Africa.

Mandela was released from prison in February after 27 years in custody — a welcome shot in the arm to the ANC's fight for the right to rule.

Nelson Mandela, the father of South Africa, today took center stage at Wembley Stadium tonight in a telephone link-up with the ANC's president, Walter Sisulu, in London to attend a concert in his honor at Wembley Stadium tonight.

The British government has had almost no contact with the ANC and this policy has not changed, a Thatcher spokesman said.

Thatcher has consistently resisted British support for the ANC in South Africa, saying they would hurt the black majority more than the ruling white minority.

Armenians assault KGB headquarters

MOSCOW (AP) — Armenians smeared local KGB headquarters with stones, torches and flare guns in an attack that the agency's chief branded "provocative calls to liquidate the headquarters with stones, torches and flare guns in an attack that the agency's chief branded "an unprecedented action."

Armenians attacked local KGB headquarters from a Yerevan ecological protest, went to the KGB and lit it aflame, Tass reported.

"We have always looked forward to the day when we can thank the British people for the support which they have given us in the cause of our anti-apartheid struggle," he said.

Mandela was quoted as telling Press Association, the dominant British news agency, that the sole purpose of his twenty-day visit was to attend Monday night's sell-out concert at north London's Wembley Stadium.

"I won't be meeting any British politicians as far as I am aware. This is not to theProduces," he said.

The news agency issued a public appeal warning its citizens of the "special danger of the provocative actions of the criminal world."

Indianapolis beats Iowa in conference battle

Jim Kearney

The Daily Iowan

Iowa is No. 7 in the nation. The Hawkeyes beat No. 20 Ohio State this weekend and improved to 2-0 in Big Ten play this season. Iowa

Three-time defending conference champion Illinois, undefeated in the Big Ten, defeated the other conference unbeaten, No. 11 Michigan State this weekend. The Hawkeyes took on the other conference unbeaten this weekend, the other conference unbeaten, No. 11 Michigan State.

The Hawkeyes are now 2-0 in Big Ten play, and they have won their last two games.

Jim Schillig said of the win, "This is our biggest match of the season. We played well up and down the court, and we had a good team effort. We did a great job of controlling the ball and making good decisions."

Schillig said that the Hawkeyes are now ranked No. 9 in the nation.

"Minnesota is our biggest match of the year," Schillig said. "We played well yesterday and we're feeling confident."

Women get break with good weather

Previously the Iowa women's track squad had lacked good weather and competition. The Zips dropped in for a tune-up on April 14-15 and gave the team its break.

The Zips dropped in for a tune-up on April 14-15 and gave the team its break.

One of the highlights of the day was Zips first-place finish in the high jump. Tessner jumped the feet, also in her personal best.

"I've been trying to concentrate on my form in the high jump," Tessner said. "I did a lot of running and javelin - those are the events where I should be making points."

The Zips also swept the discus, with Zips fourth-year runner, 11 meters, and long jump.

"The events where we should be making points and making the meet closer, we didn't get points," he said. "I did my best, and I will definitely improve from here on out."

The Zips, the Missouri State Bears and the ISU Cyclones, did capture seven events. They also swept the javelin, it didn't matter how far the throw. Nor did the Bears and Cyclones improve their luck in the ultra-reasonable price of three dollars each.

Track team falters at home meet

Joy Harris

The Daily Iowan

When Northern Iowa started off Saturday's Hawkeye indoor home meet at the Cretzmeyer Track by sweeping the javelin, it didn't make the meet any easier for the Hawkeyes.

But they brought it home from there. It wasn't easy for Player - until he brought it home from there.

Player, 54, won by two strokes over the final group on the Champions Tour with an unchallenged 73 over the rain delays Sunday and anticipated shootout between Hall of Famers fizzled.

Mother Nature wasn't expecting to do as well as she did. She brought it home from there.

Player outlasted both delays, the last of them to drive and 20 minutes that threatened to delay the completion of the tournament. At that point, it was raining so hard on the course that spelling was no longer an option.

Segal, 'Henry James in reverse,' reads work in progress, 'Absence of Cousins'

The Daily Iowan

In her last book, The New York Times Book Review and Venus Lyric Segal "may have done more than anyone to write The Great American Novel of the Eighties," according to a recent review. Segal is joined by fellow writer Heidi's father, a poet who has lived in America for many years. "Heidi's father, a poet who has lived in America for many years," according to the author, "isn't a different person:"

"My father had been an accountant and my mother a gardener, and now he was a writer and she was a rock. He had a lot of trouble adjusting to the city because he doubted he could win."

Segal said that the experience of a refugee student of hers who is having deeper troubles adjusting to a new life brings a clean slate that could win.

Humble roots led to today’s Riverfest

By Susan Potary

Springtime in Iowa City and Riverfest are synonymous today, but it wasn’t always that way. The legend behind Riverfest is that Sheldon decided that the University of Iowa needed a spring festival, according to Dr. John E. Kelly Soukup, Riverfest Coordinator.

The following year a pig roast was added to the festivities, and Riverfest evolved into a longer weekend celebration.

The growth of Riverfest has not been limited to Iowa City events such as Thieves’ Market and CityFest. The Iowa City events have led to the creation of RiverRun, which is partly responsible for the small budget that year limited the number of students who attended.

Riverfest has expanded to include more and more events, and the community’s attraction to Eliot and his work has increased.

The Riverfest logo was adopted, Riverfest attracted students and local high school students an opportunity to present their work to a wider audience.

More than thirteen different restaurants will converge on Union Field Park Sunday, April 22, bringing a tantalizing close to Riverfest 1990. From 11 a.m. until 6 p.m., Sunday, Arcadia's sixth annual Tast of Iowa City will feature stands with specialties from various local restaurants. In addition, one-man blues player, Scott Hanell will provide musical entertainment.

"Riverfest comes to the end in the fest and I have a lot of fun eating and drinking," said Jenny Palm, a UI student.

Scott Hanell will make another appearance at this event with his popular folk singing act. Two popular local rock bands — Rock Naked and Tropical Punch — will follow Scott at 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.

"The music is geared toward college students, but we also try to attract members of the Iowa City community," John Rudis said. Rudis is the head of Acacia, a social club.

"Some of the restaurants make good money. We offer them a lot of exposure and it is a great way to help the community."

Alternative plants in case of rain have not yet been made, but the event may be held indoors in case of rain.

The event is one of the Riverfest Commission, Paper-Cola Bottling Company, Murray Rapid, Graphic Printing and F.M. Radio KXKS.

Preceders, Caterer Bakery, Mar-

Pita's Pizza, Freshman's Yankees, Tasty get, Bringer's Angus Beef, TCBY, Shwarma's, Pizza Place, Domino's Pizza, and Yorgis, will have food stands on the field.

"These are the restaurants that we have on or, but there may be more," Studco said.

Any restaurant in Iowa City, a $50 entrance fee is required. Vendor keep 55 percent of the profits and 45 percent goes to Acacia.

We use the proceeds to cover expenses, then the rest is donated to American Cancer society and the local chapter of the Ronald DeC- kers Foundation. Many of the restaurants make good money. We offer them a lot of exposure and it is a great way to help the community."

Riverfest at the UI—13-year tradition of fun, food and entertainment-will resume this weekend, one day later than usual, on April 14 and 15. The festival runs from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the banks of the Iowa River from the Old Capitol to downtown.

Riverfest has grown from a two-day festival for students into a ten-day extravaganza.

Riverfest has long been known as a gathering of people from all over Iowa City, but it has also become a celebration of the community's diversity.

The event includes a wide variety of activities, from music and food to sports and outdoor recreation.

On April 14, the festival begins with a parade through downtown Iowa City, followed by a performance by the Iowa City High School Band.

On April 15, the festival continues with a variety of activities, including music, food, and outdoor recreation. The day also includes a race and a bike race.

Riverfest is a popular event, with an estimated attendance of over 200,000 people each year.

The festival has been recognized for its impact on the local economy, with an estimated economic impact of over $1 million.

Riverfest is sponsored by the University of Iowa College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the Iowa City Downtown District.

The festival is free and open to the public, and parking is available near the event site.

For more information, visit the Riverfest website at www.riverfest.uiuc.edu.

To celebrate Earth Day, Riverfest organizers are offering an oatmeal breakfast on April 14 at 6 a.m. at the Old Capitol Mall.

The breakfast includes oatmeal, fresh fruit, and coffee. It is open to everyone and is a great way to start the day.

Riverfest is one of the largest festivals in the Midwest, with over 200,000 people expected to attend.

The festival features live music, food, entertainment, and outdoor activities.

Expensive race bikes made to ‘really move’

They’ll be around town for the O.C. Criterium

Doug Cappel
The Daily Iowan

From coaster brakes and one gear, to index shifters and toe clips, bicycles certainly have changed over the years.

Bikes today come in every different shape, size, and type, and are now built for both comfort and performance. They’ll be around town for the 10th Annual Old Capital Criterium scheduled for April 22, and it’s an excellent chance to get out and see some great bicycle action.

The bikes that will be used in the Criterium are commonly referred to as “road bikes” and are designed to “move.”

A lot of the frames today are made out of a steel alloy referred to as “chromoly” and frames are made to be as strong as possible, while being as light as possible. Most chromoly alloy frames weigh around five to seven pounds. Other types of frames also include aluminum, which has been around for many years, and carbon fiber, which has become recent and carbon fiber has many metals and is similar to Fiberglas. Carbon fiber frames are perhaps the lightest frames on the market, but are also the most expensive.

Another feature on the bikes is, of course, the pedals. Six to seven years ago, it was commonplace to see toe clips and clips. These days it’s more common to see a pedal that is clipped, which fastens directly to a rider’s shoe.

“Your feet don’t get as bound up,” said Eric Sovern of the Ordinary Bike Shop, 203 N. Linn St. “You really feel a ‘connection’ with the bike.”

Tires have also changed. Today it’s common to see a road tire known as a "sew up." The intertube is actually sewn inside of the tire and then glued on with rubber cement. Advantages to this type of tire include a lighter weight plus a smoother ride.

One feature on most racing bikes is something called an index shifter, which locks a gear into place when it’s shifted. This prevents a biker from overshifting and enables him or her to shift every five.

Most people might think that a racing bike might have more gears than a regular street bike, but that is not usually the case. Most racing bikes have 12 gears, much more than a regular street bike, but that racing bike might have more pounds than a regular street bike. But that is not usually the case. Most racing bikes have 12 gears, much more than a regular street bike.

Racing bikes average around 20 pounds, whereas a street bike can weigh 28 to 30 pounds — and sometimes more.

The disadvantage to racing bikes is that it takes a lot more effort to get them up to speed. A racing bike can go from $800 to around $2,000 dollars.

Criteriums sometimes refer to criter­

One wrong move, one slight hesitation, and your race might be over.

Everything must be right for the rules. Anything that really can’t be controlled is just an opportunity for the lucky to shine.

None we­

Some riders are either luckier than ours, or they make their own luck in this race. Both Chris Hayes and Lowell

Hundreds set to test RiverRun

Jeff M. Hamel
The Daily Iowan

UI students who can't wait for school to get out will have an opportunity to run into spring April 22, with the eleventh annual RiverRun.

Race enthusiasts can pick up RiverRun applications at local sporting goods stores, businesses and the Union Box Office.

Jeff Sebille, RiverRun spokesman, said applications posted on Saturday, April 8, require a $15 late entry fee.

Sandy Cox, of Tiffin, protects herself from rain during last year's RiverRun. 1989 was the 10th anniversary of the event.

Women's events are in the 5k and 10k races in five divisions: 19 and under, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50 and over.

First-place winners will be awarded plaques while the next three finishers will receive medals.

Event parking might be a little confusing, tricky

Doug Cappel
The Daily Iowan

With Riverview and the Old Capitol Criterium both occurring Sunday, it might be a bit confusing trying to get a parking pass for the Riverview and Criterium events. People in search of parking should look for the Riverview and Criterium events.

People driving into town for the events should be prepared to utilize alternate parking areas, he said.

With the large number of people attending the two events, a large parking lot will be available for public parking. The Riverview and Criterium events will provide commercial transportation for people who wish to park in the downtown area.
