Barry will not run for mayor of D.C. again

WASHINGTON (AP) - Mayor Marion Barry's spokesman has denied allegations by a woman that she was sexually assaulted by the mayor while he was in office. The spokesman said the woman's claims were "outrageous and totally unfounded." The mayor, a Democrat, has been under investigation for allegations of sexual misconduct since last year. The mayor has denied the allegations.

New sections of classes will also become available as a result of the additional faculty and more permanent, tenured-track positions, Aaltonen said. "We're trying to keep up with the increased number of students," he said. "We're not sure how many more classes we can offer, but we're trying our best." The university has announced that it plans to hire at least 30 new faculty members over the next five years.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A jury has convicted a prominent University of Iowa professor of criminal slander and invasion of privacy. The verdict was announced Wednesday in the trial of associate professor Gerhard Loewenberg, who was accused of making false statements about a faculty member in his department.

The verdict came after a week-long trial that featured testimony from witnesses and evidence presented by both sides. The defense argued that Loewenberg's statements were protected by academic freedom, but the prosecution argued that they were false and malicious.

The decision came after two weeks of testimony and cross-examination. The trial was held in front of Judge Thomas Penfield Jay and a jury of six men and two women. The jury deliberated for approximately six hours before reaching its verdict.

Barry has pleaded innocent to all charges and will not run for mayor of D.C. again. He said in a statement that he is "looking forward to focusing on my family and my work as a private citizen." He added that he will continue to "support the needs of the city's residents and to work to improve the quality of life for all its citizens."

Pancake feast benefits AIDS patients

By John Crewe

The Daily Iowan

Public misrepresentations and false statements by state and city officials have altered the course of events concerning the Iowa City Employee and Volunteer Pension Plan.

But now they have a buddy.

The Iowa City for AIDS/HIV Resources and Education (ICARE) Program, under the direction of Kevin Taylor, has created a program aimed at matching people who have AIDS with volunteers, among other things.

"Our volunteers may provide emotional or practical support which may include transportation, grocery shopping, cooking and personal shopping or medical transportation," Scheetz said.

Scheetz said the level of interaction varies from one volunteer to another but those who have AIDS are generally interested in living as comfortably as possible.

Branstad wants flag amendment

The Associated Press

In honor of Flag Day today, Gov. Terry Branstad has signed into law a bill that prohibits any state official from issuing a presidential pardon to any convicted person without the state Senate and House voting on the amendment.

"This is a local issue," said Sen. Tom Draxler, a Republican from Dubuque, who co-sponsored the bill. "We want to have the rights of the state and the local community to pass their own laws and regulations." The measure passed both chambers of the Iowa Legislature with overwhelming majorities.

ICARE and New Pioneer Co-op will sponsor an pancake breakfast from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Monday, June 17, at the New Pioneer Co-op, 312 3rd St. in Iowa City.

Branstad also made public his tax return, which shows he and his wife, Lynne, have Barry and the budget for the fiscal year.

"Our state needs a budget," Branstad said. "We need to get our financial house in order and get on the right track." The governor's tax return shows he has a net worth of $3.2 million, which includes a home valued at $1.6 million in Iowa City and a farm valued at $1.1 million in Dubuque County.

AIDS Awareness Week

The University of Iowa AIDS Awareness Week begins Monday, with a theme day of events stretching through the week.

"This week is an opportunity to shine a light on those who are affected," said Dr. Robert Johnson, director of the university's HIV/AIDS Prevention and Education Program. "It's an opportunity to educate ourselves." The week is organized by the University of Iowa AIDS Awareness Committee.

Iowa has approved a new law that bars police from entering someone's home without a warrant if there is evidence of a crime.

The bill was signed into law by Gov. Terry Branstad, who said it was a "wise and necessary" measure.

The new law makes it harder for police to search a home without a warrant and requires them to obtain a warrant from a judge before entering.

"This is a good law," saidRep. Tim Duff, D-Des Moines, who sponsored the bill. "It makes it harder for police to get into homes without a warrant."

The new law takes effect on July 1.

Top businessmen often return to work to brush up on their skills, as former Russian executives Oleg Terekhin and Vladimir Apalkov found.

Terekhin, that's only part of what they were doing here.

The two Soviets said they feel that Americans are level-headed, and that they like the way people treat each other.

Terekhin added that he has enjoyed the American sense of humor.

"The accuracies of news reports in both countries seems to have greatly improved. There is less concentration on the negative aspects of the other country," said Terekhin.

Oleg Terekhin

A recent survey asked UI Business School participants what they gained from the program.

The educational program lasts two weeks, but Terekhin and Apalkov have been in Eastern Iowa for a month visiting local farms and factories, hoping to learn about market economies.

Tiny Lights musicality refreshing

By John Konyes
The Daily Iowan

Some might consider Tiny Lights ' latest outing, "Size of My Own," to be a pale reflection of its previous work. But the group's latest release demonstrates its growth as a cohesive unit and its ability to craft engaging, emotionally resonant music.

The album features a variety of styles and sounds, from introspective ballads to up-tempo dance tracks. The result is a cohesive and well-rounded album that showcases the group's musicality and versatility.

The lead single, "I Meant It," is a perfect example of the group's ability to create a catchy hook that is both memorable and emotionally resonant. The song's melody is catchy and its lyrics are thought-provoking, making it a standout track on the album.

Overall, "Size of My Own" is a refreshing and engaging album that is sure to please fans of Tiny Lights and music lovers alike. The group's musicality and creativity make for a compelling listening experience, and it will be interesting to see where they take their music in the future.

Bijou runs noir classic "Chinatown"

By William Brimley
The Daily Iowan

T he Silver Screen presents "Chinatown," directed by Roman Polanski, one of the genre's most iconic films. It is a story of corruption, power and sex, set in the smoky, seedy Chinatown of Los Angeles in the 1940s.

Nat Wright, a private eye, is hired to investigate a mysterious hit man, Basin Street (played by Sterling Hayden). Wright's investigation leads him to a web of corruption and deceit, ultimately uncovering the truth behind the man's disappearance.

The film's noir atmosphere is enhanced by the score, composed by Mikael Silvas. The score features a mix of jazz and classical influences, creating a moody and atmospheric backdrop for the film's proceedings.

Flag-burning unfuels

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Republican senators pushed a constitutional amendment against flag-burning past the first congressional hurdle on Wednesday, just two days after the Supreme Court threw out the federal flag-protection law.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., complained, "It's unsavory that we're rushing to judgment" on the flag-burning amendment. whipped through the House Constitutional and Civil Rights Subcommittee.

Supporters of the amendment called it a "symbol" of "that" which Americans respect and cherish.

"It's our right to burn the flag," said Sen. Rob-ert Byrd, D-W. Va., "but the amendment would prevent us from doing it with impunity."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kremlin on Wednesday vowed to ease the economic embargo on Lithuania that Moscow has imposed to force the republic to drop its drive for independence. The Soviet government said it would allow Lithuania to resume trade with the West and would not object if the republic testifies to the UN Security Council that the embargo had failed to achieve its purpose.

The statement, which came two days after Lithuania's president, Ruslan Pliusiniene, met with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze in Moscow, was seen as a sign that the Kremlin was willing to tolerate the republic's efforts to seek closer relations with the West.

"We welcome this announcement. Together with the beginning of the dialogue yesterday, these are positive steps," Lithuanian Foreign Minister Algirdas Brazauskas said.

The Soviet statement followed a Polish initiative to start talks with the Kremlin on an alternative to the economic embargo. It was also seen as a move to reduce tensions in the region after a series of incidents that had raised fears of a military showdown.

The Soviet government said it would permit the republic to resume trade with the West and allow the republic to send journalists to the UN Security Council to present its case.

"We have been in contact with the Lithuanian government," Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Andrey Karlov said.

The republic's leaders have been trying to avoid a confrontation by seeking a peaceful resolution to the conflict. They have been calling for a "dialogue" with the Kremlin, but the Soviet government has been insisting on a "solution" that includes the republic's dropping of its drive for independence.

Lithuania's leaders have been demanding an end to the embargo and have been negotiating with Western countries to try to find a solution.

The Soviet statement said that the republic would "not be pressed" to make any "unilateral concessions" but would be allowed to present its case to the UN Security Council.

"We will continue to work on the issue," Lithuanian Foreign Minister Algirdas Brazauskas said.

Durenberger sorry for breaking rules

WASHINGTON — Sen. Dave Durenberger apologized Wednesday to his colleagues and media for the "baggage" controversy that has swirled around him, saying he's "ashamed" and it's "time to get on with it."

"I'm very ashamed of the part I played in this," he said. "I'm very ashamed of the way I handled it. It was wrong and it's over."

Durenberger, speaking softly in a Senate chamber packed with fellow senators, said his remarks about "liberal baggage" were wrong and "should not have been made."

"We're going to have to deal with the consequences of that," he said. "It will not be forgotten, but it will be put in its proper context and we'll move on with our business."
There is not a great deal of dispute about the facts. There’s of the ongoing exchange between the obviously a great deal of dispute about what those facts mean.

As Angels is three hits over average hitting Houston to a .515 victory Wednesday night, and the streak of the season is six. The Detroit Tiger, however, ended the streak in 16 games, including three straight for the Astros.

Scott (4-6), making his first start since striking out 13 batters on May 1, was pulled after seven and a third innings. He gave up six runs, two earned, in the loss. Torey Kruger, 1-5, gave up five runs in 5 2/3 innings of work, but the loss was charged to starter Roy Sievers, who gave up six runs in four innings of work.

As Angels hit five home runs in the game, including a three-run homer by Alex Johnson, who had a hit earlier in the game. Johnson's home run came in the fourth inning, giving him four hits in the game. The other four home runs were hit by Jeff Burroughs, Nellie Fox, Bill Melton, and Jose Canseco.

In the National League, the Atlanta Braves defeated the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, in 10 innings. In the ninth inning, the Cubs had a chance to win, but the Braves' pitcher, Mark Langston, got the last out to force extra innings. In the 10th inning, the Braves scored the winning run on a two-out single by National League MVP, Dave Winfield. Winfield is the third player in history to win the MVP award in both the American and National Leagues. The other two players are Barry Bonds (1990, 1991) and Mike Schmidt (1972, 1976).

In the American League, the New York Yankees defeated the Boston Red Sox, 2-1, in 13 innings. Blazers down 3-1 to Pistons in NBA Finals

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Beating the Trail Blazers three consecutive times in Portland after winning the opening two consecutive NBA titles, the Detroit Pistons can do both with one more victory.

Isiah Thomas made a championship celebration Thursday night a possibility in a building where the Blazers own a 17-1 record by winning two consecutive NBA titles.

When the Blazers pushed Thomas twice to the brink of tears — once after making the halftime score 60-48, and again after winning the game at 64-62 — the Blazers would not let up until one more victory.

But when you do that, you think you can overcome anything on your own.

The Blazers have pushed the Pistons five times in the finals — a win over the Blazers scoring only about the NBA franchise in win more games. The Blazers were never in it, but they were the only franchise in win more than 40% at the end.

The Blazers had the Pistons early.

They were 111-101, with 15 seconds left in the first half, with the ball in their hands. The Blazers had scored 37 points, with 14 seconds left in the first half, with the ball in their hands.
