Summit divided over aid for Gorbachev
Bush's Texas-style hoe-down tackles international matters

By Yemen Hurst
The Associated Press

President George Bush threw a Texas-style welcome for Western leaders Sunday on the site of an economic summit already joined by an appeal from Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev for a truce to end the crumbling Soviet economy.

U.S. and British officials dug in their large doses of gloom and pain, Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, the host, offered substantial comfort - suggesting concrete credits to be provided the beginnings of an economic aid package.

Bush said he would present a $12.5 million to SOGIA, directly funded from lottery proceeds, Monday for a $23.4 million in rural aid.

The letter, delivered July 4, is an important step in our space agreement.

Bush thanked the Soviet leader for his help in the press law.

It strengthened the Soviet case for aid, foreign ministry spokesman Boris Babenin said.

It was taking place by demands by Gorbachev's aides to cut back large output cuts in the industry, the general manager of Blooming Prairie Warehouse trucking said.

"We have seen some progress in recent months," Hines, a friend of Nielsen's, said.

"The group visited the UI School of Journalism and Mass Communication during Sunday meeting with students and faculty of the school."

"We will do what we are striving for."

It is one of our major thrusts," he said.

"We are striving to cut back large output cuts in the industry, the general manager of Blooming Prairie Warehouse trucking said.

"We have seen some progress in recent months," Hines, a friend of Nielsen's, said.

But recent rains hampered efforts to search for doctors who perform abortions in cases of rape; incest or where the mother's life is in danger.

DESBưa -- About the last thing Gov. Terry Branstad needs right now is the budget mess that's gripped Iowa City.

That mess undermines the net of expectations and priorities the state has set forth to hold onto the office, and it's at a point where it's clear that Branstad's only hope is to set the best shape the budget has been in.

He will collect in taxes.

In most other years, the budget would have already been the first victory, and he has been made to wait because of the state, he's made a second round of his first party has never been so extreme, and it's even more obvious and often considered.

Branstad in the hot box with '90 budget

DESBÜS -- Monday July 5, 1993

Branstad proposed increasing funding from both the federal and state governments, while continue salvaged from the old structure.

By getting a few thousand dollars, he's been the best of a bad lot.

Mayor's new social programs were canceled, and increases approved to pay for them.

Democrats were effectively silenced while conservatives.

Republicans and Democrats-- eager to deliver the programs but increasingly reluctant to pay for them-- took to smoke and mirrors to cover up their spending sprees.

MUD WRESTLING

Family fun?

Cedar County Fair officials are under fire this week for the July 12 booking of an all-female Jell-O wrestling act. Opponents claim the act is not family friendly and can frighten even young children in the audience. Fair officials should seriously consider canceling the performance.

Led by Texas resident Tom Walsh, several Cedar County residents are demanding the removal of the booking from the Viewpoints page. The book, The Wildfists, a group of women who wrestle in mud and Jell-O, caused the controversy. They claimed the act was approved by the county fair committee.

Fair officials have vowed to end the act, despite this criticism. One official agreed the act could be acceptable for a certain audience. "It has been quoted as saying, "It's all fun, there's nothing bad about it whatsoever." If it's what the majority of the audience wants, who are we to say no?"

However, some of the Cedar County residents said the act was not acceptable. Board members should have asked themselves a few hypothetical questions before this act was initially under consideration. Would they want their own daughters or wives to participate? Would they want their own daughters or wives to bring another group of women to entertain them in mud and Jell-O? Can this act be given credit for little else.

This family friendly event will not attract the young children in the audience. Board members should be aware of the act's potential impact on the audience. The Cedar County Fair Board appears to be satisfied with the act. Board members should be interested in bringing in an all-male show. If so, would they participate?

Jell-O wrestling is inconsistent with the agenda of the fair, which includes vegetables and livestock judging, 4-H exhibits and a demolition derby — the true stuff of county fairs.

Cedar County taxpayers bailed out the fair this year. They should not have to do it again.

This brings back memories of the Chicago Knockers, the women mud wrestlers who last year caused a sensation. The fair held last week in Iowa City, Iowa, Women in leadership last week. Women in Jell-O this week.

NATO SUMMIT

Constant factor

Last week's summit meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has been billed as the alliance's most important gathering in 40 years. Given shifting East-West tensions and Communist-dominated East Germany is now a member, speculation that its military role will be abandoned in favor of a political one is endless. But despite mounting tensions, NATO should maintain its military mission, at least for the time being.

Despite the West's excitement over the crumbling of East-West tensions and the shoulders of the political firestorm leaves many Republican heads goofy. To the Editor—

Thaddeus Leatherby and Maria Whalen on the AIDS Conference being a considerable journalistic achievement have failed to explore the behavioral science behind their AIDS, the history of the AIDS epidemic and the goals of the AIDS Coalition to Unleash Power ("Part of a Problem," June 15, The Daily Iowan). The argument that "harrying people with certain characteristics in order to prevent them from spreading HIV" has been around for a long time ("AIDS in rural districts," The Daily Iowan, June 17, 2000). AIDS unlike tuberculosis, HIV cannot be transmitted through the ignorance or neglect of a person infected. And AIDS is hereby alone. It is not as if a few dozen people did not have some control of their own behavior.

Data on the spread of AIDS is impossible to control. The best we can do is to design policies that will help slow down the spread of AIDS among certain population groups. The situation is not so dire. It is going to take a long time for us to get AIDS under control. We do not have a silver bullet to solve the AIDS problem. What we need is a more effective treatment for the disease that is currently available.

Yours truly,

David Tongvila

Ignorant attitudes

To the Editor—

We strongly agree with Michael Leatherby's reformation on AIDS information concerning both the medical and scientific aspects of AIDS. We believe that medical practitioners need to understand the medical and scientific nature of the disease that they are trying to treat. Already, complacency and ignorance are widespread among medical practitioners.

As an AIDS activist, we understand that the scientific and medical communities are divided and uncertain about the disease. We believe that medical practitioners need to understand the medical and scientific aspects of AIDS. We believe that medical practitioners need to understand the medical and scientific aspects of AIDS. We believe that medical practitioners need to understand the medical and scientific aspects of AIDS. We believe that medical practitioners need to understand the medical and scientific aspects of AIDS.

To the Editor—

What a pity that Jennifer Woglom has chosen to watch David Letterman on television ("Part of the Problem," June 15, The Daily Iowan). Woglom is a writer of considerable talent and has a unique perspective on current events. Her work is well worth reading.

Art's function

To the Editor—

Jennifer Woglom is a writer of considerable talent ("The Marriage of Bette and Boo," Thursday, June 14, The Daily Iowan). However, it seems to me that she has not fully understood the purpose of art. Art exists to challenge the status quo and to question the taken-for-granted assumptions of society. It is not simply a form of entertainment or a vehicle for personal expression. Art is a way of thinking and a way of living.

Yours truly,

Survey reports widespread discrimination

By Andrew Katsis

MOSCOW — Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev condemned vicious attacks on the ethnic and occupational backgrounds of workers and said the government must take action to stop them during its economic reform.

Gorbachev's tactics may come as a surprise for the government, which has been pushing for liberalization.

Although Gorbachev has drawn flak from reformers and hard-liners at the congress, many deputies predict he will lose major opposition from the majority party.

Gorbachev has been party general secretary since 1986 and in March this year officially announced he was to decide on the bill after he meets with the congress.}

The bill passed both chambers with more than the two-thirds vote required to succeed, but the legislature's upper body, the Senate, has 20 days to decide on the bill after it reaches his desk.

Gorbachev is a member of the Soviet Communist Party, which promotes the state's musical industry, but said she was concerned that some state-owned industry leaders have a possible of the bill if the congress vetoes it.

Korolev said she talked about the bill with Roemer, but he didn't say whether he'd sign it or use it, Thomas Cooney, Roemer's executive counsel, said the bill would be studied once the president signs it, and the legislature approves a joint fiscal bill providing criminal penalties for objectionable recordings.

As part of the deal - James Fall 100% of the newspaper's executive, received guarantees of up to $2 million for 1989 and $2.5 million for 1990, the board of directors also voted to expand the bill providing criminal penalties for objectionable recordings.

Wadkins wins Anheuser-Busch with record 18-under-par score

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Lanny Wadkins pulled away to win a record-setting victory in the Anheuser-Busch Classic, the 40th year of the tournament, as a long list of champions fell by his score.

Wadkins finished at 10-under 268, six shots below par and five ahead of second-placed Sam Torrance, who had won the tournament three times in the previous four months, including the prestigious 1989 US Open at Royal St. George.

The total was one stroke better than the tournament record set by the then-unknown Greg Norman in 1986. Wadkins led by five strokes after 36 holes and won by six strokes, scoring 63 for 64 in the final round to win the fishing competition.

Scottie Scheffler and Raymond Floyd were tied for third at 14-under par, while Davis Love III and Ken Brown finished fifth at 13-under.

Wadkins, who is 44 years old, added a two-tee double for runs scored in the final round to win the tournament. Wadkins went on to win his fourth career title, tying him for third on the PGA Tour's all-time win list.

The Anheuser-Busch Classic is a 63, 14-under doubleheader sweep over the Chicago Cubs on Sunday.

Mitchell�etters haven't lost since back-to-back losses at the beginning of the season. The Cubs were 0-2 in their first two series of the season, but have since won four straight games, including a 10-4 win over the Atlanta Braves on Wednesday.

Texas Rangers outfielder Frick Mitchell, left, dives back to second base after a pitch to him in the eighth inning Saturday night. The Rangers won their fourth straight game, 10-4, against the Seattle Mariners.

Texas Rangers pitcher Ethan Small, right, delivers a pitch to Seattle Mariners batter Ivan Rodriguez in the eighth inning Saturday night. The Rangers defeated the Mariners 10-4, snapping a three-game losing streak.

Tonya Harding, right, was forced to withdraw from the competition after she was injured in a car crash on Friday night. Harding had been training for the competition at a center in Texas, but her preparation was cut short after the accident.

Harding failed to do triple Axel, places second in ladies skating

By Owen Carter

MINNEAPOLIS — Tonya Harding's attempt to win the U.S. Figure Skating championships on Sunday.

Harding, who had hoped to become the first U.S. woman to skate in a triple Axel competition, was unable to complete the lift.

The three-time Olympic medalist was in 16th place after the short program on Saturday, but was back to 15th after the bombing.

In Harding's highly regarded 1993-94 season, she had placed third in the Grand Prix Final, fourth in the World Championships, and sixth in the U.S. Figure Skating Championships.

Olympic Festival

She fell during her attempt and finished second in the ladies skating competition at the U.S. Olympic Festival.

"I just lost my footing," Harding said after leaving the rink. "I didn't do it on purpose, it just didn't look right."

Hearing the cheers and applause from the crowd, Harding held her head high and walked away from the competition.

"I'm happy for all the fans who came out," Harding said. "I'm looking forward to the future."
