Fujimori fires heads of Peruvian military

By Monte Hayes

The Associated Press

Manila, Philippines - Alberto Fujimori, Peru's embattled president, fired the commander of the navy and defense minister on Monday, hours after he was sworn in for a new term.

The moves were widely seen as an attempt by Fujimori to begin his second presidential term without political constraints.

Sunday's election was marred by allegations of fraud and violence. Fujimori's chief rival, Alejandro Toledo of the National Alliance, has refused to accept the result.

Fujimori, who had been under siege by protesters for two weeks, was dependent on the military and the navy to suppress the unrest.

The moves were aimed at keeping the military's support, which had been wavering, and clearing the way for Fujimori to begin his term in peace.

International bankers convicted

BY James Martinez

The Associated Press

The trial of the world's largest international bank began Tuesday on charges of rigging foreign exchange rates, a case that could undermine the prestige of the New York-based bank.

The case, known as the "foreign exchange cartel," involves allegations that UBS AG, Switzerland's biggest bank, colluded with other banks to操纵 foreign exchange rates.

The prosecution is seeking to show that the bank and its executives conspired to fix exchange rates in a way that benefited UBS at the expense of other banks.

The trial is expected to last several months and could result in hefty fines for UBS and its executives.

Kenya native Kogo wins car, $5,000 in Bix 7 race

The Associated Press

Davenport — Distance runner Steve Kogo is the proud owner of a new car. All he had to do in a span of 10 days was win the 5K and 10K races at the Quad City Times Bix 7 road race on Saturday. He ran the 5K in 15 minutes, 26.7 seconds, and then won the 10K in 31 minutes, 57.8 seconds.

"I feel so happy for the new single lady to drive in her own car," said Kogo, who has only a learner's permit. "I've never owned a car. Never had a race medal." Kogo, 21, is a native of Kenya who now lives in Boulder, Colo. He had flown here months ago with the Pacific Bix 7 to train, and then returned to the city in late July, just in time to finish the race. His time was the sixth fastest in Bix history.

"He was great to have around our place for his second straight third-place finish," Dennis Corwin, who had won the Cascade Sun Run in Portland, Ore., and the Panhandle Classic, was three times behind Kogo. "He's a better runner than you'd think!"

Youths play for ‘fun’, not money

As they were second baseman Thad. Brubaker, the Panthers took the position of hitting at his work in Phillips Park. The game was noteworthy taking part in a 55-year-old American tradition.

Like the rest of the 2.5 million other ballplayers in 7,000 other leagues worldwide, Brubaker participated in the right night. Because of the various leagues in each team, the amateurs have a better chance to develop talent.

The Sunday evening, Long-Ten games have been very successful - despite a myriad of teams.

As The New York Journalist at Minneapolis wrote in a May 1966 article, Little League has found the problems of a decreasing population of children, and the threat of competing activities, and it has acknowledged the interest of the new and the old and the old for their own teams.

Little League has not seen some of these challenges. After the first summer season, the only major concern - due to a large part to the atmosphere - was that City youth clubs have seen in their department.

This summer, for instance, Iowa City Little League has organized games against the Iowa City Little League, and it has acknowledged the interest of the new and the old and the old for their own teams.

Lohaus, Skinner lead teams to Prime Time League finals

By Brian Gaul

The Prime Time summer basketball league isn’t known for defensive intensity. At least, not during the regular season. And that means there’s always room for improvement.

For one player, that means doing something right.

In the past, everyone wanted to score, and now, everyone wants to play defense. Former Hawkeyes and current Milwaukee Bucks head coach Larry Bird, who scored 36 points and knocked down five three-pointers in his Bucks’ win over the Sunday night, said his defense is what we come out here to learn.

That’s the nature of human beings, he continued. “That’s what you come out here for.”

And that’s where defense comes in.

Bartlett Giamatti, who departed to the Milwaukee Bucks for the 1983-84 season, has met some of these challenges.

After several years of declining attendance, the league has rebounded after the 1981-82 season.

T-ball for six and 7-12 year olds.

As a former player himself, Giamatti has seen the challenges faced by teams and their players.

He has been a long-time player, and he’s also been a longtime observant. And he’s seen how well teams and their players have improved.

But like its major league counterparts, Little League baseball has survived - in part because of the emphasis on fun and the opportunities for people to learn and grow.
