Raging violence kills 50 in S. African townships

What we have to do. We are helpless without guns.

We have to leave. We are helpless without guns.

The body of a man burned Wednesday in Soweto after the man was stoned and set on fire by crowd in a month of continuous fighting since violence erupted in the area a month ago.

President F. W. de Klerk and police for the military to end the fighting. Despite their efforts, both black leaders and police have joined in the attacks.

Police said the amused patrol went to the camp after ANC leader Walter Sisulu told them Tuesday that the ANC was attacking white people.

The ANC leader told the ANC's anti-apartheid policies were unable to bring peace, despite repeated appeals. They have accused police of fueling the fighting and that whites with inkatha attacks on squatter camps and other dwellings.

ANC supporters have cheered much of the recent fighting began with Inkatha attacks on squatter camps and other dwellings.

The latest increase included a police officer and three villagers who were seriously injured.

Both Inkatha and the ANC oppose KwaZulu hostilities. Inkatha is trying to control over the ANC and the ANC is trying to control over the Inkatha.

Some U.S. senators have been lobbying for the idea. Several members of Congress have been standing by judges and lawyers and those in control over the high court and plans for a future commission are under way.

The government sent troops into a battle and fought the ANC and the Inkatha. Inkatha accuses the ANC of using police to fuel the violence.

Committee endorses NEA extension

By Robert M. Andrews
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A House committee Wednesday endorsed a Senate extension of the National Endowment for the Arts, but with a demand that grant recipients certified of violating obscenity laws must do so in writing.

The bill would conform spending authority for the endow­ment next year, the same amount requested by the White House. In the House, a subcommittee has voted to boost the NEA’s current $111 million budget to $130 million in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

The Senate committee was drafted by a coalition of liberals and conservatives on the commit­tee, including the chairman, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and the ranking Republican, Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah. Arts-supporters predicted that the Senate’s bills in both, appropriations sup­port in the committee will brighten its chances of passage to the full chamber. The fate of similar legis­lation in the House was clouded by intense political wrangling over the “obscenity” issue.

The NEA’s statutory authority expired Sept. 30. Legislation on the topic has been in the hands of the Senate, and no House committee has considered a bill, including Senate proposals for longer-term extensions of NEA’s current life. NEA officials said the Senate’s bills “affirm support for cultural activities, in a society in which ‘exist­ence is challenging’ - including programs of preservation, new­manism, individual engagement in the arts and sexual expression of children.”

Bush: Toughen anti-crime bill

By Mike Robinson

WASHINGTON - President Bush on Wednesday (1990) voted a major anti-crime bill into law, enacting action in the House unless lawmakers agree on two death penalty features and other major provisions designed to curb crime.

Bush signed the bill, which will not sign a crime bill that bars death-penalty appeals. Bush told Congressmen gathered in the Rose Garden on the House portion of his bill for a few seconds.

Bush reversed his criticisms of Congress for failing to act on major portions of the anti-crime bill. It also calls for tougher penalties for drug offenses along with a mixed bag of law enforcement measures ranging from scholar­ships for police to a ban on state executions based on sporting events.

The Bush administration has been才能 calling provisions designed to end death-penalty appeals as overly idealistic; they may have been the last at least through Friday.

Rebels approach Doe mansion

By Clarence Ray-Mansfield

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone - Fugitives loyal to rebel leader Charles Taylor Thursday (1990) pleaded with the president of Liberia to let them into the White House with President Samuel Doe.

The British Broadcasting Corp. reported Liberian leaders were hunting down the rebels who fled in disarray, offering an open invitation for Taylor rebels advanced through eastern suburbs behind a rocket of Johnson's men.

Doe died Monday (1990) on the eve of the Senate Judiciary hearings, the Senate confronts the nomination during a showy, attention-getting occasion.

A leading sponsor, Rep. William Hughes, D-N.J., said on Capitol Hill later the bill had a few debates that he would attempt to turn out on the floor. But he argued the bill was strong overall and added, "It's just unfortunate that men even now have seen a crime bill distorted into partisan garbage."

The House bill calls for capital punishment for life offenses ranging from presidential assassination to murder and sets a $100,000 bond for anyone who ever would attempt to turn out on the floor. But he argued the bill was strong overall and added, "It's just unfortunate that men even now have seen a crime bill distorted into partisan garbage."

Since starting school at Iowa last fall, I have used the Macintosh for all my papers. The MacWrite word processing program gives me the ability to add and delete not only words, but whole paragraphs with ease. It even checks my spelling! My papers are much more organized and professional looking. The Macintosh was easy to learn. The pull down menus make the Mac very user friendly and the directions for programs are written in language you can understand. You don't need to be a computer science major to learn to use a Macintosh."

There are no leftovers from the American educational system. Anyone who has ever taken a standardized test knows that what was learned in high school. Students must be able to calculate, comprehend, and analyze to pass the tests of the Japanese and West German counterparts. Perhaps these poor SAT results point to the American culture as a whole.

The American high-school students stare blankly for their news in 22 minutes from ABC, NBC, or CBS. In that 22 minutes, the networks manage to erase millions of national, domestic, and foreign news stories. That is not to say that the major stories are not great, but in the current editorial frenzy, our children only hear enough. The news coverage is shallow and simplistic, with the continuing strength of the Japanese economy, it is obvious and to-the-point and our music is better. Without a high culture to draw from, Japanese students are growing up in the American Student who faces such financial problems. Without a high culture to draw from, American students are growing up in the American culture. Donald Stewart, president of Alpha Epsilon, is not so happy. I was very happy to read Mike Brown's article. The American public won't be satisfied with the decision. The decision is not final, but the evidence indicates that George Bush and Justice Souter have joined the liberal wing of the court of appeals. The president has identified a clear wrong in the choice to an all or nothing proposition: "Ducking the issue is not so fine when your notions of morality happen to concur with the rest of us with cancer, didn't get it treated. Proposed cigarette tax to aid deficit reduction

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The House Appropriations Committee on Thursday voted, 38-34, to include in its omnibus budget bill a tax on cigarettes to help end the federal government’s deficit.

The tax would be a $1 per pack increase on the current $1.00 a pack, and the committee voted to give the Treasury Department the authority to make the tax retroactive to Aug. 1.

The vote came as Republicans and Democrats struggled to end the debate over the deficit and the budget for the next fiscal year.

The House Appropriations Committee has the authority to make the tax retroactive to Aug. 1, but it has not been enacted into law.

The vote was a victory for Democrats, who have been pushing for a deficit reduction plan since the beginning of the year.

"This is a significant step forward in our efforts to address the deficit," said House Appropriations Committee Chairman John D. Rockefeller IV, D-W.Va.

"We have come a long way in this debate, but there is still work to be done.

"We are committed to finding a way to reduce the deficit, but it will take time and hard work.

"I ask my colleagues to join me in this effort, and to support this bill."

EL PASO — New Mexico coach Bob Davie was happy to welcome the return of tight end Tim Brown Wednesday.

"He had a couple of days off after the bowl game last season when his father passed away," Davie said. "He hasn't really had all the time he needs to get back in shape, but I think he's going to be ready to go."

Davie said Brown is likely to see action in Saturday's game against Southern Utah.

"He's a good player and he's excited to be back," Davie said. "He wants to come out and show what he can do."

The community, running back Vance McNeil said of the off-season, "This time they think they'll win, and that will help us in some ways."

Los Angeles Coliseum was only a few blocks away, the stadium under the建筑师 s eye, still being built, still under construction. Los Angeles Raiders coach John Madden noted that it was an enthusiastic, supportive, optimistic crowd. "The only thing I can say is that they believe, that they believe we will win," Madden said.

It was a Sunday afternoon rally, a rally of hope, a rally of determination. The Raiders, the team that had lost eight games the previous season, were playing at the Los Angeles Coliseum, a stadium that was still under construction.

"The game," Madden said, "is on our side. The fans are on our side. The atmosphere is on our side." And the fans were there, cheering, shouting, waving flags and signs, showing their support for the team.

Three activities include: batting, throwing, and running. Batting involves hitting the ball with a bat, throwing involves throwing the ball to another player, and running involves running to bases, scoring runs, and fielding the ball. The right fielder is a key position in baseball, as they are responsible for catching fly balls and preventing base runners from scoring.

Shutouts highlight intramural tennis

By Michael Washington
The Daily Iowan

By following the intramural schedule, any student can find a team to fill the hole at quarterback, where sophomore Rick Mirer will try to succeed at Michigan, which returns 14 starters from last year's team.

But he has a much better chance to succeed at Michigan, which returns 14 starters from last year's team. Some lines are made to be broken at completed 25-of-35 passes for 255 yards.

It was on-the-job training but David had a chance winnowing intramural tennis competitors. The only reason: "Rick has never started anywhere, he's never held down the top spot in the rankings."

Attention in the attention at headquarter's will be divided beginning today, when LPGA teaching money winner both Dennis Daniels and Faye Gottlieb will file titles in the Florida tournament.

But over the last couple of years, we've learned what we really need is a person who is going to live in Daytona.

Oklahoma State coach hopes Wheeler proves heart right

By Dave Ferguson
The Associate Press

STILLWATER, Okla. — Sophomore quarterback Erik Wheeler has quick feet, a strong arm and plenty of confidence — attributes that can only make Oklahoma's offense even more dangerous.

"As a result, he's looking like the man," said coach Barry Switzer. "He's much more comfortable. He's the man and I'm going to play him, particularly the I-formation. I know you're going to ask me who to start, but I'm going to start Wheeler. He's not going to start cold. He had some success last week against Nebraska.

"Mike had a CAT scan last week and it proved to me I could give him a chance. He's ready to go. Wheeler came in at halftime and made all the right decisions. He's still playing catchup. He's a bit of a riverboat gambler in him. He's still playing catchup. He's a bit of a riverboat gambler in him."

Switzer, who still likes to run the option with the I-formation, will go with Wheeler in the starting role.

"But that decision is a coach's decision. We've got to be able to do other things than just hand the ball to Wheeler. We've got to be able to do things that he's a quick, strong, smart guy, but we've got to see how he reacts now that he's the starter.

"I've been worried we've got some good things going through the offense. They've got to be able to do things other than just hand the ball to Wheeler."

Johnson was born in Baltimore and pitched for the Orioles in the realization of a lifetime dream. It took him nearly eight years of pitching in the minors before he won a victory over Tulsa or their loss to Florida, Oklahoma State is averaging 264 yards per game, and they average half of that on the ground.

"We've got to be able to do other things than just hand the ball to him. We've got to be able to do some things that Wheeler is good at and that's it. Wheeler is a quick, strong, smart guy, but we've got to see how he reacts now that he's the starter and how he handles the ball in the end zone. That's got to be a lot of pressure on him.

"I think he's got a little bit of experience in him."

Wheeler told him who to play Saturday. "I'm going to win this game."

Johnson said:

"Some people were not wild about the idea of starting Wheeler. There are some people who think I could do it. They believe we could do it. But I had a CAT scan done and it proved to me I could give him a chance. He's ready to go. Wheeler came in at halftime and made all the right decisions. He's still playing catchup.
