Congress passes 4th extension, near budget deal

Former Pakistani Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto talks with reporters after her party suffered a shocking defeat in parliamentary elections Wednesday.

The bill would have overturned an abortion decision that raised a furor when the Supreme Court handed down its ruling in 1995. It would have banned state funding for any abortion, even when a woman's life is at stake. It also would have banned any use of state money to pay for abortion counseling at any clinic.

The bill was one of two that the majority needed to pass the bill and marked the final time Bush has made a veto without a single signature.

Civil rights groups, faulting existing laws, argued that a strong, safe family planning program is the only way to help people in developing countries.

Travel fund committee still in developing stages

By Jim Seyle
The Daily Iowan

The three bodies of the UI Student Activities Committee have been working on the makeup of a committee to address the concern about the lack of travel funds for the UI Student Activities Board. Members of the Graduate and Professional Student Senate executive branch, who are part of the majority representation in this issue, say they not only want to see the travel funds supported but that the committee established to consider the issue consists of more than one graduate student.

Last week, the GPS and the CPSU held a discussion forum to determine what mechanism would be best to address the concern about the lack of travel funds. "We established a committee consisting of several of our representatives that came from the GPS and one from the CPSU," said Lori Klockau, a legal intern at the UI Cancer Center in Iowa City. "Although the GPS was meeting at the same time in the Union at that time, they refused to come up and try to work with us," said Klockau.

According to the GPS executive branch, the decision to set up a special committee was made because "the U.S. [was] not represented and we believe that the U.S. meeting Tuesday be handled in at least a more professional manner with a representative." Klockau said she wants to pay attention to the fact that graduate students aren’t being listened to.

The GPS effort has not deviated from the stand that the committee should consist of more than one graduate branch because "all three bodies to try to work together and put together the next meeting of the full committee," said Klockau.

The GPS has formed a subcommittee of the full committee that consists of one member from each of the three bodies to try to work together and put together the next meeting of the full committee," said Klockau.
Faculty hope to mold future

Senate: Resources are going to fall short of what it takes to achieve all expectations

By Jason

Steve Collins said UI faculty are hoping for a "money -wart - and -pledge" future, and that is where they are today.

But, the UI Faculty Senate press release matters, said, they shouldn't give up.

"If any hope, clearly, is offering any assurance as to what our future is going to be like," Collins said. But I think there's nothing wrong with optimism. I think if we can find a way to work harder as faculty and as a university and as a state, and work to make the kind of change that's needed to work to shape that, it's going to happen," Collins said.

The Faculty Senate serves as a forum for communication between administrators and faculty. It advises the administration on policy, saying to "nearest and dearest" what faculty consider to be at the core of their profession.

Steve Collins, President, UI Faculty Senate

He said many changes have occurred at the UI since then, including a larger student body, more graduates, more degrees, more programs, more teaching, more research, more computer and electronic technology, more national recognition. And he said it is future changes in the university that concern him and other faculty members.

"There is certainly going to be a balancing act with respect to how resources are allocated," he said. "There's no question that resources are limited and that we have to make sacrifices."

In order to stretch human and capital resources, Collins said the university must work together to achieve all the expectations.

"We need to continue human and capital investments in education of tomorrow, not concerning this and other faculty members.

External forces, such as the public and the legislature, are driving more and different functions from the college and university. Resources can no be a stranded asset on a budget crunch.

"If we're not doing something,

"The university is now the only place on the campus where students can sell," said Collins. "That's a significant change on how and where they can sell for the students of the institution."

New people are taking on at the UI, and still don't reflect the entire increase in crude prices since Iraq's Aug.,

"The university hasn't properly responded to the question of how the future will be allowed to be the back of the classroom. But Collins said material rewards for teaching and research were definitely not the reason he decided to teach.

"I was going to quit school and go into business and become a stockbroker," he said. "Instead I became a professor. Now I look at it.

If you're on a college or university campus, you're likely to see more and more students carrying laptops and other electronic devices. The availability of these technologies can be a mixed blessing for students who need a computer with extra power and expandability.

No matter which Macintosh you choose, you'll have a computer that lightens your work load without giving you another tough subiect to learn. Each Macintosh computer is easy to set up and easy to master. When you've learned one program, you're well on your way.

With Apple's introduction of three new Macintosh computers, meeting the challenges of college life get a whole lot easier because now everybody can afford a Macintosh.

The Macintosh Classic is our most affordable model, yet it comes with every feature you need--including a hard disk drive. The Macintosh Classic II combines color capabilities with the Macintosh Plus's expandability. It's perfect for students who need a computer with extra power and expandability.

Neuhauser, Stark debate at Currier Hall

State legislators candidates Dave Neuhauser and Bhutto have accused each other of legalizing marijuana in a debate being waged in a seven-day period.

"I really cannot understand why marijuana is illegal in this state," said Neuhauser, "I'm not even subtle." Stark

"I believe that any woman who wants to have an abortion should have one," said Stark. "And I do not, because the laws are so bad," said Bhutto. "The state has in many ways been a bastion of parental influence. Personally, I believe that women should have the right to make decisions about the development of their own children.

Neuhauser continued by saying that the government has a role to play in women's choices. "Any woman who gets pregnant is not a woman, she's a girl," Stark said. "One thing that helps galvanize her party is the decline in her declining popularity and her support from the subculture in the United States. The plant itself, hemp, is a very useful plant that can be used for a number of good purposes," Stark said. "It's a story that Rosenberg . Winner receives two tickets to the performance .

Recent Hindu, Muslim clashes kill 29

Israel rejected an appeal for U.N. investigation

Israel rejected an appeal for U.N. investigation of a 10-day wave of violence between Hindus and Muslims that left 29 people dead and hundreds injured.

The United Nations, through the peacekeeping forces in Beirut, has appealed to Israel and Lebanon to stop attacks and resume negotiations. But the United States, which has a large military presence in the region, has been reluctant to intervene.

On Wednesday, Israeli authorities said they would not carry out any new arrests or investigations related to the violence.

Israel's interior minister, Yitzhak Shamir, said the government was prepared to take any action necessary to restore order.

The Israeli Cabinet decided not to pursue a United Nations inquiry, but it did not rule out the possibility of a future investigation.

Israel's initial decision to seek an inquiry was based on principles that still stand, Shamir said, and that the government's move was not a sign of weariness.

Shamir said that the Israeli government had not changed the sources it called on.

S. Africa proposes new political system

The council is a presidential advisory commission. The president's report, written in consultation with the government, the opposition and the National Assembly, has been hailed as a breakthrough in the negotiations leading to a new South African constitution. The council's recommendations, which will be debated by the assembly in the coming months, have been described as a "historic" step towards a democratic South Africa.

The council, appointed by the government, is tasked with preparing a draft constitution for consultation with the public. The council's report, submitted to the government on October 30, 1990, recommends a new constitution that would end apartheid and establish a democratic South Africa.

The council's recommendations include:

1. The establishment of a non-racial and non-sectarian government that would provide equal rights and opportunities for all South Africans.
2. The creation of a bicameral parliament, with a National Assembly and a National Council of Provinces.
3. The establishment of a constitutional court to ensure the protection of human rights and democratic freedoms.
4. The recognition of the rights of all South Africans, including women, children, and members of the lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender community.
5. The establishment of a national security council to ensure the protection of national interests.

The council's recommendations have been hailed as a historic step towards a democratic South Africa. The government has stated that it will consider the council's recommendations in the coming months.
Joyous “Sarafina!” sounds end of apartheid in music

The Daily Iowan

Joyous “Sarafina!”

The tour de force 1997 production at the Market Theatre in Johannesburg and now featured in the long Tony Award-nominated run titled “Sarafina!” was conceived, written, and directed by Minnie Dlamini, the noted South African author and musician whose songs were used during the apartheid struggle. The musical has been produced in theaters throughout the world, and “Sarafina!” which was nominated for a 1987 Tony Award choreographed by “Sarafina!” is a combination of tribal dance, street dance, and jazz.

The musical features a cast of African students performing in the Hancher Auditorium at the University of Iowa. The performance is part of the University of Iowa’s “Voices of Life” series, which is dedicated to the celebration of the human spirit.

GULF CRISIS
Compromise

Iraq's "way of waiting" is finally taking its toll on decision-makers in Washington and Baghdad. The most prominent of these is the US-Saudi-Arabia-Axis of Evil who claims that it will withdraw its forces from Kuwait in exchange for some Kuwaiti promises. The demand on the part of the United States is simply to be heard in the context of the Gulf War.

Well, lackadaisically, we're hit the big one.

Freeze! When the freeze finally happened and all around us was sound, it was a story that never made it to the front page about right-wing college newspapers. And what a better paper to test the waters of the Gulf War than the one owned and operated by a newspaper that used to be called the "Block of AEGs". Not only did it use this slogan in its lead, but this particular student newspaper also used to be called the "Block of AEGs".

It was an article full of revelations. In its lead, the author summarised the reason for his decision - the fact that he was too poor to pay for his college tuition money. In this case, the poor were probably the students, but the rich were the ones who wanted to stay in college.

I am agree, I am always wanted to be a letter, to be sure, but I was unable to do so, being in the United States in 1984. Olympia. Ever since, my great concern is the same as the one that lies that Sagars people, but not the whole world.

The author for the second time mentioned the word "Block of AEGs", and I found myself wondering on what this block of AEGs means. The word is a possible source for the whole concept of the Americans' military intervention in the Middle East.

Additional hostages freed from Kuwait

Medical emergencies plague many

American Press

The Iraqi government said it would release 327 French citizens and 14 Americans who were hostages on Aug. 2. In contrast to the piecemeal liberation, Saddam has kept a firm and stubborn hold on the Westerners. The hostages were freed from Kuwait and Baghdad after they refused to work on a project for Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. Nine of the freed Americans were U.S. military personnel and 14 Americans were American citizens. The release of Western hostages was widely seen as an "important and significant step" toward quelling reports that Iraq was using hostages to generate international pressure.

In London on Wednesday, one of the freed hostages, a British who had been held since March, told reporters that he was "grateful" to both Iraq and Kuwait for releasing them. He said that when nothing was done, the detainees tore down their "human shields," shouted anti-Saddam remarks on walls and fences, broke windows, daubed words on their walls, and were fed meals of rice and stale bread. Doctors on the factory floor were also involved in the disturbances, according to one of the freed hostages.

The released hostages were flown to London and then to Kuwait on Aug. 2. They were due to arrive in New York on Aug. 3, according to a British official. The leader of the American press, however, said he was "unsure" if any Americans would be released on Aug. 3.

PITTSBURGH - The drinks were on Budweiser and the champagne was Budweiser.

Musherbus, fast becoming a South Beach institution, has moved one step closer to becoming a South Beach legend. It now serves four games on four different networks, allowing fans to see the big game no matter where they are.

Musherbus, in San Francisco to broadcast the Stanford-Washington football game for ABC-7, watched the fourth game of the series in Jack's on the Beach.

The theme was "Who's the best," which turned out to be Musherbus, a Budweiser 40-

Men's volleyball gets 1st road win at ISU

By Michael Waldith

IUoway City—In her debut as head coach of the 1990-91 8-16 Hawkeyes, Becky Raiff accomplished something that her predeces- sor didn't. Last year's team could never win a game on the road, a situation that the women's basketball team is facing this season.

This year's team could never win a game on the road.

Junior middle hitter Art Mandanbanag has been sorely missed. "We're so happy to have him back," said Raiff. "But at the same time, we were so happy to see how well the team played without him." Mandanbanag was a starter on the former 8-16out team and is expected to be a starter on the current team.

"It's a new team, with a new coach, and we're not used to winning," said senior right side hitter Matt Fortman. "But we're not used to losing, either."

According to both Fortman and outside hitter Matt Gertle, defense was the key to the Hawkeyes' victory over the Cyclones. "Every game we've seen improvement," said Fortman. "We played really well, taking care of what we've been working on in practice and it has shown up in our games."

The team finishes their season this weekend at 11 a.m. at home against the Des Moines Crusaders.

Lacrosse finishes 3rd

By Michael Waldith

"We really excelled the last 2 games," said coach Mike Walden. "It was a game of medicine, however, we will be back to normal by the end of the season." He was referring to their two losses to the University of Illinois and the University of Wisconsin.

The Hawkeyes went on to win two of the three games in the conference.

According to both Fortman and Mandanbanag, defense was the key to the Hawkeyes' victory. "It's a new team, with a new coach, and we're not used to winning," said senior right side hitter Matt Fortman. "But we're not used to losing, either."

Toborg AP's top manager

The Associated Press

CHICAGO — Jeff Torborg has a hard act to follow and he knows it. But Torborg, named baseball Manager of the Year by The Associated Press on Wednesday, is ready to take on the challenge.

Torborg took a team that finished last in 1987 to 37-29 in 1988 and led the White Sox to a 94-68 record in 1989. He took the team to the American League and third best in the league.

After the last game of the 1989 season, Torborg was left with four managers to choose from. He still was tough in win or lose games against the Blue Jays, Twins, Detroit, and Tampa, Fla., where the White Sox won five of seven.

Jim Leyland, who took Pittsburgh to the National League East title in 1988, finished second with 171 votes. Las Angeles Dodgers skipper Tom Lasorda was third with 168 votes and Oakland's Tony La Russa was fourth with 161 votes.

Jim Jangles of Seattle, John Millich of Cleveland and Joe Morgan of Boston.

Los Angeles of Baltimore won the award last year. Previous won­ners were La Russa, in 1983; Roger Craig of San Francisco in 1987; and Jim Leyland, who led the White Sox to a World Series title.

Jefferes: "Personally, this is very pleasing and I'll be tough to win 94 games again."}

White Sox manager

Launching, 34, Lucas, in 1969; Jim Frey of the Chicago Cubs in 1971 and 1972, second-year pro Marv Cook got it last Thursday night's 17-10 win.

The White Sox were the only team to win the AL West to close the season. In fact, the White Sox held on 8-0 lead in the ninth inning.

"It was a good season but it was frustrating because we didn't win," Torborg said. "It was a special season and I will never forget the first day in old Comiskey Park.

"We had rebuild the team after the last game of the season. I was pleased with the way the team played overall, especially the pitching."

A witness told police that someone in a car with the defendants made a remark about the woman as they drove past. The comment led to an exchange of words between Phillips and the defendants, which quickly escalated.

Deputy District Attorney Mark Pettine said the three were charged with assault and battery. They appeared in court for arraignment.

The Associated Press

San Diego — The district attorney's office filed a new assault and battery charge against three men who allegedly attacked and severely beating a 17-year-old boy in a San Diego high school parking lot.

Paul Pettine, who said the decision to prosecute was made after a lengthy investigation by police and a review of the district attorney's office.

Phillips, who left a school function, found room, those broken bikers and a legendary front near one eye in the flag. He attacked. He opened the front, lied, and the defendants made in the row of the Charger's season.

Pettine and Twombly.

Two of the defendants are represented by attorneys and they have been ordered to appear in court on Friday. The case will continue to be heard in that court.

"It was a good season but we have been fortunate because we didn't win," Torborg said. "It was a special season and I will never forget the first day in old Comiskey Park.

DRAKE ELUDES PENALTY

By Chuck Schieffer
The Associated Press

Des Moines — The NCAA will not prosecute the Drake basketball program even though it was found guilty of some violations by the university's own internal investigation.

Calling the Drake situation unique, the NCAA Committee on Infractions said no penalties were warranted because Drake officials reported the violations and then took immediate action to correct them, including firing an assistant coach who wrote school papers for three players.

The committee could have taken away some basketball scholarships, witholding TV appearances, probation, or putting the team in a postseason tourney.

"In the judgment of the committee, the actions of the institution were fully effective institutional control over and awareness of its seriousness and nature," the committee said in its report.

Problems involving the basketball program, including the firing of an assistant coach who wrote school papers for three players, were reported to the NCAA Committee on Infractions by the Drake president.

That's a violation of the NCAA rules prohibiting extra benefits for athletes.

But the committee said the violations were not serious enough to warrant further action.

"It's certainly a relief to the university. It's something we've been living with for quite some time," Drake president Michael Ferrari said.

"We're delighted," school president Tom Abatemarco, the former assistant at Iowa, is Drake's Pennsylvania State coach.

"It's some sort of progress," Ferrari said. "It's a unique case, the NCAA agreed to let us have a unique ruling."

"It was a very difficult one," Ferrari said.

The committee also noted that the university was able to identify and report the violations and take corrective action.

Problems in the basketball program surfaced last February when the school discovered that a player had been taking classes at a community college.

"It was a very difficult decision to make," Ferrari said.

The committee cited four violations by Drake, including the following:

- A player was paid a tutor $130 to help with classes.
- A player was allowed to make phone calls on university landline and pay for long-distance calls.
- A basketball player and his tutor had been living together.
- The program was not following NCAA rules prohibiting extra benefits for athletes.

"We believe there was a voluntary nature to these violations," the committee said.

"But there were certain violations that were not correctable," the committee said.

"But the committee felt it was a unique case and warranted a unique ruling," Ferrari said.

The committee cited the violations and the university's quick action in its report.

"We're very pleased with the decision," Ferrari said.

"It's something we've been living with for quite some time," he said.

"We're very pleased with the decision," he said.

"It was a very difficult case. The committee did a very good job," he said.

Butler, at Iowa City and Drake's head coach, was not available for comment.

The university's investigation showed some evidence of mismanagement of funds and living together, but not enough to warrant further action.

"We're very pleased with the decision," he said.

"At this time, we're not discussing the details of the case," he said.

"Butler maintained his own house, and handled his own business," Ferrari said.

Butler's actions were determined to be minor violations.

The violations for which violations include production, a ban on postseason tournament play, a ban on television appearances, probation, a reduction in scholarships and limits on recruitment.

The NCAA also directed the Drake University to impose lower penalties in special circumstances.

"This was considered a unique case," the committee said.

The committee cited four reasons for not imposing penalties:

- The university discovered the violations themselves.
- The university took immediate action to correct them.
- The university was able to identify and correct the violations.
- The violations were minor in nature.

"We're very pleased with the decision," Ferrari said.

Ride Smart,
Conservative!
People who ride Iowa City Transit reduce America's foreign oil dependence
America is being black-mailed in the Middle East...
They are betting that our thirst for imported oil and the gasoline it makes will weaken our national resolve.
... So what can individuals do?
Stop using gasoline, Conserve. If each car owner burns one less gallon of gasoline a day, that would send a loud clear message.

The new Independence Day could be the day you leave the car at home and take Iowa City Transit bus to work, shop or class.
You'll save money, you'll save gas, and you and millions of other transit riders across the country will help settle the confrontation faster.
That's the smart way to ride out the storm.
Iowa City Transit welcomes you aboard. People who ride Iowa City Transit are doing something for all of us.
