Bush ‘fed up’ with Saddam’s treatment of U.S. hostages

Why Recycle?

It takes a half million trees to make the newspaper. Americans read, on average, one in 2000.

Recycling one ton of paper saves 17 trees.

Tin cans can be placed around a house to serve as insulation and protect and extend household energy consumption.

Seven trees can be saved 1400 kilo-hours — the amount of energy a family of four will consume in one month.

Seven trees can also absorb 221 pounds of carbon dioxide, which is the amount of carbon dioxide produced by driving a car 442,000 miles.

One ton of paper that’s not recycled takes up three cubic yards of landfill space.

UIA offers travel funds to students

UI students who need to travel for official reasons should consult their financial aid officers from the UI Financial Aid Office.

After several weeks if failed compromises between the three branches of the state government, the legislature, the executive and the judiciary, it is unclear how the state will fund students to perform research.

But it wasn’t that simple.

The legislature did vote to pass the separate education bill, but did not give UI the funds it needed to support the proposal.

Several UI senatearians felt that there should be equal contributions from each body on the committee. But because more than 50 percent of the current academic year was already spent on the committee, the Senate passed an amendment that would increase the savings.

3 interested parties bid on Holiday Inn

By Cyntia Taylor
The Daily Iowan

Iowa City's downtown Holiday Inn has been under contract to be sold for the past three years thanks to bids from three prospective buyers, said Ann Marie Hesselink, general manager. The county has until the end of this week to sign a contract with one of the three bidders, who have proposed for the last several months to purchase the Holiday Inn, which was built in 1965 and is currently the only four-story hotel in downtown Iowa City.

Iowa's largest law firm, Bach, and Iowa-based development firm, Parkwood Development, have also expressed interest in purchasing the Holiday Inn, along with the Iowa City Redevelopment Trust, a nonprofit organization established in 1975. The Iowa City Redevelopment Trust, along with Bach, and Parkwood Development, have submitted the highest offer for the Holiday Inn to the city of $1.4 million.

"The Holiday Inn has been a long-time success for our hotel business and the city," said John Creek, CEO of Bach.

Avenson, Nagle plan new Iowa highways

By Kevin Best

The Daily Iowan

Democrat-Gazette editorialists can be forgiven for being relativists. Highway Improvement Committee Chairman Bill Avenson, said Nagle, has plans to build four highways through Iowa, getting some hands-on experience in the "UI Planning model," which will run from Iowa City to Des Moines and Harpers Ferry's efforts that initial hearing hearing for the Iowa Highway Improvement Committee. He said that these transportation projects should be considered the best candidates to revitalize the economy of Iowa.

"We feel that with a modern transportation system, and with a continuing effort to keep our roads and highways in good condition, the way we could be a leader of the historical migration of this state, and a leader of the greatest growth of this state," he said.

And Avenson, who is challenging incumbent Gov. Terry Branstad, backed up Nagle's statements by saying that, as governor, he would accomplish all four of the goals he has set for his administration and the educational system.

He also anticipated to contribute in an economic sense.

But Nagle stressed that these transportation initiatives must be coupled with governmental support.

The Administration of Delta Sigma Pi's planning standards and Democrat-Gazette editorialists have announced Thursday afternoon the Avenue of the Arrows in the Iowa City Public Library.

It has been a very positive experience. It's also been exciting for us to see the enthusiasm of the students towards the program, said Johnson.

Riverside, which will run from Iowa City to Dubuque (Sundays, Saturdays, and the state's ailing highways of Cambridge Management Group Inc. have received favorable responses from the residents.

The price tag includes $37 million for the Phase I of the planning, which will focus on setting goals. Phase II, the "action phase," will be handled by an outside consultant hired by the Cambridge group to help the district determine and present its future goals while taking into consideration such factors as the community and changing demographics.

And board members say they're here to support the students' efforts in those goals.

School board adopts strategic new model

Planning model will have 2 phases

By Joel Pedersen

The Daily Iowan

The Iowa City School Board has adopted a strategic planning model that will allow "everyone to march in the same direction."

At a Tuesday meeting, the board voted to adopt the planning model proposed to the board by Bill Collins, consultant for Cambridge Management Group Inc.

The model, which includes a district commitment of $27 million for the Phase I of the planning, will focus on setting goals. Phase II, the "action phase," will be handled by an outside consultant hired by the Cambridge group to help the district determine and present its future goals while taking into consideration such factors as the community, the students and the educational system.

Avenson said, "I think it's more important than the level of growth or any other that we give to individual businesses. The project's proposals for implementing the transportation projects include building a Midwest Corridor to coordinate the efforts of all surrounding counties. And he also anticipated in moving an additional highway south to流通 native Jerusalem.

The externship program isn't the only competitive program. The price tag includes $37 million for the Phase I of the planning, which will focus on setting goals. Phase II, the "action phase," will be handled by an outside consultant hired by the Cambridge group to help the district determine and present its future goals while taking into consideration such factors as the community and changing demographics.

Baxter highlights registration

By Jennifer Glynn

The Daily Iowa

Democratic incumbent Elaine Baxter, who is running for a seventh term, said she has made it easier for Iowa to vote.

"I worked with the Legislature to improve the election process," said Baxter. "There were three major changes in voter registration." The changes were:

1. Iowa is the only state office in Iowa that can accept mail-in ballots, and post cards in all income tax books.
2. Changing Iowa's driver's license to include a voter registration.
3. "Having a registration form included in the driver's license form is very convenient for new Iowans," Baxter said.

Baxter also started the first program in the nation to get voters to register by calling the voter to put their telephone books.

"It was a real breakthrough,"

Anderson: 'I can do better' with Iowa's state budget

By Jennifer Glynn

The Daily Iowa

Beverly Anderson, the Republican candidate for secretary of state, said she can put less money into their money.

Anderson said investigations show that the secretary of state's budget is more than 50 percent of the state's budget, and that is a waste of your tax dollar. Baxter said, "I do better in the budget with less money."

Anderson said her experience will help her to do a better job with less tax dollars than Baxter has, who, she said, is part of a revolving-door responsibility government and I have got the experience to do the job right.

Anderson said she will also work to improve voter registration.

Kirov is polished but flawed

A standing ovation wel¬ come the Kirov Ballet to the University's center for the Performing Arts. The company members wore dresses and costumes to match the occasion. The company's production of Giselle, performed for the first time within the com¬ pany's 122-year history, is expected to be a realiza¬ tion of a dream for the people of Iowa City who looked a bit shaken in the first act.

The story of "Giselle" comes from a romantic period in history and is about the deed of love. The story is about the lives of women who died young and the ghosts of those who left behind them.

The plot begins early Sun¬ day evening at the home of the Count Albrecht. Al¬ brecht is the main charac¬ ter in the play and is a prominent figure in the story. He is a man of power and wealth who is fiercely devoted to his wife Giselle. However, when Giselle begins to fade away, Albrecht clings hopelessly to her ghostly presence. The play begins at the point where Giselle dies and Albrecht is left to mourn her absence.

The play is set in the French countryside and features a beautiful and romantic setting. The actors and actresses bring the story to life with their performances and capti¬ ve the audience with their dramatic skills.

The Kirov Ballet's perfor¬ mance of Giselle was a memorable and emotional evening. The audience was captivated by the beauty of the story and the talent of the performers.

The play ends with Al¬ brecht mourning the loss of his wife and the audience is left with a sense of loss and sadness.

ELECTION 1990

The Grand Finale

No, it’s not less than five days away and America will not be securityovaling over voting. But it is Election Day, in every sense of the word, for the nation’s health will be on the line. And, as in previous years, the outcome of the election will determine the future of the country.

Many Republican officials throughout the nation and in Britain have been backlashing against the idea of a “rigged” election. They argue that advertising the GOP as “a big, bad” party will only hurt their chances in the long run. They also contend that the Republican National Convention has made it clear that the party is ready to fight for the future of the country.

All this is intended to portray the Republicans as the party of the middle class and the working man. But, in reality, the party has been labeled as “a big, bad” party by the public, and this perception is likely to continue. The GOP is also seen as a party of the rich, and this perception is likely to persist.

In an attempt to appeal to the working man, the GOP has been trying to stress the importance of education and job training. But, in reality, the party has been focusing on issues that are more important to the rich, such as tax cuts and the military.

The Democrats, on the other hand, have been trying to stress the importance of education and job training. They have been trying to appeal to the working man by focusing on issues that are more important to the working man, such as healthcare and the environment.

The Democrats have also been trying to stress the importance of education and job training. They have been trying to appeal to the working man by focusing on issues that are more important to the working man, such as healthcare and the environment.

In conclusion, the Republicans have been trying to stress the importance of education and job training. They have been trying to appeal to the working man by focusing on issues that are more important to the working man, such as healthcare and the environment.

Living up to Lincoln’s legacy

Jefferson Davis, the co-founder of the Democratic Party, is often credited with laying the foundation for the Republican Party. Davis is credited with creating a system of checks and balances that would prevent the government from becoming too powerful.

Davis’s legacy is still felt today, as the Republican Party continues to fight for the principles he championed. The party’s current leaders are working to ensure that the government remains accountable to the people and that the government does not become too powerful.

Davis’s legacy is also felt in the way the Republican Party approaches issues today. The party’s leaders are working to ensure that the government remains accountable to the people and that the government does not become too powerful.

Political context

In the past, political debates have focused on the issues of the day. But today, politics is often more about personalities and slogans.

The current political climate is one of polarization. Republicans and Democrats are increasingly divided, and the country is becoming more divided as well.

This polarization is evident in the way the parties approach issues. Republicans are more likely to focus on issues such as healthcare and the economy, while Democrats are more likely to focus on issues such as education and the environment.

Ethnic Moldavians storm USSR-Romania border

Irene Kalitay

The official Soviet news agency Tass yesterday quoted a Moldavian leader as saying that his countrymen had attacked checkpoints on the frontier with Romania despite the Bucharest government's threats.

Tass said that some 1,000 Moldavian citizens had attacked checkpoints in two border districts.

The attacks came in response to a warning by Romanian officials last week that Romanian citizens would be allowed to visit Moldavia only if both checkpoints were removed.

Tass said that the Moldavian leader had been quoted as saying that "Russia had already declared war on their neighbor, but the situation is already out of control."

The Moldavian leader, who was not identified, is quoted as saying, "We have declared war on you, and do not expect to get what we want from you."

The attacks came on the heels of a visit by the Romanian foreign minister to Moscow on Tuesday, where he was expected to discuss the border crisis.

The Moldavian leader was quoted as saying, "We are prepared to fight for our rights, and will not tolerate any interference from Romania."

The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, India—Three hundred Hindu fundamentalists split into two groups Wednesday to disrupt a construction site in the capital, and at least 24 people died in violence sparked by the dispute.

A government minister resigned protesting the defense minister's failure to act against the so-called fundamentalists. But in their latest clash in the battle for India's soul, the violence began with a dispute over a construction site near the security fence around the presidential palace.

The dispute began when the fundamentalists hurled stones at the security forces and troops fired back. The violence spread and on Wednesday night in the capital's Roshanpura neighborhood, the confrontation continued.

The leaders of the firefighters' union said 412 fires were set over three days in connection with military personnel who backed a Young Communist League organization. The heads of the three separate committees, said spokesman Dan Ofer, "will call upon the mandatory candidates meeting.

Sentence reduced for soldier

Sergei Joshi, 25, a soldier, was on trial for the murder of a local man. He was found guilty of murder and sentenced to 15 years in prison. He then appealed and was granted a retrial. At his retrial, it was discovered that the original trial was tainted by corruption.

The defense argued that the original trial was tainted by corruption. The judge agreed and reduced Joshi's sentence to 10 years in prison. Joshi was released after serving six years of his sentence.

Detroit Tigers manager Sparky Anderson has been named the American League Manager of the Year, according to Baseball America.

Anderson, who has managed the Tigers since 1979, led the team to a 97-65 record this season, the best in franchise history.

Anderson, 73, has managed in the majors for 30 years and is the fifth manager in Tigers history to win the award.

The Tigers finished first in the AL Central Division and reached the American League Championship Series in 2003.

Iowa scaring Minnesota with big win

By Brian Davis

Tricking and treating were the themes of the night when the Iowa Hawkeyes built a 15-point lead and held off a late Wisconsin rally to win 14-9 and win, 15-3, over the Badgers at Carver-Hawkeye Arena Wednesday.

The Hawkeyes played a trick in the game to keep it close to 23 unanswered points to solidify their 9-0 deficit and shock the Badgers.

And the trust was a 15-16, 16-17, 17-17 tie.

The Hawkeyes have kept Garfield of Minnesota, a first-time All-American to the win.

Garfieldremained in the hands of the Hawkeyes. He gave Iowa a 15-point lead in each set.

It’s like I just bought my place. The most important thing is that you win.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Wilbur Amock's tenure with the Kansas City Royals came to an end Wednesday night when the club announced they are not offering 1991 contracts to the third veteran to be released this week.

Wilbur, a 39-year-old hitter who hit .303 in the 1982 batting title, could not be reached immediately for comment.

The Royals have at least four players to consider for 1991 role, including Bo Jackson and Danny Tartabull. But Jackson's three-year contract is not up until next year.

The team's annual meeting was scheduled for noon Thursday at the team's spring training facility in Surprise, Ariz.

Basketball Hall of Fame president Bob Kurland and the committee that nominates players for election to the basketball Hall of Fame have no comment.

"I can't deny deserving basketball Hall of Fame," Kurland said.

"I'm not going to say," Kurland said. "I'm not going to say, it's a business decision by the committee."

The Associated Press was unable to reach Kurland for comment.

Kurland, a former NBA commissioner who oversaw the 1993-94 season, said he knows how they are going to come out in the voting by the hundreds of voters from 24 states who are notified about the Hall of Fame process each year.

The late Larry Fleisher, who died on May 24, 1990, had been on the Hall of Fame list for four years. Cavs hope to live up to No. 1 ranking on Sat. against Tech

By Rick Warner
The Associated Press

All season, college football fans have been wondering if Georgia Tech is for real. On Saturday, Nov. 3, they will find out.

The visiting Cavaliers (7-2) and the Yellow Jackets (7-2) will meet in Atlanta, both teams vying for the ACC title. But for Virginia, the game may mean even more.

"It's a victory that the Cavaliers would like to have," said coach Frank Beamer. "It's a game we've been chasing for a long time." But Georgia Tech should provide a test for Virginia that could provide a glimpse of how the Cavaliers will fare against the nation's best teams.

Tech, which leads the nation in total offense (545 yards per game), has won 13 straight and has the nation's longest winning streak. The Cavaliers have the nation's longest winning streak in bowl games. Virginia (20-7) has never gone to two straight bowl games.

The winner has the inside track to the regular season. Georgia Tech is still hobbled by a sprained ankle to its star running back, David Brackins. He is listed as questionable, but is expected to play. But Georgia Tech should provide a test for Virginia that could provide a glimpse of how the Cavaliers will fare against the nation's best teams.

"It's a victory that the Cavaliers would like to have," said coach Frank Beamer. "It's a game we've been chasing for a long time."

The game is on Thursday, November 1, 1990, at 7:30 p.m. at the Georgia Dome in Atlanta. The game is the first of two straight home games for the Cavaliers, who will play Virginia Tech on Saturday, November 10, 1990, at 2:30 p.m.

The Cavaliers have been ranked against each week of the season. The coaches' poll placed them No. 3 in their second game against West Virginia, No. 2 in their third game against Georgia, and No. 1 in their fourth game against Alabama. However, their ranking may not be as high as it should be.

The Cavaliers have one bad loss on their resume: a 42-10 loss to West Virginia on October 21, 1990. But the Cavaliers have won their last six games, and are currently ranked No. 3 in the national polls.

Music

The most remarkable thing about the Cats From Ubahida is their music. In various performances and compositions, acoustic and electric guitars, mandolin, violin, stand-up bass, and percussion, the whole process alone should astound any music lover. This band includesJulie Holm, Matt Hyde, andVernon Long. They are just another folk-rock-country-baroque band from Iowa City.

That’s reason for starting the band was that we were people here in Iowa City, wrote guitarist/vocalist Matt Hyde. We had no idea what to do, but decided to make a band including acoustically trained musicians and some members, so...

And the name? Originally, there was no “original” Cats From Ubahida name. According to guitarist/vocalist Matt Hyde, the most remarkable thing about the Cats From Ubahida is their music. In various performances and compositions, acoustic and electric guitars, mandolin, violin, stand-up bass, and percussion, the whole process alone should astound any music lover.

Their music is described as baroque, describing the band's musical landscape. They make up a mixture of acoustic and electric instruments, combine folk and baroque sound. The Cats From Ubahida are just another folk-rock-country-baroque band from Iowa City.

Jim's Journal

I went to the 10:30 AM service with my wife last night, and what should I say? It was a good service, and all the songs were good. But live, with Jesus and Betty and their dad God, it didn’t seem to know how to react.
