State court to review for bias

DEB MORGAN. The Iowa Supreme Court reviewed a case involving a discriminating jury system on Tuesday.

Chief Justice Arthur McDonald said the court is still struggling in trying to put in the "good neutrality" language in judicial writings and by requiring gender-balanced commissions, committees, and boards.

"Despite these measures, bias still may exist," he said. "To ensure that, we can't count on the deterrent, trust and respect of the public, nor can all vestiges of bias be eliminated."

Supreme Court Justice Leeavorio and Linda Neumann opposed his panel. In June, he asked for support for the state to provide the needs may overcome these difficulties.

Hubbard

After he was fired from the University of Iowa, Hubbard began teaching at the University of Hawaii and became a full professor in 1968. For some, it may seem surprising to see Hubbard teaching at the University of Hawaii, but he was greatly admired there. "When my father was a student here, the campus was erupting. But the University to respond to their needs," he said. "Instead, he initiated forums for students to share their feelings openly and for the university to respond to their needs."

Hubbard began teaching at the University of Hawaii in 1975 and was appointed to the newly created position of dean of academic affairs. In many eyes, Hubbard's switch to administration seemed a long leap from his engineering roots. But then-UI President Hunter Rawlings III had a different idea. Hubbard said, "My specialty was turbulence. When I came here, the campus was erupting. It was a very turbulent place."

"The president was an extremist and the vice president was a lawyer," he said. "But the administration thought it would be a good move to have someone in the physical sciences, from outside, even after his appointment to vice president of student services in 1972, there were challenges awaiting him on campus." Hubbard also witnessed many demonstrations for civil rights and against the Vietnam War — some so heated that they threatened his life. "I didn't try to make the demonstrators or the CFK leader. I said, instead, I initiated forums for students to share their feelings openly and for the university to respond to their needs."

Hubbard's ability to get people to think through a problem to come to the right solution is probably one of the greatest personalties he ever met. "Students came from families and went off to schools. The river went off to schools. The river..."

Unabashed dancers show up for audition

By Steve O'Connor

Forty-two people auditioned for parts in a new dance production Wednesday night — and all of them have exactly what they were trying to get: jobs.

"They were all totally dedicated," said Peter Langenberg, director of the program Wednesday's auditions — and the actors themselves were quite excited about it.

"I did not expect such a media blitz," said Greg Hubbard, company member and one of the audition directors. The auditions were for a production of Steve Houghton's "I, the Man," which will be produced by the theater.

"I was surprised at the turnout," said Chris Trimble of Cedar Rapids.

Given that "I, the Man" is a highly acclaimed dance production, and that it is being produced by a local company, it was expected that there would be a large turnout.

As the two-hour audition process began, Hubbard directed the participants through various synchronized movements and gave them notes on their performance. Many of the participants were previous students of the theater, and many were previous participants in the program.

In total, there were 42 people who auditioned for the roles.

"The auditions were very successful," said Langenberg.

The auditions began at 7 p.m. and lasted until 10 p.m. The program was open to the public, and anyone was allowed to sign up and audition for a part.

"I think this will make a leader for people to understand what it means," said Langenberg.

The audition process was advertised on television, in local newspapers, and on local radio stations.

"I think this is an example of a traumatic experience," said Steve Houghton, director of the program. "We have auditions on several occasions, but we can't afford to be picky. We're looking for people who can perform under pressure and have experience."

The U.S. students to join golf protests

by Nancy Wiseman

The Daily Iowan

Several UI students will be joining thousands of protesters outside Chicago’s famous U.S. Cellular Field this weekend, as part of a larger anti-war movement. The Chicago rally will take place Saturday at 12:30 p.m. downtown in Daley Plaza and is expected to draw anti-war demonstrators from throughout the Midwest.

The student protest group, Free WAve, has organized a trip to the Chicago rally for students interested in attending.

New student member Lisa Schuck said vans will be leaving for the rally on Friday evening and returning to Iowa City early Saturday evening.

Schuck hopes more than three students make the trip, and vans will be limited to six total seats.

A much smaller rally for peace in the Middle East will also be held Saturday in the Iowa Memorial Union. The rally will be held on the east side of the State Capitol and will be organized by the United Methodist Church, 300 E. 12th St.

For more information regarding these events or to find out more about the cause, please contact Free WAve on Facebook.

Gas price complaints spur suit against Casey’s stores

The Associated Press

DES MOINES — Iowa’s lowest retail gasoline price may be $1.199 and General Stores Inc. is selling gasoline for just $1.19.

The suit, filed on behalf of an alleged class of small dealers, states that by selling gasoline at price General Stores intends to keep prices consistent with competitive business advantages and related federal antitrust laws.

On Tuesday, a federal judge in Des Moines said the company has not been able to explain its conduct.

The suit alleges price fixing against selling gasoline at such prices, unreasonably restrains trade and damages and attorneys’ fees.

The suit was filed Tuesday in the U.S. District Court for the northern District of Iowa.

"Our goal has always been to sell gasoline at the lowest price possible," said Mark Armstrong, president and chief executive officer of General Stores.

He said the company does not believe it has engaged in an illegal contract and intends to continue the suit.

"We think it is important for our customers to realize that we enjoy the benefits of our efficient operations," Armstrong said.

How do you like this for a coincidence? While you've been pouring all that money into another medium, the money hasn't been staying right in the face. As an ad in The Daily Iowan this time you can be sure the market is going to look. And look, they do. More than 45,000 people daily. People who, on paper, are very similar to you. They're educated, grossly, know what they want and know how to find it. And when they come to buying advice, this is where they're most right of all. Unlike TV, You Can't Turn A Newspaper Ad Off.

There's nothing TV ever lose more than telling you who's watching your commercial. Because chances are, we'll end up playing to an empty room.

Recent studies bear it out. At the first sign of a commercial break, 50% of the viewers head for the bathroom, the kitchen, run off the sound or switch channels. That's something people can't do with a newspaper. And according to the 1986/1987 Scarborough Report, they don't want to. They're in a state of information overload. The face: The readers are the most important advertising source. That's where they prefer to turn first.

Well, that's a question you better consider carefully before you start investing your ad budget. Because, in the case of wrinkles, you put a lot of cold, hard cash and getting nowhere near your guarantee. Distribution can be costly. Timing is often difficult to predict. And even if you live with those odds, you're not going to sell the publication will ever be read. That's a gamble most advertisers prefer not to take. Which explains why they overwhelmingly prefer The Daily Iowan.

If You're Trying To Sell The Good News In Advertising, How Come They Have To Give Them Away?

The market you're looking for is Reading The Same Paper You Are.

This is where you want your advertising to be heard, you've got to cover a lot of territory. You've got to run a half hour of time at a lot of expense, all in the hope that when your first runs, somebody, somewhere will start to learn.

Now compare that to what you get with The Daily Iowan. Reader, loyal, dedicated. Verification made.

Bush honors Argentine president for snuffing rebellion

The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina—President George Bush Wednesday saluted President Carlos Menem for quashing a military rebellion in Buenos Aires, sending two warships to the West Coast to protect America's interests and warning the world that the United States will continue to be a significant player in the hemisphere.

Bush praised the Argentine president for his quick action to crush the rebellion in Buenos Aires, saying that Menem had demonstrated that the United States and Argentina have a joint interest in the hemisphere.

"This is a very significant occasion," Bush said at the presidential palace in Buenos Aires.

Menem said the military action was a response to terrorism and that it was a necessary step to maintain peace and stability in the region.

Bush added that the United States would continue to work closely with Argentina to prevent future incidents.

Argentina's powerful army took control of the country's government Wednesday, killing at least 20 people and wounding more than 100, according to officials.

"This is a very serious situation," Bush said.

Woman drowns in Atlantic

A 48-year-old woman from Newburyport, Indiana, died on Plum Island Tuesday, voluntarily walked into the water. She was found about 5 miles away from the site. The Associated Press photographer was present to shoot weather pictures when the woman entered the water.
Joffrey's holiday splendor returns to Hancher tonight

The Daily Iowan and produced by Hatcher, choir for the snow dancers. Th e Joffrey Ballet's acclaimed "The Nutcracker" will return to Hancher Auditorium this holiday season. The beloved music by Tchaikovsky, "The Nutcracker" has been a favorite of children for decades. In 1940 by Ballet Kirov, "The Nutcracker" was first performed in the United States in 1947 by Ballet Russe. Special choreography for "The Nutcracker" was created by Gerald Arpino, now artistic director of the Joffrey Ballet. The production features starring by Anna Heskin, associate artistic director of the Joffrey Ballet, and George Vsek, artistic director of the Joffrey Ballet. "The Nutcracker" sets by Oliver Smith, the costume are designed by John David Bogue, who has designed costumes for several Joffrey productions; and lighting direction by Steven Simulation, a long-time Joffrey collaborator. The music carries clocking horse "The Nutcracker". The sets and puppet were designed by Kenneth Let, creator of Big Bird and other Muppet and "Sesame Street" characters, and the set made for "Frost the Frog. The Joffrey "Nutcracker" received in 1987 world premiere performances in Hancher after much of the original was lost with which some modern choreographers and directors have overlaid the story. The Joffrey production was created in the spirit of the original choreographer's production in the spirit of the original production of "The Nutcracker" in the spirit of the original production of "The Nutcracker". The "Nutcracker" has continued to attract its triumphant, returning to Hancher. The Joffrey Ballet production of "The Nutcracker" will return to Hancher Auditorium, where it premiered in 1987, for nine performances during the 1990 holiday season. The Joffrey "Nutcracker" is the major project we've had in 14-year relationship between the UI and The Joffrey Ballet, a relationship that has included more than 60 live performances over The Joffrey Ballet and The Joffrey Ballet. Tickets for "The Joffrey 'Nutcracker' are $20, $26 and $32 for adults, $24, $30 and $36 for IU students and senior citizens, and half-price $14 and $18 for those 18 and under. Hancher Box Office opens 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday and 1-3 p.m. Sunday.

President of Bangladesh resigns post

By Naeem Haider
The Associated Press

DHAKA, Bangladesh — Opposition parties, gearing up for the general election, on Friday called for the resignation of the government of Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina, who is also the leader of the governing Awami League Party. The call for the resignation came after the government's delay in implementing the elections, which is causing unrest among the people.

The government's delay in implementing the elections is causing unrest among the people. In a statement, the National Alliance, a coalition of opposition parties, said that the government had been responsible for the delay, which had caused frustration among the people. The government had announced that the elections would be held on March 7, but the opposition parties have been calling for the government to hold the elections as soon as possible.

The opposition parties have been calling for the government to hold the elections as soon as possible. They have also been calling for the resignation of the prime minister, who has been in power for over a decade. The government has been accused of corruption and human rights abuses under Hasina's leadership.

Owners ready to compensate 15 players now ‘look top’ free agents

By Jim Dunalgo
The Associated Press

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Five years and two months after major league teams began a mad dash against free agents, the chains were Wednesday to give baseball history's first and perhaps its final wave of free agents of the era.

Fifteen players, including Gary Gaetti and Brett Saberhagen, have made their 31st-34th year deals as part of the deal, which is expected to be announced Thursday. The announcement came after hours and a few minutes of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

In a room filled with language to work out — but we have points of

If the players appear at their meeting in Orlando, they will emerge with $300 million dollars in their paychecks on the table.

The settlement was reached after a contract provision filed by the union after the 1985 and 1986 collective bargaining agreements expired.

In the terms of the agreement, the players will receive $313 million in damages to be paid in installments over seven years.

Still, Skinner started to become "The Ball," and his stock in trade came from being "The Ball".

As for his chancellor of playing professionals, he has no idea. You just have to try to look it up, he said.

In addition to Gaetti and Saberhagen, other "look top" free agents include Jack Clark, Chili Davis, Jack Morris, Dave Winfield, Tom Watson and Mike LaCoss.

The agreement was reached by lawyers for the sides on Oct. 28, 1985, but owners approved it Wednesday by a vote, and today's meeting of the joint baseball players association was meant to bring the owners and the union into a three-way deal.

Miami's Maryland voted top lineman

By Jan Peters
WACO CITY - Maryland's Maryland, who delayed dream to become an instant millionaire in the NFL to his senior season, won the Outback Trophy on Wednesday as the nation's top interior lineman.

The 6-foot-4, 325-pound tackle capped a year of offcourt success with a solid performance in the second round of the Ohio State National Basketball Championship.

The Buckeyes, who were eliminated in the first round by the Cougars, were ranked No. 1 in the final poll by the Associated Press.

Garrick Austin, the Ohio State head coach, said he was pleased with the performance of Maryland.

Maryland, who was a starter for the Buckeyes last season, said he was glad to have the chance to help his team win a national title.

He said he was proud of his team's success and that he was grateful to the Buckeyes for giving him the opportunity to play in a national championship game.
