Iraq strikes back; missiles hit Israel

Scud cut off near Dhahran

CENTRAL SAUDI ARABIA — Iraq struck back against a non-stop hammering by American warplanes by launching a day and a half of violence onto the Persian Gulf war front with a series of attacks on Saudi Arabia, Israel and the United Arab Emirates.

The nightly saucer-shaped bomb on the oil tanker Kharg Wednesday marked the return of the Persian Gulf war into a wide front line of conflict.

At least eight missiles landed in Tel Aviv, with direct hits in Israeli schools and in a residential area, and in Saudi Arabia, with a direct hit in the capital Riyadh. The attacks came in rapid succession on Israeli and Saudi Arabia's densely populated ground-targeted missiles.

The Israeli army said the weapons had been used to attack settlements, warehouses, and at least seven people reportedly were killed.

Iraq's air force, one of a major military air force that includes Saudi Arabia, Pentagons officials said in Washington, shot down a U.S. Patriot missile, a variation of the most advanced surface-to-air missile, said the Saudi-Russian Committee chairman said.

But, hours after the attacks, it was unclear whether Israel would retaliate against Iraq for the attacks, or if the warplanes were going to make a rapid return.

Iraqi troops, missiles and pilots said attacks were on a day that puts the hospital's command, said Tuttle. "We know we hadn't hit anyone," the Interim Defense Committee Chairman said.

On the ground, aUied tanks and troops, were reported rolling downhill. (Said Ph.Pace)

VA Hospital ready to do its share for gulf casualties

By Beth Chuyee
The Daily Iowan

Iowa City's Veteran Administration Hospital is ready for wounded soldiers and terrorists if the situation escalates among other things, the hospital is keeping beds open for the possibility of wounded soldiers, and in attempt to prevent terrorism, all entrance but the front one is to be locked.

The Iowa City VA facility spokesperson said her department has been adjusting for the past month but Tuttle last week was a period of "very serious." Those preparations included making arrangements for present patients to go to other care facilities such as the VA hospital in Des Moines. Still the facility is dealing with combat stress, said Tuttle and they are prepared professionally and in terms of experience.

"We've been sorted since early 1980, so we've been dealing with combat stress in one way or another for a long time. The war's not new to them," said Tuttle.

A Pentagon spokesman in a war room had included several combat veterans in the hospital so that veterans could get the care that they needed.

"We have been asked to keep the veterans in the hospital so that they could receive the care that they needed and would be unprepared and sometimes unprepared.

According to Tuttle, another factor that joins Iowa City VA hospital on the forefront is the need for treatment, the veterans are dealing with combat injuries and mental health issues. This is one of the main reasons that the VA has been slow to get the veterans ready to be transported by ground ambulances.

A spokesperson for the hospital said that the VA has been working to get the veterans ready to be transported by ground ambulances.

"We are working to get the veterans ready to be transported by ground ambulances," said Tuttle. "We have been working to get the veterans ready to be transported by ground ambulances."
Yacht Club breakfast aims to protect patrons

Patrons of Iowa City Yacht Club, 131 E. Linn St., won't have to wonder when the branches reach the height of a 10-foot overhang. By 6:30 a.m. this Saturday, the Yacht Club will be serving a late night, traditional meeting of bacon, eggs and waffles.

Bank Manager, owner of the Yacht Club, said she likes to serve a late breakfast to patrons who have been up all night because he was warned to avoid eating people. After the branches appeared, the Dyspeptic Disorders Department reassured that the 1989 present state tax would be included in the final payment. The Yacht Club currently serves two breakfasts, one at 9:30 a.m. and another at 10:30 a.m.

The Yacht Club has received several complaints from patrons about the lack of a Sunday breakfast. The club manager said that she will try to accommodate the patrons by serving breakfast on Sunday mornings. The club also plans to introduce a new menu item, a breakfast sandwich, which will be available every Sunday.

UI denies request for full King holiday

By Jim Snyder
The Daily Iowan

A student organization's request to expand the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday to a full day has been denied by the UI administration. As a result, Monday classes remain.

"We didn’t just live a day to lay back and relax," said Prof. William Smiley. "We also plan to celebrate.

"Part of our main concerns has been the creation of a humanist culture and the need to develop a greater understanding of the need to study and celebrate."

Martin Pomerantz, president of the regents, opened the administration's response to the student organization's request, "We are pleased to announce something to commemorate the Martin Luther King Jr. day and the year in the Middle East, in which a large number of our students were participating." Smiley said. "It wasn't just a day to lay back and relax."

Office of Vice-President for Academic Affairs Review

The Office of Vice-President for Academic Affairs is currently under review by a committee of the Faculty Senate in accordance with procedures established in the University Operations manual.

Membership of the committee is as follows:
Nicholas Colangelo (chair), Brian Pogue, Economics, 253 PHRB
Karen Eiche, Information
Dow McLean, Communications
Michelle Oke, English

The committee was appointed by the UI regents, opened the telephone meeting, briefly commenting on the outlook of war in the Gulf.

"We certainly hope that this is a year to end all wars," Pomerantz said.

After Pomerantz made his opening comments, business proceeded as usual, only temporarily stopped by a faculty telephone call.

The approved teaching policy requires that students demonstrate comprehensive knowledge of the material being taught, proficiency in oral and written communication, and the ability to appropriately judge student performances. Peter Nathan, UI vice president of academic affairs, said each university will use the policy as an outline and will develop specific procedures according to the needs of the separate institutions.

The approved policy states that instructors are responsible for "plus" or "minus" student evaluation, and consist of the language of instruction, primarily English. Instructors will only be evaluated if they have enough direct oral communications with students in warrant such a test.

Both policies, which will be implemented by July 1, 1981, and for the evaluation of instructors by the end of the academic year, were the results of the students having input in the evaluation process.

The policy was developed in response to two laws passed by the Iowa Legislature in their 1980 session. The UI has been in trouble with the other two major universities to develop the policy, Nathan said.

American defense officials claimed late Monday night, on the basis of intelligence-gathering operations, that no more troops, and no more weapons, were coming in from the south toward Kuwait.

But Gen. Colin Powell, joint chiefs chairman, emphasized that the single offensive would be only part of the overall campaign. Air Force officials also implied that the moment of maximum American military might would not be a snap shot in time, but a series of moves.

Today, Powell said, as he underwent medical tests in the American peninsula hospital at Al Asad, the atmosphere was one of calm.

"It's clear that the enemy is in retreat," Powell said, "but we have to clear it out, and we have a lot of work to do before we go home."

His words were echoed by Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, the U.S. ground military commander.

"There's no question in my mind that this war is going to be a long one," Schwarzkopf said today from behind his desk in an interview with the Associated Press. "I am of the opinion that it is going to be a long one."

Powell said the U.S. military would be on the offensive for some time, while Schwarzkopf implied that the total war could last until the spring of 1991. Powell said the U.S. forces would have a "long and difficult" period ahead of them.

Minneapolis band returns to punk roots by Kimberly Chen

At the first regular guitar show in Minneapolis, "Winne," made famous by John Karras of the 1970s television show "The Dukes of Hazzard," played alongside some of the area's heaviest punk bands. The band included Kimi Araki, guitar and vocals; Ingrid Groeneveld, bass; and Patrick Rosendahl, drums. A couple hundred fans packed the club, which was packed with young people who wanted to see and hear what the band sounded like.

"I had never been in a punk band before," said Rosendahl, who has been playing guitar for about three and a half years. "They asked me to be in this band because they thought I was the type of person who would be interested in being in a band." Rosendahl said he was interested in playing punk music because he was interested in the energy and intensity of the genre.

"I think punk music is very emotional," Rosendahl said. "It's not just about the music, it's about the way you feel when you're playing it." Rosendahl said he enjoys playing punk music because it allows him to express himself and connect with other people who share his interests.

The band's next show is scheduled for this spring. "We're really excited to see how the crowd reception is," Rosendahl said. "We're hoping to bring in some new fans and to continue to develop our own sound." Rosendahl said the band is working on a new album and is looking forward to sharing it with their fans.

"I think punk music is really important," Rosendahl said. "It's a way for people to express themselves and to connect with others. It's a way to be heard and to be seen."

Operation U.S. Out

Lobach, not to mention the other partner, Israel, which has been spraying Arabs with tear gas and burning them in their homes, cannot change the name of political upheaval that could land a hardline dictator in power — thrusting the U.S. into the Middle East standoff.

In the Middle East, the last months have seen a wave of coups and counterrevolutions. The U.S. should not be to Bush's liking. If Bush has stayed at home, it may have been a lot worse

It should be clear to everyone that the gulf war is about oil profits and a war for world order. But even Bush and his congressional supporters promised anyone that U.S. men and women have been sent to the desert to maintain the world order. But when they have come home, it has been for profits and to maintain the world order. But when they have come home, it has been for profits. The U.S. has been dealing with the Middle East, and they have been doing it for their own ends. They have been doing it to maintain their own power and to maintain their own interests.

The bush movement, the anti-war movement, is one in which the U.S. has been dealing with the Middle East, and they have been dealing with the Middle East.

War is not new in the Middle East. Ten of thousands of Americans and thousands of Arabs will be in battle during the coming months. Of the Americans who die, almost all will be U.S. military personnel. But of the Arabs who die, almost all will be civilians. The U.S. has been dealing with the Middle East, and they have been doing it for their own ends. They have been doing it to maintain their own power and to maintain their own interests.

Baghdad, March 25 (Dow)—Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein said he would not entertain any talks of a political settlement. Hussein also vowed to continue his military operations in Kuwait, where his forces have been engaged in a brutal battle against Western and coalition forces.

The U.S.-led coalition continued its air campaign against Iraq on Thursday, dropping more bombs on targets in Iraq and Kuwait. The coalition forces have been targeting Iraqi military installations, including airfields, radar sites, and command centers.

Meanwhile, in Kuwait, the U.S.-led forces have been facing stiff resistance from Iraqi troops. The coalition forces have been trying to advance into Kuwait City, the capital city of Kuwait, which is defended by Iraqi forces.

In Iraq, the Iraqi troops have been fighting back against the U.S.-led forces, using their weapons and artillery to repel the coalition forces. The Iraqi military has been using its裝备的优势 to hold off the coalition forces, causing many casualties on both sides.

The situation on the ground is becoming increasingly complex, with both sides exchanging heavy gunfire and artillery fire. The coalition forces have been using their air superiority to target Iraqi military installations, while the Iraqi troops have been using their ground forces to counterattack.

The situation is likely to escalate further, with both sides increasing their military efforts to gain the upper hand. The coalition forces are likely to use their airpower to gain a decisive advantage, while the Iraqi troops are likely to use their ground forces to counterattack.

Overall, the situation on the ground is likely to remain tense, with both sides continuing to engage in heavy fighting. The outcome of the conflict is uncertain, and it is likely to continue for some time.

Iowa stays Big Ten roadkill

NEW YORK - For the most part, the sporting world went on as usual Thursday despite the start of the war in the Persian Gulf.

The NIT, NCAA and NBA all held games as scheduled. The only major college basketball game put off was the final of the Big Eight, which was scheduled to start Friday from the U.S. Military Academy and the U.S. Naval Academy.

Big Ten basketball games were also an issue, but the conference decided to go on with the series.

The Hawkeyes gave the go-ahead for the series by agreeing to move last weekend's game to Monday. By going to Monday night's game will happen in the usual 7:30 p.m. time slot.

That also was approved by NCAA president Grantland Rice, who said the series was scheduled to "go forward as planned."

The league wasBig Ten in 1948 when it played two days following the announcement.

"We recognize the importance of achieving the goal established by President Bush and the United Nations," NCAA basketball chairman Bill Odom said in a statement. "We also recognize that the administration will not be permitted to participate in the events in the Middle East to allow for the enjoyment of college basketball.

"We have decided that the games will be played as scheduled."

Wayne Irby, a spokesman for the NCAA, said the governing council issued any directives to the member conferences and institutions, he said.

"The expressed purpose of the United States in World War II was that of defending against an attack, whether it be at home or abroad, on the United States. That is the goal of the NCAA," Irby said.

In one of the few alterations to the sports calendar, the U.S. mailman will attend the World Cup matches in the United States.

"The mailman will be attending the matches," Irby said.

Iowan's unconvincing of Iowa's intensity

By Jay Nanda

The Daily Iowan

In sports, it's sad to learn that from men's mysteries is the only thing that can be discerned from a losing team. But Iowa, 0-11 in the Big Ten, is still not ready to give up.

But Iowa's winning tradition didn't suffer either. Along with having an incredibly balanced roster over the years, the Hawkeyes have know that in itself is a stallion because of a desire for one thing — perfection.

Which explains why even Iowa is currently ranked with a record of 12-6, it is not to the woe calendar or the score in the last few weeks that the Hawkeyes are focusing on.

The only loss this season at the Virginia Tech has come in Chicago.

It appeared Iowa was a 13-12 downhill with sixth-ranked Penn State and had to settle for third, while the Minnesota Gophers followed up that win with a big win over Iowa, 77-69. With the Hawkeyes having achieved its lofty status because of a desire for one thing — perfection.

"For us, it's not about the win or loss," Stringer said in a statement.

"We have been in touch with various other sources on the basis of our meetings and discussed the appropriate conditions for the 1990-91 season."

"I've been very much in touch with various other colleges on this issue," Stringer said.

"It's a meeting with an old foe."

"Our loss was a big blow to their season," Stringer said.

"Theyvell/. We are reviewing the calendar, the European events — both in the United States and Europe — and our coaching staff."

"Eventually, we will have to make a decision, and that decision will be made last meeting."

CNN's intrepid talking heads steal show from networks

The book-billed plains of news and analysis, often so grey, are now blushing red, thanks to the recent appearance of CNN's intrepid anchors who, through a combination of passion and dedication, have managed to make even the most mundane news topics seem intriguing. And as the network continues to expand its coverage, the potential for more such exciting moments is limitless.

1962. The year that defined a generation. For many, it was a time of innocence, a time of discovery, but for others, it was a time of struggle and uncertainty. And in the midst of it all, a young journalist named Tom Hanks stood at the forefront, his words carrying weight and his passion unmatched.

Adventures of a man whose story will forever be intertwined with the nation. His journey, though filled with challenges, was one of determination and resolve. From the humble beginnings of his career to the heights of celebrity, he has never wavered in his pursuit of truth.

As the clock ticks towards the end of the year, we find ourselves reflecting on the past and looking towards the future. The path is uncertain, but one thing is clear: the lessons of 1962 continue to shape our world today.

Region celebrated in 'Dear Iowa'

By Harry Osn By

Dear Iowa, a historic, sweeping play with a cast of characters that span generations, which will attempt to transcend the bounds of time and place in its exploration of relationships and the origins of their being.

The story centers around Steve and Carrie, a California couple who, in the midst of the Iraq war, decide to send a message to their family in Iowa. Their journey takes them on a path of self-discovery and reflection, as they confront the realities of war and the complexities of human relationships.

On Saturday, Jan. 19, at 6 p.m. KSUI will air the first of its series of program titles "RADIO KRONOS." SAN FRANCISCO—It's quite a load or hassle as it would be for Buddy Love or any other TV sitcom character, but Bill Walsh, the San Francisco 49ers head coach, and his NFL colleagues and advertisers aren't about to let anything interfere with the big game. "If you've got the money right now, you've got the right to be here," Walsh said. "It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco.

"There were only a few teams who qualified," he said. "The 49ers made the playoffs by only a hair. We're in the Super Bowl by only a hair. But the Super Bowl is the best time to advertise." Walsh said that the 49ers have been able to advertise their games on a national level, and that they have been able to sell out their home games.

"We're doing it because it's good for the team," said Walsh. "We're doing it because it's good for the fans. We're doing it because it's good for the advertisers. We're doing it because it's good for everyone.

"When you're in the Super Bowl, you're in the Super Bowl. You're not going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco. It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco.

"It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco. It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco.

"It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco. It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco.

"It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco. It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco.

"It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco. It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco.

"It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco. It's not like you're going to get a ticket or something if you go to San Francisco.

Looks like Bo knows when not to play

Oakland, Calif. - Bo Jackson, Raiders defensive end, has been selected to play in his first Pro Bowl.

Jackson, who missed all of last season due to a bone spur on his right foot, will join the bench with the ailinginjury again because he's got a separation - a big problem for him. Due to the injury, Jackson will not hit the bench with the in the mid-20s.

Jackson apparently won't play for the Los Angeles Raiders in today's AFC championship game because of the big injury and theof two sport star, Jackaon'saerial shootout, Buffalo hasadvantage AFC, although not by much. The Associated Press

Jackson's propensity for getting hurt dates back to his days at Auburn. In 1984, he missed almost the entire season with a shoulder injury. The following year, he was the Heisman Trophy winner, but he sat out the second half of a 41-15 loss to Florida because of ain the freezing rain. Jackson says he will be there. Schroeder adds, "I think he can go, he'll be all right." Jackson joined the Raiders in 1987 and all we need until the opening game of the 1988 season. With the Raiders going nowhere, he sat out the final two games. In 1989, Jackson pulled himself out of the Raider game at New Orleans after just two series because of a pulled thigh muscle, now he's back on the bench. Each time, however, he was able to play the next week.

Jackson coach Art Shell calls Bo Jackson 'dependable' for this Sunday's AFC championship game with the team's Buffalo.
