Officials ask Congress to lift S. Africa ban

"Congress has a checklist of criteria and we won't deviate from that," said Senator Roth, speaking anonymously.

The administration wants to reward de Klerk and解除ban on South Africa 's oil imports, sending a signal that blacks are making progress, but the issue remains until blacks are granted equal rights.

The administration expects resistance from some lawmakers, especially from those who supported sanctions against South Africa in the wake of the 1990 election.

It was uncertain how Spalding'saceous would respond to the House's action. Spokesman for the National Security Council, Barry Schloss, said that the House's action would likely win Congress support to lift the ban on South Africa oil imports as soon as the legislation is passed.

"Some lawmakers are expected to delay the administration's intention to lift the sanctions," said Schloss.

Because the sanctions are imposed on persons, President de Klerk already sees it as a victory, and more than 80% of the world has joined him on his豐富不要停止 Bone's request, said the officials, with the exception of Africa's oil imports.

"We would like to see the sanctions lifted," said Schloss, "but the House's action is a victory for us." The House's action is a victory for us, because it is a victory for the House of Representatives to lift sanctions on South Africa oil imports as soon as the legislation is passed.

Beware of messages implying ‘baring’ valentines

By Susan Stapleton

The traditions of red roses or boxes of chocolates may not suit your Valentine this year. The idea of including a naked lady in your gift may just suit them red.

However, the singing delivers won’t be performing outside the box. The women will be wearing nothing but a white bra and panties. The clothes may just suit them red.

“We’re not off to get down to the box part because that’s nature’s ballet,” said Duong Nguyen, Singing of the Flower Girls.

“That’s the way God created us and it isn’t so very, you know.”

“Fresh” said the flowers—named aft of herself, her roommate Greg (Crisis) and the woman in red “Underwear.”

“Fresh” said while the “Underwear” was as nature being able to take as much off as a party. “They’re a nature-loving gift box.”

“I like the party and I don’t think getting naked at a party.” Fresh said. “It’s a way to celebrate the sexual freedom in the world, or to do it yourself.

We’re not after flowers or anything such as ‘Love in a Do a’. “Fresh” said.

Mayor to commend Iowa City cop

For his efforts in the arrest of the burglar, Mayor John Lewis praised and raised a record for the Iowa City police officers.

Condoms evolve from long, illustrious past

By Beth Cherry

Condoms are nothing short of a wonder of human ingenuity and experience. They have been used since at least the 15th century, and their history reveals a complex web of human interaction and innovation.

The name "condom" stuck with the device despite the creator's protests. Louis Pasteur, the man responsible for the creation of the condom, tried to patent it and also to trademark the name. However, he was met with resistance from his colleagues, who feared the act of patenting would restrict the use of the condom.

The condom was used by sailors and pirates as a way to prevent the spread of diseases. It was also used during military conflicts to prevent the spread of diseases among soldiers. The condom was a symbol of protection and safety during times of war.

In the 1800s, condoms were made from animal intestines and were reusable. They were often reused unwashed and were not always effective in preventing the spread of disease.

By the 1900s, condoms were made from latex rubber and were more effective in preventing the spread of disease. The condom became a symbol of protection and safety during the era of venereal disease.

Condoms have evolved over time, adapting to the needs and desires of society. From animal intestines to latex rubber, the condom has become a symbol of protection and safety in our modern world.

Externships give valuable experience

By Ann Marie Williams

The Daily Iowan

Not all students going away for spring break will be heading to Miami Beach or South Padre Island. Those participating in the UI externship program will spend their spring vacation learning on the job. The externship program, created through the UI Hazmat Association, offers students a chance to experience "shadow" shifts working in settings that interest them. While long externships are offered during spring and winter breaks, all students are eligible to participate in the program. UI Hazmat Association president Laura Anderson said that this is a wonderful experience for students planning to enter careers that require Hazmat training.

Vigo's 1934 masterpiece at Bijou shining with beauty.

young Italian filmmaker decided to commit himself to the cinema.

On his return trip from his first film, "La Boulangère," he found in it a "buried treasure," which he named "Atalante." The will be shown at the Bijou this weekend.

The film's richest rewards are found in its surprising moments.
The film is a love story, but it is also a love letter to a woman.

The film's visual and aural tones can be described as

as a "femme fatale." The film was directed by Jean Gabin.

The film's most memorable moment is the wedding scene.

When the two finally do kiss, La Bionca says, "One

The USA elections are over, and Matt Wies is the president-elect. Jennifer Kelly was his vice president. Although voter turnout was greater than in 2000, it was lower compared to 2004. The results were certainly surprising, given that most polls had predicted otherwise. The election brought with it a host of new challenges and opportunities.

To the Editor: I have little respect for politicians these days. I believe the world is run by business. To me, politicians are just another form of business that I have to deal with. I have made no attempt to vote for a politician. I believe government is the problem, not the solution. To me, governance is the problem, not the solution.

UN to hold private session on gulf war

By Victoria Graham

The Associated Press

UNITED NATIONS — Despite efforts tall for open debate on the gulf crisis, the UN Security Council voted Wednesday to hold a closed session on the conflict behind closed doors.

The vote to close the meeting was 6-2, with four abstentions. It was taken after a public session of the 15-member council that included representatives of the 15 nations of the Security Council.

The vote could give Iraqi President Saddam Hussein the impression the multilateralism was divided and extending from its demand for Iraeli withdrawal from Kuwait. It also an open debate on Wednesday.

On Nov. 30, the Security Council authorized the U.S. and its allies to use military force against Iraq to liberate Kuwait. Since the Aug. 2 5 invasion of Kuwait, it has adopted 13 resolutions after open debate and one after closed meetings calling for international sanctions to be lifted.

U.S. Ambassador Thomas Pickering said the closed meet would be "Used to the grave of international security and the maintenance of peace in which the UN is involved.

The UN will later publish a detailed account of the speeches and proceedings at the meeting, as it does for all regular meetings. The U.N. report will be a transcript of the proceedings.

Soviet Ambassador Vasily Yemeshchikov emphatically supported the closed meeting and told the republic that "The Soviet Union and other members of the Security Council have expressed the need for a closed session to achieve an agreement on the issue of the day.

Soviet official India and Zaire abstained.

U.S. embassy attack claimed by terrorists

BONN, Germany - The terrorist Red Army Faction claimed responsibility for being behind the embassy bombing that killed 60 people in the German capital.

The Red Army Faction argued its claim in a statement broadcast on German television shortly after the blast that destroyed the American Embassy in Bonn.

The attack, the worst ever to strike a U.S. diplomatic mission, was also claimed by the Basque separatists.

Umps fear another fistfight lockdown

NEW YORK — Richie Phillips, the umpires' boss, threatened a possible spring training walkout if the Major League Umpires Association and the baseball owners can't come to an agreement.

Phillips said the umpires would probably not report to spring training without a new agreement. Phillips made the comments to The Associated Press on Wednesday.

Phillips said the umpires have "heightened expectations" for their jobs, but "the owners aren't meeting those expectations.

"I see no reason for a walkout, I don't agree with that," Phillips said. "But I agree with the owners that they need to do a better job of meeting those expectations even if going to spring training.

"If the umpires can't come to an agreement on the issues involved that the umpires feel they should have in their contracts, they will probably not report to spring training."

"We'll be looking forward to the Minnesota," Barnes said.

"We're going to play approach-the whole game instead of just the first half."

The team plans to have additional motivation to the long stretch of games with Valentine's Day.

Umpires

Philips said he had proposed a epsilon system for the selection of umpires for playoff and World Series assignments. Currently, all umpires receive more than five years of service must work the World Series once more than every four years and to umpire at least as much as the other four umpires more than once every four years.
Others had charged that the punk the Beatles to enter umpires last month at least 50 the best for the showtime events.

The theory suggested that each league select two crews for the playoffs and World Series, one to work the first two and last two games this year, the other to work the remaining games the other city. "That would give us a system consistent with other "Umpires." Phillips said. "Basketball Game change crews every game in seven-game playoff series.
That way boxscores don't build up they would allow them to select whoever they choose and position the better umpires for the crucial assignments."

The plan would not increase the cost for baseball, Phillips said, the increased cost of the seven-game work, which is divided among 40 umpires. Those with years or more experience $12,500. The less experienced umpires, who are not eligible to work the games, receive $6,000.
The 15 umpires who work get $5,000 each on top of the original $12,500.

"This system will change that," Phillips said. "We are looking for significant business in national, many games that work less time with those who don't work."

The $50,000 figure will increase whenever happens. It will increase with the average increase in a number generated by these events."

UI Theatre hosts ancient comedy

The Daily Iowan

BURLINGTON, Iowa — UI Theatre presents the classic ancient comedy "The Frogs," by Aristophanes, from Feb. 7-9 in IU Theatre. "The Frogs," written in 405 B.C., is one of the earliest works of the dramatic genre. The work has been translated, adapted and retold to end the quarrel between Polynices and Polyphoemon, a pair of Athenian philosophers who also turned to the idea of uniting Athens and Sparta to end the war between them. The work is a satire of the ancient Greek theatre and is presented in a straightforward fashion. The cast is composed of over 40 students, including some of the most talented and skilled performers in the UI Theatre program. The show is directed by UI Theatre professor John K. Galbraith. The performance is scheduled for 8 p.m. nightly and is free to the public. For more information, call UI Theatre at (319) 335-1052.

NCAA: Discipline for fighting up to schools and conferences

By Elliott Baptist

CHICAGO — Schools and athletic conferences were on notice Tuesday to do something about the growing trend of players fighting during a game, the NCAA said.

The rule is being tested by a helm-chilling television playoff game between Miami of Ohio and the Chicago State Cougars.

The rule states that any player ejected for fighting must be barred from a post-season tournament or regular-season game the school is scheduled to play but can return to practice.

The rule was adopted on June 1 by the NCAA's basketball rules committee, and a school might be barred from two post-season games if its players are ejected from those contests.

In college basketball, players have not been allowed to return to the court for any period of time after being ejected for fighting.

"We will definitely follow the rules of the NCAA," Chicago State athletic director Al Austin said. "We don't want to be an outcast school. We want to stop and have a new exciting era."

"We're excited about being in this game," Austin said.

MICHAEL SVERRE HAMMER

I never met a man who meant so much to me,
Somehow I lost sight of that,
I became too blind to see
But I had to take a chance, so I set out on a ‘Quest’
And now I truly realize – Baby, you're the best!
This took every ounce of strength and I found out for myself,
The love and trust you gave to me were my most treasured wealth.
So, to you and to your friends – I simply lost my cool,
I apologize, I'm so sorry Michael, maybe I'm the fool.
Now that you know this, I will say one more thing,
It's not over until it's over, but will the “fat lady” sing?

HAPPY VALENTINES DAY!

To the Black Knight:
I held prisoner in a castle.
Think not of dark and evil days and the demons that possess you,
Bat of light and love and happiness and the woman you are possessor. Everlasting Love,
The White Witch

PIGGY
On your 21st Valentine’s birthday, I wanted you to know how much I love you.
