Gates handed 2-month leave
Mandated action stuns chief

The Associated Press

BRANSTAD-Gov. Terry Branstad on Thursday asked the legislature to consider removing the chief eligibility requirements so more people would qualify to work as police officers and crime victims. The Associated Press received a report detailing the composition of arrested students. Vohs said, "It is not the first step in a cooling process. There's a lot of discussion about the RAYA Gates, and their own, but we're not going to be "tied to this process for that long time."

Branstad to Legislature: Further cuts are needed

WASHINGTON - The committee's chief economist warned that the nation's jobless rate for women and children, and the U.S. policy of open access to campus police records heated up after Feb. 19, 2001. The New York Times reported that the Senate's chief economic forecasting gauge has fallen 60 days paid leave. The OPM's chief economic forecasting gauge has fallen 60 days since the letter was released.

Teachers: More funds needed if improvement is serious goal

By Mike Glover

The Associated Press

—This lead of the state’s teachers union in a letter to the Iowa Legislature is a serious goal. Teachers say they need more money to make the state’s schools competitive.

—The money needed to make the state’s schools competitive, according to the Iowa Teachers Association, is a $2.5 billion surplus. The association says it needs more money to compete with other states.

—In addition to helping the state’s schools, the union also said it wants to improve its members’ working conditions. Teachers say they need better pay, better benefits, and more control over their classrooms.

—The union also said it wants to have a say in the state’s education policies. Teachers say they want a voice in the decisions that affect their students.

—The Iowa Teachers Association is a member of the National Education Association. The union represents more than 14,000 teachers in Iowa.

Kubby: portrait of a councilwoman

By William Pepper

Kubby attended the US and graduated in 1992 with a bachelor's degree in history and music education. She specializes in international studies and taught middle and high school students. She is involved in the Hands-on History Summer Program, which is a volunteer program for students in grades 6 through 10. Kubby was one of the leaders of the banner on the city council on the issue of protecting wildlife areas in Iowa City and also participated in the city council for three years.

At this point, Kubby said she is unsure who kind of campaign strategy she will see, but she is working on environmental issues and legislation. She said, "If the boat needs to be rocked for the good of the community, I'll rock it."

An Associated Press photographer reported that as many as 1.5 million refugees were in the vicinity of Novas in the southeastern part of Kirkuk after Kurdish refugees fled to the mountains near the Iranian border.

Turkey sent at least 100,000 refugees to Iraq to escape Iraqi government troops. Turkey's state news agency said at least 800,000 Iraqis had already reached the mountainous Iranian border.

The Associated Press reporter said at least 40,000 refugees were moving toward the border city of Piran, where a sandstorm had kept them from reaching the border.

Since Thursday, an Iraqi official said that as many as 1.5 million refugees were in the vicinity of Novas in the southeastern part of Kirkuk after Kurdish refugees fled to the mountains near the Iranian border.

In the last two weeks, the Associated Press said it had interviewed scores of refugees and smugglers, many of whom said they were living in fear of arrest.

Casebere's 'Inscape' at UI museum

The Daily Iowan

Casebere's installation "Slide the Light" is on display at the University of Iowa Museum of Art. It is part of the University's Spring exhibit, "A Realm of Kinship," which opens April 5 and continues through April 19. Casebere's work explores the idea of light and its relationship to space and time. The installation is a series of light sculptures that are activated by the viewer's movement. The artwork is intended to create a sense of immersion and to encourage the viewer to think about the nature of light and its effects on the environment.

Postwar Gulf

Questionable goals

The American troops are slowly returning home, but war is still going on in the world. They have suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of the Iraqi armies. The new republics of the Middle East, made up of the Kurds and Shiites who have emerged from various parts of the former empire, are still the center of a new power struggle. The Bush administration is betting on a new approach to the region, which is supported in the United States by a coalition of Western nations.

In the Iraq war, I know we face a long battle with a powerful, ambitious foe. The fourth largest army in the world, the United States, has been fighting in the region for over a decade, and the conflict is not over. The coalition troops are still fighting to establish a government in Iraq.

The main objective of the Gulf war has been achieved. Saddam Hussein has been removed from power. The administration has succeeded in getting the Iraqi troops out of Kuwait.

I believe that for many years the world's main interest has been young Baghdad. The war in Iraq is not over. It is a perpetual conflict, and the United States is committed to staying there for a long time.

Despite my best intentions, I am becoming a big fan of the war in Baghdad. The good news is that we finally have reasons to live in the war. It's sort of the Bush Brothers of the first world, except on a much grander scale.

One of the surprising things is that the first time I ever heard of Saddam Hussein was when I was a child. I remember listening to the news with my parents, and they would tell me about the war in Iraq.

The Bush administration is betting on a new approach to the region. They are counting on the support of the Western coalition. They are betting on a new approach to the region, which is supported in the United States by a coalition of Western nations.

Mike Royko

I'm not sure if there is a difference between the war in Iraq and the war in Afghanistan. I think that the United States is committed to staying there for a long time.

Salvadoran rebels, government cautiously hope to end war

Cordes Hughes
Associated Press

MEXICO CITY - Salvadoran and Mexican officials said Saturday the leaders of the two sides had begun formal talks on ending the 10-year-old civil war.

The talks, held in the presence of the United Nations and the Organization of American States, were announced in the Mexican capital of Mexico City.

The announcement came after the government and rebel leaders met in Geneva earlier this week and agreed to a new round of talks.

The talks were aimed at finding a solution to the conflict, which has left more than 70,000 dead and displaced millions of people.

Despite previous efforts, the war has continued for more than a decade, with both sides accusing each other of atrocities.

The talks in Mexico City were the third round of formal negotiations between the government and the rebels.

The previous rounds of talks were held in Madrid, Spain, and in Washington, D.C., but failed to produce a lasting peace.

The latest round of talks opened Monday with both sides expressing optimism.

The government said it was willing to discuss a wide range of issues, including human rights, land reform, and political prisoners.

The rebels said they were ready to negotiate on all key issues, including the fate of thousands of civilians still held as hostages.

The talks will continue next week in Mexico City.

The United Nations and the Organization of American States are monitoring the process and providing support.

A total of 600 delegates from both sides are expected to attend the meeting.

The talks are seen as a crucial step in the peace process.

The government has been under pressure from international donors to end the conflict.

Vendor claims to be former Mafia hit man

By Michael Holmes
The Associated Press

ALBANY, N.Y. — Triple-A baseball player John Johnson says he's a former Mafia hit man living under the protection of the Catholic Church and determined to keep his claims that he is the real-life 'Candyman' from New York City.

The U.S. Marshals Service, which is handling the case, has not confirmed or denied Johnson's claims. Nor has the Catholic Diocese of Albany in New York State, which Johnson says has offered him protection.

"I am a very necessary person to various law enforcement agencies," Johnson said in an interview with the Associated Press. "I hold the key to solving some of the most heinous crimes in recent memory."

Hughes' 2 homers power Hawks past Panthers

By Eric Wallace
The Daily Iowan

It was in his final trimester before the Penn State game, the one he decided would be his last as a collegiate baseball player, that Iowa Hawkeye catcher and pitcher Pat Hughes gave birth to his first child. It was then he began to consider his future in baseball, and in life.

At the time, Pat Hughes was a junior at Penn State, a hard-hitting catcher who was also a promising starting pitcher. He was thinking about his future in baseball, and in life. He had just played a game where he had one of his best hitting games, going 3-for-4 with two runs scored and two RBIs. He was thinking about what he wanted to do after baseball.

He had just finished a game where he had pitched a shutout, allowing only four hits in 7 innings. He was thinking about his future in baseball, and in life. He had just played a game where he had pitched a no-hitter, allowing only two hits in 9 innings. He was thinking about what he wanted to do after baseball.

He had just played a game where he had pitched a perfect game, allowing only two hits in 9 innings. He was thinking about his future in baseball, and in life. He had just played a game where he had pitched a complete game, allowing only two hits in 9 innings. He was thinking about what he wanted to do after baseball.

Hawks face "tough half" of season

By Michael Perkins

The Daily Iowan

The Hawks' fall season of nine matches is exactly the hard part.

The Hawks' fall season of nine matches is exactly the hard part. Last Saturday, the Hawkeyes faced Indiana in Bloomington and registered a 6-1 win, the first loss of the season for the Hoosiers.

"It's a lot easier," Coach Steve Houghton said. "We have a lot of good, strong players on this team. I've been talking about that for a while, and now we're seeing it in action.

"I think we still have a lot of work to do, but we're finding our rhythm.

"Indiana is a good team, but we're finding our way. We're still growing, but we're learning as we go."
Unbeaten Hebard puts streak on line
By Michael Weidman
The Daily Iowan

In the world of competition, one season is no guarantee of the next. But the streak, the season-long unbeaten streak that Iowa volleyball player Greg Hebard is in the midst of, is not the one that concerns him. "I'm not worried about it," he said. "I'm just on the court to win the match." But Hebard's record is not the only one that is impressive. He has won 17 straight matches and led the Hawkeyes to an 11-1 record in 1990. The Hawkeyes have scored all-around victories in all 17 matches, while team captain Don Scarlett will work the regional meet.

According to DeMarco, the squad will be looking to improve. "We have looked exceptional these past two weeks, and everyone is excited about the opportunity to get back out onto the court." Hebard and Scarlett are two of the best in the country. Hebard is record for consecutive matches without a loss, and Scarlett is record for consecutive meets without a loss. They are two of the best in the country.

The Hawkeyes have come on strong of late, and are looking to continue their hot streak. "I think that there's going to be a good dose of competition," Hebard said. "It will be a good test for us, but I'm looking forward to seeing how good our team is.

Do or die for Hawks at NCAA's

It will be do or die for the Iowa volleyball team as they head to the NCAA tournament. The Hawkeyes have won their last 11 matches, and are looking to continue their hot streak. "I think that we're going to have a good dose of competition," Hebard said. "It will be a good test for us, but I'm looking forward to seeing how good our team is.

"This region has some exceptional teams, and the competition will be fierce," said Iowa head coach Bev Carroll. "We have a good dose of competition, and I think that we're going to have a good dose of competition." Hebard and Scarlett are two of the best in the country.

CARDINALS INSIST ON NO LOCK-OUT

St. Louis - The St. Louis Cardinals insisted there will be no walkout when baseball season opens here, but the success of the 94-game campaign may depend on what happens in the spring training camp.

The roster may look less than auspicious as the time for coaches to make up their minds grows short.

The key question: Can 30-year-old left-hander Jack Clark provide the power expected from a player who hit .294 with 103 home runs and 328 RBIs in the past five seasons?

"He has something to prove," said Manager Tony La Russa, who spent the winter tanking around with Clark.

"Jack is a patient hitter and knows what he is doing at the plate," La Russa said. "He understands the game and knows how to get the job done."

Clark had 17 home runs last season and is expected to lead this year's attack. But La Russa also has high hopes for outfielders Ivan Calderon, Raines, who led the National League with 16 home runs, and Pagnozzi, who hit .278 with 21 home runs.

"Raines and Pagnozzi combine to make one of the best outfield tandems in baseball," said La Russa, who hopes to have Raines and Pagnozzi playing together next season.

"They have something to prove," said La Russa, who has run the Cardinals since 1986. "They can't do what they did last year, but they can do what they did in 1989."

La Russa also has high hopes for catcher Mike Easlick, who hit .300 with 14 home runs and 87 RBIs in 1989. Easlick also leads the Nafwnal League East with 103 RBIs.

The roster may look less than auspicious, but La Russa is confident the Cardinals can win 94 games or more.

"We have something to prove," said La Russa, who spent the winter tanking around with Clark.

ChicagO. (AP) - The Chicago White Sox improved by 25 games on a winning percentage from 1989 to 1990 when they won the American League Central Division.

The White Sox won 20 more games this year, while the second-place Oakland Athletics went down 20 games.

"We won't be position players at times," La Russa said.

Danny Jackson has settled down for a 5-0 record and 1.50 ERA with the Cubs during spring training after signing on as a free agent. Jackson finds control with Cubs in Arizona

By Joe Mozingo
The Associated Press

WIXA, Ariz. — Danny Jackson has control of his pitching and his temper.

The left-hander, who left Chicago and signed with the Chicago Cubs in January 1988, has a 1.50 ERA (ERA = earned run average) and is 5-0 this spring training.

"My control is great, my mental is exploding and I've improved a great change," Jackson said.

But he's got an attitude.

"At Kansas City maybe I was a little supersensitive and everything," Jackson said. "Now it's probably a bit too far the other way and after a month I have to let it out because I have been unhittable."
Party with The Surf One

Sitting low on their orange and black van, looking as inconspicuous as possible, the Surf One members look like a couple of kids who'd just run away from home. They're wearing baggy pants, loose T-shirts, and sneakers, and they seem to be trying to blend in with the scenery.

The Surf One is a local band that's been making waves in the local music scene. They've been playing together for a few years now, and they've built up a following of fans who love their laid-back style and catchy tunes.

The members of the Surf One are all from the same neighborhood, and they've been playing together since they were kids. They started out playing at local bars and clubs, and now they're playing at bigger venues, including the D.C. Rock and Roll Festival.

The Surf One's music is a mix of garage rock and surf music. They've been described as a cross between the Afghan Whigs and the Beach Boys.

For more information about the Surf One, check out their website at surfone.com.
