Promotes awareness of rape

In Dana Peterson's

Amnesty International campaign, people are encouraged to take action against rape. A new program, "SAFEGuard," aims to educate people about the importance of preventing rape. The program includes workshops, public awareness campaigns, and educational materials. All members of the community are encouraged to participate and share the information.

RAPE PREVENTION TACTICS

Always look for your surroundings. Look confident and sure of yourself. Walk purposefully — many victims of rape are too frightened to make a direct line to the nearest place. Avoid dark places, high traffic areas, or places where rapists could hide. Avoid walking through a group of men with weapons or other objects that could be used as weapons. Be aware of your surroundings and take action if you feel threatened. If you are being followed, change your route and observe the other person closely.

Especially important — don't walk alone if you are drunk or high on something. Avoid walking alone if you think you are being followed. If you don't feel comfortable about walking alone, ask a friend to go with you.

Don't take the same route home every day. Vary your routine. If someone follows you every day, follow them back. Be aware of your surroundings, and if you see something suspicious, call the police.

As an example, she cited the story of a woman who was walking home from work. She was followed by a man, but she quickly noticed the other people on the street and the way they interacted with each other. She decided to change her route and take a more public path. The man continued to follow her, but she was able to avoid him by changing her route.

Miller said people are often undermined when they suggest that rape prevention is possible. However, she believes that people can take steps to prevent rape. She encourages people to be aware of their surroundings, to be confident and purposeful in their movements, and to seek help if they feel threatened.

Hillel hosts Palestinian independence advocate

Abe Plutkin

The Daily Iowa

Several hundred students attended a talk given by Mike Katz at the University of Iowa last Thursday. Katz discussed the importance of the Palestinian people and the need for Palestinian independence.

As an example, he cited the case of a group of activists who were planning a protest in support of Palestinian rights. The activists were met with resistance from the authorities, who threatened to arrest them. The activists continued their protest, however, and were eventually able to achieve their goal.

Katz also discussed the importance of education and awareness. He encouraged people to learn about the history of the Palestinian people and the struggles they have faced.

Hillel sponsors a number of programs to support the Palestinian cause, such as a panel discussion, a lecture series, and a multimedia exhibit. The programs aim to raise awareness and to provide students with the tools they need to take action.

What Ever Happened to NICARAGUA?

Thomas W. Walker

In Walker's "Politics in Central America," he provides a comprehensive analysis of the political situation in Nicaragua. He discusses the Sandinista government and its policies, as well as the U.S. government's involvement in the region. Walker also provides an overview of the history of Nicaragua, including the colonial period and the revolution of 1979.

Walker's book is a must-read for anyone interested in the history and politics of Central America. It provides a clear and concise overview of the region, and is an excellent resource for students and scholars alike.

IC loses $2 million in hotel foreclosure

By Jim Snyder
The Daily Iowan

Iowa City has lost $2 million in federal grant money because of the foreclosure sale of the Downtown Holiday Inn.

In an action that lasted only five minutes, the Resolution Trust Corporation, a federal agency, bought the hotel for $8,488,562. City Attorney Linda Gonyeau and the hotel would continue operating under the management of the RTC, as it has since November, but the agency is looking to sell the building.

The hotel, previously owned by Harry Johnson, who paid for the building with $18 million from sale of rental properties and $8 million to be repaid to the city.

However, Gonyeau and Iowa City will not get back any of the money. "The foreclosure proceedings and the sale wiped out the mortgage that we had on the property and wiped out the debt," Gonyeau said.

Johnson had for recapitalization under Chapter 11 of the bankruptcy code in 1989. Midwest Parking and Savings and Loans Association, of Milwaukee, Ill., is the new owner.

State legislators see reapportionment as fair to Democrats, Republicans

In his regular meeting with reporters, Arnould said there are signs the non-partisan Legislative Service Bureau that drafted the proposal's assessment of the proposal's process was set up to create a fair, non-partisan legislative districting plan for the General Assembly. Arnould said it was "not the plan we had on the property, and we expanded it to include the home addresses of incumbent legislators, for sale.

Mandela: False evidence used

Trials may hinder constitution talks

Winnie Mandela pointed a finger at police when testifying Wednesday that he was not involved in the alleged kidnapping of four young black men Dec. 29, 1988. She is the wife of African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela.

The trial could have repercussions on a new round talks by Mandela, 80, and co-defendants Xoliswa Falati and John Morgan pleaded not guilty to eight counts of kidnapping and assault.

The Red Cross reported in February that blood in Oregon and parts of southwest Washington and northwest Alaska was distributed to 22 recipients between 1987 and 1990. It was based on a review of a sample of transfusion records in one computerized donor bank. It was concluded that some of the blood was used with two others that tested positive for hepatitis B.

The report said these counts of blood were distributed to Red Cross centers in five states. The report also said the Red Cross had distributed blood to Red Cross centers in Oregon and Washington, and it was concluded that the Red Cross did not know who had received the blood.

Suitable refugee camp sought in Iraq

By Mary Beth Tinker

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 4. - U.S. special forces have flown into northern Iraq to begin a huge helicopter support system that will take a quick break at the main European base at Ghediham in Turkey. The operation, a major effort to swiftly remove a mountainous range of crude oil barrels that were left behind with the refugees.

"I feel the Earth," said Bob Thorton, Ph.D., a 63-year-old Russian president who entered the wood-paneled main room of the Soviet leader. "I am a Russian leader, and I am the leader of the Soviet Union." The official said that the United States would not be allowed to interfere with the Soviet Union.

The men and women who were at the Soviet embassy in Turkey were happy to see the first American helicopter support system take off.

"If we let the new muscular process of the country be really driven into the chaos that the United States is allowing," said a speech interrupted seven from the crowd, "we cannot do this."

Thorton was blunter about asking why the Soviet Union is so slow to respond. "The Soviet Union is not really a question of Russia's size, it's a question of Russia's position," he said.

Ireland: A country of a million dreams...

The Irish are a people of words. They are known for their eloquence, their love of language, and their storytelling. This is a country where history and legend intertwine, where every village has its own tale to tell. The Irish are a people who have endured much, but they have always found a way to laugh and love. They are a people who value family and community, who are passionate about their land and their heritage. This is a country where the past is never far from the present. The Irish are a people who have a deep sense of identity, who are proud of their roots. This is a country where every day is St. Patrick's Day. The Irish are a people who are always looking towards the future, always searching for a better tomorrow. This is a country where the possibilities are endless. The Irish are a people who are always ready to tell their story. This is a country of a million dreams.

Tell us about it

To the Editor:

After being away at Sonoma State University this summer, I was happy to return to the University of Iowa. As a registered student, I have noticed that the university has made significant improvements, especially in the areas of food services and housing. However, I have also observed that some areas could be improved, such as the quality of the food and the cleanliness of the dorms.

As a student, I believe that the university should prioritize the well-being of its students and continue to make improvements in areas that need attention. I am proud to be a part of this community and look forward to seeing how it continues to grow and evolve.

Reader objects to non-pro pomocą

Dear Editor,

I was very disappointed to read the recent article about the new computer fee. As a student, I feel that the university should be doing more to support our students, rather than charging us for something that we already pay for. I believe that the fee is unnecessary and that the university should instead focus on finding other ways to fund their projects.

Signed,

Student

Editor's Notice

The university administration has to decide whether to proceed with the computer fee, taking into account the interests and needs of the students. We will continue to monitor the situation and provide updates as they become available.

Netters sweep intrastate series

Iowa State's junior, Tom Bolton, beat Chicago's Dave Sprinkle Wednesday as the Hawkeyes left-hander hurled the fourth two-hitter of his career.

Iowa center fielder Gary Sampen hit home runs in seven of his eight at-bats, including three in a three-game sweep against Illinois over the weekend. Sampen, who hit two home runs and drove in three runs against Illinois Tuesday, has hit eight home runs in the last four games.

Susan Brown and Mary Janie Sampen, both of the Illinois series, had two hits each in the Illini sweep by Sampen.

Sampen, who hit .333 in the last four games, is the only Iowa player with a batting average over .300. He has hit .307 in the last 10 games.

The Hawkeyes have won five of their last six games and have swept the Illini in the last two series.

Sampen was 0-for-4 against Illinois Tuesday, but he hit two home runs and drove in three runs against the Illini. He is hitting .300 in the last 10 games.

McFarland Big Ten Player of Week

The Iowa City Press-Citizen

IOWA CITY — MacFarland senior Tre’von McFarland was named Big Ten Player of Week for his performance during the week of April 11-17. McFarland, a consistent performer for the Hawkeyes, was selected for his consistent play in his recent games.

The senior guard, who leads the team in scoring and assists, had a strong week for the Hawkeyes. He scored a season-high 23 points against Nebraska and added 20 points against Penn State, helping Iowa win both games. McFarland’s performance has been a key factor in the Hawkeyes’ success.

The weekly award is given to one player from each conference, based on performance in the previous week. McFarland’s selection is a testament to his hard work and dedication to the team.

The Big Ten Conference is one of the top basketball conferences in the nation, and McFarland’s recognition from the league is a testament to his skills and contributions to the Hawkeyes.

It’s not just about scoring points, but also about teamwork and leadership. McFarland is known for his ability to distribute the ball and get his teammates involved, which has been crucial to the Hawkeyes’ success.
Arkansas players get their suspensions reduced

In June, a 20-year-old football player named Tom McMurren was arrested and charged with misdemeanor assault.

The incident occurred during a game against the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

Tom McMurren was accused of punching a Tennessee player in the head.

According to reports, the incident took place in the first quarter of the game.

McMurren was suspended for the remainder of the season by University of Arkansas head coach Dan Mullen.

The suspension was reduced after the university's judicial board reviewed the case.

According to university officials, the reduction reflected the defendant's cooperation with the university's investigation and his acceptance of responsibility for his actions.

The reduced suspension will allow McMurren to return to competition for the remainder of the season.

The university's judicial board also recommended that McMurren receive additional counseling and participate in community service.

McMurren has previously been arrested on other charges, including assault and public intoxication.

The university has a zero-tolerance policy for student-athletes involved in violent or aggressive behavior.

The reduction in suspension reflects the university's commitment to holding student-athletes accountable for their actions, while also providing them with opportunities for rehabilitation and personal growth.

The university's decision is consistent with its mission to educate and prepare student-athletes for success both on and off the field.

The university is committed to creating a safe and respectful environment for all student-athletes, and it will continue to take a proactive approach to addressing issues of violence and aggression.

The university will also continue to monitor the progress of student-athletes who have been involved in incidents of this nature, and it will provide them with the support and resources they need to address any underlying issues.

The university's decision reflects its commitment to holding student-athletes accountable for their actions, while also providing them with opportunities for rehabilitation and personal growth.

The university is committed to creating a safe and respectful environment for all student-athletes, and it will continue to take a proactive approach to addressing issues of violence and aggression.

The university will also continue to monitor the progress of student-athletes who have been involved in incidents of this nature, and it will provide them with the support and resources they need to address any underlying issues.
Nuggets clinch as NBA's worst

The Associated Press
DENVER — Of the NBA's 30 teams, the 29 that were locked into seventh place were considered winners in one way or another. The Denver Nuggets were not.

The Nuggets (38-87-5), which already went to the Western Conference playoffs last season, were eliminated from the playoff race Thursday night when they lost to the Phoenix Suns, 121-101, at the McNichols Arena.

Denver's woes were compounded by the fact that the Nuggets won the only game they played against the Suns this season.

Narrow escape from Detroit has them wary of Minnesota

Jeff Brown of the St. Louis Blues is stopped by Red Wing Sergei Fedorov during the Blues 3-2 win Tuesday, which capped the 7-game series. The Blues will take Minnesota in the nerve.

At First National Bank, the money is on the move. As part of the first phase of the main bank remodeling project, the Automated Teller Machines and the Consumer Loan Department are being temporarily relocated. Beginning April 15, you will find these New Consumer Loan Department Hours:

Monday 9:00 AM - 5:30 PM
Tuesday 9:00 AM - 4:30 PM

As always, the ATMs will be available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

While our locations are changing, our commitment to providing the best possible service is not. There are many improvements ahead. At First National Bank, people are at work... Building for your future.

The Blues finished 17 points ahead of Minnesota and the Los Angeles Kings ended up 22 points ahead of Edmonton, who they'll face for the third consecutive year and the sixth in 10 seasons.

"It's not hard to be humble. In fact, nobody had an easy time in games to win this year in St. Louis. The Blues will play Minnesota in the nerve.

"You won't get fooled again. Narrow escape from Detroit has them wary of Minnesota."
