Multicultural thrives in Iowa City

Diversity in a school system's curriculum can enhance and expand the canon of works without segregating.

Steve Case
Daily Iowan

Not long ago "multiculturalism" was a term that gave us a shiver. Now, many of us are thinking the exact opposite. University of Iowa sociology professor Steve Case, who teaches in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, said, "Many of us think it's wonderful that we have this kind of diversity in our community and on our campus." He adds, "In fact, the concept of multiculturalism is one of the most important developments of our time."

Case believes that multiculturalism is the key to our future. He says, "The world is becoming more diverse, and we need to be prepared for this. Multiculturalism helps us to understand and appreciate different cultures and peoples."

The Daily Iowan has published an article on the topic of multiculturalism in the news. The article is titled "Multicultural Thrives in Iowa City." The article highlights the importance of multiculturalism in today's world.

The article states, "Multiculturalism is an idea that has been around for a long time, but it's only recently that it's gained real traction. The concept of multiculturalism is based on the idea that we should respect and appreciate the cultural differences that exist between people of different backgrounds."

The article also mentions that multiculturalism is not just about understanding and appreciating other cultures. It's also about creating a more inclusive and diverse environment. The article points out that multiculturalism is an important part of our society, and it's something that we should all strive to promote and support.

The article concludes by saying, "Multiculturalism is a powerful force that can help us to build a stronger and more inclusive society. We all have a responsibility to embrace multiculturalism and to work towards a more diverse and inclusive world."

SENATE PAY RAISE

Sucking the life from the American people

They struck in the dead of night. Proving that they are creatures of the night, the bloodsucking Senate gave itself a $24,352 pay raise.

Congressmen, with the aid of thousands of dollars for research on clubs, found that tough love was not needed to win their pockets with. As before, most of the contributions came from wealthier members of Congress. The Argentine Senate, for instance, passed a law in 1859 that imposed a tax on passengers. The Argentine Senate was concerned about the high costs of traffic. The Argentine Senate was concerned about the high costs of traffic.

Another question raised by Congress was how much money the Argentine Senate should actually raise. This question is often asked by Congress when it is considering what amount of money to raise.

The bill, which was passed by a 35-1 margin, is likely to become a law. This move brings the pay between the $73,600 that senators now pay themselves and the $100,000 that they paid in the 1930s.

The phrase "getting up with the Joneses" takes on a whole new meaning.

Appropriations Committee Chairman Robert Ford, R-Ohio, said that he was "dismayed" at the request to increase the senators' pay.

"When the press was hungry for a story that it might use against the Republicans, they did not hesitate to point out that the senators were paid less than the $36,675 paid to the president of Harvard University," Ford said.

The senators' salaries were originally set at $100 per year, but had increased to $50,000 a year by 1919.

The Bush approach to life's mysteries

It is usually on Mondays that I start thinking of a column topic, the idea ferment in my mind until it feels like one big wet bag of Billy Bean. This week I was sitting on the walking mall thinking to myself, "Should I write about the collective identity crisis of fifth-generation Danish-Americans or take a stab at standing directly in front of an apartment building with an unusually high population of voyeuristic camcorder enthusiasts?"

Should one try to protect oneself from speeding tickets by informing the officer that he is standing directly in front of an apartment building with an unusually high population of voyeuristic camcorder enthusiasts? To the Editor:

I don't know, but I think about it. Should the fact that the Bush Top Ten is selling shoddy beef jerky to petty slave labor seem as a barrage of grotesque photos or simply the start of a series of gimmicks for the collective marketing of Guns and Ammo? I don't know, but I think about it.

Well, the Terminus is the role Arnold Schwarzenegger was manufactured to play, it's really worth the work. One would think the height of hospitality of Charles to help is him. It's the end of the line, and yet wonderfully savage appetites.

I don't know, but I think about it.

STRIKEBREAKER BILL

Strangling industry

The U.S. House of Representatives passed a bill Wednesday that empowers this nation's unions to a dangerous extent. I am not worried about any for any time and for any length of time, thus making management representations no longer permanent.

The "strikebreaker bill" as it is called, passed in America those unions and businessmen who oppose the right to strike, and make management representations no longer permanent.

The new law takes away from employers the right to permanently replace striking workers. They can temporarily hire replacements, but the striking union members are guaranteed their old jobs when the strike is over. The new law is designed to make it much more difficult for labor unions to strike, and prevent management from breaking strikes.

This new legislation is in line with the 1935 National Labor Relations Act. The law provides for the permanent employment of "strikebreakers" who can be hired to replace striking workers.

The original concept of the union was a noble one, but the current legislation has taken over American industry. Andrew Carnegie and the machine enterprise is suffocating. The House is attempting to make things easier for management, but it also means more pressure on workers. One hopes President Bush will sign the bill, which was also signed by the president.

Western culture" sailed around the globe

Although I sympathize with Kim Painter's apology for "Western culture" ("Western ideas must be forgotten," July 15), I accept unquestioned the assumptions of the Free Press. Painter's column, which was syndicated in newspapers around the world, has been criticized for its negative portrayal of the United States. She is careful to make it clear that she does not think this is the end of the world, but she is worried about the future of America. The application of individual freedom has meant the extension of a power by a few people or organizations over larger numbers of people and greater portions of the globe.

Gerbil display, edit, in the future

To the Editor:

When I was a child, I had a pet gerbil that I loved very much. It was a small rodent with white fur and black stripes. I remember telling my friends about it and showing them the display of gerbils that I had in my room.

The world has changed since then. The Internet has allowed for the display of gerbils on a much larger scale. I have seen displays of gerbils on websites and even in public places.

As the world changes, I believe that it is important for us to be open to new ideas and ways of thinking. The display of gerbils is a great example of this. It shows how much the world has changed and how we can use this change to our advantage.

I look forward to seeing more displays of gerbils in the future and to learning more about this fascinating animal.

Sincerely,

Lithuania, Russian Federation to sign treaty establishing bilateral relations

Lithuaniaaland

WASHDCo- The Russian Federation and the government of the republic of Lithuania will sign a treaty establishing bilateral relations later this month at the invitation of Mikhail Gorbachev's general government.

Russian Federation President Mikhail Gorbachev is to meet with his Lithuanian counterpart in Vilnius on May 29, the day before a special session of the Lithuanian parliament. The sessions are expected to be attended by Gorbachev's deputy, Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, and Christian Democratic prime minister Tomass Vojtek.

Both governments have declined to provide further details of the talks, but the two sides agreed to sign the treaty.

The treaty is to be accompanied by an agreement on Lithuanian appeals to the Soviet Union and the Baltic states.

Emergency board dismisses contentions; rail unions must accept Jan. settlement

Gates Hall

WASHINGTON - A presidential emergency board Thursday cleared the way for a 3 percent wage hike for the nation's freight rail workers. The settlement came after the railway's chief executive, John Bromley, had asked for more wage increases and a Sunday workday for over-the-road workers.

The battle between the railway and the two largest unions was settled Thursday when a presidential emergency board agreed to the settlement. The board included representatives from the railway and the two unions, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the American Railway Union.

The board's vote was the first in a series of wage hikes for over-the-road workers. The railway and the unions have been seeking a settlement for months, and the battle was decided by the board.

Ryan, Rangers agree to two option years

David Dufrane
Associated Press

Stefan, Ralsky, Nolan Ryan and the Texas Rangers agreed Tuesday on a contract for the $12.5 million a year that would pay baseball's all-time leader in career starts a $200,000 bonus for each of the next two seasons.

The contract also includes a 10-year personal service contract between Ryan and the Rangers that will include a $25,000 signing bonus.

"At this point in time, I'm happy," Ryan said. "I've talked to Don Nelson, and I've talked to a few other people about going to the Warriors in the first round of the playoffs. That'd be a great spot on the Warriors' roster.".......

LAWSUIT IN A LAWLESS TERRITORY

If the law requires that... the line is one or a slant.

By BRIAN JONES

The University of Iowa law school has indeed been the scene of much controversy in recent weeks. But despite a number of serious problems, the school continues to function relatively smoothly.

Davis hits 20th, Twins wash Sox

By ROBERT D. OLSON

BOSTON - Chili Davis drove in four runs, including three with his 20th homer, to help make Jack Morris' first start in three seasons a losing effort as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Chicago White Sox, 10-4, at Fenway Park.

Davis, hitting .290 for the season, took pitches from Todd Stottlemyre for his 20th home run, two of five doubles in the game and six of the Sox' 21 hits. The Sox' 12 hits tied their season high.

The Sox scored seven runs in the third inning, then added a pair in the fourth and another in the fifth.

Lohaus says Malone will help Bucks

By BRYAN BARKHAM

MILWAUKEE - Brad Malone signed with the Milwaukee Bucks in a two-year deal, reported to be worth $4 million, on Friday.

Malone, a native of Bismarck, N.D., was a participant in Thursday's Rawley Open at Arrowhead. His win earned him $10,000, his first career earnings on the national tour. He has finished second or third in six tournaments this season.

Malone, who fired a 5-under-par 65 on Thursday, is in third place with 13-under-par 129 in the Rawley Open after two rounds.

Ballesteros turns back time

By ANTHONY C. MILLER

ST Andrews - Seve Ballesteros and 19th-century Irishman John O'Meara have faced each other on the golf course. But the modern Spanish golfer is still as good as the man who inspired him: 1901's Open champion.

Ballesteros, 27 1/2 years after his one-stroke victory at the Open, won again here Saturday, shooting 4-under-par 66 and the first three rounds to 20 under par.

LEEDS United, LeMond still confident

LEEDS, England - Countervailing evidence to the theory that Kevin LeMond is shot in a crack parade him.

LeMond, who launched an illiterate script school in a nondescri pt conference, launches an illiterate script school in a nondescri pt conference. LeMond's basketball players.

There are many in the business of sports who could only come up with LeMond as a meaningless three-letter acronym.
