Cleanup begins on oil spill caused by Japanese tanker

Indurain, 27, has emerged from the shadows of his heralded compatriot and Banesto teammate Pedro Delgado, a former Tour winner who, like LeMond, has fallen out of contention.

Indurain dropped out of his first two Tours, in 1985 and 1986, but has steadily improved since finishing 97th in 1987, 47th in 1988, 17th in 1989 and 10th last year.

Meanwhile, the PDM team denied reports that drug use caused Dutch cyclist Erik Baan and his teammates to drop out.

Outsiders may have to negotiate Yugoslavian truce

Croatia's Mesic suggests the European Community send in a peacekeeping force.

Roland Prinz

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia — The Croatian chairman of Yugoslavia's presidency appealed Sunday for European mediation to end ethnic fighting in the secessionist republic and said foreign peacekeepers may be needed if truce talks fail.

Stipe Mesic commented on the eve of a European Community meeting today to discuss stopping violence that erupted in Yugoslavia after Croatia and Slovenia declared independence June 25.

But at least one EC official opposed a peacekeeping force, proposing instead combined patrols of federal and Croatian soldiers with EC oversight.

"We need to go a step further and say to both the federal army and the territorial militias of Croatia to join hands in peace," said Dutch Foreign Minister Hans van den Broek, whose nation holds the EC presidency.

Van den Broek said he and EC envoys from Portugal and Luxembourg will travel to Yugoslavia on Tuesday.

An EC-brokered truce in neighboring Slovenia has been in effect since July 8, and federal army troops have agreed to pull out. In Croatia, about 50 people have been killed since Thursday in fighting involving ethnic Serbs opposed to secession.

Although fighting appeared to subside in Croatia on Sunday, Mesic urged the EC to act quickly to "warn both Serbia and the Yugoslav army that war cannot resolve anything," Mesic said in an interview.

If peace efforts fail to guarantee withdrawal of federal troops and ethnic Serb militias, Mesic said a European peacekeeping force may be one of the few options.

Mesic suggested the force patrol republic borders and help quell friction between Croats and the republic's ethnic Serb minority, which wants to join Serbia.

Belgrade's Borba newspaper reported today that federal Premier Ante Markovic threatened last week to resign unless his government is allowed to function normally within three months.

Markovic has tried to keep Yugoslavia together and has pressed economic reform, but republic leaders regard him as irrelevant.

START to play 2nd fiddle to reforms

Bush to tour Ukraine, lobbies for changes

Tom Raum
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush on Sunday dubbed his upcoming meeting with Mikhail Gorbachev "the first post-Cold War summit" and welcomed the dawn of a U.S.-Soviet partnership not dominated by the arms race.

"It will be a good trip, but it isn't one where you look for a 20-point breakthrough on this, that or the other," Bush said on the eve of his departure for Moscow and his fourth summit with the Soviet president.

Both sides were suggesting that the signing of a START treaty would take second billing to economic and political reforms at this week's two-day session.

"Soviet-American relations are now becoming fully normalized," Soviet foreign ministry spokesman Vitaly Churkin said Sunday in Moscow.

Churkin, interviewed by Cable News Network, said the summit would "further solidify Soviet-American relations and their crucial role in the current world as it moves from the Cold War to a new kind of relationship between nations."

He said a successful summit would help both Bush and Gorbachev politically — at home and internationally. "And success never hurt a politician," Churkin said.

Bush, speaking with reporters on the golf course at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland, said the signing of the treaty to reduce long-range nuclear missiles "will be very important, but it will be a symbol."

"It will be a symbol that we've done something that has been in the mill for some time," Bush said.

"This is the first post-Cold War summit in a sense. A lot has happened; a lot of change is still going on," Bush said. He said the summit would give him a chance to hear again from Gorbachev "first-hand about the problems."

Earlier, in a written statement, Bush said that "this will not be an 'arms control' summit."

"Our main task on this trip is to chart a course for our relationship in the 1990s at a time when the U.S.S.R. is going through an incredible economic and political transformation," Bush said.

"The U.S.S.R. is in the midst of an astonishing transformation, as is our relationship to this great state," he added.

With warming relations between the two superpower rivals, the arms race — a subject that has

Negotiators ready to OK final copy of nuclear treaty

Hanns Neuerburg

GENEVA — U.S. and Soviet teams worked down to the wire Sunday to convert into treaty language the final points of the pact on long-range nuclear arms, which President Bush and Mikhail Gorbachev agreed upon only two weeks ago.

Nine years in the making, the historic treaty and its related protocols are about 600 pages, considered to be the longest and most complicated arms control accord ever reached.

The initialing by the chief U.S. and Soviet negotiators, Linton Brooks and Yuri Nazarkin, will take place Monday at the Soviet mission, closing the 15th round of talks.

The pact, to be formally signed two days later by Bush and Gorbachev at the Kremlin summit, is the first superpower agreement actually reducing the number of long-range nuclear weapons targeted at each side.

Brooks, a one-time commander of a missile-carrying nuclear powered submarine, has been serving on the delegation for more than two years. His Soviet counterpart, a fluent English speaker, has been on the job for at least four years.

They will have to initial about 300 pages in each of the four copies at the closing session Monday at the Soviet mission.

"It makes a total of about 1,200 initials on both sides," said an official familiar with the preparations, speaking on condition of anonymity. "It's almost enough to make your arm fall off."

Ballpoint pens with American and Soviet emblems will be in sufficient supply to be kept as mementos by those involved.

Iranian minister works for settlement in Afghanistan

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati of Iran arrived Sunday to try to forge a political settlement to the war in Afghanistan that would clear the way for nearly 6 million refugees to go home.

Feuding among Afghani guerrilla groups in Iran and Pakistan has crippled attempts to end the conflict.

Velayati told reporters at Islamabad Airport, "It's not an easy problem. It's been around for more than 12 years. It will take time to solve."

He and Pakistani Foreign Minister Akram Zaki are expected to pressure guerrillas to sit together at the negotiating table, which they have not done since the Kremlin withdrew its troops from Afghanistan in February 1989.

He entered the game with a lead and with runners at second and third with two outs in the eighth. Mike Aldrete's bad single scored two runs, and Brown followed with his first home run of the season, ending the A's three-game losing streak.

IMF places condition of reform on Algerian aid

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — The head of the International Monetary Fund met Sunday with President Chadli Bendjedid and later pledged strong financial support if Algeria pressed ahead with political and economic reform.

Michel Camdessus, the IMF's director general, said Algeria's shift to multiparty democracy and a market economy is essential if the country is to overcome its difficulties.

"The support of the rest of the world . . . won't be lacking if Algeria perseveres in its attempts at reform, modernization and overture," he said, without offering specific incentives.

At a news conference, Camdessus urged foreign banks to become involved in Algeria and said the IMF believed the country deserved support.

325-gallon sundae helps IC children

David Greedy/Daily Iowan

Econofoods employee Paul Bettle serves up some sundae made from 325 gallons of ice cream at the store at Pepperwood Place in Iowa City Saturday afternoon. Quarts and pints of the sundae were sold to the public with all proceeds going to the Children's Miracle Network

Natalie Glass
Daily Iowan

The last thing you would expect to find in a livestock tank would be ice cream, but that's exactly what was put into one Saturday at the Iowa City econofoods store — 325 gallons of ice cream to be exact.

The 325-gallon ice cream sundae was part of a promotion to help raise funds for the Children's Miracle Network of Iowa City.

"We run different events throughout the year like this," said Kathy Thor, the store's promotion director. "At the end of the year, the Children's Miracle Network has a telethon, and we present a check."

The sundae, a concoction of butterscotch, strawberries, cherries, bananas, chocolate, whipped cream and, of course, ice cream, was put together by the store's employees. The sundae sold for 50 cents a quart or 25 cents a pint and according to Thor, it went fast. Seventy sundaes were sold within the first hour. The sundae, which took about an hour to build, went on sale at 10 a.m. and was gone by about 3:30 p.m.

Quite a few shoppers came to see the sundae, but there were still some who looked surprised to see it sitting near the store's bakery.

"It's really big. I didn't think it

Options to herbicide use discussed at public forum

Steve Cruse
Daily Iowan

Members of the Hoover Nature Trail board of directors responded Friday to complaints about trail development methods and discussed possible alternatives to those methods.

The board members held a public meeting in the Union's Big Ten Room to address charges that prairie life along the 115-mile planned recreation trail is being unnecessarily destroyed by the application of herbicides. The meeting was attended by four of the board's 16 members and one adviser from the Iowa Natural Heritage Foundation. The other members had prior commitments, said board President Robert Sayre.

Sandy Rhodes, a volunteer worker on the trail who first complained about the development procedure, told the board members that while he was not "totally opposed" to herbicide use, the extent of its use "22 to 30- or 40-feet wide seemed excessive to me."

Sayre acknowledged that herbicide application may have been excessive in some spots, but said, "I don't want to get into our past mistakes; they were innocent mistakes." Whether the chemicals will continue to be used, and in what quantity, will be determined by the full board at a later date, he said.

Teacher accused of abuse to get new hearing

The appeals court said the school board acted improperly by not limiting evidence to the incident in question.

Mike Glover
Associated Press

DES MOINES — A Centerville teacher fired after being charged with kicking a 12-year-old student should get a new hearing before local school officials, a split Iowa Court of Appeals said.

The majority of the court said school officials improperly took evidence about earlier problems between the student and the teacher, Francis Thoms.

A dissenter in the 2-1 ruling Friday said the firing "seems to me to be severe," but argued judges shouldn't substitute their judgment for that of school officials.

Court records said the dispute began at a Centerville elementary school, where Thoms was teaching music. During a class, Thoms asked one of the sixth-graders to move into the hall but soon noticed the door was open.

"Mr. Thoms then walked over and with his foot pushed (the youngster) out of the doorway," the court said.

The incident sparked a dispute about whether Thoms had kicked the youngster. Local school officials sought to fire him, and the school board had a hearing on the issue. Thoms, 55, had taught for 27 years.

"Part of the evidence presented related to prior problems Mr. Thoms had when imposing discipline on students," the court noted.

The school board fired Thoms, and a lower court affirmed the action. But the appeals court overturned the decision, saying officials improperly considered evidence involving other incidents. At issue in the hearing was a single incident, and Thoms is due another hearing with evidence limited to that incident.

Judge Albert Habhab disagreed.

"The action of the board in terminating Mr. Thoms' employment seems to me to be severe for a person who has given that many years to the teaching profession," said Habhab.

"It is not our task to judge the wisdom of the board's action, nor can we force the board to adopt a policy which we may think is preferable," Habhab said.

Police rewarded with new fingerprint method

Cyanoacrylate led to a conviction in Polk County after a perfect palm print was lifted from a body.

Associated Press

DES MOINES — Des Moines Police Lt. James Trotter's persistence with a new fingerprint technique has paid off in the conviction of a man whose palm print was found on the corpse of his estranged wife.

The technique, known as cyanoacrylate, generates distinct fingerprints by using melted glue to form a mist that hardens over a piece of skin or other object. There have been only about seven criminal cases, in places as far-flung as Japan and Canada, in which prints have been taken from bodies, Trotter said.

Earlier this month, Polk County prosecutors used fingerprints gathered by Trotter to convict William Helm Jr., 24, of first-degree murder. He had been accused of strangling his estranged wife, Susan Helm, 24, with what appeared to be a thin wire.

Assistant Polk County Attorney Nan Horvath said it would have been difficult to obtain a conviction in the case without the print.

Trotter has been using the new fingerprint technique for almost two years, but he never before obtained a print that could help lead to a conviction. He said that he had never seen a print as clear as the one taken from Susan Helm's body and that his first attempt in that case was unsuccessful.

He turned up the hot plates on the glue full blast and repeated the process. As the mist of glue hardened, the palm print emerged.

"I'm surprised you didn't hear me let out a war whoop when we found it," he said. "I was ecstatic."

The victim's parents, Rae and Sharon Heiple of Peoria, Ill., said they appreciated the officer's persistence.

UI official promotes racial diversity

Heather Pitzel
Daily Iowan

Diversity and quality go hand-in-hand for Greg Williams, interim director of the UI's Opportunity to Iowa program.

Williams became interim director July 1, replacing Philip Hubbard who retired as director last December. Williams is also a candidate for the permanent director position this fall.

He looks like any other successful, white UI law professor — most people would never guess he has a black father and grew up in housing projects in Muncie, Ind.

Williams came to the UI in 1977 and worked as assistant and associate dean for admissions and financial aid in the law school for over 10 years. "When I came to the university in 1977, there was only one other black faculty member in addition to me and one Asian-American."

He developed a program called "Bridging the Gap" to help minority students prepare for law school, see what it is like and talk with professionals about job opportunities.

Every spring undergraduate minorities from across the country participate in the program, attending a mock law school class and asking questions about the LSAT — the law school entrance exam. "In 1978 there were 25 participants; last year there were about 225," Williams said.

He explained that what he would be doing as interim director is very similar to the job he has done at the law school for the past 10 years.

"We are going to try to increase representation of minority students. When I came here there were four minority students out of an entering law class of 225. Now minorities make up 19.3 percent of the entire law school and 15 percent of the faculty," Williams said.

He will continue to teach at the law school next year whether or not he gets the position. If he becomes permanent director, he wants to assist the graduate school in increasing the number of "students of color" and work with faculty recruitment.

"My office would serve as consultant to various colleges. These issues of student and faculty recruiting are part and parcel of their responsibility as well," Williams said.

"I see my role as facilitator and consultant to help figure out a way to go about these things. Diversity and quality — it's what a university is all about."

Women bear brunt of layoffs; officials blame seniority system

Associated Press

DES MOINES — Women account for the majority of state employees who received layoff notices last week, and state officials say the seniority system is to blame.

State officials released names of 630 of the 851 workers laid off by Gov. Terry Branstad. About three-fourths of the state university workers affected are women, while women account for about two-thirds of the people losing their jobs in other areas of state government.

Recent figures show that women hold about half of the full-time jobs in the executive branch of state government.

"One of the things we have focused on and have made a great deal of accomplishment in lately is increasing the number of women — not just in the workplace — but in management positions," said Dick Vohs, press secretary for Gov. Terry Branstad.

The layoff process was decided.

"It's certainly a setback, a major blow," said Laurie Haag, program developer at the UI Women's Resource and Action Center.

Students collect funds for China

Kim Dykshorn

Daily Iowan

Members of the Friendship Association of Chinese Students and Scholars collected approximately $150 in donations on Saturday to be sent to flood victims in China.

According to Xin Li, vice president of FACSS, more than 100 million people have been affected by the floods in China, including 2 million who are homeless.

"This is the most severe flooding in China in 40 years," Li said. "It has been flooding since June and will not stop at least until September."

Already, more than $1,200 has been donated by members of FACSS, which includes 300 UI Chinese students and scholars. On Saturday, Li and two other members of the group informed and accepted donations from Iowa City residents on the Pedestrian Mall.

Li said that the $25,000 donated to China by the U.S. government is little compared to what other countries have given. In addition, he said U.S. news agencies have "not done much" to inform Americans of the severity of the flood.

Li cited a Chinese newspaper that reported more than 21.4 million acres of farmland had been destroyed, amounting to a $3 billion economic loss. He also said that 20 out of the 30 provinces in China have been affected by the flood.

"In three of the provinces, the railroads and highways are completely terminated," said Li.

FACSS will send the donations to the Chinese Relief Association in Beijing, China. Donations are still being accepted by Xin Li, 126 N. Clinton St., Apt. 4, Iowa City, IA 52245. Those who donate will receive a Chinese bookmark and an official letter of thanks from the Chinese Embassy in Chicago.

Campbell talks in IC on abuse State tries to prevent violence

Steve Cruse

Daily Iowan

Attorney General Bonnie Campbell visited Iowa City Friday to speak about domestic violence and what the state is doing to combat it.

In a meeting with about 30 legislators, religious leaders, volunteers and other local residents at the Iowa City Public Library, 123 S. Linn St., Campbell said she had learned much about the problem since taking office last January.

"I had no idea of the extent of domestic violence in Iowa," she said. "You drive along the highways and byways of the state and see all these beautiful, pastoral communities, and it's easy to forget that bad things happen there, too."

There are about 6,000 reported cases of domestic abuse each year in Iowa, but Campbell said that figure is "probably drastically low" as many cases go unreported. "It's probably two to three times higher."

The campaign against domestic

violence, she said, has been bolstered by two recent developments: the state Legislature's passage of new crime victim legislation and a public education program launched earlier this year.

The new law went into effect July 1. Among its provisions are stronger penalties for offenders, compensation programs for victims and required treatment for convicted abusers.

"We have the strongest law by far and also the most progressive," Campbell said.

The public education program consists of billboards that read "Battering Women Is a Crime" and list a toll-free hot line, as well as public service announcements on radio and television. The announcements — examples of which were played for the audience — took different approaches, some featuring dramatic depictions of abused women and others presenting information in a straightforward manner.

Also speaking was Marti Anderson of the Crime Victims' Assistance Division in the attorney general's office, who described in detail the provisions of the new law. Particularly significant, she said, was that the new compensation programs are funded in part by criminal fines.

A third speaker, Kathleen Ruddell of the Domestic Violence Intervention Program in Iowa City, described the program's operation and said it needed more funds and transportation vehicles. DVIP offers help to about 2,000 local women each year, she said.

State Rep. Minette Doderer, D-Iowa City, attended the meeting and praised male legislators who had supported the new law.

Cedar Rapids corporation buys Holiday Inn

Larry Offner

Daily Iowan

A $10.5 million bid sealed the purchase of the Iowa City Holiday Inn Thursday.

Larkin Inc., a Cedar Rapids-based corporation, purchased the Iowa City Holiday Inn from the Resolution Trust Corporation, a federal agency charged with selling off assets of failed savings and loans.

Marvin Vuicich, an asset manager for the RTC, said the Larkin Inc. bid had been approved by an RTC credit review committee. Larkin Inc., owned by brothers Larry and Ken Cahill, is said to be one of the largest U.S. Holiday Inn property holders.

The RTC realized its asking price of $10.5 million for the 6-year-old building. However, according to City Attorney Linda Gentry, Iowa City will not be reimbursed the $2.5 million federal Urban Development Action Grant it had lent the original owner to build the hotel.

The hotel's original owner, Dr. Harry Johnson of Minneapolis, Minn., filed for bankruptcy in 1989. The hotel had been appraised at $15 million the year before.

Johnson's lender, Midwest Savings and Loan of Minneapolis, failed and was taken over by the RTC. The RTC foreclosed on the hotel and purchased it for the $8.5 million that Johnson owed Midwest.

The RTC then offered the hotel for sale to recoup its $8.5 million. The proceeds from the sale to Larkin Inc. will go to the RTC and Ohio National Insurance Co., which also lent money to Johnson for the hotel.

Initial papers will be signed next week with final closing scheduled for Dec. 31, 1991.

"It hurts you to your soul that this tragedy has come into our community," he said Sunday. "You want to cry. You want to holler. You want to blame somebody for this pain. We didn't need death. We've got enough of that already."

Blacks are dissatisfied with reassurances by Mayor John Norquist and Police Chief Philip Areolla that they are sensitive to the needs of all residents following revelations in the Jeffrey Dahmer mutation.

Dahmer, 31, has admitted killing and butchering 11 males in his apartment. Nine of the victims were black and one was a 14-year-old Laotian boy, who was seen naked and bleeding on May 27 outside Dahmer's apartment.

Neighbors called police, but the boy was allowed to go with Dahmer after Dahmer convinced the police his companion was an adult homosexual partner involved in a domestic spat after he had too much to drink.

Three officers were suspended Friday pending an investigation of why they didn't check Dahmer's background, which would have shown his 1989 conviction of molesting the older brother of the boy who was killed. At least four others were killed following the incident.

Neighbors and community leaders said police didn't heed their complaints because they are black. About 20 percent of the city's 960,000 residents are black.

"Everybody was ignored," Buck said. "My mother used to say if you're in trouble you can always go to the police. I don't know if that's true anymore. We've been saying to the police there's something wrong."

Over the weekend, black leaders asked the state attorney general's office to look into the Police Department's training, policy and procedures.

"I believe that only an independent agency can assist us toward mending the many wounds which perceived lack of police support has wrought," said state Rep. Gwen-dolynne Moore, D-Milwaukee.

"Mothers are suffering, families are suffering because of the negligence of the police department," added state Rep. Marcia Coggs, D-Milwaukee.

They spoke at a news conference Saturday outside Dahmer's apartment building.

Also on Saturday, city Alderman Michael McGee said the U.S. Justice Department should take over the case.

"We've got to have an outside investigation now," said McGee, a black activist often critical of City Hall policies.

"It's a hate crime," McGee said. "A blind man can see this is a race crime. The majority of his victims were black. He hates black people, period."

Croats retook the Serb-occupied village of Kostajnica, 50 miles south of Zagreb. It said another policeman wounded two days earlier also died.

If the EC rejects peacekeeping, the Soviet Union is opposed to the United Nations making the same offer, said a spokesman for President Mikhail Gorbachev.

Igor Malashenko said Sunday an international force could hasten the breakup of Yugoslavia with groups using "U.N. presence to separate, to break... with the rest of the country."

The EC is monitoring the cease-fire in Slovenia and the withdrawal of federal troops, removing the biggest obstacle to the republic's full independence.

But Croatia's explosive ethnic mix may complicate any similar truce negotiations.

Croatia's State Council late Saturday supported a cease-fire. Mesic, however, refused to offer concessions either to Serbia or the Serb minority of 600,000, comprising slightly more than 10 percent of Croatia's population.

would be this big," said Kierston Headlund of Iowa City. Headlund said she came to Econofoods, 1987 Broadway St., just to catch a glimpse of the mountain of ice cream.

"When I heard it would be in a livestock tank, I thought it would be kind of gross, but they've got a liner in it."

According to Keith Welch, a manager trainee at the store, plenty of ice was placed at the bottom of the tank to prevent melting.

Toppings for the sundae were donated from Hershey's and Kraft. The ice cream was donated by Gillette, Schoeps and Meadowgold.

SUMMIT: Bush to Moscow on Tuesday

Gorbachev — to the Ukraine for what the White House is billing as a "major address" in Kiev. It will mark the first time a U.S. president on a state visit will travel to a republic outside Russia.

U.S. officials said Bush would seek to walk a fine line in promoting reform within the Soviet Union and its 15 republics without seeming to undermine Gorbachev or appearing to tamper in internal Soviet affairs.

Bush said a discussion of expanding economic relations was high on his agenda. He and Gorbachev were expected to sign an assortment of documents to carry out some of the promises made at the recent London economic summit for Western technical assistance to the battered Soviet economy.

In addition, the U.S. president was expected to tell Gorbachev that he was ready to send to Congress a long-delayed trade agreement that will open the way for granting Moscow most-favored-nation trading status.

Bush, in his golf-course comments on Sunday, said there had been some "technical hang-ups" in granting the low-tariff trade benefits to the Soviets. "But I'd like to see that matter resolved, and I think it can be, very soon. Stay tuned."

Bush said Sunday he wasn't discouraged by the lack of an Israeli response. Even so, he said, "It is in their interest to go to this conference. It's in the interest of the other parties and in the interest of world peace."

Rhodes said Sunday he wasn't discouraged by the lack of an Israeli response. Even so, he said, "It is in their interest to go to this conference. It's in the interest of the other parties and in the interest of world peace."

TRAIL: Hoover trail responds

Rhodes and others in the audience also expressed concern about the planned use of a soil sterilant to prevent weed growth along the trail, saying it could wash down from the trail surface to contaminate surrounding habitat and groundwater.

Distributed at the meeting were copies of the current HINT environmental and maintenance policy, the product of a four-member panel appointed by the board. It recommends an inventory of land types along the trail, allows for herbicide application in some areas and prescribes one application of a soil sterilant to the trail surface "by a licensed applicator following label instructions."

Lon Drake, a member of the policy panel, called the soil sterilant "the only economical solution" to the problem of weeds growing through the trail, explaining that other methods, such as laying down textiles under the trail surface, were too expensive.

Working the chemical into the soil, Drake said, would prevent washout to surrounding areas. "I think the environment has the ability to absorb a small application without damage," he said.

Audience members suggested other methods of clearing foliage, such as placing less expensive plastic sheets under the trail surface or cutting plants' roots and flaming the soil. Drake said the plastic sheets would wash away too easily; however, the board members did not immediately reject the cutting-and-flaming suggestion.

Rhodes said after the meeting he was satisfied with the board's initial response to his concerns. "If they pay attention to the recommendations of the advisory board — not spraying in such a wide swath, using appropriate seed to revegetate land — then they have made a great step forward," Rhodes said.

However, he expressed disappointment that the board had not been able to take any definite steps due to the absence of a quorum.

than 100,000 fans who lined the famous boulevard on a brilliant summer day.

The crowd included a group of more than 200 students from Spain, painted in the national colors of red and yellow.

Each time Indurain passed their spot, they waved their Spanish flags and yelled "Vamos Indurain!"

LeMond had his worst finish in his six Tour de France appearances. He was third in 1984, second in 1985 and won in 1986, 1989 and 1990. He missed the 1987 and 1988 Tours when he was recovering from an accidental shooting and injuries.

He led the race for five stages in the first half of the Tour but faltered in the mountains, slowed by a viral infection and sore feet. Indurain took over and held a comfortable cushion throughout the final week.

LeMond attempted to win the final stage, breaking ahead midway through and building up more than a minute advantage as he entered the Champs Elysees to the cheering throng.

The pack increased its pace to catch him and it became a race for the sprinters, led by two of the best, Konyshov and Abdoujaparov.

Abdoujaparov, going all out with his head down, swerved into the barrier and took a hard ball as other riders catapulted over him.

Indurain took part in his first Tour de France in 1985 and quit after the fourth stage. He completed the race for the first time in 1987, finishing 97th. He improved to 47th in 1988 while helping Delgado win, then showed his potential last year by placing 10th.

against the Blue Jays. Gubicza allowed one run on five hits, striking out four and walking two in his first victory over Toronto since Aug. 6, 1988.

Storm Davis went the final 3 1/3 innings for his second save. The Blue Jays have lost four of their last five games.

Tom Candiotti (9-10) allowed five runs on eight hits, as his ERA jumped from 2.09 to 2.31.

Athletics 4, Orioles 3

BALTIMORE — Rickey Henderson hit the tie-breaking homer in the eighth inning, capping an Oakland comeback and a three-game sweep of Baltimore.

Henderson's seventh homer snapped a 3-3 deadlock. The A's scored 25 runs in the series and have won six of seven.

Down 3-0, the Athletics tied it in the sixth when Rickey Henderson and Dave Henderson singled off Ben McDonald (4-5) and Jose Canseco followed with his 27th homer.

Reliever Rick Honeycutt (2-2) pitched out of a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the seventh. Dennis Eckersley got the last three outs for his 25th save.

Both dugouts emptied in the top of the first inning after McDonald hit Canseco in the back with a curve ball. After walking to first base, Canseco took several strides back toward McDonald, who had faced 781 batters without hitting one before plunking Canseco.

Mariners 6, Indians 5

CLEVELAND — Pinch-hitter Alfonzo Powell drove in the go-ahead run with a seventh-inning infield single and Pete O'Brien had three RBIs as the Seattle Mariners beat the Cleveland Indians 6-5 Sunday.

The Mariners, winners of 12 of 17 games since the All-Star break, took the season series with Cleveland 10-5, matching their best win total ever against one team.

Randy Johnson (9-7) got the win, allowing five runs and six hits in six innings. Bill Swift got the final two outs for his ninth save. Reliever Mike York (1-3) took the loss.

Albert Belle hit his 17th homer for Cleveland.

Angels 8, Yankees 4

NEW YORK — Luis Sojo drove in three runs and Max Venable homered as California beat New York.

Jim Abbott (9-7) gave up eight hits, struck out six and walked one in eight-plus innings before being relieved by Bryan Harvey after the Yankees scored twice in the ninth.

The Angels scored three runs in the second off rookie Scott Kamiecki (4-3) on Luis Sojo's two-run double and Dick Schofield's RBI single.

White Sox 5, Red Sox 2

BOSTON — Robin Ventura hit his third homer in two days, a two-run shot in the sixth inning, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Boston Red Sox 5-2 Sunday night for their first three-game series sweep in Fenway Park since 1987.

The Marliners, winners of 12 of 17 games since the All-Star break, took the season series with Cleveland 10-5, matching their best win total ever against one team.

Randy Johnson (9-7) got the win, allowing five runs and six hits in

With their fourth victory in a row, the White Sox went 11 games over .500 (54-43) for the first time this season and moved within three games of first place Minnesota in the AL West.

Alex Fernandez (5-7) scattered seven hits in seven-plus innings, including Tom Brunansky's 12th homer in the second and Luis Rivera's sixth leading off the eighth, and earned his first victory after five no-decision appearances since June 27.

Fernandez, who was replaced by Scott Radinsky after Rivera's homer, struck out two and walked two in handing Boston its ninth loss in 10 games. Bobby Thigpen pitched the ninth for his 23rd save and his third of this series.

Boston's Greg Harris (6-11) blanked Chicago on two hits for five innings, but was unable to hold a 1-0 lead given him when Brunansky lined an 0-1 pitch into the screen in left-center for his first home run since June 20.

ninth on Billy Hatcher's RBI single.

Astros 9, Pirates 7

HOUSTON — Casey Candaele homered and scored four runs and Ryan Bowen won for the first time in the major leagues as the Houston Astros snapped a seven-game losing streak with a 9-7 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates on Sunday.

The Astros scored five runs in the third off Pirates starter Zane Smith and held on for Bowen, who went five innings, allowing four runs on six hits. Jim Clancy, the fourth Houston pitcher, got the final three outs for his fifth save.

The Astros trailed 3-1 before bat-tting around in the third. Candaele reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on Jeff Bagwell's single. Ken Caminiti walked and both runner scored a double by Mike Simms. Mark Davidson's third hit of the game scored Simms and chased Smith. Rookie Andujar Cedeno followed with an RBI triple off Vicente Palacios, making it 6-3.

Padres 2, Mets 0

SAN DIEGO — Fred McGriff drove in two runs with a two-out double in the sixth inning and Andy Benes gave up five hits in eight innings as the San Diego Padres beat the New York Mets 2-0 on Sunday.

The Mets, who have lost five of six games, missed a chance to make up a game on NL East-leading Pittsburgh, which lost to 9-7 to Houston.

The Pirates maintained a seven-game lead over New York, with St. Louis another game back in third.

Benes (5-10) allowed five hits and struck out four without a walk. Craig Lefferts pitched the ninth for his 16th save.

Frank Viola (11-7), who lost his second straight game, struck out seven and walked one in seven innings.

Giants 2, Phillies 1

SAN FRANCISCO — Matt Williams and Kevin Mitchell each homered Sunday as the San Francisco Giants won their eighth straight game, defeating Philadelphia 2-1 and handing the Phillies their seventh straight loss.

Bud Black (8-8) went 6 1/3 innings, allowing one run on four hits as the Giants swept the three-game series. Jeff Brantley went the final 2 1/3 innings for his ninth save.

Tommy Greene (7-4) went seven innings, allowing seven hits. He struck out six and walked three.

Williams homered off Greene to lead off the sixth, breaking a 1-1 tie. Williams has 19 homers this season, seven in the last 14 games.

myself. I didn't know how to respond to this kind of game."

Martinez, a native of Nicaragua, is the first opposing pitcher to throw a complete-game no-hitter in the 30-year history of Dodger Stadium. He's also the first to pitch a complete game no-hitter against the Dodgers at home since Johnny Vander Meer beat Brooklyn on June 15, 1938 at Ebbets Field.

"I didn't know if that was me down there," Martinez said. "I thought I was dreaming."

Martinez, a member of the All-Star team, was nearly out of baseball after the 1986 season. But he overcame an alcohol problem to become the ace of the Expos' staff.

After 10 seasons with Baltimore, Martinez was traded to the Expos on June 16, 1986 for a player to be named later. He became a free agent after the 1986 season and started the '87 season as a minor league pitcher.

Martinez, the target of several trade rumors lately, was 10-11 for

It was the seventh no-hitter in Expos' history and the first perfect game.

It was the fifth nine-inning no-hitter of the season, the first coming on May 1 by Nolan Ryan.

Tommy Greene of Philadelphia no-hit the Expo at Montreal on May 23; four Baltimore pitchers combined to no-hit Oakland on July 13 and Gardner pitched nine no-hits on Friday.

The closest thing to a hit off Martinez came with one out in the fourth inning when Juan Samuel hit a hard smash to third that Tim Wallach fielded on the lip of the infield grass. Martinez then felt some tightness in his right hip while pitching to Eddie Murray and was allowed to throw two warmup pitches. He shook it off and went on to perfection and a place in baseball history.

Third-stringer passes Bills over Eagles

Stephen Wilson

Associated Press

WEMBLEY, England — Third-string quarterback Gale Gilbert threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Al Edwards in the third quarter, lifting the Buffalo Bills to a 17-13 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in the American Bowl at Wembley Stadium.

Gilbert, a fourth-year player out of California-Berkley, played the entire second half for the AFC champions and completed 12 of 20 passes for 117 yards.

Gilbert was given considerable playing time because the Bills' All-Pro quarterback, Jim Kelly, sat out the game with a pulled hamstring. Backup Frank Reich played the first half, which ended 10-10.

The Eagles, playing their first game under new head coach Rich Kotite, opened the scoring on a 3-yard touchdown pass from Randall Cunningham to Keith Byars on the opening series. Third-year running back Robert Drummond picked up 44 yards on five carries in the 11-play, 74-yard drive.

Brown beats Pavin to take Hartford title

Tom Coyne

Associated Press

CROMWELL, Conn. — Billy Ray Brown made a 25-foot birdie putt from the fringe on the first playoff hole Sunday to beat Corey Pavin and Rick Fehr and win the Greater Hartford Open. He became the ninth first-time winner on the PGA Tour this year and the fourth straight.

The birdie was Brown's fourth on the day, as he had finished with a 3-under-par 67 and 271 total for the tournament.

Brown started the day three strokes behind Fehr and two behind Pavin. Pavin shot 69 for the final round, while Fehr was at even 70.

Fehr putted first on the playoff hole, the 171-yard 16th, and missed from 35 feet away. Brown made his and Pavin, who had been 4-0 in playoffs during his career, then missed a 20-foot putt which could have forced another playoff hole.

It was Brown last week who gave Dillard Pruitt advice that led to his first victory at the Chattanooga Classic. His win followed those of Russ Cochran at the Western Open and Bruce Fleisher at the New England Classic.

Brown's best previous finish this year was a tie for 17th two weeks ago at the New England Classic.

The 271 at the renovated Tournament Players Club at River Highlands is the highest winning score at the GHO in six years, when Phil Blackmar equalled it when he also won in a playoff.

Twice during Sunday's round five players were tied for the lead. Several players took brief leads, but each faltered.

The course, which played easy in the rain the first two days, became more difficult the final two days. Pavin led the tournament at eight under after two rounds, and that remained the low score with seven holes left to play.

Jim Gallagher Jr. had an eagle on the 14th hole to take a one-stroke lead, but 3-putted the 15th to drop into a tie with Pavin, Brown and Fehr.

But Gallagher missed a 5-foot par-putt on 18 to drop out of the tie for the lead.

Brown was the first in at nine under, sinking a 10-foot putt on 18 for par. Pavin sank a 30-foot putt for birdie and Fehr missed a 15-foot putt for birdie to force the playoff.

Gallagher finished tied for fourth with Billy Andrade, 68 on Sunday, and Loren Roberts, 67.

Brown said earlier in the week he almost quit the GHO on his first hole when a marshal waved that his drive and his next shot both went out of bounds. But the marshal was actually just waving which direction the shots went, and Brown continued.

BASEBALL

Worrell to undergo arthroscopic surgery

ST. LOUIS — Injured St. Louis Cardinals relief pitcher Todd Worrell will undergo arthroscopic surgery Wednesday to relieve irritation in his right shoulder, further postponing his major league comeback.

Worrell probably won't be able to pitch until September the team said. He hasn't pitched in the major leagues since September 1989 because of an elbow injury that required surgery. He also encountered shoulder problems while rehabilitating his elbow.

The surgery is not considered serious.

Worrell, 31, has 126 saves, one short of Bruce Sutter's team career mark. He has saved 30 or more games three of his four full seasons.

GOLF

Rodriguez, Nicklaus force playoff

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. — Jack Nicklaus and Chi Chi Rodriguez completed the regulation 72 holes tied for the lead of the U.S. Senior Open Golf Championship at 2-over-par 282 on Sunday and will meet for the title on Monday in an 18-hole playoff.

Rodriguez and Nicklaus each played the fourth round in 1-over 71 on the Oakland Hills Country Club course.

Rodriguez made a short birdie putt on the 72nd hole. In the next, and final, two-some, Nicklaus had a chance for the victory, but his birdie attempt from about 15 feet fell short of the hole.

Al Geiberger, who bogeyed the final hole, was third alone at 70-283.

AUTO RACING

Earnhardt takes DieHard 500

TALLADEGA, Ala. — Dale Earnhardt held off challenges by Davey Allison and Bill Elliott in the final four laps on Sunday to win the DieHard 500 at the Talladega Superspeedway.

Earnhardt, who won both races at Talladega in 1990 and finished third in May, was at or near the front throughout the 188-lap race on the 2.66-mile oval, leading seven times for 101 laps. He held off Elliott by a car-length to become the track's career victory leader with five — including three in the Winston 500.

There were 32 lead changes among 12 drivers, 15 cars finished on the lead lap and a blanket could almost be thrown over the huge lead packs throughout the race. But Earnhardt took control with 28 laps to go.

Earnhardt padded his season point lead with his 51st career victory, leaving the four-time Winston Cup champion alone in seventh on the career victory list.

Mark Martin wound up third, Ricky Rudd fourth and Marlin fifth.

SOCCER

Two killed in Africa Cup riot

LIBREVILLE, Gabon — Disappointed soccer fans rampaged across a stadium Sunday after Zaire eliminated Gabon from the Africa Cup of Nations, and a police captain and a youth were killed in fighting, the Gabon Press Agency reported.

Spectators set cars ablaze in Libreville, Gabon's capital, and a police station was ransacked, the agency said.

An unknown number of people were hurt, and Jeanne Ebori hospital reported that injured people still were arriving late in the night, hours after the match ended in a 0-0 draw that eliminated Gabon from the pan-African competition.

One police captain fired a warning shot into the air, and an unknown person believed to be among the 40,000 spectators shot at the captain with a pistol, killing him instantly, the state agency reported. It also said policemen were being treated for injuries at the hospital.

Democrats push to extend unemployment benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democratic leaders began a pre-recess push Monday to send an extension of unemployment benefits to an opposed President Bush by week's end. Republicans scrambled for ways to block or change the measure.

The Senate prepared to begin debating a bill, sponsored by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, that would provide up to 20 additional weeks of unemployment coverage for people whose basic 26 weeks of payments have expired.

The House Ways and Means Committee planned to write a similar bill on Tuesday. Unlike Bentsen's proposal, the House version raises the possibility that new benefits would be paid for by raising taxes on employers.

Stanford University president steps down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stanford University President Donald Kennedy, embroiled in controversy over the university's billing the government for parties and maintenance of a yacht, announced his resignation Monday.

In a letter to the board of trustees, Kennedy said he intends to step down in August 1992 because "It is very difficult . . . for a person identified with a problem to be the spokesman for its solution."

The Palo Alto, Calif. university, which receives about $240 million in federal research funds annually, has been the subject of investigations and federal audits since it was revealed last year that the university had billed the federal government for flowers, refurbishing a grand piano and maintenance on a 72-foot yacht as part of indirect costs associated with government-sponsored research.

Floods, burst dam unleash torrent in Romania

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — A dam burst after heavy rain in mountainous northeastern Romania, unleashing a torrent that killed at least 66 people and forced 10,000 to flee their homes, officials said Monday.

The dam collapse late Sunday sent a wall of water up to 13 feet high rushing down a valley, in some cases sweeping away children and old people who could not swim.

Heavy rains and flooding damaged hundreds of homes and dozens of bridges and knocked out communications and transportation, radio reports said. A government spokesman in Bucharest said at least 51 villages were affected.

Five hundred soldiers and 20 army helicopters were sent to Bacau county, about 150 miles north of Bucharest, to help in the evacuation, according to a journalist who contacted the area.

De Klerk demotes ministers tied to scandal

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The embattled ministers demoted Monday by President F.W. de Klerk were among the most powerful and conservative in his Cabinet, and each had weathered many previous political storms.

Adriaan Vlok, head of the police, and Gen. Magnus Malan, the defense minister, had survived years of criticism from the African National Congress and other anti-apartheid groups who blamed security forces for instigating violence in black townships.

They were brought down, finally, for a scandal involving secret payments to the Inkatha Freedom Party, the ANC's main rival. Vlok was named minister of correctional services, while Malan was to take over the water affairs and forestry portfolio.

TOUR DE FRANCE

Indurain holds on to win Tour de France

Salvatore Zanca

Associated Press

PARIS — Miguel Indurain, who dominated the opposition for 10 days up the mountains and over the plains, cruised to victory in the Tour de France Sunday as fans waved Spanish flags on the Champs Elysees.

Indurain, who never finished better than 10th previously in the world's greatest cycling race, entered the final stage with a lead of more than three minutes. Only a catastrophe could have deprived him of the title.

"It's a tremendous relief," Indurain said. "For several days, I knew I was going to win, but you're never safe from an accident."

American Greg LeMond, the 1990 winner and a three-time champion, came in seventh, 13:13 back after he failed in a bid to win the final stage.

Indurain, 27, became the fourth Spaniard to win the Tour de France. He joins Pedro Delgado (1988), Luis Ocana (1973) and Federico Bahamontes (1959) as winners of the three-week endurance event.

This year's tour covered more than 2,400 miles through France, starting in Lyon on July 6 and consisting of 22 stages. The winning time was 101 hours, one minute, 20 seconds.

"This last stage went as smoothly as possible," Indurain said. "Everybody was relaxed . . . I'll be back next year to win."

Indurain held the lead from the 13th stage on July 19, won two time trials and came in second in the two toughest mountain stages, one in the Pyrenees and one in the Alps.

Two Italians were next, with Gianni Bugno in second place, 3:36 behind, and last year's runner-up, Claudio Chiappucci, in third, 5:56 back.

Dmitri Konyshov won the final stage in a sprint that saw another Soviet, Djamolidine Abdoujaparov, crash to the pavement less than 100 meters from the finish after hitting a barrier.

Abdoujaparov, who won the first and fourth stages, brought down at least two other riders with him, as the pack was grouped behind the sprinters. Doctors said he was bruised but not seriously injured.

The Senate prepared to begin debating a bill, sponsored by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, that would provide up to 20 additional weeks of unemployment coverage for people whose basic 26 weeks of payments have expired.

The House Ways and Means Committee planned to write a similar bill on Tuesday. Unlike Bentsen's proposal, the House version raises the possibility that new benefits would be paid for by raising taxes on employers.

major league history. Teammate Mark Gardner tossed a nine-inning no-hitter on Friday and lost.

Dawson hits back, Cubs stop Braves

Associated Press

CHICAGO — On Saturday, Andre Dawson was hit by a pitch. On Sunday, he was hitting back — with a vengeance.

Dawson homered twice and drove in four runs to lead the Chicago Cubs and Mike Bielecki to a 6-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Dawson hit a three-run homer in the fourth inning and added a solo shot in the eighth, his 18th of the season. It was Dawson's 34th multi-homer game and his first since May 15, 1990 at Atlanta.

Dawson was hit on the right elbow in Saturday's game. On Sunday, he tested his throwing ability and declared himself fit.

"I wasn't worried about the elbow about hitting," Dawson said. "I was only worried about being able to throw. I tested it and it was okay."

"Thank God, Hawk didn't take the day off," said Bielecki (11-7), who was helped by some questionable base-running by the Braves.

Bielecki went seven innings, allowing seven hits. He walked two and struck out two. Assenmacher pitched the last two innings for his 11th save.

Charlie Leibrandt (9-9) took the loss.
