Boycott gets seal of approval from UNI, ISU

(AP) — Students at Iowa's three public universities are being encouraged to cut classes to protest state budget cuts, student government leaders said Wednesday. The boycott for next week, Friday the 13th, has been approved by the Student Assembly at the UI, according to assembly President Matt Wise, a senior from Naperville, Ill., studying political science.

Student organizations at Iowa State University and the University of Northern Iowa approved the boycott Wednesday night.

Simultaneous rallies would be held at noon on the campuses to oppose Gov. Terry Branstad's 3.25 percent budget cuts, which have cost the three schools more than $14 million.

Gunman kills 1 and wounds 6 in Phoenix

PHOENIX (AP) — A gunman believed to be holding a hostage in a house killed at least one person Wednesday and wounded six others, including two police officers, authorities said.

Police said one man was holed up in the house with two high-powered guns. Officers believed he had at least one hostage but didn't know who it was. It was possible more than one gunman was involved.

The dead person was female, said Fire Department spokesman Steven Jensen, but he couldn't provide further details.

One of the police officers suffered life-threatening injuries, Jensen said.

Cheerleader's mother gets 15 years in prison

HOUSTON (AP) — A jury Wednesday sentenced a suburban homemaker to 15 years in prison and fined her $10,000 for trying to hire a hitman to kill the mother of her daughter's rival for a spot on the school's cheerleading squad.

Prosecutors had asked for the maximum life prison term for Wanda Holloway, 37, of Channelview, who was convicted Tuesday of solicitation of murder.

She will serve her sentence in a state prison.

It wasn't clear when Holloway would be eligible for parole, Assistant District Attorney Mike Anderson said.

Her attorney said the case will be appealed.

Kohl urges superpowers to reduce nuclear weapons

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Kohl on Wednesday demanded the United States and Soviet Union reduce their short-range nuclear weapons, and said the West should stop expecting Germany to pay the lion's share of Soviet aid.

Kohl said that since 1989, Germany has spent more than $34 billion to support reforms in the Soviet Union.

"We are providing 56 percent of all Western help for the Soviet Union and 32 percent of Western aid for the Central and East European states," Kohl said.

18 die, 40 injured in bus crash in Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Two speeding buses crashed against a truck on a roadside, triggering an explosion that killed at least 18 passengers and injured 40 others, police reported.

Most of the victims of Tuesday night's crash died in the fierce fire that followed the wreck, said a police spokesman in Maracaibo, 440 miles west of Caracas.

UI makes best college value list

Wendy Alesch
Daily Iowan

UI students may complain about tuition increases and budget cuts but according to a special September issue of Money magazine, UI students are getting one of the best education deals in the nation.

The UI was ranked 51 in a survey of the top 100 best college values which will be published in the Sept. 9 issue of its "Money Guide." The second annual survey analyzed 1,011 colleges and universities. The comparisons were based on the quality of students, faculty, facilities and tuition. Out-of-state tuition rates were used to keep the comparison between the schools equal.

Rice University in Houston, Texas, was No. 1 on the list. Money said the small school of 3,900 students offered an Ivy League-caliber education at half the price, $7,700. The 55 other private schools appearing on the list included some of the nation's most expensive colleges such as Yale, Stanford and the University of Chicago, where tuition exceeds $16,000 a year. Iowa State University, rated 57th, was the only other Iowa school on the list.

Karen McKinney, a senior athletic training major from Woodstock, Ill., has seen significant hikes in tuition and is not sure the UI is such a bargain.

"With tuition always increasing, I am glad to be a senior," McKinney said. "It is so expensive to be out-of-state, it's crazy."

Paul Hott, a junior music major from Lake View, Iowa, feels he is getting a good deal compared to a private school because he is receiving in-state rates.

"I can get a better degree and a better job for a lot less money," Hott said. "It is a top university and the cheapest one I can attend."

UI President Hunter Rawlings felt the list was important because it combines quality and cost but was unsure of its credibility.

"We offer fine education, and our tuition is the lowest in the Big Ten," Rawlings said.

"The certain statistics for how the list is gathered are not always known," Rawlings said. "So we're not letting it go to our heads."

SOVIET UNION

Independence near for Baltic republics

John Daniszewski
Associated Press

VILNIUS, Lithuania — Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev will grant independence to the Baltics shortly, ending 51 years of occupation, officials said Wednesday.

Senior American and British envoys re-established diplomatic links in the Baltics Wednesday, joining a bandwagon that has brought dozens of top Western officials here since the abortive coup against Gorbachev hastened the collapse of central Soviet rule.

With about 50 governments now recognizing their independence, the Baltic republics of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia have been waiting anxiously for Gorbachev to follow suit.

Algimantas Cekuolis, a former Soviet lawmaker from Lithuania who is attending the Congress of People's Deputies session in Moscow as an observer, said Wednesday that Baltic representatives drafted an independence declaration at Gorbachev's request and he approved the general idea after he read it.

Cekuolis said the draft would annul the 1940 Soviet annexation of the Baltics while leaving them with Soviet troops stationed on their territory, as they were at the beginning of World War II.

While Baltic leaders have been pressing for the departure of the hated Soviet Interior Ministry troops, they have been less adamant about withdrawal of army forces. At least one, Latvia, has begun negotiations with the Kremlin on the possibility of letting some troops stay in the republic.

Gorbachev will issue independence decrees for each republic, and they will be published "the day after the closing of this congress," Cekuolis said.

The congress may end today, which would mean the decrees could be published on Friday. Former Gorbachev aide Alexander Yakovlev confirmed Cekuolis' account.

There was no confirmation from Gorbachev's office.

Latvian President Anatolijs Gorbunovs said "the draft has been presented by the representatives of Latvia," but he said he had no information about Gorbachev's decree, according to a statement issued by Gorbunovs' aide, Karina Petersone.

In Vilnius, Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis told reporters, "I've seen (the draft). I've seen many of them." He refused further comment.

A draft decree circulating in the Lithuanian Parliament and obtained by The Associated Press said the Soviet Union would "consider as renewed the state of independence of these countries" which were forcibly absorbed by the Soviet Union.

It also instructs the Soviet Foreign

Administration not worried by planned student walkout

Leslie Yazel
Daily Iowan

UI administrators aren't getting worked up over the boycott of classes scheduled for Sept. 13. The walkout, sponsored by the UI Student Assembly, is intended to call attention to cuts in the university budget that have affected class size and availability, and student services.

"The budget cuts are real, and their reactions are real," Dean of Students Phillip Jones said. "I don't think the university has a reaction about what (students) should feel."

Jones said the administration only acts when students' free expression goes against the UI's policy of "time, place and manner restrictions."

The boycott may not allow students a class-free Friday without consequences.

"I would assume students who participate will be willing to accept consequences for their actions," Jones said.

The last boycott of classes at the UI was spring of 1991. Students were urged to skip morning classes to protest receiving only a half-day off for the Martin Luther King Jr. convocation activities. Jones recalled that other issues that have inspired walkouts at the UI were anti-apartheid rallies and protests against tuition hikes.

Students at the University of Northern Iowa and Iowa State University are scheduled to take part in simultaneous walkouts and rallies.

Serbs continue to seize Croat land; 8 die in battle

Nesha Starcevic
Associated Press

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Serb rebels battled to cut off Croatia's eastern region from the rest of the republic Wednesday and appeared poised to encircle a major Croat stronghold. At least eight people died in fighting.

Ignoring a truce called to hold an international peace conference this weekend on Yugoslavia's future, Croatian security forces and the federal army also clashed several times.

Germany's foreign minister, Hans-Dietrich Genscher, warned the Serb-dominated Yugoslav army that if it failed to halt the fighting, European nations could proceed to recognize Croatia and neighboring Slovenia as independent nations.

"I'd like to tell those responsible in the leadership of the Yugoslav People's Army: With every shot fired by your cannons and tanks, for us the hour of recognition is brought nearer. We will not be able to watch this much longer," Genscher said in Bonn.

There has been speculation that Serbia, which dominates the federal army, might be willing to settle for Croatian secession if Serbs can gain control over parts of Croatian territory in the bargain.

SYSTEMS UNLIMITED

New building offers more convenience

The corporation, which serves area people with developmental disabilities, held the ribbon cutting Wednesday.

John P. Waterhouse
Daily Iowan

In a celebration of 20 years of community service, friends, workers, city officials and others gathered Wednesday afternoon for the opening of new offices of Systems Unlimited, Inc.

Mayor John McDonald, Systems President Dick Berger and Jay Oehler, one of the organization's founders, cut the ceremonial ribbon at 4 p.m. to officially mark the opening of the new office building at 1556 First Ave S.

Systems Unlimited, which began in Iowa City in 1971, serves people with developmental disabilities by providing them with vocational training, residential services and other programs.

Ginny Kirschling, chief of programs at Systems, said the corporation's previous offices were in the basement of their old building — a somewhat less accessible location.

"The new offices create a better work environment, and the entire building is 100 percent accessible for individuals in wheelchairs," she said. "As another convenience, the hallways were designed to be 6 feet wide."

Kirschling acknowledged the owner and developer of the new office building, John Moreland, for making the rented office space economically feasible for Systems Unlimited. She estimated a savings of $500,000 in rent over the next 20 years with the contract with Moreland.

Construction of the building began in February, Moreland said, and staff members began occupying it in June.

of our clients strive to meet their full potential and to be able to live with more independence in the community," Kirschling said.

Systems received a $21,000 grant from the Johnson County Board of Supervisors in 1971 and opened its first children's home in November of that year. Today there are 32 apartments and houses providing residential services for 200 individuals in Iowa City and surrounding communities.

Another program introduced by Systems Unlimited is the Nelson Center, 1020 Williams St. The center, which opened in 1972, provides 70 participating individuals with a variety of vocational skills such as stocking shelves, recycling cans and paper, mailing letters, performing janitorial duties and manufacturing several products.

"Our goal is to see these individuals not need us anymore," Chris Humrichouse, director of the Nelson Center, said. "It's a big accomplishment for someone to learn a job skill and then to apply it. When I see someone with the skills necessary for a particular job walk out our doors, it is a good feeling."

She added, "I always hope these workers can get jobs within the community. It is sometimes tough to provide employment for all persons, but there needs to be more of an opportunity for people with developmental disabilities."

A third program Systems Unlimited offers is FACT, or the Family and Child Training program. It was designed in 1976 to assist the developmentally disabled in the home by providing support and training for family members.

IC club helps women, families adjust to U.S.

Kim Dykshorn
Daily Iowan

Apple picking, pumpkin carving and sharing recipes are just a few of the activities planned for the International Women's Club this fall.

Members of the club hosted an open house for new members Wednesday night at the First Mennonite Church to learn about the club's activities and to meet people from around the world.

About 60 women, men and children from various countries, including Korea, Japan, China, Italy and Iceland, attended the open house.

According to Kazi Alward, a three-year member from Japan, the main purpose of the club is to attract a variety of women from all around the world to share cultural activities and promote friendship.

"It is like a support group," Alward said. "Many foreign women come to the United States and don't know what to do. This group gives them a chance to meet people in the same boat and share their experiences."

Most of the foreign members are wives of students or faculty at the UI who learned about the club through the Office of International Education and Services, an affiliate of the club.

About 120 women joined last year, most from the United States but many from Japan and Korea. Other countries represented include Australia, Brazil, Egypt, India, Nepal, Poland, Spain, Switzerland and Zaire.

Co-president Kathy Fait joined in 1985 after returning from a trip to Venezuela.

"I realized how hard it is being in a strange land with no friends,"

Fait said. "The good thing about this club is you make friends from all over the world, and you can visit them." She left Tuesday for Australia, where she plans to contact a former member of the club.

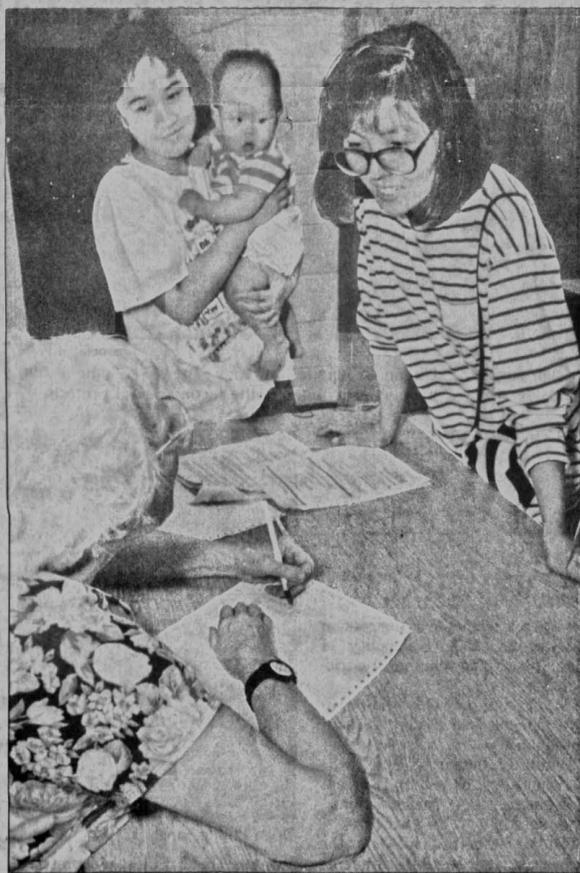

The club started in Iowa City in the late 1950s as the International Wives' Club. The purpose then was to teach what women of that time most needed — lessons in cooking, sewing and caring for children. The name was changed several years ago to better represent the members, who now include doctors, lawyers, professors, architects and engineers as well as homemakers.

"Many foreign women come to the United States and don't know what to do. This group gives them a chance to meet people in the same boat and share their experiences."

Although the women's jobs have changed, they still want to learn the same things. Besides the general meetings, the club has several sub-groups — a craft group, a cooking group and a coffee group — which meet once a month at different member's homes.

Members of the cooking group learn the basics of cooking in the United States such as using ounces instead of liters and share favorite recipes from their native countries.

For non-English speaking members, the club offers a 10-week English class taught by volunteer members. Fall classes meet every Tuesday and Thursday morning from 9-11 beginning Sept. 10. The cost is $7 for 20 classes, and child care is available during the class.

Although most meetings are for members only, many of the activities including apple picking, potlucks and picnics are for families.

Membership is open to all women, including students. The $6 membership fee covers the cost of printing and mailing the group's monthly newsletter. For more information, call Kazi Alward at 354-2083.

CONCERT

Alma Iowana will be one of the featured bands of the Latin American Music Concert today at 4:30 p.m. on the Sun Porch of the Union. The concert is sponsored by the Latin American Studies Program.

IC to see different cultural forms

Jessica Davidson
Daily Iowan

A free Latin American folk music concert featuring the music of Alma Iowana and a performance by the Ginga Capoeira Group will be held today at 4:30 p.m. on the Sun Porch of the Union.

The concert, sponsored by the Latin American Studies Program, is part of the program's fall reception.

"This will be a unique opportunity for students, faculty and staff to enjoy local expressions of Latin American cultures," Robin Melavalin, graduate assistant for the Latin American Studies Program, said.

Alma Iowana is a small group of local musicians playing traditional Latin American instruments such as the kena, a single, five-holed flute; the zampona, a set of pipes requiring two players since each pipe only plays half the range of notes; and the charango, a small, 10-string guitar made out of an armadillo shell.

The group describes their music as "Latin rhythms and Iowa soul."

Melavalin said the music is "very rhythmic and a lot of fun."

The Ginga Capoeira Group performs the capoeira, an African-Brazilian dance/martial art, to its own live music with a berimbau.

An African instrument, the berimbau consists of a bow strung with a piece of metal. A coin held against the taut metal changes the note when it is struck with a small stick.

A hollow gourd attached to the bottom of the bow is rolled against the body to change the tone.

"It looks very simple," T.M.

Scruggs, chairperson of Latin American studies, said. "But the range of music is amazing."

Originally, the capoeira was developed by African slaves living in Brazil. When the slaves fought their captors, using the capoeira, the Brazilian government outlawed its practice.

The capoeira was transformed into a dance in order to preserve the tradition. The dance is still taught as a martial art by a master and is offered by the UI Division of Physical Education.

"I think it is important for people to know there's a lot of ethnic art forms out there, a lot of different cultural forms in Iowa," Melavalin said. "Iowa is not a homogenous state."

She added, "It's really exciting to be able to see and experience these different cultural forms."

Iowa farmer advertises for spouse

Associated Press

ELDON, Iowa — A farmer advertising for a wife reaped a bountiful crop recently.

"Would like to meet marriage-minded lady who is just as tired of single life, bars and games as I am," Ronald Riehm, 34, of Eldon wrote Aug. 25 in a Des Moines Sunday Register personal advertisement.

The ad included his name, address and telephone number and has generated 18 letters and more than 30 phone calls.

Despite the prank phone calls and jokes by his friends and neighbors, Riehm remains serious in his search for a wife.

"Twenty years from now I'm going to be celebrating my 18th or 19th wedding anniversary," he said.

Riehm has farmed since he was 16. "I can't imagine there isn't a woman somewhere that could enjoy this lifestyle," Riehm said. He lives in a 5-year-old three-bedroom ranch-style farmhouse.

"There's got to be a better way to meet women than in a tavern because if there isn't, I'll wind up a lonely old man," Riehm said.

Riehm received 16 letters from Des Moines women.

"Des Moines must have a lot of lonely women," he said.

Riehm met 11 women for coffee Labor Day weekend at a Des Moines hotel restaurant.

He rented a room, set up the appointments and went to the coffee shop to meet the women, Riehm said.

"It got to the point where it was like job interviews," he said. "I couldn't concentrate."

He said he's been somewhat disappointed by some of the responses he's received but remains optimistic.

"I only want one woman, and I know the right one will come along," Riehm said.

Study finds some police callous with regard to domestic abuse

Mike Glover
Associated Press

DES MOINES — A report issued Wednesday said some police lack sensitivity in domestic abuse cases and said the handling of a Webster City incident illustrated the point.

State Ombudsman William Angrick said the report should put police across the state on notice that there's a new state law requiring abusers be arrested on the spot.

Police must take that law seriously, he said.

"Policy, like the law, is of little value if not enforced," Angrick's report said. "The best domestic abuse law is of no real value if it is not enforced."

PLAYBOY

Grades land student model back on pompon squad

Greg Smith

Associated Press

Gabrielle D'Alemberte will be allowed to compete on the UI pompon squad — but only because her grades are in order.

The 21-year-old senior from Miami said several news accounts linking her pompon future with her topless pose in Playboy's October issue were incorrect.

"It was the timing, I suppose," she said. "We were dealing with an eligibility issue because my hours were not what they were supposed to be for an eligible member. So it didn't have anything to do with Playboy. A lot of people are confusing the two."

D'Alemberte, also a part-time swimsuit model who is studying English and journalism, was one of 49 women featured in the magazine's 12-page "Girls of the Big Ten Conference" pictorial.

Playboy was on campus last spring to shoot photos, but there was never a question of whether appearing in the men's magazine would jeopardize her spot on the pompon squad, she said.

"That's the way it's been since the beginning. In case there was ever the question of, 'Would that be possible for me to pose and also be on the squad?' Their office, the university, was always saying 'yes,'" D'Alemberte said.

"If they ever did try to take me off the squad for that reason, it would have been a violation of my civil rights," she said.

University officials said the school does not have any policies about students or members of student groups posing in magazines or other publications.

"The university's position is if a student wants to pose for Playboy, a student can pose for Playboy," Ann Rhodes, vice president for university relations, said.

"There were some issues regarding academic eligibility — compliance with academic standards — but those have been worked out," Rhodes said. "She will be a member of the pompon squad."

The Iowa City Districtwide Parents' Organization sponsored "Meet the Candidates Night" Wednesday. Candidates for the Sept. 10 school board election were featured in a question-and-answer forum.

The seats occupied by Alan Leff and Fran Malloy are open for election. Leff is running for re-election, and community member George Matheson is seeking to fill the remaining vacancy. Malloy chose not to run.

In response to the question of what would be done if the $11 million bond referendum fails to be passed by the voters Oct. 15, Leff stated, "We will be giving up some of the district programs we feel are important. Everything that we do will become less efficient."

Matheson added, "Nobody's going to be happy with the options as we know them now."

In answering how he would convince elderly taxpayers to support the referendum, Matheson said, "We're trying to provide the best community possible for all age groups. Please listen to the facts."

He added that the need for the referendum is critical because "we're running out of space. There's no doubt about it."

"Each one of us is part of this community," Leff said. "I am as proud of what we have for senior citizens as I am about what we have for schools."

Other questions posed regarded the candidates' qualifications and priorities.

Matheson said he has spent 15 years working in educational settings, and has been a volunteer and parent in the community. "I think I understand what people are thinking about on the outside looking in."

Leff said his 28-year law career as well as his service on the board for the past three years has contributed to his expertise.

When asked to name their top priorities for the next 10 years, Matheson said he hoped to maintain balance and perspective in his outlook on issues, keep frustrated district employees from abandoning their work, as well as promote the strategic planning process, bond issue and increase community involvement.

Leff said his priorities included "continuing improvement of trust within the district." He hopes to change the negotiation process to discussions rather than one side vs. the other.

The polling places for Tuesday's election are different from those used in general elections. Information regarding the location of precinct polls is available from the Johnson County Auditor's Office.

Wednesday's session will be rebroadcast on local access cable Channel 25 tonight at 7 and Monday, Sept. 9, at noon.

9 years later, Gosch's mother still optimistic

DES MOINES — The mother of missing paper carrier Johnny Gosch appealed Wednesday for public help in solving the case, saying she is stressed and encouraged on the ninth anniversary of his disappearance.

"I was up late one night and I thought, my God, stress kills people. I'm surprised I'm still alive," Noreen Gosch of West Des Moines said. "It kind of gets to you after a while."

Johnny Gosch, then 12, vanished without a trace on Sept. 5, 1982, as he was about to deliver Sunday newspapers.

"It's been a tough year. I'm a lot more tired than I ever used to be. I don't sleep very much," she said.

YUGOSLAVIA

Federal military leaders say the army is trying only to separate the warring ethnic groups, but many foreign governments support Croatia's contention that the well-equipped army has been instrumental in the Serb rebels' gaining control of about a quarter of Croatia.

The latest attempt at a truce was included in an agreement signed Monday by national and republic leaders under prodding from the 12-nation European Community.

The pact only seemed to touch off a fresh push by militant Serbs.

After winning control of Baranja, an east Croatian section just below the Hungarian border, the Serbs on Wednesday began a push to isolate Croatia's ethnically mixed eastern region, Slavonia, from the Croat-dominated sections of the republic.

Croatian Defense Ministry officials said Serbs cut the main highway between Zagreb, the republic's capital, and Belgrade, the capital of the Yugoslav federation and rival Serbia.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said one Serb died and three were wounded in the fighting that cut the highway near Okucani, 75 miles southeast of Zagreb. Two federal soldiers were wounded, and Croatian forces suffered several dead and wounded, it said.

The Serbs commandeered trucks, cars and buses to block the highway before dawn Wednesday, highway workers at the scene told the AP.

Ministry to re-establish ties with the three countries.

The Congress had been expected to consider Baltic independence, but Gorbachev withdrew the issue from the agenda. He apparently feared he could not get the necessary two-thirds vote to annul the incorporation of the Baltics, carried out in 1940 as part of a secret Soviet pact with Nazi Germany.

"I believe signing a decree is the only way possible now," Gorbunov said. "Those constitutional ways offered previously would not work today and to issue a decree... would be the only possible solution for Mr. Gorbachev, saving his honor."

President Bush recognized Baltic independence on Monday, a move seen here as the final affirmation of their break from the Soviet Union.

The United States, Britain, France and other Western countries never officially recognized the Soviet Union's forced absorption of the Baltics but had withheld formal recognition out of consideration for Gorbachev, who opposed it.

Also Wednesday, Estonian Prime Minister Edgar Savisaar signed an agreement in Moscow with the new Soviet KGB chief, Vadim Bakatin.

Authorities investigate North Carolina fire

Paul Nowell
Associated Press

HAMLET, N.C. — Most of the 25 victims of a chicken processing plant fire died of smoke inhalation, the mayor said Wednesday as authorities tried to determine how many exits were locked.

Would-be rescuers and survivors told they checked or blocked fire exit doors. A padlock was seen on a door with a sign saying "Fire Door Do Not Block."

But Mayor Abbie Covington refused to confirm the reports of locked doors at the Imperial Food Products plant. State Labor Commissioner John Brooks, who arrived Wednesday to lead a state investigation, said it could be two months before his department could issue a report on any violations it might uncover.

"I don't have any evidence of doors being locked," Covington said. "If we determine that doors were locked, I'm sure there will be some sense of outrage, but I'm not in a position to reach that conclusion. To be angry at somebody won't do any good at this point."

Firefighters were being questioned "to find out exactly what they found when they got to the building," Covington said.

If doors were locked while people were in the building, violators could be subject to fines and, because deaths were involved, possible criminal prosecution, Brooks said.

Some victims were found near exits and others were found in a meat locker, where they had fled, Fire Chief David Fuller said. About 90 of Imperial Food's 200 employees were in the plant.

Associated Press
This is an aerial view taken Tuesday of the Imperial Food Products plant in Hamlet, N.C., where 25 people were killed and more than 45 injured after a fryer caught fire. Witnesses said that exits were locked or blocked, trapping workers inside the building.

ECONOMY

Bankruptcies being filed at record rates

David Skidmore
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A record 1 million American consumers and businesses likely will file for bankruptcy this year, with the heaviest filings coming in economically shellshocked New England, the American Bankruptcy Institute said Wednesday.

"The number of bankruptcies is increasing in an unbroken line and at a record pace," said Samuel Gerdano, executive director of the institute, a non-profit group whose members include lawyers, accountants and others in the bankruptcy industry.

There were 880,399 bankruptcies in the 12 months that ended June 30, up 21 percent from a year earlier. Ninety-two percent of the filings were from individuals, the rest from businesses.

Gerdano said the pace of filings for the rest of this year should be enough to bring bankruptcies for calendar 1991 to 1 million. But, noting that bankruptcies have increased in every year since 1985, he said, "Like a pie crust, it's a record made to be broken."

The biggest increases in the most recent 12-month period came in New England, the region hardest hit by the recession that began last summer. Filings rose 86 percent in New Hampshire, 77 percent in Massachusetts and 59 percent in Connecticut.

Gerdano said the recession clearly contributed to the increase, but noted that filings have risen even in years when the economy was expanding. They rose 13 percent nationally in the 12 months ending June 30, 1990, and 8 percent in the 12 months before that.

"The ultimate cause is the level of personal debt," he said.

Chinese angry over gesture of democracy

Kathy Wilhelm
Associated Press

BEIJING — Police tangled briefly Wednesday with three U.S. lawmakers who held up a banner and laid flowers in Tiananmen Square in honor of the pro-democracy demonstrators who died there in 1989.

"To those who died for democracy in China," read the 3-foot-long banner held up by Reps. Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., Ben Jones, D-Ga., and John Miller, R-Wash.

Police ran up to the three and tried for several minutes to stop them from leaving the square. They were allowed to go after a short, confused exchange with police hampered by language difficulties.

Police immediately scooped up the flowers. They scuffled with three American TV crews that filmed the incident and detained them for about 90 minutes.

The U.S. legislators have been meeting Chinese officials to press for the release of jailed dissidents and warn that they will keep fighting to link renewal of China's most-favored nation trade status with human rights.

Most-favored nation status entitles China to lower tariffs on its exports and losing it would cost China billions of dollars worth of sales to the U.S. market.

Pelosi, who sponsored legislation putting conditions on most-favored nation status, said later she did not consider the group's actions in Tiananmen Square provocative.

"I felt that it was impossible for us to be in Beijing and not visit there, and we wanted to have a solemn moment when we put the flowers there," she said.

The legislators had dinner later Wednesday with Vice Foreign Minister Liu Huaqiu. Pelosi said the incident was mentioned, "but I don't want to go into it. Our hosts were very gracious."

The Chinese government issued no public comment on the incident.

Bush distances himself from negative TV ad for Thomas

Rita Beamish
Associated Press

WASHINGTON—President Bush on Wednesday decried a slashing TV ad that attacks liberal senators expected to oppose Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas, calling it "offensive" and "totally counterproductive."

Administration officials contacted Democratic Sens. Edward Kennedy, Joseph Biden and Alan Cranston, whose ethics were questioned in the second commercial, as the White House sought to blunt comparisons with Bush's 1988 Willie Horton campaign ad controversy.

Officials telephoned the senators and expressed our concern over the ad," which was sponsored by two groups, Conservative Victory Committee and Citizens United, said White House spokeswoman Judy Smith.

The three senators declined comment through aides.

Smith said the White House had no advance word from the ad sponsors but had heard from other sources that a negative ad was in the works. The administration was contacted by a separate group sponsoring a milder pro-Thomas ad that does not attack any senators and neither encouraged nor discouraged that effort, she said.

The White House moved quickly to rebuff any suggestion it may have tacitly approved the attack ad, as Bush was accused of doing in the Willie Horton case during the 1988 presidential campaign.

Facing allegations of racism in that earlier episode, the Bush campaign disavowed any connection with an independent political group's TV ad showing a picture of Horton, a black convicted murderer who brutalized a Maryland couple while on furlough from a prison in Democratic Gov. Michael Dukakis' home state of Massachusetts.

Bush himself made a major anti-crime campaign issue of Horton and furloughs but did not use Horton's photo.

Democratic National Committee Chairman Ron Brown on Wednesday suggested Bush was letting others conduct a "gutter campaign." He said in a CNN interview that Bush should direct "his allies" to "get this garbage off the air."

White House officials privately said it could only hurt Thomas to attack key members of the Senate Judiciary Committee who will hold confirmation hearings on Thomas beginning next week.

The ad's sponsors issued a news release saying they would "hold off on any further activity" if "those left wing individuals and organizations and their patrons in the United States Senate" who opposed the 1987 Robert Bork nomination to the high court would sign an agreement to refrain from advertising against Thomas.

The conservatives' ad questions whether "liberal Democrats" expected to oppose Thomas "could themselves pass ethical scrutiny."

It says Kennedy was suspended from Harvard for cheating and that he left the scene of the 1969 accident at Chappaquiddick, Mass., where campaign aide Mary Jo Kopechne died. "And this year, Palm Beach," the narrator says as a headline reading "Ted's Sex Romp" is shown.

The ad says Biden was "found guilty of plagiarism during his presidential campaign," and Cranston was "implicated in the Keating Five S&L scandal."

Thomas, in a statement, deplored the ad's "viciousness."

L. Brent Bozell of the Conservative Victory Committee said the ad was "a straightforward message to the left."

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

BEFORE TRUSTING YOUR FUTURE TO ANY COMPANY, ASK FOR SOME LETTERS OF REFERENCE.

You put more than just your savings into a retirement company. You put in your trust and hopes for the future, too. So before you choose one, ask some questions. How stable is the company? How solid are its investments? How sound is its overall financial health?

A good place to start looking for answers is in the ratings of independent analysts. Three companies, all widely recognized resources for finding out how strong a financial services company really is, gave TIAA their top grade.

IN THE FINAL ANALYSIS, TIAA IS LETTER-PERFECT.

TIAA received A+ from A.M. Best Co., AAA from Standard & Poor's and Aaa from Moody's Investors Service. These ratings reflect TIAA's reliable claims-paying ability, exceptional financial strength, superior investment performance, and low expenses. With its guaranteed rate of return and opportunity for dividends, TIAA is one of less than ten companies, out of 2,200 nationwide, that received these highest marks.

CREF. FOUR MORE LETTERS EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW.

For further growth potential and diversification, there's the CREF variable annuity with four different investment accounts to give you the flexibility you want as you save for the future.

Together, TIAA and CREF form the nation's largest private retirement system, with over $95 billion in assets and more than 70 years of experience serving the education community. For over one million people nationwide, the only letters to remember are TIAA-CREF.

ABORTION PROTESTS

Quiet strength

After a week of apprehension, Tuesday's Operation Rescue extravaganza was a bit anticlimactic: no fake blood, no shoving matches, no brainwashed children lying down in front of police cars. It's not clear exactly what deterred the anti-abortion demonstrators, who concentrated their efforts at the office of one doctor, from descending en masse on local clinics. It could have been the injunction requested by the clinics, though that would have been odd considering the scant attention paid to court orders by anti-abortionists in the past.

But one thing is clear: If the members of Operation Rescue, Iowans for Traditional Values, Defenders for Life et al had attempted the same kind of nuttiness displayed in Wichita this summer, they would have encountered formidable — and doubtless overwhelming — opposition.

If the protesters had attempted the same kind of nuttiness displayed in Wichita this summer, they would have encountered formidable — and doubtless overwhelming — opposition.

Nowhere was this more evident than at the Emma Goldman Clinic for Women, where over 100 abortion rights supporters stood guard all day Tuesday. (An even larger presence turned out there on Wednesday.) To say that they "stood guard" is not simply rhetoric: The tactics currently popular among militant anti-abortion groups — storming clinics and literally bombarding patients and workers with propaganda — have proven the very real need to defend clinics against destruction, and patients against harassment and abuse.

The literature handed out Tuesday by local abortion rights group AFAR at the clinic carefully spelled out the group's non-confrontational, cooperative strategy. Fortunately, the need to use that strategy did not arise. But it is important for all concerned to remember it, particularly since it is not yet clear how long the current round of protests will last. There could be a resurgence this week or next, or even next month.

"Another Wichita?" Not yet. But the shock of events in that city — whose name, until recently, had seemed the essence of Midwestern innocence — has galvanized Iowa City's abortion rights community and led it to a show of quiet strength of which we can all be proud.

New UI Student Book Co-op lacks resources of its former self

To the Editor:
Jessica Davidson's recent article about the UI Student Book Co-op ["Co-op offers book-selling students an alternative," Aug. 29] presented a balanced picture of the recent history of the co-op. The co-op as it now exists is a valuable part of the UI, but it is only a sad remnant of what it was a couple of years ago.

I discovered the old co-op by accident because of its convenient former hours of operation and location at the site of the present Union Market. It was full of a treasure trove of old texts on a wide variety of topics. I purchased four different geology texts (none of which were being actively assigned at the time) for a total of less than $50 that related to an introductory course I was taking. Seeing the same concepts presented in different ways with different illustrations became increasingly quick and interesting. I had a better feel for what material was generally accepted and what was somewhat debatable. Most important of all, the material stayed with me longer.

You can imagine my dismay when I discovered that this unique educational resource had been converted into a grocery store. Iowa City is not suffering from a lack of food marts. When I inquired about the rationale for this "improvement," I was informed that the co-op had grown far beyond what the administration had originally envisioned for it. The mark of a good administrator is not the ability to make everything turn out as planned, but rather the ability to capitalize on unexpected growth and success.

My daughter is now a freshman at the UI. I have encouraged her to purchase ancillary texts, but the variety of available texts and the convenience of perusing them is less than it was. Additionally, the cost has increased dramatically and would be discouraging for some students. Another service the co-op provided was a means of getting rid of old texts that otherwise became clutter. Certainly recycling old texts to some other student who can use them is environmentally more sound than simply tossing them out.

I hope that at some point the co-op will be allowed the resources it needs to grow back to its former strength.

Don't waste $320,000 dollars on a new and improved Sand Road

To the Editor:

Sand Road was not designed nor intended to be a raceway between Iowa City and areas to the south and east. As I see it, the road is more a street, a scenic and recreational route, than a thoroughfare. It fits those designations quite admirably.

I understand that bicycling has exploded over the past two to three years. Great! It is an excellent exercise and affords a fine opportunity to really enjoy the scenery as you pedal along. The combination of Sand Road to Hills or on to No. 22 and back by way of Old Highway 218 makes a perfect route. That kind of combination is hard to find and here we have it right in our hands, made to order with no expense. Why lose it?

Frequently my wife and I take a leisurely drive along Sand Road, poking along at 30-35 miles per hour. We constantly check our rear-view mirror for motorists who may wish to travel faster. When we see one approaching, we speed up until coming to a passing zone, slow down and keep as far to the right as possible, signaling the following motorist to pass. With bicyclists, and we seldom see more than one or two, just a little consideration on the part of both of us, and we can both enjoy our journeys.

So with a little accommodation on the part of all participants, Sand Road can remain just what it should be, a country street for the residents whose homes lie along it, and a scenic and recreational trail for bicyclists and leisurely motorists. Spend $320,000 to "upgrade" and destroy it? $320,000.

You've got to be kidding.

America's demise: just a liberal dream

Democratic Party leaders and liberal academics, America's Henny Pennys, unceasingly cry, "America's falling! America's falling!" They cluck, in spite of the Soviet demise, that they see evidence of decline all around: Far-flung U.S. military commitments evidences imperial overstretch; economic power centers in Europe and Asia threaten America's once overwhelming economic predominance.

The defeats of Carter, Mondale and Dukakis should have taught the Democrats not only that Bubba doesn't eat goat cheese, but that he also doesn't believe the scare stories of America's decline.

The Democrats never learn. Even after Carter, Democrats still don't reject the idea of America's decline. And the Dukakis debacle proved that just because Democrats don't publically assert, like Carter, that the United States ought to acquiesce to the "decline," voters aren't fooled. Congressional Democrats even rewarded Richard Gephardt with his leadership position for his shrill lectures on the new Yellow Peril.

Ideas, however, don't develop in a vacuum (a.k.a., Democratic think tanks). We must dovetail it over to academia to find their thesis expressed par excellence in Paul Kennedy's book, "The Rise and Fall of the Great Powers." In fact, for all the publicity the book has garnered, the only surprise in it is that it took so long to be written — the ideas it espouses have been long accepted by America's liberal elite.

Five hundred of the book's 600 pages belabor the most obvious geopolitical thesis: The country with the most guns wins the war. Oddly, Kennedy believes himself to have pierced the veil of historical mystery and discovered this: That absolute gains in wealth and power do not guarantee a nation international superiority. Rather international strength is appropriately measured in relative terms. As Kennedy writes, "so far as the international system is concerned, both wealth and power are always relative and should be seen as such."

Huh? I guess only a Yale history professor could claim to have discovered that a tribe of Kalahari Bushmen shouldn't begin a war of attrition with Great Britain just because they experienced a better than average harvest of tubers, a harvest making them "richer in absolute terms" but not in relative terms. Indeed.

This profound insight aside, it's Kennedy's claim in the last 100 pages of the book — that the history of national rise and decline teaches today's America a relevant lesson — that has drawn most of the attention: "Rome fell; Babylon fell; Scarsdale's turn will come."

Of course, when faced with objection to his thesis in interviews, Kennedy denies his book foretells America's proximate decline. Rather the lesson, he claims, is that no country can enjoy permanent superiority. (Didn't Augustine point that out a millennium and a half ago?) But then, with a coy demurral and a wink at the interviewer, he adds: "Of course, declining powers always deny they're in decline."

The witness of tens and thousands of Eastern Europeans and Soviets aside, as well as Lech Walesa's remark that Poland has the "chance to be the America of the East" — it's odd to aspire to be a declining power — the Democrats and liberal academics mistake America's total victory for her decline.

When measuring anything, the beginning point is everything. To answer the question, "Is the liquid cooling down or heating up?" we need to know, "Compared to what?" The point which Kennedy and others of his ilk take as their beginning point for measuring America's decline is her world position immediately after World War II.

Yet the self-willed myopia of the Democrats and liberal academics represents history abused for the purpose of legerdemain. These doomsayers claim evidence of a long-term trend, then put forward a piddling few decades as proof. Their argument is specious; it's like claiming that global warming is proved because this afternoon's temperature is warmer than this morning's.

Let us instead take a long-term view, a truly historical view. The United States stands relatively stronger than it did after WWI and far stronger than it was before WWI. If we make a trend line for the 20th century, America's slope is positive; there is abundant evidence of steady growth.

The notion of trend disregards unique, sudden increases or decreases in the data. The years immediately after WWII are exactly that unique time when America's natural rival, desolate in burning rubble. Only an individual intent on "proving" America's decline would choose U.S. stature immediately after the war as his beginning point.

Nonetheless, even if we grant the narrow time frame, America's naysayers have a point. The decline with a truly spectacular victory. Bro University economist Peter Garber, a specialist in war and economics, posits this merit experiment: Suppose you were the conqueror nation in WWII and wanted to ensure maximum advantage for your empire from the conquered nations, how would you restructure them?

Permanent victory cannot be had by imposing institutions on sullen, restive societies, as the Soviet Union has found out in Europe. Rather conqueror wants to establish structures which not only require minimal oversight but, ideally, structures that the conquered will embrace and would choose in the absence of force.

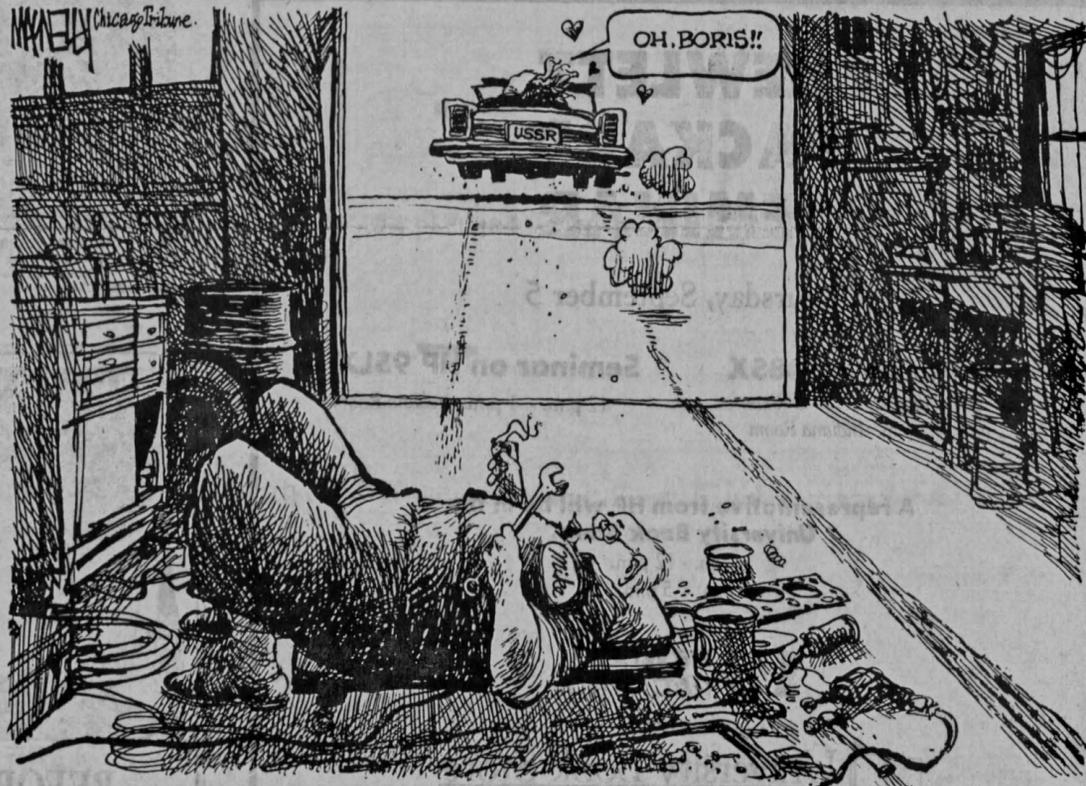

These structures then are "time consistent" and would represent a truly comprehensive victory. This is the position the United States enjoys today. The United States ensured continued victory after WWII by providing massive aid to the defeated nations and rebuilding their political and economic institutions.

The growth of Japan and Europe, far from eclipsing U.S. interests, instead guarantees their realization for a period far longer than would have been possible with more oppressive postwar policies. The grievous legacy of German reparations payments after WWI demonstrates the fruits of the alternative.

The postwar period turned America's sworn enemies, Germany and Japan, into her allies, so doing America kept her traditional friend and became the model for her former communist enemy. If all this is decline, then by all means let's have more of it.

Racism permeates all aspects of this society

To reflect on: Four white policemen beat a black motorist accused of speeding in Los Angeles so severely that the chief of police is called on to resign after a lengthy investigation.

Four black youths attack, brutally beat and rape a white female jogger in Central Park in New York City with an explanation that they were "wilding" and then show no remorse at their trial.

At least three generations of whites from the Posse Comitatus and other white supremacy groups that range everywhere from Arkansas to the rural Dakotas to the mountains of Idaho — and generally throughout the country — are swearing their allegiance to Arian supremacy and are heavily arming themselves not only for an expected invasion by black people but encouraging white people to take the offensive.

The Rev. Louis Farrakhan, while claiming to be a Christian, continues to spew forth blatant anti-Semitic and racial epithets against all whites from his pulpit.

These are just a few of the well known incidents of obvious racial hatred and extreme criminal behavior exhibited in recent years in this land where "... all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are the life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

We are a diverse society with many ethnic, religious and racial differences. We can only hope to remain a vibrant force in the New World Order by making this diversity a source of strength as we overthrow the shackles of the past.

Read those words to the widow of Medger Evers, the black civil rights leader killed for being so "uppity" to think that blacks should be able to vote in Mississippi. Explain to the thousands of elderly white people living in predominantly black areas that because of the uncontrolled violence of far too high a percentage of black youths that this is "a kinder and gentler America."

But don't just read the headlines and watch the news. White folks, take a stroll down the streets of predominantly black areas, small town and large city, day and night. Buy groceries, go to a bar or restaurant, talk to people on the street. Examine for yourself how you feel you were treated and how you felt even passing people on the street. Especially passing people on the street! Was it curiosity, friendliness, fear, hatred?

Black folks know what those feelings are all about. They have lived in a white dominated society their whole lives and for generations with the disgrace of the introduction of slavery into this country. But take a closer look black brethren. Are all white people your enemy? Should we live in fear and hatred of each other because of the self-serving acrimony of racial hatred produced from the likes of Louis Farrakhan or the people who killed Malcolm X or the Posse Comitatus or the Klux Klan?

Many challenges face our nation heading into the 21st century. We are a diverse society with many ethnic, religious and racial differences. We can only hope to remain vibrant force in the New World Order by making this diversity source of strength as we overthrow the shackles of the past.

As a wise young minister from Montgomery, Ala., once said on the steps of the White House in front of hundreds of thousands of people of all ethnic, religious and racial origins:

When we let freedom ring, when we let it ring from every village and hamlet, from every state and every city, we will be able to speed up the day when all God's children, black men and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Protestant and Catholic will be able to join hands and sing in the words of the old Negro spiritual, "Free at last! Free at last! Thank God almighty we are free at last!" That young preacher's name was Martin Luther King Jr.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident."

De Klerk offers controversial constitution

Tom Cohen
Associated Press

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa — President F.W. de Klerk proposed a new constitution Wednesday that would allow blacks to vote and govern, but would retain a strong role for whites and other minorities.

The African National Congress, the leading black opposition group, immediately rejected the plan, calling it undemocratic and designed to maintain white privileges.

De Klerk's proposal, outlined at a congress of his ruling National Party, would extend voting rights to the 30-million black majority and end centuries of white political domination.

But the plan effectively gives whites and other minorities veto power on major policy decisions, a provision black groups call intolerable.

"Our basic freedoms cannot be shackled by privileged vetoes," said the militant Pan Africanist Congress.

The president argued that the racially and culturally diverse country requires consensus politics rather than a winner-take-all system. He wants opposition groups to have a strong voice at every level of government to prevent domination by a single party.

De Klerk's plan calls for a collective presidency, a two-chamber legislature and a strong constitution to guarantee the rights of minorities.

"This does not mean apartheid in another guise, but merely what it says — full rights for the majority, but not the ability to trample down or destroy the rights and values of others," de Klerk told more than 700 delegates who filled the city hall auditorium in Bloemfontein.

The delegates interrupted de Klerk repeatedly with loud applause during the 45-minute speech.

The ANC, meanwhile, denounced every major provision of the plan.

It is "a recipe for disaster, designed to deny a future South African government the power to truly liberate the country from the misery that apartheid has wrought," it said in a statement.

De Klerk does not have to call an election until 1994, which is seen as the deadline for negotiating a non-racial constitution.

During de Klerk's two years in power, the government has repealed all major apartheid laws. He says he's ready to begin constitutional negotiations with the ANC and other opposition groups, the last and most difficult political reform still confronting the country.

But the ANC has so far refused to enter talks, demanding the government do more to stop black township violence.

De Klerk also called for a bill of human rights, an independent judiciary, an impartial civil service and other measures to ensure the rights of all South Africans.

The presidency would be replaced by a three- to five-member executive council that would include members of opposition parties. The Cabinet also would have posts reserved for opposition groups.

For example, if the ANC were to win a national election, its leader, Nelson Mandela, would presumably get one of the seats on the council.

Atomic plants cleanup to cost $38 billion

H. Josef Hebert
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Energy Department anticipates spending as much as $38 billion for environmental cleanup at the government's atomic weapons plants over five years, a sharp increase that indicates a shift from weapons production to cleanup.

The spending estimates were included in the department's newly revised five-year plan for continuing the massive cleanup of the DOE's weapons facilities that stretch across 13 states from South Carolina to Washington.

The cleanup is expected to take decades.

Details of the Bush administration's latest five-year blueprint for the cleanup were obtained Wednesday from congressional sources.

The DOE planned to release the proposal today.

The massive cleanup is the result of decades of environmental and safety neglect at facilities that for four decades manufactured the atomic warheads and bombs that were an integral part of the Cold War.

The DOE documents indicated the department has more than 1,000 employees involved in dealing with cleanup issues — four times as many as two years ago — and expects cleanup and waste management expenditures to increase at least 10 percent a year through fiscal 1997.

The biggest expenditure — an estimated $9.4 billion from fiscal 1993 through 1997 — will go to the Hanford weapons facility near Richland, Wash., where radioactive and toxic wastes have contaminated the soil, groundwater and surface water.

A major challenge at the 360,000-acre Hanford complex is how to deal with a mixture of unknown radioactive wastes in storage tanks. Some scientists have said special care must be taken to prevent some of the tanks from exploding.

Other sites that will be the focus of major cleanup spending are:

- The Savannah River complex near Aiken, S.C., where spending will range from $3.2 billion to $5.2 billion over the five-year period.
- The Oak Ridge complex in Tennessee, where expenditures will be at least $2.9 billion.
- The Fernald complex in southwest Ohio, where cleanup efforts are expected to cost between $2.4 billion to $2.9 billion. Fernald, which once processed uranium, has focused exclusively on cleanup for more than a year.

- The Rocky Flats weapons plant near Denver, Colo., where spending is expected to range from $886 million to $1.3 billion. The facility has been closed because of environmental and safety concerns, but is expected to resume production next year.

According to congressional sources and documents, the administration anticipates spending between $28 billion and $38 billion during fiscal years 1993 through 1997 on both environmental cleanup and waste management at the weapons facilities.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, said the funding levels in the five-year blueprint provide the first indication of a definite shift from weapons production to cleanup activities.

Guy still wants to be a Hawkeye

IOWA CITY — Running back Willie Guy still plans to play football for the Iowa Hawkeyes.

Guy has enrolled at a hometown college in Memphis, Tenn., that doesn't play football and said he hopes to play for the Hawkeyes after getting his grades in shape. He has enrolled at LeMoyn-Owen College, a four-year school, for the fall semester.

"I can't wait to get back to Iowa," Guy said. "Classes start next Monday at LeMoyn-Owen and I'm registered for 12 semester hours."

Iowa Football player charged

Second year UI football player Marquis Porter will be tried Sept. 9 for third-degree sexual abuse.

According to court records Porter allegedly "committed sexual abuse against another using force and against her will" on Feb. 21, 1991.

According to Iowa football coach Hayden Fry, Marquis has been unable to work out with the team this fall because of university regulations.

"He has a trial coming up on Monday and we hope everything turns out okay," Fry said.

Porter, a business major, was a redshirt freshman in 1990 and is slotted to play the defensive back position for the Hawkeyes.

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Guard Vinnie Johnson, the Detroit Pistons' fifth-leading scorer, was waived today.

The 35-year-old Johnson, known as the "Microwave" for his ability to come in hot off the bench, scored the winning jump shot in the fifth game of the 1990 NBA Finals, giving the Pistons their second straight championship.

Other NBA teams have 48 hours to claim Johnson, but any team doing so would be obligated to meet the terms of his current 2-year contract with Detroit, Pistons spokesman Matt Dobek said.

Johnson played in 798 games for the Pistons, leading the all-time list. He scored 10,146 points for the team. He averaged 11.7 points per game last season.

Rape charge won't stop Tyson from fight

NEW YORK — Evander Holyfield might stop Mike Tyson from regaining the world heavyweight championship, but a grand jury isn't going to stop Tyson from trying.

While a grand jury in Indianapolis continued deliberating whether Tyson should be charged with rape, the former champion and Holyfield met each other at a news conference Wednesday to formally announce their fight Nov. 8 at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas.

A grand jury decision was expected by Monday. An 18-year-old woman who competed in the Miss Black America pageant in Indianapolis told police Tyson raped her July 19 in a hotel room in that city.

Maris gains record, Pitches 100

NEW YORK — Roger Maris finally got baseball's single-season home run record to himself today when baseball's statistical committee voted unanimously to drop the asterisk from the record books.

In addition, Harvey Haddix and 11 others pitchers lost no-hitters when the committee voted to define no-hitters as games of nine innings or more that ended with no hits. Haddix pitched 12 perfect innings for Pittsburgh against Milwaukee on May 26, 1959, but lost in the 13th inning on Joe Adcock's RBI double.

Among the other pitchers having no-hitters taken away were Mark Gardner of Montreal.

Packer star Tim Harris may be on trading block

Associated Press

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Green Bay has offered holdout linebacker Tim Harris, who led the team in sacks each of his five seasons, to two teams for a first-round draft choice in 1992, a newspaper reported Wednesday.

The Milwaukee Journal, citing two unnamed NFL club officials, reported the Packers were seeking to trade Harris, whose holdout entered its 52nd day Wednesday.

The newspaper did not identify the teams the Packers had contacted. Tom Braatz, vice president of football operations for the Packers, refused to confirm speculation that Green Bay had discussed a trade for Harris with Miami. But the Dolphins obtained an extra first-round pick on Tuesday when they traded wide receiver Randall Hill to the Cardinals. End Jeff Cross is the only quality pass rusher for Miami, which allowed 583 yards in a 35-31 loss at Buffalo Sunday.

Braatz said the Packers hadn't granted permission for any team to negotiate with Harris.

"It's a rumor," Braatz said. "If there was something going on that team would be negotiating with his agent."

Coach Lindy Infante denied trade overtures as well.

"I didn't know a thing about it until somebody mentioned (the story) to me this morning when I walked in," Infante said Wednesday. "I don't know where all this stuff gets started, I really don't. . . . There is absolutely no truth to it. We have not even talked to Miami, I think that was the rumored team. We have no intentions of trading Tim Harris."

"We don't want to trade Tim because he's a good player and we are looking forward to the day we get him back on our team," he said.

The Packers are likely to attempt to acquire another early-to-mid-round draft pick in addition to the No. 1 choice if the compensation does not include a player, the newspaper said.

Harris's agent Ulice Payne said the Packers asked him Friday what type of contract Harris would need to accept a trade. Payne said he told Braatz that Harris wanted a one-year contract and would accept less than his $1.4 million request of the Packers, probably in the area of $1 million.

"I think he's going to be traded," Payne said. "The way it is right now with the rumors, I think they'll do the best they can with a draft choice for Tim."

Payne said it might be "best for everybody" if Harris leaves town.

"It's like I'm barking up the wrong tree talking about him as an impact player. Their number is $900,000, which they feel is where he's at as a one-time Pro Bowl player," he said.

The Dolphins on Wednesday signed Hugh Green, 32, their starter at right outside line backer, to a

Connors inspires Navratilova win

Steve Wilstein

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Martina Navratilova had Jimmy Connors on her mind as she scampered around the court against a panting, weary teen-ager and surged into the U.S. Open semifinals.

"I kept coming in," she said after her 6-7 (6-8), 7-6 (7-5), 6-2 comeback against Arantxa Sanchez Vicario on Wednesday. "I saw Jimmy doing it over the course of five sets. I said, 'Gosh, how can he keep it up for almost five hours?'"

"But I thought if he can do it for that long, I can do it for half the time. I figured if he could do it at 39, I can do it at 34. I'm a spring chicken next to him."

This spring chicken has surgery-scarred knees and 19 years of pro tennis behind her, but she still can cover a lot of court.

An incredulous look crossed Sanchez Vicario's face when she was asked if she thought Navratilova, a four-time U.S. Open champion, was old.

"No-oh!" the 19-year-old from Spain said with a laugh, her eyes popping wide with astonishment that anyone could think such a thing after she'd just been turned into a sagging heap by the indefatigable Navratilova.

Navratilova broke Sanchez Vicario's last five services to win the 2-hour, 12-minute match, reach the semis here for the 12th time in 17 years and set up a match Friday against No. 1 Steffi Graf.

Graf, who beat Conchita Martinez 6-1, 6-3, has beaten Navratilova in their last four matches and has breezed to the semis here without dropping a set. But Navratilova won seven of her first 10 matches against Graf and has improved because of knee surgery since their last meeting two years ago. Navratilova also has a new and better serve since her upset by Jennifer Capriati at Wimbledon in June.

Navratilova struggled in her second straight three-setter of this tournament but got some lovely gifts from Sanchez Vicario, none more welcome than a forehand volley dumped into the net with the court wide open on the final point.

Navratilova was off the court after chasing down a backhand, and when she saw Sanchez Vicario miss that last easy shot, she pumped her fist and celebrated her return to the semis for the first time since she made the finals in 1989.

She could not have gotten there, though, without considerable help from Sanchez Vicario. Among her many presents was an overhead off the frame of her racket on break point in the 11th game of the second set. Navratilova had just hit a lunging forehand that sat up nicely for Sanchez Vicario and was watching from off the court when the No. 4 seed whacked it long as if she were a beginner. Duffers among the 19,000 in the stadium sympathized and groaned with the young Spaniard while Navratilova let out a big sigh of relief.

Navratilova then tied the set 6-6 and won the tiebreaker when Sanchez Vicario smacked an easy forehand wide crosscourt on the last point.

Not only did Sanchez Vicario fail to hold service in the final set, but she won only four points in the four Fernandez breaks out against K.C.

CHICAGO — Alex Fernandez pitched two-hit ball for seven-plus innings and stopped his four-game losing streak Wednesday night, leading the White Sox over the Royals 4-1.

Chicago won for just the seventh time in 24 games. Bo Jackson lined out as a pinch hitter, making him 0-for-8, all against Kansas City, since returning to the majors.

Lance Johnson hit a two-run single and scored a run. Robin Ventura singled home a run and scored another.

Fernandez (7-12) gave up a single to Danny Tartabull in the first inning and a home run to pinch hitter Kurt Stillwell leading off the eighth. Scott Radinsky then relieved and finished the eighth and Bobby Thigpen worked the ninth for his 28th save in 35 chances.

Mike Boddicker (11-10) gave up four runs on six hits in six innings. Chicago loaded the bases in the first inning on two walks and an infield single before Johnson's single made it 2-0.

Chicago made it 3-0 in the second when Tim Raines was hit by a pitch, stole his 47th base and scored on Ventura's single. Johnson opened the sixth with a single and later scored on Sammy Sosa's single.

Tim Raines steals second when Royals shortstop David Howard applies his tag late in Chicago's 4-1 Wednesday night at Comiskey. Winner Alex Fernandez pitched two-hit ball for seven innings.

Blue Jays 3, Orioles 1

TORONTO — Joe Carter hit his 30th home run and Todd Stottlemyre allowed four hits in seven innings Wednesday night as the Blue Jays beat the Orioles 3-1 and took a three-game lead over idle Detroit in the AL East.

Stottlemyre (13-6) struck out one and walked two as he won for the eighth time in 12 decisions. Duane Ward got six straight outs for his 18th save in 20 chances, completing Toronto's eighth victory in 11 games.

Bob Milacki (8-8) pitched a six-hitter for his second complete game as the Orioles lost for the eighth time in their last 12. Milacki struck out a career-high 10 and walked one.

Carter homered in the first inning and Candedo Maldonado led off the second with his ninth homer.

Red Sox 2, Angels 0

BOSTON — Joe Hesketh shut out the Angels for 5½ innings, Jeff Reardon earned his team-record 34th save and Wade Boggs homered Wednesday night as the Red Sox won 2-0.

Hesketh (10-3) is 8-3 since being converted from a reliever into a starter. He gave up six hits and struck out six before California loaded the bases with two outs in the sixth on a two-out double by Wally Joyner and two walks.

Greg Harris relieved and retired Lance Parrish on a routine fly to end the inning, preserving a 1-0 lead.

Reardon pitched the ninth and broke a tie with Bob Stanley, who had 33 saves in 1983, for the Boston record.

MONTREAL — Atlanta lost for the fifth time in six games as Marquis Grissom snapped a seventh-inning tie with a two-run single to lift the Expos over the Braves 8-4 Wednesday night.

The Expos, who had rallied with three runs in the sixth inning, scored twice in the bottom of the seventh after the Braves tied it in the top of the inning.

Atlanta entered the game in a first-place tie with Los Angeles in the NL West.

Spike Owen and Ivan Calderon led off the Expos seventh with consecutive singles off Jim Clancy (1-4). After Tim Wallach walked to load the bases, Mike Stanton relieved and got Larry Walker to fly out before Grissom's single.

Mel Rojas (2-3) pitched two-thirds of an inning for the win and Barry Jones finished.

The Braves tied the score, 4-4, in the seventh after pinch-hitter Tommy Gregg doubled with one out off starter Mark Gardner. Brian Hunter then drew a walk from Rojas, and after Otis Nixon advanced the runners with an infield out, both scored on a bloop single by Jeff Treadway.

HARRIS: Packers looking for trade?

one-year contract worth $500,000.
Gusty Sunseri, Green's agent, said Wednesday he believed Phoenix had agreed to pick up Hill's signing bonus of $900,000 from Miami. The Dolphins drafted Hill with the 23rd pick, but reportedly tired of his brash attitude after a lengthy holdout.

Sunseri said the Dolphins might consider acquiring Harris now that they've got the $900,000 back.
Talks with Harris have gone nowhere since the Packers' 20-3 loss to Philadelphia, Braatz said. "They're still at $1.4 and we're in the $800,000s," he said. "There isn't any movement."

The Packers already own their own and Philadelphia's first-round pick in draft next year. If they had three No. 1 picks, they would be in position to control the draft by trading up for the top pick or trading down for several additional choices.

Brewers 2, Athletics 0
MILWAUKEE — Bill Wegman stopped Oakland on four hits for eight innings and struck out a career-high 10 Wednesday night as the Brewers beat the A's 2-0.
Wegman (11-6) won his career-high fifth straight game, a streak that includes a 7-0 victory over the A's on Aug. 24 in Oakland.
Wegman walked two and struck out Jose Canseco three times, the last time in the eighth with Rickey Henderson at third. Wegman, a 6-foot-5 right-hander who had elbow surgery last season, gave up all singles and allowed just two runners past first base.

Greg Vaughn continued to pound A's pitching, hitting his 23rd homer in the second for a 2-0 Brewers lead. It was Vaughn's sixth homer and 20th RBI of the season against the A's.
Indians 8, Twins 4
MINNEAPOLIS — Albert Belle drove in a career-high five runs with a homer and double Wednesday night and the Twins lost a game off their AL West lead by letting the majors' worst team, the Indians, rally for an 8-4 victory.
Minnesota, which had a three-game winning streak snapped, still leads the division by eight games. The Indians broke a three-game losing streak.
After surrendering Kent Hrbek's three-run, first-inning homer, Willie Blair (2-2) settled down and allowed only one man past first base in eight innings. He allowed eight hits, struck out one and walked one.

Steve Olin relieved to start the ninth and left with the bases loaded and no outs. Shawn Hillegas got his seventh save, allowing one run on Mike Pagliarulo's double-play grounder.
David West (4-4), whose inconsistency is hurting his chances of remaining the Twins' fourth starter down the stretch, lasted only 2 1/2 innings.
Yankees 3, Rangers 2
ARLINGTON, Texas — The Yankees ended their 15-game losing streak at Arlington Stadium, beating the Rangers 3-2 Wednesday night on Steve Sax's go-ahead single in the seventh inning.

Texas had not lost at home to New York since May 4, 1989. The Rangers' winning streak was their longest home winning streak in history over one team.
Sax went 4-for-5, including his eighth home run of the season in the third inning. In the seventh, Bernie Williams drew a walk from Brian Bohanon (3-2) and scored on Sax's double. Roberto Kelly hit an RBI single in the ninth.
Greg Cadaret (7-5) won in relief of starter Scott Sanderson, who left after five innings because of a groin pull aggravated while covering first base. Steve Howe relieved to start the ninth, and Steve Farr gave up pinch hitter Mike Stanley's RBI single before getting his 18th save.

homered Wednesday as the Pirates beat the Giants 7-3 and completed a three-game sweep.
Smiley (17-8) held the Giants to two runs and seven hits in 6 2-3 innings, and won his fourth consecutive decision as the Pirates won for the eighth time in nine games. Roger Mason finished for his second save.
Smiley joined Tom Glavine of the Braves as the NL's only 17-game winners. He struck out two without a walk, and even drove in the Pirates' fourth run with a fourth-inning infield single.
Buechele gave the Pirates a 3-0 lead in the fourth with his first home run as a Pirate, hitting a two-run-drive off Bud Black (10-14).

Buechele, acquired Aug. 30 from Texas, also drove in the Pirates' first run with a second-inning single.
After Matt Williams and Robby Thompson hit consecutive homers for the Giants in the fourth, Van Slyke gave Pittsburgh a 5-2 lead with a solo homer over the 365-foot sign in right-center field. Van Slyke drove in the Pirates' final run with a two-out single in the ninth.
Reds 5, Phillies 1
PHILADELPHIA — Randy Myers pitched four-hit ball and struck out a career-high eight in eight innings as the Reds defeated the Phillies 5-1 Wednesday night.
Myers (6-12), who was a reliever until this season, was making only his eighth career start. He was in trouble only once before Darren Daulton's home run in the eighth inning spoiled the shutout. Rob Dibble pitched a perfect ninth.

The Reds scored two runs in the first inning off Tommy Greene (9-7). Bill Doran led off with a single and went to third on Barry Larkin's one-out double, extending his hitting streak to 18 games.
Astros 8, Mets 3
NEW YORK — Jeff Bagwell and Craig Biggio homered Wednesday night as the Astros beat the Mets 8-3 despite two home runs by NL leader Howard Johnson and another visit from Topsy-Curry.
Houston took two of three from New York, which learned before the game that ace right-hander Dwight Gooden may require major surgery on his shoulder pending further tests and will be out the rest of the season.

Jim Deshaies (5-12) allowed both of Johnson's homers, but was still able to improve his career record to 5-0 against the Mets in New York. Johnson, who has moved to right field, has five homers in his last five games.
Bagwell hit a three-run homer in the first inning off David Cone (12-11), but Johnson hit his 30th in the bottom of the first.
Just before the third, Topsy-Curry, the exotic dancer who kissed Cone for luck on the Shea Stadium mound in August, had a return engagement. This time, Cone even carried her off the field to security.

U.S. OPEN: Navratilova inspired by Connors

games she served. She lost the last game at love totally on errors — a backhand in the net, a double fault, a backhand long and the final volley in the net.
Navratilova had her troubles holding, too, suffering two breaks in the third set, but she never trailed.
"It is not like I hit that great a variety of shot, but I just kept attacking and believing that that is the right way to do it. And it was. I started getting the feel on her serve and how to break it, so as long as I stayed ahead, I felt comfortable."
She charged to the net 168 times in the match, winning 97 points that way, while Sanchez Vicario approached the net only 18 times and won nine of those. Navratilova put away 24 volleys to two for Sanchez.

Navratilova said it would be tough to play that aggressively against Graf.
"She has a much better serve than Arantxa, much more difficult to attack it right off the bat," Navratilova said. "But I still can attack it. I prefer to attack to the backhand side, to the left side of the court. That plays into my game better with the backhand slice down the line and the forehand approach crosscourt."
"But on the other hand, Steffi's forehand is such an incredible force that it is hard to stay away from that. But I have beaten her before. It has been a long time since I played her, so it is just great that we finally get to play each other again."
In their last four matches, all finals, Graf beat Navratilova at Wimbledon in 1988 and 1989, in the U.S. Open in 1989, and in the Virginia Slims Championships on carpet in 1989. The first three of those went three sets, and the last one went four.

It was a bad day for the Sanchez family, as Arantxa's brother Javier lost a men's quarterfinal match to Stefan Edberg, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.
"I am doing everything I can to try to win it, trying to make the best effort," said Edberg, a first-round loser last year and a fourth-round loser the two previous years. "Not that I haven't put down any effort before. I have always come here to try. But this year, you know it becomes more and more important to you to at least win it once."
Edberg is staying in a rented home on Long Island with his fiancée, rather than in the players' hotel in Manhattan, and has spent much of his summer aiming for this tournament since his semifinal loss to Michael Stich at Wimbledon.

"Even if I have been struggling, I have kept working, having in mind that the Open was coming up," he said. "I just kept working and digging in, and waiting for it to get better."
He said he didn't take the Wimbledon loss badly when it happened, but the more he thought it the more it bothered him.
"I really couldn't see how I could lose the match without losing my serve, and looking at the statistics, where I won more points than he did," he said of that 6-4, 6-7, 6-7, 6-7 match. "But I still lost the match because I played a few bad points here and there. That really was the difference in the tiebreakers."

Dozier runs back to football, Vikings

By Jimmy Golen
Associated Press
MINNEAPOLIS — D.J. Dozier plans to change hats again, trading his Class AA baseball cap for a Minnesota Vikings helmet.

Dozier, who has spent the summer playing outfield for the New York Mets' affiliate in Tidewater, Va., has left the team.

"His agent notified me last night that it was his intent to play football and has asked us to keep him out of the lineup to prevent injury," Mets director of baseball operations Gerry Hunsiker said Wednesday.

Dozier took himself out of the lineup before Tuesday night's Tides game. Tidewater general manager Dave Rosenfield said Dozier was expected to play Wednesday night, the last game of the International League season.

The move comes even as Dozier, a running back in his football career, is demanding a trade from the Vikings. He is not under contract with the team and, with Minnesota's new one-back offense designed to feature Herschel Walker, probably would not be allotted much playing time.

But Dozier stands to make a lot more in football, said Hunsiker, who declined to comment on Dozier's baseball salary.

"It can't even compare to what he can make playing football because we're talking about minor leagues versus the major leagues," Hunsiker said.

Dozier's agent, Brett Senior, did not return a phone call Wednesday and the phone at Dozier's Virginia home was not answered.

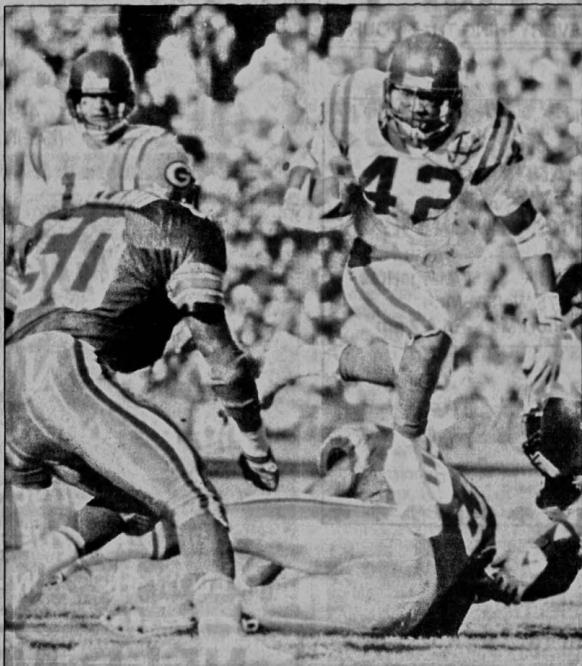

Jeff Diamond, Vikings vice president, said Wednesday he had not spoken with Senior and knew nothing of Dozier's plans.

"I can't comment further until I talk to his people," Diamond said. Last summer, Dozier finished the minor league baseball season and played in the instructional league until early November before jumping to football with six games left in the Vikings' season.

"We've always had this relationship with him," Hunsiker said. The understanding was that he would play football if he chose to and that if he wanted to play baseball we would provide him that opportunity.

This year, he just left a little earlier."

Dozier, 25, hit .269 with one homer and 22 RBIs in 171 at-bats for

Associated Press

Mets minor leaguer D.J. Dozier plans to report to the Vikings, for whom he plays halfback, this weekend. He says he has requested a trade from Minnesota because of Herschel Walker's new role.

Tidewater. He hit .278 with eight homers and 30 RBIs in 259 at-bats for Williamsport of the Class AA Eastern League before being promoted.

The former Penn State star played four seasons in the NFL after being selected 14th overall in the 1987 NFL draft. In limited duty last season, he gained 12 yards on six carries and had one reception for 12 yards.

Surgery for Mets pitchers

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Dwight Gooden has a pulling away of muscle in the anterior capsule of his right shoulder and will undergo a diagnostic procedure this weekend to determine if surgery is needed.

The New York Mets' ace felt a sensation of tightness in an Aug. 22 start against St. Louis. Gooden left after five innings.

"The term that is used by the doctors is stripping," Mets vice president Al Harazin said Wednesday. "We'll go in and take further pictures to determine the level of the damage."

Harazin said if Gooden needs more extensive surgery, the pitcher would still be ready by spring training or shortly thereafter.

The Mets also announced that left-hander Sid Fernandez will undergo arthroscopic surgery on his left knee on Saturday and will be out the rest of the season. Fernandez missed the first half of the season with a broken bone in his left arm and put on some weight while idle.

Long, Dilweg tried for Cards' QB spot

Mel Reisner
Associated Press

TEMPE, Ariz. — The Cardinals continue to insist that Tom Tupa can make the jump from backup quarterback on a 5-11 team to leader of a playoff contender.

They may be right. The fourth-year pro from Ohio State is 2-1 as a starter and the Cardinals are 1-0 this season after shocking the Rams 24-14 on Sunday.

But that doesn't erase the questions raised by Tupa's minuscule passing statistics, the six interceptions he threw in his first NFL start, and his baby-faced image — the opposite of fiery Timm Rosenbach, whose season ended Aug. 21 with a knee injury.

"Tom has a completely different personality than Rosey," coach Joe Bugel said. "You don't have to be one of those vocal guys. Rosey happened to be that way. He was born that way, and Tom was born a little more quiet."

Rosenbach underwent surgery Tuesday at Phoenix Good Samaritan Hospital to rebuild the anterior cruciate ligament of his right knee. General manager Larry Wilson said the operation was a success, but rehabilitation will take eight to 12 months.

Wilson and Bugel said quarterbacks Anthony Dilweg and Chuck Long were given workouts but not offered contracts. Bugel said neither Dilweg, cut by the Packers, nor Long, waived by the Rams, would be anything but insurance for Tupa and backup Craig Kupp, a rookie from Pacific Lutheran.

"Always in everybody's back of their mind, you're one play away from another starter," Bugel said. "Everybody goes through that, but we're not going to make a decision to bring somebody in just to have three (quarterbacks). That's the comfort zone, and we feel comfortable right now."

Tupa has earned respect with plays like a 28-yard scoring strike to Ernie Jones which gave the Cardinals a 14-0 lead against the Rams, and a 1-yard keeper which proved to be the winning score.

"I think a team gains confidence when you perform. I think in pro football, they can like you but you better perform," he said.

In a 34-10 preseason win over the Broncos and the season opener in Anaheim, Calif., Tupa passed for 119 and 124 yards, respectively. The conservative game plan against Denver was understandable — the game was played two days after Rosenbach's injury.

But Tupa's 18 passes against Los Angeles raised some eyebrows. Phoenix plays the Eagles on Sunday in Philadelphia, and Bugel said skeptics should wait and see.

"When you get into the NFC East, you better have a pretty good mix, so, yeah, we'll throw the football, and we're not afraid of Tom doing it," Bugel said.

Against the Rams, the Cardinals had the advantage of an early lead.

"I don't care how much talent you have, if you put the ball in other people's hands, you're going to lose," Bugel said of five fumble recoveries and two interceptions by the Cardinals against the Rams.

Tupa, 25, was known as "Six-Pick" after the Eagles intercepted him six times in a game two years ago. He said he never lost faith in himself.

"It's never been a question with me," Tupa said.

Considered the best athlete on the team, Tupa went to the semifinals of the national punt, pass and kick competition when he was 11, starred in three sports in high school in Centerville, Ohio, and teams with offensive coordinator Jerry Rhome to form an unbeatable combination in 2-on-2 basketball games.

Tupa made the Cardinals but faded into the background behind Neil Lomax in 1988, Gary Hogeboom in 1989 and Rosenbach last year.

"Tom's a competitor," Bugel said. "You take him on a basketball court, take him on a golf course, he wants to win. He looks like a sweet, good old boy who doesn't shave, but he's got some meanness in him."

Former Aggie returns to Texas

Former A&M coach guides Mississippi St. against Longhorns

Rick Varner
Associated Press

When Texas meets Mississippi State on Saturday, it will be the first football game between the schools since 1921. Their coaches, however, are familiar foes.

State's Jackie Sherrill is 3-0 against Texas' David McWilliams, with all the victories coming when Sherrill coached Texas A&M. The Aggies beat McWilliams' Texas Tech team in 1986 and defeated his Texas squads in 1987 and 1988.

Overall, Sherrill's A&M teams were 5-2 vs. Texas. After losing to the Longhorns in 1982 and 1983, the Aggies won five straight over their arch-rivals.

But Texas is better now and Mississippi State isn't as good as those A&M teams, although the Bulldogs did look impressive in a season-opening 47-3 rout of Cal State Fullerton.

The 13th-ranked Longhorns have eight defensive starters returning from a 10-2 team that won the Southwest Conference. They have a strong secondary and a great defensive line that features all-conference standouts Shane Dronett and James Patton.

The offensive leaders are quarterback Peter Gardere and running back Butch Hadnot, who averaged 5.5 yards per carry as a freshman.

Sherrill, who was out of coaching for two years after leaving A&M, is trying to revive a Mississippi State program that hasn't had a winning season since 1986.

"We certainly are not in Texas' class right now," he said. "We will have to do a lot of different things to keep them off balance and be able to move the ball."

The Bulldogs had no trouble moving the ball against Cal State Fullerton, scoring seven touchdowns and piling up 402 yards in total offense. William Prince and Michael Davis, a redshirt freshman, each ran for two touchdowns as State scored its most points since 1980.

Radio-TV museum moves to new $50 million home

Jay Sharbutt
Associated Press

NEW YORK — On Sept. 12, with all the usual broadcasting suspects and stars in attendance, the 26-year-old Museum of Television and Radio will start life anew here in a new, white, 17-story home it calls its own.

Three years in the making, costing $50 million and located on West 52nd Street next door to the old "21" Club where the swells hang out, it's a state-of-the-art historical center for those who want to see and hear yesteryear.

It has two theaters, one with 90 seats, the other with 200, each with a pair of cameras used to tape record various seminars on broadcasting. There also is a "listening room" for radio fans.

And two 50-seat screening rooms that will be used weekday mornings for school groups. And a radio studio from which broadcasts can be made, according to the museum's president, Robert Batscha.

Those who want to pick their own shows, after paying a suggested $5 donation, can plow themselves down at one of 78 radio-TV consoles — another 18 are set aside for scholars — and needn't worry about stacks of cassettes.

The consoles are linked to the museum's basement library. After making selections on a computer programmed to be understood even by TV critics, one sits at the console and punches in the number of a desired program.

A mechanical cassette-fetcher in the basement does its thing, and voilà! you get entertainment or an expose from "A Current Affair" or something more formal, like Edward Murrow's devastating documentary on Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

The new building likely will prove a veritable treasure trove to both civilians and serious students of broadcasting.

Batscha says its library will contain tapes of 15,000 radio shows, 25,000 TV shows, and yes, commercials, 10,000 of them. Some go all the way back to what the philosopher Gary Owens calls "the golden age of silent radio."

The library also will have, on microfiche, between 600 and 800 clips of yesteryear reports on radio and television by newspaper types who specialize in worrying about such things.

Batscha's electronic emporium is taking no chances that a classic episode of "I Love Lucy" or an epochal Edsel commercial will blur out someday from overuse by visitors.

It has spent much of a $3.5 million grant from the Sony Corp. on digital gear and has transferred all its TV programs to sturdy, digital eight-millimeter tape. Its radio collection also has taken the digital route.

Originally called the Museum of Broadcasting, this hall of broadcast yesteryear was founded in 1975 by the late father of CBS, William Paley. He donated the land, worth $12 million, for the new building.

YACHT CLUB

Miller's first draft pick Beat The Clock to fill local club with 'booty rock' sound

Brian Berger
Daily Iowan

First Draft Music Magazine, "The Official Publication of the Miller Genuine Draft Band Network", says that the four Minneapolitans in the band Beat The Clock play something called "booty rock." What it doesn't say is that this band named themselves after a classic '70s game show; it also neglects to mention the classic '70s disco music origins of this whole burgeoning "booty rock" phenomenon.

Whatever that phenomenon may be, it will be on display tonight at the Iowa City Yacht Club, 13 S. Linn St. Cover is $3.

Beat The Clock is supposed to be really funky. Don't be thrown by their skin tone. Miller knows that the funk doesn't discriminate; it's just that, you know, some people are more equal than others. And even if Beat The Clock isn't the second coming of Rick James (forget James Brown), it certainly can't possess a rhythm section more stolid or a singer more soulless than the all African-American Living Colour.

Beat The Clock has lots of songs on two albums that I've never even seen, let alone heard. This strikes me as a bit odd. It's real easy to find Miller beer, but it's real hard to find Beat The Clock recordings. But even though I haven't heard it, I'm certain that the music of Beat The Clock is "Energetic," "Honest," and "Rebellious." Because First Draft Music Magazine says that Miller only supports "talented musicians" whose work embodies these qualities, it must be true.

And yet I wonder. If Miller is so dedicated to the music of Beat The Clock and the 25 other bands they support, why don't they encourage their distributors to offer for sale to retailers both beer and band recordings? Or come up with some cool kind of giveaway gimmick. Like, "Buy two kegs and get a compact disc for free!?" Surprise! The answer is both obvious and simple: The only thing Miller is truly dedicated to is spending money so that they can make even more money. (Ooh, those capitalists are soo rebellious!)

So come one, come all, to the Iowa City Yacht Club tonight! Drink beer, dance and bear witness to the Miller-endorsed musical experience that is Beat The Clock. It's sure to be a blast. Believe me, I know, because Miller said so.

New York rapper rails against N.W.A. for 'promoting culture of gang warfare'

David Bauder
Associated Press

ALBANY, N.Y. — New York City and Los Angeles already have an intense sports rivalry. Now, a musical fight has flared in the bluntest possible terms.

A Bronx-based rapper named Tim Dog has released an obscenity-laced attack on the best-selling Los Angeles group N.W.A. and its Compton neighborhood. The song's title can't be printed.

Out on the West Coast, Dog's record is viewed as kicking someone when they're up. N.W.A.'s latest album, "Efil4zaggin," debuted on the Billboard chart at No. 2.

Dog, who poses on his single's cover with a gang of friends wearing stockings over their heads, says N.W.A., for Niggers With Attitude, members aren't as tough as they sound.

"Everybody's going around wearing the Compton hats, the Raider hats when the Giants won the Super Bowl," Dog said. "Why not 'dis' (disrespect N.W.A.)?"

Along with standard bragging about which coast has the better rappers, Dog's recording specifically criticizes N.W.A. for promoting a culture of gang warfare and a January incident in which N.W.A. member Dr. Dre allegedly attacked Dee Barnes, host of Fox television's "Pump It Up" show.

"In my eyes, they're not real," Dog said. "They're the typical manufactured gangsters that the industry throws out and blows them up."

"I've got nothing against them personally, but it's just a street thing," he said. "The street thing is, if you think you're so bad, then prove it. Otherwise, I'm going to show everybody that you're not so bad."

Dog's powerful record company, Sony Entertainment, is claiming West Coast rappers Above the Law intend to bite back with an answer record. But Laylaw, a writer and producer for Above the Law, says the group wouldn't waste the time and money to respond.

"The song is a joke," Laylaw said. "The guy can't even rap. He just did it for some recognition."

Dog succeeded, at least to the extent that rap fans are talking about it. The record is "definitely making a lot of noise," said Jon Shecter, editor of Source, a rap magazine.

"I think New York rappers think it's a funny record," Shecter said. "The ultimate appeal of it is humor, actually. It's exciting when rappers get into a battle. It's a fun thing for a listener to hear that."

Despite hype and humor, Dog's Compton record takes on some serious issues.

Dog criticizes Compton gang members for their deadly warfare, calling their actions dumb and even worse. Dog, who said some rap fans actually think N.W.A. is a gang, said the posturing is pointless.

Dog said Dre's attack of Barnes at a Los Angeles party shows disrespect to women in general.

Barnes is pursuing a civil lawsuit against Dre. An N.W.A. band member was quoted in Rolling Stone magazine as saying Barnes "deserved it." N.W.A. spokesman Guy McCain said the band had no comment for The Associated Press.

NEW BOOKS

Stumped by a Trivial Pursuit question? Consult the James Dean Encyclopedia

Bob Thomas
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Old Hollywood legends never die, they simply become a growth industry for the publishing world.

Books about Marilyn Monroe, Elvis Presley and other dead stars continue to flood the market. The latest: Randall Riese's "The Unabridged James Dean: His Life and Legacy from A to Z" (Contemporary Books, $35).

It contains 600 pages of everything you could possibly want to know about Dean from Joseph Abeles (who took early photographs of the actor) to Maurice Zolotow (who wrote an article declaring the late Dean was "sadistic, uncouth, arrogant, cruel and a filthy slob.")

The book has more than 1,500 entries about an actor who lived 24 years.

Why do these books sell?

"My feeling is that young people see these stars on TV or videocassette, and they want to know all about them," replies Git Polin, co-owner since 1955 of the Larry Edmunds Bookshop, which calls itself the world's biggest store of cinema books.

"We get a lot of young people asking for these books. They seem to be either star-struck or else they are sad cases who have nothing in their lives but the fantasies of dead movie stars."

Jeff Nantor, who works at the bookstore on Hollywood Boulevard and has collected 30 books on Monroe, commented:

"The work of these stars still stands; if it didn't stand, nobody would care. There is a certain mystic feeling because these stars died young. An aura grows up, and fantasy overcomes fact."

James Dean left behind only three movies he starred in ("East of Eden," "Rebel without a Cause," "Giant") and a handful of TV performances. That didn't stop Riese from devoting 2½ years to his encyclopedia.

"Why did I do it?" muses Riese, who earlier wrote "The Unabridged Marilyn." "Sometimes I wonder myself. Obviously, there is a market for the Big Three: Monroe, Presley, Dean. They keep perpetuating themselves as each new generation comes up."

"It was a challenge to do a book on an actor who lived 24 years and made only three movies. So I went into some of the TV appearances, including some that hadn't been reported before, and some of the commercials."

He said potential buyers of the book include "Dean fanatics everywhere, James Dean fan clubs all over the world. Also there is a surprising number of producers, writers, researchers, libraries who will buy the book. Instead of browsing through the 25 books about Dean, they can find everything they need in one volume."

Some of the entries you can find: ■ Boris Becker — "is a huge James Dean fan and has even visited the remote Cholame, Calif., site where Jimmy was killed in a car crash. ■ Dean's Men's Store — A clothing chain in South Africa advertises "His spirit of independence is imbued in Dean's Men's Stores everywhere."

■ Eyes — "His eyes were blue; his vision was nearsighted. He could see virtually nothing without his eyeglasses."

■ Favorites — actress, Jennifer Jones; book, "The Little Prince"; quote, "What is essential is invisible to the eye," Antoine de Saint-Exupery; singers, Frank Sinatra, Renata Tebaldi; poet, James Whitcomb Riley.

■ Neck — "James Dean had a 15½-inch neck."

■ Pepsi Cola — "Three decades before Michael Jackson, Michael J. Fox and Madonna did it, James Dean did it..." (made a Pepsi Cola TV commercial).

■ Ronald Reagan — Reagan starred opposite Dean in 1954 on a General Electric Theater drama. Reagan played a doctor, Dean a gun-toting delinquent.

■ Track and Field — "At Fairmount (Indiana) High School, Jim Dean was a pole-vaulting champion on the track and field team, of which he was a member for four years."

■ Louis de Liso — "Jimmy's favorite waiter at Jerry's Bar and Restaurant in New York City."

■ Ice Cream — His favorite flavor was a combination of coffee and raspberry.

■ Last words (before his Porsche struck another car on Sept. 30, 1955) — "That guy's gotta see us. He's gotta stop."
