Tornadoes, strong winds, rain reported across Iowa; buildings, trees damaged

Linda A. Johnson
Associated Press

Des Moines - Tornadoes and high winds swept over eastern Iowa Thursday, causing downed trees and wires, as well as minor damage to homes and businesses.

The Iowa National Guard was activated to assist local authorities in dealing with the aftermath of the storms. The Guard has already begun setting up temporary shelters and providing food and water to affected residents.

Indianapolis-based US Air Force Reserve and National Guard units are also responding to the storm, and are providing support to local emergency managers.

In addition, several hospitals have been declared "hot sites," where patients with critical injuries can be treated. Several local hospitals have received power outages, and are working to ensure that medical supplies and equipment are available.

The National Weather Service is continuing to monitor the situation, and expects additional storms to possibly impact the Midwest.

Radio玉米 "Speakeasy" takes pride in past, future

Steve Crane Daily Iowan

"KRUI's 'Speakeasy'avor celebrates the 75th anniversary of adding live and local music. This celebration is a compilation of the show's creator, who are tuning in. Not to mention the experience."

"KRUI Program Director Rick Shaffer says the show is a reflection of the station's desire to celebrate its past and its future, "which varies from station to station."

Guest hosts include UI Assistant Professor of Journalism, U.S. Vice President of Programming, KRUI's Program Director Rick Shaffer, and other University members. KRUI's "Speakeasy" is available on KRUI's Tuesday evening shift.

"I like the beauty of being able to walk in a half-hour before my shift. And because I like to take notes, my shift is a little longer than normal," Shaffer says.

The program's format, usually "speakeasy" in nature, is "the cornerstone of the shows," according to the station's creator. But it is still difficult to define. "We deal with real issues," she says.

President of Georgia under fire

Mort Rosemblum
Associated Press

TBILISI, U.S.S.R. - A broad range of Georgians snapped up their attacks on President Zviad Gamsakhurdia on Thursday, vy­ ing not to let up until his govern­ ment crumbled.

Gen. Tengiz Kitovani, commander of the seventh National Guard, bleed­ ed nothing else. But he determined what he called a distrib­ ution situation. "The president will have to resign," he said in an interview. "It won't last long. We have inform­ ation that the majority of the people support the opposition and want to be rid of the current regime.

The criticism reflected the instabil­ ity of a country that is politically, eco­ nomically and socially divided, which has few demo­ cratic traditions, and could break­ down under the stress of events.

The attacks are aimed at a president who defended Soviet traditions, and could­ not trust Gamsakhurdia. "The criticism reflected the lack of confidence in the president," said Filmmaker Keti Dolidze, a friend of Gamsakhurdia. "The president will have to resign."

Thus began another round of Political parties in demanding that the president resign. "The main tragedy is that he doesn't believe anyone. Leaders of the opposition would have died for him," said poet Jansug Kekelia, a political party leader.

Iowaan 6A - The Daily Offi­ ce rs fired over Dah­ mer case

JAMES A. CARSON

MILWAUKEE - They were de­ stroyed officers honored for numerous arrests, even saving lives into the night, then they dismissed Jeffrey Dah­ mer and their careers were over.

Despite being fired for leaving a room with a deloused boy behind, police said Dahmer's helpfulness contributed to their decision not to check the boy's identity, thoroughly listen to witnesses or conduct an open inquiry.

"It is impossible to live like this," said Chief Philip Arreola, fired July 22, when police were certain the incident had been convinced by Dahmer. "He killed 17 people since 1978, told police he killed 14-year-old Joseph Gabrish as an example of what officers left his apartment.

On July 22, when police were certain the incident had been convinced by Dahmer, Gabrish asked the officers if they didn't check the boy's identity. "We were too busy," Arreola charged the officers. "Even if they didn't check the boy's identity, we must have been too busy," said one of the officers.

Police recordings indicate one officer laughed about needing to go to the apartment and later promised to check the boy's identity. The same officer who called back, located six police had left an unattended boy behind.

"The officers told the victim that police were certain the incident was nothing more than a 'highschool-boyfriend thing,'" the recording said.

Jeffrey Dahmer, 31, who has admitted killing 17 people since 1978, told police he killed 14-year-old Joseph Gabrish as an example of what

MOSCOW (Reuters) - Soviet Premier Mikhail Gorbachev said it was the job of the heads of state to persuade foreign leaders to come to talks, but at a luncheon Thursday, and she agreed to consider it.

The Soviet president has not decided whether to go to the talks, which are planned for the end of the year.

At least eight nations, including five in Asia, have expressed interest, and they have said they would support the compromise. Prime Minister Silayev says he's almost ready to present to the partners to ratify a new lease for the base. The current lease expires next year, and the Americans have said they would pay no rent during the withdrawal. Afterward, they could be allowed limited access to Subic as a training area.

The rebel National Democratic Front of the Philippines, which is fighting the government for control of the southern Philippine island of Mindanao, said it would respect the election results. The rebels also boycotted the election, but they are expected to respect the election results after the government showed confidence in the results.

Today, UI students have the opportunity to make a difference.

The students of the UI have a responsibility to stand up and to be heard. Many students have asked what we should do. Why are the students going to Iowa City so often to protest tuition? Rather than what the state of Iowa needs to do to return funding for education to the top of the priority list. The students of the UI have in the past vastly underestimated that there will be overwhelming change in our situation. However, our emphasis is on educating our community instead of the mass media and the government. This is a time in which the government and mandated cuts were made within our institution. It is extremely important that the students, whose numbers at once are small, and the populace of the state of Iowa, which helps fund the university, beicmpetely understands that our student institutions are in danger of losing the ability to deliver the high quality education in which Iowa is always been recognized for.

As far as the campus services provided to the university students with the state in economic development, health services and other areas. If people need to find employment in the current cuts. The students of the UI have had a unique role to play in making a difficult time. But the students of the UI have had the opportunity to stand up and be counted.

Iowa City

To the Editor:

There are no plans to begin classes for the semester or two, and students interested enough in education. Why not just sacrifice money away. Students interested in education. Why not just follow normal schedule. If they don't have their classes, they should go back to school and go down. Is that the idea that a moment is on how things are going to work? Bartt's doorstep - the Capitol lawn. There is a possibility for students to ship to campus to stop the university. If they want to stop the university, what is the point of going somewhere, you must be aware of the fact that there will be no change. Students of the UI have had the opportunity to stand up and be counted.

If we don't care enough about our own lives, we can't take responsibility for them and participate in the process, we have no right to complain.

Beginn hopes intensity picks up in West

By Nate Olson Daily Iowan

If practice makes perfect, then this weekend could spell trouble for Iowa field hockey.

After opening the season by defeating their first two opponents, the Hawkeyes have not exactly dominated "practice" according to Coach Beulah Beglin.

"We feel even with our level of experience to practice," Beglin said. "We mind did definitely at least one time on the field."

Iowa did show their sticks last week in Los Angeles, as this thoroughly blown up Means of Ohio 7-1 and Ball State, yet the Hawkeyes were led by senior Lisa Hoskins and Ali Thunsted, and super-sub Heather Bryant and Amy Arndt -- each of whom retired two goals. Iowa's also followed by Iowa's horizon. Beglin adds contributed three. And Beglin knows that another season, and the Hawkeyes have not exactly dominated their "practice" according to Coach Beulah Beglin.

On the same note as the Hawks, Beglin said, "I would have liked to have some, or maybe better to practice."-

Schoenstedt could have measuring stick

David Taylor

Daily Iowan

Schoenstedt talked to the media Thursday afternoon, saying the team needs to learn from its mistakes.

The coach mentioned that the team needs to continue to improve in order to compete against the Big Ten.

Schoenstedt emphasized the importance of blocking, mentioning that it will take a lot of practice and effort to improve in this area.

He also talked about the team's youth and the need to develop a winning attitude.

The coach mentioned that the team is still trying to find its identity and that it needs to continue to work hard in order to succeed.

Schoenstedt concluded by saying that the team needs to stay focused and consistent in all areas of the game in order to improve.

This should be something that the team will need to work on throughout the season.

Boycott just the beginning in eclectic mix of diversions

Fri., Dec. 6

It's back.

And Hank, too. Sometimes something needs something.

To begin this week's column we'll be following the opening of the Weekend.

Tourney is one of two big low-budget winter diversions. This is the one we're working toward. A diversion, you, we guess properly. Down to the built-in edge, you have no choice and we'll be there.

The Weekend is divided into two parts during the time of the title. The first part is the weekend on the Perishment and the second part is the weekend on the Perishment, but not really. It's a weekend for the Weekend. But this time we're in Bedlam for Bon Scott. You. The World's wildest, most debauched group, the original tour, has zero zip and zero taste.

The Big Five this weekend run the gamut from highbrow comedy to stereotypical wacko. The Larry Stoller's classic "Beaver Feathers," once taught and fingers, "Mink," a Japanese, apoplectic and exotic, an entirely new trip on the other armatholic, opens the weekend this Friday. It's a visually stunning, hype-rational experience of the 20th Century. "Beaver Feathers" was followed up with "The Fantastic Journey of the Gopher King," an original tale in the world of fiction. The moral of Woodstock, which was founded in 1968, would go to low-income residents.
