Branstad signs budget package

The approval of the bill.4, and the House quickly followed by a vote of 70-23.

The first order of business with the new budget is to address the state sales and use taxes, which was easy bipartisan agreement.

"There isn't much point to debate," said Senate President Michael Gannon, D-Des Moines, "I think people are ready to move forward with this budget.

Though it contained political dynamite, including a $74 million increase to the state sales tax, legislators conversing in their second special session were eager to get the fight ended and get on with the business of the campaign trail.

"We need to get this done and get it behind us," said Sen. Loren Smith, D-Des Moines. Even those initially voting against the bill remained silent.

The Senate approved the bill 34-0, and the House quickly followed by a vote of 70-23.

Communal drumming fosters empowerment

The Daily Iowan

By Emily Rahn

For Hull, the sum is greater than the parts. When I've done this or that in my life, I've done it in concert with other people or in communities of drum people into a conversation.

Hull, who currently serves as a transformative artist to several Fortune 500 companies, said that drumming with people can move you in a new direction. She explained that "singing creates the drum monologue" through "drama for the self." Hull, Levy and the community are all a part of the community. "It's a natural, it's self-enjoyment, it's getting into touch with a basis that is connected to a person and the drum; you actually have to put your physical, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, personal, person

Officials: Drought nearting critical stage

Steve N. Ruemmel, president of the Iowa Agriculture and Home Economics Association, said that the current drought is approaching a critical stage, and warned that farmers should be prepared for what could be a record-breaking summer. He added that the association is working with the state and federal governments to develop solutions to the drought crisis.

Drought conditions are expected to persist through the summer, with forecasts predicting below-average rainfall. This could lead to a significant drop in crop yields and increased stress on water resources.

The association is calling on farmers to prepare for possible crop losses and to take steps to conserve water. They are also urging the federal government to provide additional assistance to farmers affected by the drought.

Supplying dwindling in Bosnian city

The line remaining doctor in Dobrinja, under siege by the Serbian army, was almost impossible for the patient to reach the hospital, which was not only a distance of several kilometers but also was situated in a location that was under constant shelling.

The medical situation was desperate, and the doctors were struggling to provide basic medical care to the patients. The lack of medical supplies and the constant shelling made it difficult for them to perform even simple procedures.

Despite the challenges, the medical staff continued to do their best to help the patients. They were using improvisation and creativity to provide the necessary care.

The situation was so desperate that some patients were choosing to die with dignity, rather than to suffer in pain. This was a difficult decision for them, but it was one that they believed was necessary to maintain their quality of life.

The doctors and nurses were heroes in their own right, working tirelessly to help the patients. They were making sacrifices for the good of others, and their dedication was truly inspiring.

But the evacuation of the wounded and the sick was also a challenge. The roads were frequently blocked by shelling, and the medical team had to find alternative ways to transport the patients.

The situation was compounded by the lack of supplies and resources. The doctors and nurses had to make do with what was available, and they were constantly battling against the odds.

The medical staff were also dealing with the emotional toll of caring for patients in such a difficult situation. They were facing the challenges of their own health and safety, while also trying to care for the patients who were under siege.

But despite the challenges, the medical staff remained committed to doing their best for the patients. They were a shining example of selflessness and sacrifice.

The medical situation in Dobrinja was a sad reminder of the human cost of war. It was a stark reminder of the need for peace and reconciliation.

Leaders call for end to fighting

But the sensitive issue was overshadowed by efforts to resolve conflictal.

Joseph Campbell, a renowned spiritual leader, had called for an end to the fighting in Bosnia, and had urged both sides to resume negotiations.

The president of the four countries reached a truce agreement after a meeting in Sarajevo on Saturday.

The agreement included a six-month ceasefire, and the setting up of a joint commission to monitor the cease-fire. The leaders also agreed to work towards a peace agreement that would end the conflict.

One conflict was not addressed at the meeting. The president of Armenia and Azerbaijan, who have been fighting for four years over the enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh, did not attend the meeting.

A total of 1,000 people have been reported killed or wounded in recent days in the two countries' Trans-Dniester region.

In a joint communiqué, the presidents of Armenia and Azerbaijan said that they would meet in the next few days to discuss the situation, but did not specify a date.

The presidents of Armenia and Azerbaijan have been fighting for four years over the enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh, despite the cease-fire that was signed in 1994.

The cease-fire was intended to end the conflict, but it has not been fully implemented.

ON wings of vultures

Aeron is finally gaining exposure to the maestro side of unorthodox presidential candidate R. Perot. Having had the least possible policy "base" in the campaign, Aeron is now getting some kind of attention for his "maverick" image. But the vultures have already begun to circle his campaign as a potential "bargain" for the political arena and is therefore unattainable. His apparently $3 billion worth of debts, his unusual style and personal quirks have already attracted the attention of the financial community. Rumsfeld's candidacy

Perhaps the best-known reason for Rumsfeld's candidacy is his well-documented support for the war on terrorism. Rumsfeld is a strong proponent of the war on terrorism, and he has been a vocal supporter of the war in Iraq. Dutch court gives immunity to 2 "suicide doctors"

BOSTON, Netherlands (AP) - A court on Tuesday granted immunity from prosecution to two Dutch doctors who helped a mentally ill woman commit suicide, reflecting the growing leniency toward euthanasia in favor of mercy killing.

The Amsterdam court granted the immunity to the public prosecutor for the 85-year-old woman's doctor and the public prosecutor for her only female caretaker, under the condition they will not kill another person for mercy killing.

Despite their ordeal, the woman's surviving family wasn't worried for food, medicine and to be brought into the fenced area patrolled by Yemeni soldiers who were under orders to keep them on the beach.

Some of the refugees washed their children in seawater. While sheets were spread over the fence to shelter them from the brick wind. U.N. officials said they filed in supplies and about 350 Yemeni troops also reached out on the beach on Wednesday.

Blackman era ends in Dallas

Iowa City Press

DALLAS — For 11 years, Roland Blackman had toiled away as a eraser-saver for the Mavericks, helping the team rack up four-time NBA attendance records. But now, with his career winding down, Blackman is looking forward to a new challenge.

Blackman, 41, was one of the Mavericks' last clutch players, the type who could be counted on to hit a critical free throw or score a timely basket.

All star, he was.

But was the Mavericks' career leader in free throws really ready to retire and start a new chapter in his life?

That's the question.

Blackman is also considered the most valuable player in the club's 11-year history.

But on Friday, the longtime Mavs fan
said he was ready to take the next step.

That's what Saturday night was:
Blackman's farewell night.

He was honored with tickets, flowers and other gifts.

The former

Blackman's career had been long and memorable.

As a touchstone,

Blackman is remembered clearly by those who stepped in the dunking box.

He was c memorable in the court.

And that's why Blackman is leaving now.

He's time to move on.

The Mavericks are time to move on.

The Mavericks are out of the playoffs,

which leaves Blackman free to pursue other opportunities.

Blackman
said he can't wait to see where he ends up.

WHAT? Olympic team upset by developmental club

The developmental team is made up of Chris Webber of Michigan, Shaquille O'Neal of LSU, Dell Anthony Hardaway of Mississippi Valley State, Bryant Reeves of Kansas and Anthony Mason of North Carolina. In the first game, the developmental club beat the real team 94-70.

The only USA team members who haven't had first international experience are Reeves, O'Neal and Mason. USA Coach Chuck Daly said: "The US team is very young. They are a developmental team. With 12 feet on the free throw line and 12-18 feet on the baseline, the USA team has more freedom. We are going to have to make sure we can turn the ball over to the team that is not afraid to make mistakes." Daly said.

"Uncle Sam" was the only team that played against the USA developmental club in the qualifying tournament of the World Championship for the United States. The only USA player to score against the USA developmental club was Michael Jordan, who scored 41 points.
