Single-parent families in Iowa doubled in 1980s

DES MOINES (AP) — The number of single-parent families in Iowa rose more than 50 percent from 1980 to 1990, the "Iowa Kids Count Initiative" says.

The publication says that in 1980, 12.9 percent of Iowa families were single-parent households. In 1990, that number rose to 19.7 percent.

The number of male-headed single-parent households more than doubled from 1980 to 1990, from 1.8 percent to 3.8 percent. Female-headed single-parent households increased about 44 percent from 1980 to 1990.

The publication says that in 1990, female-headed single-parent households represented 80.7 percent of all single-parent families.

Perot supporters will try to include him on ballot

DES MOINES (AP) — Supporters of Ross Perot's abortive presidential campaign will move next week to put his name on Iowa's ballot, hoping "a little bit of turmoil" will sharpen the political debate.

The Texas businessman has signed a formal affidavit of candidacy to accompany the 50,000 petition signatures, supporters said Wednesday. That's more than enough to get his name on the ballot in Iowa.

The petitions will be filed Aug. 7 and accompanied by a Statehouse rally, said Bob Sprague, a spokesman for the Perot organization, now called Independent Voters of Iowa.

Suits from 1989 Sioux City crash being settled quickly

DES MOINES (AP) — Lawsuits resulting from the crash of United Flight 232 three years ago in Sioux City, Iowa, are being settled out of court at a rapid pace, an attorney says.

Philip Corboy, a Chicago, Ill., lawyer and lead attorney for the plaintiffs, said 237 lawsuits, 82 percent of the claims and lawsuits filed, have been settled. He said no lawsuit has gone to trial.

The United Airlines DC-10 jumbo jet with 296 people on board crashed at the Sioux City airport July 19, 1989, killing 112 people.

Saddam's opponents meet with Baker in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration offered a high-level embrace Wednesday to a delegation of Iraqi dissidents while laying plans to retaliate against President Saddam Hussein for his repression of ethnic groups.

A six-member delegation of dissidents made the rounds on Capitol Hill telling lawmakers that Iraq's salvation lies in Saddam's ouster and his replacement with a democratic system.

Honecker jailed on return to Germany

Larry Thorson
Associated Press

BERLIN, Germany — Former East German leader Erich Honecker returned to his homeland Wednesday and was immediately arrested on charges stemming from the deaths of Germans who tried to escape his Communist dictatorship.

Honecker, who led construction of the Berlin Wall in 1961, was returned from Moscow, Russia, shortly after 8 p.m. (2 p.m. EDT), and jailed near where the wall stood, before his overthrow three years ago caused it to tumble.

Honecker, holed up in the Chilean Embassy in Moscow since December, is accused of ordering border guards to shoot to kill anyone trying to flee his Communist country during his 18 years in power. From 350 to 400 East Germans died trying to escape.

While many Russians believed the 79-year-old Honecker should be allowed to live out his days in Russia, Germany pressed Chile and Russia to return him.

The trial will be a severe test of Germany's legal system, and is certain to be followed avidly by 16 million East Germans who are struggling with their lives in united Germany and were divided over the wisdom of trying Honecker.

A small crowd of people carrying old East German flags demonstrated outside the airport in support of Honecker. After 35 minutes, he was led from the plane and driven to Moabit prison.

Bruno Rautenberg, a spokesman for the Berlin Justice Department, said Honecker would face a long list of charges including manslaughter, attempted manslaughter, embezzlement and misuse of authority.

"Now justice can take its course," said federal Justice Minister Sabine Leutheusser-Schnarrenberger, in a statement issued in Bonn. "Mr. Honecker will receive a fair trial in Germany under the rule of law."

"It is not a matter of revenge but rather the attempt to satisfy justice under the rule of law," she said.

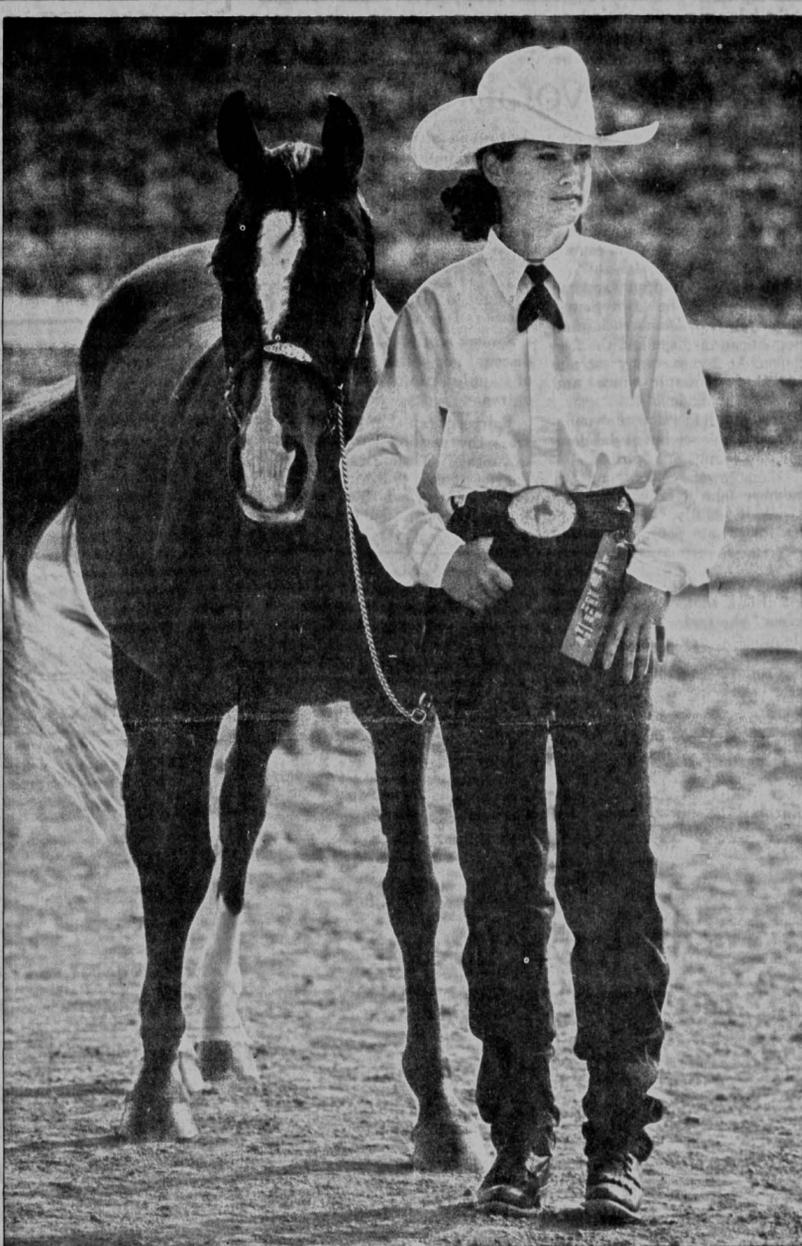

Officials expected the trial to raise some embarrassing questions for Chancellor Helmut Kohl and past governments that wooed Honecker's regime.

Honecker, who has denied the charges, was defiant as he left the Chilean Embassy in Moscow earlier Wednesday.

He raised his right fist in the old Communist salute before stepping into the back seat of the Chilean ambassador's blue sedan, which sped him to Moscow's Vnukovo-2 diplomatic airport.

In Chile, Foreign Minister Enrique Silva said Honecker agreed to leave the embassy after giving a 15-page document to Russian authorities outlining his defense. Chile had insisted on Honecker having the right to state his position to Russian courts.

Honecker was "absolutely calm" and thanked the Chilean government for sheltering him and his wife, Margot, Silva said. See GERMANY, Page 6

Clifford, law partner indicted in BCCI case

James H. Rubin
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Quintessential Washington insider Clark Clifford and his law partner were charged Wednesday with making millions in illegal profits from the BCCI international banking scandal.

The charges in separate federal and New York state indictments against former Defense Secretary Clifford and colleague Robert Altman ranged from criminal conspiracy to accepting bribes. Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve Board said it has begun civil proceedings that could bar them permanently from U.S. banking.

Clifford, 85, and Altman, 45, were accused of participating in a massive criminal conspiracy that officials said was designed to give the corrupt, foreign-owned Bank of Credit and Commerce International secret control of U.S. banks.

"We totally and categorically deny all charges," Clifford and Altman said in a joint statement, accusing overzealous prosecutors and politicians of using them as convenient targets.

The charges are based on "circumstantial evidence . . . mean-spirited suspicion and unfounded speculation," they said. "We shall fight to establish our innocence."

They pleaded innocent to the New York State charges Wednesday afternoon before state Supreme Court Justice John Bradley, who directed them to return to court next Wednesday to discuss how to proceed with the case.

Bradley, at the request of the New York law enforcement officials, put a freeze on the assets of Clifford and Altman as part of a civil suit the state filed against them. The suit seeks the more than $40 million the two are accused of obtaining improperly.

Clifford and Altman acted as BCCI's principal lawyers in this country. They also were chairman and president, respectively, of First American Bankshares, Washington's biggest bank-holding company.

The ruling family of the Persian Gulf emirate of Abu Dhabi owned

Clark Clifford

77 percent of BCCI before it collapsed last year amid allegations of arms smuggling, drug money laundering and financing of terrorists. It operated in 70 countries.

BCCI pleaded guilty in December to federal charges and forfeited $550 million in assets, the biggest forfeiture in U.S. history.

In a boost for the prosecution, two BCCI insiders who pleaded guilty Monday in New York to misdemeanor violations of state banking laws are cooperating with authorities, federal and New York state officials said Wednesday.

They are Sheik Kamal Adham, a Saudi Arabian businessman, and his accountant, Sayed Jawhary. Adham, a former head of Saudi intelligence, agreed to pay $105 million in fines but avoided any jail term.

For 45 years, Clifford has been an adviser to presidents, a powerful figure in Democratic politics and a witness to some major developments in the latter half of the 20th century.

He played poker with Winston Churchill; helped Harry Truman win the presidency in 1948; advised President John F. Kennedy after the disastrous Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba; and urged President Lyndon Johnson to get out of Vietnam.

U.N. search reveals nothing; inspectors suspect subterfuge

Nabila Megalli

MANAMA, Bahrain — U.N. experts left Baghdad, Iraq, Wednesday after a fruitless search for evidence of weapons programs in Iraq's Agriculture Ministry. The team leader said there were indications material had been removed from the building.

Iraqi media portrayed the inspection as a victory that had restored the Baghdad government's dignity. Iraqi television showed Saddam Hussein taking a symbolic victory swim in a river near his hometown and driving a speed boat.

Achim Biermann, the German head of the nine-member inspection team, told reporters in Baghdad the inspectors found no materials forbidden by the Persian Gulf War cease-fire, which requires Iraq to surrender its weapons of mass destruction under U.N. supervision.

But he said there were "traces" of

Bus service continues as IC seeks new agent

Eric Detwiler
The Daily Iowan

It's business as usual at the Union Bus Depot of Iowa City, 404 E. College St., even though the city was granted a writ of possession which enables them to evict Iowa City ticket agent Bobby Rorex.

Rorex owes the city approximately $5,000 in back rent accumulated over a period of about six months, according to City Manager Stephen Atkins.

"Mr. Rorex did not appear and the court ordered possession back to the city," said Anne Burnside, first assistant city attorney. "The writ of possession is available on demand."

Burnside said the city will not evict Rorex until an alternate ticket agent can be found to run the depot.

"The assistant city manager is trying to negotiate an interim so that bus service will not end," Burnside said. "I know they're talking with the bus companies. It's up to the bus companies to hire a ticket agent and the city to enter an agreement on the property with them."

Rorex said Wednesday he was giving up the business as soon as an alternate agent was found.

"I've decided to give up on it," Rorex said. "It's just created a lot of confusion. I've been working on the sidelines trying to be helpful to whoever's taking over and to the city."

In addition to the back rent, Atkins said approximately $5,000 to $7,000 in damages has accumulated during Rorex's rental of the property. He added, that as part of the lease, Rorex was responsible for the damages.

Whether the city will attempt to recoup these losses through court action has not been decided.

"That will require a separate legal action," Burnside said. "I suspect that we will, since it involves public funds."

Atkins said earlier in the week that the main damage to the building has been from water leaking through the roof.

JOHNSON COUNTY

Pie contest resurrects classic art of baking

James Arnold
The Daily Iowan

The competitors in today's apple pie contest at the Johnson County Fair won't be battling for a lot of dough, but the winner will take home an automatic bread maker.

The fair's first apple pie contest is expected to bring in many of the county's best pie makers. The bread maker is incentive for some, but the title, "Best Pie Maker in Johnson County" is the ultimate enticement.

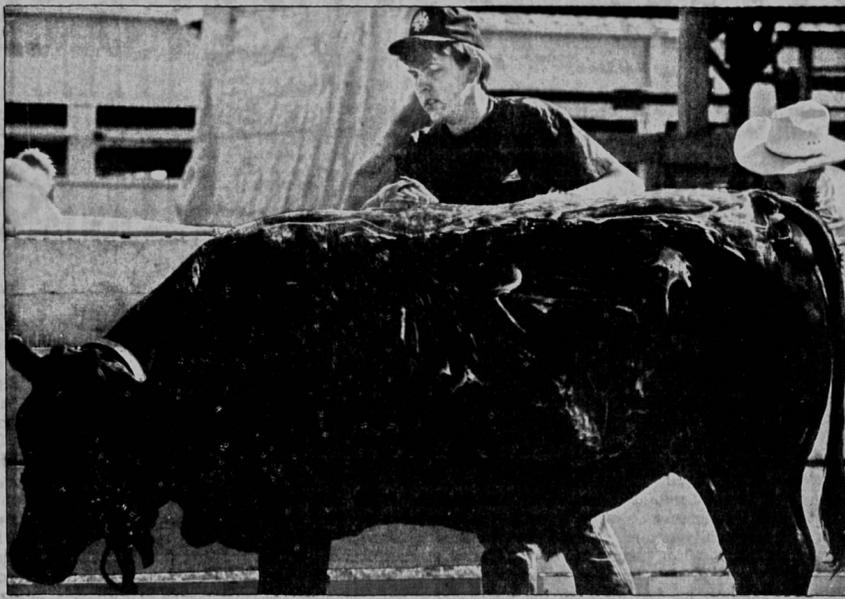

"Actually, when I first heard about it, I didn't know about the bread maker," said Portia Cooper, an Iowa City resident and contest participant. "If I get it, that will be fine because I've heard about them and thought that if I had one, I'd bake more bread."

Sylvia Smith said the bread maker prize is nice, but she just wants to have the best pie.

She said her secret is her apples. "They're tree-ripened. We grow them," she said. "They're not quite ready yet so I'll be using frozen — a Wealthy or a Jonathon. The Wealthy is my favorite."

A wealthy supply of apples is important but there are other aspects to pie making.

"It's an art to make a flaky dough, a flaky crust and pick the right apples," said Carolyn Smith, a member of the Johnson County Agricultural Association.

Smith said she is happy that the fair has added the pie contest because it showcases a "lost art form."

"Pie making is an art," Smith said. "The younger generation kind of says, 'Pies? Oh my. I can't make a pie." "If you can flute the crust and crimp the crust, you're quite an accomplished baker."

Celebrity judge Theresa Carbrej said she will use the contest as an educational tool for her own cooking.

"I think it will be fun to see the different techniques of putting pie crust together, different kinds of apples and the different effects different cooks come up with," she said.

Smith said that because it is the first time the fair has had such a contest, she was worried about attendance. But, after a large-scale campaign for pie makers, she is expecting a number of accomplished bakers.

"I was real worried that maybe we

The rain poured down on the Johnson County Fairgrounds Wednesday, stopping the rides, but not the children from coming out for Kid's Day.

Hundreds of children wandered in and out of the lawn mower displays, the Democratic and Republican displays and the food tables. At 1 p.m. many sat and watched a magic show and enjoyed lemonade.

The rain didn't slow the youngsters' attendance but it did dampen one youngster's spirits.

Solon, Iowa, resident and 4-H member John Ryan was washing his calf, Molly, as a steady stream of rain poured down her brown and white coat. Ryan said he didn't mind the rain but the calf he raised from an infant was noticeably unhappy.

"She doesn't like the rain," said Ryan as Molly tromped around pushing him back and forth.

The rain is also expected to continue today and drench Senior Citizen's Day at the fairgrounds.

Seniors will be offered a lunch discount and will be given a piece of apple pie from contest entrants.

Fairgoers can skip the wet trip from the parking lot by taking advantage of the free shuttle service from Wal-Mart, 1001 Highway 1 West. The service begins at 5 p.m. and runs every half hour.

wouldn't have enough but I'm hopeful now that it's going to be a success," she said.

Joining Carbrej as judges are Arie Kroeze, Pleasant Valley Nursery; Dottie Ray, KXIC Radio; Carey Hahn, KGAN-TV; Eileen Robinson, Kirkwood instructor; Johanna Nelson-Beers, Iowa City Press Citizen; and Marilyn Bender, Kalona Bakery. Iowa City historian Irving Weber will be an honorary judge.

Carbrej, the education director at the New Pioneer Co-op, said she is looking forward to seeing the pies but not necessarily tasting all of them.

"I don't know if I'll have to eat one slice of 37-plus pies or how we go about this," she said. "It seems possible you could reach your capacity on pies before you reach the end of the pies to be judged."

"I wouldn't want to be a judge," Cooper said. "I wouldn't want to eat lunch afterward."

Can collecting helps stretch low incomes

Jon Yates
The Daily Iowan

On a good day Buck and Jean Lotheridge can collect over $3 in pop cans from around the Pedestrian Mall. Today is not a good day.

As Jean places a wet Coke can in the ragged plastic bag, Buck looks in and counts their earnings. Six cans. Thirty cents.

"If we have a good day in cans, we eat at the senior citizen center," the 64-year-old Buck explained. On this particular rainy afternoon, the Lotheridges ate for free at the Wesley Foundation's free lunch program.

It hasn't always been this way. Buck, an army veteran, used to make a comfortable living working for the Davenport Community School District. After he was laid off about five years ago, he moved to Iowa City to look for a job.

Buck said finding employment at age 59 was difficult. It was then that he and Jean first started collecting cans. Five years later they are still collecting cans to supplement their monthly Social Security check of $555.

"It's just not enough to live on," Jean said. "Tonight we'll use our can money to get a gallon of milk. Last night we got a loaf of bread and some lunch meat."

Most of the money the Lotheridges receive from the government each month goes to paying medical bills. Buck and Jean have no health insurance.

Buck estimates there are between 35-40 people in Iowa City who collect cans on a regular basis. The competition for cans has increased greatly since he started collecting them, Buck said.

"Five years ago we could get about $20 a day," he said. "It's getting hard now to even get $3. There are a lot of wins that do it."

George, who has been homeless for over a year, counts himself one of them.

A self-proclaimed alcoholic and chain smoker, George came to Iowa City to receive medical care at the Veterans Administration Medical Center and has stayed because, he said, "it is a good place to live on the streets." Collecting cans is his only source of income.

"I can make $6 or $7 dollars a day during the week," he said. "That's enough to buy what I need."

George uses the money he receives collecting cans to buy coffee, cigarettes and beer.

"I always buy my coffee first, then my cigarettes, then whatever is left over I spend on beer," he said. He needs no money for food, he said, because he eats at the free lunch program.

Brad Byers, a cashier at L & M

Al Goldis/The Daily Iowan

Collecting pop cans is a source of supplemental income for some Iowa Citizens who otherwise would not be able to make ends meet.

Mighty Shop, 504 E. Burlington St., said he sees a regular clientele returning cans during the day.

"We have about five or six that come in every day," he said. "Usually they don't have that much, but every once in a while they'll hit it big."

Byers said that most of the people who return cans to his store use the money they earn to buy alcohol.

"They usually buy a 40-ouncer of beer," he said.

The Lotheridges, who will celebrate their 45th wedding anniversary next week, said they plan to use their earnings for other purposes.

"We're trying to save up enough money to buy a trailer," Jean said. "We've already paid the downpayment with can money."

The Lotheridges said they plan to continue collecting cans as long as their benefits aren't enough to get them by.

"I like getting the cans," Buck said. "We do it together, so we have fun."

Death threat against gov. results in Iowan's arrest

The type on the card matched that on letters from Bernie Bresse.

Associated Press

DES MOINES — A Mahaska County man has been arrested after agents found a link between him and a one-sentence post card threatening to kill Gov. Terry Branstad.

Bernie Bresse, 43, of University Park, has been charged with first-degree harassment for allegedly mailing the post card to Branstad on April 25.

Bresse denied he had threatened the governor and said he was targeted by the agents because he has written a number of letters to Branstad in the past.

Maj. Earl Usher of the Capitol Police said that after the post card was received, the state troopers who guard Branstad were notified and the Iowa Division of Criminal Investigation investigated.

"We consider all threats serious," Usher said. "That threat was treated just like the rest of them."

Mahaska County Attorney Charles Stream said the card was brief and included no motive for the threat.

"It was just a one-line sentence," Stream said. "The statement said he was going to kill the individual with a gun."

Stream declined to name Branstad as the intended victim, but other officials confirmed the threat was aimed at Branstad.

The post card was not signed, Stream said, but the DCI charged

Gov. Terry Branstad

Bresse after comparing the type-writing on the card with other letters Bresse had written.

A judge released Bresse on his own recognizance.

Kevin Taylor's replacement named

Tad Paulson
The Daily Iowan

David Grady, a former ombudsman and student development specialist for the University of Texas at Austin, will be the new UI director of campus programs and student activities starting August 17.

In filling the post, which has been vacant since April 1991, Grady will take over the position of previous director Kevin Taylor, who resigned following allegations that he misappropriated university funds.

"I'm looking forward to a long and mutually beneficial relationship with both faculty and students," Grady said Tuesday.

Grady was chosen by Associate Vice President of Academic Affairs and Dean of Students Phillip Jones, based on the recommendation of a university search committee made up of faculty, staff and students.

"His outstanding background will afford him an exceptional base of experience and preparation to serve the University of Iowa," Jones said.

Grady received his bachelor's degree in banking and finance from Mississippi State University, a master's degree in education in administration, planning and social policy from Harvard University and a doctorate in higher education administration from the University of Texas at Austin.

Grady was also assistant director of student life at the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa and a financial consultant for Ernst and Whinney.

Grady was chosen from a field of over 100 applicants, Jones said, because he had "the desired qualifications in terms of strategic planning and leading student organizations."

The position of director of campus programs and student activities will involve multiple responsibilities for Grady.

Among these responsibilities are the preparation and supervision of departmental student organizations and student government budgets, the coordination of administrative arrangements among student groups, and the organization of student activity programs in the Union and across the UI campus.

Grady will also act as a liaison and consultant for student representatives in the development of student activities, and coordinate, with the director of the Union, the programming efforts of the Recreation Arts and Crafts Center and the University Box Office.

Grady plans to move to Iowa City with his wife and his dog by Aug. 17.

New regulations assist job-seeking foreign students

Anne Johnston
The Daily Iowan

Thanks to new regulations announced last week, foreign students at the UI will have more options when it comes to finding employment, according to Maggie Brooke, immigration adviser at the UI Office of International Education and Services.

Under the new regulations, students classified under legal F-1 immigration status can apply for permission to work off campus if they can demonstrate financial hardship due to circumstances beyond their control.

Such circumstances could include loss of financial aid or on-campus employment through no fault of their own, as well as inordinate increases in tuition and/or the cost of living.

The new regulations also allow F-1 students to receive off-campus practical training in an area related to their field of study for a total of 12 months, either before or after graduation.

Brooke said the new regulations are especially good news in light of recent budget cuts, which resulted in the loss of some foreign students' assistantships on campus.

"They will be able to live a more normal life, more like American students can," she said.

The new regulations were published in the July 20 Federal Register by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

According to regulations announced by the INS last October, Brooke said, foreign students had only been permitted to receive practical training for 12 months after graduation.

Brooke said an INS program also announced last October, based on an idea from the McDonald's corporation, was not-so-affectionately dubbed the "McWork" program.

"They were totally unworkable, unusable, impossible regulations," Brooke said. "Nobody — not employers nor students — was able to follow them."

The "McWork" program, which still exists, requires foreign students to find an employer that has advertised a job for a minimum of 60 days with a state job service without finding someone to hire.

If they were able to find such an employer, the student had to fill out a form and send it to the Department of Labor in Kansas City, Mo. When the form was returned, the student was then able to obtain permission through their immigration adviser to work for the employer.

Brooke said the INS and the Department of Labor had originally expected 40,000 employers to sign up for the "McWork" program, but were only able to attract about 600.

She said since the program began last October, she has only signed one of the forms for one student.

"McWork" doesn't work," she said.

Brooke said the previous restrictions on employment had caused some resentment among foreign students.

"A lot of them said things like, 'Well, I know the economy is bad, and they want to save jobs for Americans so they're just cutting us out of the picture,'" Brooke said. "If they feel like Americans are shutting them out of the American experience, then why bother to come here?"

The change in employment regulations comes after an intense lobbying effort on the part of the National Association for Foreign Student Affairs, the American Immigration Lawyers Association, the Business Immigration Coalition and the Association of American Universities.

Brooke believes the new regulations will make a "very big difference" for the approximately 2,000 foreign students on campus.

"I'm thrilled! I think it's great," she said, adding that she is anxious to get the word out.

Students affected by the new regulations are encouraged to stop in at the OIES and discuss their employment plans with an adviser.

Brooke is also inviting students already attending the UI to join incoming students for an immigration lecture on Saturday, Aug. 15, at 2 p.m. in the International Center Lounge, where she will explain the various stipulations of the new regulations.

Departure of administrators leaves Red Cross chapter's future dubious

Lynn M. Tefft
The Daily Iowan

A re-evaluation of the viability of the Johnson County Red Cross chapter is being conducted following the resignation of Director Judy Johnston and Health Services Coordinator Lisa Anderson, Johnston said Wednesday.

Anderson leaves office today to resume full-time graduate studies at the UI and Johnston leaves for a new job on Aug. 14.

Johnston said that while some reports alluded to a sudden "mass exodus" of Red Cross staff, the two resignations occurring within two weeks was merely a coincidence. Anderson decided to leave over a month ago, and Johnston received word of her new position July 17.

A yet-to-be-named interim director will coordinate chapter activities while the chapter is being re-evaluated. However, first-aid classes have been suspended for the month of August.

"The board thought this would be a good time to consider how viable the chapter is," Johnston said.

The chapter's 75-year history has been financially precarious at times, Johnston said. In 1988, a merger with the Cedar Rapids chapter was considered, and with the recent restructuring efforts of the national Red Cross agency, Johnston sees it as an option once again.

"Still, we would like the chapter to continue as unchanged as possible under the Red Cross restructuring," she said.

Anderson said disaster-relief services will continue uninterrupted in spite of the upcoming changes, and people needing to complete first aid classes have been referred to the Muscatine and Cedar Rapids chapters.

"Given our departures being at the same time, it seemed like a juncture to examine the chapter's viability," Johnston said.

Haitian refugee policy illegal, says U.S. court

Paul Geitner
Associated Press

NEW YORK — A federal appeals court Wednesday declared illegal the Bush administration's policy of intercepting Haitian refugees at sea and returning them to Haiti without a hearing.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered that an injunction be granted preventing the Coast Guard from turning back any Haitian refugee "whose life or freedom would be threatened."

About 30,000 Haitians have fled their island nation since President Jean-Bertrand Aristide was deposed in a coup last September.

The case now returns to a federal judge in Brooklyn who upheld the policy in June, saying laws cited by attorneys seeking to overturn the Bush policy did not apply in international waters.

The appeals court, in a 2-1 decision, disagreed with that ruling.

"The plain language of the Immigration and Nationality Act clearly states that the United States may not return aliens to their persecutors, no matter where in the world those actions are taken," the court wrote.

There was no immediate comment from either the White House or the Justice Department, which had argued the case.

But lawyers for the Haitians hailed the ruling.

"That's the most fundamental principle of international human rights: That a country shall not return a refugee to a place where they will be persecuted," said Lucas Guttentag, director of the Immigrants Rights Project of the American Civil Liberties Union.

"The government can't simply send everybody back," he said. "They have to give protection to people who are refugees."

Bush announced May 24 that Coast Guard cutters would intercept Haitians fleeing their Caribbean nation in boats and immediately return them home. Asylum requests were to be made only through the American consulate in Port-au-Prince, Haiti's capital.

Previously, the refugees were taken to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where a tent city had been set up and immigration officials screened them.

Many of the refugees claim they are fleeing army and police terror, but the Bush administration maintains they are trying to escape Haiti's poverty.

About 30 percent to 40 percent of the people fleeing Haiti before Bush's order were found to have valid claims for political asylum, Guttentag said.

Thousands of people are believed to have drowned attempting to make the voyage to the United States.

GERMANY

The Honeckers had sought refuge in the embassy to avoid a Russian government ultimatum that he return to Germany or face expulsion from the country. Honecker wanted to go to Chile, where his daughter, Sonja, lives.

Chile from the very beginning has said Honecker did not qualify for political asylum, arguing he was not the victim of political persecution.

Honecker had fled Berlin in March 1991, spirited away to Moscow by the Soviet Red Army.

Former Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev spurned German requests to turn Honecker over to Berlin justice authorities, and the Russian government inherited the problem when the Soviet Union collapsed last December.

Honecker is the top name on a list of 300 people the Berlin Justice Ministry says it will prosecute in the deaths.

While several border guards tried for shooting fleeing East Germans have been given probation or light sentences, their trials were criticized because Honecker and other top officials hadn't been punished.

Honecker's trial will be the biggest yet of former East Bloc leaders who were deposed in the tide of popular revolutions in Eastern Europe in 1989-90. Romanian leader Nicolae Ceausescu was summarily tried and executed by firing squad on Dec. 25, 1989.

Communist leader Todor Zhivkov has been on trial for a year in Bulgaria.

Russia had been under intense German pressure to return Honecker.

Honecker did not regret construction of the Berlin Wall, which he oversaw, and he categorically denied that he had ordered troops to kill defectors.

U.N. experts had suspected the ministry contained documents on Iraq's chemical, biological, nuclear and ballistic weapons. Iraq denied the charge.

The information gathered in the ministry must now be assessed by the whole team, said Nikita Smidovich, spokesman for the U.N. Special Commission overseeing the weapons' destruction.

A previous inspection team was barred from the ministry and gave up a 17-day stakeout last week because of harassment by demonstrators. U.N. officials worry that the Iraqis used the intervening six days to destroy or remove weapons-related documents.

More than 40 U.N. teams have gone into Iraq to track down and destroy Iraq's weapons of mass destruction. Much of their findings has been gathered in surprise inspections.

Another nuclear team is to travel to Iraq next month, and a group of chemical experts has been in the country since June overseeing the destruction of munitions leaking dangerous chemicals at the al-Muthanna State Establishment, 37 miles northwest of Baghdad.

Because the U.N. chemical team is helping to save Iraq from a potential catastrophe, it has encountered no resistance.

The surprise inspections have been most irritating for the Iraqis, and because they are not likely to stop, future confrontations with the United Nations cannot be ruled out.

The confrontation over U.N. demands to search the Agriculture Ministry became a symbol of Iraq's refusal to comply with the truce terms. The standoff prompted U.S. threats of military force before a compromise was reached Sunday.

BASEBALL: Glavine wins 16th game

Continued from Page 10 Detroit relief ace Mike Henneman started the ninth with a 6-2 lead but left after giving up Tim Lincecum's two-run single. John Doherty got Frank Thomas to ground out but gave up George Bell's RBI single, making it 6-5. Royals 5, Blue Jays 2 TORONTO — Kevin Appier won his ninth consecutive decision and Gregg Jefferies had four hits as the Kansas City Royals sent the AL East leaders to their fourth loss in five games. Appier (12-3) allowed eight hits in 8 1/2 innings, struck out six and walked two before Jeff Montgomery finished for his 25th save. Appier has given up just seven runs in 63 1/2 innings over his last eight starts. Blue Jays starter Dave Stieb allowed one run and six hits in six innings in his first start since June 29. Stieb, 3-6 as a starter, was removed from the rotation after giving up four runs in 3 1/2 innings against Texas in that game. Phillies 6, Mets 3 PHILADELPHIA — Dave Hollins hit a grand slam to snap an eighth-inning tie. Mitch Williams (3-3), pitched the final two innings to pick up the victory. He gave up a ninth-inning home run to Todd Hundley, his seventh of the season. Jeff Innis (5-7), relieved by Guetterman after Morandini's single, took the loss. Dodgers 6, Giants 1 SAN FRANCISCO — Ramon Martinez pitched 6 1/2 no-hit innings and Eric Karros hit a three-run homer. Martinez (6-8) gave up a double to Will Clark with one out in the seventh, and Chris James drove him home with a single to shallow center. Martinez pitched seven innings, giving up three hits, three walks and striking out six. The Dodgers said Martinez left the game with a stiff neck. Roger McDowell, the fourth Los Angeles pitcher, got the last three outs to finish the combined five-hitter. Orioles 6, Yankees 0 NEW YORK — Rookie Arthur Rhodes pitched a five-hitter for his first major league shutout and Bill Ripken and Mike Devereaux each homered. Cal Ripken and Glenn Davis both doubled, singled and drove in a run for Baltimore. Ripken is struggling through one of his worst-ever months, while Davis has hit in a career-high 12 straight games and is batting an AL-best .403 in July. New York lost its fourth in a row. Before the game, the Yankees gave rookie manager Buck Showalter a three-year contract extension through 1995. The Yankees are 47-53, the same record they had after 100 games last season. Braves 5, Astros 3 ATLANTA — Terry Pendleton's tie-breaking seventh-inning home run allowed Tom Glavine to become baseball's first 16-game winner this season. The victory snapped a three-game losing streak for the Braves, who had tied a club record by winning 13 straight before that. Glavine (16-3) won his 10th decision in a row, longest of his career and best in the majors this year. He hasn't lost since May 22 to Montreal. Glavine gave up nine hits, walked five and fanned three over eight innings in lifting his lifetime record to 3-8 against Houston. It was his first win over the Astros in Atlanta. Red Sox 6, Rangers 5 BOSTON — Roger Clemens (11-7) struggled through 6 1/2 innings but earned his 11th victory and Tony Peña had a pair of RBI doubles. Clemens, who has won just two of his last six decisions, gave up four runs on seven hits with three walks and seven strikeouts.

OLYMPICS: U.S. lead against Cuba

Continued from Page 10 Jordan who took over as point guard. Jordan was nearly flawless, scoring 15 points on 7-for-10 shooting with 12 assists and no turnovers in 24 minutes of play. "I do it when I need to," Jordan said. The United States led 58-23 at halftime. Larry Bird had 19 points and Karl Malone 18 for the United States. Detlef Schrempf, who plays in the NBA for Indiana, had 15 points for Germany. Cuba now is the only unbeaten team in the baseball tournament, but the United States (3-1) still is in good position to reach the medal round. Michael Tucker had a three-run homer in the big first inning, and the Cubans made two errors that led to two more runs. Antonio Pacheco hit a grand slam for Cuba in the third, and Cuba went ahead to stay with two runs in the fourth on three singles and an error by shortstop Nomar Garciaparra.

Lenzi, 23, of Fredericksburg, Va., didn't start diving until 1984 when he saw Louganis on TV at the Olympics, proving it's never too late. He went into his final dive with a 34-point lead over silver medalist Tan Liangda of China, and he clinched it with a reverse 3 1/2 somersault. Dmitri Saoutine of the Unified Team was the bronze medalist. Tan has won the silver medal in three straight Olympics. Sadovyi got his third gold in the 400-meter freestyle in a world record 3:45.00. Competing in his first Olympics, Sadovyi also won the 200 freestyle and was a member of the Unified Team's winning 800 freestyle relay. "Tonight it is difficult to explain. I never felt this way before," Sadovyi said. "In the past, I was always behind my rivals at the splits. Tonight, I feel great." Barrowman, 23, of Potomac, Md., won the 200 breaststroke in 2 minutes 10.16 seconds, bettering his previous mark of 2:10.60. Barrowman was fourth in the same race at the 1988 Olympics, but is 16-1 at the distance since. Biondi, of Castro Valley, Calif., won his first Olympic gold medal in a relay in 1984. He won five gold medals, a silver and a bronze in 1988, and teamed with Jager, of Tijeras, N.M., Joe Hudepohl of Cincinnati and Jon Olsen of Jonesboro, Ark., to win Wednesday's 400 freestyle relay. "You can't always swim as well as you want to," Biondi said, "but once in a while you'd like to come through and do a good one for yourself and, in this case, for our team here and for the good old USA back home." Their time was 3:16.74, followed by the Unified Team and Germany. Jager won a gold in 1984 by swimming in a relay prelim, although he did not swim in the final, and he won two relay golds in '88.

Crissy Ahmann-Leighton of Tucson, Ariz., won a silver medal in the women's 100 butterfly, .12 seconds off the Olympic record time of 58.62 by Qian Hong of China. And Elena Roudkovaia of the Unified Team beat Anita Nall of Towson, Md., by .17 to win the 100 breaststroke in 1:08.00. The Unified Team won the men's team gymnastics competition. China took silver, and Japan won the bronze. The United States fell from fifth after the compulsories to sixth overall. The U.S. soccer team won't win gold, that's for sure. It tied Poland 2-2 and has a record of 1-1-1, not good enough to advance. But don't feel too bad, America. You're not the only one with troubles. Think of Iranian boxer Ali Kazemi, who was disqualified from his bout when he showed up without his gloves. He went home empty-handed.

Edberg upset; three Americans advance

Steven Wine Associated Press

BARCELONA, Spain — Russian Andrei Chesnokov and slow red clay took the sting out of Stefan Edberg's serve-and-volley game, and the second-ranked Swede lost in straight sets today at the Olympics.

The score of the first-round match was 6-0, 6-4, 6-4.

Edberg tried to come to the net as much as possible, but the clay surface gave Chesnokov time to answer with precise lobs, passing shots and his own occasional volley.

Americans Michael Chang, Pete Sampras and Jennifer Capriati advanced, but No. 12 seed Zina Garrison lost to Amanda Coetzer of South Africa 7-5, 6-1. Garrison is the first U.S. team member to be eliminated from the 13-day tournament.

Chang, seeded sixth, survived his tough opening draw against Argentine baseline specialist Alberto Mancini 6-1, 6-4, 3-6, 6-0. Sampras, seeded third, beat Wally Masur of Australia 6-1, 7-6 (7-4), 6-4.

Capriati won her Olympic debut over Elna Reinach of South Africa, 6-1, 6-0.

Chesnokov, ranked 47th, was an unusually tough opening draw for Edberg, but still an underdog. He had lost his opening match in 10 tournaments this year, and won just one set from Edberg in their four previous matches.

The opening set, the first Edberg has lost at love this year, took just 23 minutes. He was more competitive the rest of the way, but lost serve in the fifth game of the second set and the seventh game of the final set.

The 16-year-old Capriati arrived at the Olympics eager to add to her scrapbook — not as a player, but as a fan.

"I'd like to get Magic Johnson's autograph, and Michael Jordan's, and Janet Evans' and Matt Biondi's — just everyone's," Capriati said. "Unfortunately I never have a pen, plus I keep forgetting my camera."

Capriati, seeded third, said a gold medal would mean more to her than a Grand Slam title. But even if she falls short, she plans to have a good time.

"It's a wonderful feeling being in the Olympic Village," she said. "When you go for a jog, the best athletes in the world pass you. It's great."

And Capriati has managed to save a little money in Barcelona, where she receives $10 a day as a member of the U.S. Olympic team.

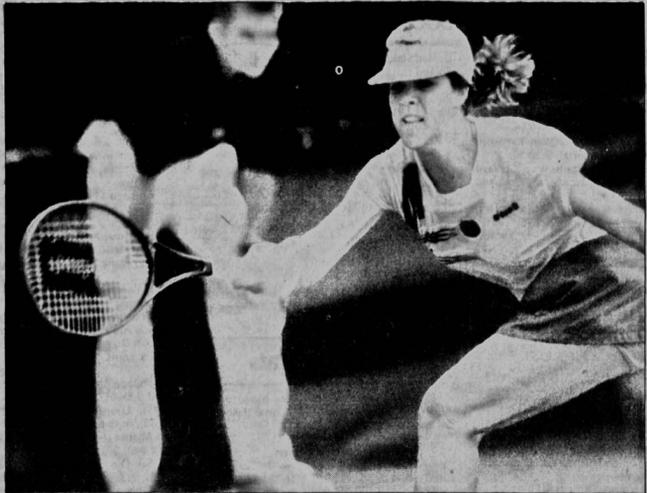

"I haven't been spending it, so it'll probably add up to a lot," she said.

While Capriati won her match in just 55 minutes, teammate Chang wasn't able to finish off Mancini until the Argentine tired in the fourth set.

"People said it was hot, but I didn't realize it was going to be this hot," Chang said. "It was a relief to get the first match over with — going my way. Alberto's no easy customer on clay."

In another duel of baseline specialists, No. 10 Thomas Muster of Austria lost to Frenchman Henri Leconte 7-6 (7-5), 7-6 (11-9), 6-4.

Garrison, slowed recently by an ankle injury, couldn't match shots with the unseeded but dangerous Coetzer, who beat Capriati and Gabriela Sabatini earlier this year.

Florida's Jennifer Capriati returns a volley during her 6-1, 6-0 disposal of South Africa's Elna Reinach Wednesday in Barcelona.

"Amanda's really good; I knew it was going to be a tough match," Garrison said. "I'm a little disappointed, but because of my ankle, I haven't been able to work out the way I'd like."

Spaniards Conchita Martinez and Arantxa Sanchez Vicario advanced. The fifth-seeded Martinez rallied past Judith Wiesner of Austria 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, and No. 2 Sanchez Vicario beat Irina Spirlea of Romania 6-1, 6-3.

"The pressure is different from other tournaments, because I am the great hope of the Spanish team," said Sanchez Vicario, a Barcelona native. "A lot of people want to talk to me, but I know how to handle it. I try to isolate myself from the surroundings and concentrate as much as I can."

Sanchez Vicario will be joined in the second round by her brother, Emilio Sanchez, who advanced Tuesday night against Todd Woodbridge of Australia 6-1, 7-6 (7-1), 6-2.

GYMNASTICS

Karolyi satisfied with bronze medal

Hal Bock Associated Press

BARCELONA, Spain — He looks absolutely ominous, a bear of a man with a bushy mustache, equipped with a glare that could cut you in half.

Call him intimidating. All Bela Karolyi ever wanted was the best.

If you were one of the pint-sized youngsters who came to learn gymnastics at his Houston school, just be perfect. If you were a judge, evaluating the performance of one of Karolyi's kids, just flash the 10.

Then the ominous glare would disappear, swallowed up by the infectious grin. It would be another confirmation for him that when it came to teaching gymnastics, Karolyi did it best. Now, the ballerinas on the bars will belong to someone else. Karolyi announced his retirement from gymnastics Wednesday, saying the Olympics will be his final competition.

"I'm proud to have penetrated into the highest circles of international achievement," he said. "I'm very glad, although I've been criticized all over. I know one thing. A solid and sturdy system has been built."

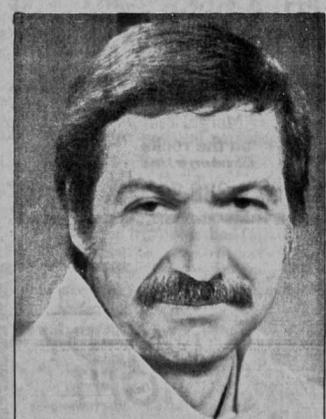

The system requires that Karolyi's gymnasts apply themselves with a passion to their sport. "They cannot slow down," he said. "You work as much as you need to be the best."

Otherwise, the glare is there. If they put on some pounds, they are called fat by the coach, a less-than-gentle reminder that success in his sport requires endless dedication, in the gym, at the dinner table, everywhere, always.

Karolyi, who gives his age as 49, began the system's construction in his native Romania, where he developed gold medalist Nadia Comaneci, the darling of the 1976 Olympics. She delivered the first 10 in Olympic competition — Was Karolyi glaring at the judge that day? — and triggered a spurt of interest in the sport.

In 1981, Karolyi defected to the United States, settling in Houston and opening his camp. Youngsters came from everywhere to learn from the master, and like a Svengali, Karolyi controlled them.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Blown leads vs. Japan costs U.S. five-set match

Nesha Starcevic Associated Press

BARCELONA, Spain — This time, the match was settled on the court, but the outcome was the same. The U.S. volleyball team lost.

The U.S. women, like the men, made their Olympic debut against Japan and dropped a tough, five-set match Wednesday.

The men won on the court, but the decision was reversed because of a referee's mistake and Japan was later declared the winner.

The women's match was decided by Japanese skills — superb blocking and acrobatic defense. Although trailing in the final game, Japan rallied to win 13-15, 15-11, 15-12, 8-15, 15-13.

The loss does not eliminate the Americans, but makes their job much tougher.

The eight women's teams are split into two pools, with three advancing into the next round from each group. The group winners receive a bye into the semifinals, while the others have an extra round to play.

"I'm not that worried, I know we can beat any team here," said U.S. coach Terry Liskevych.

The next rival is the Unified Team on Friday. The U.S. team needs to win to stay in contention for first place in the group. The Unified Team swept inexperienced Spain 15-3, 15-0, 15-3.

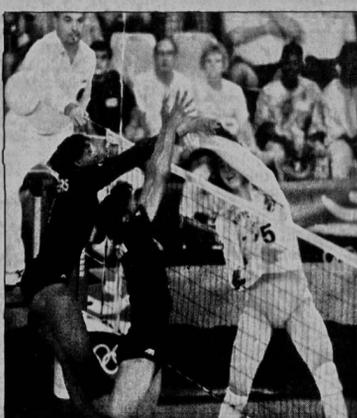

In Pool B, Brazil beat the Netherlands 15-9, 15-3, 11-15, 15-7 and Cuba overcame China 13-15, 15-11, 15-9, 15-11.

The U.S. team was handicapped by the illness of Lori Endicott, from Springfield, Mo. She came into the match feeling nauseous, and Liskevych was forced to use backup setter Yoko Zetterlund for two games, including the last set.

"She did a great job and I'm not looking there for the reason we lost," Liskevych said. "Japan played very well. We were out of rhythm in the attack, and we missed our chances. Their middle block and attackers worked very well."

"They dig a lot of balls and today they probably played at 120 percent," said Zetterlund, who joined the U.S. team in May, 1991, after spending the majority of her life in Japan.

She held dual citizenship until last May, and knows some of the players on the Japanese team, but "there was no special feeling about playing against Japan. But I felt a little nervous during warmup."

Tonya Sanders and Kimberly Oden

With Endicott in the lineup, the U.S. team dominated the first game. But Japan's spectacular digs and the blocking of Mika Yoshihara and Asako Tajimi changed the flow of the game.

The Americans battled back from a 10-2 deficit to trail 10-9, but Japan pulled away to even the match.

The Americans led 6-0 in the third game but Japan rallied to take a 14-12 lead. A spike by Motoko Obayashi ended the game.

With Endicott back in play, Caren Kemner, of Quincy, Ill., powered the Americans back into the match with a series of spikes that gave them the fourth set.

Although Endicott had to return to the bench, the Americans went up 9-5 and 10-7 in the fifth before making several errors.

"I'll think of this match for a long time, probably until the rest of my life — if we don't win the gold medal," said Kemner, who led the team with 28 kills.

Paula Weishoff, of Torrance, Calif., a member of the 1984 silver medal team, had 27, while Tee Sanders, of Long Beach, Calif., tallied 22 kills.

"It would have been nice to be in top position, but it's still within reach," Kemner said. "We were rolling along in the third set, but they just got back into the game."

Japanese coach Kazunori Yoneda said his team had practiced blocking and digging, the term used to describe the retrieving of the ball, after losing in three sets to the Americans at a tournament in China in May.

"This was our target for today, and we really worked on our blocking. But we were fortunate to get the victory," he said.

Reynolds hearing postponed

BARCELONA, Spain — A hearing by track and field officials to discuss the suspension of U.S. runner Butch Reynolds has been postponed until after the Olympics.

The 400-meter world record holder was banned in August 1990 for two years because he allegedly failed a drug test. He disputes the test results, and ran in the U.S. Olympic trials after being cleared by the Supreme Court.

Istvan Gyulai, general secretary of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, said Wednesday no decision would be made until after Aug. 9, the final day of track and field competition at the Games.

"The prevailing attitude (among IAAC Council members) is that he's a cheat," Gyulai said. "Butch brought the IAAF and the sport into disrepute. He is an athlete who doped. He is looked upon the same as Ben Johnson. We don't understand how he can be looked on in the United States as hero."

USA baseball fined

BARCELONA, Spain — The U.S. Olympic baseball team was fined $600 Wednesday for letting Larry Bird sit in the dugout.

Bird attended the baseball team's 10-0 victory over Italy on Tuesday, an off-day for Olympic basketball. Bird sat in the unshaded bleachers for a few innings, but retreated to the dugout when surrounded by autograph seekers.

The International Baseball Association, which oversees the Olympic tournament, said the United States had violated a restriction allowing no more than 20 players and five uniformed staff members on the field and in the dugout.

Free Triplecast offered

NEW YORK — The troubled Olympic Triplecast of NBC and Cablevision will be given away for free to cable TV viewers for seven hours each in a truncated form on Thursday and Friday.

NBC announced Wednesday that the Triplecast would be shown on CNBC, its financial cable network, from 6-10 p.m. EDT on Thursday and Friday nights and 1-4 a.m. EDT on Friday and Saturday mornings. CNBC, carried as a basic service on most cable systems, will show all three channels at once on a screen divided into quadrants, but will not carry any audio of the events.

In addition, NBC cut the suggested retail price of single-day viewing from $29.95 to $19.95 and suggested cable systems offer a Saturday-Sunday special of $29.95.

The Olympic Triplecast originally was priced at $125 for all three channels, which broadcast live from 5 a.m. EDT to 5 p.m. EDT and then showed the previous 12 hours on tape.

Television industry publications have estimated that about 250,000 homes have subscribed to the Triplecast thus far. NBC had hoped to sell the Triplecast to 2 million homes.

Skrepenak to become multi-dimensional

Second-round draft choice Greg Skrepenak will see a stepped-up work load with the Los Angeles Raiders during three days of joint workouts with the Phoenix Cardinals at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Skrepenak, an offensive tackle from Michigan, will begin seeing additional duty at both guard spots, Raiders coach Art Shell said. It's part of a Raider plan for offensive linemen to work at more than one position. Young linemen like Skrepenak, a 6-foot-6, 315-pounder, can be expected to be backups at both guard and tackle during the regular season.

BARCELONA, Spain — U.S. basketball is on a runaway train to Olympic gold. U.S. baseball? Well, maybe it's only the "In Its Wildest Dreams Team."

The Summer Games were a study in old and new Wednesday. Just when you were ready to count out the old-timers, along came veteran swimmers Matt Biondi and Tom Jager, and then the NBA.

Move over kids, there's plenty of room on this block.

Even without the injured Magic Johnson, the U.S. basketball players defeated Germany 111-68 for their third straight laugher at the Games and 10th in a row since forming as a team.

Could America's young baseball players duplicate that feat against mighty Cuba? They got off to a 5-0 lead in the first inning, but wound up losing 9-6. The answer was, almost inevitably, no.

"Maybe the five-run first inning we had was the worst thing that happened to us," coach Ron Fraser said. "I think it gave us a false sense of security, that maybe Cuba would roll over."

"I told our guys, Cuba doesn't roll over."

Here's how the youth movement began:

— Mark Lenzi succeeded Greg Louganis as America's king of the springboard, taking a dive and winning big.

— A 19-year-old Russian, Evgueni Sadovyi, became the Games' first triple gold medalist by winning the 400-meter freestyle in world-record time.

— Mike Barrowman set a world record in winning the 200-meter breaststroke.

"Louganis was a great champion, and like I've said before, you can't replace a Louganis," Lenzi said. "But you can't replace me, either."

Then came Biondi and Jager, who became the first American swimmers to win gold medals in three Olympics as members of the 400-meter freestyle relay team.

With all the day's medal events over, the Unified Team took the lead with 26 total medals, 15 gold. The United States was second with 21 medals, seven gold, and China had 17 medals, six gold.

The U.S. boxing team saw its six-fight winning streak snapped when 125-pounder Julian Wheeler of Virginia Beach, Va., lost an 8-4 decision to Ramazi Paliani of the Unified Team. Light heavyweight Montell Griffin of Chicago got the Americans winning again with a 10-4 decision over France Mabiletsa of Botswana. American boxers now are 7-1.

PRIME TIME LEAGUE

Hills stuns First National in playoffs

David Taylor
The Daily Iowan

It was supposed to be a walk. First National Bank had cruised through the Prime Time League regular-season with a 13-2 record, while Hills Bank stumbled and bumbled to a woeful 1-14 mark.

But on Wednesday night the unthinkable happened, as No. 8-seeded Hills upset No. 1-seeded First National 96-87 in the opening round of the Prime Time League playoffs behind Lefty Moore's 36 points. Wade Lookingbill scored 44 for First National.

First National seemed to have everything going for them heading into the game, and Hills Bank appeared to have nothing going right. Hills had often played with a depleted and undermanned lineup in the past, and they entered Wednesday's game with only six players, as opposed to the deep bench of their opponents.

Clearly someone forgot to tell Hills that they were supposed to bow down and submit, as they used a barrage of outside jumpers to counter the multi-faceted game of First National.

Led by ex-Iowa State guard Moore, Hills stayed close throughout the early stages of the game and never folded when First National made a run. Hills seized the lead for good with a 15-4 run that made the score 92-81 with one minute remaining.

The diminutive but feisty Moore did his best impersonation of Magic Johnson, as he often grabbed rebounds away from much taller players to lead the fast break for his unheralded teammates.

Moore's defensive efforts were a factor also, as he played a part in shutting down First National guard Willie Guy, a player known to heat up in a hurry.

Lookingbill turned in his usual outstanding performance, collecting 17 rebounds to go with his offensive outburst, but he got little help from his teammates. Ex-Hawkeye Brig Tubbs scored nine and Guy added eight.

First National was also playing without incoming freshmen Mon'ter Glasper and Kenyon Murray and their absences showed, particularly on offense where the usually explosive team often had trouble simply getting the ball up the floor.

Hills Bank will go on to face the winner of the No. 4 vs. No. 5 seed this Friday. Should they be lucky (or determined) enough to win that game, the team with the worst regular-season record by far will find themselves playing for the championship on Sunday.

Ex-Hawk Eldred loses first game

Associated Press

CLEVELAND — Jack Armstrong thinks too much, some baseball people have said. If that's true, maybe the Cleveland Indians have found the proper role for the right-hander.

"It's a little bit more a case of just winging it when you're down (in the bullpen). It's fun and I'm enjoying it," Armstrong said after pitching four strong relief innings to get credit for the Indians' 4-3 win over the Brewers.

Cal Eldred (1-1), making his third start since being recalled from Denver on July 15, took a 3-1 lead into the sixth for the Brewers. The loss was the first in the major league for Eldred. He went 2-0 in three starts last September and was 1-0 in two starts this year since being recalled from Triple A Denver on July 15th.

Cubs 6, Pirates 4 (11)
CHICAGO — Sammy Sosa got another chance and he made the most of it.

Sosa hit a two-run homer in the 11th inning to give the surging Cubs a comeback victory over the slumping Pirates.

"I was 0-for-5 and happy I got another chance," said Sosa, whose homer was his seventh and came after reliever Paul Assenmacher had drawn a one-out walk off loser Stan Belinda (5-3).

"I was just trying to make contact," said Sosa, who came off the disabled list Monday to lead the Cubs to their three-game sweep of the Pirates. Chicago is now only 3½ games out.

"I was real happy when the entire team came to the plate to meet me," said Sosa. "It made me feel good, like a hero."

Ken Patterson, Chuck McElroy, Jeff Robinson and Assenmacher allowed four hits and no runs in eight innings of relief.

This was the Cubs' first three-game sweep of the Pirates since Sept. 22-24, 1989, at Wrigley Field. The crowd of 36,544 was the season's largest.

Padres 7, Reds 3
SAN DIEGO — Gary Sheffield hit his 19th homer and had an RBI double to break San Diego's all-time mark for a third baseman with 66 RBIs.

Sheffield, after missing two games because of a bruised right knee, tied the RBI mark set by Graig Nettles in 1984 with his solo homer to start a three-run seventh with two outs.

Frank Seminara (6-3) allowed one unearned run and four hits in five innings but was removed after throwing 95 pitches. He struck out four and walked three while stranding four runners in scoring position.

Athletics 5, Twins 4
MINNEAPOLIS — Eric Fox hit a three-run homer off Rick Aguilera in the ninth inning that moved Oakland into a tie for first place with the Twins.

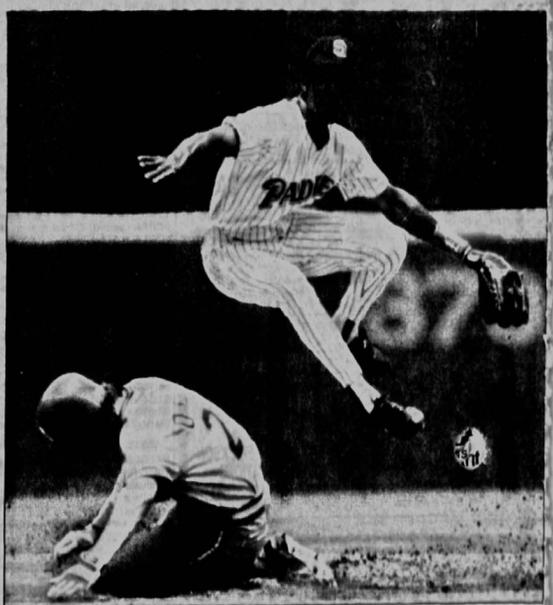

Oakland, outit 14-7, has won six straight and moved into the AL West lead for the first time since July 4. The A's only other sweep in the Metrodome was from Aug. 6-8, 1982, the year the stadium opened.

Jeff Parrett (7-0), working in relief in Dave Stewart, got the win. Dennis Eckersley pitched a perfect ninth for his 33rd save in as many chances. Oakland is 42-0 when Eckersley pitches and 51-0 with a ninth-inning lead.

Cardinals 4, Expos 1
ST. LOUIS — Bernard Gilkey robbed Larry Walker of a home run in the eighth inning and hit a three-run home run in the bottom of the ninth, ending the Expos' four-game winning streak.

Dennis Martinez (10-10) went 8½ innings with 10 strikeouts and allowed six hits and three walks. Lee Smith (3-3) struck out the side in the ninth for the win.

White Sox 8, Tigers 6
DETROIT — Lance Johnson had the go-ahead RBI single in a six-run ninth inning. Johnson, who also singled in the second, extended his hitting streak to a career-best 14 games.

The rally made a winner of Terry Leach (3-4), who allowed one hit in one inning. Scott Radinsky got the final out for his eighth save.

Mike Muñoz (1-2), the sixth of seven Detroit pitchers, took the loss.
