Iowa gets $700,000 for health-reform research

The program could serve as a model for Congress in devising a national health-care plan.

Mike Claren, Associated Press

Iowa Governor Terry Branstad and his wife, Patricia, are putting their money where their mouths are. The couple has contributed $200,000 of their own money to form a new group, the Iowa Health Reform Institute, which will bring a team of health-care researchers to the state to examine the most efficient ways to deliver care.

Branstad said yesterday that he was optimistic about the future of health care in Iowa, and that his administration was working on a plan to make the state a national leader in the field.

"We're going to have a world-class health-care system," he said. "I think Iowa can be a national leader in health care, and we're going to make it happen."

1 person's ugly couch is another's treasure

Joe Yates
The Daily Iowan

Iowa City, Iowa
July 31, just hours before he moves out. In a scramble to get his belongings out, senior Kentราชการ Anthes moves his couch outside under a tree where he plans to leave it for the day. Hours later, the couch is gone.

"We just put it out there for a little while, and someone took it," he said. "We right there, next to our house and people take stuff. There's enough, though, it was an ugly couch."

The couch is now in a nearby dumpster even faster.

"I didn't want it for the dumpster and an hour later it was gone," Ms. Yates said. While Mike flakes said it wasn't his, it was a big garage sale.

"It's almost like a big garage sale."

Jay Menendez

"We're tired of people taking things, and we don't get a lot of compliments about it," he said. "It's kind of gone along with our recycling program, lets see things reused.

The number of couches moved in a small couple of weeks. It's been an average of one couch a week for the sanitation department, said Jeff Anderson, the man who in charge of public awareness.

"It was out in the front yard. We know people, who some were from the North Carolina women's team," he said. "The couch was probably there for a few months."

Residents reported placing couches in the front yard, with the accumulation of trash.

"We put a chair out by the dumpster for a new owner to take it home."

We left a chair out by the dumpster, he said. "It was right there, on the curb."

It's sometimes just put it out there for a little while, and someone took it."

Discovered coaches, ugly and otherwise, is a moving frenzy.

Another annual occurrence is an increase in the amount of furniture.

The Women of Steel, after St. Louis last weekend, showed up the furniture.

"The Women of Steel are a sure thing, we play our guys down here a lot," she said. "We're all helping each other out.

Besides, she said, maybe the Peoria Public was just a few more games.

"We love playing, we just wanted to do something," she said.

"They should do quite well in the tournament."

Sailor gave her friend, the North Carolina women's team to the most ever assembled.

"The Women of Steel are a sure thing to win the women's title on the tournament Saturday," he said.

"If both of you get to play for the national championship, I'm sure you'll have a chance to win.

We want to talk anybody off the street."

"It was, that's not our point. We had a lot of fun playing in the tournament, it was a fun time around."

"I don't think it would be as much if he played the men," she said. The Steel women's regular routine against the Steel men, whose teams are called Beaver Bowl I and Beaver Bowl II.

Kendrick said the Beatles don't decide the playing.

"When we play our games down here, we're all helping each other get better. Up there, I don't think the playing would be the same," she said.

"There were some cues and trends that last year's games, they're really competitive. We didn't want to let any hands with them. We didn't want to sit up, to show up the guns," she said.

Besides, she added, maybe the Steel women's role will be tougher.

The Aluminum people, they're probably saying that they're jobs out. They'll pull off their feet people.

100 years later, Lizzie Borden's stilettos still baffled

Alane Stuart
The Daily Iowan

After searching the streets for her mother — actually her septum — 100 years later, Lizzie Borden's stilettos still baffled.

If she did, she had a victim of either murder, or was it the money? And there's a last question, does anyone still care?

Invitations to scholars, from history and political scholars to pay tribute to the story.

Cheerleader leader for slaying

Tasha Robinson

The Daily Iowan

She's unique, she's popular. People love her. She's the captain of the cheerleading squad and she does the split. She can do anyone's dance routine. She's the girl you want to date. She's the girl you want to talk to. She's the girl you want to be around.

But what if she were not the captain? What if she were just another girl? What if she were not popular? What if she were not the girl you want to date? What if she were not the girl you want to talk to? What if she were not the girl you want to be around?

That's the question that Tasha Robinson, senior, and her fellow cheerleaders are trying to answer. They are trying to prove that they are just like any other girl, that they are not just a part of the team, but also individuals with their own thoughts and feelings.

The cheerleaders are planning to perform an all-girl routine at the next game, which will be a departure from their usual routines. They are also planning to put up a poster that says, "Cheerleaders are not just a part of the team, but also individuals with their own thoughts and feelings."

They hope that this will encourage people to look at them as individuals, not just a part of the team. They hope that this will help them prove that they are just like any other girl.

Bosnian Serbs adjust for Ramadan

Bosnian Serbs adjusted their Ramadan fasts this year to accommodate a Muslim holiday, in a move that some Muslims in the region welcomed as a sign of inter-religious tolerance.

The fast is observed by Muslims worldwide during the holy month of Ramadan, when believers abstain from eating, drinking, and sexual activities from dawn to dusk.

In Bosnia and Herzegovina, a multi-ethnic country where Muslims make up about 40% of the population, the fast was observed differently across the Muslim communities, reflecting the diversity of the region.

In the predominantly Muslim areas of Sarajevo and Zenica, Muslims observed the fast according to the lunar calendar, while in the Serb-dominated areas of Banja Luka and Tuzla, the fast was adjusted to align with the Gregorian calendar.

The move was seen as a positive step towards reducing tensions in a region where religious differences have been a source of conflict.

...and this year, the fast was observed in accordance with the Islamic calendar, which is based on the lunar cycle and can lead to variations in the timing of religious events.

The adjustment reflected the efforts of religious leaders to promote understanding and cooperation between different communities.

The move was welcomed by both Muslims and Serbs, who expressed hope that it would contribute to a more peaceful and harmonious society.

However, challenges remain, as the region continues to grapple with issues of minority rights and inter-communal tensions.

NATURAL DISASTER

3,000 firefighters continue to battle dangerous blazes

Natural disasters continued to impact regions across the globe, with thousands of firefighters working to control the flames.

In an unprecedented effort, firefighters from various countries worked together to contain the fires, showcasing the importance of international cooperation in crisis situations.

The firefighters were complemented by aerial support from helicopters and planes, further highlighting the advanced capabilities needed to应对 such large-scale disasters.

The efforts were hampered by challenging weather conditions, such as high temperatures and strong winds, which made the firefighting operations even more demanding.

Despite the difficulties, the firefighters remained committed, working tirelessly to protect lives and property.

A memorial service was held for those who lost their lives in the firefighting efforts, underscoring the importance of acknowledging and honoring the sacrifices made.

The event was attended by government officials, firefighters, and members of the local community, all coming together to pay tribute to the brave individuals who risked their lives to save others.

The service included speeches, prayers, and moments of silence, offering a moment of reflection and remembrance.

Mental health services were made available to those who attended, recognizing the emotional impact on those involved in the firefighting efforts.

The event concluded with a call to action, urging continued support for firefighters and the communities affected by the disasters.

The service was a powerful reminder of the resilience and dedication required in the face of such extreme challenges.

...and this year, the firefighters demonstrated their commitment to the community, working tirelessly under difficult conditions to ensure the safety and well-being of all.

Opponents no match for 'Zeke'

Stephanie Nastrom
Associated Press
BARCELONA, Spain — Zeke Jones expressed his fifth world championship title last year, but he had an even bigger victory this weekend, according to his professional performance:

"This is the biggest victory of my career," Jones said with a smile.

"They're all big, but this is the biggest one.

Moments earlier, Jones had stopped a three-match losing streak to Abdul Bafress Layma, winning the Cuban 6-1, 6-4, 6-1 in a match that was played in 1 hour, 45 minutes. Bafress Layma pressured Jones from the start and never let up. Jones, however, kept constant pressure on his opponent.

"I was able to go out into the city and they go out into the city. I am the noisiest," he said.

The victory means a lot, Jones said.

"I just wanted to win. If I just wrestled well, I had a shot at becoming the champion," he added.

Larry "Zeke" Jones of Bloomington, Pa., just put the hurt on Cuba's Alvara Layma during their 11-71 pounding round Monday in Barcelona. Jones punished the Cuban with a 6-1 technical fall.

"It was a big match, not a bigger match," Jones turned the Cuban eight times on the mat, five of which were ankle laces.

"I worked on a few specific things for Layma. I worked on a few specific things for his weaknesses and that's what I was able to do," Jones said.

"I have never beaten Layma, so he was a little better of a wrestler," Jones added.

"This victory means a lot," Jones said.

"I've been wrestling since I was 4 and I just wrestled well. I had a shot at becoming the champion," he added.
