Feminist scholars speak of global changes

Jeanne Soderbergh

The Daily iowan

A fundamental restructuring of political and economic priorities around the world has been essential to make up for the consequences of a decade of economic structural adjustments, according to feminist scholar and economist, Peggy Antrobus. Antrobus, at the UI, has a series of lectures in connection with the 13th Annual University of Iowa Conference on International Studies, and has examined the profound social and economic implications of the current financial crisis.

As she has said, the idea of economic reconstruction may seem too utopian to be realized in the midst of a world of lack. But, Antrobus states, people are united that the only center for reconstructed outcomes is in the hands of women. The life of a woman is most likely to be a result of economic support. Antrobus's lecture was part of the 13th Annual University of Iowa Conference on International Studies and had been repeated in 1982. In 1983, the first of the English-Political Economy Task Force. Supervisors dismiss employee's grievance

Victoria Forbus

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors voted Monday to dismiss the complaint of an employee who feels he was victimized by his workplace.

A resolution of the complaint was made by representatives of Johnson County employees urging Frank to investigate and resolve the complaint. According to the resolution, the employee had been unfairly denied a contract for his union's representation. The resolution was the result of an audit of some of the employee's grievances.

Chief Administrator Patrick Frank said, "We have done new employees in July that needed to be reviewed." The employee was interviewed by the Board of Supervisors on Monday, and the employee was not given a contract. The employee was given a new contract on Tuesday, but the Board of Supervisors never acknowledged the contract.

The employee's contract was signed in June and July because the Board of Supervisors only receives new employees from their unions on a regular basis.

Legislators try to limit immigrants

The German constitutional crisis

The German lower house of parliament will meet early Friday for a vote on a new asylum law. The law has been controversial, with some legislators calling for a more restrictive approach to immigration. The vote is scheduled for 10 a.m., and a final decision is expected later in the day.

The law, proposed by the center-right Christian Democrats (CDU) and the Free Democrats (FDP), aims to tighten the country's asylum regulations. The main focus is on limiting the number of refugees granted asylum, with provisions to deport those who arrive after a 30-day deadline.

According to reports, the law is expected to pass with an overwhelming majority in the lower house. The German government has been under pressure to address the influx of refugees and migrants, particularly following an influx of people fleeing conflict in the Middle East and North Africa.

The vote comes amid growing public concern over the number of asylum seekers entering Germany, with some members of the public expressing concern over the impact on the country's infrastructure and social services.

The German Constitutional Court has expressed reservations about the new law, calling it disproportionate and potentially unconstitutional. However, it is unclear whether the court will issue any rulings in the near future.

In an effort to address public sentiment, the government has announced plans to increase the number of asylum officers and to speed up the asylum process. This move is intended to reduce the backlog of cases and to provide more immediate support to those seeking asylum.

The German government's approach to immigration is likely to have wider implications for European countries, with many nations facing similar challenges in managing increasing refugee numbers.
THE Soviets shot the plane down on August 23, 1983 after it strayed into Soviet air space.

Brian Friedman

MOSCOW -- The pilots of the Korean Air jumbo jet, when they realized their aircraft was being shot down, radioed Moscow to say they had strayed into Soviet air space, according to documents obtained Thursday.

The documents also show the RIG and military urged then-Defense Minister

Seymour Hersh, who wrote a book about the incident, said Tuesday that the transcript of the conversation showed the pilots of Flight 007 had strayed into Soviet air space before the jumbo jet crashed into the Sea of Japan, in a December 1983 letter to

When the Iowa women's tennis team won't be intimidated by the University of Texas Longhorns, the Hawkeyes will not only have an advantage in their form, they will also have history on their side.

"It's their first home dual after a weekend full of practice to keep the edge off, but we've been in this situation many times," Schieltz said. "These are our home court advantage in their favor, and our defense will not only have the edge, but will probably have the upper hand as well.

The Hawkeyes will have a 24-0 record in season, while the University of Texas
Longhorns are 13-1.

"The University of Texas
Longhorns have a tough match up after a week of preparation," Schieltz said. "We're going to put the rubber on this one, and we're looking forward to it.

The University of Iowa
women's tennis team is ranked 13th in the nation and 2-0 in Taking back our home court with Chris Malek, Stanford Pro contended last week’s come-from-behind victory over Georgia and playing in our fourth conference game of the season, we’ve been able to show our team the importance of hard work and dedication.

It was a good win, but we can’t take anything for granted. We need to keep working hard to improve our game and continue our success this season.

The University of North Dakota was an excellent opponent, and we were able to defeat them with a strong performance. We need to maintain this level of intensity and consistency to ensure our success.

World Series

October 17, 1992

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-3 in Game 7 of the World Series, clinching their third World Series title in four years.

The Braves, who had lost three straight World Series to the Twins in 1987 and 1989, dominated this series from start to finish. They won the first three games at home and the last two on the road to take a 3-2 lead.

The Twins, who had won the American League pennant, were never able to solve the Braves’ ace pitching staff. Starter Greg Maddux allowed just one run in 17 innings over the course of the series, and reliever Charlie Hough pitched a three-hit, two-run complete game in Game 7.

Atlanta, which ended the regular season as the National League’s best team, had a 107-57 record and dominated the division. They won the NL East by 42 games.

The Twins, who had finished second in the American League’s Central Division, had a 95-67 record and finished 22 games behind the Detroit Tigers.

Sports Quiz

Who is the Iowa field hockey team’s leading scorer and how many goals does she have? Cari Gómez needs to catch her.

See answer page 28.
HAWKEYES: Hartlieb outgunning Illini QBs

Throughout the game, Hartlieb showed a marked improvement over his performance against Ohio State a month earlier. Hartlieb is now a much more mature player who is not intimidated by the situation. The Illini were in the middle of a 3-0 run, but Hartlieb was the one who kept them in the game with his accurate passes. Hartlieb's passing was a key factor in the Illini's 35-14 victory over the Hawkeyes. Hartlieb's performance was a strong indicator of his growth as a quarterback.

WORLD SERIES: Deion may be "chopped"

Deion Sanders has been one of the most controversial players in baseball, but his performance in this World Series has been exceptional. Sanders has hit two home runs and driven in five runs, helping the Braves to a 3-0 lead over the Indians. Sanders has proven to be a valuable asset to the Braves, and his performance has been critical in their success.

HOCKEY: No. 2 vs. No. 3 ... again

The game is a continuation of their ongoing series, with the teams having split the first two games. The Bruins have been dominant, but the Rangers are not going down without a fight.

SWIMMING: All-American Blair returns

All-American Blair is planning to swim in the 100-meter freestyle, 200-meter freestyle, and 400-meter freestyle events. These events are some of the most competitive in the NCAA, and Blair is expected to perform well in all of them. Blair has already won two gold medals at the NCAA championships, and he is looking to add to his collection this year.

Improving teamwork Iowa’s goal

Bracco Pellin

According to the players, teamwork will be the key that determines whether the Hawkeyes volleyball team can make the NCAA tournament this year. The Hawkeyes will play their last two matches this weekend.

The Hawkeyes claimed their first Big Ten title in 1974, finishing 13-2 in conference play. Iowa State finished second at 12-3, with Penn State third at 11-4. Wisconsin finished 10-5, followed by Ohio State at 9-6, Michigan at 8-7, and Minnesota at 7-8. Iowa finished the season at 7-8, while Michigan State finished last at 3-11-1.

The Hawkeyes are coming off a 3-1 loss to Penn State last weekend, but they have won three of their last five matches. Iowa has won 16 of its last 20 matches and has a 4-2 record in conference play.

Iowa’s biggest challenge this season has been travel. The Hawkeyes have played four road matches, losing three and winning one. Iowa’s next four matches will be at home, including games against Ohio State, Penn State, Michigan, and Minnesota.

Iowa head coach Steve Aird has been pleased with his team’s improvement in recent weeks.

“I think we’re doing better as a team,” Aird said. “We’re communicating better and playing better as a team.”

Aird said that Iowa’s biggest challenge this season has been the road. The Hawkeyes have played four road matches and have won only two of them. Aird said that the team is working to improve its road game.

“I think we need to work on our road game,” Aird said. “We’re not as good on the road as we are at home.”

Iowa’s next four matches will be at home, including games against Ohio State, Penn State, Michigan, and Minnesota. Aird said that the team is looking forward to playing at home.

“I think we’re going to be better at home,” Aird said. “We’re looking forward to playing in front of our home crowd.”

Iowa is currently tied for third place in the Big Ten with a 4-2 record in conference play. The Hawkeyes are 16-2 overall and 16-12 on the road.

MOVIE REVIEW...

‘Cool World’ tries its version of ‘Roger,’ but even borrowing ideas can’t save face

Teresa Robinson

The Daily

The plot easily fits into a rut. In 1949, a tyrannical and sadistic king, Jack Davis, installs a card game in Cool World, a savage, animated anti-Wonderland. Ten years later, cartoonist Jack Davis (Chad Lowe) turns to his home of cardboard cutouts to escape the cruelty of his job. He meets an animated blonde with theatile name of Holly (Emma Belfour) who somehow draws him into a Real Person (referred to as Weebs). Jack, as we all know, then becomes a real person determined to achieve Cool World’s oldest dream that Weebs or animated people, don’t have any to do with Weebs.

The plot of all this is too 90 minutes of watching scenes from a long list of amusing cutouts.

A complete lack of character among the principals. We first see Jack Davis in and shortly before his release, and we’ve talked to another character thatless than a minute. Chad Lowe has no chemistry with his wife. Did this actually happen? Where’s the with the most any effect on Davis? I have no idea what’s going to do with Cool World? Did Davis, as he usually seems to be the World of the Flavour and the Dead Horse, ever get a chance to be the Flavour of his own world?

About himself? About anything that happens in this movie? We have no idea. Byrne, so expressive and surprising as the star of ‘Million Dollar Baby,’ only gets a laugh. The rest of the ensemble are just there.

‘Cool World’ has a paper-thin one."

The Urge, a five-piece groove quartet out of St. Louis, has been touring up the Midwest with their live act for several years. They bring their mix of ska, funk and reggae to Iowa City this weekend.

Okay, it's time to break out and have a little fun with music. Whether you're new to the genre or a seasoned veteran, there's something for everyone at Mango Jam and The Urge's upcoming shows in Iowa City.

Mango Jam, who played at the Midwest Music Festival last week, is known for their high-energy shows and soulful singing. Their set will feature a mix of ska, reggae and roots rock, and they're sure to get the crowd moving with their infectious rhythms and catchy hooks.

The Urge, on the other hand, is a four-piece band that combines rock, reggae and funk to create a unique sound. Their shows are known for their lively energy and engaging stage presence. With their soulful crooning and powerful guitar riffs, they're sure to keep the audience on their toes.

Both bands are performing at the Hancher Auditorium on Saturday, October 15th. Mango Jam will be playing at 8:00 pm, followed by The Urge at 9:30 pm. Ticket information can be found at HancherIowa.edu.

So, whether you're a fan of ska, reggae or just looking to have some fun, head on down to Mango Jam and The Urge's shows in Iowa City this weekend. You won't be disappointed!

Welcome Back!

Welcome to the 81st Edition of Iowa Homecoming! That's right, 1992 marks the 81st Anniversary of Homecomings here at Iowa. Certainly times have changed since that first Homecoming, but one thing remains the same: Hawkeye spirit. Homecoming strives to capture the essence of the enthusiasm exhibited throughout the year by alumni, students, and Hawkeye fans.

This year we have 19 enthusiastic and talented executive council members who have devoted many hours of free time since February in order to produce a great Homecoming. We want to encourage everyone to support the Homecoming Executive Council and their activities by buying the Homecoming button and cup available at participating local businesses and the University Box Office.

This week's activities will once again give everyone a chance to rally around the Hawkeyes and provide entertainment to a wide variety of people, whether they are football fans or not. This year's theme, "Battle of the Black and Gold," signifies the clash between the two Big Ten schools with the black and gold colors. We hope everyone will enjoy the week's festivities and cheer the Hawkeyes on to victory against the Boilermakers.

We want to mention that this is the first year that Homecoming has produced its information guide in the form of an insert in The Daily Iowan. We hope that this will be the beginning of a long tradition that benefits all. Another first is the Homecoming cup which will be sold throughout the week at participating businesses, as well as at Kinnick Stadium on Saturday, October 24th. We hope they will become collector's items just like the buttons. We want to recognize alumnus Jim Zabel who is the Honored Guest for 1992. His excellence in the field of broadcasting and his service to the Hawkeyes are truly outstanding accomplishments.

There are many interesting people, organizations, and departments that we want to thank for their contributions to Homecoming. Their help is essential to the success of Homecoming. Lastly, we want to encourage everyone to participate in this year's Homecoming events for the tradition and for the fun!

Dear Reader,

This year, the Homecoming Council has changed the format of the Homecoming Booklet. We used to produce small booklets with a limited distribution. With The Daily Iowan, our circulation has had a 3-fold increase. We hope this will be more far-reaching, both for information and entertainment.

The photograph on the cover is of the 1912 football team. That year was the first Homecoming at the University of Iowa. We chose it to recall the rich traditions we share, and the fond memories Homecoming brings to the students and alumni of this great University.

We have been working on this project for 9 months and it has come to full term. We hope this first edition in the new format will be a collector's item in years to come. There are many people to thank, and we included all that we could remember. We apologize for any omissions. Special thanks to Maxine Lester and Jim Leonard at The Daily Iowan. Their Herculean efforts and patience were sincerely appreciated.

Take your time, soil your fingers with newsprint, and thoroughly digest this issue. There are many interesting articles and bits of information. Look at the photographs, recall every warm memory you can. Read Jim Zabel's address of his history at Iowa — it's remarkable! Thank him for his countless contributions to the University of Iowa.

Best wishes to the Hawkeyes, we will all be cheering for you! Welcome back to Iowa City and the University of Iowa, a friendly home town atmosphere, a bustling metropolis, a sports and cultural Mecca, an educational wonder — all neatly and quietly packed in the fertile soils of the Midwest.

But between Tech Labs and the Union, you'll also find a familiar landmark. The fountain at the base of the Arts Campus footbridge has been restored; now filled with water and surrounded by flowers, it once again looks as beautiful and refreshing as the Class of 1936 intended.

We hope all our friends and alumni will enjoy remembering Iowa's past and discovering its future in this Homecoming Week. Welcome to the parties, the reunions, the game, the parade, and all the festivities that celebrate your return to the campus. You'll always be a part of the Iowa family, and we hope you'll come back as often as you can.

This year, not far from the unchanging Pentacrest, you'll see plenty of changes — the John Pappajohn Business Administration Building nearing completion beside Gilmore Hall, the new T. Anne Cleary Walkway...

A U of Iowa Graduate

Homecoming Publications Director Mike Andre asked U.S. Congressman David Bonior to write on the value of an undergraduate education and how his education at Iowa propelled him to his current success.

Congressman David E. Bonior
Majority Whip
U.S. House of Representatives

To be honest with you today, I must admit that I failed to take full advantage of my undergraduate experience at the University of Iowa. Through the years I have had ample reason to regret my lack of focus, to deplore my lazy study habits, to wonder at my reluctance to explore the possibilities, to be angry that I did not seize the rich opportunities.

Now I know the value of a strong liberal arts undergraduate education - the foundation it provides for a lifetime. How I envy each of my children as they head off to college. . . how I long to follow them now . . . to head back to The University of Iowa as an engaged, committed student. Ultimately, perhaps that was the gift bequeathed to an unwitting young man some 25 years ago. I didn't know it then but in addition to wonderful friends, cherished memories and a degree, I did graduate with a passion for learning. And that, after all, is the true value of education. Go Hawkeyes!

UI Alumni Association

Welcome Back, Alumni!
Almost every year I am asked to prepare an article for this Homecoming program. I'm delighted to do so.

You see, to those of us at the Alumni Association, homecoming is a special time. There are few occasions, in fact, when UI alumni are more prominent than they are at Homecoming. The University and the Iowa City community are unique in that they celebrate alumni and friends 'coming back' to THEIR university - together. It's a special weekend with the parade, the Homecoming King and Queen; Alumni Band; class reunions, receptions, and dinners; special alumni events; pre-game tailgates; the football game; and post-game parties.

The focal point, however, is people - classmates and friends. Some we see frequently. Some we see only once a year - perhaps at Homecoming. Some we see only every ten, twenty, of fifty years - perhaps at Homecoming.

The UI Alumni Association is pleased to be a major part of this important celebration between the City of Iowa City and the University of Iowa, . . . and among classmates and friends. The Association has always been an important way for people - classmates and friends - to stay in touch with their University. We have played that role for more than 125 years. We like to think that we are the nest best thing to bring here.

It's Homecoming time at Iowa. Welcome back, classmates and friends.

Children's Art Display—Local school children will display their Hawkeye spirit by drawing their impressions of Homecoming. All artwork will be on display outside of JCPenney in the Old Capitol Center. Illustrations will be judged during the week and winners will be announced at the Sports Night, Wed., Oct. 21.

Iowa Corn Monument—The Corn Monument will once again be constructed by the Associated Students of Engineering. The Corn Monument is a 73-year tradition at the University of Iowa.

History Display—A pictorial history of "Past Homecoming Battles" will be on display as well as a feature on this year's honored guest, Jim Zabel. Come and find out about the man who is "the voice of the Hawkeyes." The displays will be located on the first floor of the Iowa Memorial Union, near the Campus Information Center.

Window Display—University of Iowa organizations will paint the windows of downtown Iowa City businesses in a traditional show of Homecoming spirit. Judged Monday, Oct. 19.

Homecoming Cups—To promote a safe and healthy Homecoming week, the Homecoming council is co-sponsoring a designated drivers program with area businesses. From Oct. 16–Oct. 25, all designated drivers can receive free pop with the purchase of a $1.00 Homecoming collectors cup. Participating downtown businesses include: The Airliner, The Sports Column, The Deadwood, The Fieldhouse, Micky's, Vito's and Wallaby's.

Sweepstakes Competition—The Homecoming sweepstakes competition gives student groups an opportunity to work together and use their skills to compete with other organizations. The categories in which groups will compete are: button sales, parade, float competitions, Iowa shout, volleyball, window display, and big wheel races. Any University of Iowa organization is welcome to enter.

Homecoming Honored Guest

Jim Zabel

The Homecoming Council extends a special thank you to Homecoming honored guest Jim Zabel for his timely and poignant comments.

The University of Iowa, quite literally, has been my life. It is my home. That very few people have had a deeper or longer association with the University — academically, athletically, or professionally — than I have. From going to Hawkeye football games with my parents in the 1930’s, when I was a kid in Davenport — to attending the University as a student and serving as Editor-in-Chief of The Daily Iowan — to broadcasting every Iowa football game for 43 years — it has been a wonderful and wondrous association filled with magic and memories.

I remember seeing Ozzie Simmons, Joe Laws and Dick Crayne. Even though the Hawkeyes didn’t win many games in those days, these men were my heroes. Like a lot of young people, then and now, I wanted to be a Hawkeye. When I couldn’t attend a game, I listened on the radio. Little did I know that I would succeed the man I listened to way back then — Ronald “Dutch” Reagan at WHO. (As a matter of record, I have interviewed Reagan 18 times through the years, at all stages of his career — actor, Governor, President — but one time I particularly remember occurred in 1980. He had made a movie with Piper Laurie and they were holding the premiere in Des Moines. We got him to come to the station for an interview, and every question I asked, particularly about Hawkeye football, set off a flood of memories. Finally, I said “I guess we better wind up the interview, Dutch. If we talk any longer the station may want to hire you back, and I’ll be out of a job.” Reagan answered with, “That’s all right, Jim. You stay out of Hollywood, and I’ll stay out of Des Moines.”)

I will have to admit that my main interest in those long-ago days, and my main attractions to Iowa, were athletic and social. I captained the Davenport High School track team to the state championship my senior year, and visions of Olympic glory were dancing in my 17-year-old head. My most unforgettable moment was running an exhibition race against the legendary Jesse Owens (in which I got a good view of his back). Eight schools, including Iowa, contacted me about accepting a track scholarship. However, being young, impetuous and incurably romantic, I decided to travel to Mexico instead, and put off college until the following year.

After spending three months each in Mexico City and Acapulco, I came back to join the work force and wait, eagerly, for the next fall to roll around. Tragedy intervened. My leg was injured in an auto accident that summer — to the extent that I no longer could compete in track. But my love for the University of Iowa was as great as ever.

Maybe the accident (and subsequent operation by the famed Dr. Arthur Steindler, at University Hospitals, considered by many at that time to be the finest orthopaedic surgeon in the world) was a blessing in disguise. It forced me to concentrate on academics. The results amazed me. I had the highest grades in my freshman fraternity class, and threw myself full scale into the publications and radio fields — working on The Daily Iowan, Frixol (campus humor magazine) and the Hawkeye Yearbook, as well as doing a weekly radio stint on WHO.

During those wartime years, the campus was agog with literary giants. I interviewed, and rubbed elbows with, Pulitzer Prize Winners Sinclair Lewis, William Saroyan and Robert Penn Warren, as well as author Eric Knight, whose wartime novels “This Above All” and “Lassie Come Home” were best-sellers of the day. Paul Engle and Willbur Schramm of Writer’s Workshop fame were my mentors, as well as Dean Frank Luther Mott of the Journalism School and Director Fred Pownall of Publications. (One of my creative writing teachers was Mona Van Dyne recently named United States Poet Laureate by the President.) I was fascinated with the world of writing and academics.

Biography

Jim Zabel joined the staff of WHO Radio on May 17, 1944, and has been Sports Director of the station since 1950. During that time, he has broadcast more than 5,000 play-by-play events, including University of Iowa football and basketball, five Rose Bowl games, 26 NCAA basketball tournaments, as well as the Drake Relays and Boys’ and Girls’ State Basketball tournaments for more than 35 years. He has broadcast every Iowa football game for 43 consecutive seasons, and is the “Dean” of Big Ten football announcers.

In addition to play-by-play, Jim does the pre- and post-game coaches show on radio, as well as “The Hayden Fry Show” and “The Tom Davis Show” on the Raycom Television Network. His weekly radio talk show, “Sunday Sportsline,” is heard virtually coast-to-coast on WHO Radio’s clear and powerful signal, and regularly draws calls from throughout the nation. On one “Hayden Fry Show,” 2,800 calls were received during a 90-minute span.

Jim also has hosted the nation’s longest-running TV bowling show, “Let’s Go Bowling,” which was seen on WHO-TV for over 30 years.

Jim has interviewed most of the nation’s major sports celebrities. He also interviewed President Ronald Reagan at the White House, as well as numerous times in Des Moines. Jim was featured in an ABC-TV vignette during a March, 1987 national broadcast of a University of Iowa basketball game.

He has also been honored by the University of Iowa with the “Jim Zabel Scholarship Fund,” which benefits students pursuing journalism degrees in the area of broadcast journalism.

Jim is a native of Davenport, Iowa, and a graduate of Davenport High School, where he co-captained the “Blue Devil” track team in 1939. He is a 1944 graduate of the University of Iowa.

His awards include “Sportscaster of the Year,” “I-Club Man of the Year,” and “Variety Club Sportsman of the Year,” as well as “Special Service Awards” from the Drake Relays and the Iowa High School Athletic Association. He was recently inducted into the Des Moines Sports Hall of Fame, the first member of the electronic media to be so honored.

During the past several years, Jim has traveled close to 100,000 miles covering Iowa sports teams... including trips to Korea, China, Hong Kong, and Alaska with the Hawkeye basketball team, as well as a tour of Europe with the Iowa basketball team in the summer of 1990.

In addition to doing radio and TV sports, Jim Zabel has written numerous scripts and articles, as well as three best-selling cookbooks, the products of his popular WHO Radio afternoon talk show, "Call Jim Zabel," which was on the air for more than 12 years in the 1960s and 1970s. Jim is in constant demand as a public speaker. During the past year, he has addressed sports gatherings of all types in Chicago, San Diego, Dallas, Phoenix, Seattle, Denver, Washington, D.C., Baltimore, Los Angeles, Omaha, and Minneapolis, as well as every major city in Iowa.

Homecoming: The tradition continues

By Eric B. Anderson

It's Homecoming for the Hawkeyes again, the eighty-first of a series that dates back to Nov. 22 and 23, 1912.

When Iowa's first football game was played on November 16, 1889 at Iowa College, now known as Grinnell College, no one in attendance could have foreseen the powerhouse status that the University of Iowa football tradition enjoys today. The action took place in front of only a dozen or so fans, with the players wearing uniforms consisting of lace jackets and leather pants. The Hawkeyes had only three plays: "ready," "lookout," and "all right." They were soundly defeated, 24-0. It was not a complete loss, however, as Iowa was given $10 from a hat that was passed around at the game.

Iowa football has seen many changes since that first game in 1889, the Homecoming tradition not being the least of these. When the event designated as Hawkeye Homecoming was first started, it was more or less an experiment with the hope that it might catch on to become an annual custom. The custom caught on so well that it has survived two World Wars, a couple of Great and Lesser Depressions, and a flurry of other natural and man-made hindrances.

The first Homecoming game was played against Wisconsin. That game was played on old Iowa Field, where the wooden fence sported wooden letters five feet high that read "Iowa Fights." From that first historic game to the present, Iowa fans would have vivid memories of great moments in Iowa football. From as far back as 1918, when Iowa beat Minnesota for the first time just two days before the end of World War I, to the Hawkeyes 1986 season which led them to the Rose Bowl, Iowa has been a force to be reckoned with.

In 1912, college life was different from the life UI students know today. Then, classes at the State University of Iowa (SUI, as it was known at the time) had yearly fights, and students punished one another for not cutting classes. There were twelve social and professional fraternities and three sororities on campus.

Pages from old editions of the Hawkeye Yearbook reveal vivid scenes of political activity, with a particular emphasis on class elections. Literary societies formed the basis of political affiliation on campus in those days. One tale, dating from the days of class fights, describes a lone freshman who rounded up a group of attacking sophomores with the help of a six-shooter.

And then there was the time when one class re-enacted the storming of the Bastille during a campaign. The chief missiles of attack for this particular battle were eggs. It's no wonder that this class was described as having "a rather notorious career."

Records of that first 1912 Homecoming indicate that every effort was made to draw alumni back to the campus. Festivities included a "Big football rally in the natural science auditorium; an entertaining smoker for the men in the armory; a boxing match; campus tour, by auto, from the Union; and ample entertainment for the ladies."

By 1915, the annual Homecoming was an assured success. A record-breaking crowd of 11,000 was expected to return. Extra bleachers and boxes were built on the Iowa Field for the Iowa-Ames game. The crowd was described as "the biggest to ever see football here."

"The European war is even affecting Homecomings" was the complaint of The Daily Iowan headline in 1916. Entertainment across from The Cottage Restaurant for that year’s Homecoming included minstrel shows, “The Gold Dust Twins,” and a male quartet, and it ended with a mammoth snake dance through Iowa City’s business section.

In 1917, the “new” Iowa song was introduced. The students were assured that it would be worth hearing, and it appears that it was, as the “Iowa Fight Song” remains a staple at Hawkeye football games today.

The first Homecoming button appeared in 1924 and has become another of the Hawkeye traditions. The face of the button changes each year, but it remains a symbol of fan support for their team. Once again, Homecoming buttons are available this year.

In 1936, the first corn monument was erected. That year’s monument stood 30 feet and simulated the architecture of the Empire State Building, which had been completed the day before. The corn monument is another University of Iowa tradition that has withstood the test of time.

Another cornerstone of Iowa’s football history is its mascot, Herky the Hawk. Herky was created in 1948 by Richard Spencer, a professor in the School of Journalism. He designed the caricature, which was an immediate success with the UI Athletic Department and fans. The mascot got its name through a state contest. The prize was a pair of tickets to the 1948 Notre Dame game. The winner of the contest was John Franklin, a UI alumnus. In 1961, Herky began to appear at the games when members of the Delta Upsilon fraternity dressed as the mascot and paraded up and down the sidelines. Today that responsibility lies with the men of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

The final and most important Homecoming tradition at the University of Iowa is Hawkeye fans. The constant fan support has been the backbone of Iowa football for more than 100 years. This year is no different. Tens of thousands of you will come to cheer on your team. You are history in the making — you are tradition.

The University of Iowa Alumni Association, together with the School of Music, and Department of University Bands, is proud to welcome back to campus over 250 Hawkeye Marching Band Alumni for their annual Homecoming Reunion. 1992 marks the 20th anniversary of this tradition and we are pleased to have them back with us for the Homecoming festivities. The Alumni Band is directed by Tom Davis, former director of the Hawkeye Marching Band, who is currently Professor of Percussion at the University of Iowa. The Alumni Band will make several appearances, including one at the Homecoming parade on Friday evening. After the parade, they will visit several downtown businesses to perform for visiting alumni and fans. On Saturday, they will appear with the Hawkeye Marching Band during the band’s half-time performance.

We proudly “Welcome Back” this outstanding group of alumni who help make Homecoming Week at the University of Iowa “So VERY Special!!”

I became Editor-in-Chief of The Daily Iowan in my junior year—the youngest person, at that time, to achieve that position. My daily column “Editorially Speaking,” was voted the paper’s second-most-popular feature in one poll—right behind the comic strip, “Blondie.” I reveled in my first taste of media “celebrity.” During the summer of my junior year, I collaborated with Dean Carl Seashore on a series of editorials, which were later published in pamphlet form under the title of “Wartime Approaches to Liberal Education.”

The most popular instructor on the campus in those days was a former Australian fighter pilot named Hew Roberts. He could speak for hours on world affairs, without notes. His classes were always jammed, and I did many newspaper and radio interviews with him during the war. I was able to get a number of the top college players on campus to write pieces for The Daily Iowan. When Eric Knight died suddenly in England, I called Paul Engle and he came to my office in the basement of East Hall and personally wrote the eulogy that appeared in the paper.

My biggest duty in 1943 was publishing the first word of Nile Kinnick’s death in a naval training plane crash. The following day I wrote a front page editorial, urging that Iowa’s football stadium be named in memory of Kinnick. President Virgil Hancher sent me a letter the next day, in which he commended the editorial on Kinnick, but said naming the stadium after him would be “premature,” in that “many men will lose their lives in World War II.” Years later, I was happy to be a part of the drive that resulted in the formal dedication of Kinnick Stadium in 1972.

My interest in covering and broadcasting sports was always strong, and received added impetus with the advent of the great “Seahawks” team at Iowa, which represented the Navy Pre-Flight program during the war. At one time, Seahawk coaches included Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, Jim Tatum of Maryland, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, and Don Faurot of Missouri—all on campus at one time. Forest Evashevski was among the outstanding former

Despite my obvious devotion to sports, and to the Iowa Hawkeyes specifically, my pursuits in life—personally and professionally—cover an exceptionally wide spectrum—and for this, in large part, I credit my education and experiences at the University of Iowa. The University and its wide-ranging curriculum—all the way from Philosophy & II, to Modern Drama—taught me how to think and how to channel my natural curiosity in intelligent and productive ways. With a major in Journalism and a minor in English, I learned how to communicate—and, more importantly, how to use the English language properly. People say a college education pays off in many intangibles—that it makes you a “well-rounded person.” With me, it paid off directly. It is no exaggeration to say that many of the radio phone shows I did through the years—involving politics, international affairs, cultural events, and just about everything else you can think of—would not have been possible without the knowledge, and the
