King admits to having memory lapses

Listening Post provides friendly, confidential place to air concerns
Animal shelter: beware of sick racoons

Jim Yates
The Daily Iowan

There's a story in Iowa City somewhere:

No, they're not the running kind. Although, technically, baring a park bench and swatting off people who try to sit there, they are sick racoons, and they could be unhealthy.

"We're seeing a lot of them lately," said Mike Strain, assistant director of the Animal Control Department, for the City of Iowa City. "They're in human residential areas these days, which is far and away not normal.

"Raccoons are on the rise," he said. "They're being different."

Higgins said that although we did not publish an epidemic story about racoons, they have been going around, sick and not the best people.

"There are racoons in the city," said Bob Brown from Animal Services, which is the department that deals with racoons.

"We've seen racoons for years," Brown said. "We've been dealing with them."

"I probably stay away from them," said senior Mike Brown. "I'm not sure if they're sick or not."

"I think they're sick," said Brown. "I think they're different."

Corridor's Iowa City Animal Shelter authority says that racoons come on the scene because of the health of the animal. People are concerned that racoons could pose a threat to domestic pets.

"I've heard that they have a disease," said Brown. "I've heard that they're sick."

"I've heard that they're sick," Brown said. "I've heard that they're not well."
Nursing dean’s activism part of what life’s about

Terry Felton

Working against wars toward making a contribution to society is what UI College of Nursing Dean-Geriatric Felton said she is all about.

She was recently recognized as a second laureate to a number of the Veterans Administration’s Department of Veterans Affairs Special Medical Advisory Group, in Huntington, W.Va.

"The goal of the group is to help push the secretary of Veterans Affairs to consider the needs of these folks," she said. "We are mostly women of those in the field who worked in the armed services," she said.

Felton also said that one of the nursing main objective just last year was to open V.A. hospitals to all people, especially the elderly. She said that their medical expertise would be covered by either Medi- care or Medicaid.

"In our proposal to Congress, the group outlined the need for the development of services and help for the elderly, not just the veter- ans," she said.

The proposal was not widely accepted by various veterans’ organizations, but was also debated in Congress.

Felton said that the proposal will likely be the work of individual veterans, and the new veterans-only program.

"It would help V.A. hospitals in rural areas of need and other areas to be expanded," she added.

Committee prepares 2nd vote on death sentence

Mike Glover

Associated Press

DES MOINES — Death sentence opponents on Wednesday weighed a measure by lawmakers still weighing on the issue of whether to extend the death penalty.

"We are seeking it hard," said

Gary Bartsch, an aide to Gov. Terry Branstad.

"That governmental presence is a daunting task," Bartsch said.

Branstad has long faced limits in the past six years, but has not pushed hard for the issue. The governor, however, ran for the office last year, and he’s using a series of crime groups in recent months to try to have his hands on a sample of why lawmakers have had a death sentence back on the books.

Branstad has reached out to the state’s law enforcement agencies, but has met some resistance. Those who say the state must do it to get their hands on the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been that kind of phenomenon," he said. "It’s always been a matter of appointing people to the office."

The measure is up for a second vote Wednesday.

"That’s why we want to be sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections.

"It’s really been an issue of making sure those who are interested in the law enforcement agencies don’t have to worry."

"That’s why we think they should be put in charge of it," said Brian Carney, a spokesma
New York's reaction to bomb model of 'grace under pressure'

Residents note evidence that the city may have softened up a bit.

Terry Collins

The Daily Iowan

In the effort to reconstruct similar and different among members of the Greek system, black and white Iowan greek organizations were among the first to express their sentiments. However, the incident did not bring about a change in the city's attitude towards minority groups.

Several Iowan greek organizations have plans to hold diversity events this spring. "We have no soul. Seriously, we'll even be a rich, white kid, momma's boy," said Heathcock, panelist.

Panelist Brad McClesky, a member of the University of Illinois' Phi Delta Theta, said, "I think the white greek problem is the most important problem we are confronted about the white greek, the black side.

"We have no soul. Seriously, we'll even be a rich, white kid, momma's boy," said Heathcock, panelist.

On the subject of programming among groups of different races, Panelist Marc_txus of Alpha Phi Alpha, a black greek organization, said that it is a numbers problem. Panelist Sherman Brown, a member of the University of Michigan's Phi Beta Sigma, said that it is a problem because there are not enough numbers. However, he said that there are African American organizations which may have over 60 members, while white organizations may have only six, and may not have the same resources as the black organizations.

Panelist Tonye Yap of Sigma Lambda Gamma agreed with Constan, adding that Latino organizations are often overlooked. She said that there is some work to be done in terms of白色化 and get more people into the larger, white, greek societies.

Panelist Heather Grose of Delta Sigma Theta said that in some cases the greek system has become a means to an end. The system is used to make the American structure of racial relations. She said that she is still working on this issue.

Panelist John Sheppard, a member of the University of Illinois' Phi Delta Theta, said that there are people who should join a group to help blend people into society. However, he said that there are some groups that have not been able to bring people together.

"A lot of times it is locked down," Sheppard said. "There is a lot of work to be done in terms of white greek organizations. It is a numbers problem. However, there are African American organizations which may have over 60 members, while white organizations may have only six, and may not have the same resources as the black organizations."

"What it comes down to is a matter of comfort and background," he said.

When asked if greek organizations have a responsibility to interact with other organizations, Heathcock said, "I think it is a numbers problem," he said. "Sometimes, you need a good kick in the ass."

Researchers: Mild cystic fibrosis makes up only a small number of cases.

Lacy Kennedy

The Daily Iowan

Researchers for the Howard University College of Medicine have discovered that mild forms of the disease are responsible for a large number of patients, the report said.

"We have no soul. Seriously, we'll even be a rich, white kid, momma's boy," said Heathcock, panelist.

Researchers for the Howard University College of Medicine have discovered that mild forms of the disease are responsible for a large number of patients, the report said.

"It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem," said Heathcock.

The study found that milder forms of the disease may represent more people with fewer severe forms of the disease. The study, which was supported by the National Institutes of Health, was published in today's issue of Nature, a scientific journal.

"We have no soul. Seriously, we'll even be a rich, white kid, momma's boy," said Heathcock.

The study found that milder forms of the disease may represent more people with fewer severe forms of the disease. The study, which was supported by the National Institutes of Health, was published in today's issue of Nature, a scientific journal.

"It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem," said Heathcock.

Researchers for the Howard University College of Medicine have discovered that mild forms of the disease are responsible for a large number of patients, the report said.

On the subject of programming among groups of different races, Panelist Marc_txus of Alpha Phi Alpha, a black greek organization, said that it is a numbers problem. Panelist Sherman Brown, a member of the University of Michigan's Phi Beta Sigma, said that it is a problem because there are not enough numbers. However, he said that there are African American organizations which may have over 60 members, while white organizations may have only six, and may not have the same resources as the black organizations.

Panelist Tonye Yap of Sigma Lambda Gamma agreed with Constan, adding that Latino organizations are often overlooked. She said that there is some work to be done in terms of white greek organizations. However, she said that there are African American organizations which may have over 60 members, while white organizations may have only six, and may not have the same resources as the black organizations.

"What it comes down to is a matter of comfort and background," she said.

When asked if greek organizations have a responsibility to interact with other organizations, Heathcock said, "I think it is a numbers problem," she said. "Sometimes, you need a good kick in the ass."

Researchers: Mild cystic fibrosis makes up only a small number of cases.

Lacy Kennedy

The Daily Iowan

Researchers for the Howard University College of Medicine have discovered that mild forms of the disease are responsible for a large number of patients, the report said.

"We have no soul. Seriously, we'll even be a rich, white kid, momma's boy," said Heathcock, panelist.

Researchers for the Howard University College of Medicine have discovered that mild forms of the disease are responsible for a large number of patients, the report said.

"It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem," said Heathcock.

The study found that milder forms of the disease may represent more people with fewer severe forms of the disease. The study, which was supported by the National Institutes of Health, was published in today's issue of Nature, a scientific journal.

"We have no soul. Seriously, we'll even be a rich, white kid, momma's boy," said Heathcock.

The study found that milder forms of the disease may represent more people with fewer severe forms of the disease. The study, which was supported by the National Institutes of Health, was published in today's issue of Nature, a scientific journal.

"It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem," said Heathcock.

Researchers for the Howard University College of Medicine have discovered that mild forms of the disease are responsible for a large number of patients, the report said.

On the subject of programming among groups of different races, Panelist Marc_txus of Alpha Phi Alpha, a black greek organization, said that it is a numbers problem. Panelist Sherman Brown, a member of the University of Michigan's Phi Beta Sigma, said that it is a problem because there are not enough numbers. However, he said that there are African American organizations which may have over 60 members, while white organizations may have only six, and may not have the same resources as the black organizations.

Panelist Tonye Yap of Sigma Lambda Gamma agreed with Constan, adding that Latino organizations are often overlooked. She said that there is some work to be done in terms of white greek organizations. However, he said that there are African American organizations which may have over 60 members, while white organizations may have only six, and may not have the same resources as the black organizations.

"What it comes down to is a matter of comfort and background," he said.

When asked if greek organizations have a responsibility to interact with other organizations, Heathcock said, "I think it is a numbers problem," he said. "Sometimes, you need a good kick in the ass."

Researchers: Mild cystic fibrosis makes up only a small number of cases.

Lacy Kennedy

The Daily Iowan

Researchers for the Howard University College of Medicine have discovered that mild forms of the disease are responsible for a large number of patients, the report said.

"We have no soul. Seriously, we'll even be a rich, white kid, momma's boy," said Heathcock, panelist.

Researchers for the Howard University College of Medicine have discovered that mild forms of the disease are responsible for a large number of patients, the report said.

"It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem," said Heathcock.

The study found that milder forms of the disease may represent more people with fewer severe forms of the disease. The study, which was supported by the National Institutes of Health, was published in today's issue of Nature, a scientific journal.

"We have no soul. Seriously, we'll even be a rich, white kid, momma's boy," said Heathcock.

The study found that milder forms of the disease may represent more people with fewer severe forms of the disease. The study, which was supported by the National Institutes of Health, was published in today's issue of Nature, a scientific journal.

"It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem. It's a numbers problem," said Heathcock.
Teacher’s will devoted to students

William Riener

The Daily Iowan

After 40 years as a third grade teacher in Iowa City, what does she do now?

Not much, if the person is someone like Elizabeth Montgomery, who taught at Longfellow Elementary.

Montgomery retired from teaching at the age of 60 and worked for months as a substitute. She spent the last year as a volunteer at the Senior Center and died last month at the age of 81.

After Montgomery retired, she continued to visit the school in the district and offered her help with advisers and with advisers for the former students.

Many of her former students also contacted her to visit her in her home and even asked her to stay.

The library at Longfellow was named for her in 1998.

If that isn’t enough to remember her, Montgomery will provide one last gift to the students

at Longfellow and the district as a whole.

After making small bequests to family and friends, Montgomery decided in her will that she would give $250,000 to Longfellow and $250,000 to Waukee.

That is to be used to invest in a trust.

The first, a $250,000

is to be kept in the name of a trust

for the students.

The second trust is known as the

Montgomery Gift.

It was created from

the gift

of

Kamath and Montgomery.

The library at

Montgomery’s
district and offered her help with advice on students and with advice for the students in the district.

The Longfellow

students

were known for their work,

helping

students

with their studies.

It was

so that

Montgomery’s

work

was devoted to students.

Her

students

were

her family.

She never married and had never had children.

It wasn’t until

her death

that

her family

was known.

Riordan said ‘’She never gave up her interest in students’ and the principal

of

the parent-teacher

organization,

the

president,

and

the

vice president

of

the

president,

two teachers, the

president

of

the parent-teacher

organization,

and

the principal.

Montgomery’s

birthday,

the organization will celebrate her with a plaque

to be placed in

the library.

The second trust is designed

to afford

employment

and

private

or-organization of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the

of

the
GUNMAN SURREndERS

Doctor fatally shot at abortion protest

Garry Potter of Pensacola, Fla. — A gunman who shot and killed a doctor outside his abortion clinic Wednesday was outwardly quiet during the protest, abortion rights activists said.

"I didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.

At the time of the shooting, dozens of anti-abortion demonstrators were gathered in front of the clinic, Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, police said. According to a fellow officer, who walked into the building after the shooting at about 10:40 a.m. He didn't see a temper, and when I went inside, it looked like a normal day in the clinic," said Dr. David Gunn, 47, who was gunned down at the Medical Services clinic he operated, police said. Garry Potter said Gunn died in surgery at a hospital two hours later.
POLUTION

The great landfill in the sky

W e take it for granted sometimes, but Iowa is one of the most fertile, productive and safely beautiful places in the world. It would be best to keep an eye on it, and at what a crime against nature, to abuse this land. Yet beauty it is not, rural Iowa is a pristine target for the lust of state interests that want to dump and burn garbage here. Prevalence includes hazardous medical waste incinerators and, in southern Iowa, even nuclear waste dumps.

Incinerators may seem like a convenient way of getting rid of trash that would otherwise sit in a landfill. But it's not really, because it only eliminates 96 percent of the waste mass. The rest is ash, which ends up in one of two places. The stuff that stays in the facility the incinerator is supposed to process, it does not process; the fly ash goes up the stack and into the great landfill in the sky.

The stuff that stays at the bottom of the incinerator goes to, you guessed it, a landfill; the "fly ash" goes up the stack and into the great landfill in the sky.

In the sky, and eventually lands in our lungs or on our skin. This is the most direct way through which the general public is exposed to the harmful effects of medical waste incinerators.

The sky is Iowa's landfills. With the landfill in the sky, Incineration may have better safety risks? It's a very short distance, but an interesting concept. The sky is Iowa's landfills. With the landfill in the sky. Incineration may have better safety risks? It's a very short distance, but an interesting concept.

It's very short distance, but an interesting concept. The sky is Iowa's landfills. With the landfill in the sky. Incineration may have better safety risks? It's a very short distance, but an interesting concept.

FOCA would be a good solution to this problem — a proposed linking air toxics and new incinerators. Further rulemaking would be necessary to ensure that the incinerator would remain in the sky until the state adopts a new air toxics law. It's a very short distance, but an interesting concept. The sky is Iowa's landfills. With the landfill in the sky. Incineration may have better safety risks? It's a very short distance, but an interesting concept.
Peace talks put on hold once again

Edith M. Lederer

WASHINGTON - The puppet "Lamb Chop" raised up to a theme of "Children of the World" lived, as Alf O. D. Olvidt, his fake name; had his own show. In a short interview, he said the situation in the Middle East was tense, but he believed a solution could be found. "We must work together to achieve peace," he said.

"For several years, the world had been waiting for the opportunity to make real progress in the Middle East," he said. "I believe that with the involvement of all parties, we can achieve a lasting peace.""I think the situation will improve if we continue to work together," he added. "We must not give up on our efforts to achieve peace in the Middle East.""The situation is difficult, but we cannot give up," he said. "We must continue to work towards a peaceful solution.""I believe that with the participation of all parties, we can achieve a lasting peace," he said. "We must continue to work towards a peaceful solution."
10 A.WOUNDED

20 killed in crackdown on Egyptian extremists

Samir Rishabh
Associated Press

CAIRO — Police killed at least 20 Muslim extremists in raids on buildings in an apparent attempt to end a long-running violent campaign in the Middle East.

The military said it was responding to a threat that the extremists had posed to the national security of Egypt. It did not give details of the operation.

In a statement, the military said it had arrested four people, including two suspected of planning attacks on security forces in the northwestern province of Qena.

It also said it had seized a large cache of weapons and explosives in the area.

The military praised the work of its personnel and said it was confident of their ability to continue to protect the country.

The operation comes as Egypt faces increasing pressure from Islamist militants who have been carrying out attacks in the Sinai Peninsula and other parts of the country.

The military has been on high alert since the killing of a soldier in the northwestern province of Qena last month.

The operation also comes as the European Union is considering the possibility of providing military aid to Egypt.

The European Union has been Brian's father-in-law, who was killed in an attack on the Red Sea resort of Sharm el-Sheikh last month.

The military said it was responding to a threat that the extremists had posed to the national security of Egypt. It did not give details of the operation.

In a statement, the military said it had arrested four people, including two suspected of planning attacks on security forces in the northwestern province of Qena.

It also said it had seized a large cache of weapons and explosives in the area.

The military praised the work of its personnel and said it was confident of their ability to continue to protect the country.

The operation comes as Egypt faces increasing pressure from Islamist militants who have been carrying out attacks in the Sinai Peninsula and other parts of the country.

The military has been on high alert since the killing of a soldier in the northwestern province of Qena last month.

The operation also comes as the European Union is considering the possibility of providing military aid to Egypt.

The European Union has been sports

LOCAL

Donation made to Street fund

There is an amount of $53,000 was presented to the Children's Hospital, in honor of the 1988 Memorial Fund's "Calling for the hour". Edward Dickie Jr., president of DICKIE'S KITCHENS and the daughter of Attorney, presented the check to the children's hospital. The check was in honor of 1988 radio color announcer Bob Hopkins, who was also a former columnist for the Iowa Hawkeyes basketball program and "Crucial" parents Mike and Pat. The Hawkeyes basketball program has been a tough and successful season, but the biggest donation of the year was this one to the Street fund.

Sports Briefs

NBA

Rodman suspended

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Troubled Dennis Rodman was suspended for one game for charging into the stands and leaving a trail of broken glass and beer bottles when he was ejected Sunday night in his previous game with the Detroit Pistons. Rodman left the court shortly after he was ejected for an argument with a referee and Peter Varnum, an associate executive at the Palace, Detroit. Rodman was suspended for leaving the court and was fined $2,500 on Monday.

The Pistons announced Monday that Rodman had been suspended indefinitely.

Tennis team's van crashes

One person was killed and seven others injured on Sunday when a van carrying members of the University of Wisconsin-Madison tennis team crashed on Interstate 94 in Rock Hill, S.C., college. The truck was carrying 12 people, including eight players, their coach and two non-sports enthusiasts. The crash occurred near the Rock Hill exit, according to police. The driver of the van was charged with vehicular homicide and driving under the influence.

Star's starlet, said Foster

The Hawkeye women's basketball team is on a roll. Foster is being very proud to be able to say that. She is a starlet, and she is the reason why the Hawkeyes are on a roll. Foster is being very proud to be able to say that. She is a starlet, and she is the reason why the Hawkeyes are on a roll.

Women's basketball

Kevin Smith leads the Hawkeye fast break in Iowa's 91-65 blasting of Wisconsin Wednesday night. Smith scored a season-high 14 points, as Iowa added a career-high 34.

Women's basketball

Seniors reflect on Hawkeye careers

Toni Foster, a 5-foot-10 senior guard from Detroit, Michigan, was named the Big Ten's most valuable player (MVP) for her performance in the NCAA tournament. Foster is being very proud to be able to say that. She is a starlet, and she is the reason why the Hawkeyes are on a roll.

Sports Quiz

How many Big Ten champs, all-American and All-Americans have won Iowa? 17 years is the answer to see on page 28.

Sports Quiz

How many years have the Hawkeyes been coached by the Cox? The Hawkeyes have been coached by the Cox for 17 years.

Badger blowout!

Iowa dominates in 91-65 rout

Rosaulla Pelle

The Daily Iowan

Iowa outrebounded Earlham, the school that plays 6-4 from the Big Ten, by 41-35 and held them to 21 points.

Toni Foster, the senior guard from Detroit, Michigan, was named the Big Ten's most valuable player (MVP) for her performance in the NCAA tournament. Foster is being very proud to be able to say that. She is a starlet, and she is the reason why the Hawkeyes are on a roll.

Sports Quiz

How many years have the Hawkeyes been coached by the Cox? The Hawkeyes have been coached by the Cox for 17 years.

Sports Quiz

How many years have the Hawkeyes been coached by the Cox? The Hawkeyes have been coached by the Cox for 17 years.
HAWKEYES: No problems with Badgers

Continued from Page 1B

... as well as 3 points by freshman forward Ray Miller-Malik, who finished with 10 points, was later charged with a technical for interfering with the inbounds pass.

"Following a 43-0 run by the Badgers, Bower's last-minute three pointer fell short, leaving Iowa with a 79-76 defeat.

"We needed to get him out of the game earlier, and we were not successful," said Iowa head coach Bob Knight.

WRESTLERS: Turning up the heat

Continued from Page 1B

The Hawkeyes lost 46-34 on Saturday.

"Jenkins said the Badger defense might have been the cause of the loss, and the Hawkeyes' inability to score in the first half.

"But I think the turnovers were our biggest problem," said Iowa head coach Kevin Morgan.

"We had 10 turnovers in the first half, and that's something we have to work on.

"Our defense was also a key factor in the loss. We were able to hold the Badgers to just 34 points.

"But we still have a chance to win the conference, and we'll be working on our defense in practice.

"We're not giving up yet. We've got a lot left in the season, and we'll be ready for the next game.

"Our goal is to win the conference title, and we're not going to let anything stop us.

"We're going to keep working hard and improve our game."
GIANT WRESTLING

ISU not fazed by Big 8 scoring error

Associated Press

AMES - The Big Eight wrestling championship was in the bag. Iowa State will be awarded to the Hawkeyes because of a scoring error in Saturday's meet, officials said.

Delbert Dungan, Big Eight wrestling chairman, and Dave Spence, Iowa State athletic director, said Tuesday the issue was met with only a mild reaction as they prepare for the upcoming NCAA tournament.

"That's behind us now. We're moving on," Dungan said.

But Nevada coach Tim New- man said he's glad to have the honor and said it will help pump up his team for the national meet March 15-16 in Atlanta.

"It's a ton of exposure. The meet was in Iowa, and you can't control that. It's out of our hands," he said.

At the conclusion of the conference meet in Norman, Okla., Iowa State was declared the winner by half a point, 97-96.25. But the correct total should have been Nevada 96, Iowa State 97-1/2.

The error and scoring mistakes in the first round were awarded intra-

The Daily Iowan - Iowa City, Iowa - Thursday, March 16, 1995 - Page 30
The Iowa men’s tennis team had a tight, hard-fought loss by a count of 6-2 against intrastate rival Drake late Tuesday night before a sellout. In true fashion, the Hawkeyes had their moment.

Although the Hawkeyes were able to split the singles matches, the doubles battles proved to be the Bulldogs’ downfall. Iowa’s Mike Marino and sophomore Bryan Shale’s matches were crucial, as the teams were neck-and-neck throughout the majority of the matches. At the doubles point, Iowa faced a 3-0 deficit after losing the first two matches.

"Mannheim played hard, but that match ended up being the turning point," Shale said.

Drake coach Roger Eppley agreed that his team’s doubles performance was a key to victory. "This was a doubles match that we needed to win...it gives you a lot of momentum going into singles," Eppley said. "Getting that momentum was important, because this is a very tough place to play, and Iowa’s doubles was definitely the key to victory in the past few years."

The Hawkeyes lost their first doubles match against junior Todd Drake and Fred Danza, but in singles action Bryan Crowley, Del. Ber Institute of Technology and sophomore Marcus Mabo, was able to claim victory.

"It’s good to be back in the mix," Shale said. "I had been playing terr rifl...s, but I don’t have much confidence in my game. I’m glad I got a chance to get back in there, play within myself without facing shots, and prove to myself and everyone else that I can win.

Crowley and Shale’s matches both ended with decisive victories, although both the Bulldogs were in command and ahead in the third set. Bryan Crowley, Shale’s opponent, had difficulty新形势 that he was able to get back to the net. Crowley said, "I had been playing really well this spring, and I don’t have much confidence in my game. I’m glad I got a chance to get back in there, play within myself without facing shots, and prove to myself and everyone else that I can win.

Drake 4, Iowa 3

Crowley and Shale’s matches both ended with decisive victories, although both the Bulldogs were in command and ahead in the third set. Bryan Crowley, Shale’s opponent, had difficulty新形势 that he was able to get back to the net. Crowley said, "I had been playing really well this spring, and I don’t have much confidence in my game. I’m glad I got a chance to get back in there, play within myself without facing shots, and prove to myself and everyone else that I can win.

Drake 4, Iowa 3

Doubles matches key to 4-3 Iowa defeat

Iowa City...
Duran Duran in the early, "golden" MTV years, Gabrielle Andy Taylor, front left, and drummer Roger Taylor, back right, no longer belong to the group for various and sundry reasons. Who cares, though, as long as they've got Simon Le Bon, back left, to keep it.
PROFESSIONAL SCORERS ATTENTION Teachers, dances, groups, etc. who have hoosiers.com, or contact our class subscriptions. Group entry at our
st. March 26, 1993). For information, please call 337-0535.

We have 30 positions left for our part-time outbound customer service.

Call or apply in person:
1935 S. University Ave. * Iowa City
1-800-722-7877

We're looking for the best... are you?
Seven's 88th Birthday}

MOVIES

Stain a powerful, versatile slab of metallic funk from Living Colour

Bread Day

The Daily Iowan

When Living Colour burst onto the music scene with their debut album "Time’s Up," critics and listeners alike predicted their arrival would be an important one. The band's fiery energy, coupled with their unique blend of sounds, soon earned them a reputation as one of the most exciting and innovative acts in rock music. Their debut album, released in 1988, became a critical and commercial success, propelling the band to international fame.

Living Colour's debut album featured a raw, aggressive sound that was new to the rock world. The band's music was characterized by its heavy, distorted guitar riffs and powerful vocals that combined elements of funk, jazz, and rock. Their musical style was also notable for its social and political commentary, with songs that addressed issues such as race, poverty, and injustice.

One of the band's most popular songs from their debut album is "Take Me Out to the Ballgame," which is a powerful and poignant commentary on the state of American society. The song, which was released in 1988, became an instant classic and is still frequently performed by the band today.

Despite the band's success, they have faced challenges throughout their career, including internal disputes and personal struggles. However, their music continues to inspire fans around the world and they remain an influential force in the world of rock music.

Living Colour Photos

(Credit: Photo courtesy of the artist)