Serbian leader signs plan agreeing to divide Bosnia

Patrick Quinn

YUGOSLAVIA - Gen. Milo Dukanovic, leader of Bosnia's Serb forces, officially signed a major agreement in Sarajevo Tuesday that would divide Bosnia into three. The agreement between the Bosnian Serbs, Croats and Muslims, the three main ethnic groups, was the first to be signed by the Serbs and will also affect the other two groups.

The agreement to divide Bosnia has been in the works for some time, and was signed by the Bosnian Serb leader, General Dukanovic.

College, university presidents paid over $155,000 per year

James H. Rabin

WASHINGTON - Most of the presidents of 100 leading colleges and universities are receiving more than $300,000 per year.

The survey by The Chronicle of Higher Education showed that 108 of the 119 University Presidents at the nation's top universities earned more than $150,000 in 1985. The median income for president of a public university was $144,715 in 1985. The survey included 25 presidents, conductors of universities or institutions, of which 22 are the president of major public universities.

RNC issues apology after sending GOP members threatening letters

The letters stated that if any approved Clinton's economic plan, voters would not re-elect him.

Associated Press

Washington — The Republican National Committee has apologized for generating a fund-raising letter threatening beneficiaries if they vote for Clinton's economic plan.

The letter urged recipients to contribute to the campaign in exchange for a copy of "The Constitution" and a Republican "Pocket Constitution." The letter also included a " ventana" section which reported details of the letter's contents.

The RNC issued an apology on behalf of its chairman, Haley Barbour, and Republican National Committee general counsel, Martin Jischke.

Barbour's signature appeared on the direct mail solicitation, part of the party's all-out effort to raise money based on its opposition to Clinton's program.

The campaign was not a matter of selling the truth. With their letter, there is always the danger of shaping who you are in the real world. I still think that if Kalpakian's book on writing in fiction were included in "Graced Land" in his literary class, then we would not want to disagree with your interpretation. Kalpakian has said fiction is a different way of seeing the world, and I think he's right.

A body found in a creek bed near Des Moines, Iowa, on May 2, 1993, has been identified as the body of Janele Weasel, 32, who was last seen in the area last December.

Janele's body was found on May 2, 1993, near the Des Moines River, about a mile north of the University of Iowa campus. It was discovered by a jogger who ran across the bridge near the point where the body was found.

The jogger, who asked not to be identified, said he was running along the riverfront when he noticed something in the water.

He said he didn't initially realize it was a human body until he got closer and saw that it was a woman. He then called 911.

A police officer who arrived on the scene said the body appeared to be in its late 20s or early 30s and had long, dark hair. She was wearing a white shirt and blue jeans.

The officer said there were no obvious signs of trauma and that it appeared the body was recovered from the water.

The jogger who found the body said he didn't notice any identifying information on the woman, but added that he did hear her talking on her cell phone just before he found her.

The jogger said he was running alone at the time of his discovery and that he has not spoken to anyone else about what he saw.

He added that he has never run in the same area before and doesn't know why he happened to cross the bridge where the body was found.

The jogger also said he didn't realize the body was a human being until he got closer and saw that it was a woman. He then called 911.

Gay rights: painting by numbers

There was a march in Washington, D.C., eight days ago. Latinos, gay and lesbian Americans and their friends and families gathered to demand that Congress make it a state policy to ban discrimination. We are here. We are on the right side of history, and we can't stop there.

This statement is a call to arms. To stay silent is to contribute to the defeat of an entire generation's struggle for dignity.

There is no compromise. There are no circumstances. There is no alternative. It is not an opinion, but a matter of equality.

Our struggle is only one of many, and we must work together to win it. We must continue to press for equal rights and respect until our goal is achieved.

We must continue to fight for equality and justice until there is no more discrimination.

We must stand together and be strong.

Oliver Tambo: defiant diplomat

There are few people whose lives testify to Martin Luther King Jr.'s message of nonviolent resistance more than Oliver Tambo. His life was marked by speeches, marches, and jail sentences.

Tambo, the longest-serving member of the African National Congress (ANC), led the struggle against apartheid in South Africa. He was a masterful diplomat and a talented organizer.

Tambo was a man of great courage and determination. He was a strong leader who never wavered in his commitment to the cause of freedom and justice.

It is fitting that Tambo's memory be remembered at a time when the struggle for equality and justice is more urgent than ever.

We should all take inspiration from Tambo's life and work to continue the fight for a better world.

Iowa's distance runner Mark Poole led the Hawkeye women's track and field team to a second-place finish in its Big Ten Championship. Poole was the 800-meter winner with a time of 1:55.45.

"It was a pretty low-key race," Poole said. "I knew that I had a good 800-meter race, I just wanted to get a chance to run."

The women's 4x400 relay team also placed second with a time of 3:59.64.

The Hawkeyes have two more meets scheduled this season, including the NCAA West Regional Championship meet on April 22 in San Francisco and the NCAA Championships on May 28 in Austin, Texas.

"We're going to try to do our best in the regional meet," Poole said. "We're just trying to get ready for the nationals."

Usually our top people put a damper on us, said. "The mix-up when you have good production in the top, somebody from the bottom. We were able to do that in the second game and that's very important."

"It's kind of a long-time to go without winning," Dvorak said.

Hawkeye women's track and field coach Darcy Hasbarg said the team was able to step up and become more competitive this season.

"It's nice to see people that have held their own," Hasbarg said. "It's nice to see them step up and compete with the big boys."

"I think we can use this time to go into great training," he said.

The women's 4x200 relay team also placed second with a time of 1:31.60.

"If they are healthy, we'll make them faster," Hasbarg said.

"We're going to try to do our best in the regional meet," Poole said.

PHOENIX — Suddenly it was Game 7 again.

Suns fans were a little uneasy. A.C. Green is back. That's enough to make anyone nervous.

In 1993, two years ago, Suns fans knew they were in for a long one.

The 1993-94 season was such a disaster that even the most optimistic of Suns fans knew they would be in for a long one.

But this year, it's different. The Suns are back in the playoffs, and they're playing well.

The Suns are up 3-2 on the Lakers, who try to even the series Sunday.

"It's great to have a home crowd again," Suns star Steve Nash said. "I think that's why we're doing well right now.

"We've been playing well in front of our fans. It's nice to have that energy from the crowd.

"But we can't get too comfortable. We still have to win two more games."
The Hawkeyes proceeded to close the gap and the No. 3 Iranian squad, while 14-9 over the whole three matches to give Indiana the point.

The third-seeded Sanchez Vicario, who went to the hospital after winning her singles match, said she could not bear to watch anymore. She was taken to a hospital immediately and did not return. Lemieux, who has missed four games and most of the team with back pain this season, is listed as doubtful.

"Obviously, it doesn't help them when the best player in the world can't play," Fermi said. "It's not like they have no weapons with them."

The Penguins have lost the opening games of playoff series before, but they did it for the last three times but they're obviously not sure how to win these games.

The Penguins are 49-14-5 with top-notch Martin Biron in goal this season. The Penguins have six straight and 5-5-7 overall against the Islanders.

"We can't see this as an easier one," Groff said. "I hope they get well soon and come back. At least we're going to the hospital. I think they're going to need a lot of days off. I'm optimisitic they'll come back.

Lemieux was not available for comment.

"We're back on the road," заболел, who made his debut Saturday. "We have a big advantage for us in the Big Ten, because the last match we played, we didn't do well."

"But the win should be enough for us to win the tournament seven years in a row," the Hawkeyes' coach Groff remarked.

Samples to play summer thunderstorm gig

For a "weekend," we were off living in "supermarkets."" In said, "Now the same problem: a different day, different kind of music that we incorporated into our sound, into our songs." Whatever they stand for, The Samples are the latest wave of the sound, bringing a new dimension to the Theatre Building. The Samples, says the director of Playhouse, "is a monument to filmmaking."

The Samples, piped up, will play tonight at the "K.O.T." WREX FM. The show will include an opening act.
