Regents expect tuition increase next year

Iowa's students are embroiled in a battle for tuition. The Iowa Board of Regents is planning to increase tuition for the 2007-2008 academic year.

The increase is expected to be 3.5 percent, which is lower than the 3.7 percent increase proposed last year. The increase will affect all public universities in Iowa, including the University of Iowa, Iowa State University, and the University of Northern Iowa.

The higher education budget, which includes tuition, will increase by 3.5 percent. This increase is expected to generate an additional $6 million in revenue, which will be used to offset the cost of rising tuition.

The increase is expected to have a significant impact on students and their families. According to the Iowa Board of Regents, the average family spends $15,000 per year on tuition and fees.

‘Back to School’ gun sales fire draws

Associated Press

Durban, South Africa (AP) — A nationwide advertisements announced a "back to school" special on pistols and rifles.

"I’ve heard from gun enthusiasts, retailers, and even some parents," said Kathleen Kamerick, manager of World’s Best and Pawn Shop.

She said the ad in Friday’s Daily Iowan newspaper advertises "the school to hunt" has been approved to include an ad for shotgun shells, which are exempted in the pistol ad was supposed to protect.

"I would be happy if my son was in school, he would be happy if his friend was in school," said Allen, 54, a mother of two.

Allen said she has had problems from the headlines on the firearm ad and the instrumental ad.

She said, "The ad is supposed to be for school, and it is not."

She added, "I don’t want my child to be exposed to that."

UI students, faculty, staff and anybody else passing through the Pentamcrt may have difficulty becoming the structure left and right at this fall; but at least they have a $50,000 reason to look up.

The repainting of the UI Old Capitol dome, which has been more than 20 years in the making, will be completed this week by a crew of 30. Thompson said, "I think we have a responsibility to keep it looking good." The Old Capitol construction is one of many sites in and around the Pentamcrt that keep the building in shape. In order to maintain a sound foundation, Thompson said, "It is going to be well worth it in the end." Thompson said the dome is very pleased with the appearance of the new gold coat. We don't have it any more than a few seconds, he said.

Police are saying they have cracked a crime wave which has caused a few headaches for people in the downtown area.

"I think it will be well worth it in the end," Thompson said. She said she is very pleased with the appearance of the new gold coat. "We don't have it any more than a few seconds, he said.

We thought we would get everything done now. This is the rededication to the building that we didn't let our renovations in 2000 continue. Jeffrey Street will be torn up, and downtown area, and it was said that the whole process was complete. The new concrete was poured into a scaffolding and new gold was pressed onto a shiny surface.

The whole process was underway in 12 days this summer, and it is on schedule for its $300,000 project to finish the entire interior of the Old Capitol building.

Old Capitol administrator Bette Thompson said she looks forward to the completion of the exterior work which has been kept the building in shape. Elderly patient killed at Des Moines care center

Associated Press

DES MOINES — A elderly woman was strangled to death at a senior care center, police said Friday.

The victim was Henry K. Ellis, 87, described by police as a long-time patient at the Hillcrest Conference Center in Des Moines.

Police Sgt. Andy Bradford said the 60-year-old suspect is terminal ill from cancer. Bradford said Ellis was arrested at about 12:30 a.m. Friday after police had checked the room and found someone with blood on his hands.

Bradford said the nurse then brought the suspect standing over Ellis, covering his face with a pillow and throwing him. The suspect pulled the reclining wheelchair away but Ellis had no pulse.

Iowans differ on vote to end draft boards

Associated Press

Draft boards are dormant and the military has no need of them at the moment, but there's a story division in Iowa over whether they should be abolished.

By a narrow vote, the U.S. House of Representatives voted Tuesday to abolish the 30 million dollars needed to keep the Selective Service running.

The Senate is expected to consider the issue soon.

"If there is no Selective Service system as we know it, we won't be able to use it," said Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, Democrat, Maine.-

But Senate Democrats, who have been at odds with the Selective Service, have said their only duty is to hold the vote on the measure.

The House vote was 175-202 to reject financing. Voting to keep the system were Sen. Sam Nunn, Democrat, and Rep. John Mica, Republican, both from Florida, and Sen. Charles Grassley, Iowa, who said he knew how he would vote.

As for Sen. Tom Harkin, Democrat, and Rep. John Besh, both Republicans, who voted to abolish the service, the Harkin, Iowa, said, "we don't need a draft board."

In an attempt to let students know exactly what the functions of student government are, the UI Student Association is holding an open forum today and Tuesday.

"We're going to ask questions about the USA and other questions that students can better understand what we're about," USA Vice President Mindy Hessel said.

"We feel this is necessary for the students to be aware of student government," he said.

Conquering the student government in the near Johnston, there are many many to end draft boards to do it.

To abolish the Selective Service, the student body is represented through three separate legislative bodies within the Student Activities Board. These groups are the Undergraduate Activities Board, the Associated Student Senate, the bipartisan Student Senate, and the University Senate.

"The student body is represented through the Student Activities Board, which represents academic and social organizations that exist within the post-graduate college."

"It's the primary function of these groups to be channeling student groups through the appropriate university activity free.

Overall, the USA allocates $1.5 million.

The USA is planning on paying the remaining special election at the open house, which will list various open committees and positions within the USA. Elections are next February, and the candidates for those positions will be there at the open house.

Robert said filling these positions and passing the Class UI budget for the student groups are of foremost importance for the USA this fall.

"First, we want to pass the Class UI budget," Robert said. "Second, we want to pass the UI budget for the student government."

"We have a great football team, and we want to function as a government by the people, for the people, and the students," said Rep. Earl Hutto, D-Fla., just before the vote. "We don't need a draft board."

Iraqi refugees relocated by Iowa social service

Associated Press

IOWA CITY 70 : Lutheran Social Service of Iowa has quietly begun settling Iraqi refugees in Iowa, but won't say where the refugees are located.

"We believe we have already settled several hundred Iraqi refugees in the state," the agency's legal director, Scott Nix, Iowa, said.

"But some people are really not happy about us coming here," said Elizabeth Foster, refugee services coordinator for the產生 national agency.

She said she does not know how many Iraqis are now in Iowa or in the U.S. in total.

"We don't have an official number for a number of other Iraqi families," she said.

The board gave preliminary approval to a budget proposal for the 1988-89 school year that calls for $285.1 million in state funds for the five regents schools. The proposal, a 6.9 percent increase over the 1987-88 budget, was approved, the UI would receive $285 million for the general univ- ersity and for public relations, the state funds would be just over $61 million, including $44.4 million in state funds and $446 million in tuition, fees and other revenues.

The UI asked for $285 million in state funds, a 10.1 percent increase over the budget for the five regents schools. The proposal recommends the UI use the funds to pay for increases in undergraduate education, $1.25 million, across to higher education, $500,000; strengthening graduate education and research, $1.5 mil- lion, and minority scholarships, $74,000.

The UI's budget for all units and funds would be just over $1 billion, including $44.4 million in state funds and $446 million in tuition, fees and other revenues.

9 journalists captured by Sandinista faction

Joseph Frajler
Associated Press

guerrilla fighters said Sunday that 9 journalists captured by the Sandinista government had been released after the Sandinistas agreed to swap them for 4 hostages.

The journalists — all from newspapers in Managua — were captured on Thursday, the government said, when fighters from the Sandinista-led government seized a radio station and a television station in Managua.

The journalists were caught near the city's airport, the government said, and were later taken to a military base.

The Sandinistas have been in power in Nicaragua since the early 1970s, when they overthrew the government of Anastasio Somoza Debayle.

The journalists were held for several days and were released Sunday after the Sandinistas agreed to swap them for 4 hostages who were being held by the government.

The government said it would continue to negotiate with the Sandinistas to release the remaining hostages.

The journalists were quickly reunited with their families and friends in Managua.

The Sandinistas have been in power in Nicaragua since the early 1970s, when they overthrew the government of Anastasio Somoza Debayle.

NASA loses contact with Mars Observer

WASHINGTON — Engineers lost contact with the Mars Observer spacecraft Monday morning, the first time a U.S. Mars mission has failed to reach the Red Planet on schedule.

"We've lost communications," said Mission Operations Manager Robert Metzger of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif.

Engineers were running computer simulations every 15 minutes to send back a signal to indicate if the spacecraft, which was scheduled to arrive at Earth and re-established contact with Mars Observer. Engineers had last touch with the spacecraft at 5:59 a.m. EDT on Monday, 11 minutes, 48 seconds before it was due to signal back on Earth.

"We've tried every test we can think of," Metzger said. "We have no clue what happened."

Many scientists and engineers were gathered at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory to monitor the Mars Observer mission Monday morning.

"It's a big day for NASA," said NASA Administrator Dan Goldin.

But it was a bad day for the other craftsman on Mars, the Russian Mars Observer, which is still orbiting the planet and re-established contact with Earth repeatedly by Sunday, according to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Japanese man shot near Calif. train station

Associated Press

CONCORD, Calif. — Police officers investigating a shooting at a commuter train station and passing out fliers are asking anyone who might help them solve a Japanese exchange student's murder.

Kuruyama, 23, of New Delhi, was shot twice in the back of the head outside a Bay Area Rapid Transit station on Thursday night. He died in a hospital Friday with his parents by his side.

"We have some new leads, and we're following these as well as some old ones," police officer Joseph Kuenzer said.

He declined to elaborate, but said officers spent the past three hours riding BART trains to locate witnesses.

Police believe the shooting was a robbery gone wrong, but are not sure which way to look for suspects.

Kuruyama had moved to Concord, Calif., in March, and police said he might have been looking for a job. His brother, who is also a student at Concord High School, said Kuruyama had been employed at a car wash.

Kuruyama was shot and killed after being beaten and robbed at gunpoint near a Bay Area Rapid Transit station.

Kuruyama was identified as a former student at Concord High School and a member of the Japanese exchange program.

The shooting occurred as Kuruyama was walking to his car after getting off the train at the Concord station.

Kuruyama's parents were devastated and said they were hoping for the best.

"He's my son, and I want him to live," said Kuruyama's father, who is also a student at Concord High School.

Kuruyama's parents were heartbroken and said they were not sure what to do next.

"We're still trying to come to terms with what happened," said Kuruyama's mother.

Kuruyama's parents were raising money to pay for his funerals, and they said they were grateful for the support of the community.

"We're just hoping to bring some closure to this tragedy," said Kuruyama's father.

The shooting occurred shortly after a similar incident in Oakland, where a man was shot and killed while walking his dog.

The Oakland shooting was also investigated as a robbery gone wrong, and police were questioning several people.

The Concord shooting is being investigated as a murder-for-hire, and police are looking for anyone who might have information.

"We need as much information as possible," said Detective Kuenzer.

The Concord police department is working closely with the FBI to make sure the case is handled properly.

"We're using the full resources of our department to make sure this case is solved," said Detective Kuenzer.

Keeping it in perspective

It's been quite a summer, to say the least. Heat, floods, destruction, mind-bending and sometimes surreal.

The flood waters (Al times surreal) tend to leave us with the misconception that the Corps of Engineers could have prevented at the hardest with flood waters. Many angry residents have tended that the answer was before they arrived, hang in there. It's a rough way to start And for those of you who think the flood coverage in the media cover the story.

Needless slaughter should be stopped

The picture of the slaughtered fish in the Daily Iowan's mid-summer edition was more than a frightening sight to any of the fish's last days. It made me shudder to think of the area between Hancher and Fillmore to be a slaughterhouse.

All the fish were being captured by a fish plant. Racing through the fishbowl, the hundreds of fish were being thrown into the fish plant in thousands of pounds in some cases, by the hundreds of workers. One of the workers even said that this was a job for dealing with weather. And for those of you who think the fish feed in the media ever-crowding coverage.

I returned to the Burnt with this feeling of exhaustion. I couldn't write any longer. I found myself to be writing in the Daily Iowan. The thought of the fish being slaughtered for food made me feel sick. I found myself to be writing in the Daily Iowan.

Concerns about shelter continue

I would like to thank The Daily Iowan and reporter Thomas Wartman for publishing my Letner to the Editor, and for the two well-researched articles examining current conditions at the Iowa City Center for Animal Shelter. I also wish to express my appreciation to the many people who have made known similar difficulties that they encountered at the shelter and to those who have asked me to write this letter.

Mystique surrounds Fry’s Hawkeye squad

The Daily Iowan

BY WILLIAM J. FRY

The Hawkeye swimming and diving teams will host Grand Prix events this week at the Iowa City Recreation Center.

The teams will compete in the 40th annual Grand Prix, a series of meets organized by the United States Swimming Association.

The meets will feature some of the best swimmers and divers in the country, including many Olympians and national champions.

The meets will also serve as a preview for the upcoming NCAA championships in February.

The Hawkeyes are looking to build on their strong performance at the 2019 championships, where they finished 11th overall.

The team is led by head coach John Markovich, who has been at the helm since 1993.

Markovich has led the Hawkeyes to 16 NCAA appearances and seven NCAA championships.

The team’s most recent national title came in 2010, when they won the men’s championship.

Markovich is known for his innovative coaching philosophy and his ability to develop top-notch athletes.

He has guided 15 swimmers to Olympic trials, and his teams have won three national titles and three bronze medals.

The Hawkeyes are currently ranked 10th in the nation in both men’s and women’s游泳.

In preparation for the Grand Prix, the Hawkeyes have been training hard, focusing on fitness and technique.

The team has been practicing for several weeks, and the meets will give them a chance to test their progress.

The meets will take place on Friday and Saturday at the Iowa City Recreation Center.

Friday’s schedule includes men’s 1650-yard freestyle, women’s 1650-yard freestyle, men’s 100-meter backstroke, and women’s 100-meter backstroke.

Saturday’s schedule includes men’s 200-meter individual medley, women’s 200-meter individual medley, men’s 50-meter breaststroke, and women’s 50-meter breaststroke.

The meets will be open to the public, and admission is free.

HAWKEYES

Trailing only by two as the game neared the end, Iowa coach Don Strohbehn said: "This is a game that could go either way at this point."

As the game progressed, the Hawkeyes continued to build their lead, with their starters all making key contributions. The Hawkeyes outscored the Hawgs 14-6 in the second half, taking a 26-12 lead into the final period. Iowa's offense was led by senior quarterback Matt McGee, who completed 18 of 28 passes for 249 yards and four touchdowns. The Hawkeyes' defense held Arkansas to just 333 total yards, with only one touchdown. The Hawgs missed several opportunities to score, including a fumble near the goal line in the third quarter. Despite the loss, the Hawgs continued to fight, with senior running back John Smith leading the team with 91 rushing yards. The Hawgs finished the season with a record of 6-6, while the Hawkeyes ended their season with a record of 9-3, and a spot in thefinal four of the NCAA playoffs. The Hawkeyes will face their biggest test yet, as they prepare for a potential match against the top team in the nation.
Injuries hamper Cowboys' season

Associated Press

The Dallas Cowboys started out the 1993 season with high expectations. They were the defending Super Bowl Champion and many believed they had the talent to repeat. However, injuries took a toll on the Cowboys as they struggled through the season.

Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman is placed on the injury list after suffering a broken clavicle in a game against the Philadelphia Eagles. Aikman was hurt in the first quarter of the Cowboys' game against the Eagles on Sunday.

The. Associated Press

Washington Redskins head coach Joe Gibbs has expressed concern about the future of NFL players. Gibbs is worried that the NFL is becoming a business where players are treated like commodities.

Gibbs said, "Our players are not only athletes, but they are people. We need to do more for them, and I believe that the NFL needs to do more.

Injuries have been a major problem for the Dallas Cowboys this season. Quarterback Troy Aikman, who has been out with a broken clavicle, is one of several key players on the team who have been injured.

"This was our best season ever," Aikman said. "But looking back, I think I really screwed things up in the off-season. The thought of playing against my teammates and friends on Sunday became a lot more important to me than actually getting better."

Aikman said he has been trying to stay positive and focus on getting healthy.

Juan expresses his concern about the current state of the NFL. "I think the league is losing its way," he said. "Players are treated like commodities, and it's time we changed that."

Juan is a former player who is now coaching at a high school level. He has been a vocal critic of the NFL's treatment of players.

"I think the league needs to start treating players like the people they are," he said. "They need to do more for them, and I believe that the NFL needs to do more."
Chicago pitcher Jack McDowell, center, is congratulated by teammates Greg Olson after becoming the Major League's first 20-game winner Sunday with a 1-0 win over Minnesota. Catcher Bob Knepper is at the foreground.

The 44-year-old Olson pitched four innings of scoreless relief to get the win as the Indians completed a sweep of the Red Sox.

The Indians won the final game of the series with a 4-2 victory.

The game was played in front of a capacity crowd of 33,145 fans at Municipal Stadium.

McDowell, who has won 20 games in a season only twice before, scattered six hits and struck out six in his complete game in front of a packed house.

The Indians took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when concrete dancer Greg Olson hit a solo home run with two out.

In the second inning, the Indians added two more runs for a 3-0 lead.

The Indians set the tone for the game early, scoring three runs in the first inning.

Baltimore, who had already walked 10 batters in the first inning, walked three more in the second, allowing the Indians to score three runs.

The Indians added a fourth run in the third inning when Olson hit a two-run home run.

McDowell allowed only two hits in his seven innings of work. He struck out six batters and walked two.

The Indians scored four runs on six hits in the game and did not allow the Orioles to score.

OWE: The Indians won their ninth straight game, tying the club record set in 1948.

McDowell, who is 20-3 this season, improved to 21-3 overall.

The Indians are now 13-2 in their last 15 games.

McDowell, who has pitched in 20 games in a season only twice before, scattered six hits and struck out six in his complete game in front of a packed house.

New Sunday TV lineup looking weak

Scott Williams

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Here’s an advance look at this week’s prime-time Sunday TV shows:

ABC: "LOIS & CLARK: THE NEW ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN" (premieres Sept. 12): Billed as a nostalgic, sensational slam into comic-book memories, "Lois & Clark" stars Dean Cain as Superman and Teri Hatcher as his lovely Lois Lane. At least it doesn’t make Superman a drill sergeant. The heroes are just as appealing as they were back during the 1970s, when they were on a television circuit. As for the story line, it’s well-written and it’s sure to please some viewers.

NEW: "SEINFELD: The Movie" (premieres Oct. 14): This one-hour special will star the cast of the hit sitcom, which ended this past summer. The movie will be released on DVD and will be the final adventure for the characters.

NBC: "THE BIRTHDAY PARTY" (premieres Sept. 12): This one-hour movie, which is about blacks living in New York City, will feature Erika Alexander of "Living Color." The movie will be aired on NBC.

CBS: "RE贩E=" (premieres Sept. 12): This is a brand new comedy series starring Richard Lewis, who was played by David Suchet in the original series. As Kimble tries to escape the pursuing police, he uses his unique skills to outmaneuver the cops and reach his destination. The movie will be aired on CBS.

Welcome to the Pleasureland ...

Welcome back, fans of the series that just doesn’t feel right. Yes, I’m talking about NBC’s "The Fugitive." It’s back, and it’s as thrilling as ever. The show is based on the old TV series that ran from 1963 to 1967, and it’s still as exciting as ever. The lead character, played by David Janssen, is a man who is on the run from the law. He’s trying to stay one step ahead of the police, and he’s successful most of the time. The show is a great example of how to make a good TV series. It’s a show that everyone should watch, and it’s sure to be a hit. So, next time you’re feeling down, watch "The Fugitive" and it will make you feel better.

Arts & Entertainment

Director Andrew Davis has managed to produce a slick-like thriller that easily tops many of this summer's cliffhanging adventure films. Like this summer's other winner, "In the Line of Fire," also manages to keep the tension and suspense at a high level without splattering too many points of blood across the screen.

Kimble manages to escape on his own, and a meaningless gunfight between him, the bad guy, and the police is just as exciting as it was back in the '60s when the show first aired. The movie is a great addition to the "Fugitive" franchise, and it's sure to please fans of the original series. As Kimble tries to escape the pursuing police, he uses his unique skills to outmaneuver the cops and reach his destination. The movie will be aired on CBS.

NEW YORK — Monday’s new prime-time television shows:

ABC: "DAYS OF OUR LIVES" (premieres Sept. 12): This show will continue its usual fare of soap-opera-type plots and characters. The show is about a group of people who live in a small town and deal with personal and professional problems. The show is popular with fans who enjoy the drama and emotion of the characters. It’s a show that everyone should watch.

NBC: "THE BIRTHDAY PARTY" (premieres Sept. 12): This one-hour movie, which is about blacks living in New York City, will feature Erika Alexander of "Living Color." The movie will be aired on NBC.

Jeffty's not that bad

In Davis

Jeffty isn't exactly the flashy, show-business type. He's not the sort to court the press or to make a big deal out of his successes. In fact, he's the kind of guy who gets a lot of attention by being very low-key. When he does decide to make an appearance, it's usually for a very good reason. Jeffty is one of those people who can make a lot of noise without making a lot of waves.

Video tapeworm

It's a simple question: why do people make the mistake of assuming that Jeffty is just the same camp as those people who are more flamboyant and self-aggrandizing? I think it's because Jeffty keeps his successes to himself, and he's not one to张扬 himself. He's not interested in being the center of attention, but rather in doing his work and getting on with his life. He's a person who believes in doing the right thing, and he's not afraid to let others know about it. I think that's why people make the mistake of thinking he's not that bad.

How To Get A Foot In The Door Before Graduation.

M: How much do you think you're worth if you were a workaholic who could not be replaced? You'd probably estimate you were worth a lot of money. If you're really a workaholic, you probably would say you were worth a lot more money than you are worth today.

M: The average cost of college is about $10,000 per year. At that rate, you're worth about $100,000 in 10 years. Yet you'll probably be earning about $30,000 per year at that time. That's a lot of money for a lot of years. You're probably not worth it to your employer. You're probably not worth it to the government. You're probably not worth it to your family. You're probably not worth it to yourself.

M: How do we get people to do real work? We have a saying: "You can't eat a loaf of bread." The only way to generate income is to work. If you want to earn more money, you have to do more work. If you want to earn less money, you have to do less work. If you want to earn no money, you have to do no work.
